PROGRAM

Of National Educational Association Convention Is Ready.

Winona, Minn., May 15.—The executive committee of the National Educational association will issue tomorrow the official program and bulletin of rates for the fortieth annual convention of the National Educational association, to be held in Detroit, Mich., July 8 to 12, 1901. The usual rate of one rate, plus $2 membership fee, for the round trip is granted from all parts of the United States and Canada, with provision for extension of time as to return until Sept. 1.

Side trips after the convention are offered to various vacation resorts of the great lakes and Canada at one fare for the round trip, tickets good for return until Sept. 1.—The programs of the general sessions and the eighteen departments are extensive and excellent. During the five days of the convention fifty-one separate sessions will be held, the programs comprising about 150 prepared papers by prominent educators, besides numerous discussions, round tables, conferences and committee reports.

The Detroit local executive committee is preparing to entertain 20,000 guests.

MUSICIANS ELECT.

The National Officers For Ensuing Year.

Denver, May 15.—At the convention of the American Federation of Musicians the following officers were elected: President, Joseph Weber, Cincinnati; secretary, Owen Miller, St. Louis; treasurer, Otto Ostendorf, St. Louis; first vice president, George Nachman, Baltimore; second vice president, Frank Spiegel, Denver; third vice president, John Thobe, Peoria; fourth vice president, L. G. Bierle, Syracuse; fifth vice president, Will S. Rose, Kansas City; sixth vice president, Charles E. York, Portland, Ore. Delegates to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, Owen Miller, Joseph Weber and Charles O'Connor.

WILL INCREASE WAGES.

Pittsburg, May 15—It was officially reported at the mills of Moorhead Bros., Sharpsburg, that the wages of the peddlers will be increased from $4.87 to $5 per day. The change will go into effect tomorrow, and will effect 200 employes. No change in the rate of wages will be made at the other amgalamated mills until July 1 next.

UHL STILL ALIVE.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 15.—Edwin F. Uhl still lingers in a comatose condition, but the end is expected at any moment.

BRITISH GUNNERS.

Do Excellent Work at Ocean Target Practice.

Hamilton, Bermuda, May 15.—The experiments with the old coast defense ironclad Scorpion as a target for sea fighting began yesterday. The first-class cruiser Crescent first used her three-pounder and six-pounder quick-firing guns at one thousands yards. Then steaming at full speed, she opened fire on the Scorpion with her six-inch guns at from 600 to 3000 yards. The shooting was accurate and the operations were satisfactory.

RETURNED PART.

Robbers Kept the Cash For Their Trouble.

St. Paul, May 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wells, the gypsies camped at the Midway, received at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the certificates of deposit for $699 of which they were robbed Monday evening by a man in a buggy and a confederate. The $499 in cash the thieves did not return. The certificates came in an envelope with a Minneapolis postmark. There was no letter.

JURORS SCARCE.

Hard to Obtain Them For Stokes Trial.

Williamson, W. Va., May 15.—Great difficulty is being experienced in getting a jury to try the case of Hon. S. D. Stokes, of this city, charged with the murder of Rev. J. J. Woohi at his home here on Dec. 5 last. The trial opened yesterday and already the regular panel has been exhausted without securing more than one juror. Stokes is so well known and the killing caused such deep feeling that it is hard to find anyone without a fixed opinion. Woohi was a Presbyterian preacher of great force, and in a sermon last winter violently denounced the society people of the town for dancing. Stokes took offense at the sermon and the next Sunday the remarks were repeated. The following evening Stokes and Woohi met at the threshold of Woohi's residence, the shooting occurred after a quarrel. The minister's housekeeper was the sole witness.

Strike In Factories For Nine Hour Day.

Seattle, May 15.—The machinists' strike is in full swing in Seattle, the men in seven factories having gone out. They demand a nine-hour workday with the same pay as now, workin ten hours per day. The pattern makers, moulders and blacksmiths will go out Monday if not sooner. Their demands are similar to those of the machinists. The boiler makers threaten to strike Jan. 1, for a nine-hour day at the old rate of pay.

No plans to combat the strikers have yet been decided on. The manufacturers say they will close up their factories before granting the requests of the men.

ABANDONED

President Gives Up Northwestern Trip.

Back to Washington as Soon as Possible.

San Francisco, May 15.—At 10 o'clock this morning Secretary Cortelyou informed the Associated Press that Mrs. McKinley's serious illness had compelled the president to abandon his proposed visit to other states to which he had looked forward with so much pleasure. As soon as Mrs. McKinley's health permits he will return to Washington by the most direct route. Secretary Cortelyou also issued the following bulletin as to Mrs. McKinley's condition:

"There has been but little change in Mrs. McKinley's condition since last night. She has gained in some respects and lost in others."

The president will remain quietly at Mr. Scott's residence today and will not take part in any of the exercises given in his honor.

Secretary of the Navy Long may leave the presidential party and depart for the East at any moment. He has received word that his daughter, who has been living in Colorado Springs for over a year for her health, is dangerously ill. Secretary Long is accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Long and a son of tender years. The latter also was taken ill yesterday, and the secretary is so much worried over the illness in his family that he is not inclined to continue the trip.

It is learned that Mrs. McKinley's condition is considered serious by physicians attending her.

Doctors Rixey and Hirschfelder were in consultation this morning and another physician will be called in this afternoon. It is probable that if she recovers Mrs. McKinley will be unable to leave San Francisco by next Monday, when the stay of the presidential party was to have terminated.

The president will remain here with Mrs. McKinley.

TROUBLE IS ADJUSTED

The Differences at the Boston & Montana Smelter Settled---A Strike at Helena Is Also Practically Ended.

St. Paul, May 15.—A special to the Dispatch from Great Falls, Mont., says: The trouble existing between the stone masons and management of the Boston and Montana smelter, as a result of which nearly 200 men were discharged from construction work on Thursday last, has been adjusted, and the discharged men were permitted to resume work this morning, together with the men who walked out. Resumption of work was brought about by the action of the Mill and Smelter Men's union in endorsing the smelter management, by declaring that nine hours should constitute a day's work for outside men, and in refusing to support the men who walked out on a demand for eight hours.

St. Paul, May 15.—A Helena, Mont., special to the Dispatch says: Fully 200 men have accepted the terms of the American Smelting and Refining company, and the first furnace will be blown in at East Helena on Thursday. Most of the strikers have left, but the management anticipates they will be running to the full capacity inside of a week.

APPEAL TO THE COURTS

Buffalo Fanatics Disappointed In Not Securing Sunday Closing of Exposition Gates Adopt More Radical Measures.

Rochester, N. Y., May 15.—An attempt to effect the closing of the gates of the Pan-American exposition on Sundays took form in the appellate division court in this city today, when a motion was made on behalf of Oscar W. Chapin for an order to show cause why the police commissioners and mayor of Buffalo should not be removed from office for permitting work to go on in the exposition buildings on Sunday, May 5, and Sunday, May 12. Mayor Diehl is ex-officio a member of the board of police commissioners, and the petition charges that in neglecting to enforce the law against unnecessary Sunday labor, he and the other members of the board were guilty of malfeasance, misconduct and dereliction of duty. A decision will be handed down next Tuesday.

ON FOREIGN MISSIONS

Presbyterians In Convention at Philadelphia Held Important Conference Under Direction of Board of Foreign Missions.

Philadelphia, May 15.—In connection with the recommendation of the Presbyterian general assembly, a conference on foreign missions was held today in the auditorium of the Witherspoon building, under the direction of the board of foreign missions, with the chairman of the synodical and Presbyterian committees and representatives of the Women's Mission board. The morning session was devoted to the reading of reports and discussion of topics of interest to mission workers. The conference was conducted by Rev. Dr. Thomas Marshall, of Chicago, field secretary of the Foreign Mission board. Tonight there will be a session of the conference, when an important address will be made by Rev. Courtney H. Fenn, of Pekin, China.

After devotional exercises, Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey, moderator of the general assembly, delivered a brief address, which was followed by verbal reports from chairman of foreign missions, committees of synods and presbyteries and other representatives.

Rev. Henry Vans, of the presbytery of St. Louis, stated that 60 per cent of the churches in his presbytery contributed $7162 to the foreign mission fund during the last fiscal year, the amount being an increase of about 20 per cent over the previous year.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Butler, chairman of the synod committee of New Jersey, reported that his synod contributed a larger per capita amount to foreign missions than any other synod, and during the past year had exceeded the New York synod, the next largest contributor, by 17 cents per member. The Orange and Morris synods, he said, exceeded New York by 5 cents per capita.

Rev. H. A. Ketchum, D.D., of the presbytery of Williamette, Ore.: Rev. C. B. McAfee, D.D, chairman of the synod committee of Missouri, had Rev. C. K. Powell, chairman of the synod committee of Colorado, spoke of their efforts to raise funds, and while they had met with some success, they expected within the next year to greatly increase their contributions.

Rev. John Balcom Shaw, D. D., chairman of the foreign missions committee, synod of New York, spoke on "The Duties and Work of the Synodical and Presbyterial Committees." Dr. Shaw said the committee met with many obstacles, due principally to inertia on the part of ministers. He explained the methods by which the committee endeavored to arouse in the foreign mission question and concluded by advising all committee members to aim at the pastors who lack interest and courage. William H. Glysteen, of the Union Theological seminary of New York, delivered an interesting address on "The Student Volunteer." He told of the movement's inception in 1885 and how it had grown from 100 students to 2000 now working in the missionary field. A "question drawer" conducted by Rev. Dr. McAfee brought the morning session to a close and the delegates adjourned until 2 o'clock p. m.

LOOKS LIKE MURDER.

Young Man Found Shot Full of Holes.

Washington, May 15.—James F. Ayres, 21 years old, of Port Arthur, Mich., was found dead in his room at a hotel here this morning. He had been shot in several places about the body, and the police claim that all the circumstances point to murder. He belonged to a well-to-do family in Grand Rapids, Mich.

INCREASE OF PENSION.

Washington, May 14.—(Special to the Herald.)—An increase of pension of $10 per month has been granted to Samuel Kempf, of Hanover, Minn.

WAR NEWS IS MEAGER

Has Almost Entirely Disappeared From the London Press.

Dispatches Indicate the Breaking Down of the Boer Forces.

No Evidence, However, That the End of War Is Near.

New York, May 15.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says: War news has almost entirely disappeared from the London press. Lord Kitchener contents himself with the briefest possible bulletins summing up the captures from day to day, and the meager press dispatches contain no details of any interest. There were several dispatches yesterday indicating the rapid breaking down of the Boer forces, owing to cold and starvation, and the forecasts of a speedy close of hostilities were in a more confident tone than they have been for a long time. Lord Kitchener's memoranda has proved that bands of guerrillas were coming into the British lines and surrendering, and that Gens. Botha and Delarey had met with heavy losses in horses and cattle.

The evidence is not yet conclusive that the end of the war is near. British magnanimity has prolonged the campaign. Thousands of women, children and refugees are under British protection and are systematically fed and cared for. The Boer warriors are not anxious about their families and consequently are enabled to stand out. Predictions that the campaign will soon be abandoned because the weather is cold and the veldt dry are not of any value, as the Boers are thoroughly acclimated to the veldt. British reinforcements are still going to the Cape from Southampton and the war office is not suspending its active preparations for a continuance of the war. The army debate was less interesting yesterday than on Monday. Several ineffective replies were made to Winston Churchill's courageous and independent plea for retrenchment. The most practical method of discrediting him was the device of repeating Mr. Massingham's premature proclamation of him as the future prime minister of the Liberal party. This helped to ridicule him and to impair the force of his severe criticism of the measure.

A division when it comes will find a good many Unionists walking out of the house.

ANTI-TRUST.

Arrangements Made For Backing Colorado Fuel and Iron Company.

New York, May 15.—Arrangements have been completed with John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings company, of Chicago, and Blair & Co., of this city, whereby funds will be raised for the Colorado Fuel and Iron company to construct its new works. It is the intention of the management to erect tin plate mills, nail works and sheet and wire plants, which will convert the raw product into finished materials. For this purpose President J. C. Osgood and John W. Gates propose to raise $3,100,000 in cash to complete the improvements. Several plans have been discussed as to the manner in which the cash will be supplied, but no definite decision will be made until May 29, when at a meeting the directors will consider the proposition to be made by the Illinois Trust and Savings company and Blair & Co.

It is generally understood that a series of convertible bonds will be issued in addition to the consolidated mortgage of $6,000,000 now outstanding against the Colorado company. Plans for a new stock issue have also been discussed in connection with the raising of the $3,500,000 but the convertible bond issue seems to meet with favor with President Osgood, Mr. Gates and Mr. Lambert.

SHOT THROUGH HEART.

Mrs. Edith Thomas, Philanthropist, Ends Her Life.

New York, May 15.—In poor health and discouraged because of the misery prevailing in the city, especially among children, to whom she had devoted years of her life, Mrs. Edith Thomas, friend of the poor and gifted writer, sent a bullet through her heart in the West Side branch of the university settlement, last night. Among the books written by Mrs. Thomas were "Your Money or Your Life," "Cross Kris" and "A Modern Rosalind."

Mrs. Thomas has sought for years to advance the children of the poor. She has worked among the crowded tenement districts for nearly ten years.

SHOT AT CHOATE.

Widow Attempts Life of Ambassador's Nephew.

Denver, May 15.—Mrs. Martha Ewart, a widow, proprietress of a fashionable rooming house, fired two shots at Joseph K. Choate, manager of the Overland Cotton mills, and nephew of United States Ambassador Choate, in the law office of Wolcott & Valle, during a conference last night. Neither of the bullets took effect.

About a year ago Mrs. Ewart sued Choate for alleged breach of promise and secured a judgment. She says she attempted to shoot him because he had not settled the judgment. She was arrested.

On Feb. 14 last Mr. Choate was married in Brooklyn, N. Y., to Miss Alice Muller.

ROCK SWEEPS VILLAGE.

Rome, May 15.—Most of the houses of the village of Acerenza, near Potensa, have been swept away by the fall of an immense rock. Troops have been dispatched to the scene of the disaster. Thus far fifteen bodies have been recovered.

REICHSTAG PROROGUED.

Berlin, May 15.—The reichstag today, after disposing of the remaining business, was prorogued until November.

FEAR CLASH

Military Now In Control at Albany.

Company Will Attempt to Move Cars.

Albany, N. Y., May 15.—The traction strike was productive of no serious disorder during the night. The company made no further effort to operate cars or repair its lines, and will probably remain inactive until the military force called by the state is in a position to afford the fullest precaution. A strong effort was made during the night to bring the contending interests into conference, but it failed, and at this time the breach is as wide as ever. The establishment of the militia patrol began shortly before midnight, when three companies of the Tenth battalion were quietly and quickly dispatched from the Washington avenue armory. One company was ordered to the traction power house, another to the upper town barn and the third to the northern barn. When "D" company, which was ordered to the up-town barn, swung into Quail street, a jeering crowd fell in on its flank and rear and followed it down to the barn. As it halted in front of the barn a shower of rocks and other missles fell among the men. It was thought for a time that there would be a clash, but the police drove the crowd back and the soldiers made no menacing move. The police withdrew as soon as the National Guard pickets were established at the company's plant, and as the night wore on the crowd melted away. As the new day came the crowd reassembled, and at daylight it numbered about 500. The sentries kept the street clear. The women were particularly vindictive and howled out their choicest epithets at the non-union men who showed themselves at the upper windows of the barn.

The first detachment of the Twenty-third infantry arrived here at 7:45 o'clock this morning and its opening part in this great industrial struggle came near being a tragedy. Just after their train had crossed the New York Central bridge spanning the Hudson, it struck a misplaced switch. The powerful mogul engine drawing it jumped the track and went tumbling over on its side. None of the cars left the track, but they were given a jolt that shook every man in the train. There were 400 men in the detachment, under Lieut. Col. Brady. The entire Second regiment, under Col. Lloyd, of Troy, and including 1000 men from Troy, Cohoes, Hoosic Falls, Schnectady and Saratoga, have been ordered to report in this city this afternoon. This will make the total military strength about 2200.

Troy, N. Y., May 15.—The situation with reference to the street car strike here is unchanged today and the city is quiet. The tearing up of the railroad tracks on the bridge over the Poeston Kil] is attributed by the strikers to hoodlums. The Troy companies of the Second regiment are assembling at the armory.

The first active step of the military forces was taken shortly after 10 o'clock, when the Third signal corps, mounted, and a detachment of mounted volunteers, cleared the streets around the Quail street barn. A zone of four blocks was cleared and a picket line established. This move, it is understood, is preliminary to the repairing of the lines in that vicinity and the clearing away of the wrecked cars in that vicinity and obstructions on the tracks.

W. D. Mahon, international president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes, left this morning. Before he left he gave out a statement in which he said that Chairman Dillworth and he had come to Albany hoping to bring about an adjustment of the troubles between the Union Traction company and its employes, but that owing to the existing bitterness there was no present prospect of bringing the fighting forces together.

They had therefore decided to leave affairs here in the hands of the two local organizations until such time as they deemed the presence of the international officers might be of assistance to them. Mr. Mahon added that the strikers had the support of the international organization.

TO REMODEL SHAMROCK

It Is Believed That Radical Changes Will Immediately Be Made In Portions of the Lipton Challenger.

Southampton, May 15.—Designer Watson has apparently reached the conclusion that the hull of the Shamrock II is susceptible of improvement, and there is reason to believe that alterations are about to be made, amounting practically to the remodeling of portions of the boat. The preparations at the dock where the challenger will be placed indicate radical changes, not connected with the spars and canvas, which have hitherto been blamed for the boat's shortcomings. A large gang of platers and riveters, who assisted in the building of the boat, have been summoned from Dumbarton by telegraph. These men will arrive today, and will work day and night until the alterations are completed.

BURNED WHILE ASLEEP

Four Men Lost Their Lives on Steamer Owensboro Which Was Destroyed By Fire at Calhoun, Ky.

Evansville, Ind., May 15.—Four men were killed during the night in a fire which destroyed the steamer Owensboro, a tow boat, tied up at dock at Calhoun, Ky. The dead:

FIREMAN GREENSHAW, of Evansville.

FIREMAN BRINKMAN, of Evansville.

Two roustabouts, names unknown.

A fire broke out aboard the boat shortly before midnight, and in a short time it burned to the water's edge. Capt. Eastman and Engineer Rising barely had time to escape. The others are supposed to have been asleep and were overcome by smoke. Loss on boat, $6000.

TO WITHDRAW

All Foreign Forces May Be Removed From China Now.

Berlin, May 15.—Officials here, discussing the answer of the Chinese peace commissioners, say the fact of prime significance therein is that the commissioners agree to the indemnities as demanded, and the withdrawal of the troops can now proceed forthwith, but that not all the foreign forces will be withdrawn at once.

The Chinese proposition to raise the import and export duties will probably be accepted, since the only other possibility of increasing Chinese revenues is the reform of the Likin duties, which the powers wish to avoid, because it would require too much mixing in the affairs of China. Further international control over the customs will be unnecessary, beyond Sir Robert Harts.

ONLY FIVE LOST

In Wreck of Steamer City of Paducah.

St. Louis, May 15.—Developments show that not more than five lives were lost in the wreck of the steamer City of Paducah, in the Mississippi river Sunday night. Of the seven persons reported missing all but one have appeared at the office of the packet company in this city. The missing man is a white fireman.

RAILROADS.

Denver & Rio Grande May Secure Rio Grande Central.

Denver, May 15.—It is entirely probable that the Rio Grande Western railroad will pass under the control of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad this afternoon at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Denver & Rio Grande in this city. The move for consolidation will come up in the form of a proposition to authorize the issue of bonds and stock to purchase the Rio Grande Western. Three or four men holding proxies will vote the stock and no doubt is expressed as to favorable action.

The passing of the Rio Grande Western back into the hands of the company that built it, will mark the first of many changes proposed in the management of Colorado railroads. It gives the Denver & Rio Grande, or the Gould-Harriman syndicate, a direct line of its own from Denver to Salt Lake and Ogden and from St. Louis via the Missouri Pacific to the same points. The Rio Grande Western is 700 miles long. It extends from Grand Junction, Colo., to Ogden, and forms the connection for all Colorado roads and Eastern lines out of Colorado for the Pacific coast. With the purchase of the Rio Grande Western, the Denver & Rio Grande also will secure a half interest in the Colorado Midland, the other half of which is owned by the Colorado & Southern road.

BACKACHE!

SHOULD WARN WOMEN

MISS LUCY ANNIE HEISER, OF MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Miss Lucy Annie Heiser, a graduated nurse of nine years' experience, trained and graduated from the Homeopathic Hospital of Minneapolis, Minn., writes as follows:

Albert Lea, Minn., Nov. 8, 1899.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"Although my school does not believe in patent medicines, I have found it to be a fact that Peruna is a grand and valuable medicine. I have known it to cure Mrs. Sampson, suffering with an inflamed womb, aggravated by malaria, after the doctors had failed to help her. Another of my former patients suffered with a complication of female diseases; she was so thin, nothing but skin and bones, but Peruna cured her and she is today in good health and good flesh. Facts prove that Peruna revives lost strength and restores to the sick that most wonderful blessing of life.—health."

Lucy Annie Heiser.

If all the tired women and all the nervous women, and all the women that needed a tonic would read and heed the words of these fair ladies who have spoken right to the point, how many invalids would be prevented and how many wretched lives be made happy.

Peruna restores health in a normal way.

Peruna puts right all the mucous membranes of the body, and in this way restores the functions of every organ.

From Mrs. Amanda Shumaker, who has charge of the Grammar Department of the Public Schools of Columbia City, Wash., also Past Grand of Independent Order of Good Templars, Dr. Hartman received the following letter:

Columbia, City, Wash.

"I can speak only good words of the repeated benefits I have had from the use of Peruna.

"Too constant application to work last winter caused me to have severe head and backache and dragging pains. I could not stop my work, neither was I fit to go on. Reading of the beneficial results from the use of Peruna I purchased a bottle and within a few days after using it, began to feel better.

"I constantly improved and before the seventh bottle was completely used, all pains were gone, my strength was restored, and I now seem ten years' younger.

"If I get tired or feel bad, Peruna at once helps me, and I feel you deserve praise for placing such a conscientious medicine before a suffering public."

MRS. AMANDA SHUMAKER.

Mattie B. Curtis, Secretary Legion of Loyal Women, Hotel Salem, Boston, Mass., writes:

Mattie B. Curtis.

"I sufferred for over a year with general weakness and debility, manifested especially in severe backache and headache.

"My physician prescribed different medicines, none of which seemed to help me any until a club associate advised me to try Peruna as it cured her of constitutional headache and stomach troubles. I at once ordered a bottle and before it was used felt greatly improved.

"I have taken four bottles and for two months have been entirely free from these maladies. Several of my friends are using Peruna with beneficial results, especially in cases of troubles with the kidneys and other pelvic organs, together with weaknesses peculiar to women."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

IN DISTRESS.

Capt. Resche's Experience With a Colored Damsel.

If Capt. Resche rescues many more Senegambian belles from murderous onslaughts by their "solid men," the air will be full of razors and the energetic police officer will need a new uniform, even if he does not need a new skin. This is the story of his latest relief to beauty, black beauty, in danger and distress.

While on police business on St. Croix avenue yesterday afternoon, Capt. Resche heard screams of tenor voices and then received an urgent call to hasten to one of the resorts near by. Just as he entered the door, Nellie Bowman, a colored lady of easy virtue, came rushing toward him. She grabbed him around the neck with both arms and screamed:

"Save me! Save me! He's after me with a gun!"

The next move on Nellie's part was to whirl the captain around so that his body would be between her and the bullets which she seemed to expect would soon be flying in that direction.

"Send for two or three patrolmen," begged the frightened woman. "Asa has a gun."

When bullets failed to fly and quiet had, in a measure been established, it was found out that Asa Bowman had entered the place and demanded money. She refused and he thereupon pulled a big revolver and threatened to shoot her. Instead of shooting bullets out of the front door, Bowman shot himself out the back door and made for West Superior.

Nellie Bowman was so terrified that she insisted upon being taken to police headquarters for protection. While there she swore out a warrant against her assailant.

Bowman is a loafing negro, who was arrested some weeks ago for vagrancy and allowed to get out of town. He went to West Superior, but, later, sneaked back. If he shows his face in Duluth again, he very certainly will find himself in the toils of the law, face to face with a serious charge.

Not Yet Sent Out.

Owing to the rush of work, the board of public works has not yet sent out notices to those who will be required to build new sidewalks. Such notices will be sent out the last of the week. The common council directed the board to give thirty days' notice in each case. If the walks are not done in that time, they will be put in by the city and the cost assessed against the property owner. The aggregate cost of sidewalk construction will be about $50,000.

Ticket Agent Selected.

Word has been received at the general office of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company, of the appointment of J. C. Hansen to succeed Earl Reid as ticket agent for the company in this city. Mr. Reid was recently promoted to traveling passenger agent of the company. Mr. Hansen has been the company's agent at Trout Creek, Mich. He is expected in the city to assume his duties about the first of next week.

Had No License.

Patrick H. Kiely was in police court yesterday afternoon charged with doing scavenger work without a license. He had been cleaning outhouses at night, and depositing the refuse on the public dump, which is not lawful. There were mitigating circumstances and Kiely was allowed to go upon the payment of costs the idea of the health department being to make an example of the accused and to check similar offenses by others.

Would Cancel It.

H. C. Withrow has applied for the cancellation of the parole of George Clark, a 16-year-old boy who was sent to Red Wing, March 18, for incorrigibility. Clark has not lived up to promises made when paroled and has refused to go to school, has loitered around the saloons and consorted with bad characters. He was recently arrested on suspicion of being associated with some others in a serious offense, but sufficient proof to establish the fact was not secured. The hearing in the matter was set for this afternoon.

STABBING CASE

On Trial Today Before Judge Cant.

In Judge Cant's division of district court the case against John Schmitz, accused of assault in the second degree, was on trial when court adjourned this morning. Schmitz is charged with stabbing Michael Zimmerman at Soudan April 7. According to Zimmerman's story he saw a couple of fellows fighting, and as one of them was a friend of his and seemed to be in bad shape, he stepped in and separated them. Schmitz was standing not far away, and Zimmerman claims that when he separated the fighters the defendant came up to him and deliberately stabbed him in the abdomen.

Schmitz says that Zimmerman sailed in with a board and was knocking people about with it. When he saw himself becoming a target for the board he drew his knife and stabbed in self-defense, he says.

The jury in the case against Charles Swanson, charged with forgery in the second degree, found him guilty yesterday afternoon. It was found that he was convicted of larceny in this court in May, 1898, so under the law the court has no option but to give him the maximum punishment, which is ten years, and it may give him double the maximum punishment, which is twenty years.

FIRST CASE.

Sheriff Seizes Property For Taxes That Are Delinquent.

For the first time in the history of St. Louis county, personal property has been seized to satisfy a delinquent personal property tax, and more will be seized in a day or two, if the delinquents do not pay up.

It has always been the law that when people did not pay their taxes the sheriff should collect them, if he had to take property belonging to the delinquent and sell it for the taxes. But the habit up to this year has always been to do a good deal of threatening and let it go at that. It was discovered, however, that there were quite a lot of people that discounted the threats and let their taxes go, so this year a new deal went into effect. Orders were given to take property and sell it if the taxes were not forthcoming, and this has been done in one case, and it will be done in many cases if the parties do not pay up shortly.

In this case a set of office furniture has been seized for taxes, and it has been advertised for sale by the sheriff. He will probably get enough out of the sale to settle for the taxes.

In several other cases, when it was found that the threat was serious, and that it was not the same old bluff, the delinquents asked for a day or two more and promised to raise the money.

BIG DEAL IN REALTY

Southeast Corner of Lake Avenue and Superior Street Sold.

Both Seller and Buyer Live In the East.

Substantial Improvement of the Property May Follow.

The most important real estate deal reported in some time went through yesterday when the lot and building at the southeast corner of Lake avenue and Superior street was sold for $52,500. The parties are both non-residents, and the deal was made through W. M. Prindle & Co., representing the buyer, W. J. E. Sander, of Cambridge, Mass., and Stryker, Manley & Buck, representing the seller, Abram Nesbitt, of Wilkesbarre, Pa.

The lot has a frontage of forty feet on Superior street, about 175 feet on Lake avenue, and ninety feet on Michigan street, and it is improved by a 2-story brick building, now occupied by the Duluth Music company.

The deal is an important one in many respects. In the opinion of many judges of realty values in the city of Duluth the corner sold is the best available one in the city for retail purposes. Not only has it a frontage on Superior street, but there is a large frontage on Lake avenue that is almost if not quite as valuable as the Superior street frontage. The growth of Superior street business eastward, the advance in values on Lake avenue, due to the location there of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company and other promised industries, the demand for Michigan street property for commission houses, the location opposite Michigan street of the Duluth Shoe company's plant, all combine with other factors to make the property a very valuable one, and the deal one of the most important in some years.

At present the brick building on the premises is leased, and the term of the lease has yet four years to run. In the meantime it is probable that the Michigan street end will be improved substantially, and it is likely that at the expiration of the lease, if the movement of business eastward on Superior street continues, still more substantial improvement on Superior street will follow.

FIRE CASE.

Virginians Testify In Damage Suits Now on Trial.

The district court adjourned half an hour earlier than usual this noon, out of respect for the memory of the late A. A. Harris, a member of the bar, and in order that those so inclined might have the opportunity to attend his funeral, which took place at noon. The adjournment was to 2:15 o'clock, a quarter of an hour later than usual.

In Judge Dibell's court this morning the case of Ole Halvorson against the Moon & Kerr Lumber company was still on trial, and the plaintiff's case was not yet concluded. Ole Halvorson, the plaintiff, testified that he went over to the fire at the mill, and that on his way back he could trace the progress of the fire between the mill and his shop, which was one of the nearest buildings to the mill of the area that was burned. When he got back he found the roof of his building ablaze. He went looking for his family, which lived in the building, first, and in order to do so he passed through the lower floor, and found no fire there. This is to offset the claim of the defense that the fire that burned the town started from a kettle of lard in Halvorson's shop.

D. H. Moon, of the Moon & Kerr Lumber company, called for cross examination under the statutes, testified as to the location of the mill in relation to the town, and J. D. Lamont, an engineer, gave similar testimony.

W. H. Cole arrived in Virginia the day of the fire, and he described the progress of the blaze.

C. O. Oaten, a Presbyterian minister, testified that he saw the fire start on the roof of Halvorson's place and he also told what he saw of the spread of the blaze.

William T. Bailey was at the mill when it caught fire. He testified as to the condition of the mill and the refuse-burners, and he, too, saw the roof of Halvorson's building take fire, his attention being called to it by his son.

THE SHRINERS LEAVE.

Go to St. Paul For the Initiation.

A delegation of about 40 Shriners, among whom was a class of about twenty-five candidates, left this afternoon over the Eastern Minnesota road for St. Paul where there will be initiatory ceremonies by Osman Temple in that city this evening. Other Shriners and candidates left over the Northern Pacific and still others over the Omaha, all bound for the same rendezvous. The candidates that went down this afternoon are George E. Fletcher, E. C. Woods, D. D. Murray, George A. Everest, Harry Holden, of Two Harbors; A. H. Knutson, L. S. Loeb, E. P. Robinson, Thomas Thompson, J. G. Vivian, C. B. Gilbert, J. Rinquist, A. H. Davis, W. M. Evgel, H. A. Wing, J. R. Brown, August Melander, S. A. Wright and James Cardle of Cass Lake.

Among the Shriners that accompanied the class were Mayor T. W. Hugo, J. A. Smith, J. E. Cooley, J. T. Black, Jesse Norton, W. H. Alexander, C. E. Armstead, W. T. Tenbrook, B. G. Segog, Theodore Reinhart, A. Snyder, C. W. Burnett, Henry Van Brunt, Mark Paine, W. C. Miner, of West Superior, and C. T. Crandall. The party was joined in West Superior by other Shriners. About six of the candidates had business matters that prevented them from going to St. Paul.

CLAYTON E. WHITE.

Mr. Clayton E. White, who has attained a national reputation as a vaudeville star, writing us from Philadelphia on Dec. 6, 1900, thus tells of his experience with Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky: "After having had Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky recommended for various ailments by a score of doctors, from Maine to California, I decided to be my own physician (saving the expense of the doctor's advice), and have not been without it for the past five years. It keeps me free from coughs and colds; it brings refreshing sleep after a hard day's work." Mr. White's experience is similar to the experiences of thousands who write us daily.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky cures consumption, general debility, la grippe, colds, bronchitis, malaria, low fever, dyspepsia, depression and weakness from whatever causes. It builds up and nourishes the body, it invigorates the brain tones up the heart and prolongs life. It is the only whisky taxed by the government as a medicine. This is a guarantee. It is absolutely pure and contains no fusel oil. All druggists and grocers, or direct, $1 a bottle. Refuse substitutes they are injurious. Send for free medical booklet to Duffy Malt Whisky company, Rochester, N. Y.

CABLE LAID.

Park Point Street Railway and Telephone Wires In.

Cable laying across the canal to Park Point began today. The Interstate Traction company is laying its power cable, which, when finished, will enable the company to resume its car service. A new time card has just been issued. One car has been operating for some weeks with power furnished by a temporary cable, which was not enough to permit full service. This afternoon the Duluth Telephone company began laying a fifty-wire cable across the canal and will have connections made by the last of the week. The company will have a connection made with the pavilion at the end of the car line, but no decision has yet been reached as to the extent of the other service on the point. Work on the new park at the end of the street car line is progressing nicely and the indications are that when finished it will be one of the most beautiful spots on the point. People owning and others renting cottages on the point are moving in for the summer season at a rapid rate and the season will be well on inside of the next two weeks.

CONGREGATIONALISTS.

Able Addresses Made at Anniversary Convention.

Boston, May 15.—Speakers from widely separated sections of the United States were heard at today's sessions of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Congregational Home Missionary society.

The morning session began with an historical paper by Rev. r. J. B. Clark, of New York, senior secretary of the society. It was entitled, "Genesis of Congregational Home Missions and Part of the Acts." Rev. Dr. Michael Burnham, of St. Louis, delivered an address on "The Church the Spring of American Civilization." Rev. Dr. Charles R. Brown, of Oakland, Cal., affirmed, in a spirited address, that "The Congregational Churches Are Suited to the West and the South, and Rev. C. J. Schofield, D.D., formerly superintendent of Congregational home missions in Texas, spoke of his experiences. The concluding address of the morning session was that of Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad, of Worcester, on "Home Missions and Inter-Denominational Community."

TO THE ORIENT.

Confirmation of Negotiations For New Steamship Line.

New York, May 15.—Albert Ballin, a director of the Hamburg-American Steamship company, who is in this city on his way to Europe after an extended trip to China, today confirmed the report that negotiations are in progress between his company and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road to establish a steamship line between San Francisco and the Orient. Mr. Ballin said, however, that the matter was still in its earliest stages, and that the details of the proposed new line had not been discussed. He added that from the nature of the enterprise it would be a long while before the plan could possibly take definite shape. The number of vessels, their tonnage and speed, have not yet been considered.

FORGERS SENTENCED.

London, May 15—Fry and Everett, the two men charged with defrauding Barclay & Co., bankers, of about £2000 by forging documents purporting to represent large shipments of gold ore which never existed, having been convicted, were sentenced today to five years' imprisonment at hard labor.

CONDITION OF SICK ONES.

New York, May 15.—The condition of Dr. Winfield Scott Schley, the son of Rear Admiral Schley, is said to show improvement today.

James A. Herne, the acter, who is sick at his home, continues to improve and his physicians say he has a good chance of recovery.

VARICOCELE

MASTER SPECIALIST.

The Disease An enlargement of the veins of the scrotum, causing a knotted or swollen appearance of the scrotum most frequently.

Its Cause —Often indiscretion, but sometimes blows, falls, strains, excessive horseback or bicycle riding or excessive dissipation.

Its Effect A dull, heavy, dragging pain in center of back, extending down through limbs, low spirits, weakness of body and brain, nervous debility, partial or complete loss of vigor and often failure of general health.

Its Cure —If you are a victim of Varicocele, come to our office and let me explain to you my process of curing it. You will then not wonder that I have cured to stay cured hundreds of cases of Varicocele during the past twelve months. Under my treatment the patient improves from the very beginning. All pain instantly ceases. Soreness and swelling quickly subside. The pools of stagnant blood are forced from the dilated veins, which rapidly assume their normal size, strength and soundness. All indications of the disease and weakness vanish completely and forever, and in their stead comes the pride, the power, and the pleasures of perfect health and restored manhood.

We also cure to stay cured Varicocele, Stricture, Nervo-Sexual Debility, Rupture, Kidney and Urinary Diseases,

FUNERAL SERVICE

Final Rites Over Remains of the Late Col. Harris.

Dr. Long Preaches From Text Requested By Deceased.

Union and Confederate Soldiers Act as Pall Bearers.

The funeral of the late Col. A. A. Harris took place from the family residence, No. 20 Twelfth avenue east, at noon today.

The services were conducted by Dr. S. P. Long of the First Methodist church, assisted by Rev. J. W. Powell of Lester Park M. E. church. They were most impressive and deep emotion was evinced by the friends of the family in attendance. Col. Harris was a man deeply loved by those who knew him closely, and his death was mourned with unusual grief and sincerity.

Before his death Col. Harris gave minute directions for his funeral and his requests were closely carried out. After a prayer by Rev. J. W. Powell, pastor of the Lester Park M. E. church, a ladies' quartet, selected from the choir of the First M. E. church, rendered with most touching effect, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." Dr. Long then delivered the funeral sermon as follows:

"This is no ordinary man to whom we pay tribute this day. I have seen a great many men make their preparation for death, but I have never seen one whose preparation was more complete and who thought out more definitely all of the details of the funeral service than did he. I have never seen a man face death more bravely than did Col. Harris. He sent for me on Saturday to tell me that he was going to die and that before his mind became clouded there were some things he wished to say. He wished me to preach his funeral sermon from Job xiv: 14: 'If a man die, shall he live again?' With that vigor of mind and power of analysis that made him the excellent lawyer, sifted the questions of life until he came to the conclusion that the supreme question was that of Job, 'If a man die shall he live again,' and was he not correct? From Adam to Job it had been throbbing in the heart of man, unfortunately, perhaps, or at best rudely expressed, and Job formulated it for all time. Until the coming of Christ the question had been discussed by philosopher and prophet, by poet and orator, but the theories emanating from these ages in which they lived, lacked authority. The evidence was indirect and circumstantial. The world waited for over fifteen hundred years after Job spoke until there was direct testimony, and authoritative evidence and this came from the only source possible, Jesus Christ, who said: 'He that believeth in me, though he were dead yet shall he live, and whosoever liveth and believeth in me, shall never die'—a sunburst in the night, a light that not only illuminated the tomb, but gave a glimpse of the beyond. Men readily appreciated the value of the statement and carried the reformation from one generation to another down to the present time, like the old Grecian torch race, where the runner, about exhausted, hands the torch to another who bears it until, wearied, he in turn is relieved. Col. Harris in his faith and profound belief was a torch-bearer of immortality. He said to me:

"'Death is not all. It is simply the entrance into a purer and better life. I have no doubt whatever of the future life. I am not only convinced of this by what I have read concerning the life and teaching of Christ, for whom I have a supreme affection—an affection I would not exchange for any possession in the world—but from the truth, of this fact, that I realized here. (Placing his hand on his heart).'

"Col. Harris was a gentleman, one to the manner born. He belonged to a school that is only too rapidly passing away. To everyone he was courteous but to his friends there was a revelation of a man of great depth of feeling, capable of great sacrifice and also an intensity of suffering. He was a patriot; he was a Southern man by birth and training; he believed in the lost cause and it would have been unnatural for him not to have unsheathed his sword in its defense. He was a brave soldier, his government honored him with a commission as colonel and trusted him, but when Lee surrendered at Appomattox, the war was over for him and, from that time to the present, the republic has had no more loyal son than he. When war with Spain began, he sent his two sons into the field while he himself supported the government on the platform and in the press. He believed that the destiny of his government was to accomplish great things in this world.

"He had an intense affection for the old soldiers, either of the North or South. He requested me to invite the G. A. R. and the only ex-confederate soldier in the city to be his pall bearers. Having made every arrangement possible so as to relieve Mrs. Harris, he fell asleep.

"The men of the two great armies are rapidly passing away. There will come a time soon when the last member of the great organizations will have passed to the camp on the other side, but there will never come a time, while men have heroism and courage, that these men will not be honored and their old brigades forgotten.

AUTHOR'S SECRET.

Food That Brought Back Buoyant Health.

Newspaper writers have a time of it to get the right kind of food to nourish them. One of this profession who writes for a Boston paper says: "From the first Grape-Nuts Food worked like a charm. My stomach had been failing to digest ordinary food, and my nerves were completely unstrung. I was about to give up work while preparing a series of articles for the press, but by a stroke of good fortune they began to feed me on Grape-Nuts. My strength gradually returned, nerves became steadier day by day, and I soon found I could do more office work with greater ease than ever before.

There came to me that feeling of buoyant health and satisfaction with my work and satisfaction with myself. In short, I felt that life was worth living, and that I was 'girded up like a strong man for a race.'

"In my opinion Grape-Nuts is the one perfect article of food invaluable alike for those that are sick and those that are well." W. S. Gidley, Author of "Happy-Go-Lucky Papers," "The Landlord's Story," etc.

It is a fact that Grape-Nuts Food does supply the brain and nerve centers with the elements necessary to rebuild, nourish and maintain. That brings health, strength, happiness and the feeling of buoyancy Mr. Gidley speaks of.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy, are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

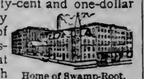
It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.



Home of Swamp-Root.

An' Grant an' Sherman's fellers—their mem'ry never fades;
We won't fergit the old boys who made the o.d brigades.

"They're thinnin' out—the old boys—
they're few now on the sod;
They're crossin', crossin' over to the campin' grounds of God;
I see the young boys marchin' on hills
an' fields an' glades,
But we won't fergie the old boys who made the old brigades.'

The sermon was followed by prayer, and then the quartet sang "Beyond the Smiling and the Weeping."

The funeral was attended by a detail from Willis A. Gorman and J. B. Culver G. A. R. posts, under F. H. Barnard, post commander of the last named post. The old veterans met at their headquarters and then marched to the home of the deceased with their colors. After the services they formed in double rank on the walk and stood with bared head as the pallbearers carried the body of their lamented friend to the hearse. District court was adjourned half an hour earlier than usual so that members of the bench and bar might attend the services and pay a last tribute to one of their number.

The pallbearers were Hon. Page Morris, Capt. T. H. Pressnell, Capt. W. H. Smallwood, F. H. Barnard, commander of Culver G. A. R. post, L. W. Palmer and Berlah Magoffin. The pallbearers, in accordance with Col. Harris' request, included Union and one ex-Confederate soldiers. The remains also were attended by John H. Norton, Col. Harris' law partner.

The casket was placed in the hearse and upon it were placed the beautiful floral decorations, loving tributes of remembrance of friends. One piece was formed of red roses and white carnations and represented a broken column.

The remains were followed to the Union depot by members of the family of the deceased, the pallbearers and a few intimate friends of the family. They were placed on the Northern Pacific train and left at 1:55 p. m. for Fort Scott, Kans., for interment. The body was accompanied as far as Minneapolis by Laurenz Harris, youngest son of the deceased. Mrs. Harris and Henry Harris will go through to Fort Scott.

LUMBER.

The Shipments Are Becoming More Active Every Day.

Vesselmen report quite a large lumber fleet on the way to the head of the lake, and say that with few exceptions the boats have been chartered, the rate being given at $2.25 from the head of the lakes to Lake Erie ports. During the past few days the lumber shipments have been a little heavier, and this has to a great extent relieved the congested condition at a few of the large lumber docks, while the boats now on the way up here are expected to relieve any immediate trouble of overcrowded docks. Nearly 2,000,000 feet have been taken off the West Duluth lumber docks in the past two days.

Lumber shipments to date are within a few hundred thousand feet of being 10,000,000 feet, of which about 6,000,000 feet have been shipped from Duluth and nearly 4,000,000 feet from West Superior. No report has yet been received of May shipments of lumber from Two Harbors, which port is in this district. The first lumber shipment was made from West Superior on May 2, and was some of the Hines Lumber company's stock. The first lumber shipment from Duluth this season was on May 6. Shipments last season began from a week to ten days earlier.

Some of the boats engaged in the ore carrying trade last season will carry lumber this season. Among these are the Mingoe and the Mohegan, each of which will take on a cargo of 1,000,000 feet, and are expected shortly to load at Duluth docks. The lumber rate is said to be quite firm at $2.25. This is about 25 cents under the rate at the close of shipping season last fall.

DID NOT ATTEND.

President Unable to Go Over to University.

San Francisco, May 15.—President McKinley did not go to Berkeley today to attend the commencement exercises at the University of California. The illness of Mrs. McKinley prevented the president from participating in the ceremonies, but the members of the cabinet and others of the party crossed the bay on the revenue tug Sloeum. As the little steamer crossed the harbor the warships lying at anchor in the bay saluted and all the bay steamers sounded their sirens. The guests were taken to the university grounds and the exercises of the day were observed, with Secrtary Hay acting in the president's stead.

President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California, then entertaintd the party at luncheon.

A REPORT ON CRIME

Penal Codes of Various States Are Warmly Arraigned.

Washington, May 15.—The feature of the closing session today of the national conference of the charities and correction, was the report of the committee on crime by President Charlton T. Lewis, of the New York Prison association, and read by Dr. H. F. Wines, of this city. The report arraigned our penal codes as being without either consistency or justification. Legal punishment, it pointed out, had no material effect on habitual criminals. The report contended that the grossest inequalities exist in the terms of imprisonment, assigned to particular offenses in different states and in the judicial administration of each state.

"Practically the vast majority of our prisons," says the report, "are but schools of criminality. Imprisonment is an unnatural life, and the vast majority of those condemned to it degenerate under its influence. Imprisonment sentences should be ended only by the attainment of fitness for freedom. Probation for convicted offenders gradually is being recognized. The system of paroling prisoners under conditional release after they have served part of their terms with credit is best used in connection with the indeterminate sentences. The administration of prisons should be directed to the education of the inmates and their training in regular and productive industry."

A long discussion followed in which a number of delegates participated. Dr. H. H. Hart, of Chicago, the general secretary, presented the report of the committee on reports from states. This showed among other things that several states have extended the parole system to inmates of penitentiaries and that Louisiana has abandoned the conviction lease system. Massachusets has made state provision for consumptives and a similar move is being pressed in Connecticut, Pennsylvania and with Col. Harris' request, included Union and one ex-Confederate soldiers. The remains also were attended by John H. Norton, Col. Harris' law partner.

The casket was placed in the hearse and upon it were placed the beautiful floral decorations, loving tributes of remembrance of friends. One piece was formed of red roses and white carnations and represented a broken column.

The remains were followed to the Union depot by members of the family of the deceased, the pallbearers and a few intimate friends of the family. They were placed on the Northern Pacific train and left at 1:55 p. m. for Fort Scott, Kans., for interment. The body was accompanied as far as Minneapolis by Laurenz Harris, youngest son of the deceased. Mrs. Harris and Henry Harris will go through to Fort Scott.

REJECTED.

Irish Procedure Bill Killed In British Commons.

London, May 15.—The house of commons today, by 226 to 102 votes, rejected the second reading of the bill amending legal procedure in Ireland. Timothy Healy and other Nationalists vigorously denounced the system of packing juries obtaining, by which Catholics were placed outside the pale of the law. They advocated the abolition of grand juries and the coercion act, declaring they would prefer open, honest tyranny and the abolition of the right of trial by jury to the present procedure.

The attorney general for Ireland, Mr. Atkinson, in replying, strongly condemned the bill. He said that so long as the Nationalist members of the house of commons preached defiance of the law, and approved of maiming and murdering jurors, it was absolutely necessary to use the power of jury selections. Contempt of court was growing in Ireland daily, and the law required strengthening rather than weakening.

SECRETLY MARRIED.

Cincinnati Stirred By Clandestine Alliance.

Cincinnati, May 15.—Miss Majorie Harmon, a debutante of last season, daughter of Judson Harmon, former attorney general of the United States, was secretly married Monday afternoon to George Heckle, civil engineer, of Boston. The engagement had been announced and the wedding set for June, but owing to Miss Harmon's youthfulness, her parents favored a postponement. Mr. Heckle arrived in the city on Sunday. The next afternoon the couple were quietly married at the residence of a rector near the Harmon home. Two friends of the bride were present. The announcement today caused much stir in society circles. Mrs. Harmon is in Europe and has been notified by cable. The bridal couple have started for Europe.

TEN YEARS FOR FOSTER.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio, May 15.—Charles Foster was today sentenced to serve ten years in the penitentiary at hard labor, and to pay the costs of the trial for the murder of a farmer named Johnson. Judge Young overruled a motion for a new trial. The case attracted widespread attention as the result of an order issued by Judge Young prohibiting the publication of testimony.

R. A. SUPREME COUNCIL.

Asheville, N. C., May 15.—The twenty-fourth annual session of the supreme council Royal Arcanum, began here today. Ninety-four delegates from various states and Ontario are in attendance. The meeting will continue until May 23.

PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

Springfield, Ohio, May 15.—George W. Thatcher was arraigned today and entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of forging the name of P. P. Mast, the late millionaire, to notes amounting to $296,000. Bond was reduced to $5000 and officials of the Mercer Heirs association are making arrangements to secure the prisoner's release.

LAVIGNE DEAD.

Cleveland, May 15.—George Lavigne, the dock foreman, who was shot in the fight with the longshoremen and package freight handlers Saturday night, died today. His home was in Port Huron, Mich. No arrests have been made.

The Best or the indifferent Kind Which?

An indifferent sort of Tailored Suits, Jackets and Wraps of every sort, neither good nor very bad, is easy to find.

Stores can buy that kind without any trouble!

But as "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," so, everlastingly carefulness and painstaking are indispensible in the getting of good garments!

Most stores take the easy way, and, the buyer and wearer pays the penalty—at first!

Our success at garment selling is builded on the great merit of our garments—and the protection we give our customers, by selling only such garments as can be expected to give good service! And yet we sell cheaply.

We sell splendid strictly wool Tailored Suits in the fashionable fabrics, in the best spring shades, and with lots of style at $10 and $12.50. And we sell elegant Tailored Suits of fine Venetian Cloths, Homespuns and Broadcloths, at $15 and $16.50.

From those prices we run by one and two dollars as high as $65.00; but we do our largest business at $22.50, $25.00, $27.50 and up to $35.00.

We sell excellent Eton Jackets and box coats at $6.75, of Wool Venetian cloth; silk lined and tailored throughout; and are particularly strong on those at $9.50 and $12; and from these prices we run by one and two dollars to $45—in this range are included many fine Taffeta Eton novelties.

We show over twenty styles in capes for spring—tan, castor, pearl-gray, garnet and black—plain or elaborately trimmed with jet and applique—all richly lined with silk or satin—at from $7.50 to $45.

Over fifty styles in Silk Waists are shown in Taffeta, Satin de Leon, Poie de Soie and China silk in all the new spring colors and black—at from $4.50 to $16.50.

Girls' Suits, age 10 to 16, six styles, $8.75 to $16.50.
Girls' "Raglans" 10 to 16, four styles, $12.50 to $20.
Girls' Box Coats, twenty styles, $3.50 to $15.00.
Girls' Eton Jackets, twenty styles, $4.50 to $15.00.

Some $27.50, $22.50 and $17.50

Tailored Suits at $15.

A clean-up of several lots that we cannot re-order any more this season—on account of the makers being out of the cloth or trimmings—they include some of the best suits we have had, and were made expressly for our trade—carefully planned and thoroughly tailored—many of the Eton styles, so popular this spring, but almost every style is here, including fly-front, or blouse, with rest effect, all with the new flare skirt—some trimmed, some richly plain, finished with seams and rows of stitching—blue, black, light and dark gray, castor brown and novelties—all of the jackets are silk lined—not one of them sold for less than $17.50 and up to $27.50—here for your choosing at $15

Shirt Waist Hats.

The East has set the style and it has been quickly picked up everywhere, but be careful that you get the correct Shirt Waist Hat for there are plenty of imitations already.

The Shirt Waist Leghorn has caught on quick among the best dressers, and polka dot effects are good.

You can make up your mind where you'd best go to get the "right" things.

WILL FIGHT.

Three Chicago Capitalists Are After Morgan's Scalp.

Chicago, May 15.—Three local capitalists, it is said, taking advantage of the fact that the Morgan forces in the billion-dollar steel trust were somewhat crippled during the recent financial maelstrom that tore through Wall street, have started out to fight the United States Steel corporation.

These men are said to be John W. Gates, John Lambert and another Western iron man. All three of them, the reports say, have been for some time disgruntled over the fact that they were unable to secure proper representation in the steel trust, and are busy forming a new combine to fight the United States corporation. In this combine, will be, it is said, the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company, the Colorado Fuel & Iron company and the Republic Iron & Steel company.

One of the first steps looking to the formation of the competing combine was taken in New York yesterday, when the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company at a meeting of its directors, voted to issue $15,000,000 of new bonds to carry out the scheme for enlargement.

PIANO MAKERS

New York, May 15.—The National Piano Manufacturers' Association, began its third annual convention here today. Officers were elected as follows: President, E. S. Conway, Chicago; vice president, William Dallba Dutton and Charles H. Parsons, of New York; secretary, W. B. Price, Chicago; treasurer, Frederick P. Stiff, Baltimore.

MADE A HAUL.

Munford, Ky., May 15.—Currency amounting to over $3000 and a number of valuable papers rewarded a gang of burglars who early today blew open the vaults of the Hart County Deposit and Trust bank. The vault was completely shattered by a heavy charge of nitro-glycerine, and such confusion was caused inside that the full extent of the loss has not yet been learned.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Convention to Aid In Its Suppression.

New York, May 15.—The joint session of the American congress of tuberculosis and the medico-legal society began today at the Hotel Majestic. Delegates have been appointed by the governors of most of the states of the Union and by a number of South and Central American countries, but not all were present in time for the opening exercises. Clark Bell, president of the Medico-legal society, in an address of welcome, outlined the work done in the past year throughout the world towards the suppression of tuberculosis.

MARQUIS DEFIANT

Well Known French Royalist Has Caused a Sensation.

He Was Banished For Treason Over One Year Ago.

Returns and Holds Himself Subject to High Court.

Paris, May 15.—Another convocation of the French senate as the high court of France is promised by the unexpected return to this country of the Marquis de Lur-Saluces, the well known royalist and former member of the chamber of deputies, who, in January, 1900, at the time of the conspiracy trials, was condemned, in default of appearance, to ten years' banishment for treason. The president of the senate, M. Fallerles, received a letter today, in which the marquis says:

"At the present moment, when the government of the republic is striving desperately to ruin industry and commerce, paralyze national work, disorganize the army and destroy religious faith—in a word, to utterly destroy the fatherland itself—I intend to provoke another public discussion, before the high court, on the question of who are the real authors of the conspiracy threatening the existence of France. I hold myself at your disposition."

The Marquis de Lur-Saluces sought refuge in Belgium, where he was closely watched by the police, whom he succeeded in eluding and returned to his mansion in Paris a few days ago.

THE DAKOTAS.

North Dakota Papers Not Opposed to Pardon of McKenzie.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—At a meeting of the North Dakota Press association the following resolution was adopted: "Understanding that the papers of San Francisco have published a statement to the effect that a large proportion of the newspapers of North Dakota oppose the pardon of Hon. Alex McKenzie, we, the members of the North Dakota Press association, in session in Fargo this day, in justice to Mr. McKenzie and the press of North Dakota, unanimously and explicitly deny the statement referred to, and would further testify that the opposite is true; to-wit, that a large proportion of the papers of the state favor his pardon."

Lakota—Six hobos were arrested on the charge of stealing. Two of them entered the store of Barnum & Co., and while one engaged the attention of the proprietor, at the back end of the store, the other made off with half a dozen pairs of trousers and some other goods. They then went to Maples, where they offered the trousers for sale at $1 a pair. The thieves, with four of their comrades, were arrested and are now awaiting a hearing.

Fargo—After reading the recent reports of how cruel the government land agents were in robbing poor settlers of their homes, in Bottineau county, as published in a Scandinavian paper of Chicago, Col. Lounsberry, the veteran editor and special examiner, is convinced that all the disciples of Ananias are not yet dead. Wildly exaggerated stories are current as to the action of the special examiners who have been investigating some fraudulent entries by traveling men and residents of other states. Bona fide settlers are protected in every possible way.

Steele—A party of Iowans representing a land syndicate, is here to look over the county and will probably invest in a large tract. There is a good choice of range locations left, but the hay levels are being taken fast.

So far nothing new is learned of the reported shooting of cattle thieves near Wilson's ranch. The report was brought in by a farmer who was deemed reliable, but no prisoner has been produced nor official report made. Neither has the story been denied.

B. Bold, of Bango, S. D., with a fine outfit of cattle and blooded horses, has located in the north side of this county, where he bought land last year. He was obliged to move from South Dakota on account of the occupation of range land by settlers.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Bryant—The residence of Rev. Paul Volrath, pastor of the German Lutheran church, was broken into Sunday evening while the owner was at Oldham holding services. Things were turned upside down, the piano badly cut with a jackknife, and some few things carried up town and left in different places. It looks more like a piece of malicious mischief than anything else.

Volga—The Volga roller mills, owned by S. Jensen, burned Tuesday morning. The loss is $15,000. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Lebanon—Citizens have filed a petition with the board of health of Potter county, requesting the removal and burial of 300 head of dead cattle lying two miles south of this village. They are part of a herd of 1200 wintered here by DeHart, Smith & Schoop, who have lately removed the remainder of the cattle to Hughes county, from whence they came last fall. It is declared that the men in charge of the stock spent their time loafing in town all winter and allowed the cattle to perish for want of water, when the expenditure of $5 would have dug a well. It is understood the board of health has hired a man to burn the carcasses.

SIEGFRIED AT ST. PAUL.

Former French Minister Visits Saintly City.

St. Paul, May 15.—Jules Siegfried, French minister of commerce under the Ribot ministry, reached St. Paul last night from Chicago for a brief visit after an interval of twenty years, before returning East through Canada. M. Siegfried is in the United States on a pleasure trip, and incidentally he is studying commercial and civic questions and the methods employed here in various lines of business.

M. Siegfried will be entertained by D. R. Noyes and other friends. He drove to the Ryan at once on arriving, and this morning met informally business men and members of the commercial bodies at the Minnesota club. He is accompanied by his son, Andre Siegfried.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Racine, Wis., May 15.—Chas. B. Tickner, at one time auditor of the Wisconsin Central Railway and one of the best known men in railroad circles in the Northwest, was found dead in bed this morning.

AT WEST DULUTH

The sawmills began running yesterday afternoon and are running today. The Mitchell & McClure mill started up two band saws yesterday and are operating these saws today, though the strikers claim that an ineffectual attempt was made to operate the mill to its full capacity. The men that are out say that twenty-five new employes have taken the places of ten of the old men, and that with this larger force it is impossible to keep the lumber away. Whether this is or is not true, the company appears to be sawing lumber and getting what men are needed.

The men that are striking held another largely attended meeting last evening, but no inforation is given out as to what transpired. There have been but few boats in to load with lumber and the docks are beginning to get well filled up. Unless there is sufficient vessel movement soon to relieve the situation, the manufacturers will be seriously crowded for dock room.

INSPECTED THE PARK.

The inspection of the Fairmount park site at West Duluth, that has been planned several times by the park board, took place yesterday, all of the park commissioners going out with the exception of Mr. Silberstein, who was not able to be present. With the board went Aldermen Barnes and Swenson. The party took a carriage from West Duluth and spent several hours at the park, looking over the site and considering the improvements necessary. This was the first visit of some of the members of the board, and they were surprised as well as delighted with the site. Mr. Mendenhall said this morning that the site site is simply magnificent, better than he had even dreamed of. He says that he could not do justice to it by attempting a description; that one to appreciate the park would have to pay it a visit. The lines of the forty acres in the tract have been marked and the board has selected Victor Johnson, of West Duluth, as park policeman. Mr. Johnson will assume his duties in a few days. He will have general supervision of the park and will begin the work of clearing up and preparing for improvements to be made.

DIES FROM INJURIES.

Alfred Clement, a fireman on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, residing at Proctorknott and well-known in West Duluth met with an accident yesterday afternoon, from the effects of which he died at St. Mary's hospital about 4 o'clock this morning. Mr. Clement was riding on the pilot of his engine, when in some manner he lost his hold and balance and fell in front of the locomotive. He was caught against the ashpan and dragged for a little distance on the track between the rails, his hip being fractured, one ear torn off, besides receiving internal injuries and numerous scalp wounds. He was about 40 years old and leaves a family at Proctorknott. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

WINS HIS CASE.

Louis Newton, the West Duluth harness maker, won in justice court yesterday his suit against J. D. Park. He sued for a sum of money alleged to be due on a harness that he sold to the defendant, and for which the latter was to pay in dental work. As the dental work did not amount to the price he asked for the harness, he brought suit to recover the difference, about $20. Attorney H. W. Lanners represented the plaintiff and T. A. Gall was Mr. Park's attorney. It was a jury trial.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

Almyr Haubiner was pleasantly surprised by a number of his friends on Saturday evening at his home on Grand avenue. The evening was spent with games and social amusements. Those present were: Rose Baldwin, Tessie Sennet, Maggie Haubiner, Esther Murray, Sennet Haubiner, Mrs. Haubiner, Edward Doan, William Baldwin Merwin Murray, Nedo Baldwin, William Sennet and Almyr Haubiner.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Mr. and Mrs. John Severson, of Wadena street, had a child injured the other day under peculiar circumstances. They were walking on one of the streets in Duluth when a loose board in the sidewalk tripped both Mr. Severson and his wife and they fell. Mrs. Severson was carrying the child and in the fall the little one had its leg broken.

FERRET SYSTEM

Representative Laybourn Favors It to Enforce Tax Collection.

George R. Laybourn is a believer in the tax ferret system which is in force in the state of Iowa and other states farther away from Minnesota. The workings of the law in that state have been more closely observed, it being the one nearest here which employs the system. Mr. Laybourn says that if he should again be in the legislature he will favor and work for the adoption of such a law for Minnesota. He is not to be understood by this statement, however, as already announcing his candidacy for the legislature at the next election. An effort was made at the last session to secure the adoption of the law, but it failed.

The system is in brief the authorization of the employment of skilled men to ferret out personal property that is not returned for taxation. These men are required by the law to be men of known integrity and responsibility. It is their business to look into the affairs of taxpayers and learn whether they have property which they do not disclose to the assessors. They are paid 15 per cent of all taxes they cause to be collected through their efforts, the balance, 85 per cent, of course, going into the public treasury. This liberal compensation naturally makes the ferrets very active in their work, and that is precisely what the law intends they shall be.

In the state of Iowa it is said that the assessment of the state at large has already been increased more than $60,000,000, and the system has only been operative for a couple of years. The following article, which was printed as a special from Mason City, Iowa, a few days ago, will give some idea of the working of the system:

"The recent decisions of a number of district judges of the state with reference to the collection of taxes on properties not listed for taxation, has renewed interest in matters pertaining to the tax ferrets throughout the state. One of the most successful men in the state engaged in ferreting out properties that have not been listed for taxation, is J. J. Carnahan, of this city. He has been in the business for the past thirteen years in Illinois, Indiana and Iowa. He now has contracts for ferret work in fifteen counties of this state. He was interviewed by your correspondent in reference to the work in Iowa. He stated that the state assessment of 1900 has been increased over $60,000,000 in the state of Iowa through the direct efforts of tax agitation. In the state of Iowa, figuring on the basis of counties which he has already worked in, fully $10,000 had been paid into the various county treasurers of the state through the efforts of ferrets. Now eighty-five of the ninety-nine counties of the state were either actively engaged in the work or had contracts with parties to make an investigation of the records on this line. In Floyd county about $50,000 in unpaid taxes have been paid into the treasury; in Cerro Gordo county, about $70,000; in Hardin county, about $10,000, and so it goes through the state. Quite a large per cent of this comes from outside the state, that is, foreign capital that is used in the county where no one pays taxes on it. It is common to find English capital in counties where no taxes are paid upon it. According to Mr. Carnahan, but two classes of people are now opposing the work of tax ferrets. They were those ignorant of the methods employed and those who were guilty tax dodgers. The work of the tax ferrets is becoming more popular right along. The state allows them 15 per cent for collecting and 85 per cent goes into the treasury of the county."

The system has many opponents and it will meet with many arguments against it if it comes to the point of being considered in this state. One of the main contentions against it is that it opens opportunity for much bribery if the ferret be inclined to act dishonestly. He can easily strike a bargain with the individual who, he finds, has been escaping taxation. The advocates of the system answer to this that the compensation is high enough so that the ferret cannot endanger himself and his employment by descending to crooked work. They also say that the law should be surrounded by safeguards and that an extreme penalty should be prescribed for any corporation on the part of the tax ferrets.

The attempt made at the last session to establish the system in this state met with failure. The committee on taxation was divided on the matter at every meeting. There were seventeen members of the committee and at every session at which this law came up there were sixteen present. Eight were for it and eight against it, making no decision and thus hanging the matter up and preventing a report to the house. Finally to get the matter before the session Representative Jacobson changed his vote to an adverse one, although he was in favor of the law, and it went before the house and was there defeated.

While there will be many arguments for and against the system, there is one thing that will be generally agreed upon and that is that there is a vast amount of personal property that escapes taxation. City Assessor Olafson made the astonishing statement yesterday before the tax commission that last year the returns of money on deposit in banks made to him aggregated but $5500 and yet at the time the statement of the two leading banks of the city showed deposits of about $7,000,000!

NORTH DAKOTA REPORT.

Frosts Damage Some Things ---Grain Escapes.

The crop report for North Dakota for the week ending Monday last indicates no damage to grain, but that all tender plants were killed. It says:

"The weather during the past week has been unusually variable. The fore part was quite warm, with light to heavy showers at widely separated points, followed during the latter part by considerably colder weather, and temperatures below the freezing point, ice forming in many places, and all tender vegetation that was up was killed, as well as most wild fruit that was in blossom. But very few reports of damage to small grain that was up, have been received.

"High winds prevailed in all parts of the state, every report received making an especial mention of them, and have done much more damage to grain than the frost did. In some places, grain that was up, was blown out of the ground, and in other places covered so deeply, that it will have to be resown. In other places the air was filled with dust and grit that cut down the grain that was up, doing considerable damage, but as the season is yet early it is not probable that the injury will be permanent.

"Wheat seeding is practically finished, although there will be some sown for a couple of weeks longer. A good part of the oats has been sown, and in the eastern and southern portions of the state, considerable barley and flax and in some places, corn planted."

CAUSES SURPRISE

Houghton Coroner's Jury Passes on Bon Voyage Accident.

Capt. Singer Cannot Understand Basis For the Verdict.

Much to the surprise of Capt. W. H. Singer, manager of the White Line Transportation company, the coroner's jury at Houghton yesterday gave a verdict holding the management of the line responsible for the loss of the Bon Voyage. The Houghton dispatch that tells of this is as follows:

Houghton, Mich., May 15.—The coroner's jury, of which Mayor Scott of Hancock was foreman, brought in a verdict last night that Mrs. Leah Sharpe, Mrs. Benjamin Altman and the two Altman girls were drowned while escaping from the burning steamer Bon Voyage, and that the disaster was due directly to the wilful negligence of the owners of the vessel in not taking necessary precaution against fire and for the safety of the passengers."

This was a surprise not only to Capt. Singer, but to the people of Duluth. Capt. Singer has always had the reputation of being very careful and thorough about keeping his boats up to the highest standard in every way, and not one of the members of the crew since their return has said anything that would indicate that such a finding would be possible.

Capt. Singer said that he was at a loss to understand the finding. He was present at the hearing before the United States inspectors, and none of the testimony was of a nature that would indicate that such a finding was possible. He thought it possible that someone was trying to damage himself or the company.

"BULLDOG" REGAN'S END.

One of the Most Noted Northern Minnesota Characters.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 15.—The death of Dan Donovan, better known as "Bulldog" Regan, at Cass Lake, marked the passing of one of the most noted characters of Northern Minnesota. He was known to the police of every town in Cass, Beltrami, Itasca and St. Louis counties. He knew no fear, and was always ready to enter into a physical combat with anyone who disagreed with him.

One of the fingers was missing from his right hand. This was the result of a fight with an Indian at Deer River some years ago. Regan bit the Indian so hard that he broke the finger and the member was subsequently amputated. In another combat with a lumberjack at West Superior, his face was bitten, leaving a scar from his mouth to his chin. His head was covered with scars and abrasions, the result of being pounded by policemen who attempting to arrest him. Although not weighing over 140 pounds, he was a powerful man, and it is a matter of record that he had to be beaten to insensibility before being quieted.

Regan had been driven out of nearly every town along the line of the Eastern Minnesota railway, and was ordered out of Cass Lake the night previous to receiving the wounds which caused his death. With the reckless tenacity which gained for him the sobriquet of "Bulldog," he immediately returned only to meet his death. His tragic exit was in keeping with the life he had lead. Donovan, or Regan, was born in Peterboro, Ont., and was about 45 years of age. He was buried at Cass Lake on Saturday, with no relatives or friends to witness his interment.

UNITED BRETHREN.

Centennial Celebration to Be Held at Frederick.

Baltimore, May 14.—Delegates to the centennial celebration of United Brethren church, which is being held in Frederick visited the Otterbein memorial church here today. There were about 500 who made the trip.

Otterbein church was built to commemorate Bishop William Otterbein, the founder of the United Brethren church. His body was buried in the yard adjoining the edifice. Consecration services were held at the tomb.

NO BUSINESS DONE.

New York, May 14.—The stockholders of the Consolidated Rubber Tire Manufacturing company met in Jersey City today, but adjourned without doing any business owing to the restraining order issued some time ago by Chancellor Magee.

Hard to Keep the Door Open.

It is one thing to open the door in China and a more difficult thing to keep it open. The majority of the American people had supposed that our fight for an open door in that country had borne fruit and that, as most of the powers had seconded our efforts for China's territorial integrity, we had carried our point. But now it is said that Russia has since been quietly maneuvering to close that door, partially at least. She occupied Manchuria and closed the door behind her, and now she demands the exclusion of the other powers. If this is permitted, there may soon be a general invasion of the open door, and other provinces will be seized by other powers, until there will be little of China left. If Russia secures an unchallenged foothold, the looting of China is likely to become general. It is stated that Russia favors a scheme whereby China would borrow her indemnity money among the powers, the interest on her loan being kept up by a tax on maritime commerce. This would be a polite way of keeping away countries like the United States by means of a heavy import tax.

Census Bureau's Big Work.

The main work connected with compiling statistics relating strictly to the population of the United States has been practically completed by the census bureau, and the bulk of the information is about ready for the printer. A tremendous amount of labor was involved in preparing this matter for publication. Some idea of the immensity of the task may be gained from the statement that in order to get the tables ready more than 450,000,000 cards were handled by the census clerks. This relates only to the population figures, and does not include the millions of cards that were handled in getting out the agricultural, manufacturing and vital statistics bulletins. The whole undertaking of the census was founded on the card system, all the facts relating to each individual being transferred from the sheets of the enumerators to small cards especially designed for this purpose. These cards have been passed through the tabulating machines time and again, in the work of separating and classifying information of a specific nature. Altogether, there have been ten separate and distinct handlings of the population cards, but in several cases the entire set of cards was not run through the machine. The net result, however, was equivalent to six handlings of the individual cards, 76,380,000 in number, or a grand total of about 457,800,000 cards. A still better comprehension of the magnitude of this work will be had when it is known that each of the 450,000,000 odd cards was punched from twelve to nineteen times, each perforation indicating some fact in regard to the person that it represents. By carrying out this multiplication, the aggregate is found to be rather staggering. It should also be borne in mind that millions and millions of other cards were treated in the same manner in the work of collecting vital statistics and data regarding our manufactures and agricultural interests. The first time the population cards were handled by the clerks it was for the purpose of determining the number of inhabitants in the country. Before this total was announced there was a strict verification for the purpose of insuring the greatest possible accuracy. There were 76,300,000 cards in round numbers, and the statement was given out that the twelfth census revealed that number of people in the United States. The cards were then handled ten successive times for the purpose of obtaining statistics of great value and which go to make up a part of the census report. Surely the census system is a wonderful one; the greatest in the world and a credit to the United States.

THE TAX COMMISSION.

There was undoubtedly much good accomplished by the visit of the state tax commission to Duluth, and there is reason to believe that the movement started by The Herald for a more equitable system of taxation in St. Louis county, under which the valuable iron properties will pay their proper share of the taxes, will result in steps being taken to correct the injustice. The members of the commission were convinced of the fact that the mines are now almost entirely escaping taxation, so low are their assessments compared to their actual value. Some scheme will undoubtedly be evolved by the commission and will be embodied in a bill for presentation to the next legislature for securing a fair and honest assessment of these properties and thus furnish needed relief to the other overburdened taxpayers in the county.

There seemed to be a disposition on the part of the commission to believe that little could be accomplished in the direction of securing an apportionment among the cities, villages and counties of the gross earnings taxes now paid into the state treasury by the railroads, telegraph, telephone and express companies. The statement was made that, while the present plan is very unjust, the idea of apportionment would be opposed by members of the legislature from the farming districts and its adoption could not be secured.

The Herald believes that the opposition of the farming communities to changing the existing system is exaggerated, and that a vigorous agitation of the subject, with the presentation of facts and figures showing the absolute injustice now inflicted on many communities, would result in success.

There should be no abandonment of the campaign for apportionment of the gross earnings taxes. The apportionment idea is right, and right must prevail.

WEST INDIAN GOVERNMENTS.

The imperialists who are straining every nerve to organize for our insular possessions a colonial form of government might employ some of their spare time in ascertaining the facts regarding the workings of the British colonial governments in the West Indies.

England, profiting by her experience with the original American colonies, has been able to retain the allegiance of Canada and Australia by granting to them practical independence. These great off-stoots from the parent stem are of no benefit to the English nation, except as they furnish an outlet for the surplus of manufactured articles which England has to sell. In times of war they furnish of their own motion a few soldiers, but are asked to bear no part of the burden of government in war or in peace. This is not the case, however, with the smaller possessions known as the crown colonies and the representative colonies which have a nominal local legislature. These have been kept for the sole benefit of the English nation.

The government which the administration would force upon Porto Rico and the lesser insular possessions of the United States is similar to the British government in the Antilles. Of the islands composing the group which encloses the Caribbean sea, those belonging to France and Holland alone seem to be in any degree prosperous.

For some reason, perhaps strategic, the various nations, since the time of Columbus, have coveted these bits of tropical paradise. Arranged in a segment of a circle these stepping stones make a giant foot-bridge from Trinidad to Florida. They control the passageway to the isthmus, to the Gulf of Mexico, and consequently the Mississippi river. Spain early, by the right of discovery, took to herself this line of pearls. But one by one they have been wrested from her until now the Spanish flag is no longer seen where Columbus placed it three centuries ago.

England, France, Holland, Denmark and the United States hold everything that has not gained its freedom by the machete and rifle. We claim sovereignty over Porto Rico, Vieques, Mona and Culebra. Holland claims St. Eustatius, Saba Curacao, Bune Ayre and and Oruba. We have been trying to purchase from the Danish government St. Thomas, St. John and St. Croix. France holds St. Bartholemew, Gaudeloupe, Maria Galante, Desirade, Los Saintes and Martinique. The rest belong to England, except Margarita, which Germany is supposed to covet.

It is to the workings of the British colonial governments of these islands that the attention of the imperialists is invited. For some reason, which does not appear on the surface, but which can be traced to the form of government, these British possessions are in a deplorable state of decadence. With a population willing to work—a population intelligent beyond the average—under the baleful rule of the home government the people are idle, the cities and towns are going to ruin, and the farms are returning to a state of nature. They are sugar producing, first, last and all the time. When that industry fails, the people starve. Under the system of protection among the nations of Europe and the high tariff of the United States, the sugar growers of the British possessions have been unable to compete with the beet-sugar growers of Germany and America. And as long as this system of tariff is maintained those islands will retrograde. A free market in the United States or in Europe would work a wonderful change. The West Indies alone could produce the sugar of the world and lay it at the doors of the consumer for one half the price now paid.

France and Holland make a market for the insular sugar, and their colonies are flourishing, but England places the product of her colonies in competition in her home market with the protected sugar of Germany, while all the other markets are closed by tariff walls. This is just what congress is intending to do with Porto Rico and with Cuba—deny them the markets of the United States in order to protect a few beet-growers. If the movement be successful, the American possessions will join the procession of poverty and ruin that is led by the British West Indies.

GOVERNMENT BY INJUNCTION.

It has been some time since the courts have received a roasting for their tendency to aid the hand of government by injunction. This fearful apprehension of autocracy emanating from the bench has about disappeared. Eugene V. Debs, the one-time victim of the exercise of this extraordinary power of the courts has subsided, retired from the enter of the stage to the pit, where he sits demurely as an ordinary citizen.

But the injunction will not down. If it cannot attract attention as an arm of the government to reach unruly citizens, it can come forth at the nick of time and arrest a money panic. It can say to the stock gambler, "so far canst thou go and no farther." To the mighty of the earth, the multi-millionaires it says: "Stop this game—drop this corner—settle with the poor lambs whom you are squeezing, on pain of contempt." The mighty of the earth get together and stop. The lambs are invited in to settle on terms that will not remove all their little fleeces. The panic-stricken gamblers rest, look about them and take breath. It was wonderful—this power which one judge, armed with the sword of the army and navy, had over the excited speculators, and the no less excited giants of finance. Does not this mark a new era in stock gambling? Will not the promoter of corners pause a moment before he turns on the screws to crush the lambs? Will not this new power of the court hang like the sword of Damocles ever over his ambitious head?

As there is no rose without a thorn, there is no thorn without a hint of the rose. From the ruins of this tornado of Wall street there has developed a factor which will regulate the mighty of earth.

Twenty years ago the output of silk in the United States amounted to practically nothing. In the year 1900 there were thirty-nine new silk manufacturing establishments established in the United States to add to those which had been established and doing a large business in the past two decades. The quantity and value of the production of last year are stated to be as follows, by Franklin Allen, secretary of the Silk association of America: $6,000,000 yards of broad silks, valued at $52,000,000; 9,500,000 yards of velvets and plushes, worth $5,000,000; ribbons, $17,500,000 worth; machine twist, $9,000,000; sewing silk, $1,000,000; upholstery silks $100,000. This puts the value of the output of the silk manufacturing industry in this country at about $85,000,000 a year. The exhibits of American silk at Paris last year met with flattering success and those who are watching the silk trade believe that an export trade will soon be opened up that will prove the means of starting additional mills and guard against any danger of over production which might occur.

Eugene Smith, of New York, in a paper recently read before the National Prisons' association, estimated the cost of crime to the taxpayers of this country at $250,000,000 a year. This includes the cost of the courts, the prisons and the time of the legislative bodies devoted to criminal legislation; but it does not include the indirect cost of destruction and impairment of property and loss of productive capacity caused by crime, which would be several times larger.

As has been generally expected in Canada, the Dominion parliament has ratified the deal made by the Manitoba government for leasing the Northern Pacific lines in that province and sub-leasing them to the Canadian Northern road owned by McKenzie & Mann. Politicians in Manitoba opposed to the Roblin administration make a strong fight on the deal, but the great majority of the people of Manitoba favor it.

The Torrens land registration law is being accepted in Chicago as permanently established, and the abstract and title guaranty companies are giving up the fight against it. Some 400 titles to property valued at $4,000,000 have so far been registered, mostly within a year. A similar law goes into effect in St. Louis county in September, and the system is likely to be as popular here as in Chicago.

It is said that for the first time in many years the postal system of the United States is now making money, and if the receipts continue at the present rate there will be a balance of at least $2,000,000 to the credit side at the end of the fiscal year. But similar stories have been started in former years, and there may be no surplus when the books are balanced.

Controller Coler, of New York, is reported to have won $200,000 last week in the stock market. When United States Steel slumped Thursday he bought heavily of it at $16 a share, and by Friday night the stock was up to $45. The controller won't give the details of the transaction, but admits that he was fortunate.

The Kansas man will soon have as big a reputation for getting office as the Ohio man has long possessed. There are now 165 Kansans holding positions in the United States interior department.

The Topeka State Journal says: "The governor of Wisconsin has just vetoed a bill because it is contrary to the party platform." Yes, and the bill was also contrary to public sentiment.

The "mosquito exterminating committee" of New Jersey is to wage a kerosene war against the pests in that state. After the extermination is complete, they will be welcome in Minnesota.

Since that Harvard professor was acquitted of murder, it has developed that he is writing a book. If the jury had known this, his fate might have been different.

With Babcock advocating tariff reform and Grosvenor favoring an income tax, the Republican leaders are rapidly appropriating the Democratic platform.

There has not been a word from Mr. Hanna since the Wall street panic. Probably Uncle Mark was hit hard himself.

HAS AN ALTAR

James Woodward Offers Burnt Sacrifices In a Cornfield.

Omaha, May 15.—James Woodward, of Peru, Neb., believes himself to be inspired with a more than human insight into the secrets of life.

He is at the head of a small cult which has departed from the doctrines of orthodox spiritualism upon untrodden paths.

In the middle of his forty-acre cornfield Woodward has built an altar from which he and his followers are said to offer burnt sacrifices.

The striking dogma of Woodwardism is that the dead are under no compulsion t oremain in the spirit land, but in answer to the proper summons are able to array themselves anew in the flesh after the fashion of the day of judgment.

It recently occurred to Woodward to experiment upon his sister, who had been dead for ten years and whose body reposes in the town cemetery.

The ceremonies deemed necessary were completed and the small congregation adjourned to the cemetery where it was expected the bones would take on again the garment of flesh.

The objurgation of the enthusiast brought no response, however, and on the suggestion of his followers the grave was opened.

The remains of the dead woman were found as they had been left, not the stir of a pulse beat having occurred in ten years.

Several of Woodward's followers were discouraged at this evident failure, and the leader felt that desperate measures were necessary to maintain his prestige.

His next proposal was to commit suicide and arise again in three days.

It was his idea to be buried alive and he had partly disrobed for this purpose in Mt. Vernon cemetery, when he was put under restraint by the authorities on a charge of insanity.

He will be examined by the commissioners. Woodward is a man of personal magnetism and considerable elocutionary power.

PAWNED HIS LEGS.

Indiana Man Thus Got a Load of Liquor.

Kokomo, Ind., May 15.—Isaac Stevens, employed at the Greentown pumping station, has a mania for wooden legs, and mops the commercial world from a wooden leg standpoint. He is fond of liquor when it is red, and ordinarily keeps himself in a fair state of pickle. Occasionally Stevens soaks up too much of the "do harm" when visiting Kokomo, a city renowned for its blue front hurdles. The other night he came to town with two packages. In one were six wooden legs, and the other was "hooch." Dropping sideways into a railroad street vat he tried to corner the gin market, but the bears were too much for him, and he ran out of funds. Not being able to realize on stock held in other concerns he put up his wooden leg for another round of grog, and rolled out of the joint with a dished wheel. He had stored his wooden leg reserve, however, in a place known only to himself, and was soon supplied with another. This one and all the others he pawned for drinks, and early in the morning was dragged out of a post hole in the suburbs and locked up. When arrested he directed the officer to where his last leg had been pawned, and the kennel keeper was forced to give it back. With this leg he endeavored to subsidize the officer and escape the lock-up, but it didn't work, and word was sent over to the Greentown pumping station to put on a sub.

SWEDISH STUDY.

Carl Sundbeck to Make Tour of America.

Stockholm, May 15.—Carl Sundbeck, author of "The Swedes in America," has applied to the Swedish government for a grant of 3000 crowns to defray in part the expenses of a tour of study which he proposes to make through North America. The object of the trip will be to study the life of Swedish settlers in America and their descendants, their status in the adopted country, their language, educational institutions, churches and whatever else may provide interesting information to Swedes at home as to the condition of the million or more Swedes residing in America.

Herr Sundbeck will spend most of his time in Illinois, Minnesota and Kansas, making side trips into other of the Northwestern states. After visiting these states the author will spend some weeks in the state of Washington and in British Columbia, returning to the Atlantic coast via Canada and visiting en route the rapidly growing colonies in Assiniboia and Manitoba.

WERE INSEPARABLE.

Twins Who Married Twins and Lived Together.

Canton, Ohio, May 15.—Alvin Hossler, an employe of the Canton-Massillon Electric Railroad company, who died suddenly while at work, had a twin brother named Calvin. The two were inseparable. They married twin sisters and lived in the same house all their lives. Whenever Alvin got a job he would make it a condition that Calvin was given work. If either lost his position the other would quit. When Alvin secured the position of fireman in the electric power house, Calvin was also given a job. The company wanted to put him out on the line wagon. This Calvin refused to take, and Alvin said that if his brother were not put in the power house with him at the same kind of work he had he would quit. The matter was satisfactorily arranged, and Calvin was working beside Alvin when the latter dropped dead of heart disease.

FAVORS THE CANTEEN.

Chicago Minister Who Urges Its Restoration.

Chicago, May 15.—Rev S. B. Dexter, who was one of the committee, and who has been making a personal investigation since the joint inquiry of a week ago Friday, has come out squarely as an advocate of the restoration of the army canteen. He said:

"I have talked with army officers and enlisted men, as well as the officials and citizens of Highwood, and I am convinced that the canteen is a benefit to the soldiers. It seems certain that they will secure drink somehow. This being so, I have become convinced that less physical and moral injury comes to them when the canteen is in operation. Later I shall take up this matter in detail, and meanwhile I shall be glad to discuss the matter with anyone who takes issue with me."

Pole valut—Ellis.

MOUNTAINEER SALE.

Large Sale of Stock Is Reported.

The sale of the first issue of Mountaineer Oil shares which went onto the market yesterday morning attracted wide attention. People came from Two Harbors, Superior and suburban points and mail and telegraphic orders were received from all points on the range, Dakota and Northern Minnesota. There were orders from St. Paul and Minneapolis, and over in the Calumet country. Said Secretary French, of the company:

"I never had a busier day in my life than yesterday. There were few big orders, but they came from all directions. We found advertising in the Duluth newspapers valuable. I am corresponding with a machine drill contractor and expect to be able to announce the letting of contracts for four wells on the Mountaineer property within the next few days. The object in getting a machine drill to operate in this territory is to save the time used up in building derricks. We have money enough to go to work and sink wells, and we want to spend it to find out how much or how little oil we have. We have as good a prospect as there is in any oil section, but the only thing to prove it is to drill, which we will lose no time in doing.

"Our first sale has been so successful we will announce a second sale of shares within the next few days. This second sale will probably be sufficient to provide ample funds for the needs of the company in carrying out its operations."

MINNESOTA CROPS.

Report For the Week Ending Monday.

The crop report for the Minnesota section for the week ending Monday is as follows:

"Rains on May 6, 7 and 8 were heavy enough in some Southwestern counties to delay corn planting and were very light in small parts of the southeast. The rains were of great benefit to late sown grains, insuring a good stand and good growth. The cool weather has started the wheat, oats and barley to stooling, a process which was suspended during the warm weather of the previous week. In the Red River valley the dry weather has allowed the low places to dry out so that wheat seeding is finished on lands that could not be reached heretofore, and oat and barley seeding has also gone on rapidly. All the early sown grains are growing well, with good stands and healthy appearance, and the late sown are coming up well. The preparation of the soil for corn and potato planting is going on and large areas of those crops are already planted, and in a few places places the early planted are up. The same applies to flax. Some sugar beet seed has been sown in McLeod and LeSueur counties. The prospects for the clover and timothy crops are good."

Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler.

The sale of seats for the recital to be given tomorrow evening at the High School Assembly hall by Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler indicates that the attendance will be all that such a great artist should have. This gifted woman has attracted no less notice from the great critics of the world than has Paderewski and the other celebrities who have been before the public in recent years, and America has reason to feel proud at the possession of an artist who can bring the critics of both continents to her feet. Edward Irenaeous Stevenson wrote of her in the New York Independent:

"This extraordinarily gifted woman has now achieved so wide a public impression that to a large American and European public her name at once brings to the memory a personality in art as vivid and distinct as Paderewski or Mme. Bernhardt. She is one of the most extraordinary players in the world. * * * Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler had—how many recalls were there? Ten, twelve, fifteen? One forgets."

SUE FOR LOGS.

Were Cut on School Lands and Seized By State.

St. Paul, May 1.—Newstrom Brothers, of Aitkin, want $2500 for logs seized by the state and sold last month.

The firm had been cutting timber on state school lands. When discovered by the state cruisers they had cut and hauled to the Snake river 100,000 feet of logs. They were warned, but in a short time, when Cruiser Dedon revisited the place, he found they had cut and hauled another 100,000 feet from the same lands. Acting under orders, Mr. Dedon seized the logs and placed the state's mark upon them. Last month they were sold at public auction.

The Newstrom Brothers have now sued Auditor Dunn and Cruiser Dedon, individually, to recover $2500, claimed to be the value of the logs, and they claim a laborer's lien on them. The auditor thinks the suit is a pure bluff. He has filed an answer setting forth that the logs were cut on state lands in violation of the law, and that he acted entirely within the provisions of the statute in confiscating the timber. The suit will come up at the next term of court in Aitkin county.

MORGAN'S MOVEMENTS.

London, May 15.—J. Pierpont Morgan started for Paris this morning. At his firm's London house it is stated that no one there has any definite information as to Mr. Morgan's future movement, but it is expected he will return to Aix Les Bains.

HIGH PRAISE

For American and Japanese Officers By Gen. Gaselee.

London, May 15.—A dispatch from Gen. Gaselee, the British commander at Pekin, reviewing the operations in China from Aug. 14 to Jan. 17, has been gazetted.

"I wish to take this opportunity," he says towards the conclusion of the dispatch, "of paying tribute to some of the foreign officers with whom the British have been associated by force of circumstances. This contingent has been more with the American and Japanese forces than with those of the other powers, and in consequence of their close co-operation with us on their march to Pekin I have good reason for particularizing these forces among our allies. Gen. Chaffee and Gen. Baron Yamaguchi, who respectively commanded the United States forces and the Imperial Japanese contingent, have been most loyal in all their relations with me, and I may say the same of Gen. Wilson of the United States forces and Gen. Fukushima, chief of staff of the Japanese, while among the many officers with whom we have been closely associated I desire to mention the following: Col. Dickman, Maj. Mills, Capt. Grote Hutcheson and Maj. Waller, United States marines, on the staff of the United States contingent."

Gen. Gaselee favorably mentioned, briefly, several Japanese, Russians, French, Germans and Italians in succeeding paragraphs. He also alludes to Lieut. Gaussen of the First Bengal lancers, having been especially brought to his notice by Gen. Chaffee and Lieut. Col. Whit for carrying off an American trooper, who had been unhorsed during a reconnaissance, Aug. 15, under a heavy fire.

HOME MISSIONS.

Seventy-Fifth Meeting of the Congregational Society.

Boston, May 14.—The seventy-fifth meeting of the Congregational Home Missionary society was opened here today, with Gen. O. O. Howard presiding. Among the delegates were several from Cuba. Rev. Alex MacKennan, D.D., of Bowdoin, England, representing British, Australian and Canadian Congregationalists, but especially the Congregational union of England and Wales, is among the distinguished foreigners present. The address of welcome was delivered by Rev. Dr. Plumb, of Boston, to which Gen. Howard responded.

The annual report prepared by a special committee, was presented. The leading questions before the society will be his own relation to the state societies and auxiliaries and the further reduction of the debt which has existed for several years.

TO REMOVE BODIES.

Washington, May 14.—Quartermaster General Ludington has entered into a contract with R. W. Darby, of this city, for the removal of the remains of the Confederate dead in the Soldiers' Home cemetery and in the Arlington cemetery to another section of the last named cemetery which has been set aside by the secretary of war for their reinterment.

FARMER CONTROLS

Commission Intimates Gross Earnings Division Is Hopeless.

Grangers Will Not Grant Justice In the Matter.

Will Find Some Means to Correct Mine Assessments.

The tax commission finished up its work here yesterday afternoon, and left last night, filled with information on the subject of mining taxation and on the apportionment of the gross earnings taxes.

There was not the slightest doubt left in the minds of the members of the commission that the mines are almost entirely escaping taxation, and there is a disposition to correct this. What seemed to be the idea of the members, though on fuller consideration they may arrive at a different conclusion, was that it will be sufficient to leave the matter to the tax commission that is to be created by the law the present commission will frame. That commission will be gifted with plenary powers. To all intents and purposes it will have the powers of a court of law. It will be able to summon witnesses and compel them to give evidence, and to provide for their punishment if they fail to appear, or give false evidence. It will also be empowered to employ experts for the purpose of getting at the values of such property as the mines.

In this manner it is hoped that a proper assessment of the mines will be arrived at, in spite of the impossibility of getting it out of local taxing bodies.

As to the apportionment of the gross earnings taxes, in the opinion of the members of the commission the farmer is a bugey man that will prevent the attainment of justice. Though the members of the commission admitted that it is unequal taxation and an injustice for the cities to pay most of the state tax of the farming districts, they thought the farmers liked it so well that they would not be induced to give it up, and that as they are at present the preponderance of power in the state legislature, any attempt to get justice is well nigh hopeless.

At the same time the commission took the matter under advisement, and as far as the city assessments are concerned the members were one in saying that the railroads should be compelled to pay them, regardless of the gross earnings tax law. They may be depended upon, probably, to do so much at least.

In response to a suggestion that it was a pretty expensive luxury for the cities to pay all of the state tax, Mr. Hahn said that in most of the states where the tax is distributed it is divided on a mileage basis. That is, the value of the railroad property as a whole is divided equally between every mile of the line. Thus ten miles of mere road through a community that was to no expense because of it drew just as much share of the taxes as ten miles in a city composed of valuable terminals.

"But is that just?" was asked.

"No, but the farmer!" was the reply. "The word "farmer" explains it all. It is a question entirely, not of right or justice, but of whether the city interests can get the apportionment against the desire of the farmers.

AMUSEMENTS.

"MORE THAN QUEEN."

"More Than Queen," which will be the attraction at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon, is a sumptuous production. Perhaps with the exception of Mansfield's latest Shakesperean revival nothing equal it, or even to compare with it, has ever been attempted on the American stage. The period in history with which the play has to do and the imperial characters of the action, give opportunity for brilliant stage tableaux and magnificent costume effects. These opportunities have been taken advantage of to the fullest extent, with a resulting production that is bewildering and withal correct in detail. "More Than Queen" is distinctly different from the general run of Napoleonic plays, in that it is less martial and more human. It is founded on the romance of Napoleon and Josephine and is an almost tragic story of their love affair from its inception to its ending. The Josephine of this production is Miss Blanche Walsh, exponent of Sardou and numerous other sorts of roles. Miss Walsh has the graces to make the part of Josephine a great one. She is tall, handsome, imperial and stately; besides she has emotional ability of a very high order, and she has made her study of the woman she depicts deep enough to have gathered to herself a large measure of the available knowledge of Josephine's personality. Her Josephine is a Josephine of flesh and blood, as full of courage and resolution as of tenderness and love and, more than all, a Josephine absolutely devoted to Napoleon, though seeking with true womanly prevision to persuade him away from that abyss of defeat and humiliation into which he was destined untimely to fall.

IS STARTED.

New Milwaukee Boat Is Begun at the Shipyards.

Since the launching of the two new steamers for the Hanna line of boats, at the Superior shipyards, work has been commenced upon the new steamship that is to go to Milwaukee. The Milwaukee boat will be much larger than the Hanna boats. The bottom plates have all been laid for the new boat and work has started on the side plates. The new Hanna boat, Flagg left last week for Cleveland, D. R. Hanna accompanied the boat on its maiden trip.

The Warner is still tied up at the shipyards awaiting her boilers which are not yet placed. A portion of the stbe will have to be plated after the boilers are put in. This was covered temporarily for the launching.

The oil barge that has been wintered at the shipyards has been repainted and clearance papers have been issued, and the boat will leave shortly for Chicago. This is the boat built at the yards last summer.

Unless extensive repairs are made on the old dry dock, the new dry dock will be the only one in use this season. The old dock has been kept in operation since the new one was built for the reason that it was large enough for most of the boats taken there for repairs and as it is the smaller dock it can be pumped out more economically than the new dock. The sides and bottom of the new dock have been seriously strained by frost and ice. The gates has also sunk to some extent.

Beware of a Cough.

A cough is not a disease but a symptom. Consumption and bronchitis, bronchitis, which are the most dangerous and fatal disease, have for their first indication a persistent cough, and if properly treated as soon as this cough appears are easily cured. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven wonderfully successful, and gained its wide reputation and extensive sale by its success in curing the disease which cause coughing. If it is not beneficial it will not cost you a cent. For sale at Boyce's Drug store.

Conservative

Is our advertising policy. In this day of merchandising, when competition is so keen, there is a tendency to over-portray the advertised goods in order to attract the public eye. This policy will attract, but it will also re-act, when, after several fruitless searches for bargains (?), the reader of the advertisement loses confidence in the store and ceases to "call again." Our conservativeness is not so from policy only, but from principle. It gives us much pleasure—and we believe you also appreciate the fact—when you answer an advertisement of ours to find a better article than the advertisement would lead you to believe you would find. We prefer not to say things so "strong," but would much rather under-describe than over-describe them.

WERE TOO STRONG.

A Teacher's Experience With Headache Tablets.

A teacher's faithfulness to school room duty came entirely too close to a tragic ending at the Emerson school yesterday.

Miss Ella Lennon, one of the best known teachers in the building, was suffering from a severe headache when she commenced the day's duties. Instead of quitting her work and going home, as many teachers would have done, she sent a pupil down town for some headache tablets, several of which she took.

In a short time Miss Lennon experienced an unusual feeling and this was followed by an entire loss of speech. Despite every effort, she was unable to utter an audible sound. That condition was followed by a numbness in the members of the body, lowered temperature and retarded circulation.

Naturally, there was genuine alarm at the Emerson school. The principal was called and the emergency promptly met. Willing hands of fellow teachers prepared hot water applications, secured medicines and did everything possible. Miss Lennon seemed a very sick teacher but, as a result of prompt and intelligent ministrations, she took a turn for the better and, in the afternoon, had so far recovered that she was able to be taken to her home in a carriage.

It is thought that the headache tablets contained some strong narcotic drug and that, through accident or unfamiliarity with their strength an overdose was taken.

PROMBERGER CASE.

Suit Against His Bondsmen Is On.

The Eastern Railway of Minnesota has commenced suit in circuit court of Douglas county, Wis., to recover from the bondsmen of John Promberger, formerly of this city, who was given the contract for handling freight at the Eastern dock about wo years ago. It is alleged that Promberger failed to fulfill his contract with the company and that when he left he also left a large number of men unpaid for their work, forcing the railroad company to secure the men and do the work itself. When Promberger threw up his contract the amount that was outstanding against him was several thousand dollars. This amount the railway company made good and now seeks to recover. Demand has been made of the bond company that they meet the loss, but it refused.

J. A. Murphy, attorney for the railroad company has gone to Scranton, Pa., to take the deposition of George Slade, who was superintendent of the Eastern at the time Promberger was given the freight handling contract.

BOUGHT MORE BONDS.

SICK HAIR

Few people realize that their hair is sick when it shows signs of falling and that in its feeble way it is crying for nourishment. If your hair is falling or dry or turning gray it is very evident that it is not enjoying good health; therefore, the only intelligent thing to do is to treat it.

Give it medicine and not dye. Dye is a relic of barbarism, and should be shunned by all refined people, aside from the vulgarity of the act. All hair dyes are injurious, and it is an impossibility to make a hair dye that is not, as nitric of silver, lead, sulpher, copper and other poisonous minerals compose their ingredients. Civilization has progressed in the last decade so effectively that the hair can now be restored to its natural color without dye.

Mme. H. Yale's Hair Tonic

is a life-giving fluid to the hair, and the only remedy on record in the history of the world that has the power to restore the natural color of gray hair. It is a medicine that strengthens and invigorates—giving circulation to the natural coloring fluids and action to the oil ducts. It tones up the debilitated nerve force and STOPS HAIR FALLING in twenty-four hours.

IT CURES DANDRUFF,

makes fair grow on bald heads, softens dry, harsh hair; gives gloss and richness to the natural color, produces a luxurient growth and is a positive cure for all manner of hair and scalp diseases. Scientifically compounded by the great woman chemist, Mme. M. Yale, after her formula from her analysis of the human hair.

RESTORES FADED HAIR.

July 24, 1900.

Madam Yale.—Your Hair Tonic is all that it is recommended to be. From long and severe illness my hair had become faded and dead; before I had used one bottle the natural color and lustre were restored. It has a marvelous effect on faded hair.

WIRELESS

System of Telegraphy Approved By Naval Equipment Bureau.

Washington, May 15.—Admiral Bradford, chief of the naval bureau of equipment, gave out the following extract from the report of the board which has investigated the question of transmitting messages by wireless telegraphy:

"From the examination of the subject as outlined in the orders of the department, the board makes the following recommendations:

"1—That the use of homing pigeons be discontinued as soon as wireless telegraphy is introduced into the navy.

"2—That pending such action, no new pigeon cotes be established.

"3—That wireless telegraphy be adopted by the navy for transmission of messages between distant points.

"Referring to the last recommendation the board is of the opinion that a high decree of special electrical training is demanded for the special operation of any system of wireless telegraphy, and it therefore suggests as necessary the establishment of two stations, sufficiently far removed from each other for the training of officers and men. In its opinion this requirement would be best met by the equipment of stations at the navy yard, Washington, and the naval academy, Annapolis. If wireless telegraphy fulfills what now seems to be its possibilities, the cadets should be thoroughly trained in it.

"As the investigation made by this board is not technical, there being no apparatus of any kind ready for test, but general in its character, such partial extensions as outlined above would not change the recommendations already made.

"The selection of any special system of wireless telegraphy is, in the opinion of the board, very largely a matter of business detail.

"If, for any reason, any competitive test of different systems is thought desirable, the board recommends, in view of the fact that the Marconi apparatus will not be available for several months, and that improvement in any other systems may occur in that interval, that it be made only after due notice and preparation therefor, and by a special board of experts appointed for the purpose."

CAUGHT IN THE SLUMP

Recent Flurry In Wall Street Hit Some People Hard.

A Southwestern Senator Lost Seventy-Five Thousand Dollars.

The President and Hanna Also Said to Be Losers.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wall street caught a few distinguished gentlemen last week. A Southwestern senator, it is stated, lost $75,000 in a day. If his name was mentioned it would create a good deal of gossip in the Southwest. He is not a man able to speculate, but has been given certain "tips" by his friends in the senate, and the unexpected drop in Northern Pacific stock left him without a cent. The fever of speculation attacked all classes, from United States senators to messenger boys. There was a good deal doing in the bucket shops in Washington, as well as in Wall street, last week.

The Western senator mentioned is not considered a speculator, by any means. He is regarded in the United States senate as the "Holman" of that body. It will be recalled that Representative Holman of Indiana was looked upon as the watch dog of the treasury. This Western senator is a member of the appropriations committee of the upper house. He never loses sight of the fact that the country and the treasury should be protected either in committee or in debate. It seems, therefore, rather odd that this senator, who is so anxious to keep down government appropriations, lost $75,000 on one deal in a Washington bucket shop. It is said that, attracted by the spectacle of rapidly increasing prices, he had gone into the market, dealing on margins in the office of a local bucket shop and had made an excellent deal, as he considered it, of $100,000. This senator was unwise enough to put all his profits up, principally on Western railroad stocks (Northern Pacific).

When the crash came, an Eastern senator endeavored to "margin" the Southwestern senator's deal, but as the amount was so great he was unable to do so. Thus something like $200,000 involved. The personal loss to the senator from the Southwest, who, as is well-known, only draws $5000 a year, made, for him, at one time the most extravagant deal in his life. Today he is sorry; so is the Eastern senator who endeavored to carry his bucket shop transaction. It is stated in Washington, it might be added, that in government departments many pools had been formed, into which each senator put from $25 to $100 for investment through local brokers. All of these pools have been wiped out. A young woman in the treasury department who recently inherited $5000 through a life insurance policy, put it all into the stock market. Profits amounted to about $14,000 up to Tuesday evening. The drop in stocks on Wednesday and Thursday cleaned out all her profits and her original $5000.

James G. Blaine, Jr., is a well-known speculator in stocks. Within the past year, it is believed, Mr. Blaine has beaten the market for something upwards of $250,000. Mr. Blaine is a conspicuous figure during market hours at a well-known stock jobbing house on F street, in this city. When he is not playing the stock market business, he is usually found in an automobile with Miss Hitchborn, to whom he will be married June 12. Mr. Blaine is referred to incidentally for the reason that he was "caught short" on Northern Pacific stock on Wednesday for $125,000.

There were others who figured in the Northern Pacific deal in Washington. One of the men said to have been speculating on Northern Pacific stock was no less a person than William McKinley, president of the United States. His agent is also a distinguished politician and statesman. Marcus A. Hanna, of Cleveland, Ohio, United States senator, and the maker of presidents, was the man who handled President McKinley's money in this stock deal and not only lost it, but, it is believed, $200,000 or $300,000 which he personally invested.

Then there are others. Some people who seem to know about the crash in Wall street think that Secretary Gage of the treasury department invested quite a bit of money and lost. It is further stated that the "tip" given to the president and others under him in official life was furnished by Daniel Lamont, at one time private secretary to Grover Cleveland, and after that secretary of war, and at present one of the men in charge of the Northern Pacific railroad. These matters are merely mentioned to show that ofttimes presidents, cabinet members and others fail to get the right tip on the stock market.

Not long ago former Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota made in Wall street, so it is believed, upwards of $200,000 in two days. Mr. Pettigrew, it will be recalled, prides himself upon the fact that he is an anti-trust man, an anti-monopolist; and while in the senate frequently declared that the people of the country were being robbed continually by Wall street brokers. In view of the fact that Mr. Pettigrew left the senate without his own consent, he dabbled in stocks, suggested by James J. Hill, and made a quarter of a million dollars within a very brief period. Mr. Hill, the man who "tipped" Mr. Pettigrew, dabbled a little bit himself just previous to informing Mr. Pettigrew that there was money in investing in the Northern Pacific railroad. It is said that Mr. Hill, with the exception of J. Pierpont Morgan, has made more money in speculation than any other man in the world. It is rumored in the West, if not in the East, that he cleared up $4,000,000 within a week in Wall street. The Vanderbilts, the Goulds and Dr. Depew lost this amount. This is history in New York, and well known among financiers all over the United States.

A STRENGTHENER

Vinol Promptly Overcomes Weakness.

DEBILITY OFTEN PRECEDES COMPLETE COLLAPSE.

We Want Every One to Know How to Get Strong.

OUR VINOL IS A STRENGTH CREATOR.

The saddest sight on earth is a broken-down man or woman.

We see such people every day right here in our city.

It is pitiful to see a man that should be in his prime dragging himself through life dejected, discouraged and broken down, due to some premature weakness. It does not make any difference whether this weakness is the result of dissipation, indiscreet living or disease; it can be overcome.

We have known of many very serious cases of debility quickly overcome by Vinol.

Vinol is a scientific rebuilder and strength creator. It contains the active curative principles of Cod-Liver Oil in a highly concentrated form. The benefit that can be derived from the use of these properties is so well known that there is no need for us to enter into that subject.

We could quote many instances where Vinol has done good; as an example, here is one coming from Jane S. Fenfren, a prominent member of the W. C. T. U., and a resident of Suncook, N. H. She writes:

"I was run down, was in bed from May to March. Was so nervous and sickly that every one thought I was in a most precarious condition. My weight was reduced to 120 pounds. I was advised to take Vinol, which I did, and am now very much better, and am able to be about again. As a rebuilder and a strength giver nothing can equal it. Vinol is a God-blessing to anybody."

Because Vinol is delicious, and because it does contain these much-sought-after medicinal properties we endorse it, and we unhesitatingly proclaim that it is better than any preparation of cod-liver oil or tonic rebuilder we have ever had in our store.

HE MARRIED ANOTHER

And a Fair Wellesleyan Replevined Her Presents.

Boston, Mass., May 15.—Because Miss Annie B. Pennman, a wealthy and beautiful Wellesley graduate of Broadway, Lawrence, felt that her outraged feelings would not permit her to leave in the offices of Dr. James R. Berwick her college mementoes, she has replevined them, and while the doctor is basking in the smiles of his wife, the one who says she was to be his wife is considering whether she can or cannot afford to risk a breach of promise suit.

Deputy Sheriff Cole served a replevin writ on Dr. Berwick at his office on Broadway, Methuen, and a keeper was placed in the office. The writ called for hall and office carpets, curtains, couch, rugs, tidies, a Wellesley college pin, Wellesley college banner, pictures, etc. The keeper remained in the office in charge for a night and day. A large wagon was loaded with the articles replevined and the office was left bare.

Ten years ago Dr. James R. Berwick was a blacksmith's helper. Through the interest taken in him by Miss Penniman he was sent to Phillips, Andover and to Exeter, where he made his mark in athletics, winning the championship mile.

During his collegiate career Berwick was assisted by the young woman, it being understood that when the doctor became established in business he was to marry the young woman. When he became a full-fledged M. D. the young woman paid the bills for the fitting up of the office and contributed to the adornment of his office here own prized college banner and pictures of her alma mater, Wellesley. Once established in Methuen, Dr. Berwick soon attained a practice. On April 24 Dr. Berwick took to himself a wife, but not his friend and benefactress. He married Miss Blanche M. Hall, a school teacher in the Arlington district of the town. She is the daughter of Henry N. Hall, a leading business man of the town.

If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or water-brash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which will no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. Max Wirth.

DEAD BEYOND DOUBT.

Strange Case of Miss McDonald at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., May 15.—Not until Sunday morning, forty-three hours after Miss Dora McDonald had apparently passed from life, did Dr. George S. Field pronounce her dead. She is the young woman who was pronounced dead by her friends, but whose relatives refused to believe the spark was extinguished because of the warmth of the flesh about the heart. It was the fourth time, so the doctor asserts, that Miss McDonald had lapsed into a state of suspended animation during her lifetime of 26 years. All recognized tests used in detecting the presence of death, such as the use of the mirror, ammonia and indentations of the skin utterly failed in the case. The eyes seemed encased in a fluid, such as follows death.

In the early hours Sunday morning the watchers at the bedside of Miss McDonald were startled by a peculiar quivering of the muscles of the young woman's body extending from the neck to the lower portion of the abdomen. It was sincerely believed that she was coming back to life. The hope was soon lost, however. The heat left the body almost immediately. Unquestionably signs of death's embrace appeared. Several hours later Dr. Fields pronounced the young woman dead. All the cause of death is given as "paralysis of the heart."

DEAL OF OILINESS

John D. Rockefeller Gets Control of the Linseed Trust.

Standard Company Has Thus Secured a Practical Monopoly.

The Advantages Will Include a Large Saving In Freights.

New York, May 15.—The Standard Oil company has secured the control of the American Linseed Oil company through a purchase of stock direct from large holders and through taking the recent bond issue of $6,000,000, which the company put out to secure needed working capital.

This is a story that Wall street has, and while official confirmation cannot be secured, President Major says undoubtedly big interests are behind the recent purchase of the bonds and stocks.

The Standard Oil company, through the purchase of the Linseed Oil company, can secure a practical monopoly of the manufacture of linseed oil in the United States. The American Linseed Oil company has in the neighborhood of fifty mills and manufactures 85 per cent of the linseed oil made in the United States and a like percentage of the oil cake, which forms an important article of export.

The American Linseed company is the successor of the National Linseed Oil company, whose mills were taken over in 1898, with a number of independent mills which have been active competitors. It owns mills in various parts of the country having a total capacity of 500 presses. In addition to the manufacturing plant, it has tank stations and tank car lines and holds constantly a large quantity of flaxseed for manufacture into linseed oil. In fact, the bulk of the flaxseed product in the United States is taken by the American Linseed company, and it has largely made prices for the flaxseed.

The company has outstanding $16,750,000 common stock, and a like amount of 7 per cent noncumulative preferred. No dividends have been paid on the common. The preferred, after paying dividends from the time of its organization until last September, went out of the list of dividend-payers. The company got in financial straits some time ago, and it was found necessary to secure working capital through an issue of bonds. Arrangements were made with Blair & Co. for placing the bonds, of which $6,000,000 were put out. These are the bonds which it is said have been bought by the Standard Oil company. The Standard Oil company is the largest customer of the American Linseed company. It takes a large part of the oil produced and ships it South. The advantages of absorption by the Standard Oil would include a saving in freights through bringing linseed oil from Western mills to the seaboard in the Standard's tank cars, which might otherwise be brought back empty.

AT CASS LAKE.

Baseball Game Postponed---The "Nutshell" Burned.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The game of baseball which was to have been played here last Sunday between the local team and the Bemidji Buffaloes, was declared off, on account of the cold weather. The Cass Lake team will go to Bemidji next Friday and will try conclusions with the Buffaloes for a purse of $20. That day will be celebrated at Bemidji by the Norwegians, being the 17th of May.

A building known as the "Nutshell" was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon. A painter was putting tar on the roof, and left the pot of boiling tar on the stove while he went away from the building. The pot boiled over, setting the place afire. The fire was confined to the "Nutshell," although an adjoining ice house caught fire several times. The building was owned by W. T. Koveney, of Minneapolis; no insurance.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

SUFFERING FOR THE Sins of Another

Blood Poison is an universal disease. The enlightened nations of the world, as well as the savage, have been contending with this monster scourge for centuries past. Civilization has not checked its progress. Scientists have discovered little concerning the character of this peculiar poison; they admit it to be a blood disease, for which they know no antidote or cure. Their Mercury and Potash preparations hide the symptoms, but cannot destroy the virus. This disease is so highly contagious that persons handling the clothing, using the same brush or towel, drinking from the same vessel, are inoculated. The deepest misery and humiliation have followed the kiss of affection. Though guilty of no wrong, the person who contracts the disease in this way endures the same physical suffering that the guilty one does. How often is the proud parent horrified when he finds the disease he so confidently believed had been forever driven from his own blood has been transmitted to his innocent child; its little body tortured with sores, the glands of the neck swollen and knotted and the skin a-fire with some burning, itching eruption. The symptoms of this hideous disease cannot be mistaken; eruptions upon the skin, sores or ulcers in the mouth and throat, copper-colored splotches on different parts of the body and the loss of hair and eyebrows, are infallible signs of Contagious Blood Poison. Other and more destructive symptoms follow, of course, as the disease progresses; the whole skin surface is often covered with a mass of sores, and even bone and tissue are destroyed. This is not a simple disease; do not trifle with it; terrible as are the immediate effects, it is horrible to think that through your carelessness or neglect others may have to suffer for your sin. You may have taken the usual remedies, but the aching bones and slight rheumatic pains, the annoying little ulcers and pimples that periodically break out, remind you that you are not cured; that the poison is still in your system.

S. S. S. is a specific for this disease. That it does antidote this peculiar virus, an experience of many years has proven beyond doubt. It is no experiment to take S. S. S. It has demonstrated in thousands of cases its curative powers. Being strictly a vegetable remedy makes it safe; there can be no bad after effect, as is the case where Mercury and Potash treatment has been taken. It eradicates Contagious Blood Poison completely and permanently from the system and removes all possible danger of contaminating others or transmitting it to posterity. It not only destroys the disease in the early stages, but even the worst cases give way when the system comes under the influence of S. S. S. Get this poison out of your blood; it is a barrier to domestic happiness; it wrecks both body and mind. Many a bright intellect has been clouded and happy life blighted by this terrible plague.

SSS

If, unfortunately, you have contracted Contagious Blood Poison, send for our book and learn all about this disease. Every symptom and stage is described so clearly and minutely that after reading it you can treat your own case successfully. Should you at any time need any special advice, you have only to write our physicians; we make no charge for this.

AN INNOCENT VICTIM.

Some eight years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. The little child lingered along until it was about two years old, when its little life was yielded up to the fearful poison. For six long years I have suffered untold misery. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot, and in my great extremity I prayed to die. No language can express my feelings of woe during these long years. I had the best medical treatment. Several physicians treated me, but all to no purpose. The mercury and potash seemed to add fuel to the awful flame which was devouring me. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it to try S. S. S. We got two bottles, and felt hope again revive in my breast—hope for health and happiness again. I improved from the start, and a complete and perfect cure was the result. S. S. S. is the only blood remedy which reaches desperate cases.

GOOD TRICK.

How a Practical Joke Saved Fifty Men's Lives.

Pittston, Pa., May 15.—A joke is a joke the world over, but when a trick saves fifty lives, it must be regarded as a worthy proposition. Pat Dempsey planned a trick on his Yiddish friend, Max Kaufman, and the whole shift in the Pittston mine waited to hear the roar. This wait saved their lives. The cars on which they should have made their trip to the mouth went up empty, and the miners went back in the shaft to await the arrival of Kaufmann, who had a kick coming.

After a minute's wait they heard an awful roar near the lift away, and "Joe" Kain, a venturesome fellow, looked up and saw a great cloud of black tumbling down. He had just time enough to step back into a breast when the mass struck the bottom of the shaft. Only the wheels and iron rods were left of the cars. The woodwork was left in the shutle.

The audience that was waiting to laugh at Kaufmann forgot all about Dempsey's joke and started upon a hurry hunt for the "Yiddish," who is an extremely popular man in the mines. They feared that he had discovered the trick played upon him and had gone up on the cars to avoid the laugh of the crowd. He was found safe and sound, trying to figure out who had worked the trick on him.

A SENSATION.

Buffalo Millionaire Becomes a Policeman at the Exposition.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 15.—Harry Hamlin, millionaire society leader and a member of one of Buffalo's oldest and most aristocratic families, has caused a sensation in this city by becoming a special city policeman. Mr. Hamlin took the oath incidental to the appointment Saturday morning, and the tongues of the exclusive set in Buffalo's society were set a-wagging. Just why Mr. Hamlin desired to become a policeman has not yet been learned. He went to the office of the police commissioners Saturday morning, however, and had a long conference with those officials. At the conclusion of the interview Commissioner Cooper called in his clerk, and then swore Mr. Hamlin in as a special city policemtn. It is understood that Mr. Hamlin at first asked to be appointed a detective. Upon being informed that such a position could be attained by a civil service examination and appointment, the millionaire agreed to compromise on the appointment as special policeman.

Mr. Hamlin's action has caused widespread comment in Buffalo. He is one of the most prominent men in the city and a member of the executive committee of the Pan-American exposition.

The monster boa constrictor which escaped from the Pan-American exposition several days ago was discovered by two boys in a field near Echota, a suburb of Niagara Falls. The boys, in an ecstacy of terror, after stumbling over the reptile, which is nearly 23 feet long, ran for dear life, followed by the snake. A woman drawn by two horses passed in front of the snake and the boa constrictor threw his deadly coils around the throat of one of the horses and quickly strangled it to death. The other terrified animal, kicking itself free from the traces, ran for two miles and then suddenly dropped dead, apparently from fright. In the meantime the driver of the team had joined the boys in a flight for safety across the field. The boa had not been fed for over two months. When last seen the snake was headed for Niagara Falls.

TERRIBLE TORTURE

Undergone By the Crew of the Wrecked Bark Angola.

Drifted About Many Days Without Food or Water.

Finally Drank the Blood and Ate Brains of Companions.

Victoria, B. C., May 15.—The steamship Empress of India, which arrived yesterday afternoon, brought a terrible tale of shipwreck and cannibalism, which was recounted to the naval court at Singapore by Johansen, a Swede, and Martadna, a Spaniard, sole survivors of nineteen men, who sailed from Cavite on the bark Angola, Oct. 12. They were cast ashore from their raft on Soubt island, of South Natuna group, after forty days of horror, and taken on board a junk a month later, which landed them at Singapore April 23.

The Angola was wrecked on a coral reef when six days out from Manilla, and went to pieces soon after she struck. The boats were smashed and the crew made two rafts out of the wreckage. They had been twenty-two days at sea when one man died, and then one by one the other sailors died and their bodies were thrown to the sharks which followed. A Frenchman went mad and attacked the captain with an ax, and when the mate went to the captain's assistance he killed him with an ax and drank his blood and ate his brains. The others killed the Frenchman and ate part of his body. Then one by one the survivors died until but two were left, who survived on small fish taken with hooked nails and lines made of pieces of canvas. They drifted until after forty-two days of terrible suffering they were washed ashore on the island of Soubi on Nov. 24. By that time their bodies were covered with large boils and they were so weak that they could not walk, but had to crawl on their hands and knees. There were about 200 natives on the island. The men went up to the chief's house and lived there for about two months. They had only currants, mangoes and a little fish to eat. After living there about two months, a Chinese junk arrived from Singapore with a cargo of rice and the survivors went on board her. They stopped on the junk for two months and then went on in her to Pulo Miadi and thence to Singapore.

CIVIC HOLIDAY

Will Be Formal Opening of Buffalo Exposition.

Buffalo, May 14.—The board of aldermen have unanimously voted to make May 20 the dedication day of the exposition, a civic holiday. The resolution included a request to all employers to suspend business and grant a holiday to the persons working here then.

The Porto Rico exhibit seized yesterday by the customs officials has been released with the exception of that portion which is to be taxed 25 per cent for sale. This, according to one of the Porto Rican commissioners, consists of goods for which there is not space enough in the Porto Rican section.

cured so many men who had battled for years against the mental and physical suffering of lost manhood that the institute has decided to distribute free trial packages to all who write. It is a home treatment and all men who suffer with any form of sexual weakness resulting from youthful folly premature loss of strength and memory, weak back, varicocele, or emaciation of parts can now cure themselves at home.

The remedy has a peculiarly grateful effect of warmth and seems to act direct to the desired location, giving strength and development just where it is needed. It cures all the ills and troubles that come from years of misuse of the natural functions and has been an absolute success in all cases. A request to the State Medical Institute, 656 Elektron Building, Ft. Wayne, Ind., stating that you desire one of their free trial packages will be complied with promptly. The Institute is desirous of reaching that great class of men who are unable to leave home to be treated and the free sample will enable them to see how easy it is to be cured of sexual weakness when the proper remedies are employed. The Institute makes no restrictions. Any man who writes will be sent a free sample, carefully sealed in plain package so that its recipient need have no fear of embarrassment or publicity. Readers are requested to write without delay.

FEDERALS.

The Future of the Party In Philippines Is Discussed.

Manilla, May 14.—Since the main declared object of the federalist—peace and American sovereignty, is nearly accomplished, the parties future is discussed. The coming government, to be composed of appointive officials, there will be slight use for party activity outside of the municipal elections. The leaders hope the party will be considered as the semi-official medium between the government and the masses. They are at present endeavoring to obtain the release of a thousand prisoners who were convicted of purely political offences, the contention being that they should have the same amnesty as those who were released when awaiting trials.

The appearance of insular issues will quickly result in the actual foundation of projected opposition parties.

Fifty insurgents were captured this week in the Laguna bay region.

QUEEN OF ROMANIES

Her Mute Contempt For the Order of Any Chancery.

May Cause a Division of Valuable Lovell Estate.

Philadelphia, May 15.—Believing herself above and beyond the orders of any court of law, Queen Rhoda Lovell defies the judges sitting here, and refuses to appear before them to render an accounting for the estate of her husband, the late Seth Lovell, king of the gypsies, who died in this city Oct. 9, 1899. By advertisement and by general summons Queen Lovell has been ordered to appear in the Orphan's court tomorrow, and Benjamin S. Sharp, her surety, will be called upon to forfeit the amount of his bond if she does not. She will not appear.

Mr. Sharp, through his attorney, City Solicitor Norris S. Barratt, has addressed a plea to the courts asking for a delay in the action instituted by Joseph Lovell, who claims to be an heir at law, and seeks to force an early settlement of Seth Lovell's estate, which amounts to many millions of money and vast lands owned by the Lovell tribe of gypsies for more than four centuries. Some of these landed estates were granted to the Lovells by Ferdinand, king of Spain; some by Arthur, prince of Wales, and some by Catherine of Aragon, in whose interest the Lovells moved into England during the reign of Henry VIII.

It was the Lovell tribe of gypsies that carried into England hundreds of cant expressions, slang and some good words which now have recognition in the language of the country. Unlike the filthy, dirty, miserable, so-called gypsy bands of nomads now wandering around the world's four corners, the Lovells have ever been sturdy, honest, powerful people, able and willing to pay their way; intensely proud of their ancestry, and always proclaiming themselves to be kings and queens by inheritance and succession from the early kings of Egypt. Stored in the handsome and valuable wagons now being hauled across the continent by the many horses owned by Queen Lovell are the records showing where every living member of the great world-family of Lovell can be found, and other documents showing where the securities are stored that represent the millions of money accumulated by the tribe during centuries of saving and centuries of earning. It is this wealth that Joseph Lovell and hundreds of other Lovells scattered throughout the entire world want divided, and the Orphans' court of the county of Philadelphia is asked to accommodate Queen Rhoda Lovell, who appears on the records as administratrix, to account for her stewardship and to distribute the funds of the estate.

Queen Rhoda retained Solicitor Barratt because he was counsel for King Lovell. She never intimated to him that the property of the Lovells was invested in anything more than the holdings of record in this city, which, she claimed, were registered in the name of Seth Lovell because he was the recognized trustee for the whole tribe. She said that her king and husband was only one of a hundred or more Seth Lovells, and that he had no more ownership in the general property of the tribe than any one of the other hundred Seth Lovells known to her.

As queen of the tribe she took physical possession of all the books, records, papers, maps and other portable property held for years by her king, Seth Lovell, and mysteriously but promptly disposessed herself of the physical possession of the same, and then fled the jurisdiction of the Philadelphia courts, which seem to be the only legal tribunals before which she can be summoned under any pretext.

Up to this time no proper legal or binding services had been made upon the queen, and her solicitor, Mr. Barratt, will resist every attempt to force a forfeiture of Mr. Sharp's bond because of the non-appearance of Queen Lovell, who, Mr. Sharp says, will appear in court "when she returns to Philadelphia." This important and interesting event may occur next week, next month, next year or never.

In the meantime Lovells from all parts of the world will be clamoring for a share in the vast estate. Joseph Lovell, the plaintiff in the recent action, is not and never was a recognized member of the Lovell tribe. In his petition Joseph Lovell avoids all reference to the ancient history and wonderful achievements of the Lovell tribe—which are fully recorded in carefully written manuscripts stored in safe deposit vaults, written in all parts of the world.

The history of the Lovell tribe is intimately identified with ancient Egypt. The marches of the early tribes to all parts of the then known world are faithfully recorded, and in many particulars have been verified by explorers, travelers and historians. The Lovells have always educated their children, and today members of the tribe are attending liberal colleges and prosecuting their studies under accomplished tutors. The written history of the tribe now under the control of Queen Rhoda Lovell covers over 500 years of progress and reveals the inner secrets of the courts of England and Spain. This history explains a remarkable ceremony that has always been a mystery to students. Gypsies, wherever found, observe a general holiday on May 19, and nobody except members of the several tribes have ever been able to learn why. This ceremony includes the hanging of a woman in effigy and the lavish bestowal of favors, gifts and hospitality upon all comers.

From this history, which has been handed down from father to son in the Lovell tribe, it appears that the Lovells were powerful in Spain during the reign of King Ferdinand, who induced the then king of the gypsies, by name Seth Lovell, to emigrate to England, whence Catherine of Aragon had gone as the bride of Arthur, prince of Wales. Educated women born in the tribe were admitted to the court of Henry III through the kind offices of the countess of Richmond, grandmother of King Henry, and the earl of Surrey, his closest friend. These gypsy women were, according to Lovell history, really spies in the service of King Ferdinand, who aimed to have Catherine of Aragon united in marriage with her brother-in-law, Henry VIII, and, unknown to Ferdinand, King Henry's advisers wanted the marriage to occur to avoid paying to Catherine the splendid revenues to which she was entitled as the princess of Wales. This marriage was finally proclaimed, and Ferdinand soon afterward seized the kingdom of Navarre as a result of pre-arranged inactivity on the part of the English monarch.

Then came the proposition to divorce Catherine of Aragon by proceedings in annulment. The king wanted to take Anne Boleyn to wife, to do which the banishment of Catherine had first to be accomplished. Despite the best efforts of church and state the king persisted and the gypsy friends of Catherine introduced Elizabeth Barton, an English born member of the Lovell tribe, at court, when, face to face with King Henry VIII, she called down the wrath of God upon his head and prophesied his disgraceful end. The gypsy woman, Elizabeth Barton, and six others who planned her dramatic appearance at court, were hanged by an imperial decree, the issuance of which was secured by Anne Boleyn. Only a few years later Jane Seymour, an English born gypsy, won the heart of the fickle Henry, and she, with the powerful aid of the Lovells, plotted the ruin of Anne Boleyn, who, with Lord Rochford, Weston and Brereton, were finally sentenced to death. Anne Boleyn was hanged on May 13, 1536, and Catherine of Aragon was avenged.

No published record of this remarkable series of events in English history gives this version of the affair, but the documents and data displayed by Seth Lovell during his lifetime verify this review in every detail. It is the anniversary of the hanging of Anne Boleyn that gypsies everywhere celebrate with joy on May 19.

If Joseph Lovell succeeds in establishing his claim to a share in the estate of Seth Lovell, pretty much everybody of that name who can prove English or Spanish ancestry will have a fair chance of participating in the fortune which is conservatively estimated at $25,000,000.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

J. C. Sneller, a brakeman on the Chicago & Northwestern road, was killed early Tuesday just north of Mankato. A freight train broke in two and when the engineer slowed down for a crossing the two parts of the train came together with terrible force. Sneller was thrown down between the rails. His head was crushed to a pulp, one arm broken and hand hurt.

Every gambling house in Montana closed Tuesday, Attorney General Donovan having instructed every county attorney to see that they were closed or else he would prosecute against them for neglect of duty. It is the most radical step ever taken in Montana and the first time since the discovery of gold that faro has not been dealt in the state.

Miss Theda Clark, one of the largest owners in the Kimberly and Clark Paper company which operates fifteen paper mills in Wisconsin and Michigan, an heiress to two million dollars, was married Tuesday to W. C. Peters, of Goshen, Ind., at Neenah.

The degree of Doctor of Laws has been conferred upon William McKinley. Only twice before since the founding of the Berkeley university in 1868 has this degree been bestowed.

The Owatonna authorities were notified of the death of Joseph Seitz, ten miles south of that city, and investigation showed that the man had committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid and had been dead perhaps two weeks. The body was badly decomposed and his face and throat were nearly eaten away by acid.

Delirious from the ravages of erysipelas and practically blind, "Billy" Rice, the old-time minstrel, was Tuesday taken from the National hotel to the county hospital, at Chicago. His friends say his condition is such that there is little hope for recovery. Rice became ill about three weeks ago and has been steadily failing.

Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured

"At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says Geo. E. Cary, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va. "After using several well recommended medicines without success, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and am pleased to say that relief came as soon as I began its use and a complete cure speedily followed. This remedy has also been used in my family for frost bitten feet with the best results. I cheerfully recommend its use to all who may need a first-class liniment." Sold at Boyce's Drug store.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of four hundred and one and 50-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by John O. Hole, an unmarried man, mortgagor, to H. Nordstrom, mortgagee, bearing date the eighth day of July, 1890, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Saint Louis and state of Minnesota, on the tenth day of July, 1890, at 4 o'clock p. m., in Book 43 of mortgages, on page 595.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by said H. Nordstrom, mortgagee, to Wirt H. Cook, by written assignment dated this twentieth day of April, 1901, and recorded in the office of said register of deeds, on the sixth day of May, 1901, at 9 o'clock a. m., in Book 186 of mortgages, on page 12, said Wirt H. Cook being now the owner and owner of record thereof, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: Lots one (1), two (2) and three (3), and northwest quarter of the northeast quarter (nw¼ of ne¼) of section eight (8), in township sixty-three (63) north of range seventeen (17) west, containing one hundred sixty-six and 25-100 acres more or less according to the government survey thereof, in Saint Louis County and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Saint Louis County, at the front door of the county court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county and state, on the twenty-second day of June, 1901, at ten o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of four hundred one and 50-100 dollars, and interest and the taxes, if any, on said premises and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated May 8, A. D. 1901.

WIRT H. COOK, Assignee of Mortgage.

IT SHOWS STRENGTH

Wheat Started Out at an Advance and Rose Steadily.

Shorts Frightened By Light Volume of Rain In Southwest.

The Drouth In Kansas Is Reported Still Unbroken.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 15.—The wheat market started out higher this morning and prices rose steadily during the early part of the session. The cause of the advance was a scare among the shorts on account of the light rainfall in Kansas and Oklahoma, where heavy rains are much needed by the growing crop. The drouth in Kansas is still unbroken and the situation is becoming serious. The advance in prices was also helped by the steadiness of the cables. Liverpool wheat showing a loss of only ½d in the face of the sharp decline in the American markets yesterday. Primary receipts of wheat were 325,000 bus, last year 522,000 bus. Shipments were 1,-296,000, last year 253,000. Clearances of wheat and flour were 288,000 bus. At the seaboard yesterday exporters bought 88,000 bus of wheat.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 152 cars, against 142 last week and 175 last year. Chicago receipts, 46 cars, 2 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was dull on the Duluth board, July wheat opening 1c off at 73¾c, sold up to 74¾c at 10:04, reacted to 73⅝c at 11:10, recovered to 74c at 12:02, fell back to 73⅝c at 12:11, sold at 73¾c at 12:30, reacted to 73c at 12:50 and closed at that price, an advance of ⅝c. Minneapolis advanced ⅝@⅞c.

Cash sales were 25,000 bus at July price. Corn was active in Chicago today and there was a lively time for the shorts. There was a rumor that Armour had settled 650,000 bus at 53½c. Phillips said he had settled with some one, but would not say who. The opening in May corn was at 54c, the closing rice of yesterday, and the price was quickly run up to 60c, settled back to 58¾c and then went up to 60c again. The close was at 58c. July corn also advanced ⅝@¾c. Corn in Duluth showed no change in price. Primary receipts of corn were 450,000 bus, last year 316,000. Shipments 714,000, last year 640,000. Clearances of corn were 677,000 bus.

There was also a stiff advance in the price of oats at Chicago. May closed at 29c, an advance of 2½c, and July closed ¾c up. There was no change in the price at Duluth.

May flax was up again closing at an advance of 3½c. September was 2c off.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard cash, 75c; to arrive, 75c; May, 76c; September, 71⅝c. No. 1 northern, cash, 74c; to arrive, 74c; May, 74c; September, 70⅝c; July, 74c. No. 2 northern, 70c. No. 3 spring, 66c. Oats, 25½@26c. Rye, 50c. Flax, cash, $1.44½; to arrive, $1.74½; May, $1.74½; September, $1.28; September Northwestern, $1.20; October, $1.28. Corn, 42c; May, 42¾c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 30 cars; corn, 12; rye, 5; flax, 1. Receipts—Wheat, 4106; corn, 11,874; rye, 5388; flax, 326. Shipments—Wheat, 429,342; corn, 183,069; barley, 857; rye, 40,000.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Shorts Frightened and Caused an Advance.

Chicago, May 15.—Disappointment in the volume of rain which fell in Kansas and Oklahoma frightened wheat shorts today and brought about a fair advance. Steady cables also helped. July opened a shade to ¼@⅝c higher, at 71⅞@71¾c, and rose steadily to 73⅝c. Kansas remains the central feature of observation, and there with the exception of intermittent showers, the drouth is reported unbroken, though local thunder storms are predicted for that state, Nebraska and the Dakotas. Local receipts, 46 cars, 2 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 152 cars, against 142 last week and 175 a year ago.

Wheat was held later by the corn strength. July sold to 72¾c, reacted to 71½@c, rallied again and closed strong, ⅝c higher, at 73⅝@¾c.

Corn was strong on dull trading. There was an immediate rush of selling orders causing a break. An advance to 55¾c followed. May rose sharply on small transactions. It opened unchanged at 54c and rose to 56c. Local receipts were 291 cars, 61 of contract grade.

July corn after touching 55¾c, reacted ½c, but closed strong, ⅝c higher, at 55¼c.

Oats were active and strong on dry weather and buying orders from the bull leaders in corn. July opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 27⅜@¾c, and sold to 28¾c. Strong bidding for May brought no offerings. May opened ⅛c higher, at 28c and rose to 30c. Local receipts were 104 cars.

Provisions were dull but steady in sympathy with grain. July pork opened 10@12½c lower at $14.06@14.50, and sold to $14.70. July lard opened unchanged at $7.87½, and July ribs unchanged at $7.85.

NEW RECORD PRICE.

Chicago, May 15.—May corn, which has been cornered on the board of trade and which has been inactive for ten days past, advanced to a new high price record today, when it sold at 60c per bus. This is the highest price since the corner of May, 1892. Phillips, who formed the corner, bid the market up but secured only a few small lots. It was rumored on 'change that he had permitted shorts to settle for 500,000 bus privately at 60c. A net gain of 4c was registered at the close for May which was at 58c.

WEARE'S REPORT.

Chicago, May 15.—The wheat market contains a stubborn front to the attack of the bears, whose arguments were early considerably strengthened by various features. The map showed rain at Oklahoma and Texas and some showers in Kansas, but the local crowd had oversold yesterday, thus fully discounting the benefits of rain. The crop talk, however, was not all one-sided, and the character of the buying at times intimated a belief in recent reports relative to the crop outlook in the Southwest. The strength in corn and oats was also a help. Armour's shipments 659,000 bus. New York reports 6 loads taken for export. Wheat is essentially a scalping market for the present, quick turns being the order of the day and allowing of good profits on either side.

May corn has been up to 60c a bushel after opening at 54. May has naturally been spectacular owing to the congestion existing which was considerably helped by the settlement this morning of some 700,000 bus in the lot at the top price. July and September have been very active, the July at 45¾c and September at 45½c. Small receipts received have been the factor. In view of the prices, the size of receipts coming to hand is very small and has forced many of the shorts to get under cover.

There has been a very large oat market with the May selling up to 31c and the July to 28¾c. The bull leader reported that he had disposed of all his cash holdings, about 400,000 bus, causing good covering and investment buying of the deferred futures. Reports continue to be very bad indeed, regarding crop prospects and the entire situation has been eminently favorable to the bull sentiment existing.

There has been an utter absence of any interest in the provision market, scarcely any trade and no features, there were 34,000 hogs West, against 77,000 a year ago, 20,000 here with 31,000 estimated for tomorrow.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago May 15.—The wheat market ruled firm all day purely in sympathy with the strength in the coarse grains and closed ⅝c lower than last night. The foreign markets were generally quiet and rains were reported in Kansas. Liverpool reported their market ½d lower for the day. Continental markets were also lower. The weather abroad continues favorable for the growing crops and in this country, is all that could be desired, and timely rains in the Southwest insures a large crop there. There was a fairly good cash demand here and the seaboard reported a moderate business done there for export. Trade was fairly large all day, and shorts were liberal buyers. While we are inclined to think the cash demand will sustain present prices of nearby options, still later on in the season crop prospects will govern the situation. Estimated receipts for tomorrow, 35 cars.

There was a very large trade in corn today and the market ruled firm on buying by local bulls. Prices during the day advanced 1c per bus, but towards the end of the session eased off some on profit-taking. The close, however, was steady, ⅝c higher than last night. The May option was bid up from 54 to 60c and while some settlements were reported, still they lacked confirmation. Trade in the pit in this option was light and closed nominally at 58c. The foreign markets were generally steady. Country offerings were somewhat larger and farmers in this state are reported to be selling freely. Cash demand is as dull as ever and it is impossible to effect sales except at a sacrifice. Weather throughout the corn belt was all that could be desired. The manipulation in the May option keeps the market very nervous. Estimated receipts for tomorrow, 250 cars.

Oats ruled firm all day on buying by local bulls, as well as by shorts. Prices advanced ⅝c per bus and the market closed firm ⅝c higher than last night. The May option which is manipulated was bid up from 27⅝c to 31c and closed at 30¾c. Country offerings were moderate but the advance in the market checked all cash business. There were some unfavorable crop reports. Estimated receipts for tomorrow 140 cars.

IT IS DOLE

Who Is the Hawaiian Usurper Instead of Ex-Queen Lil.

Honolulu, May 8, via San Francisco, May 15.—By the steamer Mariposa today Home Rule Representative W. B. Beckley, Hon. Samuel Parker and Delegate R. W. Wilcox left for San Francisco.

Beckley goes to lay before President McKinley a home rule resolution passed in the house and senate, asking for the removal of Governor Dole.

Parker has a memorial, unanimously endorsed by the Republican members of both houses and by the territorial Republican central committee, replying to the home rule charges against Governor Dole.

Representative Wilcox is on his way back to Washington and says he has nothing to do with the fight. When the resolution was brought up in the house to send Berkley to Washington, Representative Emmuluth (home ruler) made a speech against Governor Dole, in which he declared that the conditions that led to the revolt in 1893 had developed again, with Dole now the usurper of power instead of the ex-queen.

ADVANCE IN STOCKS

Started Higher, Slumped Off But Recovered After Noon.

Early Losses Wiped Out With Only Few Exceptions.

Closing Slightly Unsettled But Mainly Firm and Active.

New York, May 15.—London sent some good gains for Americans today, in spite of reports of several small failures in that market, incident to the settlement. St. Paul was up 3¼ at 2 o'clock and had been 7¼ up earlier. The opening here was rather quiet and slightly irregular, but fractional gains predominated. St. Paul was up 3¼, Atchison 2¾, Union Pacific 2½ and other railroads between 1 and 2. The gains did not hold. St. Paul broke 2 points and other stocks a point or over, and the market became highly irregular, but with no sign of disorder.

Opening gains were largely reduced and in some cases prices went materially below yesterday's close on a renewal of liquidation. Northern Pacific sold under the short settlement price for the first time. The principal losses were Northwest 5 points; 5 in Northern Pacific, 4 in Consolidated Gas and New York, Chicago & St. Louis second preferred, 2½ in Union Pacific, 3 in Delaware & Hudson and Missouri Pacific and 2¼ 2½ in Chicago Terminal preferred, St. Louis, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, Sugar, Atchison, Southern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper. The lower level attracted buying and the standard railroads and leading metallics rallied 1 to 3 points with Union Pacific leading. Recoveries, however, were not fully maintained and the market was irregular again at 11 o'clock.

A spasm of liquidation found the market without support and prices fell to far, below last night's level. Losses of 1 to 3 points were general through the list of stocks. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis lost 7⅞, Lake Erie and Western 7, Union Pacific and Missori Pacific 6½, Consolidated Gas 6¼, General Electric 5, Delaware & Hudson 5½. Amalgamated Copper 5½, New York, Chicago and St. Louis second preferred, and American Tobacco 4½, American Express and Denver & Rio Grande 4½; Chicago Great Western preferred B and Louisville, Manhattan and People's Gas 3¾. There were some recoveries before noon, but the demands was insignificant. Bonds were weak.

The market continued very feverish and did not hold the recoveries, but only a few stocks got lower on the next dip than they were before. Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper were most acutely affected, the former touching 95½ and the latter 91½. American Smelting lost 4½, Chicago & Eastern Illinois as much, and General Electric 9¾ in all. The market had steadied up before 1 o'clock, but the buying practically ceased on the rally.

No selling of importance was encountered on the advance that occurred near 2 p. m. and the rally gained force, the volume of dealings increasing at the higher level. Early losses were wiped out with only a few exceptions and many stocks rose strongly over last night, especially among the trunk lines, grangers and Pacifics, in which the net advances extended to 7 points for Rock Island, 5¾ for St. Paul, 4 for Atchison and 3½ for first preferred, 3½ for Burlington and all the principal active stocks, including United States Steel from 1 to 3. Northern Pacific sold down to 91. The closing was slightly unsettled, but in the main firm and active near the top.

CRISIS PASSED.

Settlements Progressing In London Stock Exchange.

London, May 15, 3:27 p. m.—Contrary to the fears felt on the stock exchange, the settlement, thus far, is progressing without difficulty and the best informed brokers believe the crisis has been successfully passed, so far as London is concerned.

Opening prices of Americans, while they showed advances over those of the closing of New York of yesterday, were wholly nominal and there were no transactions.

Four or five small firms are still in trouble, but it will not be known till 5:30 p. m. whether their checks have passed through the bank all right or not. In any case, it will not affect the situation materially, all the big houses needing assistance having obtained it.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 15.—Cotton opened quiet and firm with prices up 3 to 8 points on a flurry of Liverpool buying and demand from nervous shorts. The English market was fully 2½ higher than expected and while it further improved after our opening, the local market eased off under room selling and a withdrawal of early support due to heavy port movement and rains at the South. July sold off from 7.62 to 7.55, with new crop options showing corresponding losses. As the morning wore along business quieted down considerably.

STYLES IN MILLINERY

Flowers, Foliages and Toques Supreme---Fruits In and Out of Season---Ostrich Feathers For Mid-Summer Millinery.

Paris letter to the May Millinery Trade Review: Much of the new millinery brought out for Easter is trimmed with more than a liberal supply of flowers when not entirely made of them. Last month the fate of floral toques and small hats was trembling in the balance. Since then there has been a decided reaction in their favor, thanks to the initiative of a few of the first houses. It is almost superfluous to point out that perfection in this line can only be attained by using the very best quality of flowers and foliage; the second-rate may pass muster when the quantity required is small, whereas, when massed together to cover an entire shape they show to great advantage. The forms used to cover with flowers are more varied than they were earlier in the season, so that a further flavor of novelty is given to these new models by reason of their shape.

Here is one of boat form, almost pointed back and front, made of very pale double violets without leaves, clustered closely together from the edge instead of making this of one sort only, the wreath is often composed of a number of small posies set side by side. Thus, a brown straw toque made up of chip braids, covered with brown lisse, encircled with a wreath of posies containing two posies of each of the following flowers: Half-open, deep-pink rosebuds, mignonette, white marguerites, wild hyacinths and pale-pink hawthorn. Another idea consists in trimming with two or three narrow garlands of different flowers or flowers and cherries.

A plateau hat of black crinoline and fancy straw has a garland of small pink pompon roses outside the brim, and underneath (it is turned up in front), close to the edge, a garland of small red cherries, and further in a second of white pompon roses, while a fancy, yellow straw toque is encircled by a garland of white marguerites and grasses, and further in by a second composed of black velvet marguerites with yellow hearts.

Fashion this season favors innovations in all things, and milliners desirous of combining something particularly elegant will order for its trimming flowers not hitherto seen on the market. I have only as yet come across one hat ornamented with a wreath of ivy geranium, but the idea is certain to take on, the foliage of this plant being extremely decorative, and the flowers lighter and more graceful than ordinary geraniums. In this case they are in two colors, very pale pink and red; the capeline brim has a foundation of green tulle entirely hidden by the foliage, whereas the crown is in pink chip. Sometimes it must be owned the desire for novelty leads astray.

I can not recommend the idea of sewing small bunches of cherries all around the brim of a hat so that the berries dangle over its edge, although in the special instance referred to harmony of color is maintained, the straw shape being green nacre with mauve, and the cherries deep purple, almost black, with a white bloom upon them. Much more becoming is another hat in dark nacre tones wreathed round with bramble, the leaves variegated in tone and the berries red and black.

Fruits and berries are chosen regardless of season. Grapes have already appeared on the scene, those of the very deepest purple having the preference.

A capline in bright, gold-colored straw is turned up in front by a bunch of vine leaves in different shades of green, lightly powdered with gold, and purple fruit. Underneath is are fixed two narrow bands of black velvet carried round so as to rest on the brim and fastened together at the back by a large, round, dull-gold chased button. This hat would suit August better than May.

As flowers and fruits have the honors of the earlier ortion of the season, it is more than probable that feathers will have their turn at midsummer. Dealers in ostrich are confident that there will be a run on feathers at this date and are prepared accordingly. Their new stocks include half-long Amazons in all fashionable colors, more particularly their lighter shades. It is proposed to use two of these feathers of different tints or a colored feather and a white one.

In the meanwhile a good deal is being done with couteaux; slate-gray and brown shades are given the preference, this being often the natural color of the feather or somewhat improved upon by being artificially glace with another tint. The latest way of arranging them is to insert them horizontally into the straw or what not of which the hat is built up.

They are well suited to the trimming of hats and toques of plateau form. Some of these plateau hats are made to lie almost flat the top of the head with merely a slight inclination toward the right, the edge being often turned down instead of up on the opposite side. One such consists of a plateau of very pale blue straw, about ten inches in diameter, mounted on an equally flat wired-net foundation, the edge of which is draped round with folds of navy blue foulard speckled with white, forming a small pouf on the left side. Further back a strap of straw is sewn to the edge of the plateau, over which it is turned back and buttoned. Two blue-gray couteaux are stuck horizontally through the loop so formed. A somewhat similar arangement is carried out on a plateau of cream-white straw, the loop in this case being formed by a folded band of brown velvet secured by a large horseshoe-shaped gold buckle. The couteaux are of a pale chestnut shade, as are the folds of tulle underneath, interwoven with gold thread. Other hats of this sort are of the fancy order. Here is one composed of two wire plateaux covered with pale blue tulle. Both are edged with rouleaux of satin to match, but the upper one is all sewn over with rows of white lou lou about half an inch apart. The plateaux are lifted on the left side of the front above a rosette of the tulle. Two pale gray couteaux are stuck through the right side of the plateaux and lie flat upon them. Another net plateau is covered entirely with marguerites sewn on flat in rows, the first four rows being white and those in the center black, all having yellow hearts. Inch-wide black velvet ribbon is interlaced here and there among the white flowers, and a little knot of the same is placed underneath the brim in front with a small bunch of the black rivers. Plateaux are also arranged so as to curve up on both sides when the trimming is arranged almost symmetrically underneath, rather in front of the ears. A white chip plateaux, pleasing from its very simplicity, is leated back on each side; knots of broad, black velvet, all the loops of which jut forward, are placed underneath.

Shapes tend to become more and more varied. Each milliner makes up her own out of braids, piece straw, plateaux, or wired net, and, therefore, even among one class of shapes, uniformity is avoided. Fashion, as we have seen, favors hats without shaped crowns. Nevertheless, some of the latest creations in broad brimmed hats have moderately high crowns, generally broader at the top, but sometimes broad both top and bottom and narrower between. For these hats any height of crown from the medium down to a slight convexity, not raising it above the brim more than an inch in the center, is admirable.

A very dainty hat with this almost imperceptible crown made of dull yellow, fancy braids, has the brim lifted in front so as to show its under side trimmed with three rows of small pink-and-white pompon roses. The outside decoration consists of fancy lace, the pattern of which is composed of incrustations of pale blue and pink lisse, outlined by dull gold cord. This is arranged so as to cover the brim entirely and overlap it a little in front, two oval brooches set with turquoise fastening it down at the back.

A black straw hat with a very decided crown is trimmed with four black feathers in rather a novel fashion: they are fixed to the center of the crown by a round jet buckle and curve forward over the front of the brim, which is bent slightly over the brow. On the left is a group of three deep pink roses.

At the same time the tricorne is not abandoned, but it is made less rigid in form than hitherto, and has a new rival in the boat-shaped toque. One of the former, made of bright red piece straw, has in each of its three indented curves a bow of black velvet and a bunch of poppy buds.

One of the boat form is made up of wide white, chip braids into which narrow black velvet ribbon is interwoven so as to form a wide check. This has for decoration two small bunches of flowers placed symmetrically on either side of the crown, that on the right being composed of pinkish white, may be framed in hawthorn leaves and the other of crimson-tipped daisies and grasses.

Another of the same shape in chestnut colored straw has a torsade of pale blue gauzze—accordeon pleated and then twisted—encircling the top of the crown so as to be visible above the brim. This is knotted rather far back on the right and then carried over the brim, knotted again and fixed to the outer side, the fringed ends hanging below.

THE NEW TURBAN.

The latest model in turbans has an excessive side tilt and is very becoming to certain faces. This one, built of shirred black chiffon and white lace, has a rim of jet spangled lace over which falls the soft frill of white. Beneath the brim, on the raised side, is a cluster of pink crush roses and green leaves. Courtesy S. Koch & Sons.

of the brim to the top of the crown in a gentle incline. Running from the point in front over the left side is a straight row of greenish-white roses, constituting the only trimming. A small, round, flat toque shape is entirely covered with damask roses and leaves, each flower being mounted separately with a good many leaves, and then placed on the shape, one bunch under the brim behind the ear.

A similar arrangement is carried out in blues. But in this case the flowers are made up into little bunches of three or four, surrounded by green grasses clipped rather short and then sewn side by side over a medium-sized hat shape, with beret crown and brim turned on the left, the under side of this being covered in the same way.

Roses are as fashionable as ever, but they no longer reign alone. Moreover, they are not chosen of any large size; globular-shaped roses and pompons are the kinds most favored, the first damask, deep pink, or white, the latter very light pink and white. Among the other flowers which promise to be the vogue for early summer are half-blown peonies, rhododendron, and hydrangea bloom, white and yellow marguerites, lilies-of-the-valley, forget-me-nots, violas, crimson-tipped daisies and other small wild flowers.

The fashion of trimming with cordons or wreaths of flowers is maintained, but

SUFFERING WOMEN

Marshall, Texas, Aug. 12, 1900.

I am so grateful to you for your valuable medicine, Wine of Cardui. It is wonderful and should be brought to all suffering women. My periods lasted too long. Now they have become regular and have the right color. The pains are not severe and I am strong. The blindness has left me. I feel all right and I know your medicine has cured me.

CORA ANN GARRETT.

There are many more sick women than there are well ones in this city today. The duties which wifehood and motherhood impose too often break the health years before a woman should be past her prime. In thousands of homes every month brings dreadful days spent in suffering the agonies of disordered menses. Nature never intended as necessary and important a function as menstruation to be the cause of pain. We say emphatically and positively that this suffering can be avoided. There is no excuse for racking menstrual pains when Wine of Cardui, the great natural emmenagogue, will bring a quick cure.

WINE OF CARDUI

regulates the menstrual flow perfectly. It not only banishes the pain but forestalls and cures distressing cases of leucorrhoea. Every woman knows the cutting, burning pains of falling of the womb that shoot through the entire body. Wine of Cardui has cured a million such cases. Thedford's Black-Draught is a valuable laxative made to assist Wine of Cardui by regulating the bowels and invigorating the torpid liver. No woman taking Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught has failed of a permanent cure of menstrual troubles when the medicines were used according to directions. Read again what Mrs. Garrett wrote. Your druggist sells Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught.

Practical Suggestions About What to Eat and How to Prepare Food.

This matter will be found to be entirely different from and superior to the usual run of food articles, in that every item is a nugget of culinary wisdom and eminently practical.

FOOD VALUE OF PRUNES.

We are accustomed to rank all fruits as non-essentials among the necessary foods. The cost of fresh fruits prohibits their very general use, except for a limited term when they are in season and very plentiful. A certain class of fruits in common use on our tables contain but little nourishment, although they play an important part in sustaining life in a normal condition, by supplying certain qualities that produce most beneficial results when they are eaten in proper amount, condition and combination.

THE ACID FRUITS.

Acidulous, juicy fruits are depended on more for their refreshing properties, and to give tone to the system by supplying a variety of agreeable acids and large amount of water, than for nutriment.

THE MORE NUTRITIOUS FRUITS.

But we have another class of fruits which yield a very considerable amount of nutritive value, combined with a delicious flavor and tonic or diuretic qualities.

Chief among these is the prune, and a home-grown product. This fruit has not, until recently, had the recognition it so richly deserves. It is in truth one of our most useful and valuable fruits, and should be regarded, not only as an agreeable addition to our dietry, but in the light of a food to substitute meats, and many of the more indigestible foods, more frequently.

The cheapness of the home-raised fruit places it within the means of all, and it is a grevious error that all classes do not or cannot eat a greater amount of this fruit, especially the eaters of strong, hearty foods, and those who live inactive lives.

SATISFYING AS WELL AS SUSTAINING.

There is no other fruit that will so completely satisfy hunger when eaten alone; and with cereals, milk, cream or eggs they furnish a sufficiently nourishing dish for a meal; and they are ideal as a relish for farinaceous foods. One difficulty lies in the fact that so few understand the natural design of this fruit and consider it only in the light of a sweetmeat, therefore compound it only in rich desserts, compotes and such dishes as soon cloy the taste and surfeit the eater.

The proverbial boarding house prune owes its bad reputation to careless cooking and inferior quality of fruit selected; it must be remembered that there are prunes and prunes.

When you wish to serve prunes with a meal that consists of other articles of diet very rich and sustaining in their nature, the prunes should be prepared in the simplest manner possible.

It is the excess of concentrated food that proves injurious, therefore study combinations more carefully.

If those who consider their dinners incomplete without desserts would content themselves with such dishes as can be easily and simply made of prunes and other fruits, they would save themselves much toil and worry which they expend in creating a combination that is a menace to the digestion of the heartiest eater.

HOW PRUNES MAY BE USED.

Prunes are available not only in the lighter dishes, but must be regarded among the essentials. As a meat substitute, the delicate eater whose appetite must be coaxed for breakfast, would find a dish of well cooked cereal and prunes an inviting as well as sustaining dish, and quite hearty enough to constitute the entire meal. An egg or whipped cream might be added to the bill of fare if needful to complete this early morning repast.

PRUNES SHOULD NOT BE SWEETENED.

Sugar added to the prunes is superfluous and harmful, as nature has provided the fruit with sufficient natural sweetness, which the sun, during the ripening process, converts into a sugar suitable to be taken into the system. The finest variety of prunes need no embellishment in this way, as this natural sugar is quite sufficient to make the cooked fruit palatable to the normal taste.

The finer prunes are often eaten raw; but are more easily digested when cooked.

THE MEDICINAL VALUE OF PRUNES

That the fruit possesses very considerable virtue in this respect is conceded by most eminent authorities, and for this reason, as well as on account of their food value, they are included among the foods suitable for invalids, children and those whose digestive powers are rather inactive. Their influence is mild, which fact makes them desirable for the not over-robust.

A dish of well-cooked rice and prunes, made dainty and attractive for serving is a dish to serve for either a breakfast, luncheon or a dessert, especially for the child or invalid; and should be added to our list of hot weather dishes, frequently replacing meat and potatoes and heavy, unseasonable desserts.

COOKING PRUNES.

Prunes are better steamed, not boiled, as a rapid cooking hardens the skins and also causes them to break before the fruit is tender. We give the following method of cooking by an authority on cooking prunes: "To prepare them properly for the palate, first give them a warm bath, then cover with cold water and let stand twelve hours; add a little sliced lemon and a stick of cinnamon to ameliorate the rich sweetness with the harshness of the former and the fragrance of the latter. Do not add sugar to increase the sweetness, (herein they are economical). Then put on to boil, but slowly, very slowly, and as they swell add a little boiling water from time to time until done."

ANOTHER WAY TO COOK THEM.

Many consider that soaking spoils the prunes, making them flat and insipid, and unless the fruit is hard and dry they should be simply washed and rinsed very thoroughly, first in warm then in cold water, then, if you have no steamer, put them in a double boiler, cover with cold water, allowing one and one-half pints to each pint of fruit. Steam them until tender. Lift the fruit out into jars. Add a little lemon juice with stick cinnamon or vanilla and sherry to the water with just sugar enough to sweeten slightly and cook down one-half. If the fruit is fine-flavored it does not need any additional flavorings unless it is to be served in a dessert compound.

PRUNE MARMALADE.

Use the sweet, selected California prunes, wash them well in warm water, rubbing each one gently to cleanse it thoroughly. Cover with warm water and let stand a few moments; drain, rinse in cold water and put into a saucepan; put three half pints of water to one pint of prunes, less water will do if the prunes are quite fresh. Cover them closely and place where they will simmer gently for several hours until they are tender and the juice is thick. Do not add sugar if they are of the sweet variety, especially if they are for children or an invalid. To the sweet prunes a slice of lemon or the juice may be added just before they are quite done. Rub the prunes through a colander to remove the stones and skins. Then put the pulp in an earthen pudding dish, cover closely; stand the dish in a pan of hot water and place in the oven and let cook down until the marmalade is stiff.

PRUNE TOAST.

Heat a little cream, season with a pinch of salt and grating of nutmeg; dip slices of zwieback into this to moisten, and then spread the toast with the prune marmalade, which may be beaten up with a little lemon juice and white of egg or served plain. This makes a very nice and nourishing dish and quite sufficient for one meal for a child or delicate person.

PRUNE MARINGUE.

Prepare the prunes as for marmalade and put it into a square, enmeled dish; set the dish in a pan of water and bake in a very moderate oven until firm. Then cut into square pieces, arrange on a dish and cover the top of each piece with meringue. Serve hot or cold.

PRUNE ROLY POLY.

Take sufficient light bread to make a medium-sized loaf, roll it out about half an inch in thickness, spread over with steamed and stoned prunes, roll up, wetting and pressing the edges together; roll this in a cheesecloth, leaving plenty of room to swell; tie each end of the cloth tightly, leaving ends by which you can lift it conveniently. Lay it in the steamer and cover closely; steam from two to two and a half hours. Serve hot with the prune juice boiled to a syrup and cream.

FROZEN PRUNE PUDDING.

Steam the prunes gently for two hours with as little water as possible, a stick of cinnamon and few slices of lemon peel. Drain, and when cool remove the dasher, add the fruit, mix well, cover closely, repack and let stand several hours. Flavor the cream before freezing with caramel or vanilla, allowing a tablespoonful of vanilla and half a cup of light brown caramel. If the prunes are very fresh and tender, they may be chopped fine and used uncooked.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

(No attention paid to inquiries not giving name and address of writer, plainly written).

Mrs. A. P. C. wishes a recipe for smoked salmon toast.

SMOEKD SALMON TOAST.

Cut the salmon into strips and if very dry pour boiling water over it and parboil for ten minutes; then lay in cold water for a few minutes, wipe dry; lay in a pan with a good-sized piece of butter and a little boiling water, not enough to cover; simmer gently, basting frequently until the fish is well heated and the liquor absorbed. Season with pepper, add a little more butter; squeeze a little lemon juice over it; toss about and serve on thin slices of toast.

GRILLED SMOKED SALMON ON TOAST.

Soak the salmon, if necessary to freshen it, and cut into very thin shavings; brush with oil or butter, and boil over a brisk, clear fire. Season with pepper, brush with melted butter, add a few drops of lemon juice and serve on soft, buttered toast.

City of Erie and the Tashmoo Are the Contestants.

The Designer Says the Tashmoo Has the Advantage.

Detroit, May 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest in the great steamboat race between the City of Erie and Tashmoo, which is to come off on Lake Erie early next month, is becoming intense. Frank E. Kirby, who designed both the City of Erie and Tashmoo, said today that in his opinion the race would be very close, with the odds slightly in favor of the Tashmoo. "The Tashmoo," he said, "has never yet been run her fastest. The Erie has made 20¼ miles an hour with 500 tons of freight and 1000 passengers aboard. Both boats are almost of equal length, and this is the great feature in speed, where one has the advantage in some respects the other has the advantage in other respects."

It is understood that Mr. Kirby has great confidence in the Tashmoo. The Tashmoo will go into dry dock here Monday for a thorough overhauling preparatory to the race.

BLAZE ON A DREDGE.

This morning, about 10:45 o'clock, while dredging just off of the south pier, dredge No. 3, owner by E. T. Williams & Sons, caught fire in some unknown manner. The roof, which is covered with tar paper, first ignited and got quite a start before the crew noticed it. The whistle for sinking, consisting of four blasts, was first blown, followed by the fire whistle, to which the tug Walton B. responded, and was soon joined by the Inman, which was returning from a tow. The blaze was soon extinguished with a slight damage, and the dredge resumed operations.

OBJECT TO SHOVELS.

Shovellers at Ogdensburg Don't Like Patent Affairs.

Ogdensburg, May 15.—With the arrival of the first boats with grain from Chicago the shovellers at the Ogdensburg Transit company's elevator have struck against the Westbrook patent shovels operated by compressed air. Such a strike late last season was successful. The shovels are now installed and five men do the work of twenty. The men demand the employment of the old shovellers and increased pay if automatic shovels are continued. Non-union men are employed and the work is proceeding without interruption.

Plans are being made for a general strike by longshoremen when the rush begins to force recognition of the union by the company.

THE HARBOR LIGHTS.

Notice is hereby given that all the post-light structures in Superior and St. Louis bays, which were carried away by the ice during the winter, are being reconstructed and the lights will be shown from them as soon as possible.

A notice to mariners will be issued when all the lights in the channels are lighted and in the meantime vessels should not attempt to navigate these water by night.

SEVERAL NEW BUOYS.

Notice is given that on May 11, in accordance with lighthouse board's notice to mariners No. 35 of 1901, the Lake Huron light vessel station in the southerly end of Lake Huron, 1¾ miles N by E ¾ E from Fort Gratiot lighthouse and to the northward and westward of Northwest shoal, was marked by a red gas buoy showing a fixed white light during periods of ten seconds separated by eclipse of ten seconds, and carrying a bell to be rung by the motion of the sea. The light vessel will be replaced on her station as soon as practicable, of which due notice will be given.

Also that on the same date two red and black horizontally striped spar buoys were placed in St. Clair river, one to mark the southerly and the other to mark the northerly end of the middle ground off St. Clair, Mich., which according to United States engineer chart of the St. Clair river corrected to June 10, 1898, has from 16 to 18 feet of water over it.

MANAGER AT MARQUETTE.

Capt. Fred Benson, who has been master of the tug B. B. Inman ever since she came out, has been made manager for the Great Lakes Towing company at Marquette, where the tug Schenck has been stationed. Capt. Benson is one of the best known tug men at the head of the lakes. He will establish in connection with the tug office a flour and feed store. Capt. William Pringle has succeeded him as master of the Inman.

IN MICHIGAN.

Soo Business Man Has Skipped, Taking His Goods.

Sault Ste. Marie—There is one general dry goods store less in the Soo today. J. Johnston, who has conducted the Commonwealth during the past six months, left the city Monday and his whereabouts are unknown. Johnston's store has not done the business it should have done in order to make a profit for its proprietor, who was up against it. The most of the stock disappeared with Mr. Johnston, who leaves creditors here for small amounts.

The Algoma Central railway, the Hudson bay route, work upon which was prosecuted the past winter, has reached a distance of thirty-five miles northwest of the Canadian Sault. On the Michipicoten branch, which will connect with the main line, work is also in progress. The road has been laid out from Wawa City, twelve miles, to the Josephine iron mine, and some of the steel has been laid. Nearly 1000 men are employed on the consolidated work. The Clergue people will energetically push operations this summer. At Michipicoten the company has over 100,000 tons of iron ore awaiting shipment to the lower lakes. Operations at the Helen iron mine will be extensive this year.

Calumet—About 800 members of the Jean de Baptiste societies of Houghton county will meet at Lake Linden, June 24, to celebrate. There are a large number of French in this county and a big day is expected.

Iron Mountain—John Dickey stood guard with a loaded Winchester all day Sunday to prevent the Milwaukee road from building a branch line across his property. Monday Dickey swore out warrants for seventy of the 200 men he defied, charging trespass. The Milwaukee road is building a line from the city to Norway, and Dickey has refused to sell a right-of-way across part of his farm.

Ishpeming—John Koski, a miner in the Cleveland Cliffs' Lake mine, was found dead in a drift on the second level. The cause of death is a mystery, though it is thought it resulted from electric wires. This is the second mysterious death in this mine in the past year.

IDIOTIC.

Six Thousand Cigarmakers Strike to Have Bridge Repaired.

Tampa, Fla., May 15.—A strike of 6000 cigarmakers was inaugurated today for the most unique cause on record. For two days past a bridge connecting Tampa with the western suburbs, has been broken and the men had to wait for ferry boats. This was slow and unsatisfactory. Those employed on the West Side got together this morning and decided to compel the manufacturers to bring influence to bear for the purpose of having the bridge repaired immediately. To this end they decided to strike. Two thousand in number they then marched to the factories in the city proper and demanded that the employes come out. By noon 6000 men had withdrawn from the factories.

Cigar manufacturers will, it is said, lose many thousand dollars on tobacco already prepared for the day's work.

SAW THE COMET.

Queenstown Wonder Seen From Lick Observatory.

Lick Observatory, Cal., May 15.—A comet discovered at Queenstown, Australia, on April 24, was seen here last night. In the strong twilight no tail could be seen, only the head of the comet. Its position, observed by Mr. Aitkin, at 8 p. m., was right ascension five hours and thirty-three minutes, declining three degrees, thirty-seven minutes. This is the first time the comet has been seen at any observatory in the northern hemisphere. The comet is much fainter than when discovered and will not be visible here without a telescope.

MUCH WORK.

Is Now Being Done By the Philippine Commission.

Vancouver, B. C., May 16.—According to advices from the Orient, per steamer Empress of India, the Philippine commission has accomplished a great amount of important work in the southern islands where the insurrection is almost forgotten. Trade is being developed and the people prepared for civil government. Even the conservative Moros of Sulu and Mindanao are finding out that the Americans are good customers and communication has been established in places where outside intercourse was impossible under Spanish rule. As the commission visited the various American garrisons in the Mohammedan country sultan, datos and sub-dators are described as coming long distances to meet the representatives of American civil rule. Several of the Pagan tribes living about the volcano of Mount Apo came to give testimony before the commissioners. The commissioners were scheduled to return to Manilla about May 7, after which it is planned to organize the province of Northern Luzon. It is stated that about the beginning of July a central civil government will be established in Manilla with Judge Taft as governor and a legislative council composed of Americans and Filipinos.

SEVEN IN ALL.

Fairmont, W. Va., May, 16—Carl Hunter who was injured by the Farmington mine explosion yesterday, died today, making seven dead in all. Two others, Joe Blaney and Hershell Everson are not expected to survive. Mine inspector R. H. Thomas is making an examination today, with a view of determing the responsibility for the disaster.

OVERAWED

Albany Strikers Subdued By the Military.

The Soldiers Had Several Clashes With Rioters.

Albany, N. Y., May 16.—Promptly at 8 o'clock this morning the United Traction company began operations to move its cars. At that hour Gen. Barnes, in command of the Twenty-third regiment, brought out before the Quail street barn his entire regiment. At the same time the Tenth battalion started down town dropping out details at the street corners along the traction line running to Broadway. One company of the Twenty-third, Company A, started to clear out the mob massed at the curve at Central avenue. Persuasion was of no avail, and back went the company a dozen paces. "Charge bayonets" shouted Lieut. Col. Brady, who was nearby. Down went the gleaming points, and on the rush the men started for the crowd. Just as they reached them there was a quick reverse of guns and the butts smashed against human bodies. With a howl the crowd started back, some with bloody faces and some with broken bones. The mob was not allowed to stop until it had been driven three blocks away. Then every side street for blocks around was cleared, and details began the work of closing up the saloons and houses. In two corner saloons they found surly groups, and in one the soldiers had to club the men with their rifles. Gen. Barnes then ordered windows in the houses closed. Ususally a rifle point was sufficient, but in one or two cases details had to enter the houses and close them, the women defying them. All the time inside the barn doors were five open cars ready manned with non-union men waiting the word to run out.

On each car were two motormen, two conductors and two Pinkerton detectives, the latter with loaded rifles in their hands. "The men are ordered not to fire except it is absolutely necessary," said Superintendent Fassett of the road. At 8:30 o'clock the first car emerged from the barn and rounded the curve to the spot where the crowd had wrecked two cars Tuesday. Gen. Barnes was on the car, and when it reached the obstructions a coupling was made and the damaged cars soon removed to the barn. The crowd was too far distant to even see the operation, and if a window went up a guardsman soon shut it with an order.

While this was going on the street corners along the State street route began to assume the conditions of military posts. Details of soldiers in every prominent square kept people moving so that no large crowd could gather.

At 9:20 a second car left the stable and started over towards Madison avenue, a thoroughfare not guarded. On board of it were Lieut. Col. Brady and a company of the Twenty-third regiment guarding two motormen and two conductors. They proceeded over Quail street, stopping to remove flagstone obstructions from the track. The car was an open one.

When the road officials were ready to move another car word was sent to Col. Lloyd, in command of the Second regiment at North Albany, and he immediately began placing his men along Broadway at points where trouble was feared. Householders were warned that a brick thrown from a house top or a window would mean the arrest of all the inmates, and stragglers on the street corners were notified to keep moving.

It was 10 o'clock before the first car reached the last obstruction, and then it was run up to the end of the line. In the meantime the company ran out seven other cars and got them ready for business. On each was a full company of militia. The first car moved out and down the avenue with no trouble and car No. 2, with a trailer, followed a few minutes later. There was hardly a ripple of excitement as the cars moved down the hill to take different routes. There were hoots and hisses at several points, but up to the time the various cars reached the foot of State street, no serious trouble had occurred and there were no great crowds at any point. Evidently the great display of military force and the way the crowds were handled had awed the riotous element.

As the numerous cars kept coming down the hill the crowd near the post-office increased in numbers and began to get excited. The military charged and drove them two blocks from the corner of State and Broadway. The cars ran up Broadway as far as the company's barn and although there were several thousand people there, the hostile demonstration was limited to jeering.

Following the procession of cars, the repair wagons, guarded by seventy mounted signal corps men, came down the street and turned up Broadway, where there was some repairing to be done.

The United Traction company has added to its five rewards offered yesterday for information as to who hurt the non-union men, five more rewards of $100 each.

ASSEMBLY CONVENES

Sermon of Retiring Moderator Occupied Entire Morning Session.

Crowds Were Turned Away Unable to Gain Admission.

Philadelphia, May 16.—The one hundred and thirteenth Presbyterian general assembly was called to order by the moderator, Rev. Charles A. Dickey, at 11 o'clock today, in Calvary Presbyterian church. At 8:30 o'clock Calvary chapel was opened to receive the credentials of the 650 commissioners and alternates, and from that hour until the assembly convened, Rev. Dr. William Roberts, the stated clerk, was kept busy distributing badges and assigning the delegates to their places. The galleries of the edifice were crowded to suffocation when the opening hymn was sung, the spectators joining with the commissioners and alternates in the rendition of the anthem.

A clear sky, a warm sun and a cooling breeze came with the opening day of the session and the balmy atmosphere resulted in a larger attendance of spectators than had been anticipated. The church was not sufficiently large to accommodate the crowds and many were turned away.

As each commissioner and alternate handed in his certificate, he was presented with a handbook issued by the Philadelphia committee of arrangements, containing all information necessary to those attending. The fly leaf bears the following inscription:

"1701-1901—Philadelphia welcomes the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, at the opening of the twentieth century. The Presbyterians of the city in which the general presbytery 1705, the general synod 1717, and the general assembly 1789 were organized, tender cordial greetings to the representatives of the church in the 200th year since the installation of the pastor of the first Presbyterian church of Philadelphia and the 196th year since the establishment of a supreme church judiciary."

Various local and sub-committees are quartered in Calvary chapel, and adequate arrangements have been made by those committees for the proper entertainment of the visitors.

The sermon of the retiring moderator, Dr. Dickey, occupied the entire morning session, and at its conclusion the assembly took a recess until 3 o'clock to prepare for the election of the new moderator, the most important business of the day.

END IS NEAR

Mrs. McKinley Hovers Between Life and Death.

Physicians Give Up Hope of Her Recovery.

San Francisco, May 16.—President McKinley is at the bedside of his wife without hope that she will ever recover. After a comparatively easy night, she commenced to sink rapidly at 5 o'clock this morning. Dr. Rixey, who has been in attendance almost without relief for several days, hurriedly summoned Drs. Hirschfelder and Gibbons.

They arrived at the Scott residence before 7 o'clock, and everything their knowledge and skill could suggest was done to keep her alive. Access to the house for the first time was denied to newspaper reporters.

Guards were posted at the door and every one but the doctors were turned away.

At 9 o'clock the physicians held a consultation, and at 9:30 a. m. Secretary Cortelyou gave out a bulletin announcing that Mrs. McKinley's condition had become more alarming owing to the sinking spell at 5 o'clock, and that the president had cancelled engagements.

Later, it was learned by the Associated Press that Mrs. McKinley was barely alive and was liable to expire at any moment.

The distressing news was spread rapidly over the city, and crowds gathered about the newspaper bulletin boards anxiously awaiting further information.

About the house on the hill where Mrs. McKinley lies groups of people gathered and discussed, in low tones, the illness of the president's wife.

Everybody who left the house was eagerly questioned for information, but everybody was referred to Secretary Cortelyou. As that gentleman was invisible to those who called, nothing definite could be learned.

The Scott mansion is on the crest of a high hill overlooking Lafayette square and there is very little traffic in that neighborhood. When it became known how dangerously ill Mrs. McKinley was even the few vehicles that passed that way were stopped and the streets on all sides of the house were kept free from noise. It is very probable that the local committees having in charge the arrangements for entertainments and banquets for the president and the visitors from Ohio will abandon everything.

In the event of Mrs. McKinley's death it is likely that the launching of the battleship Ohio, planned for Saturday, will be postponed.

The members of the cabinet called at the house early this morning, but could be of no assistance and so returned sadly to their hotels. From there they kept in constant touch with Secretary Cortelyou, who, even to the members of the president's official family, was very reticent.

San Francisco, May 16, 10:30 a. m.—The president was with Mrs. McKinley constantly during the night. At his request all relatives have been notified of the extremely critical character of her illness. She is unconscious most of the time and is just hovering between life and death. Artificial stimulants have been resorted to and three physicans are in constant attendance. Thousands of telegrams have been received, not only from all parts of the country, but from all over the world. As far as possible they are being answered with the information that Mrs. McKinley's condition is very critical. At 10 o'clock Mrs. Morse, the president's niece, arrived at the house. Everything at that hour indicated that the end was approaching.

San Francisco, May 16.—At 11:20 a. m. the attending physicians were in consultation, and they believe that there is a bare chance for Mrs. McKinley to rally. Her lack of reserve strength, however, makes her ability to revive extremely doubtful. The president is at her bedside, and the ladies of the cabinet, with Mr. and Mrs. Morse and Mr. and Mrs. Scott are in the adjoining room. Secretary Hitchcock and Postmaster General Smith are in the parlor below awaiting tidings from the sick room.

Canton, Ohio, May 16.—Mrs. Marshall Barber, sister to Mrs. McKinley, received the following dispatch shortly before noon from President McKinley: "Ida rallied from sinking spell which she had at 5 o'clock this morning and while now fairly comfortable she is critically ill."

EXCUSING SHAMROCK

Yachting World Says Despondency Over Defeat Is Premature as Challenger Was Not In Condition For Racing.

London, May 16.—The Yachting World says: While it would be idle to deny that the first trial between the two Shamrocks was a keen and absolute disappointment, yet one or two important considerations should not be forgotten in analyzing their work on the legs of the triangle and points out, that on the first leg, a reach of six miles, the challenger just succeeded in holding the older boat. In going to windward, in the dead beat of the second six miles, the Shamrock II was clearly outsailed. As the yachts ran home the wind was failing, so that the half mile separating them at the finish represented five minutes and five seconds.

The Yachting World adds: "From this it is apparent that the only leg on which the new boat failed appreciably was on the turn to windward, and, comparing the manner in which her canvas hung with the beautiful set of the former challenger, the Yachting World says, lay like a bag. Another consideration is that the Shamrock I was freed from overburdening by her clipped boom and gaff. The Yachting World concludes that while it remains to be seen whether the new boat can beat the old boat handsomely in fine weather and lighter breezes, despondency is premature. Capt. Jameson has gone to Dublin, but will return here toward the end of the week. Sir Thomas Lipton said last night:

"Capt. Jameson lays no special stress on the defeat of the challenger by Shamrock I. But he has decided that the sails are villainous, and he expects satisfactory results from the new outfit.

The dock last night was guarded at all points by special policemen, the entrances were barricaded. It is said that some parts of the challenger opened early in the last race, require refastening.

The Yachtsman today says: "The Shamrock I is quite as much a dark horse as the challenger. It is probable that Monday's hard wind gave her the first chance to show what she could really do. We believe she would have beaten the Columbia at Weymouth. Of course the result does not argue that the challenger is out of the hunt. Probably the cup races will be sailed with jackyard topsail winds. In such weather the challenger ought to beat the Shamrock I by ten minutes in thirty miles. In our opinion she is just suited to cup race weather."

BLACKLIST IS LEGAL

Chicago Superior Court Holds That Various Firms Have a Right to Take Measures Protecting Themselves.

Chicago, May 16.—In the superior court today, Judge Baker decided that it is legal for employers to maintain a blacklist. The ruling was in the case of Annie Congdon against certain stock yards' packing firms. The plaintiff joined joined a strike last year against a reduction in wages, and claimed she has since been unable to secure employment at the yards. The court ruled that the various firms had a right to take protective measures against persons who had quit the employment of other firms without valid reasons.

WYNNE IS GUILTY.

Jury Says Murder In Second Degree.

Philadelphia, May 16.—In the case of Jacob Wynne, charged with the murder of Rev. Father Charles P. Riegel, a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree has been returned. Father Riegel, who had charge of the Roman Catholic church at Cheltenham, Pa., near here, was found dead in a door step in the "tenderloin" district on Jan. 6. Death was due to "knock-out drops," and Wynne and eight others who had been drinking with the priest were indicted. It was testified that Wynne bought the poison and placed it in Father Riegel's glass of beer. The trial of "Sailor Bob" Bryan, the second of the nine defendants, will begin at once, and the other cases will be rapidly disposed of.

MARINE EDITOR DEAD.

Detroit, May 16.—Robert D. Wagstaff, marine editor of the Detroit Free Press for the past ten or twelve years, died here today from tuberculosis. He was one of the best known newspaper men on the great lakes and was considered an authority on marine matters. Mr. Wagstaff, who was unmarried, was born in Buffalo, thirty-four years ago.

LEGAL MEASURES

To Be Asked to Stamp Out Tuberculosis.

New York, May 16.—The American congress of tuberculosis and the Medico-legal society opened the second day of their joint sessions with the reading of a number of addresses on topics connected with the general subject of tuberculosis. This afternoon there was a discussion with a view to the adoption of some resolution recommending that particular legal measures be taken throughout the country to help stamp out this disease.

TRAIN WRECKED.

Two Killed and Two Are Missing.

Ellis, Kas., May 16.—Union Pacific westbound freight train, No. 11, was wrecked by a washout bridge, three miles east of Sharon Springs. Engineer Herriman and Brakeman Osborn were killed instantly. Two track walkers who were at the bridge have disappeared and it is believed they lost their lives.

CENTENARIAN.

Oldest Preacher In Country Is Dead.

New London, Conn., May 16—Rev. Wm. H. Connor, believed to have been the oldest preacher in the country, died at his home in this city today, aged nearly 101 years. He was born in slavery, near Baltimore.

In 1829 he escaped, and for years was employed in a hotel in New York. He came to New London in 1840. He began preaching before 1850 and, though never ordained, was at the head of the negro religious society here, and was affectionately known as Father Connor.

PLAN RATIFIED.

New York, May 16.—At a special meeting of the trust certificate holders of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, held today, the plan for consolidation and refunding of the company's bonded indebtedness was ratified. Considerably more than the required amount of each class of stock was represented and no opposition to the plan was manifested.

CONDITION CRITICAL.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 16.—Edwin F. Uhl has suffered another sinking spell and his condition is more critical today.

SECURED A PONTOON.

Tampa, Fla., May 16.—Cigarmakers to the number of 6000 struck yesterday because a bridge over which many of them passed to work was out of service returned to work today. The city authorities threw a pontoon across the river as a temporary passage.

BISHOP OF OXFORD.

London, May 16.—The Very Rev. Francis Paget, D.D., dean of Christ church, Oxford, since 1882, has been appointed bishop of Oxford, in succession to the late Rt. Rev. William Stubbs.

HOME MISSION BOARD

Woman's Department of Presbyterian Church Holds Twenty-Second Annual Meeting---Various Reports Are Most Flattering.

Philadelphia, May 12.—The twenty-second annual meeting of the Woman's Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian church began today in the auditorium of the Witherspoon building, Mrs. Darwin R. James, of Broklyn, president, in the chair. There were forty-six delegates in attendance, but visitors crowded both the floor and the galleries of the auditorium.

The morning session was devoted to the reading of reports. Mrs. F. D. Palmer, of New York, general secretary of the freedmen's department, reported an increase in contributions of $5878 over last year's receipts, the advance in two years being $14,146. The contributions of the churches, the Young People's society, the Sabbath schools and individuals direct to the board of missions for freedmen for the fiscal year ending April 15, 1901, aggregated $78,071. The women's missionary societies, Sabbath schools, young people's societies and miscellaneous gifts aggregated $61,308. This amount has been applied as follows:

"One of the great achievements of the nineteenth century in America," concludes the report, "has been the progress of the emancipated negro. The women of the Presbyterian church have borne a noble part in emancipating the women of the race from the bondage of ignorance and immorality through Christian education."

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. E. S. Lincoln, of New York, showed receipts for the year to be $357,201, of which amount $60,353 was designated for the board of missions for freedmen and $296,833 for the women's board of home missions. The receipts show an increase of $6862 over last year. The disbursements for the year amounted to $321,581, exceeding the receipts by $24,747. The permanent fund amounts to $17,000.

A discussion of the topic "Our Spanish-Speaking people," was participated in by Mrs. J. C. Ross, of Albuquerque, N. M.; Miss Lydia A. Hays, New Mexico, and the Rev. Dr. J. Milton Greene, of Porto Rico.

A FAIR TEST

Was the Trial of the Two Shamrocks on Monday.

Southampton, May 16.—Workmen were busy all day long in repairing the rudder of the Shamrock II, and the crew were employed in reburnishing her manganese bronze bottom with an acid which leaves the surface as bright and smooth as when she first entered the water.

Capt. Wringe of the Shamrock I, in an interview with a representative of the Associated Press regarding Monday's race, said that so far as he knew it was a fair test of speed. He considered that, in the form in which the challenger was then sailing, the Shamrock I could beat her in fresh winds and with big head seas, though he admits that in fine weather, when jack warders could be carried, the challenger would probably beat his boat handsomely.

Capt. Wringe would not venture an opinion regarding how much the new boat may be improved by the alteration of her sails and hull, now in progress.

REPORT ERRONEOUS

That French Banks Were Withdrawing Gold.

London, May 16.—Inquiries made at the Bank of England by a reporter of the Associated Press today show that there is no truth in the report, circulated by a news agency in the United States, that the Bank of Paris and the Credit Lyonnaise, of Paris, Tuesday and Wednesday withdrew £5,000,000 from the London market, and that it was thought probable that £1,000,000 additional would be withdrawn tomorrow. No gold has been withdrawn from France, and the officials of the Bank of England have not even heard of any intended withdrawals of gold from London for the Russian loan, which was alleged to have been the cause of the action of the Bank of Paris and the Credit Lyonnaise.

CROP FAILURE FELT.

London, May 16.—The failure of the spring crops in India is already severely felt. Lord George Hamilton, the Indian secretary in the house of commons today, said that the number of persons now receiving relief was 331,000 and it was expected to increase rapidly.

PINNEY NOMINATED.

Akron, Ohio, May 16.—E. J. Pinney, of Cleveland, was nominated for governor, by the Prohibition convention in session here today.

FIELD DAY.

Boys Hope to Smash Some High School Records.

All of the indications are that the annual field day of the high school, which will come off Saturday afternoon, will be one of the most hotly contested ones that has ever been seen in the high school, and it is expected that some high school records will be broken.

Ernest Granzow, the gentleman who will endeavor to throw the hammer into the next county, is one of the most promising athletes that the high school has ever produced, and as he has already thrown the hammer a distance of 101 feet this year, six feet farther than the high school record, he may expect to have a cinch on that article, unless some of the other men develop like powers. The high school record, which is 95 feet, was made at Minneapolis in 1895 by Walter Lafans, and this has never been equalled here since that time. The relay race, which is the last event on the program, is last but not least; indeed, it appears that it will be the most interesting event of the day. This, of course, will be due to class rivalry, as all of the classes will compete. Each man will run a quarter of a mile, when he will pass a banner, which he carries to the next man, who will carry it the same distance, and the class winning will get the silver cup which has been donated by the baseball team for the occasion. Immediately after the preliminary field day the track team will be picked and go into training at once for the Interscholastic at Minneapolis the following Friday. Here is where the real test will come, as there will be track men from all over the state, and the Duluth men will be in danger of overtraining, as they have only five days between the events.

To Force Collection.

People do not delay paying their other taxes as long as they do the dog tax. Such taxes were due May 1 and the police authorities do not propose waiting as long as they did last year. A list of about fifty delinquents has been prepared and, just as soon as warrants can be issued arrests will be made. Those who have not paid their dog tax can avoid an arrest, costs and probable fine by at once calling at the city hall and securing the little brass tag that goes with a dog license.

Sending Them Out.

The mayor's secretary, C. E. Richardson, is sending out about 250 copies of Mayor Hugo's annual message to mayors of cities in the United States of over 15,000 population. This is done not so much on account of the merits the message of Duluth's mayor may possess but as a matter of official courtesy and to secure reports and messages of officials in other cities, many of which, contain valuable suggestions.

RUDELY DISTURBED.

Quintet Arrested on East Third Street.

Aged Felix Hackett and son Thomas were in police court once more this morning. The twain are a couple of splendid specimens of cunning, depravity and dirt. They reside on East Third street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, and were arrested at 1 o'clock this morning by Officers Johnson and Roberg for keeping a disorderly house. With them on the charge of disorderly conduct the officers also arrested James McGovern, Lizzie Buckley and Margaret Smith.

McGovern, who has just finished a long sentence in the county jail for selling whisky to Indians, denied his guilt.

"You are charged with disorderly conduct. Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked Judge Edson of the Buckley woman.

"Disorderly conduct?" said the woman with a puzzled air, "I don't know what that means, judge. Of course I'm not guilty."

"What's your name?" his honor asked the other woman.

"Margaret Smith," was the reply.

"Are you guilty of this charge of disorderly conduct?"

"Well, judge, I guess I was a little rough."

"You plead guilty, then?"

"Yes, sir."

The hearing of the charges against the venerable Felix Hackett and his friends was set for this afternoon.

Several plain drunks pleaded guilty and received the usual sentence of $10 and costs or ten days in jail. One or two paid the fine.

Going to Convention.

Conductor M. J. Flynn, of the Hibbing division of the Great Northern road, left this afternoon for St. Paul to attend the conductors' convention. Both Conductors Flynn and James Cardle, of the Cass Lake branch of the same road, have recently purchased wide-rimmed felt hats that they wear when not on duty, and are the envy of the rest of the railroad men. Before Mr. Flynn left this afternoon an ineffectual attempt was made to induce him to wear with the hat the red necktie that was presented to George M. Brush the other day.

Starts Up Again.

The Alger, Smith & Co.'s mill started up this morning after being shut down about three weeks for repairs. The mill has a big cut before it this season, and will continue to make day and night runs.

Practice March of Third Regiment Arousing Anticipations.

Plans For the Event--- Magazines to Be Represented.

There is a growing interest in military circles over the practice march which the Third regiment will soon experience. Plans are nearing completion as to details, and it is anticipated that the event will bring much benefit and pleasure to those participating.

On the evening of June 4 Companies A and C will take the Eastern Minnesota railway at Duluth for Milaca, arriving there at 6 a. m. June 5. The entire Third regiment will assemble there and from that point will march northward, up the Rum river to Mille Lacs lake. From that point the march will be continued to Brainerd, making a march of eighty miles from the starting point and taking eight days' time.

Two days will be spent in rifle practice and the regiment paid off. June 15 the entire regiment, with pockets full of pay money, will be brought to Duluth, where a couple of days will be spent in visiting and seeing the sights.

The regiment will be accompanied by the new Third regiment band, formerly the Duluth City band. Only last evening the Duluth City bark went out of existence and the members were mustered into the Third infantry by Maj. Bidwells.

It is expected that several Eastern magazines will send correspondents and artists, and undoubtedly the Twin City papers will make much of the march and the attendant features.

BIDS ASKED.

Superior Street Paving and Garfield Avenue Viaduct Advertised.

The board of public works today ordered the publication of advertisements for bids for the steel work on the Garfield avenue viaduct and the paving of Superior street. This will enable contracts for both jobs to be let May 24.

It is expected that a large number of bids will be received for the paving contract. Vitrified brick manufacturers also are waking up and either sending representatives or writing letters to the board. No idea can yet be given as to what brick will be selected.

EXCURSION.

Railroad Conductors May Come Here Next Saturday.

It was rumored in railroad circles today that the Order of Railway Conductors, now in convention at St. Paul, will come to the head of the lake on an excursion the coming Sunday. It is said that the conductors will leave St. Paul on a special train of seven coaches, about 200 strong, on Saturday night and arrive in Duluth on Sunday morning. The report further is that the railroad men will have another rail or lake excursion on Sunday to Two Harbors and return to St. Paul on Monday. This report cannot be confirmed at the local railroad offices, as none of the representatives here have been notified of any such excursion, though several have heard that there was one planned.

IS WORKING WELL.

Delinquent Taxpayers Are Coming to the Front.

The policy of seizing goods unless personal property taxes are paid works very well, Sheriff Sargent finds, and in every case where property is seized the owners hustle around some way and get the money to pay up their debt to the county.

"In half a dozen instances," said Sheriff Sargent this morning, "we have been compelled to seize property before the delinquents came to time, but in each of those cases the parties paid up rather than have their property sold. We shall continue this policy, and all that fail to pay up will find themselves out some property if they do not produce the money. It is our duty to act in this manner, and, unpleasant as it is, we shall have to act vigorously if the delinquents make it necessary."

Mentally Disordered.

This forenoon, at the Union depot, Officer Fritz took Charles Gilbert into custody and sent him to police headquarters. He was found wandering around in an aimless condition and, apparently, was suffering from some mental disorder.

At headquarters Gilbert seemed to be in an apathetic, rather dazed condition, and very few responses to questions could be secured from him. He said that he came into Duluth this morning in a boxcar to go on the log drive. He had no money, but in his pocket a ticket on the Sacred Heart hospital, at Tomahawk, Wis., was found. He said that his home was in St. George, Can.

Pending further investigations, the young man was detained at police headquarters.

HARRIS CASE.

Continuance to Be Asked Because of Sickness.

In district court this morning the last of the criminal cases of the term was tried and disposed of, when the jury in the case against John Schmitz, accused of assault in the second degree, found him guilty, with a recommendation to the mercy of the court.

The cases against Robert H. Harris, charged with grand larceny in the first degree, will probably be continued over the term, as it is claimed that the defendant is too ill to appear at this time. He is said to be confined to his bed at home. A motion for a continuance will be made by his attorney, A. E. McManus, in a day or two, when a showing will be made as to his condition, and the case will be continued if the showing warrants it.

In Judge Cant's court this morning the case of Lawrence Bushell against Andrew Wilson, to recover $1000 damages for an alleged false and malicious prosecution, was taken up. In March Wilson's son was assaulted by a number of boys in New Duluth, and Wilson, thinking that Bushell was one of the assailters, had him arrested. He was released when he appeared in the justice court in West Duluth, and he seeks damages. Wilson claims that there was no malice whatever, and that when he had Bushell arrested he did so with a probable cause for belief that he was guilty. Teall & Harris are the plaintiff's attorneys and M. Douglas is the attorney for the defendant.

In Judge Dibell's court the case of Ole Halvorson against the Moon & Kerr Lumber company was still on trial. There are a large number of witnesses on both sides of the case, and it is expected that it will take up most of next week in the trial.

LESS THAN ONE-THIRD.

Jury's Verdict In the Carrot Case.

The famous and long drawn out Carrot case, Hawthorne vs. the Northern Pacific railway was wound up in municipal court this morning. The case was one in which it was sought to recover $320 for 600 bushels of carrots, alleged to have been frozen through neglect of the defendant railway. The lawyers spent several days with their conduct of the case and then some of the old carrot-eaters on the jury were so stubborn that the entire twelve spent most of the night in the jury room. Judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $100—less than one-third of the amount sued for.

The Big Celebration.

Mayor Hugo says that he is receiving quite a number of inquiries concerning the big Fourth of July celebration now being arranged. A St. Louis firm has submitted a Fourth of July button for the coat lapel and it has been suggested to the committee that something of the kind be secured.

Mayor Hugo also says that G. S. Ives, of St. Peter, grand master of the Masons, for Minnesota, has signified his willingness and ability to be present and lay the corner-stone of the new public library on that day.

RATES TO BUFFALO

They Have Not Yet Settled to a Uniform Basis.

Inquiries Coming In But Most People Are Waiting.

Railroads Are Anxious to Know South Shore's Policy.

From the flood of inquiries that are pouring into the local railroad ticket offices regarding rates to Buffalo, the railroad men are figuring on a big Pan-American exposition business this summer. Although the exposition is now open there has as yet been no perceptible movement of visitors from the Northwest in that direction, but matters are shaping themselves so that by next month the excursion business to Buffalo will be under full headway and the outlook is very encouraging to the transportation companies. There have been some tickets sold to local people who are making an early visit to the exposition, but these are few. Many others would go this month, no doubt, were it not for the rates made thus far in the season, that the general traveling public seems to regard as too high. People who intend to go to the exposition are holding back for better rates, which they seem to think will be made by another month and the indications are that such rates will be made, though it would be impossible at this early date to anticipate just how much of a cut will be made.

The Omaha road is making a round trip rate from Duluth to Buffalo of $24.50 for a five-day limit, $31.35 for a six-day limit and $38.80 for a thirty-day limit. The Great Northern company is meeting these rates and the Northern Pacific company has practically the same rate. The latter road has a rate of $24.50 for a six-day limit and $31.35 for a sixteen-day limit. Although nothing definite is held out by the representatives of the different transportation companies it seems to be pretty well understood among them that rates will change with the first of the coming month. The Northern Steamship company has not yet announced its rates, but will probably do so about June 1 as soon as its season opens.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road is still holding back on its announcement of rates and this is believed to be keeping the other transportation companies guessing as they are anxious to know what the South Shore company's final move will be. The latter road has a lower regular rate to Buffalo than is made over the other lines and there are predictions that it will not have to cut as deep as the other lines to prove a strong factor in the competition for the exposition business. As the matter stands at the present time, it appears to be a waiting game among the transportation companies to see which will make the first break.

GREETINGS

From Various Bodies Presented to Home Missionary Society.

Boston, May 16.—Greetings and salutations from various Congregational missionary organizations were presented at the forenon session of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Congregational Home Missionary society here today.

Among the saluations presented were those of Rev. Alexander MacKennal, D. D., of London, who spoke for the English Congregationalists; William Shaw, treasurer of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, and Samuel B. Capen, president of the American board of foreign missions.

In the afternoon interesting papers on missionary work were read. Rev. Washington Choate delivered an address on "Cuba." At the annual business meeting a special committee of ten was appointed to consider and report some plan for perfecting the relations between the auxiliaries and the national society. The committee will add five to its number. Its report will be presented at the next annual meeting. Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, of New York, was elected president and Rev. William H. Holman, of Connecticut, recording secretary.

SAFES ARE CRACKED.

Method Adopted By the Most Skillful Burglars.

The robbery of the Hernando, Miss., band was being discussed by a crowd of detectives and officers at the police station recently, and from the Hernando case the conversation drifted to the methods used by expert cracksmen in opening vaults and safes, says the Memphis Scimitar.

The custom with safe blowers, when they are working on a vault or safe door that has a combination lock, worked by a knob on the outer side of the door is very different from the way a case-hardened time-lock safe is opened. The time-lock safes are made of tool steel, and the hardest bits make but very little impression on them. There is no opening through the door, as in a combination safe. The mechanism that locks and unlocks the safe is all fasteded to the inner side of the door. These safes are marvels of mechanical work and cost quite a sum of money. They are generally of small size and are kept in a vault, as they are not made fireproof. Only money and very valuable papers are kept in the time lock or burglar-proof safes of the country banks. The books, canceled checks and other papers are kept in the vaults. This is necessary from the small size of the burglar-proof safes and the bulkiness of the papers and books. These safes are made of soft steel and hardened. The holes for the screws that fasten the hinges to the door and to the safe are drilled before the hardening process. The door fits flush with the surface of the safe, and is as near air-tight as possible. The face, against which the doors rest, is packed with rubber and felt. These precautions are taken to leave no opening through which nitro-glycerine can be poured. The crack around the door is the weak point in a burglar-proof safe and the point of attack by the safe blowers.

In opening a safe of this kind there are two methods, but both are to accomplish the same purpose and are similar. Only experts attempt to open a box of this nature. It is dangerous work and requires skill as well.

The process is to make a small trough of potters' clay or putty at the top of the door. The lower part of the trough is even with the crack around the door. This trough is filled with nitro-glycerin, which runs into the opening and saturates the felt packing of the door facing. When the necessary amount of the explosive has seeped through the crack the charge is exploded by means of a fuse and cap.

The second method is similar to this, except that a sheet of heavy wrapping paper is put into the crack and the edges turned up to make the trough for the explosive.

In working with a combination safe, the process is very simple. Expert safe men have an instrument that is clamped over the knob of the combination. A screw works against the face of the door and is turned by a very powerful lever. By means of this screw and lever the knob is drawn from the door, bringing the combination plates with it, and an opening is made. Into this opening a charge of powder, dynamite or nitro-glycerin is poured and exploded. With a safe of this kind one charge ordinarily suffices, but with the time-lock class it often takes two or three efforts. Some burglars knock the combination knob off with a sledge hammer. This is done only where there is no fear of the noise of the blows attracting attention.

Various devices are used to muffle the sounds of the explosions. The most expert cracksmen are so adept in this art that they frequently open safes in populous neighborhoods without awakening the lightest sleepers. The most common method to deaden the sound is to envelop the safe in wet blankets. In stores bolts of cloth and articles of clothing are placed in front of the safe to muffle the sound of the falling door.

In the cases where buildings are wrecked and the entire populations of towns are aroused by the explosions the safe men are generally novices.

The construction of vaults and safes must be understood before a clear idea can be gained of the necessity for the three, four and in some cases, five explosions that are heard when a bank is cracked.

The customary fire-proof vault has walls of two or more feet in thickness. A steel case, to which the doors are hung, is set into this wall and gives an entrance. There are two doors, one at the outer end of the casing, with a combination lock, and a lighter double door at the inner end. This door offers but slight resistance and is generally broken open with a hammer.

The time-lock safe has an inner chest, with a combination lock, and in large safess there are two or three of these chests.

In order to get to the money, the outer door and inner doors of the vault must be opened. This takes one or two shots. The outer door of the safe must be blown off, requiring one or two additional explosions, and then the money box must be cracked, and this takes the last explosion.

Frequently the noise of the first shots give the alarm and the burglars are frightened away before they get at the funds of the bank. For this reason the precaution of deadening the report of the explosions is necessary to a successful termination of the robbery.

It is the general opinion of officers who are posted on such subjects that absolutely burglar-proof safes cannot be manufactured. They claim that any box can be opened by expert cracksmen, if they are given sufficient time and are not hampered by fear of capture. It is, however, possible to make a safe that is so near burglar-proof that it cannot be opened under ordinary circumstances and in the time safe men have to do their work.

Some men who have engaged in the manufacture of safes for a long term of years become so familiar with their mechanism and so expert that, it is claimed, they can open a combination lock by listening to the faint clickings of the parts as they turn the knob.

Big safe manufacturing concerns keep experts who travel the country and examine and keep in repair the time-lock safes that have been bought from their company.

When the burglar-proof safe of a bank fails to open on time they wire the factory that sold it and a man is sent at once to remedy the defect. This is not often necessary, as the parts of the time lock are manufactured with so great care and are so thoroughly tested that they rarely give trouble.

RESTORED ITS YOUTH.

The Diesbach family, of Atchison, had an old horse which had lived out its days of usefulness, says the Kansas City Journal. At last it became so old and decrepit that it got down in the barn and could not get up. The family sent for a horse ambulance and turned the animal over to the town scavenger with money to buy chloroform with which to give the old horse an easy death. The beast was carefully conveyed to the boneyard and a pint of chloroform was soaked in a sponge and placed beneath its nose as it lay on the ground. After sniffing at the chloroform, the horse jumped up, kicked out his heels and ran cavorting out into the country. And yet a man once wrote a book to prove that animals have no sense of humor!

A PARACHUTE

May Be Guided By an Experienced Aeronaut.

"It may look like guesswork," said the retired aeronaut, to the New York Sun, "when a man cuts loose his parachute an heads for the earth, but if he is up in the business he can pick his own lighting place. A parachute is not entirely at the mercy of the air currents, but can be guided easily.

"By the time the rider and his bag get within 100 feet of the earth they are going rather slow, barring any wind afloat. As most ascensions are made in cities or suburbs, a little gulding has to be done. If you are coming down in the business section a man must try to pick out some tall block or flat-roofed structure, and he must watch out for the electric wires. If in the residence section he must avoid trees and ponds. How does he do it? Oh, it's simple. Just lean your weight against the side of the trapeze rope and push. This will give a decided swing to the chute and it will move along through the air as though propelled by a pair of oars.

"It might seem that if there was one business that would compel a man to keep a clear head it is riding the bag, but just as you hear of oil well shooters tossing nitroglycerine around and quarrymen smoking near a pile of powder kegs so parachute jumping deadens the sense of fear and men will be found every now and then who go up with a comfortable jag under their belt. It doesn't often happen, because the man is certain to get a good scare or a ride in a hearse. The feeling of helplessness that comes over a fellow shooting up at a terrific rate from the earth, the seeming uncertainty of his grasp, although in fact he is holding on like grim death, combine to give a dizziness that is bad for the chap.

"The hardened rider in a normal condition feels no sense of giddiness at all. You have seen men on the horizontal bar whirl around and around and light on their feet at the conclusion of their act without any signs of dizziness. It is the same with riding the bag. Dizziness never attacks a man if he is right. If he isn't its attack is all the more terrifying. If he has sense enough to reach the cut-off rope and yank it he will land all right. If he hesitates long the chances are even for a nasty fall and maybe death.

"Accidents that are accidents pure and simple are very few. Once in a while the big balloon, after it has turned over and let lose its load of air, may take it into its head to chase the man and drop down on him. It takes a little quick maneuvering to get out of the way, but as a usual thing after the bag is released it leaps rapidly up and slowly turns over off to one side. If the cut-off rope does not work and the chute clings to the bag, which sometimes hapens, the man is down for a good long ride in a chilly atmosphere. I have gone away above the clouds more than once because of a failure of the valve to work, but the lower temperature soon cools off the hot air, the bag remains stationary for a while and then begins a slow drop. It is rather dangerous, but the approach to earth prevents too rapid cooling and permits a slow descent. A man needs only to keep his head right and he will come out all right.

"A man never loses the feeling of intense exhilaration that attends the rapid rush through the air. It is comparable to that of the person who shoots the chutes or tackles a roller coaster. The swift rush of air past the face, the sense of freedom and the swaying motion combine to make it a very interesting experience and soon deadens a man to the danger and keys him up to the point where he does not feel right if he does not get his daily ride."

BACK FROM NEW YORK

What He Found Out With Reference to the Firm.

The Failure Leaves Him In Bad Financial Shape.

Neil McLachlan, Minnesota state agent for the commission firm of F. A. Rogers & Co., is back from New York, and was seen at his residence, No. 224 Fifth avenue east, this afternoon. In response to an inquiry as to the state of affairs connected with the cessation of business by the Duluth agency, Mr. McLachlan said:

"I have just returned from a very wearing trip to New York and am all tired out. I shall get down town tomorrow and shall take such steps as I can to satisfactorily adjust my business affairs in connection with the firm of F. A. Rogers & Co. and that part of the Duluth public directly and financially interested.

"In the first place, let me say that the firm of F. A. Rogers & Co. has not failed, and I have no knowledge that it will do so. The failures have been in connection with various agencies. The firm of F. A. Rogers & Co. is incorporated under the laws of Maine and has a sworn paid-up capital of $100,000. It was doing business in the state of Minnesota under a strict compliance with the law governing foreign corporations. The headquarters of the firm is in the Ames building. The members of the company are said to be reliable, but I know nothing about them aside from the legal standing of the corporation.

"In the next place, when I left here May 1, I had not the slightest idea that there was any failure in prospect. I went solely to straighten out matters connected with our telegraph service by the Western Union. When I got to Harrisburg, I heard that there was trouble in the agencies. When I got to New York, I found the office conducted by C. A. Bailey, New York agent, closed and held under a writ of attachment by the sheriff for a $1600 obligation. I hunted high and low, but could not locate Messrs. Baldwin or Schimmel of the company. I did not have means to go to Boston, and a telegram to Baldwin there was returned. I must say that the New York failure looks like a put up job.

"As to those in Duluth who have a legal claim against the firm in Duluth, they do not exceed half a dozen in number and the aggregate amount does not exceed $600. Relatives of mine are among the heaviest losers.

"I deeply regret this matter, for it not only affects my business standing and credit, but leaves me stranded financially. I feel a moral responsibility to adjust everything satisfactorily, even if not legally bound to do so.

"My attorney, Mr. Douglass, is looking up certain legal matters that may help out my clients and myself. We are not yet fully posted as to the liability of stockholders under the Maine laws. It may be that the stockholders are legally and financially responsible. I had every confidence in the firm and everything will turn out satisfactorily." its New York agent and yet hope that

AN ACTIVE SALE.

Zenith Oil Stock Is Going Rapidly.

Considerable activity in the sale of stock is being reported by the Zenith Oil company, with offices in the Palladio building. The company is daily receiving numerous inquiries as to the outlook in the Coalinga oil district, and interest in this California oil field is increasing. Predictions are being made quite freely that there will be a market for California petroleum throughout the world, as the fuel question is one that is especially important in all lands where there are manufacturing industries. The latest reports from the California oil fields indicate the greatest activity as the season advances. The oil is said to be different in many respects from that of the Pennsylvania fields, and after being refined as to produce illuminants and lubricants, the residum is different from the Pennsylvania oils and has a much greater variety of useful by-products. This makes it more valuable, and promises better returns to the producers, hence to the investors. Some believe that oils will eventually be found in every section of the state. The oil industry of California has now reached that stage where it is classed as one of the most important factors in the state's commercial affairs, and investors in the East are hastening to put their money in what they consider one of the most favorable ventures now afforded in this country.

IS RESTING EASIER.

Cloquet Injured Man Is Doing Well.

Andrew Johnson, who was rescued yesterday just as he was about to be drawn into a roaring furnace by the machinery in the Johnson & Wentworth mill at Cloquet, is resting somewhat easier today at St. Mary's hospital, and there is a bare chance that he will pull through, though the outlook is not very hopeful.

Johnson was repairing the slab-conveyors, chains that are used in carrying the slabs from the mills to the burner without. Just as he had the chains in good order the machinery was started up again and he was caught in the conveyors. He cried for help, but he had been carried some distance when Ole Jenson, foreman of the mill, caught sight of him and stopped the chain just in time to save him from being carried into the furnace. As it was he has four fractures in his right leg, three below the knee and one above. The left leg was terribly lacerated and the knee joint dislocated. Johnson is married, but has no children.

Fond du Lac---Oshkosh.

Reclining chair cars, seats free, Duluth to Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and intermediate points via Merrillan, Marshfield and Wausau on fast mail trains over the North-Western Line. Daily service. Tickets at city ticket office, 405 West Superior street.

CITY BRIEFS.

Tibbetts, undertaker, 21 East Sup. St.

James McFadden was arrested yesterday on suspicion of having stolen a pair of new cruiser's shoes or half boots, which he was trying to sell down on Lake avenue. Up to date, the owner of the shoes has not been found and it is possible they were snatched over in West Superior. Both shoes are for the left foot and one is a No. 7, and the other a No. 8. If McFadden cannot be coupled with the theft of the shoes, he will be prosecuted for vagrancy.

A very quiet home wedding took place last evening at the residence of Mrs. Carroll 120 West Fourth street. The bride was her sister, Miss Alice McKinn, and the groom was Charles Willis. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Linns, and was witnessed by the relatives of the bridal couple. Mr. and Mrs. Willis will make their home at 120 West Fourth street.

Just received, a new up-to-date line of millinery at Humes', over Suffel & Co.'s. We are showing a new line of pattern hats and flowers at Humes', over Suffel's.

Just before noon today, a fire gutted a little sawmill back of the Scott-Graff mill. The mill was used for sawing fence posts and will be at once repaired. The loss, including a car partly loaded with posts, was about $600.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the register of deeds by the Pearce Mining company, with a capital stock of $50,000. The incorporators are William Elder, Arthur Howell and M. C. Mackinnon, all of Duluth.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Gilbert S. Peterson and Emma Anderson, Herman Kalbrenner and Annie Swanson, and to Raymond L. Perry and Elizabeth Richards.

The criminals convicted at the present term of court and not yet sentenced, will be sentenced tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock by Judge Cant.

George M. Brush has filed a petition in bankruptcy. He filed a petition some time ago and was discharged, but the new one which has just been filed indicates that he forgot some items in his schedule for two claims contracted in 1896 and 1882 are all that are included in the new petition. They amount to $188.26.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. M. A Phillips left yesterday for Columbus, Neb., where she was called by the death of her brother-in-law.

D. W. Freeman, of Virginia, was a business caller in the city this morning.

D. H. Maloney, of Cleveland, is registered at the St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Tinkham and Mrs. W. P. Stearns and daughter, of Chicago, arrived in the city this morning for a short visit.

Rev. and Mrs. T. H. Cleland returned this morning from St. Louis, where they have been visiting for a month.

Mr and Mrs. Louis Rouchleau and daughter, Lillian, have returned from a week's visit in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Miss Ella Lennon, a teacher at the Emerson school, who was taken very ill after taking headache tablets the other day, is reported to be out of any danger. Miss Lennon's friends say she will be all right after a few days' rest.

Harry Pelletier, formerly connected with the Lehigh Coal company at West Superior, has accepted a position with Gleason-Thompson company, of this city.

F. D. Hamilton, of Saginaw, Mich., is in the city today.

Capt. Harry Richardson, of the barge Viking, was calling on old friends in the city today. Capt. Richardson is 60 years of age but as active as a young man, with not a gray hair in his head.

W. W. Broughton, assistant general freight agent of the Northern Pacific company, was in the city today.

M. L. Fay, of Virginia, was a guest of the St. Louis today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sheridan, of Eveleth, are visiting in the city.

TO BE WITHDRAWN.

St. Croix Stock Going Off the Market.

The St. Croix Consolidated copper mines advise, in their advertisement elsewhere in this paper, that, owing to the gratifying results from the prospecting now being made on their properties and the rapid increase of land on the St. Croix range, the stock of this company is intrinsically worth much more than 20 cents per share, and for that reason have advised their general agents, A. C. Volk & Co., 691 Palladio building, to withdraw the stock from the market on that date. The company, from its Duluth office, will be glad to supply copies of the prospectus, expert reports, and answer all questions of interest to those seeking a safe and profitable investment.

ORE TRAINS SUSPENDED.

Three Docks Full — Relief Next Sunday.

Thus far this season there has not been an ore boat at the Missabe docks at the West End and all three docks are full. The company has suspended its ore train service from the mines until Sunday when it is expected that the fleet of ore carriers will arrive and relieve the crowded condition at the docks. The Eastern Minnesota docks were also in a crowded condition a few days ago, the stock on hand reaching nearly 90,000 tons, but several shipments during the past week have made it possible for the company to resume hauling.

THE FEDERAL COURT.

Clow vs. Carney Case Is Closed.

At noon today the attorneys were summing up the case of Clow & Nicholson against Carney brothers, involving a contract for hauling ties and poles from the north shore of Lake Superior.

The jury in the case of Clow & Nicholson vs. Carney Bros. & Co., returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $8276.36; practically the full amount sued for.

The case of Fay Carlyle against the Omaha railroad is the next on the calendar and it promises to be one of more than usual interest. The woman claims to have fallen out of a sleeping car and wants damages. There may be some interesting testimony in the case.

The grand jury has found an indictment against David Blunt for perjury. He is charged with having made a homestead entry in this land district after having already made an entry in another district.

Bids For Dredging.

Bids have been opened at the office of United States Engineer D. D. Gaillard for the dredging of about 100,000 cubic yards of material in the Portage lake canals. Among the three bidders, the Duluth Dredge and Dock company's bid was the lowest upon both hard and soft materials. The other bidders were James Pryor, of Houghton and Hingston & Woods, of Buffalo. The local dredge company's bid was 8 and 11 cents per cubic yard. Capt. Gaillard has recommended that the contract be awarded the Duluth Dredge and Dock company.

SMALLPOX

Is Raging at Sitka With Fatal Results.

Sitka, Alaska, May 11 (via Seattle, 16.)—Physicians from Juneau and Skagway have been investigating the smallpox epidemic here and at the Indian ranch, Russian town, and the Indian mission. At the mission there were found over thirty children suffering from smallpox. There have been seven fatalities, all Indians.

A rigid quarantine has been placed on the place. All members of the marine guard have been vaccinated, and among the citizens vaccination has been compulsory.

GOVERNOR SAYS NAY

Root-Carter Fight Cannot Be Pulled Off at Oshkosh.

Governor La Follette Issues Orders to Attorney and Sheriff.

Fight Must Be Prevented, Not Stopped After Beginning.

Chicago, May 16.—In reply to a query as to what action he would take regarding the Root-Carter fight, Governor La Follette telegraphed the Associated Press as follows:

Madison, Wis., May 16.—Respecting your query as to official action in connection with the proposed fight at Oshkosh the following instructions have been issued from this office:

"To Carl Jackson, District Attorney, and Eugene Potter, Sheriff of Winnebago County: You and each of you are directed to take such action as will absolutely prevent any prize fight from taking place anywhere within your county. It will not be held to be a compliance with this order in any respect should you allow a contest to commence and to stop it after a violation of the statute has taken place. No violation of the statute whatever must be permitted, and mere error in judgment will not be accepted as an excuse for such violation. You and each of you will be held accountable for strict enforcement of this order.

"The attorney general of the state will be in Oshkosh to aid and advise you and the adjutant general of the state at hand with full authority to support you with all the power of the state.

"Gen. Charles R. Boardman, adjutant general of the state of Wisconsin, is hereby directed to proceed to Oshkosh to consult with the local authorities and take such steps as he may deem necessary to enforce the law which prohibits prize fighting in this state.

"ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE.
"Governor."

MINE FIRE.

Men Narrowly Escaped From Shaft of Atlantic Mine.

Milwaukee, May 16.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Iron Belt, Wis., says fire started in shaft No. 2 of the Atlantic mine at a late hour last night. One hundred and fifty men who were working in the mine had a narrow escape from death. Paddy Raper and Gustav Waltman descended into the mine when the fire started and notified the crew of their danger. With superhuman efforts the men got out in safety after wading through smoke and fire for a distance of 800 feet, many of the men being nearly overcome by smoke. The mine has been shut down. The loss will be considerable.

BODY FOUND.

Melquist Was Evidently Murdered By Tramps.

St. Paul, May 16.—A Fargo, N. D., special to the Dispatch says: The remains of Charles Melquist, who disappeared a week ago today, were found in the Cheyenne river this afternoon. Every indication is that he had been murdered by tramps.

ASKED TO HURRY.

Want Ratification of Recent Postal Convention.

Washington, May 16.—Almost a score of government, which are members of the universal postal union have not yet sent in their ratifications of the postal convention adopted at the last congress of postal delegates held in this city in the spring of 1897. Generally these ratifications of the convention of one sexteninial congress are not forwarded until after the next congress. At the request, however, of the international postal union bureau at Berne, which is anxious to complete its record of the last meeting, the state department has instructed its ministers at the capitals of those governments which have not yet ratified to ask their early action. The order of the Turkish government to its minister here, to ratify the last convention, as reported in Constantinople advices, has no particular significance for these reasons and the interpretation of these Vienna correspondent of a London paper that the act indicates that "Turkey regrets having started a conflict with the powers," is given no credence here. Turkey's delegates, Moustapha and Afahri, signed the convention at the time and the formal ratification, as understood here, was not delayed by dissatisfaction of any sort.

ILLINOIS G. A. R.

N. B. Thistlewood Elected As Commander.

Peoria, May 16.—At the annual encampment of the Illinois division, G. A. R., N. B. Thistlewood, mayor of Cairo, was elected commander. Rock Island was selected as the meeting place in 1902. The Women's Relief Corps elected Mrs. Sarah H. Baxter, of Pawnee, department president, and the ladies of the G. A. R. elected Mrs. Mary T. Hagar, of Chicago, as their executive officer. The Sons of Veterans elected Frank T. Reid, of Sprinugfield, commander.

MINING IN CANADA.

J. J. Hill Said to Be In Mining Deal.

Montreal, May 16.—James J. Hill has interested himself in mining in Canada. Yesterday a second chartered schooner, carrying a number of men, left on the way toward the north coast to a place known as Riviere St. Jean, in the Labrador district, where work of extensive proportions is now in progress.

That the territory lying north of the St. Lawrence river possesses wealth beyond conception in the way of mines is now on the eve of being proved beyond a doubt. Mr. Hill has interested himself in the matter, and it is alleged he has already under control all the water power throughout the district.

It is known he has purchased land at Riviere St. Jean and that he had already commenced the construction of a handsome residence to be utilized principally by him when on his fishing trips. The structure, which is to be unique, will cost about $50,000. Mr. Hill is expected there in June on his yacht.

THE LATEST

Bulletins Concerning the Condition of Mrs. McKinley.

San Francisco, May 16.—At 11:45 a. m. Secretary Cortelyou made the following statement:

"The physicians have been most of the morning with Mrs. McKinley and report that while she has had no relapse during the morning, her condition is grave. She is not suffering, but is very weak."

San Francisco, May 16.—At noon there was a report that Mrs. McKinley had died and at once flags began to drop to half mast all over the city. It was soon learned that it was incorrect, and gradually the flags were restored to their former position.

WHITEMAN

New York, May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alonzo J. Whiteman, who has been out on bail pending an appeal on a conviction for passing a worthless check on a hotel here, was arrested again today by a Massachusetts detective.

Whiteman is charged with swindling a Boston hotel by means of a bogus check.

GATES HAS GRIEVANCE.

J. Pierpont Morgan Treated Him Very Coldly.

New York, May 16.—It is a matter of current report that John W. Gates, who sailed for Europe on the St. Louis yesterday, has gone to continue an attack on J. Pierpont Morgan, having allied himself with several others who are not in sympathy with Morgan's methods and interests.

Mr. Sates is said to have been very bitter since an interview with Morgan in which the latter said: "You will not be taken into the directorate of the United States Steel corporation, Mr. Gates. Your reputation is of your own making and you are responsible for it. Good day, Mr. Gates."

Among those believed to be now allied with Mr. Gates are I. L. Elwood, Levi Z. Leiter, Loyal L. Smith, John Lambert, Max Pam and William Lorimer.

John W. Gates and his son Charles I. Gates, applicants for membership in the New York Athletic club, failed to have their names approved by the committee on admission, and in consequence, their candidacies will not come up for consideration at the regular meeting of the club today. Much feeling is declared to exist, but there is nothing tangible to indicate the slightest friction.

FISHERMEN'S DISPUTE.

"The old spite boat on the bench at Grand Manan," said Capt. Tom Hunt the other day to the Bucksport correspondent of the New York Sun, "is a striking illustration of how far the stubbornness of some people is carried. Rather than give in both owners of the schooner decided to leave her to the ravages of time. The boat was the former property of two Canadian fishermen who made a living by catching cod, pollock and other fish so common in the Bay of Fundy, until a disagreement arose. They each wanted to buy out the interest of the other in the schooner.

"This was not an easy matter. They found that the price could not be agreed upon. There seemed to be no way to settle the ownership until one of the fishermen proposed to take his half of the boat and thus end the dispute. How this was done at first was a mystery, but the part owner soon made his appearance on the beach armed with a long saw. He had the agreement of the other owner, and immediately began the cutting of the small schooner in two parts. She was divided equally midships.

The work was slow, but in a few hours the saw had done its duty in dividing the craft and settling its ownership. It was thought that each of the fishermen would start in to build a new half to his piece on the beach, but this time it has not been done, and there is little indication that the craft will ever again toss on the high waves in the Bay of Fundy."

DEAL IN COFFINS.

When George F. Gilman, the tea store man, whose millions are in dispute, became old enough to go into business, his father arranged a partnership for him with a Mr. Miles, who had been a successful leather merchant in the Swamp. Young Gilman did not care for the leather business, but he obeyed his father's wishes, says the New York Sun.

Mr. Miles, his partner, was a much older man, and, as Gilman soon discovered, he was inclined to devote most of his time to outside interests, among them being a new cemetery. One day Mr. Miles came down to the office and said:

"Mr. Gilman, I did a good stroke of business today. I bought ten cemetery lots and then sold nine of them for what ten cost me. That leaves me one lot for clear profit."

Gilman didn't see that this meant any profit for the firm of Miles & Gilman, and on the following morning when he reached the office he said to Mr. Miles:

"I did a good stroke of business myself this morning. I stopped at a Broadway undertaker's and bought ten coffins. I sold nine of them for what I paid for the ten, leaving one coffin clear profit. I have saved this coffin for you, Mr. Miles, thinking that you might use it in your cemetery lot."

Mr. Miles glared at the young man and then retired to his own office. When he reappeared several hours lated it was to announce that the co-partnership was dissolved. This left Gilman free to carry out his tea store idea and by it he made millions.

HAIR TURNED WHITE.

Was Locked In a Room With Lunatic.

Every day at a certain hour, at a certain steet corner in this city, a young woman stops the street car and slips shyly into an inconspicuous seat. She does her best to avoid attracting attention, but there is never a time when the other passengers do not look at her with open and undisguised curiosity, says the New Orleans Picayune. She is a dainty, retined, charming little woman, who has a position as stenographer in a business office down town. There is nothing in her appearance to attract attention—except the fact that the hair coiled in heavy masses above her youthful face is snowy white. That white hair, like the hero's in Byron's poem, "grew white in a single night." This is the way she tells how it happened: "Several years ago I accepted an invitation from a school friend to visit her in the country. She lived in a rather lonely place, and with the exception of the other members of the family, there was no one nearer than a mile in any direction. It happened that, appreciating the isolation of the house, several other visitor had been invited to meet me. They had all arrived before me, and been duly assigned to their rooms. I drove up after nightfall, and was received with rather an apologetic air. It seemed that all the bedrooms in the main building had been assigned, and it would be necessary for me to occupy one night at least an apartment on the second floor of one of the outbuildings. I was then of anything but a nervous disposition, and ont there in the peaceful country it seemed more than unlikely that anybody or anything could disturb me. So I willingly consented, and was shown to my room. It was a large and comfortable one, with several windows, and was approached by a staircase from the lower floor, so built that it could be closed by a door and a spring lock.

"My hostess and I sat and chatted a while, and then she bade me a cheerful good-night and left me. I heard her shut the door after her, and the snap of the spring lock, followed by the grating of the key as she turned it in the lock, told me that I was a prisoner. I leaned out of the window and asked her why she locked me in. 'Because,' she answered, 'this lock turns only from the outside, and either you must be a prisoner for tonight or leave the door open. Shall I throw you the key?' But I had no thought of evil, and told her that it was a matter of no importance, merely adding jestingly that she must be sure to let me out early in the morning. Then I went to bed.

"I must have slept some hours, when I suddenly experienced a feeling of extreme terror, and woke up. A broad flood of moonlight poured in at the open windows. In the midst of the white brilliancy I saw the silhouette of a man sharply defined. It was a most awful apparition. The man was frightfully disheveled. His matted hair stood up from his head in every direction. His clothing was in rags. He made a strange and sinister outline against the brightly-illumined window. Fortunately, as I know now, the moonlight did not shine upon the bed. It was concealed in the shadow, so that the intruder could not see more of it than the vague outline, and certainly saw nothing of its very much alarmed occupant. Finally the men—or ghost, as I thought him at the time—began to advance in a furtive, uncertain sort of way. He was approaching me. I slipped from the bed o the side farthest from him, and cowered against the wall. Still he approached. I crept toward a corner, and as luck would have it, my hand fell upon the partly-drawn drapery, which covered a sort of alcove, where clothing was hanging. I slipped behind this scanty protection, but kept my eyes fastened upon the stranger. He evidently neither heard nor saw me, for, arriving at the bed, he slowly allowed himself to sink across the foot of it, and apparently fell into a deep sleep. But imagine in what a state of nervous dread I was! I dared not call, for fear of waking the sleeper. I could not get out, for the staircase door was locked. I could not climb out of the windows, for they were too high from the ground. I cannot describe to you what I endured during that night.

"For hours I stood there, motionless, not daring to move, every moment expecting something terrible to happen. At last the day began to dawn. Still the stranger slept. I cautiously and noiselessly issued from my place of concealment, and took a position at a window which overlooked the yard of the house, hoping to attract the attention of the first person who should be astir in the household. I do not know how long it was before one of the hired men strolled leisurely into sight. I beckoned to him, and he saw me. But imagine my consternation, when, instead of coming to my assistance, he showed every sign of alarm and hastily ran into the house. A moment later he returned with several others, and pointed to me. I renewed my gestures, and the whole group was visibly disconcerted. And then—thank heaven—my hostess came out. I managed to convey to her, by an imploring gland and outstretched arms, that I wished to get out. She hastily opened the door, and I fell into her arms, stammering out an account of what had happened. Then the men rushed upstairs and found my midnight visitor sleeping peacefully. Afterward it was ascertained that he was an escaped lunatic, who had been at large some days. He was made fast, and some hours later delivered to the authorities at the asylum where he had been detained. I was utterly prostrated by the experience, through which I had passed. But the singular thing is that within twelve hours my hair turned white—as white as you see it now."

COURT CHAMBERLAIN.

Richmond, Ind., May 16.—It is unofficially reported here that Frank McNutt, formerly of this city, who now lives in Rome, has been appointed court chamberlain by the pope. Mrs. Augustus Scott, cousin of Mr. McNutt, says the report is true, that he was appointed some time ago, but the appointment was not made public.

"Hardware Hustlers." 2110-2112 West Superior Street, Duluth, Minn.

AT WEST DULUTH

In spite of repeated assertions on the part of the men who went out at the local sawmills that they are yet confident of winning their fight against the lumber companies for higher wages, the indications this morning are such as would lead most people to believe that they have come to the conclusion that the strike was a failure. The men held another meeting last evening and this morning it was reported that a committee of three of the strikers went out to Cloquet to learn if places could be found for the men that are out at West Duluth. It is believed that there are about 200 men that are without jobs. While some have already left the city in search of work elsewhere, there are a large number that will find it difficult to locate in other mills on account of the number of men now looking for work.

The lumber companies are daily receiving letters of inquiry from all over the state from men that are looking for mill work and say that no trouble is being experienced in getting all the labor necessary. The Mitchell & McClure mill, which was the first to be closed down by the strike among the pilers, started running at its full capacity yesterday and is making arrangements to resume a night run with two band saws. The report that the manufacturers are paying the fare of men from outside the city that are seeking employment in the yards is said to be erroneous.

WAS A FOREMAN.

Through a misunderstanding it was stated yesterday that Alfred Clements, who was fatally injured by a Missabe engine on Tuesday night, was a fireman. Mr. Clements was a foreman in the car shops and was very popular with the many men employed there. They wish it stated that Mr. Clements was in the act of going to the round house that night and stepped on the front of an engine, that the pilot broke, caught on a rail and he was thrown under the engine.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

The home of Kenneth McDonald, in Munger terrace, Fifty-third avenue west, was the scene of a very pleasant surprise party last evening. About forty of his friends and neighbors dropped in to help him celebrate his forty-fifth birthday anniversary, and a very enjoyable evening was had. Among the social amusements of the evening were music and cards. Progressive cinch was played and the head prize was won by Mrs. Robinson. Mrs. Edward Dormedy was given the foot prize.

Miss Margaret McGrath, of Fifty-ninth avenue west, was pleasantly surprised by about thirty of her friends last evening. Dancing was indulged in, followed by refreshments.

R. B. Newsome, formerly a barber at West Duluth, writes friends that he has just returned to St. Paul from his first trip to the Pacific coast on the Great Northern car in which he is employed, and he likes his new position very much. Mr. Newsome met in Spokane C. W. Hoyt, a former resident of West Duluth, who said that he was doing very well in that city.

J. J. Moran, West Duluth's pioneer newsdealer, has removed his place of business from the east side of Central avenue to 405 Central avenue.

Samuel Carruthers, the deputy game warden, and party returned this morning from a fishing excursion. Their luck was only fair.

Mrs. Coolihan, of Morris, Minn., is the guest of Mrs. Robert Hayden, of the Munger terrace.

Iver Seastead, Edward Carpenter, William Tremont, P. J. Mulligan, Leon LeCase, Steven Krakenberger and T. J. Ultican made up a party that left today to drive to Cloquet, where they will attend the grand ball given at that place this evening by the Modern Woodmen.

John Feely and son have returned from a visit at Cloquet.

Henry Schwalm is in Two Harbors.

P. J. Dyer, of Anoka, is visiting in West Duluth.

The Neighbors of Bamford camp, No. 1027, R. N. Y. A., are requested to meet at Gilley's hall Saturday evening, May 18. Important business to come before the camp. Elizabeth A. Smart, oracle.

CAMBON IN CHICAGO.

French Ambassador Visits the Windy City.

Chicago, May 16.—M. Jules Cambon, French ambassador to the United States, arrived in this city at 9 a. m. today over the Pennsylvania railroad. He was met by Henri Moru, French consul at Chicago; James Deering and a committee from the University of Chicago. This is M. Cambon's first visit to Chicago, and is chiefly for the purpose of sanctioning the co-operation of the alliance Francaise and the University of Chicago.

After inquiring as to the condition of Mrs. McKinley, the ambassador was escorted to the residence of James Deering, where he spent the forenoon receiving friends. At noon he attended a luncheon at the Chicago club, given by Martin A. Ryerson. At 3:30 p. m. he will be taken to the University of Chicago, where a welcome will be extended to him by Professor E. J. James, and the ambassador in response will tell of the work of the alliance Francaise. A reception at the Quadrangle club will be followed at 7 o'clock by a dinner at the Union League club.

M. Cambon's visit is expected to last until Sunday.

LIBRARIES FOR GLASGOW.

London, May 16.—Andrew Carnegie has given £100,000 to establish district libraries in Glasgow.

Spring Renovations

are in progress now and brightening up the ravages that winter has made on house, barns and fences. A new coat of paint makes your house look like new. But "all isn't paint that glistens." The stock of paints, oils, white lead, colors, etc., and the fine line of mixed paints to be found here, are warranted to stand all kinds of weather.

IN MICHIGAN.

A Railroad to Be Built From St. Ignace to Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie—A number of Chicago capitalists are planning to build a railroad from St. Ignace, Mich., to the Sault. It has been incorporated in Michigan under the name of the Northern Michigan railroad. The line will be sixty miles long.

Escanaba—The new Milwaukee company's ore dock was opened for shipping Wednesday, the Harvey H. Brown taking the first shipment to Cleveland. This is the only dock the Milwaukee has here, but it promises a larger system in a year or two. The dock is one of the best on the great lakes, and has a capacity of 20,000 tons.

Ironwood—There is a persistent rumor to the effect that the Ashland mine has been sold to the United States Steel corporation, though the report is denied at the local office. It is understood that the Oliver company stood ready to take over the property at any time the owners were willing to accept the price offered, but the deal never came to a head while the Carnegie interests were in control. The Ashland is incorporated for $1,000,000 and it is probable that a somewhat higher price was paid, providing the mill has been sold.

Pittsburg officials of the Oliver Mining company will erect a $10,000 club house at Clark lake, near here, the coming summer. The plans have already been received for the inspection of local officials. Clark lake lies in the midst of Michigan's best hunting and fishing grounds and is an ideal place for a resort.

Calumet—The Michigan Telephone company began work this week with a force of about fifty men, digging the ditches through Fifth street for conduits for the wires. The poles on Fifth street will be taken down after the work in hand is finished.

Menominee — The Kirby-Carpenter company has sold its brick mill to William Holmes and J. H. Patterson, superintendent of the company. The new owners will take possession Jan. 1, 1902. The mill will continue to be operated. Mr. Holmes owns large tracts of hardwood timber lands and the new owners have sufficient stock to keep the mill in operation for many years. Logging operations will start next winter and a big stock of timber will be put in. Most of the logs will be brought by rail. Mr. Patterson will superintend the operations while Mr. Holmes will have charge of the logging. The mill will probably be operated a greater part of the year.

IS PROGRESSIVE.

Viceroy of Canton Orders Needed Improvements.

Hong Kong, May 16.—The viceroy of Canton has signed a contract for the removal of the Maco barrier in the Canton river, constructed during the Franco-Chinese war, which has been a great obstacle to navigation. The viceroy has also squelched the native opposition to construction of new wharves, pointing out that they are necessary to the interests of trade. The viceroy's action is creating a good impression.

EXTENDING RAILROAD.

Pekin, May 16.—The British military authorities are extending the railroad to Tung Chow, along the Pei Ho. This will greatly facilitate the withdrawal of the foreign troops, and, commercially, will cause important developments in the north after the work of pacification is completed.

SCHOONER WRECKED.

Victoria, B. C., May 16.—News has been received here by the steamer Moana of the wreck of the American schooner Helene Nicholson, of Tacoma, bound from Apia for Sydney, on an unchartered reef, about sixty-two miles from Noumena, New Caledonia. All hands were saved.

A GREAT SCHEMER

Edward H. Harriman Who Recently Worsted J. Pierpont Morgan.

Small and Slight, the Physical Duplicate of Jay Gould.

He Is the Closest Personal Friend of Banker Stillman.

New York, May 16.—Few know anything of Edward H. Harriman, whose successful buck against J. Pierpont Morgan in the recent panic brought him to the front as the only man who had ever gone into a combat with that gentleman and come out winner. Yet Harriman's name will go down in the history of American finance along with that of Jay Gould. It was due entirely to his manipulation that the crash came. But for him the corner in Northern Pacific stock would have been impossible, and he, by his determined fight, shook the markets of the civilized world. Harriman is a fighter from the word go, and is the only man of the thousands in Wall street who dare to meet Morgan on his own ground.

Harriman is small and slight, the physical duplicate of Jay Gould. He has other qualities which liken him to the Wizard. He is 5 feet 4 inches in height and weighs less than 130 pounds. He has glittering black eyes that would make the fortune of a professional hypnotist.

Harriman's eyes are famous in Wall street. Laughingly men say that he can look through the steel side of a battleship.

He has another peculiarity. It is his hat. It is always a black Derby, rather dingy, and a size too big for him. He wears it in two ways, either pulled down forward so that the brim hides his eyes, or jammed down on the back of his head so that his ears stick out like a schoolboy's.

He doesn't dress well. He isn't actually shabby, as he gets his clothes at a good tailor's, who charges him fancy prices, but he doesn't know how to wear them. They get out of gear just as his hat does.

He is as dark as Jay Gould was. His hair is black, his mustache is black, his skin is dark and his eyes are nearly as black as eyes can be.

He goes about his work as if he were on springs. He is chock full of nervous energy, and bounds from one place to another with never-ceasing restlessness. How he manages to buckle down to one thing long enough to complete it is a mystery to those who do not know him.

The explanation is that his mind works with the speed of lightning.

He reaches a decision in momentous matters almost before a person talking to him has finished laying the problem before him.

Harriman, it is said, carries a perfect map of the railroad system, big and little, in the United States in his head. It is always before him. It is said of him that he knows every inch of ground in the United States, and just what it is worth from a railroad standpoint, and the exact value of every town and village.

Harriman is not only a railroad man, but a financier. Above all, he is a strategist. In the latter respect Morgan is said to be his inferior by capable judges.

And he is ambitious; ambitious to surpass Morgan in the railroad world, and, perhaps, if the real truth were known, jealous of Morgan's great supremacy.

Long ago partisans of Morgan said he could crush Harriman with a blow if he deemed it worth while. Since last Monday those opinions have changed.

Harriman is not nearly as rich individually as Morgan, perhaps not one-fourth as rich. Yet it must be remembered that in the fight against Morgan he had limitless millions behind him, and he could match dollar for dollar every one that the Hill-Morgan syndicate could put up.

Where did this money come from? Not from Harriman alone, not from Kuhn, Loeb & Co. alone, though that concern is far richer and more powerful in the finances of the world than most people think. Behind it is the Deutsche Bank of Berlin, an institution with tremendous resources.

Harriman is the closest personal friend that James Stillman, president of the National City bank, has. Every afternoon Harriman can be found in the office of Mr. Stillman. Often they go down town together in the morning. More often they go up town together in the afternoon.

Here is another fact.

Stillman is ambitious to become supreme in the banking business of the United States. More than once he has said that he wants to make the National City bank in this country what the Bank of England is in Great Britain. The one man who overtops him and blocks the way of his ambition is J. Pierpont Morgan.

The one man who blocks the ambition of Edward H. Harriman to become the greatest single power in American railroading is J. Pierpont Morgan.

Stillman has the hundreds of millions of the Rockefellers behind him. One of the wheels within wheels of the Northern Pacific panic was the part that James Stillman took in it. The money broker that his bank always employs loaned money at 80 per cent at the height of the panic.

To be the son of a clergyman, inheriting only intellect, tolerable health and a good name; to be neither great of stature nor of presence; to do nothing unless to do it well; to become, through the years, by patience, clear sight and a touch of genius, a master of the intricacies of railway management; to sit alone and dream dreams that are to come true; to wake up, a middle-aged man, and find oneself in control of the railroads of the greatest railroad nation on earth—these have made a typical career in this republic.

It has been the career of Edward H. Harriman, railway king, greater than ever was Jay Gould, controlling more railroads and possessed today of as many millions.

Morgan has the Midas touch that can summon gold from every contact; James J. Hill is the great builder who sees opportunity and never allows a day of sunshine to pass without making some hay; the Rockefellers are the incarnation of monopoly, who have had the courage to grow rich by killing competition. But Harriman is the creator, the schemer, the man with the great and accurate imagination. He is not, in his simple office in the Equitable building, surrounded by waiting brokers' clerks, or the blustering center of men gathered about a ticket. He is not the burly, willful banker, chestout, meeting all comers. He is not the bloodless soul of calm, fanatically crushing down all competition in the zealous quest for gold. He is secretive, saturnine and peculiar. Few know where to find him; few see him who know where he is. He delights in the solitude of great thinkers. He communes with himself.

His brain by reason of its long concord with rails and routes, is wide America, and trains troop through it; traffic systems lie along its ganglia, and out of its convolutions new railway combinations spring.

Harriman has that Napoleonic quality which first constructs a castle of air, then turns it into stone. Dreamer he is, but once awake he sets boundless energy to work in realizing what his imagination has wrought.

Harriman's people lived in New Jersey, and when he came to New York in his teens, he entered the world that had always lived in his fancy—Wall street. He was yet a very young man when he became a broker. His temperament was ideal for the brokerage business. He had the clear judgment of men and things that made him a real prophet in the speculative world, and he soon had as large a following as any man "in the street." He mastered the difficult art of stock speculation. His restless nature craved new worlds. He was not satisfied with the excellent returns of stock commissions. He opened a banker's office, and then hung out a sign which commanded the respect of Wall street, bearing the legend, "Edward Harriman, banker and broker."

As a broker Mr. Harriman became interested in the Illinois Central with Stuyvesant Fish, who has long been a power in that railroad corporation. Mr. Harriman soon became the leading power in the affairs of the Illinois Central. He showed by patient industry that he had the constructive, as well as the imaginative, faculty. He went to work to make the Illinois Central the greatest railroad entering Chicago.

Like many of America's rich men Mr. Harriman's tastes and manner of life are simple. His fad is fine stock and fast horses, particularly if the latter be pacers. Mr. Harriman has bred some of the finest horses in the country at Arden Farms, in Orange county. He has owned the great "sidewheeler" John R. Gentry. He has taken great delight in improving the stock of Jersey and incidentally has built some of the finest roads in the country.

He organized among other enterprises for improving the type of horses, the Orange County Horse Show association, and its recent exhibitions have brought forward some of the best trotting stock ever seen in the East. Mr. Harriman has an extensive country place at Tuxedo, and his Jerseys there are noted. He is very fond of these pretty, gentle-eyed cattle, and has spent many hours of his recreation with them.

SHE HAD A VISION.

Woman Had a Presentiment of Husband's Death.

Zanesville, Ohio, May 16.—Charles Robison and his three sons were at work in a field at their farm home, near Philo, this county, last Saturday, when a storm arose. Mr. Robison and the youngest son, aged 12, took shelter beneath one tree, while the two other sons hurried under another tree. A flash of lightning and a thunder clap and Mr. Robison says he felt as though his head was bumped against the tree, after which he fell unconscious.

When he recovered consciousness, half an hour later, he saw his little son sitting on the ground rubbing his leg and crying. Beneath the branches of the other tree the two other boys were lying flat on their backs and unconscious. He found one of his sons breathing heavily and the other apparently dead.

A barbed wire fence which had been built between the two trees had been melted, and a short distance away a small tree, to which the wire had been attached, was cut to kindling wood.

Mr. Robison took his two unconscious sons under his arms and started home, with the younger boy limping at his side. That night one of the boys was able to take food, but the other did not recover consciousness until Monday. Both will recover.

The attending physicians say that all that saved the two eldest boys was the fact that they were thrown on their backs, so that the rain could fall upon their faces. Three of the four were barefooted, and the son wearing shoes was the most severely shocked. The lightning passed down one leg and tore a shoe from the foot.

Another strange thing about the accident is Mrs. Robison's presentiment. She was engaged with her daughter about the house when the storm came up, and when the sharp flash of lightning was seen the mother jumped up and exclaimed to her daughter, weeping: "Lesta, your father is killed." No argument could convince her that Mr. Robison had not met death, and she started to the field at once, meeting the stricken party on the way home.

GIVEN THREE YEARS.

Boy Made a Criminal By His Father.

Memphis, Tenn., May 16.—Joseph Bennett, aged 16, has been sentenced to three years in the national reformatory at Washington, D. C. Young Bennett is one of the most picturesque figures in criminal history, and is the son of one of the most ingenious counterfeiters in the country. The boy has led the life of a universal waif. He was born in St. Louis, and while of tender years his father utilized him in his counterfeiting business to pass the money.

The boy's mother rebelled against her son being used for the purpose of putting counterfeit money into circulation. A fierce quarrel resulted and she and her husband separated. The latter took the boy with him, but the separation resulted in an exposure of the whereabouts of father and son. United States Marshal Baker captured the son, but the father fled and is still in hiding.

The elder Bennett is an old hand at the business. He makes a dollar out of silver that has the same bullion value as the dollar minted by Uncle Sam. He buys his silver at the market price, molds it in dies that are perfect, and produces a coin that defies detection. His profit is in the difference between the bullion value of the silver and the intrinsic value of the dollar.

The favorite field for Bennett's operations has been along the Mississippi valley. He had been trailed through this section time and again by secret service agents, but they have never been able to catch him. He was in Memphis early in January, and while here managed to get rid of a large quantity of home-made dollars. His boy Joseph was with him. From here he sent the lad to Humboldt, Tenn., for the purpose of disposing of a quantity of the coin.

When officers arrested the boy they found a sack of new silver dollars upon his person. They turned him over to the federal authorities, to whom he made a confession.

FALL CURED HER.

Jump From Window Made Detia Walker Rational.

Chicago, May 16.—Detia Walker, 24 years old, leaped from the dining room of the county hospital to the ground, sixty feet below. Both her wrists and her nose were broken and she suffered slight bruises, but the remarkable effect of her fall was that whereas she had been demented, she has become rational, and the hallucinations that caused her to be brought to the hospital last Saturday have disappeared.

Eccentricities in her actions were noticed by Mrs. William A. Rice, 2207 Clinton avenue, Oak Park, in whose family Miss Walker has lived for nine years. The young woman complained that her head was cracking open, and demanded of her mistress aid to bind it up, so that the skull would not fall apart.

Diagnosis at the hospital showed that the patient was suffering from a brain tumor. A surgical operation, it was decided, was her only hope. As the dementia was not of the violent type, she was permitted to go in the dining room for breakfast. It was noticed that she placed her hand to her head as if suffering pain. Then, without a word of warning, she stepped to an open window and threw herself out.

The attendants expected to find her dashed to death, but to their relief found her still living, but with injuries that may interfere with her treatment for brain tumor. Their greatest surprise followed when she talked of herself with a rationality previously foreign to her conversation. The attending doctors believe her brain trouble has been permanently cured.

DODGING DETECTIVES.

Prominent Chicago Business Man Is In Trouble.

Chicago, May 16.—Egbert H. Gold, president and manager of the Gold Car Heating company, is being sought by detectives on information that he is the man who conspired with "Mother" Lyons, now on trial in Judge Tuley's court, to accomplish the betrayal of Jennie Johnson, a 17-year-old girl whom "Mother" Lyons employed ostensibly as a servant and companion.

The girl was rescued from a dangerous situation by Rev. H. G. Condit, assistant pastor of the Tabernacle Congregational church, and "Mother" Lyons was arrested on a charge of abduction. Gold, who has been known heretofore as "Bert Brown," would also have been arrested then had he not avoided the detectives sent to locate him.

Gold was not to be caught off his guard. Although he resides with his wife and two grown children at No. 5837 Indiana avenue, and has an office in the Rookery building, detectives have been unable to catch him at either place. It is known that he has kept away from Chicago most of the time since the arrest of "Mother" Lyons. The detectives traced him to St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha and last Saturday he visited Chicago.

STOREY WINS.

Takes Diamond Badge For the Second Time.

Eight enthusiastic members of the Central Gun club showed up at the regular weekly shoot yesterday and in spite of the rain and poor working of the trap, shot through one of the most interesting contests of the season. The first event was a 20-bird practice shoot and Tom Storey, who has been absent from the last two shoots, gave an indication of what was coming by breaking twenty straight. In the diamond badge contest the scores were way up and Nelson and Storey had to shoot off a tie, each having broken forty-eight out of a possible fifty, Storey breaking twenty-five straight on the last round. On the shoot-off Nelson missed his eleventh bird and Storey broke his, taking the diamond badge for the second time. The scores were as follows:

First event, twenty birds, practice—Storey, 20; Culp, 19; Nelson, 18; Burdett, 17; Griesner, 16; Brown, 15; Witter, 15; Jim, 12.

Next Sunday the diamond badge will be contested for by a number of cracks, who hope to get into the contest May 26, when all those who have held the badge will contest for its permanent possession. The shoot will begin at 3 p. m. sharp.

THE HEALTH OFFICER.

Dr. Robinson Tells Troubles to Doctors.

A regular bi-weekly meeting of the Inter-Urban Academy of Medicine was held at the Spalding last evening. The paper of the evening, "Municipal Health," was presented by Dr. J. M. Robinson. He explained many of the difficulties under which a health officer labors, but no specific recommendations were made, the paper being, in a large part, a resume of the doctor's trials, troubles and triumphs in the Duluth health department during the year past.

The next meeting of the academy will be held at West Superior and it is possible that the subject of municipal health may be continued at that time.

MME. BLOOMFIELD ZEISLER

Concert at High School This Evening.

This evening Mme. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler will appear at the High School assembly hall in a piano recital and every music lover in the city will doubtless be found in her audience. Of all the pianists of this country none has won more lasting fame than has this gifted woman. She has been proclaimed on two continents as one of the very few thorough masters of the instrument. Improving the Farm.

The county chain gang has abandoned its road work temporarily, and is once more engaged in improving the poor farm. Last year eighty acres were cleared up, the trees, stumps and stones being removed. This year the gang is working upon the same eighty acres, preparing it for planting, and when the work is done the tract will be one of the producing areas of the poor farm.

AMUSEMENTS.

"MORE THAN QUEEN."

The production of "More Than Queen" at the Lyceum tomorrow and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon will be the equal if not the superior of anything in the dramatic line with which Duluth has been favored during this theatrical season. In brilliancy of costuming and in richness of scenic embellishment it is one of the most superb things ever put before the people.

Blanche Walsh has essayed many roles that have made her name conspicuous in the dramatic world, but in none has she won more lasting fame than in that of Josephine in this play. The Portland Evening Telegram says of her:

"This role has in it many contrasts of feminine character, and it widens the field for a display of skill which is intelligently grasped by the actress and presented in an admirable manner to the best advantage. Josephine's character, whatever it may have been in reality, is one worthy of the highest respect in the hands of Miss Walsh. She infuses life, energy, fire, love, passion and dignity, and these qualifications are exploited in due proportion and at the proper period. Blessed with a beautiful face and handsome figure, Miss Walsh is well fitted to portray a queenly role. Her every movement is as one would conceive a queen, dignified when the occasion demands and womanly when descending to the home relation. In brief, Miss Walsh has found a part which exactly conforms to her style of acting and which enables her to do wonders."

NEW LIVERY STABLE.

L. P. Totman at Second Avenue East.

G. G. Hartley has arranged for the building of a livery stable for L. P. Totman at the corner of Superior street and Second avenue east on property owned by Sidney M. Wright, of Philadelphia, for whom Mr. Hartley is agent.

The building will go up opposite the Masonic Temple and will give Mr. Totman an excellent location. The contract has already been let to Pearson & Fawcett and work will begin at once. The building will be 50 by 115 feet, two stories high and will cost $10,000.

The Pan-American Exposition

The exposition at Buffalo will be one of the greatest this country has ever seen. The entire machinery will be run by the power furnished from Niagara Falls. Although the motive power required is enormous, we believe it is equal to the task, the same as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is equal to the task of supplying the human body with motive power when it is enfeebled and run down. Its power to revitalize the system and supply new life and energy is well known. There is no other medicine in the world so good for dyspepsia, indigestion, flatulency and nervousness. It has been the favorite medicine for over fifty years. Be sure and get the genuine with private revenue stamp over the neck of the bottle.

EAGLES IN SESSION.

The Order Reported In Excellent Condition.

San Francisco, May 16.—The reports of the officers of the Grand Aerie of Eagles, now in session here, show the order to be in a flourishing condition. The candidates for worthy grand priest are Del Carey Smith, of Spokane, an attorney-at-law, and Dr. J. B. Schwatka, sheriff of Baltimore, Md., and also a candidate for mayor of that city. For the meeting place of the next grand aerie there is keen competition between Dallas, Tex.; Atlantic City, N. J.; Denver and Omaha.

THE DEAF TO MEET

Minnesota Association to Hold Convention In Duluth.

Session Will Be From August 24 to 28 Inclusive.

Jay Cooke Howard of Duluth President of Association.

During the summer there will be held in Duluth a unique convention, the first of its kind ever held here. It can be safely assumed the delegates will be a quiet and orderly lot, and the utmost decorum will prevail over their deliberations. No matter how fervid the arguments may get over issues that may come up before the convention, there will be none of the noisy scenes that sometimes prevail in gatherings of this sort.

The convention is that of the Minnesota Association of the Deaf, and it will be held in Duluth Aug. 24 to 28 inclusive. It will be the sixth convention of the association, which has been organized for a number of years, and includes a large membership all over the state. Arrangements are now being made, but it is too far ahead to have them in definite shape. A good crowd is expected; not a large one, but it will be composed of the smartest deaf men in the state, and they are as smart as any that can be found. The delegates will probably number 75, and they will come from all parts of the state.

The association is incorporated, and its objects can best be stated by a quotation from the constitution, as follows: "The objects of this association are mutual aid in securing moral, intellectual and social improvement; the strength and usefulness which union gives, and the advocacy of such measures as will tend to place the deaf on a higher plane in the estimation of society at large." Jay Cooke Howard, of this city, is president of the association, and the other officers are as follows: T. Sheridan, Dexter, first vice president; C. Thompson, St. Paul, second vice president; J. S. Brown, Minneapolis, secretary; L. W. Hodgman, Red Wing, treasurer.

That the association is a live and active institution may be gathered by its accomplishment during the late session of the legislature. In the board of control bill that was pending the first impulse was to place the school for the deaf on the same footing as the school for the feeble-minded and the charitable and corrective institutions. This was objected to by the deaf people of the state, and a committee of the association went after it and succeeded in getting the school for the deaf placed where it belongs, among the educational institutions alongside of the state university, instead of in the same class as the penitentiary and the school for the feeble-minded. Minnesota now stands alone in this respect, placing the deaf on the same plane with the hearing.

The convention will be open to the public, and it is desired that everybody attend and see that deaf people are in all respects except their hearing just exactly like other people. That is one of the purposes of the organization. It will surely be interesting to the general public, for it will be found that the convention will be conducted with due regard to parliamentary rules and with an atmosphere of quiet and order that will give pointers to the city council, the board of county commissioners and other public deliberative bodies.

Jay Cooke Howard, president of the association, was asked about the convention yesterday, and he had the following to say in reference to the association: "You will appreciate that the general public know very little about the deaf. They see 'deaf' (?) peddlers, beggers, etc., and the real deaf man is at work earning his living, often supporting the rest of the family. In Minnesota there are about 800 graduates of the Faribault school, and not one of them is in prison or in a poor house. We are organized primarily to look after legislation and such matters bearing upon the condition of the deaf as a class. We hold conventions to discuss such matters and to educate the public as to the deaf, and enlist its interest and support in securing justice for ourselves. The deaf have had a hard row to hoe. If they are inclined to be jolly they are supposed to be weak-minded. If they are sober and quiet they are thought to be morose. The wish of the deaf is that they be considered like other people aside from their sense of hearing."

A SAVING.

Cost of Burying Paupers to Be Cut Down.

The poor board, at its meeting yesterday afternoon, adopted a resolution that will result in making a considerable saving in the cost of burying paupers. Hereafter all dead paupers will be buried from Duluth at the poor farm cemetery. The average cost of such burials is $2.40, and the cost of burials in the outside towns has been $17.50. Hereafter, when a pauper dies in an outside town the body will be shipped to Duluth for burial. This will cost one fare, and will make the total cost about $5 or $6, making a saving of $10 or $11 on every outside case. The expenses for burials from outside towns last month was $119.

The board has authorized the purchase of fifty suits of blue drilling cloth for use this summer by the poor farm inmates. A number of applications for aid were received and acted upon, and four or five applicants who have been accustomed to receiving aid were cut off the list.

A Youthful Traveler.

Raymond Bullock, a 13-year-old St. Paul boy, presumably starting out on a Wild West career, was gathered in by the police last night and will be sent back to the parental home today. The youngster arrived on the train last night. Around his person was a belt and pistol holster and in the holster was a pearl handled dagger. In his pockets was the princely sum of $2.30 with which to do Duluth.

PUSHING IT.

Superior After Annulment of Street Railway Franchise.

Despite the fact that the Duluth-Superior Traction company has already begun the extensive improvements on its lines in West Superior, City Attorney McKay is determined to keep up the fight to annul the company's franchise Some time ago he started proceedings for annulment on the ground that the company does not furnish safe transportation and that the provisions of the franchise and agreement have been violated. The action against the company was started after announcement had been made that many thousands of dollars would be expended in making improvements, and it is believed by more than a few that the whole fight was caused over the removal of the company's offices and shops from West Superior to Duluth. The removal of the offices was a matter of considerable chagrin to the Superiorites and the city's action now looks like an attempt ot get back at hte company.

Mr. McKay has received a letter from the attorney general of Wisconsin in which the latter says he has notified Senator Spooner, the company's attorney, that the city has a prima facie case and that unless the company files its brief within a week he will commence action in behalf of the city to vacate the franchise. According to the date of the letter the company's brief must be in by tomorrow. Some of the Superior people are wondering whether in the event that annulment proceedings are begun, the street car company will not put a stop to all its improvement work until the courts settle the matter. This may drag along a year or more.

GOOD ONE ON HIM.

An Official's Smallness Buys Him Trouble.

In railroad circles a story at the expense of a certain public official is going the rounds. It seems that he was in the West, traveling on a pass. He came to a point where his pass was not good, and though he had only a few miles to travel and the fare would only have amounted to about 50 cents, he traded passes with another man on the train whose pass was good for the additional distance.

In some way the conductor caught on to the game, however, and when he came around to collect fares he took up the public official's pass and made him pay fare. He not only had to pay fare on the short distance, but he had to put up fare for the whole distance back to Duluth, all because he objected to paying the fare on the short distance.

LUNG IS REMOVED.

California Man Undergoes An Unusual Operation.

Santa Ana, Cal., May 16.—Perry Taylor, of this place, enjoys the rare distinction of being one of the few human beings from whom medical science has successfully removed an entire lung.

The patient, who is 26 years of age, was stricken about four years ago with what he believed was tuberculosis or galloping consumption, and was treated accordingly by physicians he consulted.

Fully 240 cysts were removed in one operation; then it was decided that the whole lung would have to come out. The operation was speedily performed, the patient sewed up again with the great void within, and nature allowed to take its kindly course. Taylor seems to have recovered his strength and is in the best of spirits.

TOWNE IS INVESTING.

Buying Texas Oil Field For Minnesota Syndicate.

Austin, Tex., May 16.—Ex-Senator Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, who is at Beaumant, is negotiating for the purchase of a tract of fifteen acres in the heart of the oil field. The prospective purchase price of this land is said to exceed $1,000,000. It is understood that Mr. Towne is acting for a syndicate of Minnesota capitalists in conducting the transaction, although he will hold a large interest in this land if it is purchased.

NIGHT OF ANXIETY

Was Passed By Watchers at Bedside of Mrs. McKinley.

But Little Information Given Concerning Her Condition.

Plans of the President as Far as Decided Upon.

San Francisco, May 16.—An anxious night was passed by many watchers in and about the temporary home of President and Mrs. McKinley, on the western slope of Clay street hill. A heavy fog hung low over the city, and the long hours until morning were cold and cheerless. After 10 o'clock last night no official information regarding Mrs. McKinley's condition was given out, and the newspaper men who waited at the entrance of the Scott residence could obtain little news from the few persons who passed out of the building. The departure of Dr. Hirschfelder at 10 o'clock brought a few words of cheer, as it was learned that the patient was slightly better. A little later the faithful Dr. Rixey took a short rest, which he badly needed, for his care of Mrs. McKinley has been unremitting for many weeks. At midnight the sufferer was sleeping quietly, and her condition showed improvement. The digestive trouble which had caused great uneasiness had in a measure succumbed to treatment, and hope was expressed that the crisis had passed. Nothing definite was given out during the early hours of the morning. The lights in the house were turned low, and the figures of nurses could be seen faintly outlined against the curtains of the sick room. The detectives and police guard at the door talked in subdued tones, and drivers of milk wagons and other vehicles were warned away or told to drive in a walk so as to make no unnecessary noise. The only word that could be obtained at sunrise was that Mrs. McKinley had rested as well as could have been expected, though it was stated that her condition was very critical.

In an authorized statement, made by Irving Scott, the future movements of the president, so far as decided upon, were announced as follows, subject to change or revocation, should Mrs. McKinley not improve:

"For today the trip up Mount Tamalpais and all other events arranged for the day have been abandoned. At night the president will attend the banquet given by the Ohio society.

"Friday the president will receive the school children in Golden Gate park, devoting as much of his time to this event as is possible. The Knights Templar, League of the Cross, camp fire, etc., will not be visited by the president.

"On Saturday the president hopes to be present at the launching of the Ohio. In the event of his being able to do so, a special wire from the Scott home to the scene of the launching will be arranged so that instant knowledge of any change in the condition of Mrs. McKinley may be received. Miss Barber, niece of Mrs. McKinley, has been selected to launch the battleship in place of her aunt.

"It is probable that the president and his party will remain in San Francisco considerably longer than they intended, awaiting the recuperation of Mrs. McKinley. The complication of troubles which brought her low was peculiarly exhaustive of her strength and it is impossible to state when she will be able to travel. There is no intention at present of disorganizing the party, and unless new plans are formed all the cabinet officers now here will remain at their chief's side, and the nation's executive business will be directed from San Francisco. Cabinet meetings will be held at the Scott residence during the stay of the party. Immediately upon the statement of Dr. Rixey that his patient is able to travel, the president's train will start eastward."

THE DAKOTAS.

Impression That Melquist Was Murdered By Tramps.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—The searchers for the body of Charles Melquist, the missing butcher, have been unsuccessful. The impression that he was brutally murdered has grown deeper and the Cheyenne river will be dragged for several miles. No trace of his bicycle has been found, and no evidence of a struggle was seen where his papers were found. He might have been murdered some miles from there and the papers carried to the hobo camp and divided and the worthless ones thrown aside by the men responsible for his death.

Much interest has been taken in the trial of the case against Roy Talbert, charged by Dr. Starling of the state dental board with practicing dentistry without a license. He is said to have operated in the office of Dr. Frenette and there was some difficulty in securing the testimony of witnesses. Dr. Starling is working hard to secure a conviction, as the law has been violated in some sections of the state.

Jamestown—The coroner's jury decided that A. C. Schnur, of Fingal, met death by accidental drowning in Spiritwood lake Monday. Schnur, it seems, was alone in the rowboat when the accident occurred. In throwing overboard an anchor the boat was upset, Schnur was thrown some distance from the boat and, although he could swim, seems to have been so chilled by the water as to be unable to get to the shore, about 200 yards distant. He was 37 years of age, and traveling agent for the Griggs company, St. Paul, and left a wife in Fingal.

Mayville—The Women's club at its meeting elected officers for the coming year. They are: President, Mrs. Joseph Carhart; vice president, Mrs. W. H. Robinson; secretary, Mrs. J. S. Bayum; treasurer, Mrs. D. S. Smith, and corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Ely. This is the pioneer club in Mayville, as it was founded seven years ago. The program of study the past year was entirely in United States history and the work outlined for the coming season is in American literature. In September the state federation meets in this city, the invitation being extended by the Women's club.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Huron—Fred B. Smith, of Hecla, was unanimously re-elected grand master workman by the grand lodge of the A. O. U. W., jurisdiction of South Dakota, in session here Wednesday morning. Sol Starr, of Deadwood, re-elected grand foreman, was in line for promotion to grand master, but withdrew in favor of Mr. Smith. J. D. Lavin, of Aberdeen, was again chosen grand recorder.

Yankton—Yankton citizens are much disturbed over numerous burglaries. A. H. Orvis reported a robbery at his place a few nights ago with a loss of over $30. James W. Todd tells of a burglary at his place which is a little out of the ordinary. Many believe that the inmates were chloroformed. Mr. Todd's trousers were rifled and the money they contained taken.

Aberdeen—Fred Walker, a 12-year-old boy, one of the children whose father was killed in the Black Hills by a young son and daughter for abusing their mother, tramped to this city from near Bowdle, where he had been placed with a family after the shocking affair. He was barefoot and in rags. Kind people cared for him and Rev. Chappelle, of the children's home at Sioux Falls, took him to Clark county to place him in another home. The girl who did the shooting has gone insane and the brother who assisted her narrowly escaped a similar fate.

SALMON DEAL

Failed to Work With the Alaska Packers' Association.

San Francisco, May 16.—The Chronicle says: The big salmon combine is off so far as the Alaska Packers' association is concerned. After days of negotiation between the promoters of the Pacific Packing and Navigation company and the association's officers a halt was called and the promoters, T. B. McGovern, of New York, and Roland Frey, of Fairhaven, Wash., left last night for Portland, Ore. President Fortmann and Vice President Hirsch of the Alaska Packers' association say that they have refused to sell to the promoters except for cash and that not being offered cash they terminated the negotiation. Promoter McGovern said before he took the train for Portland that they had offered the association a certain amount in cash, but that the figure demanded was so high they concluded to leave the field. In an interview McGovern said:

"We shall put this combine through without the Alaska Packers' association. We had figured that with the options we have, if we could secure the association, we would control practically all the salmon in the world. There are 3,200,000 cases of salmon packed every year. Of this amount the Alaska people put out about 1,000,000 cases. We now have options from nearly a score of companies, including practically all those in important territory and leaving out the Alaska concern, can control about 2,200,000 cases a year. A conservative estimate of the tangible assets to be transferred is at least $8,000,000. The value of the pack for the last four years has averaged $15,000,000 a year."

EMPIRE DAY.

King Edward Would Establish Such Holiday.

London, May 16.—King Edward (who was born Nov. 9, 1841,) has decided that his birthday shall be celebrated May 24, each year, thus perpetuating the holiday hitherto observed by all the public departments (Queen Victoria's birthday) and giving an impetus to the colonial movement to observe the date as empire day.

The Illness of Mrs. McKinley.

The sympathy of the whole American people will be extended to President McKinley on account of the interruption of his trip by the illness of Mrs. McKinley, because there is no doubt that she is a very sick woman and that her condition is so serious as to cause grave alarm. This fact was made evident to the public yesterday by the announcement that the presidential tour had been abandoned and that the party would return to Washington as soon as Mrs. McKinley was able to travel, showing that her physicians were of opinion that, even if she rallied, she would be too weak to continue the journey. Mrs. McKinley has been an invalid for many years and several times her condition has excited apprehension on the part of her friends. It is said that during the last six months her health has visibly failed, the fatigues incident to her position in the White House evidently having overtaxed her strength. During the years of her ill-health, she has been the recipient of most assiduous attention on the part of President McKinley, and it is said that he always had a wonderful influence upon her, being able with a few strokes of his hand to subdue her most violent attacks of headache, and with cheering words to arouse her quickly from a condition of almost collapse. During the inaugural season Mrs. McKinley collapsed, and when the president was attacked by the grip last January, she was worn out by anxiety and the fact that the president has not enjoyed as robust health since that time has had a depressing effect on her.

Another Steel Combine Proposed.

The report, if true, that John W. Gates has begun the organization of another steel trust that will rival the United States Steel corporation is a hopeful sign. The German and Russian iron interests have organized to oppose the inroads into their markets which the Morgan trust threatens. The world is too big for any one man or set of men to gain and hold control of the iron and steel market. The plants which are to act as a nucleus for the Gates combination were not given the proper inducements to come into the original combine. Being out they must unite for mutual protection. The policy of the United States Steel corporation will be to make Pittsburg the great center and close up all smaller plants. What effect will this have upon Duluth? Will the great trust ever find it convenient to use this unrivaled situation for a great iron industry or will the ore from the Minnesota mines be forever poured through the city to enrich some Eastern point? These are grave questions and questions that are very near to the pocketbook of every citizen of this city? Nature has designed Duluth for one of the great iron marts of the world and nothing but arbitrary measures will prevent such a consummation. All of the iron of the ranges does not yet belong to the Morgan syndicate. Much lies yet undiscovered, doubtless. Will not the creation of another and rival steel trust have some bearing on the situation? The Herald asks this question because the situation seems big with results. "There is a tide in the affairs of men which taken at the flood leads on to fortune." May not that tide be nearing its flood?

"We see dimly in the future what is strong and what is great;
Slow of faith, how weak an arm may move the iron helm of fate."

IRON ORE TAXATION.

The Minneapolis Journal devoted a considerable portion of its editorial space yesterday to a discussion of the taxation of the iron mines in St. Louis county and, quoting the statistics collated by The Herald and presented to the state tax commission, argued that the steel trust should be compelled to pay its proper share of the taxation, instead of being allowed to almost escape taxation as at present. The Journal's article in full is reproduced in another column and should be carefully read by every person interested in this important question, because it contains some suggestions as to the basis of valuation and taxation that deserve consideration.

The Herald has heretofore stood alone among the newspapers of the state in demanding that the iron properties be compelled to bear their just proportion of the taxes and, while it has succeeded in arousing public sentiment on the question and bringing it directly to the attention of the tax commission, it welcomes the powerful aid of the Journal in the campaign for equal taxation in St. Louis county.

The Minneapolis Journal suggests that there should be a valuation and taxation of the ore mined, as distinct from ore not mined, believing that in this way the ore "before it leaves the state might be made to pay its proper share of the taxation, without imposing a burden on individual owners, who are unable, on account of prohibitive rates, to operate their mining property." The Journal has reference to the fact that two of the railroads to the iron ranges are owned by the steel trust and charge so much for the transportation that mines owned by individuals or corporations not interested in the railroads cannot ship ore profitably.

This is undoubtedly true, but there is a remedy which the state railroad and warehouse commission could apply, if it were so disposed. The commission has power to fix fair and reasonable rates for the transportation of ore over these railroads. The commission which ceased to exist at the beginning of the year did take such action, ordering a considerable reduction in the freight charges, but the new Republican commission, which the Journal assisted to elect, has rescinded that action, granting a rehearing to the roads and thus restoring the former extortionate rates.

The steel trust, it must also be remembered, owns valuable mining properties that are lying idle at the present time, and if the Journal's idea were adopted, those properties would escape with lighter taxation than the mines that are active shippers. This would not be right. The steel trust has secured possession of these properties because of their rich deposits of ore, in order to prevent them falling into the hands of possible rivals and to make its monopoly more complete. Mr. Schwab stated before the industrial commission the other day that the steel trust now controls 80 per cent of the Lake Superior ore deposits; that the deposits will not last many years, and consequently they are worth much more than has ever been estimated. Why should the steel trust be permitted to escape with lighter taxation on its reserve stock of ore in the ground than is assessed on the ore that is being shipped? The Herald cannot agree with the Journal's idea that there should be one basis of taxing ore unmined and another basis of taxing ore that is being mined and shipped.

ANOTHER CROP OF STRIKES.

Another crop of strikes is about to be harvested. Albany, N. Y., is reaping one of considerable importance now. The United Machinists have issued their ultimatum for nine hours per day and 12½ per cent increase of wages, or they will go out next Monday. It seems that the workmen are determined to have a slice of the profits, instead of allowing the whole loaf to go to the trusts and their promoters. Nor can any serious objection be raised to this demand of labor for a fair share of the profits from the enterprises with which they are connected and to the success of which their skill contributes. If corporations unite in such a way that they can pay dividends on double the capital invested, is it not equitable that the men who bear the burden in the heat of the day shall be remembered in a division of the spoils?

As a general proposition social and industrial wrongs right themselves in time. Opposed to the power of the industrial trusts we will find the labor trusts, one acting as a check upon the other. A trust, though it command billions and command not the skilled labor to carry out its vast plans, is a miserable failure. Knowing this, the trusts will seek to deal fairly with their employes, providing those employes possess a sufficient organized strength to prevent, by a simple walk-out, the turning of the wheels of the factories. The outcome of the threatened machinists' strike will be watched with unusual interest.

In the meantime the street car employes of Albany, N. Y., are doing their best to bring the cause of labor into disgrace by unseemly riots. It would seem that the experience of the strikers at Cleveland and Detroit and St. Louis would be a warning to all strikers in their attempt to win by force where diplomatic means have failed.

In all street car and railroad strikes there are three elements concerned, the employer, the striker and the public. No strike can win unless it be backed by public opinion; so when the strikers deliberately determine to fight the employers and the public too, they assume a contract which they never can carry out. In the Cleveland street car strike they declared a boycott and attempted to enforce it against all whose business compelled them to use the boycotted lines. The result could have been foreseen by any but blind men. When any set of men say to the public, "you must not attend to your own business in your own way because we will run it," they have assumed a proposition which will swamp them in the end. To fight one corporation is one thing, but to fight also the entire public is quite another.

In the Albany case the strikers have set in at once to use violence to prevent the running of cars. This, of course, has brought out the troops, and the arm of the government is on the side of the company to the extent of seeing that the public does not suffer by reason of the acts of the strikers. Judging from the past, we may conclude that the next step will be to order a boycott of the lines. If that be done the finish will be in sight for the people will not stand that foolishness very long. The moment a boycott or a sympathetic strike is ordered, just that soon does the striker lose public sympathy. They lose public favor, because the boycott is wrong and cowardly in principle. At best it is an attempt to make the innocent suffer for the guilty.

In the present feverish condition of industrial affairs, caused by the grouping of manufacturing plants, we may expect many disputes between labor and the new combinations of capital. The success or failure of the trust depends largely upon the result of the readjustment of the two powers.

BRITISH TALE OF WOE.

The British public is hit and hit hard, if one may judge by the press expressions, on what they term the unwarranted sale to J. Pierpont Morgan of the great Leyland steamship line. The fact that the fleet may have to sail under British colors and hail from British ports as well as pay British taxes does not seem to sooth their lacerated feelings a little bit. The national pride is hurt. They see not only their prestige as the greatest of manufacturing nations departing, but also that monopoly of the seas of which they were so proud about to take wing and flee like a bird. The worst of it is the suddenness with which the thing is accomplished. They have no time to get used to the idea before it is an accomplished fact. If a man like Mr. Morgan can come over there and in a few days secure control of a large fleet handling one-half of the Atlantic trade, what is to prevent him or some of his millionaire associates doing the same thing with other lines to other parts of the globe? The contempt with which the Englishman has been wont to consider his American cousin has all at once changed to a deadly fear.

Speaking of this sale the London Express of May 1 says: "What touches the public is the national bearing of the transaction. And all that is urged in defense in this respect is that, while Mr. Ellerman himself is fettered, there is nothing to prevent other shareholders from establishing a new line to compete with Mr. Morgan on the Atlantic, and that Mr. Ellerman will devote the proceeds of the sale to putting British ships on other seas. This is thin comfort, truly."

Admitting that the shareholders received a fair compensation for their stock, the same article goes on in this wise: "How about the national goodwill which they are throwing away? Americans walk off with a carrying trade that has been built up and consolidated by gradual British effort, and all the consolation given is that British effort can begin again, if it likes, in the same sphere or elsewhere. From the other side come the frank boasts that the Morgan combination mean to make American lakes of the Atlantic and Pacific. That is undoubtedly the tendency of such a deal. Of course the British carrying trade is not annihilated or annexed or bought out yet, or anything like it, but this kind of thing needs facing at the beginning."

Passing on, the writer states that this is but another phase of the inroads which the Americans are making into British commercial interests. The alarm is sounded that, however bad this tendency to Americanize the British-carrying trade may be in peace, it would prove ten times worse in case of war. The food supply would be beyond British control and the vessels needed for cruisers would be denied to the government.

This may be regarded as the call of an alarmist, but it is no stronger than the average expressions by the British press on the general situation. The greatness of England is passing. Of that there is little question. Lord Salisbury in a speech the other day protested that England was as powerful as ever and pointed to the African war to clinch his assertion. The noble lord may be able to wring some drops of comfort from the contest in Africa, but few others can. Young Winston Churchill in a vigorous speech in the house of commons Monday called attention to the fact that the expenses of the government had doubled in the last fifteen years while the population had not kept pace by great odds. This tearing up of old prejudices will, no doubt, have a beneficial influence on the average Englishman. His complacency has kept him from recognizing the power of his competitors until it is almost to late. John Bull will howl, he will scold, but at the same time he will get down to business to meet the crisis. Never again will Britannia be absolute ruler of the seas, but she will always be a factor with which the other nations of the earth will take care to reckon. England herself will be lost in a large measure in the growing greatness of the English-speaking nations, which will at no distant date be practical masters of the earth.

It is, therefore, with a good-natured smile that the Americans listen to this British tale of woe. It is the first time in many years that a Britisher has been forced to acknowledge that he and his nation were not the ne plus ultra of all personal comercial and political virtues. It is fun for the world, but it is next to death for John Bull.

It is predicted that a great increase in the next half century will cause serious economic complications. The recent improvements in mine dredges which make it possible to work territory that heretofore could not be profitably mined is the basis for such a prediction. According to Professor N. S. Shaler, a noted geologist, there are from 4000 to 6000 square miles of alluvial plains in America which will yield vast quantities of gold under the new dredging system. He regards it as practically certain that the quantity of gold in the world will be quadrupled within the next forty years, and that $30,000,000,000 worth of gold will be taken from the earth during the twentieth century. The production of the world since the discovery of America in 1492, amounts to about $10,000,000,000. Of course the price of labor and all forms of products will advance materially if there is such an increase in the volume of gold as Professor Shaler predicts. The professor further states that silver will ultimately be employed to express international values, for the reason that it can only be found at great depths, and not in alluvial plains, where gold can be procured, and therefore can only be mined at a given rate.

A minister of the Methodist Episcopal church at Jersey Shore, Pa., recently caused a sensation by offering a cash bonus to every one attending divine worship at his church. The edifice was crowded, and after a sermon each one present was handed an envelope. When opened each one was found to contain just one penny. On the envelopes were printed these words: "This is your talent. Don't wrap it in a napkin, but use it. Your love for the success of the cause will determine your efforts. Harness up this talent and make it pull in others." Quite a number were sorely disappointed, and more so when they found that the pastor had a string on the penny, for he told them that he expected the penny to be invested so that it would bring a return of either $2.15 or $10 to the church. Whether any good can come from such schemes is a matter for those practicing them to determine.

The duchess of Manchester, who was Miss Helen Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, is bitterly disappointed at the failure of her noble spouse's creditors to accept 50 cents on the dollar for their bills. She is socially ambitious and looks forward with eagerness to a season in London with the duke occupying his seat in the house of lords, from which he is barred by his bankruptcy. Friends of the duchess say that she is now urging Papa Zimmerman to compromise at once with the creditors at their own terms. Papa realizes that his daughter got a bad bargain, when she bought his dukelets, and is afraid perhaps that if he pays the creditors in full it will be establishing a bad precedent in view of the breach of promise suit of Miss Knight that is soon to come up.

A bill has been introduced in the Connecticut legislature modifying the lantern law for rubber-tired vehicles. It provides that any rider or driver of such vehicle whose light has been extinguished, or who is necessarily absent from his home without a light, may proceed to his destination at a pace not to exceed six miles an hour, sounding an audible signal is given as often as 500 feet are passed over. What a snap that will be for picnic parties whose noisy pleasures have always been painfully curtailed by the guardians of the peace.

Within the past week fifty-eight oil companies have been chartered by the secretary of state of Texas. The capitalization of these new enterprises reaches the enormous aggregate of $25,000,000, and the territory to be exploited is known as the Beaumont oil field. Law suits have already been begun by claimants of fields believed to promise especial productiveness, and lively times are expected in the Lone Star state.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: There is no marriage in heaven; this is how the place keeps up its reputation.

The trouble is that as soon as a woman begins to be intellectual she begins to look like it.

Love will make a girl's heart feel as big as a man's wisdom tooth the day he decides to have it pulled.

If a man always took his wife's advice probably he would never either have any diseases or invest any money.

If she chose, most any married woman could tell any bachelor she knows a new story that he hasn't heard yet.

TAXING IRON PROPERTY.

Minneapolis Journal: The state tax commission has been at Duluth, taking testimony with regard to iron mining property in that section of the state. This question of taxation of the iron mines is a matter which it seems to us will bear very careful and thorough investigation. Many millions of dollars' worth of ore is being sent out of the state every year from these mines and goes down the lakes for manufacture at Cleveland and elsewhere, greatly enriching those localities and really proving of much greater value to them than to our own state where the ore is mined.

This exporting of the ore from the state to be manufactured elsewhere is in accordance with the natural order of things, or, at least, must be an economic method or it would not be pursued. No fault is to be found with the manufacture of the iron where it can be done most cheaply and profitably. At the same time it must be regretted that Minnesota is deriving so little benefit from the location of these immense mining properties within her boundaries.

It recalls forcibly, if unpleasant, the parallel in the case of Spain, which has shipped raw iron ore for many years to England, where it has been manufactured with great profit to England, while Spain has suffered the loss of raw material which, if manufactured in her own territory, would have given employment to thousands of men, developed industries of all kinds, and changed radically the conditions among the industrial classes of that country.

Minnesota is exporting her iron ore at a rapid rate. The hills beyond Duluth are being despoiled of their rich deposits by the train load, and the ownership of these properties by Eastern trusts leaves comparatively little within the state to represent the value of the immense amount of ore taken out of it. The ore itself is mined so cheaply as to require comparatively a small outlay for labor in getting it ready for transportation.

All this is of interest as indicating the importance of the development of iron manufacturing industries in this state. Industries which we believe to be practicable to the extent of consuming a large portion of the iron ore which the state produces. But whether that industry ever becomes considerable, and reduction of iron ore and manufacture of iron from them assumes importance, these mines certainly owe something to the way in which they have been imposed heretofore. The testimony before the tax revision commission yesterday showed that mining property which was sold recently to the big steel trust for $60,000,000, and which it is claimed is worth more than twice that amount, or in round numbers $150,000,000, is assessed at only $1,534,462. That is little more than 1 per cent of the valuation of all other property in this state is supposed to approximate 40 per cent, so that the great trust is allowed to escape with one-fourth of the rate of taxation which is imposed upon other property.

This is a matter which the tax revision commission will certainly be expected to take notice of and to correct. In doing so, it would seem to be in order also for the commission to take into account some actual conditions which now exist. This property is valued and assessed like other property, with little regard to its profitableness; that is to say, that mines which are operated successfully are assessed practically on the basis of the value of the ore deposits, just as other properties which are not operated and which often cannot be operated because of peculiar railroad conditions. As is well understood, two railroads which serve a large part of that ore field are controlled by the same interests which own a large part of the mining property—the United States steel trust. It is the policy of these roads to charge so much for transportation that the ore cannot be shipped profitably, as stated, a large part of the ore belongs to the same people who own and operate the roads and the rate is a matter of indifference to them since it is only taking the money out of one pocket to put it in another. Such a prohibitory rate shuts out the operation of other mines owned by individuals or corporations not interested in the railroads. For this reason mining properties lie idle, not from any disinclination on the part of owners to operate them, but because the conditions are such that they cannot be successfully operated.

There suggests a different basis of valuation and taxation for these properties, from that now in force—a valuation and taxation of the ore mined, as distinct from ore not mined. We could not impose a tax upon exports from the state, but doubtless ore mined could be treated as property to be taxed independently of ore in the mine, and on that basis this ore, in transit, before it leaves the state might be made to pay its proper share of the taxation, without imposing a burden on individual owners who are unable, on account of prohibitive rates, to operate their mining property.

This would redound, if it were done fairly, to the great benefit of St. Louis county and in smaller proportion to the benefit of the state at large. But it would be promotive of fairness and equity, and while perhaps only about one-tenth of the tax so levied would pass to the state, one-tenth would be an item of considerable importance and certainly worth the consideration of the commission from that standpoint.

DAILY STORY.

CHICKAMAUGA.

BY DAVID LOWRY,

Author of "Teeth of the Dragon," Etc.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

A silvery mist hung over the valley, obscuring the city and the lower mountain ridges. The mist shone like molten metal under a sky of surprising brilliancy and clearness. From beneath this silvery mist that was yet like a sea could be heard the notes of the bugle, the shrill sound of the fife, the rattle of snare drums, the sharp commands of officers, the neighing of horses, the rumble of artillery, the hum and confused noise of a city and the camps surrounding it.

Rosecrans had outgeneraled Bragg. "skilfully maneuvered him south of the Tennessee river, and through and beyond Chattanooga," to employ the language of a great commander. The simple fact was that Rosecrans was in a very serious predicament. Chattanooga was a very important point; unless Bragg was pursued, or circumvented in some way, the mere possession of Chattanooga would prove too costly to the Federalists. Meantime, Bragg had received large reinforcements from Mississippi, Georgia and Virginia. He had it in his power to crush Rosecrans in detail. Such was the plan the Union commander feared, the possibility that the Confederate contemplated as the hosts on either side massed near Chattanooga.

A ragged man in a gray suit, travel stained and dusty, looked wonderingly on the molten silver sea. Familiar as this man was with mountain life, he had never beheld such a picture as he gazed on that September morning. It seemed as if nature, in one of her most gracious moods, had vouchsafed to man a vision like we sometimes picture mentally when we shut our eyes to dream. The expression of this man's face as he listened to the babel of sound which rose to his ear would have made a rare study for a painter. At times the words spoken by the officers were distinct; the dry air above him formed a vast sounding-board which emphasized the various commands uttered in a loud voice.

A sound nearer at hand attracted his attention. Presently a girl wearing a dark blue sunbonnet approached him. Despite the worn and coarse shoes, the shabby dress and faded bonnet, she had the sweetest face in the world—the truest and loveliest when his eyes rested on her.

She gasped when her gaze rested on the silvery mist. Then she drew a long breath, like a child when filled with inexpressible delight.

"Oh Dan; what does it mean?"

"You can see the spur back of Jasper as plain, and there's the ridge just opposite Shell Mound."

"It means a fight right away. They're marching out of camp. You can hear the cannons rumble—that sharp sound—that's the cavalry—swords clinking. I know it."

"But you ain't goin' to fight any more. You're not fitten, Dan."

"I ain't jest achin' fur a fight like I was. But—ye heard what Lem Mason said about Bob. 'Tain't possible Rob is with the Yanks of his own free will. But if he is—I want to see him once more. I'm goin' down there. Goin' to see some of our ginerals. To tell them what we've heard up hyur. They don't know. All at sixes an' sevens.

"But, Dan' ye can't march with that arm. Besides ye promised you'd stay to—"

"I promised, an' I'll keep my promise. I ain't goin' to fight. I'm on parole—can't if I want to ever so bad."

"You promise not to march—"

"Cynth! Did you ever know me—"

"I wish you wouldn't go. You can't tell what may happen."

"Now see hyur, Cynth. You go back an' tell mother I'm plum sot on finding out something about Rob."

"Are you goin' without a gun?"

"What do I want with a gun? Better without."

He placed an arm around her gently and kissed her.

"You tell mother I'll be back tomorrow night at furdest. An' you mustn't take on now. I'll just report—an' come back."

"He you goin' now, Dan?"

Dans answer was a wave of the hand, as he clambered down the mountain slope.

It was near noon when Dan Graves encountered a Mississippi regiment marching. All the other field officers were killed. It was a ragged looking crowd. Many had vests but no coats; some had no hats; open, ragged shirts exposed brown skins. With uncombed, unshorn hair and beards, they impressed Dan Graves as the least presentable lot of men he had seen in the Confederate service, and he thought he had "met up with" the dirtiest regiments that fought for the South.

The major accosted Dan roughly. Dan's story was told in a few words. Then he ordered Dan to "fall in there." To which Dan naturally objected. He had been captured and paroled, and he knew what a parole meant.

"I was paroled—paroled at Vicksburg," said the major, angrily. "We need every man we can get, and more." He would listen to no protests, tolerate no response. So Dan shouldered the gun given him, and fell into the ranks with a great sigh as he thought of the mother awaiting his return, of the girl who had promised to marry him in the spring.

His case was not rare; others marched beside him who were paroled; the emergency made them reckless. The commander of the regiment informed the commander of this brigade how Dan Graves came to him. Dan was led to brigade headquarters that night. His interview with the general was brief.

"Never mind about the mist. What I want to know is if you heard those numbers. We know what divisions and corps certain regiments are in. When you say you heard men hallooing to each other 'Hello thirty-eight Illinois,' or this or that number of a Pennsylvania or Ohio or Wisconsin regiment, we know exactly who commands it—the brigade and division. You are sure you heard cavalry moving and the sound of artillery—any soldier can tell artillery."

The general was impressed; he mounted his horse and rode to the corps commander, who had now a clearer conception of the location and aims of the Federal commanders.

"It's all blind chance," he said to one of the division commanders, "there's one thing we've got to do; we've got to fight them and whip them wherever we can find them, or they'll whip us." And then he added, "No cut and dried plans will serve—no science this time. It's a case of bulldog. The hardest hitter, the longest stayer will win."

Dan Graves' story was known to many of the regiment he was compelled to serve in. The brigade, like many others on the night of the eighteenth of September, threw up a breastwork of rails and such logs as could be found—it was in the first or front line.

The Federals began the battle on the morning of the nineteenth with a furious assault; the Confederates met it with rare deliberation. It is matter of record that the Confederates placed their battle flags (a white ball on a black field) along their line to form by. Dan remarked the coolness of the officers of his brigade as they faced their men with their swords held across their breasts with both hands.

Dan wondered why they were drawn up there in front of a narrow, open space covered with green mossy grass—to be mowed down like ripe grain?

There is nothing that makes so profound an impression upon a man as a battle charge. Once the resolve to do or die is made the whole man expands; for the time being he is another man; the functions of sensation lift him out of himself; mental and physical powers find full play without effort.

The woods in front and to the right of Dan were tipped with fire; he heard the familiar ping, ping of the minnie bullets; men began to drop to the right and left of him; still no word of command was given. At last, when human nature was unable to restrain itself, a voice like a clarion aroused him; the whole line leaped forward; they ran as one man, with the rebel yell. The Federals retreated; a line of struggling blue patches marked their recent place on the edge of the woods; the Confederates were nearing the woods, when sixty-four pounds of double-shotted canister were hurled right in the faces of the Confederate brigade. To Dan Graves, who had survived the iron and leaden hail of Stone River, it seemed as if a cyclone was sweeping, driving everything before it. All things seemed to be rushing past him in horrible lines, all parallel to each other; sound, light and air united in the rush.

Then there was a strange lull. Dan had time to breathe, to look around him. The ground was strewn with dismounted cannon, overthrown wagons, guns, swords, the living and the dead. Here a horse pawing the air, there a figure crawling laboriously, and over all rose the groans of the dying. In the distance demoralized men wandering aimlessly or running panic-stricken, all without purpose, without leaders.

Dan Graves had only time to note these things, when the bugle call aroused him again. Then, from out of the woods on the right and the woods on the left fire flamed; the spatter of bullets on man and tree were plainly heard; then the roar of the Confederate artillery filled the air, the sharp rattle of musketry was continuous; regiments and brigades melted away in charges and counter charges; batteries were taken and retaken; men short of ammunition clubbed their guns; gunners fell with gun-swabs in their hands.

It was under cover of a battery beleiving death in the hurley-hurley of victorious pursuit, seemingly, that exalted Dan Graves until the wine of battle filled his veins, that the brigade made its last charge over that bloody field. Then he suddenly discovered that he was again before the open space where the grass was mossy; now it was red and slippery with men's blood. Some of Dan's companions threw away their guns; others, in the ecstacy of terror rushed toward the Federalists for safety. Something struck Dan; it was like a blow a babe's fist would deliver; nevertheless he fell like a log. He crawled to a dead man lying near, lifted the dead man's gun, drew the ramrod and set it home. The gun was ripe with death. A long, thin blue line came up and passed him. He was aiming feebly at the Federal soldier, when a hand grasped his throat.

He twisted himself around with difficulty; his strength was waning fast. The face that met his suddenly blanched. Through the begrimed and blood-stained face, creased with powder, yet now fast growing gray, he discerned the eyes he had dreamed of the night before the battle. He strove to regain his feet; he tried to speak. The eyes fascinated him; he was held like the bird that is under the snake's charm.

The face grew grayer; it bent lower and lower; the Confederate felt a hand, a chilly hand, fumbling in the effort to find a fellow; then the face barely touched his; the Federalist gave a sudden lurch—a thin stream of blood oozed from his mouth, and he fell upon the Confederate.

Dan Graves had found his brother.

He was aiming feebly at a Federal soldier when a hand grasped his throat.

THE RULING PASSION.

On every vacant lot in town
Baseball the kids are playing,
And though in science they may lack,
Right with the rules they're staying.
They pick their teams with due regard
For vigor in disputing
And those who can't get in the game
With vehemence are rooting.

The pitcher does contortion acts,
In faithful imitation
Of others who have greater fame
And hold much higher station.
The catcher stands behind the bat,
Where signals he is making,
Then roasts the pitcher when on balls
The "man" a base is taking.

Foul tips go speeding to the street,
And now and then are shocking
The timid persons who are grazed
While quietly there walking.
At times a four-base hit is made,
And there is praise unstinted
When o'er the "plate," though out of breath,
The kid has safely sprinted.

And now and then the players hear
A sudden, fearful crashing,
Because the ball has crossed the fence
And done some window smashing.
A cry is raised—"Here comes the cop!"—
And then the kids are showing
How easy 'tis to make home runs,
In all directions going.

There's trouble all around the town
When kids the game are playing,
For balls they're knocking everywhere,
And ne'er for damage paying.
But some of them, in years to come,
May win wide reputation,
And be regarded by the "fans"
With fondest admiration.

THE IRON MARKET

Conditions of Trade Are Much More Quiet This Week.

Some Concessions May Be Made to Start Buying Movement.

Prices Abroad For Bridge Work Have Declined Considerably.

New York, May 16.—The Iron Age today says of conditions in the iron trade: Taken as a whole the iron markets have quieted down considerably and it seems likely that some time may elapse before buyers and sellers get together on the question of the basis for the second half of the year. In some sections and in some branches sellers show some uneasiness, which points to concessions in order to start the buying movement for the third and fourth quarters. The effect of the flurry in stocks has probably not been measured yet. It will cut off many wildcat enterprises, which is an advantage rather than a drawback. On the part of some buyers shown a disposition to hold off in order to watch developments. It is a significant fact that the agricultural implement makers continue in the market for supplies for the future, notably charcoal pig iron and steel bars, thus showing that the one industry which is nearest to the farming interests enjoys unshaken confidence. Some uneasiness is created by the danger of widespread labor disturbances. The situation created by the demands of the machinists may develop awkward issues and there is a feeling that in the territory partially controlled by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers there may possibly be trouble after July 1. Labor, generally, is reported to be scarce, and seems inclined to be aggressive.

Some good contracts have been placed for welded pipe and quite considerable quantities of structural material have been placed. It is noteworthy that prices abroad for bridge work have declined so much lately that American companies are practically withdrawing from the competition. This we understand to be the case with the Clyde contract, which involved about 5000 tons and with the Copenhagen and Amsterdam drawbridges, both large structures. The steel trade has quieted down, as was expected. We understand that arrangements for the next fiscal year have been under consideration, in connection with which the announcement is significant that Jones & Laughlin, limited, are to build a mill for rolling rails. The Dominion company, at Sydney, is also reported to be placing orders for rail mill machinery. How rapidly conditions have changed is illustrated by the fact that foreign old steel rails and old iron rails are now being offered for importation. It was not so long since that the export trade in this branch was flourishing. It should be noted, however, that the foreign prices are still so much above our market, as to put business out of the question.

FAME IN MUSIC.

Former Chicago Girl Scoring Triumph In Paris.

Paris, May 16.—Miss Alice Getty, formerly of Chicago, and daughter of Henry Harrison Getty, has achieved a triumph as a musical composer at a musical given by Miss Gillette at her Paris home.

One of Miss Getty's musical compositions, "Du Bist Mein All" ("Thou Art My All"), sung by the distinguished singer, Baron Steege, created a sensation, owing to the exquisite harmony of the themes and the fine musical sentiment displayed in conception and composition. When this new song was finished the audience broke forth in enthusiastic applause, and Miss Getty was warmly congratulated.

Miss Getty is exceedingly gifted, and is one of the rising young composers of Paris, whose work has already attracted attention and favorable criticism from such celebrated composers as Gabriel Faure and other musical composers, who predict a brilliant future for her in musical composition.

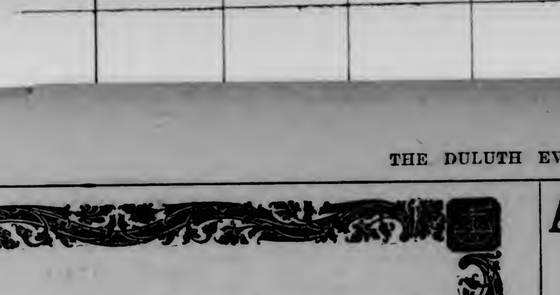
NEW BOOTH BOAT ARGO DUE TODAY

Handsome Steamer That Will Take the North Shore Run---Dixon's Crew on the New Boat.



A. Booth & Co.'s new steel steamship Argo, which is expected to arrive here this afternoon at 5 o'clock to take her place on her Lake Superior route, was designed to be the finest of her class plying the great lakes, and intended especially to meet the growing requirements of the tourist traffic out of Duluth. She will be run on a passenger and freight line, also carrying mail for the United States and Canadian governments, making two trips per week from Duluth to Port Arthur and Fort William, stopping at Isle Royale and intermediate north shore points, and making one trip per week from Duluth direct to Houghton and Hancock, Mich.

The Argo has just left the yards of the Craig Shipbuilding company, Toledo, Ohio, and represents an outlay of about $125,000. No expense has been spared in the way of furnishings and equipment. The most modern appliances are included in her specifications, such as water tube boilers, triple expansion engines, electric light and steam steering gear. Her length over all is 185 feet; beam, 31 feet; depth of hold 12½ feet; gross tonnage, 1089, and net tonnage, 740. The cylinders are to develop about 800 horse power, giving her a speed of sixteen miles per hour.

The passenger cabins and state rooms are handsomely fitted, the interior being in highly polished butternut. Nothing has been left undone to add to the safety of the craft and the comfort of the passengers.

The hull is divided into three watertight compartments, and in the event of a collision or other accident, and one compartment should fill, the boat would still safely ride the waters.

The vessel is in charge of a crew particularly competent on account of long experience on that route, having served on the Argo's predecessor, the Hiram R. Dixon, the Dixon having been put on another route to give place to this larger and handsome boat. The officers are: J. F. Hector, captain; Ed Smith, mate; E. S. Cleveland, first engineer; W. F. Marshall, steward; A. Wright, clerk.

The steamer will be operated by the United States and Dominion Transportation company, more popularly known as the "Booth line," of which W. Vernon Booth is president and H. H. Brigham traffic manager.

ACQUITTED.

Senator Stokes Not Guilty of Murder of Rev. J. J. Woll.

Williamson, W. Va., May 16.—Yesterday morning Senator S. D. Stokes stood up in the court room and pleaded "not guilty" to the indictment accusing him of the murder of Rev. J. J. Woll, a Presbyterian minister, here last November. The trial is the final outcome of Rev. Woll's sensational sermon in which Williamson's society came under the sharp lash of his invective.

The theory of the prosecution is that Stokes sought the minister in his own house and demanded an apology and evoked a quarrel in which Woll was killed. But the first witness put on the stand failed to bear out that hypothesis. Otis Reilly was within 150 yards and at the first bark of the pistols rushed toward the scene of the affray. There he found Stokes, although shot twice, still standing with a smoking revolver in hand and in reply to a question Stokes said: "Woll shot me first and I had to kill him."

At that time Reilly said Mrs. Leneve, of Richmond, Va., who was the only eye witness to the fatal shooting, corroborated Stokes. Reilly's testimony virtually disposed of the state's case, as it was known from affidavits made at the time of the shooting that the evidence of Mrs. Leneve would tend to exculpate Stokes. Senator Stokes took the stand and explained how Woll was killed. There were no other witnesses for the defense. Last night the jury returned a verdict of not guilty and Senator Stokes is again free.

MENTALLY UNBALANCED.

Slayer of "Bull Dog" Regan of Unsound Mind.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Angus McDonald, the man who dealt the blows with an ax which caused the death of "Bull Dog" Regan, is confined in the jail at Walker, and apparently unaware of the seriousness of the act which he committed. It has been said that McDonald was at one time an inmate of the insane asylum at Fergus Falls, and pending action in his case the authorities have written to those in charge of the asylum to ascertain how long a time, if any, McDonald was confined in that institution. No inquest was held on the remains of Regan. It is more than probable that McDonald will be sent to the asylum, as he is mentally unbalanced.

"The pitcher that goes often to the well is broken at last." There's a world of wisdom in that familiar proverb, and a sound application of it to disease, especially to such familiar forms of disease as coughs and colds. Singularly enough the very thing that ought to cause alarm is given as excuse for a feeling of safety. "It's nothing; only a cough. I've had it before." The fact that a cough recurs periodically should be warning enough to take it in time, for the most serious and disastrous of all maladies begins with a cough.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only stops the cough but cures the cause. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, weak lungs, hemorrhages, diseases which if neglected or unskilfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for weak lungs.

"I was very sick indeed," writes Mrs. Mollie Jacobs, of Felton, Kent Co., Delaware, "and our family doctor said I had consumption. I thought I must die soon for I felt so bad. Had a bad cough, spit blood, was very short of breath, in fact could hardly get my breath at all some times. I had pains in my chest and right lung, also had dyspepsia. Before I took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' I was so weak I could not sweep a room, and now I can do a small washing. I worked in the canning factory this fall, and I feel like a new person. I believe that the Lord and your medicine have saved my life. I was sick over two years. I took thirteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets."

ARE HARD TO PLACE

Congestion In the Insurance Market Is Experienced.

Large Risks Are Difficult to Place In Full.

Insurance Capital of the County Said to Be Too Small.

The insurance market is congested. Large risks have been found by Duluth agents to be difficult to place in some instances and this condition is being more frequently encountered as time advances. It seems strange that risks that are good from the insurance man's point of view are difficult to place, but it is true, nevertheless.

Only a few days ago an insurance man of Duluth was given the placing of a large risk. It was on property that is regarded as somewhat hazardous, but not extraordinarily so. In times past there has seldom been trouble in placing such a risk as this and yet in this instance the man was scratching the city to get the line placed and was having a difficult time to get the last of the line taken.

The reason for this situation is said to be a scarcity of insurance capital in the country. The insurance companies have been hit pretty hard recently and a number of them have reinsured their risks in other companies and gone out of business or have failed. The losses of the companies have been heavy during the past two or three years. Their profits have exceeded their incomes by an extremely narrow margin, taken as a whole, and some have fallen below their expenses in their incomes.

Very recently one of the insurance firms of the city was finding it difficult to place a line of insurance on one of the lumber yards of the city. The stock was increasing steadily and the insurance was up to the limit that could be placed when the timely arrival of boats reduced the stock and relieved the congestion.

SOUTH DAKOTA CROPS.

Heavy Frost There Last Week.

The crop report for the South Dakota section of the government crop service for the week ending Monday last is as follows:

"The temperature during the week averaged considerably below the normal and there were several frosts over the east portion of the state, but light except on Sunday morning, May 12, when a heavy frost occurred over the northeast portion, ice forming on buckets and pails of water in some localities. In the absence of Sunday trains, mail reports are not available, but reports by telephone indicate that fruit bloom and gardens suffered somaterial damage in some localities. So far as ascertained wheat, oats, barley and rye sustained no injury.

"During the last days of the preceding week and the early part of the current week, rains occurred over most of the state, being copious in some southern and northeastern counties, leaving the soil generally in amply moist condition, but there are a few Middle Missouri valley and Black Hills localities where, while nothing is suffering, more rain is needed.

"The cool weather and moist soil were very favorable for the rooting and stooling of spring wheat and rye, oats and barley, and these crops are generally reported in satisfactory condition, though there are some scattered fields that are thin stand and weedy; the prospect, however, is generally very good.

"The seeding of wheat is practically completed and that of oats, barley and spring rye nearing completion.

"Corn planting, though somewhat retarded in some localities by rains, is well advanced and the early planted is sprouting in some southern counties, but growth has been slow because of the cool weather.

"Winter rye continues generally in good condition and in some southern fields is nearly ready to head.

THE FAIR CONTEST.

Hearing Continued By Judge Trout to June.

San Francisco, May 16.—Judge Trout has continued until June 5 the contest of Charles L. Fair to the will of his father, the late James G. Fair. It was intimated in court that by that time the remitteur from the supreme court in this case will be sent down, and if such be the case the contest may be dismissed. There yet remains a question in regard to the property belonging to the Fair estate, attorneys for the trustees contending that the supreme court's decision declaring the trust clause invalid has relation solely to the real estate involved in the litigation.

ERROR OF IRELAND.

Much Time Lost In Preparing For War.

New York, May 16.—Miss Maude Gonne, the Irish Joan of Arc, says that she is quite sure that Ireland will rise against England soon as the opportunity presents itself, just as Lord Salisbury had intimated in his speech in London. But she takes exception to the premier's statement that England is a formidable enemy.

"Salisbury's speech is positively funny," she said. "Everybody knows that England is discredited as a warring nation through the facts brought to light by the Boer war. The idea of his putting up such a bluff is simply ridiculous.

"As for the Irish, we could not have been in better condition if the home rule bill had passed, because it did not give us control of the police and our own finances, nor the power to raise armed bodies of men.

"What I regret, and what the revolutionary party in Ireland regrets is that so much time and money have been expended in the last twelve years preaching home rule instead of using the money to bring arms and distributing them among the people. If we had done that we would have been in fine condition a year ago to jump into the fray. I is sad to think such a beautiful opportunity to free Ireland was lost.'"

"NICE YOUNG MAN."

Hetty Green's Comment on Earl of Yarmouth.

New York, May 16.—Mrs. Hetty Green was seen by a reporter soon after a verdict for $2500 in favor of the earl of Yarmouth, who had sued a newspaper for libel, had been read in court by Justice Blanchard. This query was put to the woman of millions:

"You are quoted as saying to Yarmouth, that if it were proved that he was the sort of man the paper sued said he was, you and your daughter would have no more to do with him. Now that Yarmouth has been vindicated, will you take him up again? Will your daughter marry the earl?"

Mrs. Green said in reply: "These stories about Yarmouth and us are mere newspaper talk. There is absolutely no truth in the reports that Yarmouth will marry my daughter."

The verdict, a sealed one, had hardly been read in court, when the man who had brought suit because he was called an "heiress hunter," entered the court room. Turing to the jurors, he said: "Gentlemen, I thank you."

Several jurors shook hands with the earl and he again thanked each one warmly.

"The first time I met the earl of Yarmouth," said Mrs. Hetty Green, "was in the court room the first day of the trial. I did not know anything of him, but as far as appearances go he is a very nice young gentleman."

GOVERNOR MURPHY ARRIVES.

San Francisco, May 16.—Governor Murphy of Arizona, accompanied by his wife, has arrived in this city to witness the launching of the battleship Ohio on Saturday. He was with the presidential party during its trip through Arizona.

Honored His Uniform.

The work of the railroad man, especially in the passenger service, is a strain on the nerves. Trains are supposed to hurry over the road; passengers are generally in a hurry and very often confused, and the men in uniform are appealed to from all sides for information and assistance. The railroad management, operating on the progressive theory that more flies can be caught with molasses than with vinegar, expects them to be useful in helping passengers avoid mistakes and in making them comfortable. How to keep in good temper and still try to please everybody is an hourly problem with them. But they are solving it.

At the Waterloo station a few days ago, as the train was ready to move out, the ticket agent called out to a trainman who had come into the waiting room, evidently in search of somebody:

"She is sitting there in the corner. A lady who is with her is trying to have her baggage checked."

The trainman found a young woman, evidently an invalid, with a face distressingly anxious and inexpressibly sad, and, taking her arm, he led her toward the train, past the baggage room. They were met by the conductor and the lady were met by the conductor and the lady friend, who had attended to the baggage, and then the women parted, the almost helpless traveler being committed to the care of the men who wore the uniform of the New York Central, a uniform which often represents as much of bravery and chivalry as the Red Cross does.

The two men led their charge to the steps of the car and lifted her into it, and guided her to a seat; she was blind. —From the Watertown (N. Y.) Daily Times.

THE IRON MARKET

Conditions of Trade Are Much More Quiet This Week.

Some Concessions May Be Made to Start Buying Movement.

Prices Abroad For Bridge Work Have Declined Considerably.

New York, May 16.—The Iron Age today says of conditions in the iron trade: Taken as a whole the iron markets have quieted down considerably and it seems likely that some time may elapse before buyers and sellers get together on the question of the basis for the second half of the year, in some sections and in some branches sellers show some uneasiness, which points to concessions in order to start the buying movement for the third and fourth quarters. The effect of the flurry in stocks has probably not been measured yet. It will cut off many wildcat enterprises, which is an advantage rather than a drawback. On the port of some buyers shown a disposition to hold off in order to watch developments. It is a significant fact that the agricultural implement makers continue in the market for supplies for the future, notably pig iron and steel bars, thus showing that the one industry which is nearest to the farming interests enjoys unshaken confidence. Some uneasiness is created by the danger of widespread labor disturbances. The situation created by the demands of the machinists may develop awkward phases and there is a feeling that in the territory partially controlled by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers there may possibly be trouble after July 1. Labor, generally, is reported to be scarce, and seems inclined to be aggressive.

Some good contracts have been placed for welded pipe and quite considerable quantities of structural material have been placed. It is noteworthy that prices abroad for bridge work have declined so much lately that American companies are practically withdrawing from the competition. This we understand to be the case with the Clyde contract, which involves about 3e0 tons and with the Copenhagen and Amsterdam drawbridges, both large structures. The steel trade has quieted down, as was expected. We understand that arrangements for the next fiscal year have been under consideration, in connection with which the announcement is significant that Jones & Laughlin, limited, are to build a mill for rolling rails. The Dominion company, at Sydney, is also reported to be placing orders for rail mill machinery. How rapidly conditions have changed is illustrated by the fact that foreign old steel rails and old iron rails are now being offered for importation. It was not so long since that the export trade in this branch was flourishing. It should be noted, however, that the foreign prices are still so much above our market, as to put business out of the question.

FAME IN MUSIC.

Former Chicago Girl Scoring Triumph In Paris.

Paris, May 16.—Miss Alice Getty, formerly of Chicago, and daughter of Henry Harrison Getty, has achieved a triumph as a musical composer at a musical given by Miss Gillette at her Paris home.

One of Miss Getty's musical compositions, "Du Bist Mein All" ("Thou Art My All"), sung by the distinguished singer, Baron Stoege, created a sensation, owing to the exquisite harmony of the themes and the fine musical sentiment displayed in conception and composition. When this new song was finished the audience broke forth in enthusiastic applause, and Miss Getty was warmly congratulated.

Miss Getty is exceedingly gifted, and is one of the rising young composers of Paris, whose work has already attracted attention and favorable criticism from such celebrated composers as Gabriel Faure and other musical composers, who predict a brilliant future for her in musical composition.

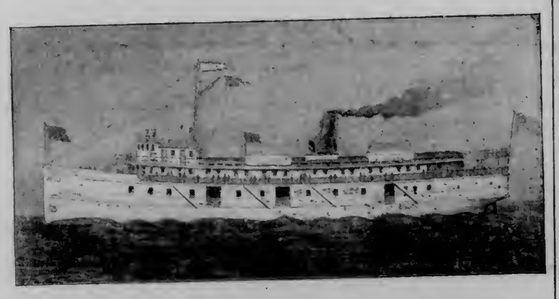
NEW BOOTH BOAT ARGO DUE TODAY

Handsome Steamer That Will Take the North Shore Run---Dixon's Crew on the New Boat.



A. Booth & Co.'s new steel steamship Argo, which is expected to arrive here this afternoon at 5 o'clock to take her place on her Lake Superior route, was designed to be the finest of her class plying the great lakes, and intended especially to meet the growing requirements of the tourist traffic out of Duluth. She will be run on a passenger and freight line, also carrying mail for the United States and Canadian governments, making two trips per week from Duluth to Port Arthur and Fort William, stopping at Isle Royale and intermediate north shore points, and making one trip per week from Duluth direct to Houghton and Hancock, Mich.

The Argo has just left the yards of the Craig Shipbuilding company, Toledo, Ohio, and represents an outlay of about $125,000. No expense has been spared in the way of furnishings and equipment. The most modern appliances are included in her specifications, such as water tube boilers, triple expansion engines, electric light and steam steering gear. Her length over all is 185 feet; beam, 21 feet; depth of hold 12½ feet; gross tonnage, 1089, and net tonnage, 740. The cylinders are to develop about 800 horse power, giving her a speed of sixteen miles per hour.

The passenger cabins and state rooms are handsomely fitted, the interior being in highly polished butternut. Nothing has been left undone to add to the safety of the craft and the comfort of the passengers.

The hull is divided into three watertight compartments, and in the event of a collision or other accident, and one compartment should fill, the boat would still safely ride the waters.

The vessel is in charge of a crew particularly competent on account of long experience on that route, having served on the Argo's predecessor, the Hiram R. Dixon, the Dixon having been put on another route to give place to this larger and handsome boat. The officers are: J. F. Hector, captain; Ed Smith, mate; E. S. Cleveland, first engineer; W. F. Marshall, steward; A. Wright, clerk.

The steamer will be operated by the United States and Dominion Transportation company, more popularly known as the "Booth line," of which W. Vernon Booth is president and H. H. Brigham traffic manager.

ACQUITTED.

Senator Stokes Not Guilty of Murder of Rev. J. J. Woll.

Williamson, W. Va., May 16.—Yesterday morning Senator S. D. Stokes stood up in the court room and pleaded "not guilty" to the indictment accusing him of the murder of Rev. J. J. Woll, a Presbyterian minister, here last November. The trial is the final outcome of Rev. Woll's sensational sermon in which Williamson's society came under the sharp lash of his invective.

The theory of the prosecution is that Stokes sought the minister in his own house and demanded an apology and evoked a quarrel in which Woll was killed. But the first witness put on the stand failed to bear out that hypothesis. Otis Reilly was within 150 yards and at the first bark of the pistols rushed toward the scene of the affray. There he found Stokes, although shot twice, still standing with a smoking revolver in hand and in reply to a question Stokes said: "Woll shot me first and I had to kill him."

At that time Reilly said Mrs. Leneve, of Richmond, Va., who was the only eye witness to the fatal shooting, corroborated Stokes. Reilly's testimony virtually disposed of the state's case, as it was known from affidavits made at the time of the shooting that the evidence of Mrs. Leneve would tend to exculpate Stokes. Senator Stokes took the stand and explained how Woll was killed. There were no other witnesses for the defense. Last night the jury returned a verdict of not guilty and Senator Stokes is again free.

MENTALLY UNBALANCED.

Slayer of "Bull Dog" Regan of Unsound Mind.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Angus McDonald, the man who dealt the blows with an ax which caused the death of "Bull Dog" Regan, is confined in the jail at Walker, and apparently unaware of the seriousness of the act which he committed. It has been said that McDonald was at one time an inmate of the insane asylum at Fergus Falls, and pending action in his case the authorities have written to those in charge of the asylum to ascertain how long a time, if any, McDonald was confined in that institution. No inquest was held on the remains of Regan. It is more than probable that McDonald will be sent to the asylum, as he is mentally unbalanced.

"The pitcher that goes often to the well is broken at last." There's a world of wisdom in that familiar proverb, and a sound application of it to disease, especially to such familiar forms of disease as coughs and colds. Singularly enough the very thing that ought to cause alarm is given as excuse for a feeling of safety. "It's nothing; only a cough. I've had it before." The fact that a cough recurs periodically should be warning enough to take it in time, for the most serious and disastrous of all maladies begins with a cough.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only stops the cough but cures the cause. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, weak lungs, hemorrhages, diseases which if neglected or unskilfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for weak lungs.

"I was very sick indeed," writes Mrs. Mollie Jacobs, of Felton, Kent Co., Delaware, "and our family doctor said I had consumption. I thought I must die soon for I felt so bad. Had a bad cough, spit blood, was very short of breath, in fact could hardly get my breath at all some times. I had pains in my chest and right lung, also had dyspepsia. Before I took your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' I was so weak I could not sweep a room, and now I can do a small washing. I worked in the canning factory this fall, and I feel like a new person. I believe that the Lord and your medicine have saved my life. I was sick over two years. I took thirteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets."

ARE HARD TO PLACE

Congestion In the Insurance Market Is Experienced.

Large Risks Are Difficult to Place In Full.

Insurance Capital of the County Said to Be Too Small.

The insurance market is congested. Large risks have been found by Duluth agents to be difficult to place in some instances and this condition is being more frequently encountered as time advances. It seems strange that risks that are good from the insurance man's point of view are difficult to place, but it is true, nevertheless.

Only a few days ago an insurance man of Duluth was given the placing of a large risk. It was on property that is regarded as somewhat hazardous, but not extraordinarily so. In times past there has seldom been trouble in placing such a risk as this and yet in this instance the man was scratching the city to get the line placed and was having a difficult time to get the last of the line taken.

The reason for this situation is said to be a scarcity of insurance capital in the country. The insurance companies have been hit pretty hard recently and a number of them have reinsured their risks in other companies and gone out of business or have failed. The losses of the companies have been heavy during the past two or three years. Their profits have exceeded their incomes by an extremely narrow margin, taken as a whole, and some have fallen below their expenses in their incomes.

Very recently one of the insurance firms of the city was finding it difficult to place a line of insurance on one of the lumber yards of the city. The stock was increasing steadily and the insurance was up to the limit that could be placed when the timely arrival of boats reduced the stock and relieved the congestion.

SOUTH DAKOTA CROPS.

Heavy Frost There Last Week.

"The temperature during the week averaged considerably below the normal and there were several frosts over the east portion of the state, but light except on Sunday morning, May 12, when a heavy frost occurred over the northeast portion, ice forming on buckets and pails of water in some localities. In the absence of Sunday trains, mail reports are not available, but reports by telephone indicate that fruit bloom and gardens suffered material damage in some localities. So far as ascertained wheat, oats, barley and rye sustained no injury.

"During the last days of the preceding week and the early part of the current week, rains occurred over most of the state, being copious in some southern and northeastern counties, leaving the soil generally in amply moist condition, but there are a few Middle Missouri valley and Black Hills localities where, while nothing is suffering, more rain is needed.

"The cool weather and moist soil were very favorable for the rooting and stooling of spring wheat and rye, oats and barley, and these crops are generally reported in satisfactory condition, though there are some scattered fields that are thin stand and weedy; the prospect, however, is generally very good.

"The seeding of wheat is practically completed and that of oats, barley and spring rye nearing completion.

"Corn planting, though somewhat retarded in some localities by rains, is well advanced and the early planted is sprouting in some southern counties, but growth has been slow because of the cool weather.

"Winter rye continues generally in good condition and in some southern fields is nearly ready to head.

THE FAIR CONTEST.

Hearing Continued By Judge Trout to June.

San Francisco, May 16.—Judge Trout has continued until June 5 the contest of Charles L. Fair to the will of his father, the late James G. Fair. It was intimated in court that by that time the remitteur from the supreme court in this case will be sent down, and if such be the case the contest may be dismissed. There yet remains a question in regard to the property belonging to the Fair estate, attorneys for the trustees contending that the supreme court's decision declaring the trust clause invalid has relation solely to the real estate involved in the litigation.

AT THE POINT OF DEATH.

Denver, May 16.—Judge John Gibbons of Chicago, of the Cook county circuit court, is lying at the point of death at St. Joseph's hospital from an attack of apoplexy. His condition at 5 o'clock this morning was alarming, and his physician could give little hope of his recovery.

ERROR OF IRELAND.

Much Time Lost In Preparing For War.

New York, May 16.—Miss Maude Gonne, the Irish Joan of Arc, says that she is quite sure that Ireland will rise against England soon as the opportunity presents itself, just as Lord Salisbury had intimated in his speech in London. But she takes exception to the premier's statement that England is a formidable enemy.

"Salisbury's speech is positively funny," she said. "Everybody knows that England is discredited as a warring nation through the facts brought to light by the Boer war. The idea of his putting up such a bluff is simply ridiculous.

"As for the Irish, we could not have been in better condition if the home rule bill had passed, because it did not give us control of the police and our own finances, nor the power to raise armed bodies of men.

"What I regret, and what the revolutionary party in Ireland regrets is that so much time and money have been expended in the last twelve years preaching home rule instead of using the money to bring arms and distributing them among the people. If we had done that we would have been in fine condition a year ago to jump into the fray. I is sad to think such a beautiful opportunity to free Ireland was lost.'"

"NICE YOUNG MAN."

Hetty Green's Comment on Earl of Yarmouth.

New York, May 16.—Mrs. Hetty Green was seen by a reporter soon after a verdict for $2500 in favor of the earl of Yarmouth, who had sued a newspaper for libel, had been read in court by Justice Blanchard. This query was put to the woman of millions:

"You are quoted as saying to Yarmouth, that if it were proved that he was the sort of man the paper sued said he was, you and your daughter would have no more to do with him. Now that Yarmouth has been vindicated, will you take him up again? Will your daughter marry the earl?"

Mrs. Green said in reply: "These stories about Yarmouth and us are mere newspaper talk. There is absolutely no truth in the reports that Yarmouth will marry my daughter."

The verdict, a sealed one, had hardly been read in court, when the man who had brought suit because he was called an "heiress hunter," entered the court room. Turing to the jurors, he said: "Gentlemen, I thank you."

Several jurors shook hands with the earl and he again thanked each one warmly.

"The first time I met the earl of Yarmouth," said Mrs. Hetty Green, "was in the court room the first day of the trial. I did not know anything of him, but as far as appearances go he is a very nice young gentleman."

GOVERNOR MURPHY ARRIVES.

San Francisco, May 16.—Governor Murphy of Arizona, accompanied by his wife, has arrived in this city to witness the launching of the battleship Ohio on Saturday. He was with the presidential party during its trip through Arizona.

Honored His Uniform.

The work of the railroad man, especially in the passenger service, is a strain on the nerves. Trains are supposed to hurry over the road; passengers are generally in a hurry and very often confused, and the men in uniform are appealed to from all sides for information and assistance. The railroad management, operating on the progressive theory that more flies can be caught with molasses than with vinegar, expects them to be useful in helping passengers avoid mistakes and in making them comfortable. How to keep in good temper and still try to please everybody is an hourly problem with them. But they are solving it.

At the Waterloo station a few days ago, as the train was ready to move out, the ticket agent called out to a trainman who had come into the waiting room, evidently in search of somebody:

"She is sitting there in the corner. A lady who is with her is trying to have her baggage checked."

The trainman found a young woman, evidently an invalid, with a face distressingly anxious and inexpressibly sad, and, taking her arm, he led her toward the train, past the baggage room. They were met by the conductor and the lady friend, who had attended to the baggage, and then the women parted, the almost helpless traveler being committed to the care of the men who wore the uniform of the New York Central, a uniform which often represents as much of bravery and chivalry as the Red Cross does.

The two men led their charge to the steps of the car and lifted her into it, and guided her to a seat; she was blind. —From the Watertown (N. Y.) Daily Times.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

QUIET DAY IN WHEAT

Market Opens Weak on Better Southwestern Crop Conditions.

Cash Situation the Sustaining Feature at Present Time.

Large Seaboard Shipments This Week--- Cables Are Steady.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 16.—The wheat market was affected today largely by crop news. Reports of rains in the Southwestern fields where drouth has been complained of gave an easier feeling and the market opened weaker. The strength seems to come from the cash situation for cash handlers are good buyers of grain. The Duluth market is strong and the shippers are well pleased with the foreign outlook. Nothing has been worked for a few days, but heavy seaboard shipments are under way and until they are out of the way there may be little foreign business done. Some offers are being made, however, and if the price becomes a little more attractive the foreigners are certain to take considerable. Duluth stocks are expected to decrease 1,500,000 bus this week and Chicago has shipped out about 2,000,000 bus. The decrease in Northwestern supplies will be heavy and the general visible supply is expected to show a fair decrease next Monday. There were damage reports coming from Kansas today and some were sensational, although they applied to only limited sections. One Kansas City grain man was quoted as saying that in one section of Kansas where he had been one-half of the crop was destroyed. Des Moines, Iowa, reported farmers in two counties plowing up their grain. The Price Current reports crops fine, but rains needed in the winter wheat section. Cables were steady. Liverpool closing unchanged to ½d higher. Deliveries of wheat in Chicago went to a premium over July again today, and at the close was ¼-⅝c over. Primary receipts of wheat were 315,000 bus, last year 330,000. Shipments 907,000 bus, last year 228,000. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 273,000 bus. Chicago reported 125,000 bus of wheat worked for shipment.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 198 cars, against 189 last week and 255 last year. Chicago receipts, 49 cars, 1 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was dull on the Duluth board. July wheat opened ⅛c off, at 73⅝c, sold down to 73½-⅝c at 10:22, recovered to 73¾c, dropped again to 73⅝c, at 11:03, sold at 73½-⅝c at 11:05 and closed at 73½c, a decline of ⅛c. Chicago also declined ⅛c and Minneapolis ⅜c.

Cash sales were 12,000 bus at July price.

Corn was weaker in Duluth today closing ⅛c off. In Chicago the May option was easier closing ⅜c off from yesterday. The price at one time was up to 57c bid. July closed ⅛c off. Deliveries of corn in Chicago yesterday aggregated 160,000 bus. Weare said today:

"Phillips yesterday went after his stubborn May corn shorts and got a few of them. Private settlements were made to the extent of 1,200,000 bus. It took a 60-cent price to bring the reluctant shorts to terms. I learned that certain big stop loss orders in the May were in the market,' said Phillips in referring to the matter, 'and I went after them and got them. The settlements came from three different lines. The average settlement price was about 57c.'

"Phillips was asked whether the big settlements of the May presaged a giving up of the May bull campaign. 'Not by any means,' he said. 'The outstanding short interest is still very large, there is no present reason for giving up the bull attitude.'"

Primary receipts of corn were 414,000 bus, last year 240,000 bus. Shipments 1,182,000 bus, last year 125,000 bus. Clearances were 474,000 bus.

May flax was up 3½c in Duluth today and it went up on bids by shorts. At the closing price, which was $1.78, there was a sale of 500 bus. September was up 3c and October was unchanged. Rye was up ½c.

The oat situation is strong as ever in Chicago. May closed unchanged after the advance of yesterday and July was ½-⅝c. In Duluth there was no change in price.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 76¾c; to arrive, 76¾c; May, 76¾c; September, 71¾c. No. 1 northern, cash, 73⅝c; to arrive, 73½c; May, 73⅝c; September, 70½c; July, 73½c. No. 2 northern, cash, No. 3 spring, 65¾c. Oats, 29¾-29½c. Rye, 51½c. Flax, cash, $1.78; to arrive, $1.78; May, $1.78; September, $1.34; September Northwestern, $1.84. October, $1.28. Corn, 42c; May, 42c.

WEARE'S REPORT.

Chicago, May 16.—The chief feature in the wheat market this morning has been dullness and the absence of outside trade. The break of the Southwestern drought caused some weakness, but wheat has stubbornly resisted all pressure. In the absence of any confirmatory news regarding crop damage, the trade seems disinclined to actively espouse either side. It must be confessed that the resistance which wheat is showing is somewhat better than might be expected, and if helped by any buying from the outside, might result in a bull turn, but this latter factor is entirely lacking. Local sales today were 200,000 bus. Duluth predicts decrease in its stocks of 2,000,000 bus. Minneapolis of 60,000 bus consequently a large visible decrease is expected. There are continued damage reports more or less reliable, and the Northwest is now adding its annual wail, talking today of bugs in the Southwest of Minnesota. The cash situation is strong, but speculative indifference is very noticeable and bull incentives must become more radical to attract that needed support.

The corn market has been less active today, and outlines have been experienced in both July and May. Phillips sold both and outside demand has been smaller.

Phillips has been a seller of July oats and other professionals have done likewise. May sold at 31c and July at 28¾c. Price Current calls the prospect only fair for the growing crop. The reports on the oat situation are far from favorable and we hear of some counties plowing up their oat fields on account of poor stand.

The provision market has been firm, lard and ribs being in demand, credited to Armour. Pork at one time was up 20 to 30c, lard and ribs 5c and 10c. Hogs were 5c higher, 50@60c West, against $8,000 last year. Packers were good sellers on the bulges.

STRENGTH IN STOCKS

Shown at Opening With Prices Generally Showing Advances.

Speculation Was Quiet But With a Strong Undertone.

Light Selling In the Last Hour Caused Some Declines.

New York, May 16.—Yesterday's strength was continued in the stock market this morning and opening prices showed gains of 1 to 2 points in the leading members of all the prominent groups of stocks including the trunk lines, coalers, grangers, Pacifics, Southwesterns and Southern railroads. In special cases the gains exceeded those figures. Union Pacific opened at 107½ to 109 compared with 106½ last night on the sale of 3800 shares. Consolidated Gas rose 4, Metropolitan 3, Amalgamated Copper 3¾, and Delaware & Hudson 2½. The market was active and broad after the opening.

Large offerings met the opening rise and the general decline was hastened by a break of 5¾ in Union Pacific. The leading railroads and specialties lost from 1 to 2½. There were some conspicuous exceptions, International Power rising 10, Lackawanna 4⅞ and Northern Pacific 4. Buying to cover and some outside demand checked the reaction before 11 a. m. and prices recovered strongly in spots. St. Paul ran up 4¾, Union Pacific 4¼, Atchison 2⅜, Amalgamated Copper 2 and many others a point or more. Chesapeake & Ohio was strong.

Speculation was quiet but with a strong undertone. Frequent relapses occurred in special stocks, but they rallied strongly. Noon prices showed the market well above yesterday's close, the gains reaching 2 points and over in many instances. St. Paul rose to 160¼ and the trunk lines rose to the best. High priced dividend-paying stocks were in demand. Minneapolis & St. Louis gained 5, Northern Pacific preferred 6¾ and American Express 9¾. Bonds were dull and irregular.

Light selling in the last hour made deep inroads upon prices where the principal advances had been. St. Paul yielded 4½, Northern Pacific 4¾, Union Pacific 4¾, Amalgamated Copper 4, Rock Island 3 and many others from 1 to 2. Some of the trunk lines fell below last night. The close was dull and easy at the decline.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Waldorf gossip to Edwards, Wood & Co.—Some of the most prominent stock commission houses believe that the postpanic liquidation in securities is practically finished, which this evening encourage, the view that there is no longer any danger in the market. Hence representatives of these firms feel that on all drives and moderate declines purchases of good stocks are in order. In support of the latter contention it is pointed out that the outside situation is in no respect different from that which came when the market was booming at the highest prices. On the other hand it is stronger than before, for a large winter wheat crop is assured. Moreover the apprehension which has existed in certain quarters that the export trade of the country was falling off is dispelled by the remarkable foreign trade statement just issued for April which shows that exports were larger than in any previous corresponding period. As regards railroad earnings the increases reported for the first week in May and the reasonable certainty that April exhibits will show further gains in net on such systems as Atchison, Southern Pacific and St. Paul are incentives which can hardly fail to add to confidence in values. Some of the most successful traders, laying much stress on the forgoing considerations, say that the stocks to buy on reactions are St. Paul, Rock Island, New York Central, Pennsylvania, the Pacific stocks, Atchisons, Reading and Erie. The marked recovery in the market is attributed to recent heavy purchases by substantial interests, the buying of shorts and the settlement of the differences heretofore existing between the railroad capitalists identified with the Union Pacific and Northern Pacific. Then it is known that the heavy liquidation in progress for Chicago account has about run its course and the stocks thus sold have passed into the hands of the brokers of Rockefeller, Morgan and Keene. Hence the speculative position of the market has greatly improved. Coincidentally money is working easier and there will be great surprise if the bank statement at the close of the week does not reflect a heavy decrease in loans and a large increase in cash.

New York to Baker—The Sun says: "A London newspaper professes to know that Morgan is returning to Aixles because his physician assured him that if he attempted to continue working as he did during the last few days in London his life would be endangered. It adds that on leaving London, Mr. Morgan told a friend there was a good fight left in him yet and when he settled the situation in the United States and got things as he wanted them he would rest."

Ridgely to Rupley—The further break this morning was far more baseless than last week's panic. Stocks were simply marked down in order to force liquidation by persons who were in financial difficulties. The decline was helped along by various disturbing foolish rumors. The strongest interests on the street were quietly absorbing all stocks offered while making no effort to support prices. There is absolutely no reason to be a bear on these situations. Stocks had a sharp rebound after the panic then reacted as they always do in such cases. From the low figures of today there should be a slow gradual upward movement, and if purchases are made on weak spots, very narrow margins ought to be sufficient. It is to be honed you bought stocks this morning as advised. You will not be able to get them so cheap again in a hurry. The market is not going straight up, buy on weak spots only. There may be some breaks Thursday afternoon and Friday mornings, followed by advancing prices Friday afternoon and Saturday.

BOUGHT LOT OF FIVES.

New York, May 16.—The secretary of the treasury today bought 15,000 5 per cent bonds of 1904 at $108.87. This is the first lot of 5s offered under the secretary's recent offer to purchase bonds for the sinking fund.

IN LONDON.

Stock Exchange Opened With a Better Tone.

London, May 16.—Business on the stock exchange opened today with a better tone all around. American securities were above parity, with moderate transactions. There was a more confident feeling that the difficulties had been well night overcome. No failures were announced. There was a general feeling of relief throughout the city.

Clinton E. Dawkins, a member of the firm of J. S. Morgan & Co., said today to a representative of the Associated Press that the general situation was too big a subject to discuss. But you can say this, he said: "The situation is improved," then he added emphatically, "in fact, it is very much improved."

The extent of the differences requiring settlement yesterday was emphasized by the unprecedented aggregate of the checks passing through the bankers' clearing house reaching the record total of $140,431,000.

A. B. Mendelssohn, a small broker, has been declared a defaulter on the stock exchange.

AT ALBANY.

Conference For Purpose of Making Compromise on Strike.

Albany, N. Y., May 16.—A conference was held in the office of Mayor Blessing today between the mayor, corporation counsel and Attorney Willard, the latter representing the strikers. It was there decided that the strikers should hold a meeting late this afternoon for the purpose of drawing up a compromise proposition to submit to the Traction company as the basis of settlement of the strike. The mayor will act as arbitrator between the strikers and the company.

The members of the common council of Albany have decided to hold a special meeting of the council tomorrow for the purpose of passing a resolution calling upon the United Traction company to terminate the strike before Monday next. If the strike is not ended by that time, it is the intention of the council to consider at a meeting to be held that night, a proposition to repeal the ordinance under which the company uses electricity in the operation of its cars.

At 2 p. m. the strikers succeeded in cutting the Traction company wires in Clinton avenue, near Quail street. The line is now being repaired by the power wagon under a heavy guard.

CLASH EXPECTED

Between Two Labor Associations of Chicago.

Chicago, May 16.—A clash between the National Metal Trades' association and the International Association of Machinists threatens to undo all efforts towards a peaceful settlemnt of thme labor question, so far as the Chicago district is concerned. Employers in the Metal Trades' association say they have conceded that nine hours shall constitute a day's work and that they will only too gladly agree to arbitrate the question of wages, but assert that contrary to instructions voted Saturday night, local officials of the machinists' union have not asked for arbitration.

TO DISSOLVE.

Injunction Against Copper Purchase to be Dissolved.

New York, May 16.—Vice Chancellor Pitney, in court in Jersey City, today, announced that he will dissolve the temporary injunction against the carrying out of the purchase of the Boston & Montana and other companies by the Amalgamated Copper company. The form of the order dissolving the injunction has not been decided upon, but it probably will be ready by Monday next.

NEWS OF THE LAKES

Freight Steamer Ewing Is Sunk In the Soo River.

The Schooner Frank C. Perew Badly Damaged and Sunk.

Call For Boats at Chicago Much Smaller Than Than Before.

Detroit, May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—A dispatch was received at the office of the Star Line company this morning, reporting the sinking of the freight steamer S. D. Ewing in the Soo river, not far from Nine Mile Point. The vessel belongs to the Corrigan fleet and is said to be lying in fifteen feet of water.

SCHOONER DAMAGED.

Sault Ste. Marie, May 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The schooner Frank C. Perew, upbound in tow of the steamer Minnesota, struck at the Encampment. The vessel was so seriously damaged that it was necessary to let her settle to the bottom in shallow water in Hay lake.

SMALL CALL FOR BOATS.

Chicago, May 16—(Special to The Herald.)—The call for boats today was much smaller than it has been. Vessel men say shippers did not seem to care about what rates were. For a handy cargo, doubtless vessel men would have accepted 1¾ cents on wheat. Up to noon, the cargo had not been offered. When corn ceases to be the chips of a gambling game

Schlitz is Old Beer

The beer that causes biliousness is "green beer"—insufficiently aged. It is hurried from the brewery to the market before it is half fermented. Drink it and it ferments in your stomach, and the result is biliousness and headache.

Fermentation is expensive. It requires immense refrigerating rooms (ours hold 265,000 barrels) and an even temperature of 34 degrees. Fermentation is a process of months.

No green beer ever leaves the Schlitz brewery. If you wish to be certain of an aged beer, get Schlitz, the beer that made Milwaukee famous.

A WHISTLING MAID

BY HELEN MORETTA.

(Copyrighted, 1901, William R. Miller.)

There was an accident to the train going into Paris, and that was how the Stephens became acquainted with the Lees. The boss, mother and daughter, were Americans who were traveling abroad for a few months; the Shipmans, brother and sister, were English, who were making leisure journeys on the Continent.

English tourists, of all classes, who travel are adept at making acquaintance, even among themselves, but in this case all tourist themselves looked for the same hotel, and agreed to make up a little coterie. At the first sendoff Miss Shipman privately and enthusiastically introduced her brother to Nellie Lee and Miss Lee. A few days later, however, when he found that he did the same thing, and perhaps a little more, she was not so sure of her feelings. He was in the matrimonial market, and as his sister and companion she had her little plans. It is rash so to say that none of those plans provided for his marrying an American, even though she were heiress to millions and possessed of beauty. The only woman good enough for him, according to her unassisted view of it, was an English woman.

With Lee England. It was different. His inclination had changed to love within a fortnight. He was no fortune-hunter, he had found a woman combining all the graces and refinements, and he gave no thought to the financial part. It was a month, before he had fully made up his mind to win her if possible, and having once done so he unconsciously put it up to his sister could give him. In a cool, calm way he told her that he was in love and should ask Miss Lee to be his wife.

"But you can't possibly think of it!" she exclaimed in agony.

"I shall continue to think of it till she makes me the happiest man in the world."

"Jim, she is an American."

"Well, what of that? American girls get over being savages a full hundred years ago."

"But how do we know about their social standing—their money?"

"As to their social standing, I have read of it and met people who knew them at home. Any talking of the money part, I suppose I don't care."

"And you—you really intend to marry that—that girl?" moaned the sister, with tears in her eyes.

"I send certainly ask her to be my wife," replied the brother.

"Then I must tell you something about her. I didn't intend to as long as you looked upon her only as an acquaintance or a chance friend, but now that you have been caught in her net I must out with the truth. Ked, do you know that Miss Lee is just awful?"

"I know that she is a charming and lovely girl."

"But I say she is awful—awful!"

"How awful—twice over?"

"Why—why, she whistles! Think of it! She whistles just like a man! She not only puckers her lips and whistles tunes, but she can put her fingers in her mouth and utter such a shrill note that it can be heard a mile away. Oh, brother, but you would never marry a whistling girl, even if she were English and a duke's daughter."

"If she can whistle it will save ringing the dinner bell," he replied with a laugh and then he calmed off for a smoke, leaving his solicitous sister in tears.

Another couple of Americans had joined the coterie—old friends of Mr. Lees at Inspruck it had been decided by the majority of the party to do the Alps. The American horses knew well enough how it was with brother and sister, and she was standing on her dignity. She confessed to herself that the Englishman was a manly man, and that she might learn to feel some respect for him, but somehow the fact that the sister was a good dissembler, the fact that she was himself had come to be realized, American dignity and independence resented this, and the four "Yankees" were almost ready to take the train across France before Earl Shipman learned that they were making a move. Then, brotherlike, he "brew up" his sister for having strained the relations by her coolness, and ran off to beg the privilege of joining the party.

It was true that Nellie Lee could whistle. She had been taught by a cowboy while on a visit to a far-Western ranch. She couldn't warble like Mrs. Shaw, but when she had finished with her lessons there was no fault to be found with the ordinary jubilo with her "Yankee Doodle," "Home, Sweet Home" or "The Old Oaken Bucket." And that trick of putting the forefinger in the mouth, giving it a crook and blowing over it, sent a signal far beyond rifle shot, and was almost as good a weapon as a revolver. The girl didn't whistle back at locomotives or steam tugs, nor did she match herself against the fellow with his hands in his pockets and his cap on his ear. She just whistled to herself, and because she felt happy.

The party of six had been stopping at a little hostelry in the foothills of Mont Blanc for three or four days, and there was at least armed neutrality between the old-sitting sister and the whistling American when they set out for a ramble unattended by a guide. They had walked for three or four miles, when one of those sudden wind and rain squalls for which the Mont Blanc is famous, broke upon them, sending them running for shelter, and confusing them as to location. They got off the trail, and wet, tossed and frightened, they wandered about until of a sudden the earth crumbled under their feet, and the six went down into a deep chasm together. Luckily, there were small trees and bushes to break the fall, and as they brought up in an ice-cold pool at the bottom of the ravine five of them only had cuts and bruises to show. The Englishman had a broken arm and a fractured rib. There was no getting out of that ravine without help from above. They raised their voices and shouted at brief intervals until they could no longer shout from hoarseness. When it was found that they did not return to the hotel in season, searching parties would be sent out, but without signals to guide them they might not find the lost ones for a couple of days. They were a sorry, chilly, battered lot, with the Englishman in such pain as brought the tears to his eyes, though the others knew it not. It lacked only an hour of darkness when they heard a faint "Hello!" But no one could call out above a whisper in answer. It was then that Miss Shipman checked her sobs for a moment to whi out:

"Oh! Miss Lee, you can whistle! Answer that call! Whistle your best—whistle your loudest! Our lives depend on your whistle!"

"But a girl should not whistle, you know!" replied the American as she tossed her head and shut her lips.

"But she should—oh, she should! It is so nice! It is so sweet! Oh! If you will only please whistle—if you will whistle as loud as you can, I will act as your first bridesmaid and love you all the rest of my life!"

Miss Shipman put up her fingers, drew a long breath, and then sent a 'kew—wew—wew" screaming up the walls of the ravine and out over the mountain top, and after it had been repeated a third time a searching party located them and came to the rescue.

Yes, there was a marriage, with all objections of the sister's part removed, and today, if feeling in her usual spirit, the American wife is whistling in her English home.

LAST OF THE CLASS

The Battleship Illinois Going to Sea to Limber Up.

Last of Newer Battleships Carrying Thirteen-Inch Guns.

The Possibility of Sending Fresh Salmon to London.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 15.—The last battleship built on the Eastern coast carrying 13-inch guns in her main battery, will be placed in commission at Hampton roads on July 1, when the flag of Capt. Converse will be hoisted to the forestruck of the Illinois. Under orders issued a day or two ago she will go to sea to limber up and test her guns and then join the North Atlantic squadron for the summer evolutions at Newport. The new ship is a sister to the Alabama, built at Cramps', and the Wisconsin, built on the Pacific coast. Each of these mounts four 13-inch guns in turrets fore and aft, and they are the last of the newer battleships in any navy carrying guns of their weight and caliber. Since they were designed the naval powers have followed the lead of this country and abandoned this caliber of gun.

A question as to the possibility of those engaged in the salmon industry sending the fresh salmon to London, has been brought to the attention of the state department by Consul General Osborne.

Mr. Osborne states that it takes about fourteen days for the Norwegian senders; from whom London has for several years obtained her supply of fresh salmon, to send the salmon to London, that is, it takes that time for the fish to arrive in London from the day it is caught in Norway.

Mr. Osborne states that each year the fish arrives in better condition, namely, better quality and brighter looking fish and realizes higher prices. Last year Norwegian salmon realized from 16 to 36 cents per pound. It is packed in large cases, with a plentiful supply of ice. The fish most in demand weigh from eight to fourteen pounds each. Our consul general is of the opinion that it would be worth while for our salmon catchers to venture two or three cases on trial, as there seems to be some prospect of a large trade during the salmon season, provided the trial proves successful. The demand for frozen salmon in the London market is not great as the people do not care for anything frozen. The daily sale of frozen salmon in London does not average ten cases in all. It is sent to England principally from Canada.

Secretary Gage has approved the appointment of a board to superintend the preparation of plans for a new department of agriculture building. Secretary Wilson is ex-officio a member of the board, as is also John Knox Taylor, supervising architect of the treasury. Associated with them are three architects of recognized standing, Cess Gilbert, of New York city; J. N. Rankin, of Philadelphia, and J. Rush Marshall, of this city.

The first duty of the board will be to select ten architects, who will be invited to submit plans for a building along the general lines that have been agreed upon. The plans are to be submitted by Oct. 1, and when all are in the board will sit as a jury, and one of the ten plans submitted will be given official approval. The plans adopted will be developed in detail and presented to the next congress, with a request for an appropriation sufficient to cover the cost of erecting such a building as the needs of the department demand. It is estimated that in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 will be required. The last congress appropriated $5000 to cover the cost of the preparation of preliminary plans.

Although the details of construction have not been gone into, it has been decided that the new building shall be built around three sides of the present building, which in time will be torn down. The main building will be immediately north of present building, with a frontage of 400 feet. At each end there will be a wing 200 feet deep. The building will be of white marble, four stories in height and will have about the same floor space as the patent office. From this general plan the architects who are to submit competitive designs are expected to work out the details of construction. It is not anticipated that there will be any difficulty in securing the necessary appropriation, as the needs for a new department of agriculture building have long been recognized, and some of the most influential members of congress are interested in the project of its building.

The commission appointed to devise a general parking system for the District of Columbia gave careful consideration to the matter of a new agricultural building and endorsed the general plan agreed upon as harmonizing with the commission's ideas of proper ornamentation of the hall.

According to a London newspaper, a new Mecca is being prepared for American tourists. It has been ascertained, after exhaustive researches, that the ancestors of George Washington repose in the old churchyard of St. Mary's, Great Brington, Northamptonshire, England. The matter has been taken up by influential Englishmen, who purpose organizing a series of coaching tours and excursions, beginning some time this month, to Brington. A Washington tour ought to be popular with Americans, who, it is said, spend $1,000,000 yearly in visiting the Shakespearean shrine at Stratford-on-Avon. The attractions are parallel, for while at Stratford are Shakespeare's tomb and Anna Hathaway's cottage, at Brington may be seen several tombs of the Washingtons, and the Washington house where resided three generations of the family. The old-fashioned thatched building was first occupied by the Washingtons in 1606. There is a stone over the doorway bearing the following inscription: "The Lord giveth, the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord. 1606." Some hotel at or near Great Brington should arrange to entertain tourists when the Americans flock over to England in the summer.

Ohio politics is beginning to command a very large share of attention here. It is appreciated by the leaders on both sides that the coming campaign will be one of that animated character which has so frequently lent a national interest to state politics. The Republicans, flushed with the triumph of last November, profess to be serenely confident that it will be repeated next November. At the same time it is in evidence that they are maturing their preparations just the same as if they apprehended the necessity for as strong and steady work as ever they have been put to.

The Democrats must think they have a pretty good show, or there would not be so many active candidates for the gubernatorial nomination. The Democratic state committee of Ohio will meet shortly to fix the place and date for holding the convention. This is a matter of absorbing interest to the rival candidates, perhaps more particularly as to the location. There are two candidates in the city of Columbus for the nomination, and naturally their friends would like the convention to assemble there. The friends of other candidates are determined to the contrary, and it is said the opposition is strong enough to carry it elsewhere. In this matter the gossip here is that Mayor Thomas L. Johnson of Cleveland and John R. McLean, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, have pooled their issues. It is asserted this combination will be able to take the convention either to Cleveland or Cincinnati. The date of the meeting will probably be set for the latter part of July. Mr. Johnson and Mr. McLean are not apt to pull together to any great extent, but both are such good politicians that when they have an object in common they are not likely to stand off and make faces at each other.

It may be expected, therefore, that contingencies may arise in the convention when these two will act together with the mutual understanding of falling apart when their respective interests demand it. Mayor Johnson is certainly not himself a candidate for the nomination. There would be no political point for him to gain by standing this year, for, if elected, he would have to stand the music again two years from now and only one year in advance of the presidential election. Defeat would then completely knock him out of all national calculations. Besides this, he has intimated to his friends here his determination to make his record as mayor of Cleveland and to show the measure of his sincerity in the promises of municipal reform. Mr. Johnson, while he apparently has made himself strong in the city, cannot just yet be sure of the feeling toward him in the agricultural sections, as some of the theories of Henry George, of which he has been an avowed supporter, are not altogether agreeable to the farmers.

As to Mr. McLean, it is quite sure his gubernatorial aspirations have been quieted for some time to come. It is none the less sure that in the event of a Democratic legislature next fall he will be a strenuous candidate for the United States senate. His friends unhesitatingly assert this. Mr. McLean has received a great many appeals from friends of the different aspirants for the assistance of his personal influence. He has invariably replied he would not consider it becoming for him to espouse the cause of any individual at this time, but notified them all emphatically that his personal influence and the support of the Cincinnati Enquirer shall be given to the nominee.

TRADE IN SCOTLAND

American Imports to That Country Are Steadily Rising.

The Markets Gained For Many Lines Are Permanent Ones.

Scotchmen Fastidious But Profitable Customers For Meritorious Goods.

Washington, May 16.—The bureau of foreign commerce of the state department made public today advance sheets of "Commercial Relations for 1900," that deal with American trade in Scotland. The tide of American imports into Scotland, it is stated, steadily rises. This is true not only of our food products, which are in almost universal demand, but also of a numerous variety of manufactures. During the past year the quantity of American goods in the markets of Eastern Scotland has been much larger than ever before and the volume of trade visibly greater. The market which has been gained for many lines of our manufactures is a permanent one, it is stated. A growing preference for American goods is held accountable for this very encouraging state of affairs in Scotland. It is pointed out that while the Scotsman is a somewhat fastidious buyer, he becomes a most devoted and profitable customer when once assured of the merits of an article offered for sale. It is this phase of the Scottish character which has prompted American exporters and manufacturers to consider this commercial field as one apart from England, and to deal with it accordingly.

Social and economic conditions have not been affected by the South African war. Business in nearly all mercantile lines has been active, but the depression in the iron and steel trade resulting from the high prices of raw material and fuel, as well as from American, German and Belgian competition will, it is feared, soon be severely felt in industrial communities.

Of the great number of articles which the United States now sends regularly to Scotland perhaps the most marked increase, except in food products, has been noted in the sale of hardware. Our woodware has also secured an important position in this market. Other American productions which are gradually pushing to higher favor are furniture, boots and shoes, rubber goods, machinery and tools, wire and wire goods (whose importation last year doubled that of 1899), leather, oil, clocks and watches, paints, drugs and chemicals, organs, glassware, confectionery and a number of other articles. Over 3000 beams and plates needed in the construction of the new North British railway station, in Edinburgh, were supplied by the United States. A vast increase in the importation of American barley since 1899 has been noted, and a decrease in import of corn. There is a growing trade in fruits, meats and nearly all articles of food.

DECISION AWAITED.

Will Determine Power of the Surveyor General.

St. Paul, May 16.—The case of P. H. Kirwan against Simon J. Murphy was argued in the United States court of appeals yesterday.

Kirwan was formerly government surveyor of logs and lumber for the district of Minnesota. Murphy was the owner of some land near Cedar Island lake.

Kirwan recommended to the commissioner of the general land office that the land in the section of the state in which Murphy held his property be resurveyed. The commission first vetoed the matter, and then on appeal approved of the resurvey. The order for the resurvey was issued. This was in the year 1855. Murphy took it to the United States circuit court for the district of Minnesota, and that court decided that a surveyor general could not resurvey the land unless the owners were consenting to the resurvey.

Kirwan appealed. The question is one of great importance, which, if sustained by the present judges, would establish a precedent. The sustaining of the former decision would mean the taking out of the hands of a surveyor a great deal of the power that he has held to the present time.

and others have months of peace and comfort passing through the weary time before confinement.

Its beneficent influence makes child bearing a pleasure, as it relieves all nervousness, headache, pains and nausea.

"A customer, whose wife used 'Mother's Friend,' says that if she had to go through the ordeal again, and but four bottles were to be obtained and the cost was $500 per bottle, he would have them. GEO. LAYTON, Druggist, Dayton, O."

Sent by express paid on receipt of price, $1 per bottle. Book for expectant mothers, entitled "Motherhood," mailed free.

DINNER IS DISTURBED

Infuriated Wife Smashed Window of Grass Widow's House.

With a Carving Knife She Cut Carpets and Curtains.

Her Husband and Friends Were Dining With Hostess.

Cleveland, May 16.—For two hours Monday evening a fashionable home in the East End, was the scene of a sensational wrangle which narrowly escaped a bloody termination. The interference of the police alone stopped what had every semblance at times of a free-for-all fight. Mrs. Philena O. Gilmore, of 125 Brookdale street, and Mrs. Henry R. Adams were the principals.

Mrs. Gilmore was giving a dinner at which a young lady cousin, Attorney Walter D. Meals, chairman of the Republican county committee, Assistant Police Prosecutor H. D. Davis, formerly of Hillsboro, and Henry R. Adams, were the guests. The meal course was being discussed when Mrs. Adams, her husband's mother, and brother and the coachman demanded entrance. They were refused and Mrs. Adams, Jr., smashed a window through which all climbed.

Rough house is the term the two attorneys apply to what took place for the next two hours.

When the carriage drove up the coachman rang the bell and said he had a letter for Mrs. Gilmore. He was told she was not there, and the door was slammed. Ward's hand was caught and slightly cut, when the door was shut.

"Come on," yelled Ward, and the other members of the party rushed up on the porch.

Mrs. H. R. Adams made a rush for Mrs. Gilmore, and the two women clinched. Mrs. Adams struck Mrs. Gilmore in the face twice. The Adams brothers tried to get at each other, but were kept apart by Meals and Davis.

The scene which followed was simply "fierce." Mrs. H. R. Adams, armed with a carving knife, slashed at the curtains and carpets and rugs, meanwhile upbraiding her husband and Mrs. Gilmore. She picked up a jar containing cigars.

"Oh, these are my husband's cigars, are they?" she said, and smash went the jar and its contents on the floor.

Another slash with the knife and another handsome pair of curtains came down with a run. A sweep of the knife and the dishes on the table were sent crashing to the floor. Meantime P. L. Adams was trying to get at his brother. The latter tried to soothe his wife. She would not listen to him.

"I have got fourteen of your letters written to this woman," she moaned. "Oh, you wretch, you libertine. You told me you had given her up. How could you treat me so shamefully?"

All this time Mrs. Helen Adams stood by, simply dazed by the scene. She could not realize that her son was so much at fault until she heard his wife's reproaches. The visit to Mrs. Gilmore's house had been planned in order that the mother might be convinced of the state of affairs.

For two hours the scene continued. All the residents of the street were aroused by the noise. Finally Mrs. H. R. Adams became hysterical and her shrieks could be heard all along the street. Meantime a sister of Mrs. H. R. Adams and the former's husband, knowing that a visit was to be paid by the aggrieved wife to the Gilmore house, had arrived. The sister's husband went for the police. Patrolman Cole appeared and induced Mrs. H. R. Adams to go home. She and her relatives drove away, leaving Meals, H. R. Adams and Davis in the house.

An hour later Mrs. Helen Adams and her son returned, having left Mrs. H. R. Adams at her mother-in-law's home. Mother and brother pleaded with H. R. Adams to return to his mother's home. He promised to do so, and his relatives went away.

Last October Mrs. H. R. Adams horsewhipped Mrs. Gilmore at the latter's home. Mrs Gilmore was badly beaten by the angry wife, but the matter was hushed up.

About a year ago Mrs. Gilmore obtained a divorce from her husband, Harrison R. Gilmore, who now lives at Columbus. The court gave Gilmore the custody of their child, a little girl about 12 years old, excepting during vacations, when she was to be in her mother's care. Six weeks ago a modification of this decree was filed by Gilmore. Affidavits accompanying it alleged a sensational scene between Mrs. Gilmore and Henry R. Adams, manager of the Adams Bab company, with offices at No. 607 Caxton building. It was also claimed that Mrs. Gilmore is not a proper person to have custody of the child.

This aroused Mrs. Adams, and of late she has had a private detective watching Mrs. Gilmore's residence. Monday afternoon the sleuth reported that a dinner party would be held at the house, and that Adams would be a guest. The visit was then planned and executed, and the general powwow followed.

SOCIETY TURNED OUT

To Trial of Young Man For Burglary.

Waltham, Mass., May 16.—Horace J. Cheney was held in $7500 bonds on three counts of burglary. Not since the local court was established has there been such a gathering of Waltham society people at one of its sessions.

The local "400" was out in force and long before the hour of opening court every available seat in the court room was occupied. The greater portion of the audience was women who live in the vicinity of the recent burglaries.

Society was shocked when young Cheney was arrested on a warrant charging burglary in five counts, some of the articles stolen having been found in his rooms.

Cheney comes of an old and eminently respectable family. From the estate of a relative three years ago he received $25,000, but has squandered nearly all of this, and will in a few weeks receive $15,000 from his father's estate.

When the prisoner was brought from the cellroom he did not expect to face such a representative gathering, and the moment he entered the courtroom he placed his soft black hat in front of his face and kept it there during the proceedings, thus depriving those present from getting a glimpse of his features.

The prisoner was only arraigned on three counts, although there are five charges of burglary against him.

Cheney, through his counsel, pleaded not guilty to all three complaints, and waived the reading in each instance. The defense desired to waive examination, but the court decided that he would hear a portion of the evidence in the three cases.

In the testimony that followed several mysterious burglaries of wealthy residences in Waltham and Watertown were practically cleared up. Judge Luce finally held Cheney in $2500 on each count, $7500 in all, for the grand jury. He was unable to furnish bail and was remanded to jail. None of his relatives would go on his bond. About a year ago Cheney married one of the most aristocratic society leaders of Gloucester, Mass.

MINERS INCENSED

By Action of Senate In Returning Bills.

Shamokin, Pa., May 16.—Miners of the Ninth United Mine Workers district are incensed at the action of the state senate last night in returning to committee for amendment the inspection and screening of coal bills.

Secretary Hartelin says the bills must pass the senate in their original form, otherwise the march to Harrisburg will be ordered. Threats of a general strike, he said, would not force the legislators to take favorable action so quickly as an invasion of the state capitol.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Newton, Mass., May 16.—The Rev. Dr. Ezra Hoyt Bylngton, one of the foremost Congregational clergymen in New England, died suddenly at his home here today. Dr. Boyington presided at the meetings of the Congregational Home Missionary society at Tremont temple, Boston, yesterday.

SITUATION FAVORABLE.

Washington, May 16.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor will leave Saturday for Cincinnati, to be there on May 20, the date on which the time set for the strike of machinists takes place. The situation in Philadelphia is reported to be very favorable today, five firms having signed the agreement.

A SWELL A

Summer Suits!

There isn't much excuse nowadays for a man who is extravagant in the matter of Clothes. In the old days when it was impossible to get a ready-made garment that showed any style or fit, one had some license to pay the merchant tailor an exorbitant price for his creations; but, today, with such HANDSOME EXAMPLES OF HIGH-ART TAILORING as we are showing at half a tailor's price, the man who is willing to pay a merchant tailor's fancy price for no more elegant garments must be naturally extravagant, or else he must have more money than he needs. Our—

CONDITION IMPROVED

News About Mrs. McKinley More Hopeful.

Had a Good Night and Is Much Better.

(Coast Time.)

San Francisco, May 17, 8:30 a. m.—Dr. Hirschfelder, one of the consulting physicians, arrived at the Scott residence at 8 o'clock, and is now with Mrs. McKinley. Henry T. Scott has just left his house and in conversation with the Associated Press reporter said:

"Mrs. McKinley passed a fairly good night and awoke early this morning. She asked for a cup of coffee and seemed to be bright and comfortable. It is my personal opinion that her condition shows marked improvement over yesterday."

San Francisco, May 17, 8:45 a. m.—Mrs. McKinley has had a good night and her condition is so much improved that her physicians will not have another consultation until 8 p. m.

San Francisco, May 17.—The news from the bedside of Mrs. McKinley this morning is more hopeful. At 8:45 a. m. Secretary Cortelyou gave out the first official bulletin of the day, stating that Mrs. McKinley passed a restful night and appeared much improved over her condition yesterday and last night. This was the first official news that had been given out since 9 p. m. last night, and it came as a relief, not only to those within the Scott mansion, but also to the band of watchers that had kept vigil throughout the long hours of the night. After the last bulletin of the night had been given out, and Dr. Hirschfelder had left, announcing that he would not return during the night, the lights were extinguished, except in the sick room, where a shaded lamp burned low, and where only a nurse was in attendance upon the patient.

The night was extremely disagreeable. Fog came in from the ocean in great clouds that settled over the hills and soon developed into a penetrating mist that saturated everything with water. A score of newspaper reporters and half a score of police officers walked about the house or stood in sheltered doorways seeking what comfort that could be had under the disagreeable conditions. Not a single light was shown in any part of the house, except a faint glow in the sick room and in the telegraph room, where a corps of telegraphers and stenographers were kept busy until the early hours of the morning receiving and transmitting official telegrams over a direct wire to Washington.

With the cessation of work in the telegraph room, the house was wrapped in darkness and not a sound or sign of life was visible. Stillness prevailed outside, and the ceaseless tread of the policemen pacing the beats about the residence was the only noise to be heard. With the extinguishing of the lights in the telegraph room the crowd of curious people that had stood for hours in Lafayette square opposite the Scott residence, kept at a respectful distance by the police cordon, melted away.

With the first indication of daylight the heavy fog began to dissipate and the day broke clear and bright. The president arose at 5 o'clock and raised the window blinds facing the east, allowing the sun to stream in. At 5:30 the trained nurse was seen to slightly raise the blinds of the sick room in order that the patient might get the sunlight. There was not a stir in other parts of the house, and those waiting for news from the distinguished patient felt relief in the situation, as everything indicated continued improvement, or at least no change for the worse. The president sent word to have his breakfast served early, presumably in order that he might devote his attention to executive business. At 7 o'clock the relief nurse arrived and took up her position at the bedside, and at 7:30 Henry T. Scott, who had passed the night at a neighboring residence, called to learn Mrs. McKinley's condition. He remained only a few minutes and came out looking cheerful and relieved. In response to a query as to the patient's condition, he said:

"I feel greatly gratified and relieved at Mrs. McKinley's condition this morning. She has passed a restful night, and this morning, upon being served with coffee, remarked that the cup in which it was served was not as large as she had been accustomed to. In view of these facts, I consider her greatly improved, and feel that she will continue to improve from now on."

When asked as to whether the entire party would remain in San Francisco until the president was ready to return to Washington, he replied that that was his understanding, but that this contingency largely depended upon Mrs. McKinley's condition. As soon as she was able to travel the president would take her direct to Washington.

Shortly after Mr. Scott had left the house, Dr. Hirschfelder drove up and was shown into the sick room. A few minutes later Secretary Cortelyou sent for the waiting reporters and read to them the official bulletin herein quoted.

There was a decided sense of relief to all. The serious aspect of the case during the early hours of last night prepared the public for news of the worst character, but the quiet night passed by the patient, the short consultation of the physicians this morning and the prompt and favorable bulletin resulting therefrom all tended to substantiate the statement made by Mr. Scott and later by Secretary Cortelyou.

The president did not leave the house during the morning, but it was said he hoped to take a drive about noon. He was considerably annoyed yesterday by the presence of persons with kodaks at every turn he made, and it is thought this annoying feature has deterred him from walking in the immediate vicinity of the house today. Secretaries Smith and Hitchcock are now with the president, and will spend the day with him. The president is greatly encouraged over Mrs. McKinley's improvement.

San Francisco, May 17, 10:45 a. m.—Secretary Cortelyou left the Scott mansion in company with Secretary Hitchcock this morning for the first airing he has had for several days. Mr. Cortelyou stated that there had been no change of Mrs. McKinley's condition since the bulletin issued at 8:45. She was holding her own, and the prospects were very favorable for continued improvement. At noon President McKinley will go for a short drive.

WOULD BE AN OUTRAGE

Present Conditions Would Indicate That the New York Yacht Club Intends to Shut Independence Out of Trial Races.

New York, May 17.—The Journal and Advertiser says: It is stated upon the best New York Yacht club authority that after a month's negotiations Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, has been unable to agree to the conditions imposed by the New York Yacht club, and that the Independence is absolutely barred from all participation in the trial or cup races for the defense of the America's cup.

This will be sad news for Boston yachtsmen, as the matter now stands it means that Mr. Lawson has spent more than $200,000 to build a boat for the defense of the America's cup only to find out at the last minute that the "Blue ribbon of the sea" is not an international yachting trophy at all, but simply an ordinary club cup, open only for members of the New York Yacht club to race for.

BROKERS FAIL.

Firm of Gurley & Johnson Goes to Wall.

Washington, May 17.—The doors of the brokerage firm of Gurley & Johnson were not opened today. Mr. Gurley, the senior member of the firm, said:

"I know little more about the matter than anyone else. My connection with the business has been entirely local. The trouble is due to the New York partner and the facts cannot be stated until the accounts bearing upon that end of the business are disentangled."

Mr. Gurley added that his partner, Mr. Johnson, had not been at his office today and that he did not know where he was. "I suspect," he said, "that he and our expert accountant are together making an effort to straighten out the books, but I don't know where they are." He also said that the statement that the liabilities of the firm were $180,000, was in his opinion substantially correct.

TO ENFORCE PAYMENT.

Tangiers, May 17.—The French cruisers Du Chayla and Pothua have arrived here, to enforce the payment of indemnities for the murder of a Frenchman at Kebdana. They will proceed to Mazagan and remain there until a settlement has been reached.

DEGREE CUT OUT.

Beloit, Wis., May 17.—The faculty of Beloit college has decided to dispense with the degree of bachelor of philosophy and grant only the degrees of bachelor of arts and bachelor of science.

QUIET AT ALBANY

No Further Attempt Made to Move Any More Cars.

Two Citizens Who Were Shot By Soldiers Are Dead.

One Is Dying and Sixteen Are More or Less Hurt.

Albany, N. Y., May 17.—Two dead, one dying and sixteen suffering from injuries more or less serious is the record at 9 o'clock today of casualties resulting from the strike of United Traction company's employes in this city. Of the three men who were wounded by the fire of the National Guardsmen yesterday, William Walsh and Leroy Smith are dead, while William Rooney's wound is not dangerous. William Marshall, the non-union motorman whose skull was fractured by stones thrown by the mob that attacked a car he was taking out of the car barn Tuesday, can not recover. Mr. Smith was prominent in business, political and social life here and was the presiding officer at the last session of the American whist congress. Maj. Gen. Roe, Brig. Gen. Oliver and Col. Barnes of the Twenty-third regiment, which did the fatal shooting, said today that while they regretted the shooting, the soldiers had been ordered to stop mob violence, and to shoot if attacked, and the only safety for peaceable citizens was to move away at the first indication of disorder.

The Ninth regiment of the National Guard, which will reach here today, will swell the number of troops in Albany to 3000. The Ninth will be stationed in South Albany, where the United Traction company has a large power house. Twenty-five non-union men who reached the city early in the day were escorted by a battalion of the Twenty-third regiment to the car barns.

The directors of the company will hold a meeting at 11 a. m. to consider the situation. Meanwhile it is not likely that any effort will be made to move cars.

SURRENDER.

Another Bunch of Filipinos Have Given Up Their Arms.

Manilla, May 17, 5:35 p. m.—Gen. Mascardo, with 328 men, has surrendered to Capt. Joseph O'Nell of the Twenty-fifth infantry, at San Anatonia, Zambales province.

Washington, May 17.—The following cablegram confirmatory of the Manilla dispatch was received at the war department today from Gen. MacArthur, at Manilla:

"Gen. Muscardo, 21 officers, 331 men and rifles, surrendered to Capt. Joseph P. O'Neil, Sannareizo, Zambeles province, May 16."

TO PLEASURE.

The Railway Conductors Devote the Day at Minneapolis.

St. Paul, May 17.—Today is being devoted to a pleasure trip by the railway conductors and their families, all being the guests of the city of Minneapolis.

Two important matters have been virtually decided in the executive sessions. It was decided to continue the grand offices at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where they have been for eleven years and it was decided to co-operate as far as possible with the other railroad fraternities in the settlement of labor disputes. Up to three years ago there was an amicable arrangement with the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers, Firemen and Trainmen and the Order of Railway Telegraphers, looking to united action in cases where any branch of the railroads' operating force was unjustly treated. This, however, was dropped with the effort to organize a more tangible union in the Federation of American Railway Employes. This failed and the old arrangement will now be resumed. No action has been taken as yet as to making a fixed annual appropriation for the home for aged and disabled railway employes at Highland Park, Ill.

LOCKED OUT.

Twenty Thousand Bricklayers Out of Work.

New York, May 17.—Between 15,000 and 20,000 bricklayers in the employ of contractors who are members of the Masons Builders' association, were locked out at noon today. President Eidlitz, of the Masons' Builders' association, said the lockout was primarily caused by the refusal of the Bricklayers' association to bide by the finding of an arbitration committee concerning a dispute which arose between the masons and the bosses a few weeks ago.

MISS GRAHAM CHAMPION.

London, May 17.—Miss M. A. Graham, of the Hoy Lake club, defeated Miss Adair in the final round of the women's golf championship games at Aberdovey, Wales, today, by three up and two to play. She thus becomes champion. Miss Graham's driving and putting were splendid.

HARROW WON.

London, May 17.—At the Gatewick spring meeting today the Alexandra handicap of 1000 sovereigns was won by Richard Croker's Harrow, with Lester Reiff in the saddle; C. D. Marnes' Voytas, ridden by Rigby, came in second. Eighteen horses ran.

PHILLIPS MURDERED

Well Known Priest Mysteriously Killed.

He Was Prominent as a Labor Arbitrator.

New York, May 17.—The body of a man found late last night in a house in Ninth avenue has been identified as that of the Rev. Edward S. Phillips of St. Gabriel's church, Hazelton, Pa., who recently had a conference with J. Pierpont Morgan in reference to the threatened strike in the iron and coal regions of Pennsylvania.

The coroner says that the identification can hardly be questioned, as papers found on the body seem to prove it. The police are working on what may prove to be a murder.

Kirk Stanley, a massage operator, in whose rooms the body was found, is under arrest as a suspicious person.

Decomposition had so far advanced when the body was found that a cursory examination was not sufficient to reveal the cause of death, and an autopsy will be held.

Stanley has been subjected to a rigid examination, and is said to have told conflicting stories. Mrs. Bernius, from whom Stanley leased the rooms, says that her tenant claimed to be from San Francisco and called himself "Dr. Stanley." He was accompanied by a young woman, whom he introduced as his wife. The body was discovered by Mrs. Bernius' daughter, who went into Stanley's apartments to secure some bedding which was hanging out of the window. The police were immediately notified, and a search of the body disclosed a number of papers. Among them was a letter from John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, and addressed to Rev. Dr. Edward S. Phillips, Hazelton, Pa. There were also several telegrams from Mitchell addressed to the priest, a half-fare railroad coupon such as is issued to clergymen, and several receipts made out in Dr. Phillips' name.

It was made public for the first time, after the identification of the body, that two confidential alarms had been sent out by Captain of Detectives Titus for Mr. Phillips, who, according to this information, had been missing from his home in Hazelton since April 28. The first alarm was sent out on May 8 and the second yesterday, and officers have been searching the hotels and hospitals in this city for the missing clergyman.

Police Captain Donohue, after examining the body, the rooms and effects of the dead man, sent out a general alarm for the apprehension of Stanley.

Soon after midnight, Stanley was seen walking through Fiftieth street. When he came to the corner of Ninth avenue, half a block from his apartments, he stopped. A policeman saw him. Stanley saw the policeman at the same moment and at once turned and walked rapidly through Fiftieth street toward Eighth avenue. The policeman ran after him and, touching him on the shoulder, said the captain desired to see him. Stanley accompanied the policeman and when he reached the station house was taken at once to Capt. Donohue's private office. The captain then took Stanley before Sergt. Shibis and told the sergeant to lock him up.

The prisoner seemed to be suffering from the effect of drink or drugs. His manner was that of a man who was badly dazed. He said his name was Kirk Stanley, and that he come to this city about a year ago. He said they called him doctor, but he had no diploma. He was a massage operator and intended to open an office here.

Capt. Donohue was reticent in discussing the case. All that he would say was that the prisoner had made conflicting statements. He denied knowing the man whose body was found in his rooms, and said he had not seen him before, and that he did not know that there was a body there until told by the police.

Hazelton, Pa., May 17.—Father Phillips has been away from Hazelton for about two weeks on a vacation. During his absence he is said to have attended the ceremonies incident to the elevation of Monsignor Martinelli to the rank of cardinal.

Father Phillips was pastor of St. Gabriel's church, this city. He was born in 1858, at Hawley, Wayne county, Pa., here his father worked in the mines. He attended the public school at Pittston, Pa., and finished his studies at St. Charles colleges, Ellicott City, Md., and St. Charles theological seminary, Philadelphia. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1875. He was located in various parts of the Scranton diocese, coming to Hazelton four years ago. Recently the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the priesthood was celebrated here and a large number of priests and Catholic dignitaries from the surrounding country came to Hazelton to do him honor. Father Phillips was a prominent member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Elks' lodge of this city. He took an active part in settling the A. O. H. difficulties a few years ago. He was a strong temperance advocate and his influence with the men of all nationalities, who make up the population of the anthracite region, was recognized by miners and mine owners alike. His influence in the settlement of the strike of last year was of great importance.

The police are searching for a woman who was known as Stanley's wife. They say this woman left the house in Ninth avenue on May 9 and has not returned. Father Phillips disappeared May 8. Stanley was arraigned in police court and was remanded to the custody of the coroner. He refused to make any statement in court.

AGGIE TALKS A LITTLE

He Believes That American Government to Be Unquestionably Satisfactory Should Conform Strictly to the Constitution.

Manilla, May 17, 3:50 p. m.—Aguinaldo, in an interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press today, expressed the opinion that the American government of the Philippines, in order to be unquestionably satisfactory, should conform strictly to the constitution. Asked whether he considered the Filipinos capable of exercising all the privileges guaranteed by a literal interpretation and application of the constitution, he declined to express an opinion.

Concerning the political and commercial future of the archipelago, Aguinaldo was reserved. He said it was hardly time to discuss it, while in what he considered to be captivity. The military officials say he is kept guarded principally for his own protection. Aguinaldo says that he knows of no enemies, needs no protection and is willing to go out unattended if permitted to do so. He is pleased with the municipal law conferring full local self-government.

It is not expected that Aguinaldo will continue to be prominent in Philippine affairs, although his friends concede his exceptional abilities for leadership.

Next week the balance of the First infantry will proceed to the island of Samar. Squadrons of the Ninth and Tenth cavalry will also be sent to Samar.

Nine new American judges called on Gen. MacArthur today. The general said their duties were of greater importance than those of any of the officers who preceded them. He commended the establishment of laws and a just judiciary head of the coming commercial activity.

TWO STATUES UNVEILED

Norwegian Independence Day Most Enthusiastically Celebrated at Christiana With Fitting Ceremonies Before Thousands of People.

Christiana, May 17.—Norwegian independence day was celebrated today with great enthusiasm. Nordenskjold's statue was unveiled by the crown prince, Gustaf, and Ole Bull's statue was unveiled at Bergen, the warships there taking part in the ceremony.

Queen Regent Christina and others of the royal family were present in open carriages. All the elite of society and thousands of other inhabitants of Madrid attended the camp to witness the brilliant military display. Both the troops and spectators gave the king an enthusiastic reception. His majesty subsequently gave a luncheon to the cadets of four academies.

HAVE AGREED.

Paris, May 17.—An official dispatch received here, announces that the Chinese peace plenipotentiaries have agreed to the demands of the powers for concessions to be used as legation sites.

NO SUCH INTENTION.

Paris, May 17.—The French foreign office officials formally deny the statement of the Sydney correspondent of the London Daily Mail as to the alleged intention of France to acquire an island of the Galapagos group, off the coast of Ecuador.

DOCTORS' BILLS.

Large Fees That Have Been Paid Physicians.

When Samuel J. Tilden died, his physician, Dr. Charles E. Simmons, presented a bill for daily attendance during seven years and eleven months, which the papers of the day said aggregated $143,000, a report which neither Dr. Simmons nor the trustees would contradict, and which a private settlement gave no opportunity to verify, says the Philadelphia Press. Vice President Wheeler's estate faced a post-mostem charge for $14,800 for medical services, and, as he had left his estate to missions and charity, the payment of the bill was opposed. President Garfield's death caused the most serious revision of medical estimates of just fees. The surgeons in attendance, most of them continuously for some ten weeks, asked $65,910, and received $27,500. Dr. D. W. Bliss presented a bill for $25,000, and was cut down by congress to $6500, while Dr. Agnew's claim for $14,700 was reduced to $5000. This was twenty years ago, when the fees of physicians were more moderate than today; but the charges made by these physicians, while ruthlessly razed by the board of audit, made up of William Lawrence, first comptroller; W. W. Upon, second comptroller, and James Gilfillan, treasurer, were no larger than usage justified.

Jay Gould was at this time paying his physician, Dr. Munn, $15,000 a year, sick or well, a frugal arrangement comparable with that which led Mr. Gould to have his monogram on his yacht, the Atalanta, made removable whenever it appeared to facilitate a sale. Dr. George F. Shrady, who had an unpleasant experience in collecting his bill from Gen. Grant's estate, records, 1894, in a magazine article, a physician's fee of $87,000 for attending a millionaire's daughter for two months, another of $60,000 for attendance on a yachting cruise of less than six months, and $25,000 for a flying trip from New York to San Francisco.

If this bill had been rendered to John W. Mackay he would not have paid it, as he contested in 1893 a bill of $12,500 from the surgeons Dr. Keeney and Dr. Morse, who took a 38-caliber bullet out of his back, though the first thing he did after he was well was to present his accounts as executor of a brother millionaire's estate, in which he had paid a lawyer $26,500 for piloting the will through the various pitfalls which sundry matrimonial eccentricities of the testator had put in the way of a successful probate.

Perhaps the banner medical fee was paid in 1768 by Empress Catherine of Russia to Dr. Dimsdale for inoculating her with smallpox, $50,000, $10,000 for expenses and a pension of $2500 for life, worth at his age, 56, about $50,000 more. Professor Zacharine, of Moscow, had $60,000 for a two days' visit on the czar. The physician's fee who attended Edward VII through typhoid fever, while still prince, was $50,000 for four weeks' visits. This is a trifle beside $150,000 paid by his royal highness the Nawab Rampur to an Anglo-Indian surgeon for three months' work on his rheumatism. By the side of this $5000 and expenses which Dr. Charcot charged the emperor of Brazil for going to Milan, or $3000 charged by Dr. Peters for visiting the king of Portugal in Brussels seem small.

Sir Morell Mackenzie was said to have received $100,000 for his care of Emperor Frederick, but this report was mere guesswork. When Sir Andrew Clark visited a millionaire at Nice he charged $55,000 for the trip, and made the matter known by announcing that he had kept but one-fifth and given the rest to two charitable institutions connected with his profession. In 1886 a discussion which found its way into English medical journals estimated the yearly returns of Sir William Jeenes, Sir William Gull and Sir Andrew Clark at an average of $60,000. London physicians' fees are, however, lower than our own. A suit in 1893 showed that the head of the West London hospital, Mr. Keetley, charged but $2000 for a surgical trip to Burgos, and the jury cut this to $1750. Dr. Shrady, in his article already quoted, put the income of three physicians in New York at over $100,000, of five or six at from $50,000 to $60,000, and of fifty from $20,000 to $30,00, a far remove from the semi-annual payments made by Henry III in 1546 to his "sergeant apothecary," Nicholas Ferneham, May 16, £30 12s 6d, and Oct. 13, £28 3s 10d.

The growth and increase of physicians' fees is far from over. Dr. Shrady's estimate of New York professional incomes would be higher today and the charge for single operations and visits has risen still more. Dr. B. L. Robinson, of Maclean, N. Y., a man not widely known, charged a wealthy resident $1000 for each of ten visits in July, 1899. A distinguished surgeon in a neighboring city, after imposing a round sum for an operation, charged, by previous arrangement, $2500 a day for each of three days of special attendance in a family whose means were not large. Fees from $1000 to $5000 for a single operation are no longer unusual, though the physicians who can charge them are.

COULD MAKE A SELECTION.

The other afternoon while Justice Jerome was holding the examinations of a large batch of gamblers arrested in one of the recent raids, a rather bashful young woman appeared at the door of the courtroom and asked the stern-visaged court attendant if she might see her husband, says the New York Sun.

"And what is your husband's name?" asked the court attendant, mechanically.

The young woman blushed deeply, thought for a few moments and then replied with sweet toned animation, "John Doe."

"You are Mrs. John Doe, then?" asked the court attendant, suspiciously.

"Yes," very sweetly.

"In that case, madam, eight or ten of your husbands were just committed to the tombs and I advise you to go over there and make your selection."

SENT TO RED WING

Young George Clark Must Go to Training School.

Judge Edson Decides His Parole Should Be Withdrawn.

Letters Found on Him That Settle His Fate.

George Clark appeared in police court this morning and, as the result of what happened will spend the next few years in the state training school at Red Wing.

Clark, who is about 16 years of age, is the wilful and wayward son of a worthy widowed mother. Some time ago a charge of incorrigibility was proven against the young man, but he escaped the Red Wing school by a parole given in March.

The authorities claim that Clark has not kept the promises made then, nor made a good attempt to do so. They say that he has neglected to work or go to school, and has consorted with evil companions. He has been under restraint the past few days on suspicion of having been concerned in a scheme whereby an old man, named Day, a wood-chopper, was held up on the boulevard, a week or ten days ago, and robbed. While that suspicion has not been followed by further and positive proof, other things were considered by Judge Edson to more than warrant the cancellation of the parole and commitment to Red Wing.

At the hearing this morning, H. C. Withrow and Detectives Troyer and Irvine testified against Clark. When testimony was given as to Clark's association with an ex-convict, he spoke out:

"Your honor, I decline that.""

"You what?" asked Judge Edson, with a puzzled air?

"I decline that. It has nothing to do with this case."

"You mean you object to it?" said the judge.

"Yes, I object."

One very conclusive bit of evidence against the young prodigal was two letters found in his pocket when taken into custody by the officers. One was a very sweet letter from a young woman of bad character in West Superior. The other was a very lewd and amorous reply, nine pages long, written by the boy, but which he had not mailed.

Clark was placed in custody of the county sheriff and will be taken to Red Wing as soon as possible.

The only business at the regular session of police court this morning was the disposition of three very plain and very uninteresting drunks.

ANOTHER SWOONS.

Emerson School Produces a Second One.

There was more excitement up at the Emerson school yesterday. Tuesday one of the teachers, probably as a result of an overdose of headache tablets, became speechless and half paralyzed. Yesterday afternoon Celia Andrienne, a pupil in the Eighth grade, was taken with a fainting spell from which she did not recover for about two hours. The principal and teachers gave her faithful attention until a physician arrived and, even then, the case proved most obstinate and quite alarming. The physician said that the attack was the result of over study and a general breaking down. The young lady is a faithful and interesting pupil and her condition causes much regret. It is said, too, that she is afflicted with heart trouble.

Saturated With Oil.

William Clifford, secretary and treasurer of the Duluth Dredge and Dock company, brought back with him the other day from a visit to the Sault several specimens of limestone that, when put in the fire, burned like waste material used in the boxing of car wheels. The lime stone came from St. Joseph island, a piece of land about fifteen miles long by five miles wide. Mr. Clifford says that one of the farmers on the island started to dig a well and went down about thirteen feet, when he struck water and a limestone formation. The water tasted so strong of petroleum that it was not fit for drinking purposes, and the limestone was so saturated with the petroleum that it would burn readily when lighted. The extent of the formation is not definitely known, but may possibly underlay the whole island. The island is covered with farms.

Mrs. Boyden Dead.

Mrs. Jessie May Boyden, wife of George W. Boyden, traffic manager of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company, and Patrick-Granger company, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 20 West Fifth street. She has been ill for a long time and recently underwent an operation. Mr. and Mrs. Boyden have lived in the city for a long time and have a wide circle of friends who mourn her demise and sympathize with the bereaved husband. She was 37 years of age and was formerly Miss Jessie May Dahl, of Chicago, later of Marshalltown, Iowa. She was maried to Mr. Boyden, at West Superior, about eleven years ago. Mrs. Boyden was an active member of the First Methodist church. The funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Methodist church, the sermon being preached by the pastor, Dr. S. P. Long. Interment was made at the Forest Hill cemetery.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Distinguished Frenchmen.

MM. Jules and Andre Siegfried, father and son, respectively, of Havre, France, arrived in the city this morning and were on the board of trade during the day. The elder Siegfried is a former mayor of Havre, and is a prominent Frenchman. They are engaged in a three months' pleasure tour of this country, and have been here about six weeks. They were the guests of E. N. Bradley at the Kitchi Gammi club this noon.

NASH IMPROVING.

Governor Will Attend Launching of Ohio.

San Francisco, May 17.—Governor Nash of Ohio is still confined to his apartments on account of the oak poisoning on his face, but his physician stated that he will be able to attend the launching tomorrow. As all the festivities have been declared off on account of the illness of Mrs. McKinley, Governor Nash and party will leave San Francisco Sunday morning for Sacramento and spend the day there, and thence go Eastward via Denver.

WILL RESIGN.

New York, May 17.—It was announced by Harry Fisk & Sons today that S. R. Callaway, president of the New York Central railroad, will resign that office to accept the presidency of the new American Locomotive company.

WAS ON ALABAMA.

Charleston, S. C., May 17.—Capt. James Evans, one of the three remaining members of the crew of the Confederate cruiser Alabama, died today. He was aboard the Alabama in the famous fight off Cherbourg.

NOVEL WATCH.

Frank Barada has an Italian railroad man's watch, which was presented to him by his friend A. Pitana. These watches are carried by all Italian railroad employes and are manufactured by the government for their especial use, says the St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Three years ago the Italian government abolished the regular time table, and introduced the 24-hour system. It was done to obviate mistakes and misunderstandings about the terms p. m. and a. m., through which a great many accidents happened.

Today the Italian railroad crews know no other reckoning of time but that of 1 o'clock to 24 o'clock. The number of accidents has been lessened by the introduction of the new time table by more than 50 per cent statistically.

These watches, which are three times as large as an ordinary hunting case watch and quite heavy, are stem winders and electricity proof. They are worth in Italy about $12 in American money. Mr. Barada's watch is the only one ever seen in St. Louis.

WORK DON'T HURT.

Poor Selection of Food Is the Cause of Break-Down.

Many men, and women too, feel that their work is the cause of symptoms of nervous break-down, but work is not the cause, as anyone can prove to their entire satisfaction, by leaving off the food they have been trying to subsist on, and taking in its place food made for the express purpose of rebuilding the brain and nerve centers in the body and supplying other portions with sufficient nourishment and keep right on with the same work and get well and strong.

An illustration is given in the case of F. A. Whitely, superintendent of the public schools at Excelsior, Minn. He is also a student and teacher of hygiene. He says: "This spring, at the beginning of the last month of school, I was very much run down, and since my duties are quite confining, I naturally ascribed my condition to that.

"I discovered that I made the same mistake that many do. It is not work, but a lack of proper food that causes break-down. Wife went visiting at this time, and I concluded to get my own meals for a time. The grocer suggested that I use a ready cooked food known as Grape-Nuts. I found the food delicious, requiring no cooking. I simply poured milk or cream over it and had it in that way.

"I used Grape-Nuts for breakfast, dinner and supper, and liking it so well I simply lived on it for the next three weeks. My work continued quite as arduous and confining as before, but I experienced a decided rise in spirits and vitality as well as in general health. Found I did not tire as before, and entirely lost that wornout feeling which seems to take the heart out of one.

"I am satisfied the change was due to my change in food, and I have been so greatly helped and have been taught so valuable a lesson in food as related to the human body that I wish to express my appreciation in this manner."

It will pay any brain worker to dispense with a part of the ordinary diet and use Grape-Nuts once or twice a day at least, for the food is made by food experts, for a purpose, and that purpose is to furnish the human system with the elements in a concentrated form, required for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers throughout the body. There is no sort of question of the truth of the statement and value of the food, as can be demonstrated by anyone.

E. F. UHL IS DEAD

Grand Rapids Lawyer, Once Ambassador to Germany.

His Hatred For Silver Weakened His Political Party Standing.

A Product of the Farm, He Rose to Prominence.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 17.—Hon. Edwin F. Uhl, former assistant secretary of state and ambassador to Germany under the Cleveland administration, died shortly after noon today. He had been ill nearly a year, suffering from a complication of diseases, among them Bright's disease.

Edwin F. Uhl was born in August, 1841, near Avon Springs, N. Y. Three years later his parents removed to Michigan, settling on a farm near Ypsilanti. After passing through the local schools, he graduated from Michigan university when 20 years old with the degree of A. B., and afterward studied law in the office of Norris & Ninde, at Ypsilanti. In 1866 he formed a law partnership with Lyman D. Norris, which continued five years. While a resident of Ypsilanti, Uhl served two terms as prosecuting attorney of Washtenaw county. He was also secretary and attorney of the Detroit & Eel River Railroad company in 1873-4, and afterward receiver of the Detroit & Hillsdale railroad. In 1871 Norris moved to Grand Rapids and in 1876 Uhl followed, the old firm of Norris & Uhl being re-established in that city.

Uhl rapidly gained a practice as a corporation lawyer, and was soon elected president of the Grand Rapids National bank, which position he held many years. He also became interested in several manufacturing enterprises. In 1890-1 he served as mayor, his popularity being attested by is election by an overwhelming majority at a time when his election was thought doubtful. At the beginning of President Cleveland's second term he became assistant secretary of state, during his incumbency acting in charge of the department, and later was appointed ambassador to Germany, serving until McKinley appointed his Republican successor.

While in Germany, Uhl took a stand against free silver, and when he came home, found that from being the most popular Democrat in Grand Rapids he had become the one least liked. He felt this keenly and withdrew entirely from politics. He gave the impression that he was a deeply disappointed man over the actions of his former political friends.

Mr. Uhl was a man of commanding presence, dignified, yet pleasant and affable. He was always a stalwart Democrat until 1896, since which time he has, in company with such men as Cleveland and Dickinson, opposed the dominant wing of the party. He was an eloquent and forcible speaker, and his loss to the active forces of his party was great.

Since his return to private life, he has devoted himself to his profession, having an office also in Chicago, where he had partnership connection with one of that city's leading firms.

Mrs. Uhl, to whom he was married in 1865, was the daughter of Hon. Benjamin Follett, a leading citizen of Ypsilanti, and at the time of his death a member of the Democratic national committee. She, with three daughters, is still living.

BEAT THE TRUST.

Peter J. Cook, a lad 17 years old has sued the American Tobacco company, a trust with a capital of $100,000,000, for 83 cents and has obtained judgment for the amount, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. Peter needed the money, which represented wages due him for making 2,000 cigarettes, and he felt that a principle was involved. Although Peter may have failed in the tobacco business, his lack of success was not due to the fact that grit and perseverance were left out of his character.

Peter lives in Danville, Va. It was there that he had the opportunity of beginning his fight for fame and fortune under the guidance of the American Tobacco company. He worked for three days. The first day he rolled 500 cigarettes and became convinced that he would earn his $2 a week in his new vocation. He began his labors on Monday. When he left the factory Wednesday afternoon he had made 2,000 cigarettes and was proud of his record. It was, therefore, a surprise to him when the foreman told him that the company could dispense with his services because he was "incompetent." He asked for the money due him. The foreman said that under the rules of the concern "learners" could not receive any compensation within a fortnight after entering the company's employment.

This was at first a crushing blow, but Peter is a youth of resources. He peremptorily demanded the 83 cents which the $100,000,000 trust owed him and he refused to be pacified.

"I will have my money," he declared. "I don't care what your rules are—they are unfair and I will prove it." The foreman and other employes laughed at him.

"I'll sue for my money," said the lad. They laughed the louder.

"Go ahead and sue," the foreman advised. Peter took the advice.

It seemed a huge legal joke that the plucky young American started. No one took the matter seriously—at first—no one but Peter, and least of all the officials of the trust. But the determined boy devoted all the energy to the case, working quietly. The result was that when the case was heard in court there was next to no defense and the decision was in favor of the plaintiff.

Then the tobacco men woke up. They asked for a new trial. It yas granted. The plaintiff did not even make objection. Yet with all the trust's resources, with all its internal machinery set going, the second verdict was like the first. The strongest argument in defense of the American corporation's disputed edict was that it was based on old English law.

The case has established a precedent dangerous to the trust, for other lads treated in a similar manner have been given courage to assert their rights. Suits have already been entered amounting to several hundred dollars.

Peter's determined fight has procured for him a position. He is errand boy in the office of the clerk of court at Danville, and he says "It's 'way ahead of rolling cigarettes."

Peter has collected his 83 cents. Wiseacres of Danville declare that it may be the nucleus of a fortune. The boy has been advised to put his money in a savings bank.

The American Ttobacco trust paid the court costs, which amounted to several weeks' wages of a "learner."

HAVE NO SUBWAY

None Is To Be Laid Before Michigan Street Is Paved.

The Northern Subway Company Will Not Put One In.

Officials Say That Time Is Not Yet Ripe For It.

The new pavement on Michigan street will be laid before and without the construction of the subways for electric wires and cables.

It has been supposed or understood by many, at least, that the Northern Electric Subway company intended to build its subway before this improvement of Michigan street was made. According to the statement of officers of that company, such is not the case.

A Herald reporter called upon Messrs. Van Bergen and Hartman this afternoon for information on the subject, and they made the following statement:

"We never have promised or agreed to make this improvement at this time. The time is not ripe yet for the improvement, and will not be until all the companies having wires and cables desire to go underground or are required to do so. This would affect the street railway, American District telegraph, the telephone companies and telegraph companies, as well as the Electric Light and Power company. Furthermore, we learn upon investigation that in other cities this work is not required or compelled until areaways are constructed along the entire length of a street. As yet but few business houses on Michigan street have these areaways. If we choose, too, to go to the expense of doing this work later instead of now, before the pavement is laid, it simply affects our pockets to that extent and in that way."

The board of public works today granted the North American Telegraph company permission to extend its wire conduit to Third avenue west on Superior street. The Zenith Telephone company also will put down a conduit for one block on Michigan street, that being all the distance that it uses on that thoroughfare.

Executive Board of Machinists Prepared to Direct Strike.

All Firms at Danbury and Norfolk Sign Agreement.

Most Trouble Expected at Cincinnati and On Pacific.

Washington, May 17.—The executive board of the National Association of Machinists assembled here this afternoon to be prepared for any emergency in connection with the threatened general strike and also to prepare the report to the biennial convention at Toronto on June 3. The board consists of representatives from Boston, New York, Chicago, Toronto and Sioux City. They will act in both advisory and judicial capacities during the threatened strike and will be in readiness to send out to different cities, where executive officers may be needed to manage the local situation. Reports received today announce that all of the firms at Danbury, Conn., and Norfolk, Va., have signed the nine-hour day agreement.

President O'Connell, of the machinists' association, says he has heard unofficially that the Chicago local Manufacturers' association, representing 25 per cent of the Chicago manufacturers, is preparing to arbitrate the question, the decision of the arbitration board to bear date of May 20, the date the strike takes effect. A similar movement is being made in Cleveland. Mr. O'Connell says this action will be satisfactory to the association, although it is desired to avoid any prolongation of the trouble. He denies that the Cleveland machinists are proposing to secede. Mr. O'Connell said there is no possibility of averting the general strike.

From the statements of the executive board, it develops that the most trouble is expected at Cincinnati, San Francisco and the Northern Pacific coast cities. J. J. Connolly says there will be very little trouble in New England. Hugh Doran, of Chicago, says there will be not over 500 on strike there. "We have just adjusted the trouble there with the Illinois Central railroad," he added, "and a uniform rate of 25 cents an hour will be made throughout the system for machinists and an increase of 5 per cent in wages of all other ship employes."

J. P. Conlin, the Sioux City member of the board, says the Union Iron works and the Fulton Iron works in San Francisco doubtless will resist the demands.

ATIKOKAN.

Pittsburg Paper Says the Iron Deposit Is Being Taken.

The outcome of negotiations for the possession of the Atikokan iron deposits on the Canadian side of the line, in which a number of Duluth people are interested has been a matter of speculation in Duluth for some time and interest in the matter has now even reached Pittsburg. The Dispatch of that city had the following this week:

"Despite the claims of the United States Steel corporation, through the testimony of President Charles M. Schwab before the United States industrial commission, that it has the iron ore supply cornered and that the visible amount is doomed at the expiration of sixty years, the combine is recognizing the value of the immense new Canadian field recently discovered and is already grasping after large acreage. It is understood that the deal will be concluded in New York this week for the absorption by the combine of the properties of the McKellars and Hunters in the Atikokan find, north of the International boundary in Canada, at a cost of about $500,000. Untold acreage, running into the thousands, over which the Morgan combine has no control, still awaits the exploration of the iron ore experts. The part under option by the combine is only a small fraction of the whole.

"The final of the McKellars and Hunters was taken under option by the American Steel and Wire company last fal, and drilling was done all winter to test the real value of the property as an iron ore producer for Bessemer furnaces. Several holes were sunk and in all 1800 feet of drill work was completed. The conditions were found to be even better than the wire company officials hoped for, and far better than the surface indications pointed. The ins was cut a considerable depth and proved for some length near the outcroppings.

"Arrangements have already been made with the Canadian Pacific for the transportation of the ore to Lake Superior for shipment to the furnaces in Pittsburg and other points if needed. About forty-five miles of new track will be constructed, and an ore dock erected at Fort William, Ont. The Canadian Pacific has guaranteed a rate of less than 75 cents a ton and the lake rate will be about the same as that from Duluth. The ores of the Atikokan find are said to equal those of the Mesaba and neighboring regions, and the acreage, still unknown, is thought to be of vast extent. The new enterprises at Sault Ste Marie and other ore operators have already secured large possessions of the new ore and are in almost as good a position in this respect as the Morgan combine.

Even in the Mesaba important finds of rich Bessemer ore are reported every week or two, and the end is far in the future, even to the most conservative of the experts.

The Duluth people say that nothing new has developed in the negotiations.

DEPARTURE DELAYED.

French Troops Await Orders Before Moving.

Pekin, May 17.—Gen. Voyron, the French commander, left here today to establish headquarters at Tien Tsin, but orders have been received to delay the departure of French troops temporarily. The reason, it is believed, is to endeavor to ascertain the contemplated movements of the troops of the other nations.

SETTLED AT TROY.

Street Car Strike Is Adjusted Satisfactorily.

Troy, N. Y., May 17.—A committee from the Troy division of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes, has waited on Mayor Conway and informed him that the strike has been settled. The committee said that under the terms of the agreement, the employes are to receive 20 cents per hour and that the company will treat with a committee of either union or non-union men. After notifying the mayor the committee visited the headquarters and informed the members of the union. The news was received by the strikers with cheers.

STANLEY COMMITTED.

Is Sent To Jail In Default of Bail.

New York, May 17.—Coroner Bausch committed Stanley, who is concerned in the death of Father Phillips, to the Tombs in default of $10,000 bail, to await the result of the autopsy. In a talk with Coroner Bausch, Stanley had said he met Phillips on the street walking with two girls; that he joined the party and invited them to his rooms; that while there they all drank until the girls left, and that afterwards he and Phillips were sick, but recovered after taking some medicine that Phillips had with him.

"Do you know the names of the two girls you say you and the priest brought to your rooms on the morning of May 9?" the reporter asked Stanley.

"I do not, and I don't think I would recognize them were I to see them again."

"The police say the woman who lived with you as your wife brought the priest there that morning."

"That's a lie," he cried, excitedly. "She was not there that day at all. We had quarreled."

After the autopsy on the body of Father Phillips had been completed, Coroner Bausch, announced that no marks of violence had been found on the body. The condition of the organs showed that the man had suffered from chronic nephritis and fatty liver. The coroner said that owing to the suspicious circumstances surrounding the case it was deemed advisable to have the vital organs analyzed.

ELEPHANTS

Frequently Go Crazy and Keepers Fear For Lives.

"Well," said the old elephant manager, "I see that Big Charley has got Henry at last."

"Yes," answered the animal superintendent. "First he threw him in the river and then he stamped the life out of him. I'd rather play tag with one of my tigers than try to get away from an old bull elephant once he goes on a rampage," says the Chicago Tribune.

"The trouble is," said the elephant man, "that an elephant costs so much money and a fellow hates to kill him off. Usually they wait till he does something, and then it is too late. Once an elephant goes daffy he doesn't know his keeper from a side of sole leather. He just wants to kill something and he don't care what it is. The reason so many keepers get killed is that they think an old elephant they have taken care of for fifteen or twenty years must remember them, and they go in and try to make him keep quiet.

"We only got 'Tom,' the big tusker, killed down in Texas last summer in time to prevent him killing half a dozen men. You weren't with the show then? George had been in charge of him for five or six years, and 'Tom' had never shown any particular signs of going daffy, although he never was a nice-tempered brute.

"One boiling hot day when we just had the side-walls up around the animal cages 'Tom' knocked George down with his trunk and tried to kneel on him and crush him. Fortunately George was quick on his pins and he managed to roll out of the way of the trunk under one of the low cages. He spent the rest of the day making 'Tom' realize that he was boss. He made the elephant kneel down and stand up on his hind legs, and he thought he had won the day. But a week after 'Tom' went daffy again and chased one of the tenders about half a mile over the prairie. Then we finally decided that we would have to kill him. He was well-trained and was worth a matter of $3000, but it was him or half a dozen of the boys. We got 'Tom' into a car and fastened two chains around his neck. One of the chains was hitched to a big tree standing some distance at one side of the car. The other had a big hawser fastened to it, and we put nearly 100 canvasmen to work pulling at it, with the help of a block and tackle arrangement that multiplied their strength by at least five. I gave the signal for them to pull and it took us fourteen minutes to strangle the old brute.

"Do you remember 'Sam,' the big tiger that killed George Martin, his keeper, down at Maysville, Ky., in 1893? There were two big tigers in the cage, and George was riding with them during the parade. He had been doing the turn for a long time. He had been out to Australia with the show and he knew both of those tigers well. He rode down town with the parade and they were almost back to the lot when the accident happened. If you have ever been down to Maysville you remember you pass under a covered bridge just before you get to the lot. It was just there that 'Sam' broke loose. George told me about it before he died. He was sitting there and both of the tigers were lying down. As they drove under the bridge one of the hind wheels struck a big stone and raised the cage up, so that he was thrown from his seat. He was carrying a club, and as he fell forward it fell on 'Sam's' back. That seemed to make the tiger furious, and he jumped on George and caught him by the shoulder. George was done for before they could get help to him.

"Did you ever travel with one of the old wagon shows? A fellow got better acquainted with his elephants than he does now. I knew one old bull in those days who was a regular practical joker. He had found out that the cattle out in the country were scared to death of him and he used to take advantage of it every time he got a chance. If we were driving along a road, for instance, and he saw a bunch of steers grazing in a pasture behind a barn in the distance he would drop behind the rest of the column. Then he would gather up as much dust in his trunk as he could carry and make a sneak up on them in the cover of the barn. When he got within charging distance he would tear out on the run, blow the dust up in a cloud, and trumpet for all he was worth. The cattle would run like devils were after them, and that old rogue elephant would come back to the road and paddle along behind the rest of the column as peaceable and quiet as you please. But if you tried to stop him from playing his little joke on the steers he would be mean and ugly for a week."

There are probably not more than fifty, or at most a hundred, competent and experienced animal men in the country. They form a close corporation or caste by themselves. The business seems to descend from generation to generation in the same family. Not one of them, whether he looks after the elephants or the big cats, escapes more or less bruises or scars. But there is something about the life which seems to be fascinating, strange as it may appear to the average man. It is the consensus of opinion among the fraternity that most serious accidents which occur in the handling of wild animals of any kind is due to one of two causes. The first and most common cause is the fact that all men who are employed around animals get careless. Long immunity makes them reckless and they take chances which would frighten a novice half to death. At first they are careful never to enter the cage of a lion or tiger without the proper weapons and unless assistance is near at hand. But sooner or later they go into a den without anything with which to protect themselves, and some big cat takes advantage of the opportunity to even up an old score. The second among the causes is the reluctance of animal owners to kill or dispose of a valuable animal even after it has shown its disposition as a man-killer. In the case of a rogue elephant it is a difficult matter to get him out of the way, even when a deliberate attempt is made. Unless the proper weapons and excellent shots are at hand a full-grown elephant will stand being shot at for an hour or more without showing any signs of giving up the fight. Several cases are on record where a rogue elephant, after having been chained down for execution, has broken loose from his bonds and driven his executioners to seek places of safety.

The chances which an elephant man is forced to take were never better illustrated than in the case of "Big Charley," the brute which killed Hoffman at Peru, Ind., on Thursday. Hoffman had been with him for years and the brute had often shown great affection for him. Hoffman was a man subject to moods, and at times he has been known to lie down in front of his huge charge and half in fun ask the elephant to kneel on him and end it all.

"Come on, Charley," he would say; "I'm tired of it all. Life is not worth living. Kneel down on me and end it."

But "Charley" would coil his trunk around him and life him up to his feet. Then he would trumpet with satisfaction and Hoffman would give him a choice morsel to eat.

Almost every man who has to do with elephants or other tremendously heavy animals has been more or less seriously injured by them by accident. One of the oldest elephant men in the business was almost crushed to death in a game of elephant football. He was in the elephant barns one night when a big tusker tackled a somewhat smaller brute and gave him a shove which sent him off his feet. In the fall which resulted the elephant man was caught under the falling elephant's head, and was so badly crushed that he has never regained his health. Half the men in the business can show big scars or other relics of what was possibly only a love pat on the part of their big charges. The daring of the men is shown by the fact that it is no trouble to get keepers for such brutes as "Gypsy" and other elephants and tigers which have a record of from two to half a dozen men killed or crippled for life.

REVERSED.

Verdict In Fewings Case Upset By Supreme Court.

Word was received in the city this afternoon that the state supreme court today handed down a decision reversing the judgment rendered in lower court in the personal injury case of Fred RJ. Fewings vs. Luther Mendenhall, receiver of the Duluth Street allway company. Fewings was injured during the street railway strike two years ago this month, by a stone thrown through a window, that struck him on the back of the head. He was given a verdict for $400. It not known on what grounds the verdict was reversed.

TRUCE IS TO STAND

A Definite Settlement of Conflicting Railroad Interests.

"Community of Interests" to Be Arranged on New Basis.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Have Made Their Power Felt.

New York, May 17.—The Journal of Commerce says: It seems to be generally acknowledged that the truce between the Morgan and the Kuhn, Loeb & Co. interests in their contest for the control of the Northern Pacific has assumed the dignity of a definite settlement of future policy, and that attempts will be made to reconstruct, so far as is necessary, the "community of interests" plan of management on a new basis. This means that the Northwestern roads are to be brought more thoroughly and directly into the fold than has heretofore been contemplated. Kuhn, Loeb interests are already heavy holders in the Great Northern, and their recent purchases of Northern Pacific make that road a distinctly Harriman road, notwithstanding that the nominal control shall still remain with J. P. Morgan & Co., which, according to best information, is the present plan. The Harriman people will be adequately represented in the board of directors of Northern Pacific, and will be fully able to protect the Union Pacific from any encroachments in its territory by the Northern Pacific. On the other hand, there have been active purchases of Union Pacific stock by interests coming very close to J. P. Morgan & Co., so that the practical effect of the recent corner and the purchases responsible for it have been the exchange of Union Pacific for Northern Pacific stock.

It is, of course, now a question what financial arrangements will be made by the Harriman interests for financing their purchases of Northern Pacific, as it is taken for granted that they did not make such purchases on any private account, but with the sole object of protecting Union Pacific interest; and it is, therefore, supposed that the recent heavy purchases of the Northern Pacific securities are to be turned over at their cost price to the Union Pacific, which will issue convertible 4 per cent bonds in payment. There are $100,000,000 of these convertible bonds already authorized, and only $40,000 have thus far been issued.

It may be stated on authority that the matter of thus financing the Northern Pacific stock has not been officially considered by the Union Pacific board. There is no doubt, however, that the matter will be taken up at a very early time. It is expected that Mr. Morgan will secure satisfactory representation in Union Pacific board. Much interest is shown in the report that the preferred stock of the Northern Pacific is to be retired at par. No official statement on this matter is obtainable, but there seems substantial ground for the statement that no action, having this view for next January, has been taken. To secure the control it would be necessary to issue entirely new securities, as the company has at the moment no resources available for retiring the preferred except, perhaps, something less than $500,000 3 per cent bonds in the treasury, which are not now reserved for any specific purpose, and except, also, a guarantee fund of $3,000,000 cash for preferred dividends, which become due on Jan. 1 next, available for any purpose the Northern Pacific directors may elect. No mortgage may be issued, however, which will have preference over the present 3 per cent; but there is no reason any additional common stock should not be issued, providing, of course, that it receives the assent of the proper proportion of present stockholders, both preferred and common.

LUCKY MAN.

Official Has an Odd Experience In Stock Market.

Washington, May 17.—One of the members of the industrial commission considers himself, since the recent panic of Wall street, to be the sport of fortune's kindest mood. On Monday the commissioner, who is a close student of matters financial, bought a block of good stock on margins, at a low level. It seemed as if that particular stock had been waiting for the commissioner's patronage, for hardly was the ink dry on his check when it began to go up, steadily at first, and then by leaps and bounds.

On Wednesday the commissioner was many thousands in, on paper, and during the intervals of formulating questions for the undoing of the day's witnesses, sat in a state of blissful satisfaction bordering on the sublime.

The day of the panic, Thursday, the commissioner was late arriving, and when, at 11 o'clock, he walked in, jaunty and debonair, there was a look of surprise on the faces of those who knew of the commissioner's speculations and who had been discussing during the morning the great slump all along the line. "Good morning," said the commissioner, lighting an extravagant-looking Havana, "I am afraid I overslept myself. How many thousands did I make during the night?"

"Do you know what your stock is now, Mr. Commissioner?" asked a reporter.

"No," answered that official with a look of anticipation.

The reporter took a long breath and edged toward the door. "Twenty-six," he said.

The commissioner's face grew as white as his linen. He laughed a forced laugh and took a fresh grip on his Havana. But it was not thirty seconds later before he had called up and verified the news. "Fourteen thousand out," he said mournfully a few moments later, "and if I had known I would have covered it. That's a good stock and it's going back to where it was. I was sold out as I slept."

The next morning, the storm having abated somewhat, the commissioner dropped in on his broker for a little general information. Stocks had rebounded like a rubber ball and rapidly were steadying up, and the commissioner was ruminating on what might have been, when a clerk whom he knew stepped up to him and led him aside.

"I would advise you to sell, Mr. Commissioner," he said, "that stock is as high as it's going in a good while, and you will make a good profit if you get out now."

"But I was sold out yesterday," said the bewildered commissioner.

"Not on your life," said the clerk, "we were so busy yesterday that we could not attend to anything, and before we got around to you that stock was back. Get out now."

Needless to say the commissioner got out, his $14,000 are safe, and he thinks he has good grounds to believe himself born under a lucky star.

RECIPROCITY.

Senator Cullom Studies the Details of the Treaties.

Washington, May 17.—Senator Cullom had a conference with John A. Kasson, the former special commissioner, Wednesday and they went over all the reciprocity treaties negotiated by Mr. Kasson which were not acted upon by the senate and have not expired by limitation. Senator Cullom wanted a thorough understanding of the import of those conventions, some of which will come up before the senate for ratification next winter.

Considerable time was spent in going over all the treaties, but most of the conference related to the treaty with France, which admits French wines and knit goods at a reduced duty in exchange for which the agricultural implements of the United States are admitted to France at a low duty.

It was explained by Mr. Kasson that American manufactured goods of this kind are discriminated against by France, that is, France has a maximum and a minimum tariff. The minimum tariff is applicable to goods from all other countries except the United States, while the goods from this country pay the maximum tariff. Under the treaty, which was negotiated a year or two ago, but has never been ratified, these discriminations will be eliminated and agricultural and kindred implements from the United States will be admitted to France at a rate which is advantageous. On the other hand, French wines and knit goods will come into this country at a low rate.

The manufacturers of agricultural implements at Chicago and the West generally are in favor of the ratification of this treaty, while the wine growers of California and the factory owners of New England are opposed to it. Owing to the influence of these two industries and the general antagonism on the part of the senate to the French and other treaties negotiated by Mr. Kasson the senate did not see fit to ratify any of them.

Senator Cullom and other members of the senate are of the opinion that the treaties should either be accepted or rejected, as it is discourteous both to Commissioner Kasson and the governments with which the treaties were negotiated to ignore them. Senator Cullom believes it would be particularly advantageous for the United States to enter into reciprocal trade relations with the European powers. The United States, the Illinois senator contends, is steadily and rapidly running these nations out of their own markets.

There is considerable agitation on the part of the European states in favor of entering into a commercial combination for the purpose of driving the United States from European markets, if it is possible to do so. This is a stupendous undertaking, but as American products encroach more and more upon the markets of Europe, it is believed by Senator Cullom and others that steps will soon be taken to drive American products out of European markets.

This country's products are fairly well established in European markets, and the aim of the administration is to make this footing more solid. Since the Spanish war the United States has leaned forward at such a rate as to start Europe.

With the negotiation of reciprocity treaties, it is the opinion of Senator Cullom and Commissioner Kasson that arrangements can be made that will result in the United States becoming more firmly rooted in European markets and at the same time furnish an outlet to European products which do not come in direct competition with American products. This, it is believed, will allay some of the antagonism existing in Europe and relieve to some extent the commercial distrust of America, which is so alarming.

A STEEPLE CLIMBER.

Meets Death In Very Commonplace Manner.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 17.—All his life "Steeple Jack," John Williams laughed in the face of death high in the air as he followed his business of painting and repairing church steeples and gilding the crosses that surmount their tops, only to be killed yesterday by a street car in a most commonplace way. The simple act of trying to dash in front of a trolly car brought him to his death.

Williams was known all over the country for bravery in his dangerous work. "The beauty of my business is that you never have but one accident," he used to say. When there was unusual danger involved in gilding the cross on the top of a particularly high steeple, Williams was sent for, and while the crowd below watched him he was fond of hanging by his knees from the cross on which he was at work, waving his arms and singing a dirge.

QUEEN'S CONFESSION.

Intended to Pass Sister's Child as Her Own.

Vienna, May 17.—A Belgrade correspondent of the Tagblatt telegraphs that Queen Dragamaschin, of Servia, has made a full confession that the story of her confinement, published in February, was a hoax.

According to the reported confession, the queen's sister, Mme. Petrowich, was expecting a child and the queen intended to pass it off as her own, but her sister's baby was still born and the queen was driven to confess the swindle. The populace is greatly incensed against the queen and hostile demonstrations have occurred.

Mme. Maschin was a widow when King Alexander married her last August. She was former lady-in-waiting on Queen Natalie and sixteen years older than the king. The marriage caused a sensation in Servia.

"Second assortment of Sample Suits at ⅔ to ½ usual price ready and on sale Saturday. A 'never again' suit opportunity."

THE ordinary suit sale — even when great price concessions are made—falls far short of this event in variety of style and excellence of fabric and tailoring. "Left-overs"—mercantile waifs and strays—goods that have been handled and rejected by early and critical buyers—constitute the usual sale offerings now—the price is cut to get rid of them. But we do it different—the clearing and weeding out process is going on constantly and we have no "has beens." If a style lags or sizes are all gone, DOWN GO THE prices to make a quick clearance—without any advertising hurrah and bluster of the few that are price hurt. That's how this stock is always clean and fresh—so that we can take advantage of any price plums that come our way. For tomorrow—more of these superb sample suits—ultra fashionable in style and make—at these wonderfully little prices:

$12½ for the $19.50 sample Eton suits; for the $21.00 sample Bolero suits; and for the $22.50 sample Postilion suits.

IN MICHIGAN.

Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company Gets the Ashland Mine.

Marquette—It has been announced by reliable authority that the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company has acquired the Ashland mine, the third largest producer on the Gogebic range. The purchase price is in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. This property was badly run down in 1898, when there was hardly 1000 tons of ore in sight, but since then it has been marvelously developed by Hayes Bros., the fee owners.

Menominee—The Menominee Bay Shore Lumber company has sold to the Glen Eddy Lumber company, of Saginaw, 200,000,000 feet of pine, tributary to Ashland, Wis. The consideration at the present market price of lumber is about $2,000,000.

Sault Ste. Marie—Excellent ferry service will be afforded the two "Soos" this summer. The Soo Ferry company, which has two boats on the water, will have another fine craft, now building at Toronto, in commission in July. Another company will inaugurate a service in a few days, and its ferry, the John Haggart, from Eastern Ontario, arrived this week.

Ishpeming—Charles T. Fairbairn, who will superintend mining operations for Jones & Laughlin on the Mesaba range, has tendered his resignation as postmaster of Ishpeming, to take effect as soon as his successor is named. Several prominent Republicans here are hustling for the place.

Norway—Charles Hay, a lumberman, lost $134 while asleep in a boarding house at Norway. There were four men sleeping in the one room, two in a bed. When Hay went to bed he put his roll into his shoe, thinking it would be safe there. When he got up the next morning the money was gone, so was one of the roomers, Charles Lindstrom. Hay went to Iron Mountain and had a warrant issued for Lindstrom's arrest.

HIS LUCKY NUMBER.

Thirteen Brings Good Luck to a Pennsylvanian.

Baltimore, Md., May 17.—Thirteen is claimed to be the lucky number of C. P. Williams, of Pennsylvania, who was elected supreme chief engineer of the Supreme Council American Order of Steam Engineers, in session here. This is the thirteenth annual convention of the order, and the session was opened on the 13th day of the month.

The local committee in charge comprised thirteen members. A delegation of thirteen engineers from Philadelphia left there on Monday, the 13th, to attend the convention. They passed through gate 13 in Broad street station, left on the 3:13 p. m. train, arrived in Baltimore at exactly 5:13, and were met by the delegation of thirteen at the depot.

Despite these coincidents, no casualties have thus far been reported, and everybody went home sober from the banquet Tuesday night. Thirteen follows Mr. Williams and means good fortune to him.

FAR FROM CERTAINTY

Schwab's Statements Before Industrial Commission Disputed.

Claimed That Coking Coal and Ore Are Not Cornered.

Experts Say the Mineral Resources Are Simply Inexhaustible.

Pittsburg, May 17.—The Dispatch says: Complete control of the iron ore and coking deposits of the country by the United States Steel corporation, as intimated by President Charles M. Schwab before the industrial commission, is far from a certainty. Iron and steel manufacturers, coal and coke operators and consumers of these products freely discussed the testimony of the combine president. Denial was given to some of the assertions, although admissions were made with respect to the Connellsville region, and it was hinted by some that Mr. Schwab might have been talking with an eye on Wall street.

It is openly declared by experts that not only are the coking coal and iron situations not cornered by the Morgan combination, but that thousands of acres of the richest coal deposits are available when necessary for coking operations, and that untold iron ore wealth is being discovered and awaits discovery in regions that will make it easily possible for Pittsburg iron makers to benefit.

The Morgan combination virtually admits this by its efforts to secure, as quickly as possible, the choicest portions of the great Canadian ore fields recently found just north of the international boundary, and new finds in the Mesaba range of the richest Bessemer deposits are of not infrequent occurrence.

The most disquieting feature of the disclosure of the combine intentions, as viewed by Pitsburg manufacturers, is the frank expression of President Schwab's attitude toward organized labor. So far the powers of the greatest of the workingmen's organizations have been silent with respect to the testimony, but the independent manufacturers fear the political effect of the statements, and already the possibility of a monster combination of trades unions to cope with the equally monster combine is freely discussed by men who were until recently employers of iron and steel and mining workers.

A sudden realization of the enormous power of the combine is given by the free expressions of the combine's president. The intimate relations with the railroads, which many choose to term possessions of J. Pierpont Morgan, the possibility of their powers being united to crush opposition, the intimations that prices may be inflated because of the supposed limitations on the iron ore and coke supplies and the general air of independence shown in the feeling of security revealed in Mr. Schwab's testimony, have caused a cry of alarm from the smaller manufacturers.

Already words of protest are being uttered by those whose limited operations compel them to be dependents oft he combine for supplies. They assert that the combine can raise its prices to suit its fancy or to make its dividends and that they have no recourse, as competition has been stifled to a certain extent in many directions. The supposed agreement prohibiting those who retired from manufacturing from building up competition in the Pittsburg district and the ironclad contracts signed by the sheet mill roll makers to sell their product to no one else but the combine have excited the fear that until new plants with enormous capital can be secured the small manufacturers will be completely within the power of the combination.

Already the power of the combine has been felt. Several large enterprises are known to have been planned, but the impossibility of obtaining the requisite material prevented the execution of the schemes. These now await the enlistment of capital in iron and steel operations of a general and extensive character, but until such operations are commenced manufacturers of finished material in many lines must depend for their supplies upon the combination. The fear that the United States Steel corporation has the complete mastery of the iron ore and coke trade, especially of the former, which Mr. Schwab's testimony has endeavored to broaden, has prevented many from seeking new fields for their idle capital.

Iron and steel, coke and coal men and experts of allied industries declare that the iron ore and coke corner is a fallacy. They say that new finds are being daily made, not only in the Mesaba and similar regions of the rich Minnesota ranges, but that only recent discoveries were made of vast ore richness in the southern portion of Canada, near Lake Superior, which the combine is striving to secure. They declare that this region is yet unexplored, but that it gives evidence of even greater extent than the Mesaba and that it is but one of the many discoveries that will probably be made within sixty years, the limit which Mr. Schwab has placed upon the visible supply.

The experts say that the mineral resources are simply inexhaustible and that, instead of a limit being seen within sixty years, they do not see any cessation of mining in rich regions for hundreds of years to come. Coke operators admit that the end of the Connellsville region is to come within thirty years, but they declare that practically as good coke can be made from the coal of the Pittsburg district which still lies under thousands and thousands of acres undeveloped. They declare that the sulphur and phosphorus idea, so long maintained as an obstacle to good coke making in any other district but that of the Connellsville region, is largely fictitious. They say that sulphur and phosphorus are not of geographical distribution and that they are liable to occur in the Connellsville coal as well as in that of other regions.

The coal men point to the claim of the Frick Coke company for some time that the coke of the Fayette field was not equal to that of the Connellsville region, but that since the absorption of the rival companies by the combine it is all classed by Mr. Schwab as Connelsville coal.

The coal operators say that, instead of the coke situation being narrowed to one generation, as Mr. Schwab chooses to see it, many generations will die and new ones rise before the iron makers find themselves cornered with regard to their coke supplies. All admit that the combine has its situation well in hand, but they fear that the small manufacturers will be squeezed by the giant combination before the relief that is certain to result can be applied.

Willis L. King, vice chairman of Jones & Laughlins, limited, who has been invited to appear before the industrial commission to testify regarding the industrial situation, said that Mr. Schwab had given the question of the coal and ore supplies a great deal of thought and study, and that his statements carried an immense amount of weight. Mr. King, however, does not believe that the coal or iron ore situations are as alarming as would at first appear on the surface, and he believes that immense supplies will be discovered by the time the old fields are near exhaustion. He said:

"I understand Mr. Schwab to say that if the percentage of increase in the consumption of coke of the past few years is maintained in the future, the visible supply in the Connellsville region will be exhausted in thirty years. I do not think the increase will be as great as in the past, although I do not mean to say that there will be any backward movement. The greater the gross tonnage the less likelihood there is that the ratio of increase will be maintained. I do not think there is anything alarming in the statements as far as Pittsburg is concerned. The whole country is full of coal, and while it may not all be as good or nearly as good for coking purposes as the Connellsville product, it will answer the purpose when the Connellsville field is exhausted.

"It seems natural that other fields will be found that will be equal or nearly equal and possibly superior to the Connellsville region. There never has been at any time any question when one oil field has been exhausted that another equal or better will not be found to meet the requirements. We are constantly discovering new fields of oil that appear better in many cases than some of the great fields of the past. The exhaustion of one field or a number of fields is the stimulus to find others. The scarcer the coking coal in the future the higher naturally will be the price, and this will cause extensive explorations to find the supply for the future. The supply has apparently been inexhaustible and no really desperate explorations have been made.

"The new Fayette county field was found only a year or two ago, and Mr. Schwab now includes that product in the Connellsville region. There is good coal in Washington and Greene counties that can be used for coking purposes. It may not be as good as the Connellsville coke, but iron will have to be made and the coke is necessary. Thirty years is a long time within which to look for new fields. There appears to be no limit to the fuel resources of the country, and there certainly should be found at some time a coking coal that will equal the Connellsville coal.

"I do not think there is any cause for real alarm with respect to the iron ore. No one can tell how much ore is in the ground. The Mesaba region may now appear to be limited, but it is only a short time since it was discovered. Deeper drilling has been going on and ore has been found below the greenstone, where it was never before supposed to exist. I think continued explorations will result in new discoveries that will keep the supply up for a much longer time than sixty years. We have simply to take for granted the supposed existing supply.

"I do not believe that we are by any means near the limit of our ore or coal resources. The country is too large and rich in mineral wealth for that. It may be a question in time, however, whether the deposits are located in the same advantageous positions that they now are with respect to Pittsburg. But we have no fear. There is any amount of good coal from which good coke can be made in the Monongahela valley, and this is not considered as part of the Connellsville region. The future, I believe, has much in store for us."

WICKED WALL STREET.

Closed-Out Customers Are Worrying Panicky Brokers.

New York, May 17.—Some interesting legal questions are being propounded as the result of last Thursday's stock panic. The right of a broker to close out a customer's account without due notice has been assailed, and several eminent lawyers have been retained to bring suit in cases where substantial fortunes were dropped in an hour's frenzy. The customers now abroad who left ample margins to protect high-class securities are the ones who will suffer greatest, unless the brokers relent and continue margins on the basis of later favorable fluctuation.

Some brokers have made peace with customers where a long and hard fight was threatened, but others are unconcerned about the pending suits, and cite "customers of the street" in support of their position. The man who did business last Thursday on the "cut-throat agreement," which was made to cover such contingencies, is waxing eloquent over the "wickedness of Wall street." He has absolutely no redress; if his margins were wiped out it was "clearly according to contract."

Another interesting point concerns the proof of actual sales. On this question a lawyer said that it would not do for a broker to take over to his own account a customer's stock when a margin had been depleted; he would have to show an actual stock exchange transaction. The selling of customers' stock is always a matter of complaint after a panicky market. Sometimes brokers lose their heads, and to protect themselves sell the stocks in their office without observing formalities. This was done to a great extent on Thursday. Cases were numerous where customers were carried over because of a firm conviction that the following day would bring about a better market.

Many of the brokers who sold customers' stocks on Thursday to protect themselves bought the stocks back on Friday and charged the differences to their own account. Dissatisfaction at the same time has been freely expressed, not only because of closing out accounts without orders, but because of the way stocks were sacrificed on market orders. Because of this dissatisfaction many accounts have been taken up in the last few days and transferred to new brokers.

PATON & WHITE THE BIG GLASS BLOCK STORE DULUTH, MINN.

Call at the dress goods dept. and get a copy of May "Fashions." You will never let a month pass without having a copy of "Fashions" after you get the first copy. Free.

There'll be crowds here Saturday.

WHEN A WOMAN COMES HOME and says there is nothing in a store worth looking at, she means the crowd was so small there was nothing worth getting into a scrimmage for.

Women always look for big crowds around our main floor bargain tables, for there are always crowd attracting offerings. We count the space lost unless it shows unique values, better than can be had elsewhere. The bargains we give on these tables are the result of superior purchasing skill and power. On these terms the department managers get the space for extraordinary offerings.

In view of the nature of the offerings tomorrow—not only on the bargain counters, but all over the store—we anticipate a regular "old time" scrimmage at these counters and phenomenal crowds on every floor.

$6 silk waists—counter 2—for $2.85

$5.00 and $6.00 Taffeta Silk Waists, black and colors, for $2.85, is bargain counter 1's story.

Do you wonder "why" we anticipate a packed store tomorrow?

The deal came about in this way:

In New York, on the outskirts of the city, a concern devotes itself to the manufacturing of high class Silk Waists. On account of their location their rents, taxes, etc., are a mere fraction of what's usually paid by other manufacturers. They make waists for only large, first-class houses, sell for spot cash, lose nothing from bad debts, and through this system of economy furnish their products 30 to 50 per cent below other competitors.

$2.85 Recently they unloaded an over-loaded silk jobber of an immense lot of high grade black and colored Taffeta Silks—bought them less than half regular price. These silks were made into waists. Here are 200 of them—all we could get—and they're yours tomorrow as long as they last at only $2.85

Some of these Waists are hemstitched all over—others are daintily tucked all over—made in the newest and most approved styles—all have the fashionable Bishop sleeve—stylish collars and cuffs—in every summer shade of lavender, blue, red, pink, gray—also white and black—sizes 32 to 42.

$2.75 hats, Counter No. 1. 95c.

POTATOES.

New Variety Appear With Prices Way Up.

New potatoes, the sort the jacket peels away from when you boil them, are on the market. They are not yet on the tables of the lowly bank president and the humble dry goods king. They may be found on the bill of fare of the princely iron ore magnate and the owner of oil stocks, but hardly in any less wealthy establishment, for the price is $3 to $3.50 on Michigan street, and of course somewhat more in the grocery stores. That is the price per bushel, not per car, nor, fortunately, per tuber. One good thing about it is that there are a large number of tubers per bushel, as the potatoes are rather small and it takes a small army of them to fill a bushel basket. But at the present price they are hiding their light under the aforesaid bushel so far as the majority of people is concerned.

Fortunately, old potatoes, the grave and reverend relics of a former season, are still on the market, and they may be purchased on Michigan street at the low price of 45 to 45 cents per bushel. New faces in the field are wax beans at $2.25 to $2.50 per box, and cauliflower at $1.90 to $2 per dozen.

The warm weather—while it lasts—moves green stuff at a rapid rate, but a good deal of it is coming in, and prices are generally fairly easy.

Butter and eggs are both easier. Fresh prints of creamery are worth 19½ to 20 cents per pound, and creamery in tubs is quoted at 19 to 19½ cents. Eggs are ½ a cent lower at 11½ to 12 cents.

Meats are steady at unchanged prices, and so is live poultry. Strawberries are cheaper, the Michigan street price being $2.75 to $3 for 24-quart cases. Oranges are more expensive.

Lecture to Teachers.

J. M. Patrick, an author of some note, whose home is in St. Louis, Mo., is spending a few days in the city, and will deliver a lecture to the teachers at the High School Assembly room at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning on the subject, "Our Mother Tongue." Mr. Patrick has made the most of his opportunities in visiting the various points of interest about the city and declares that Duluth is bound to be the largest city of the Middle West. hTe high school, he says, is the finest he has seen in his travels about the country, that while St. Louis has a larger one, it cannot compare in architectural beauty.

TO TRY THE MARQUIS.

Paris, May 17.—Initiatory steps for the trial of the Marquis De Lur-Saluces, who recently returned to France after having been banished, were taken today, when a police officer visited the marquis and drew up a verbal process. M. Falleres, president of the senate, is expected to shortly convene that body as a high court, for the trial of the marquis.

FELL OFF THE CAR

Fay Carlyle's Damage Suit Is Now on Trial.

Claims She Fell Through Door of Sleeping Car.

Railroad to Make a Rather Sensational Defense.

The case of Fay Carlyle against the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad was taken up in the federal court today, and it promises to be one of more than ordinary interest. The work of drawing a jury occupied almost the entire morning, and it was about 11:30 o'clock when the plaintiff's case was opened to the jury. F. A. Teall, of Teall & Harris, appears for the plaintiff, and Attorney Mitchell, of St. Paul, for the railroad.

The claim of the plaintiff, as presented in the complaint and in the statement of the plaintiff's attorney to the jury, is that on Aug. 4 or 5, of last year, the plaintiff was journeying to St. Paul on the defendant's railroad, and was occupying a berth in the sleeping car. In the night she arose and went to the rear of the train, and while there the train gave a lurch and she fell through the open door on to the platform and off on the track between the rails. She was clad only in a night dress at the time. She lay there with a broken jaw, partially conscious at times and unconscious most of the time, finally dragged herself off the track, and at noon or later the next day was found lying there. She was brought to Duluth and placed in the hospital here, and remained there for several weeks. She claims the railroad was negligent in leaving the door open and in not having the rear platform properly protected by safeguards to prevent people from falling off.

The railroad in its answer has simply claimed that the accident was due to her own negligence and has not gone into details. There has been more or less heard about the case, however, and there are three individuals who are sweating over it considerably. The railroad will claim, if report is true, that a merry party went down on the train that night and that six convivial people, equaly divided between the sexes, had a high old time, going so far that one fell off the train. The testimony in the case was being taken this afternoon.

There will not be a trial of a criminal case at this term of the court. This is something that has never before been known in the history of the court. Today the case of Ira Bartlett, charged with perjury, was continued until the next term. Jacob Sky was fined $100 and sixty days in jail for introducing liquor onto the Fond du Lac reservation.

The case of Alexander Cattanach against the Alger-Smith Lumber company ended abruptly yesterday and it was the plaintiff himself who ended it, though unintentionally. A carload of logs was being operated in some manner with a chain and this became caught and the plaintiff jumped to fix it. He admitted that he appreciated the danger of the position. It being likely that logs might fall on him. Attorney Hollister insinuatingly asked if a man would not have to get out of the way pretty quick.

"I should say so. He'd have to be quicker'n lightnin'."

That ended the case and the jury was instructed to bring in a verdict for the defendant.

IS ARRESTED.

James A. Brayer Taken In---Will Leave Town.

James A. Brayer left town for Chicago this afternoon. This noon he was arrested by the police. This forenoon Harlow Bellinger swore out a complaint charging Brayer with threatening a breach of the peace. Last night in the News Tribune office, Brayer swore he would kill Mrs. Bellinger at the end of thirty days if she did not produce his wife by that time. Yesterday he called on Mrs. Bellinger and told her to her face what to expect.

Brayer was formerly in the cigar business in Duluth. He now has a factory in Chicago. His wife left him some time ago and he holds Mrs. Bellinger, among others, responsible for the estrangement. The trouble seems to have affected his mind or at least his judgment somewhat.

When arraigned in police court this afternoon Porter J. Neff appeared for the defendant and said that his client was unable to get bail but would go back to Chicago and stay away from Duluth. That was agreed to by all concerned and the case was continued for sixty days.

FUN IN WAR.

Still another warlike item which has the scent of novelty is the following, which I have taken from a lady's letter written from Durban, says a London correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer. It relates to an episode which was mentioned in a cable dispatch to the extent of a couple of lines. She said:

"A dreadful thing happened the other day—about New Year. There was an amusing element about it, too. A party of officers and ladies went some miles out of Johannesburg for a picnic—about twenty in all. While the orderlies were busy laying a champagne luncheon, a party of forty Boers swooped down upon them, drank all the liquor, and took all the provisions. Then the commandant, turning to the officers, said: 'Now, then, we will teach you to come out for picnics and enjoy yourselves while we are fighting for our country and our independence.' So he ordered them, ladies and all, to hand over all their valuables, watches, rings, etc. Then came the worst, for the men were ordered to go to one side and strip themselves of all their clothing, and the ladies were ordered into a wood to do the same, and told that if they refused they would be helped to do it. Finally the ladies were allowed to retain their petticoats. Then the vehicles which had brought the party out from the town were ordered to take them back. Can you possibly imagine anything more humiliating or horrible?

"A short time ago" continues the letter, "all the officers of one of the garrisons were playing polo when the Boers swooped down and carried off all the cattle, almost from under their noses. Lord Kitchener was so angry that he sent down and confiscated all their polo sticks."

There is an amusing story here in London, too, which has to do with the present stage of the Boer war. Holding in his left hand a few sealed envelopes, a very leary "hawker" appeared at the corner of a street in the Strand, and with many a sidelong glance in apprehension of the police, thus harangued the crowd:

"Now, I ain't allowed to sell to boys nor no old gentleman over 90, but I 'ave the latest novelty an' cur'osity at one penny—the snapshot photograph of De Wet as he appeared on the banks o' the Orange river. If you want a little fun an' amusement for the trifling outlay—"

A gudgeon stepped up and bought one. With a whispered and mysterious injunction not to look at it till he got home, the greenhorn received his envelope—and three or four others went off like hot cakes—but by this time the first purchaser had torn his packet open and discovered nothing but a blank oblong piece of cardboard.

"Here," cried he, returning to expose the fraud, "there's nothing about De Wet here."

"Not there?" cried the hawker, manifesting great concern, "show us?" The youth held out the virgin card.

"Good Lord!" exclaimed the hawker, aghast. "Gentlemen, there's no denyin' it, the Boer general 'as slipped us again!"

JUBILANT.

President McKinley Highly Pleased By Mrs. McKinley's Improvement.

San Francisco, May 17.—When Postmaster General Smith called on the president this morning, he found the countenance of the chief executive exceedingly jubilant. The president gleefully described the change in Mrs. McKinley's condition, as a transformation. There was only a slight tendency to the relapse that had been so dreaded in the early hour of the morning. She passed safely through that crisis and awoke bright and cheerful. She asked to be allowed to wash her hands and asked for food.

The president said that if she can hold her own for twenty-four hours that the crisis will be passed. The doctors expressed themselves as astonished at the favorable show of vitality.

San Francisco, May 17.—11:50 a. m.—M. H. De Young called on the president this morning. Mr. McKinley was most cheerful and stated to Mr. De Young if Mrs. McKinley continued to improve he will attend the launching tomorrow.

DECISION AFFIRMED

By Supreme Court In a Duluth Case.

St. Paul, May 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Justice Collins of the supreme court today affirmed the decisions of the lower court in the following case: Isabella J. Carlton, appellant, vs. J. H. Carey, administrator of the estate of Nehemiah Hulett, deceased, respondent, from St. Louis county.

ELEPHANTS

Big Fellows Learn Quickly to Perform Many Feats.

She's a skittish, squeamish three-ton back-to-toward the audience, because brute, is this Jewel, and we tie her that way she is least discontented, said the elephant keeper in the Central Park menagerie to the New York Times, pointing to where the huge female elephant stood behind the three-inch iron bars restlessly shifting her weight from foot to foot and contentedly munching hay. "She doesn't like the crowds, for they make her restless, and we try to humor her along the best we can, for, after all, she is a very good elephant. She would not hurt anyone, as her neighbor, Tom, hopes to do some day when he can get in a lick unawares, and therefore we put up with her, for she deserves it. There is not a treacherous trait in her, but she is a squeamish arrangement if she does not have things her own way, and she will trumpet the top of your head off as far as threats go if you use the hook on her.

"Want to come in and see for yourself?" the keeper asked. The reporter lied and said he wanted very much to see for himself. The keeper stuck an elephant hook ito his pocket. It was a wooden handled affair, little over a foot long, with a boat-hook shaped business end sharpened to a point, keen as the points of an ice tongs.

"We'll go in through the rear entrance, don't be afraid, she will try to scare you with her swinging trunk, and she may seem as if she intends to squash you against the wall, but no elephant that is wise behaves very badly when an elephant hook is around, and Jewel is as wise as any of them. She is a useful, well-trained brute, and has done her share of work several times when there was extarordinary occasion—all that you have ever read of Indian elephants, this one can do—but first we'll have a look at her."

The heavy five-inch cross bar stretched across the two immense folding doors through which the elephant is led out of her stall, was removed, and when the doors creaked on their ponderous hinges there stood Jewel, looking complacently bored, and shifting from foot to foot as usual.

"You can talk to her as you can to a human creature," said the keeper, "there is very little of the ordinary run of language which she does not understand. Watch her. 'Hold down your head, Jewel, and let's have a look at your face," was ordered, and unwillingly the big head was lowered until the forehead was within reaching distance. The great trunk swung back and forth meanwhile, and clearly she did not like the order. The reporter wished that she did not feel so sore about the thing, for she was within three feet of him, and there was a solid wall behind, and she was inching toward the wall as if she contemplated things.

"Don't bother the poor brute. She is all right, and I'll believe all you tell me about her willingly, and besides, I can see just as well if I stand outside the house a little distance. It is a shame to bother a poor animal," protested the reporter. But the keeper did not think so.

"Now look out for a trumpet. I am going to make her hoist up her forefoot. She hates to be bothered about the feet, and makes more noise than a steam whistle whenever anyone comes near her," said the keeper,and then he gently pressed the hook against the great foot that could have crushed him like an eggshell. There were not the least sign that the hook could have hurt the brute, so gently was it used, but in an instant there were "things doing." Like a flash she lowered her giant head and pricked forward her ears. The great trunk curled upward like a spiral spring, and in an instant there was a trumpet, which at close quarters was ear-splitting and frightening. But the big foot came up just the same. When the hook was removed, and there was quiet as a crowd rushed in to learn the cause of the unusual noise.

"I told you she was squeamish," said the keeper, "but she is a good old girl for all that, and she loves her keeper. 'Don't you, Jewel? Kiss your keeper, gal,' and this time, without the use of a hook, the trunk stretched out willingly, and after winding itself once about the neck of the keeper, there was what Jewel thought was a kiss.

"Now we will visit Tom. He is less nervous, but he is a bad elephant, and not much better, as far as treachery is concerned, than he was some time ago, when we thought we would have to kill him. I would not get too close to Tom if I were you. He does not know you, and it is best to be on the safe side. You can tell in his eyes that he is a bad one. He is naturally a vicious brute, and as time goes on, according to all precedents, he ought to become worse and worse." Tom, with one eye on the hook, behaved well enough. He raised his feet one by one when ordered, and he lowered his head, but it was the respect for the hook that made him good.

"Both of these elephants are old circus chaps," said the keeper, "and Tom here, the bad one, is one of the finest performers in the business. Before he got this last spell I used to perform tricks with him just to keep his hand in, as it were, but since he has begun thristing for mischief I do not bother him more than I have to. Tom can ring a bell, and he can sit on his haunches, or stand on his hind legs, or walk a barrel with any of them. When he was in the show he also performed a little one-act breakfast trick. He would set his own table and sit down before it on a special chair, and he would tie a napkin about his neck and would eat, exactly the same as you see other circus elephants do the trick today. But all that was long ago, when he was gentle and pleasant. Now, the risk of having one's head knocked off is not worth the fun of training him. All that keeps him in shape is the knowledge of the hook. He knows that I could pull a lung out of him with the hook, and he behaves accordingly.

"Jewel is not nearly so well trained as Tom, but she is a useful elephant always, and now and then, when necessary, I take her out and put her to work. Not long ago a wagon got stuck in the mud in the bridle path. It was a department wagon that was loaded with stone meant to repair a stretch of damaged roadway. The wagon seemed hopelessly stuck, and they sent down word to the elephant house as the quickest way out of the difficulty. We always keep a 'pad' on hand, intended for Jewel when she works. She had not been out in a long while, and I thought the trip would do her good, so I took her out. The sight of an elephant, with a man on her neck, traveling through the park brought a crowd from all parts, and a lively chase it had of it.

"Elephants do not trot or gallop; they just pace, but the way they cover ground is an eye-opener. Jewel was feeling good that time, and I let her have her own way and she made things hustle. We found the wagon stuck to the hubs in mud, with apparently no alternative other than to unload it and dig it out. I put the pad on Jewel's forehead and led her up to the tail of the wagon. Then I ordered her to move the thing. She has been so long in the business that it is no longer necessary to tell her how to go about a job. She just sees it and takes her own way. In this case she let herself down on her knees. Three or four times she tried to get a good hold before she started to lift. At last she was satisfied, and, raising upward with all the power in her splendid trunk, she got up from her knees and raised the loaded wagon from the rut, and at the same time put her forehead to the tail of the thing and pushed forward. Say, she would have pushed an ocean steamer over dry ground with that lift, and the wagon came up and moved forward on to solid ground—the most surprised wagon that ever was in New York.

"It often happens that Jewel is used for such work, but it was during the time that we had Chico, the chipmanzee, in the Arsenal that Jewel was called upon to perform a jungle trick. Chico was a very bad ape just about that time. No one could do anything with him. He was so bad that in the end he refused even to eat. He must have been suffering from temporary insanity. His keeper—and ordinarily he loved his keeper as a father does a son, for Chico thought himself a very superior sort of being—but even his keeper could not go near the cage without angering him so that it was feared he would go into convulsions. As for allowing the crowd to see the gentleman, that was entirely out of the question. He would have burst a blood vessel in sheer wrath at the least sign of a stranger. He bit and yelled and chewed at everything in sight and whatever was in his cage was torn to shreds or hurled to atoms. In that emergency I was ordered to take Jewel into Chico. Chico was removed to the ground floor, where Jewel would not have to climb stairs, and you never heard such swearing in monkey talk in all your life as Chico let out on the way below.

"Then I went out for Jewel. She walked into the sacred chambers where Chico was making the air blue, and as she came in I gave her a little jab behind the ears and she let out a trumpet that threatened to raise the roof off the building.

"In just two minutes Chico looked like 2 cents. He shut up as if he had been hit in the head with a sledge and he crept into a corner of his cage, the most frightened and the best behaved ape that ever was. He remained good to the end when the cute little life went out of him. Poor Chico! He was sunshine and amiability from the moment he heard that trumpet to the last. Now Chico was a mere baby when he was captured, and Jewel in her early captive days was also a baby. Neither, therefore, had much experience in their own native haunts, and yet, when Jewel appeared, Chico had all the fear of his race for the animal, which probably he had never seen before. Another case of the understanding between animals, which becomes more and more apparent and puzzling the longer you work among them.

"Jewel's predecessor was another well-trained elephant. It was she who carried all of the heavy timbers that are now in the Central Park menagerie. Some of the timbers were fifty feet long, but at the word of command she picked them up and carried them from place to place as directed.

"No, the elephants are not trained when they come to this country. Down in India they do not let their trained elephants out of the country if they can help it. The point is, the animals are too valuable. They do not pay to buy, for the difference between a trained and an untrained brute is considerable. Besides, they are easily trained.

"How do we train them? There is likely no other animal so easily taught as is the elephant. To teach them to lift, for example, it is an easy thing, you can understand, to make them pick up a small stick or any other object. From small sticks to larger ones, and from these to full-fledged timbers is but a natural progression. Similarly, when it comes to pushing heavy loads. You provide a pad for the beast's forehead and get him to lower his head against the car or wagon, and then you order him to go on. By taking heavier and heavier loads the animal soon becomes used to the work.

"Most people do not know what a wonderful pair of elephants the city owns. Snatches here and there appear about the two big fellows. But few know, for instance, that when Tom gets to be very bad so that even the hook does not awe him, his mate, Jewel, is used to pacify him and to put him in irons. She it is, at times, when no one dares venture near Tom, for he is not always equally vicious, that Jewel is led into the stall. She is stronger than Tom and heavier, and she stands next to him and allows us to work from one side of her in comparative safety while we double chain him. He does not try to hurt Jewel. He knows better."

And Jewel remained standing, as if she did not hear the praise, with her back to the audience, swaying uneasily from foot to foot and munching hay; the strangest stranger in a strange land, the land where the rajah and the mahout are disgracefully unknown.

DEATH.

Easiest Thing In Life Is Passing to the Beyond.

If there is such a thing as being an authority in death, Thomas H. Andrews, surgeon to the bureaus of police and fire, should rank high as an expert. In the course of thirty-seven years active practice he has conducted over 4000 post-mortem examinations and has seen at least half that number of human beings die, says the Philadelphia Press.

He talked freely on the subject of death yesterday, and in a most entertaining manner, if such a paradox is possible. He went back to the days when he was the first medical cadet from Pennsylvania with the sanitary commission; when he helped to sew up the gaping wounds of war at Fair Oakes, Cold Harbor and in the Seven Days' Fight; when he was assistant surgeon under Wilson Small, on the Fanuuky river, a floating charnel house with 300 cases of typhoid fever on board.

Later on he was stationed here in Philadelphia at a military hospital under charge of the famous surgeon, Paul Beck Goddard. For sixteen years he was demonstrator of anatomy at Jefferson hospital; was coroner's physician for years and is now entering on his fourteenth year as surgeon to the bureaus of police and fire. He has looked into the eyes of dying men and women and children of every kind and conditions, and this is the summing up of it all:

"Death is as much of a mystery to me now as it was when I first saw a human being die.

"Nature is never so kind to a man as when she is severing the ties that bind him to this earthly life. She removes all fear, ameliorates every harsh surrounding, softens every sound and smooths the narrow pathway to the grave with kindly hands. The easiest thing in life is to die."

"In your experience, Dr. Andrews," I asked, "have you ever found a case in which fear of death rose to the point where men fought and screamed at its approach?"

"Never. In severe sickness death comes in the guise of a welcome visitor. On the battlefield or as a result of accident or sudden shock when it comes to a man swiftly, who but a moment before was in perfect health and who half an hour later will be lifeless, a fortitude which I cannot describe and have never been able to analyze sustains the victim."

"Do men and women of the higher grades of intelligence exhibit any different emotions as death approaches from those gifted with less mental power? Does the professional man or the scientist betray any different feelings or emotions from those exhibited by the day laborer, the peasant or the most ignorant of men?"

"No and yes," was the reply. "The scientist, the man or woman of keen intelligence and trained faculties, unless their lives have been conspicuous for an exhibition of filth in any direction are slower to accept ministrations of clergymen and others. The man of low intelligence yields at the first approach and calls for religious consolation.

"The reason for this is, I think, that the vast majority of professional men, outside of the clergy and particularly doctors and scientists generally are not inclined to believe or accept what they cannot demonstrate as a scientific fact. And yet, as a rule, these men and women willingly accept religious ministration when death is only a matter of hours.

"I recall an instance during the war. One of the most distinguished men in the Seven Days' Fight; when he was assistant surgeon under Wilson Small, on the Fann

English or Spanish Spelling?

In a short time the board of geographic names, connected with the government, will issue a report on Philippine names, on which they have been at work for quite a while. Immediately after the acquisition of the Philippines the hydrographic office was called upon for accurate information as to geography, and this meant having recognized and agreed upon local names. After long consultation it was decided that the current official Spanish charts should be accepted as the standard authority, and a list of names was prepared in accordance with them. The hydrographic office prepared this list and it contained about four thousand constituent names. In addition to that, the Cast Survey has issued an atlas of the Philippine Islands containing a list of names prepared under the direction of Father Jose Algue, director of the Jesuit Observatory at Manilla. This atlas has similarly been adopted by the board of geographic names. The two lists, although somewhat overlapping, together comprise about 5500 names, and they represent the work of local Spanish scholars. No attempt has been made at Anglicizing these names, but merely to secure proper uniformity, they have been considerably trimmed. The class of expert spellers is still somewhat agrieved over its defeat on the spelling of Porto Rico. The board points out that we have many other Puertos, like Puerto Principe, and that this old Spanish spelling is a part of trade marks and otherwise formally embodied in the language. As the briefer spelling which finally prevailed is part of a temporary act for the government of Porto Rico, it is possible that the question may arise again when the 2-year period expires. If it does arise again it will be as now—Porto Rico.

Hanna Is Now Booming Fairbanks.

Formal announcement will soon be made of the candidacy of Senator Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana for the Republican nomination for president in 1904. The organization of the Fairbanks machine has been under way for some time past, and is now in such a state as to warrant the announcement of its candidates. Senator Hanna is said to be in favor of the Indiana senator. He was asked by the Washington correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle what he thought of the Hanna presidential boom as launched by Perry S. Heath in Paris last week, and he said: "What do I think of the Hanna boom? I am not thinking much about any boom these days, except that for Senator Charles W. Fairbanks. If you want to know who I regard as the person most likely to be nominated for President by the Republicans in 1904 I would say Charles W. Fairbanks. The senator has as yet taken no steps toward announcing himself as a candidate for the nomination, but he has many friends who are doing all they can to bring about his nomination three years hence. I find that there is a very friendly feeling toward the senior senator from Indiana throughout the country. The people of the East are particularly well disposed toward him, believing that he is thoroughly abie, safe and conservative. He is exceedingly popular with the West and Middle West. In spite of the senator's silence on this important matter, there is no doubt that he is a candidate, and I believe that if the convention were to be held next month he would be the unanimous choice for first place. I regard Senator Fairbanks as one of the great men of the country, and I am confident that the sentiment in favor of him will grow steadily as time passes. It is too early to talk of any person for the second place on a Fairbanks ticket, and as yet no attention has been given to that matter." As a matter of fact Senator Hanna is for Hanna, first on any occasion and secondly for the man of whom he can make the best use. Hanna wants to be ruler, even if not in name.

THE NATION SYMPATHIZES.

The expressions of regret at the serious illness of Mrs. McKinley are not the perfunctory utterances of a polite society. There is seen in them a touch of human interest far beyond the cold courtesy of public concern in the life or the suffering of those who chance to arrest for a time the public eye.

During all her years as the wife of a public man, Mrs. McKinley has so borne herself that all have admired her and most have loved her. She is direct in her speech, courteous and simple in her manner toward all. But that which appeals to the mass of the people—that which touches all who have hearts—is the devotion of this man who bears the cares and responsibilities of the nation, to this frail woman whom he, in the less fortunate days of his youth, promised to love and protect. Never has the White House been graced by a more ideal married pair. As Queen Victoria was for half a century the model mother of Great Britain, so have the president and his wife been to the American people a living realization of the ideal marital relations. Here have always been patience, tenderness, love and a never-failing consideration under every varying circumstance.

It is to this beautiful home relation that Mr. McKinley owes much of his personal popularity with the best and most refined of society. And more; human nature is so constructed that those who do not emulate the social life of the president, nevertheless honor him for possessing that which they themselves have not. When Lincoln was assassinated the people wept as from a personal loss. Should the hand of death be laid upon the gentle companion of the president, many a strong man will brush away the tears of sympathy that come unbidden. All will hope that the illness will pass. To Mr. McKinley, the man, The Herald offers the hand of sympathy in these days of domestic anxiety.

"COLONIAL PLUMS."

Recent dispatches from the Philippines have told that the Philippine commission was overrun with applications for positions under the new civil government. It is no wonder. A partial list of government positions is now made public and there are many magnificent positions for Americans and some mighty poor ones for the natives. These fat offices in our new possessions have most appropriately been dubbed "colonial plums," and plums they are of the juiciest kind. The Philippine commission is, of course, the chief bureau in those islands. Each commissioner has a private secretary at $3000. There is one secretary of the commission at $7500, one assistant secretary and one recorder at $2750 each, and several clerks at salaries of about $1800. In the office of the military governor there is one private secretary at $3000, one law clerk at $3000, one chief clerk at $2250, one clerk in charge of archives at $2000, and minor clerks as follows: One at $1800, three at $1600, nine at $1400, twelve at $1200, three at $900, eight at $720, two at $360, two at $320, two at $210, two at $150 and two porters at $120 a year each.

The small compensation accorded to the lower grade employes in all the Philippine bureaus reveals the presence of the brown man. Messenger boys are provided for at wages, in some bureaus, as small at $72 a year, less than the monthly compensation of page boys in the United States senate. Coachmen are down at $150 a year, when in Washington $720 is probably the drivers' and stablemen's minimum. Messengers at Washington get from $720 to $1200, the latter rate being that of the colored messengers at the White House. How long the new civil government in Manilla can maintain the low rate of wages for these native employes will depend upon the extent to which they are excluded from political power. It is that, rather than the terms of the labor market that regulates rates of compensation here.

But to return to the official list: The collector of customs is a $6000 officer, his deputy gets $4000, his cashier $3000 and his seven chiefs of division $2000 each. He has besides ordinary clerks, forty-four employes at a compensation of $120 a year each—evidently brown men—and seven messenger boys at $90 a year each. The collector of internal revenue gets, under the new civil government, $4000; his deputy $2000. He has seventeen employes at $150 per annum, and three messengers at $720 a year. The director general of posts receives $5000. He has a chief clerk at $2250, an inspector at $2000, one coachman at $150, besides janitors and messengers. The Manilla postmaster is to receive $3500, his assistant $2250, the superintendent of the mails $2000. Other offices in the islands pay a smaller sum. The postmaster at Iloilo gets only $2000. The members of the civil service commission each receive $3500. The general superintendent of education receives $6000.

There is also an auditor, whose annual salary is $6000. That of his deputy $4000, his chief clerk $2250, where the working force under him receives from $300 to $1800 per year, according to efficiency, experience and complexion. The treasurer of the Philippine archipelago is also a $6000 officer. He has a $2250 chief clerk, and a corps of clerks of similar compensation to those in the auditor's office. The municipal service at Manilla is also quite elaborate and affords offices for many Americans. Provincial places are literally "too numerous to mention," although they will doubtless be filled principally by the natives. It will take a great many officials for 8,000,000 people and it is no wonder the applications are numerous.

EASY FOR THE TRUST.

Judge Mills and J. G. Miller, two members of the state railroad and warehouse commission, constituting a majority of that body, have shown that they can be relied upon to do the bidding of the Morgan steel trust. A short time ago it was announced that the commission had decided to grant a rehearing to the attorneys of the Duluth & Iron Range and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern roads, both of which are owned by the trust, on the question of rates for the transportation of iron ore. The commission appointed by Governor Lind, which was legislated out of office at the beginning of the present year, ordered a material reduction in the ore carrying charges of these roads. Shortly after the present Republican commission came into office, it was whispered around that the roads had sufficient influence with at least two of its members to secure a revocation of the order, and for five months past the roads have been constantly violating the law by refusing to file new schedules of rates in compliance with this order and by shipping ore without any reduction of rates.

Two weeks ago rumor was confirmed by the commission announcing it would suspend the order and grant a rehearing, if the roads would on or before June 20 file with the commission their rates and a stipulation acknowledging the authority of the commission to regulate these rates. There was no idea on anyone's part that the roads would comply with these conditions, and now it is announced that Commissioners Mills and Miller have decided to back down from this latest order and withdraw the requirements that the roads recognize the commission's authority. To the credit of Commissioner Staples, it can be said that he declines to be a party to this "compromise"—this disgraceful yielding to the wishes of the steel trust.

The people of Minnesota have themselves to thank for this scandalous state of affairs. Two members of the old commission that had refused to bow to the demands of the iron magnates and had performed its duty by ordering a reduction of rates, were candidates for election, and the people refused to elect them, choosing in their stead men who were notoriously in alliance with the railroad interests and who now have the brazen assurance to openly ally themselves with the steel trust in opposition to the interests of all other mine owners in Minnesota. Possibly the lesson now taught may not be lost upon the people when the next election day arrives.

The government considers that one good indication that the Filipinos are accepting Americans as their sovereign rulers is the absence of depredations on army supplies and property. Until the last few months it was practically impossible for the signal corps of the army to keep its telegraph and telephone lines intact, especially where they went through hilly and wooded sections of the country. Every day the natives would break the wires, carry off long sections of them and cut down the poles. It required the closest vigilance on the part of the signal corps men to maintain their lines in working order, and in some places this was only accomplished after repeated skirmishes and fights with the marauding natives. Reports from the signal corps show very few breaks of late due to vandalism on the part of the Filipinos, and its abandonment is looked upon as a good sign and indicating a growing good feeling between the natives and the military.

The suggestion that members of legislative bodies be paid has never been cordially received in European countries. To this day members of the British commons are unpaid, while the German reichstag's bill to grant compensation to its members has been passed thirteen times, only to fall because of the opositon of the bundesrath and the kaiser. In Germany the opposition seems due to an anti-democratic feeling, but in Great Britain the Irish have considerable to do with the case, as well as old custom and the prejudices of the aristocracy. Payment of members would make the Irish party in Westminster much easier to maintain. Salaried Healys and Redmonds would drive the noble lords into fits.

The Tyler, Minn., Journal, tells of a teacher in Lyon county who, to prevent tardiness, offered to kiss the first at school each morning. The next morning at 5 o'clock a number of the young men were seen roosting on a fence, and by 8:30 all the small boys and two directors were in evidence. The teacher is 18 and beautiful as an angel, as they all are. Who would not roost on that school-house fence all night?

There is now a possibility that Capt. Carter's confederates will be brought to justice. The federal court at New York has confirmed the order for their removal to Georgia, where they were indicted. Of course, their lawyer will appeal to the United States supreme court, but the outlook is they will have to stand trial.

A BALLAD IN "G."

A man with a marvelous mug
Rode out on Fort Scott on a nag
He carried a jug in a bag
And many and many a swig
Reposed in that corpulent jug
And a cob fitted in as a plug
As snug as a snag in a bog.

The nag had a wiggiety jig
Which churned up the jag in the jug
And along by his side went a dog
Which jiggled along in a jog
With a narrative shaggy and sag
Which he wearily, warily wug.

O! That jig, and that jog, and that jag—
O! That jog, and that jag, and that jug.

2.

The man shouted "Whoa" to the nag
Then took out the jug from the bag
Then took out the plug from the jug
And then from the jug took a jag
A terrible, horrible jag
Which acted as quick as a drug.

He shouted "Yip-yip" to the nag
And dug in his heels with a dig
And the nag who would never renig
Sprang off with the speed of a stag
Then the man with a marvelous mug
Began a vociferous brag—

"Whoo-pee—I'm a bird on a crag
I'm a thief, and a wolf, and a thug
I'm a bug-eater hunting a bug
O I can hold more than a keg
And I have hoodoo and swag
That says that my grave don't get dug."

3.

To the front with a yelp went the dog
And shouting "yip-yip!" to the nag—
Pell-mell with jug and the bag
Went the man with the marvelous mug,
And there in the road lay a hog
As still as a bum on a log.

Then down in a pile went the nag
And the dog and the hog and the jug
And that was the end of the dog
And vain were his efforts to wag
The narrative previously wug
And limber and limp as a rag
In a wad on his lug lay the nag.

And then the man with the marvelous mug
Rolled up like a cavalry flag
Done up like a family rug
Lay there—with his head in the bag
And twenty feet off stood the jug—
The opulent, corpulent jug—
Unharmed, while the loyal cob plug
Held down what was left of the jag.

And this is the song of the jag
And the jug, and the jog, and the jig,
And this is the song of the nag
Of the nag that would never renig
And the dog and the hog and the bag—
A song of the swag and the swig.

OMAHA'S "WIDE OPEN" MAYOR.

Chicago Record-Herald: The way to a "wide open" town is through a revival of the "blue laws" of our Puritan forefathers. This is such a widely accepted truism in municipal government nowadays that when a newly elected mayor proceeds to enforce Sunday ordinances that were dead and buried long ago, under a pretense of acceding to the demands of the law and order element, the people understand that he is merely getting ready to turn the town over to the gamblers, thugs, liquor venders and other forces of disorder.

This is what the people of Omaha expected when they found soda fountains, barber shops and bakeries closed tight as a drum on Sunday a week ago, and they were not disappointed. The wide-open town came last Sabbath, with all its license and noisy disregard for the rights of citizens who believe in the observance of the day as an institution devised and set apart by Christianity for man's moral and physical welfare.

It was the same old political film-flam game of hypocrisy and cheap cunning so familiar to the people of the larger cities and which fools no one. The mayor was under an obligation to give the lawless elements a "wide-open" town, and in order to pave the way for unrestrained license he gave Omaha a taste of "blue laws," which no one demanded, much to the inconvenience and injury of the citizens. To arouse a reaction of public sentiment against the reform element he even resorted to the arrest of bootblacks who were plying their trade on Sunday.

Of course this revival of old-time municipal idiocy had its effect. The people clamored for a wide-open town rather than to be shut off from the ordinary necessities and comforts of the Sabbath day. Instead of consistently and honestly enforcing the laws in accord with modern ideas of public decency and public order the mayor dug up a lot of obsolete statutes, and upon the public reaction against them he now proposes to redeem his promises to the lawless elements.

These are the kind of mayors who make our municipal governments a disgrace to our democracy.

MINNESOTA POLITICS.

St. Paul Globe: Despite the fact that "the gang" has decreed Governor Van Sant's renomination there are some impervious Republicans are bold enough, it is said, to protest against this plan. The head of this obstinate faction is at Duluth and may be found among the Willcuts' crowd. It will be remembered that Lee Wilcutts and his friends were pretty badly ignored by the governor last winter in the matter of an appointment and at that time swore vengeance on him. Page Morris, who took an active hand in the fight on the Willcuts' side, was also quite abruptly turned down by Governor Van Sant and now Page is said to be "agin the govament." What the "gang" at the head of the lakes and the "gang" at the Capital City will be able to do toward a reconciliation remains to be seen. Meanwhile Justice Loren Collins is being mentioned by certain Duluthians as the man for the Republicans to name for governor in 1902.

J. Adam Bede, who has been out lecturing over the state, dropped into the city for a change yesterday. There are several important subjects which Mr. Bede believes need lecturing upon, but the most pertinent topic to him just at present is, his candidacy for congress. He is reserving some of his best lectures for this subject later on. Mr. Bede will certainly be a candidate for the nomination by the Republicans of the Sixth district in 1902. The Pine City humorist says it is no joke. Asked whom he thought the Democrats would nominate against him, assuming that he will be nominated, "Jadam" exclaimed: "Oh, I'm not so sure but that I'll get both nominations. If I do I'll certainly be elected and then I'll be the 'greatest' congressman in Washington.

FORTUNATE McKINLEY.

Springfield Republican (Ind.) April 30: As President McKinley started off yesterday on his transcontinental journey, he could not but have mused:

Fortune is merry

And in this mood will give us anything.

He travels in a state of sumptuousness never before experienced by an American president. The special train provided is described as the most magnificent ever put together. With its splendid fittings and furnishings, its ample living and sleeping accommodations for the large party of friends and official associates, and its force of porters, cooks, waiters, chefs, hair-dressers, ladies' maids and so on, fully described in the yellow journals, it brings within each every comfort and luxury of the highest class hotel; while railroad managers attend upon the excursion and the advance pilots and rear guards do all that can be done to avert accidents.

But the presidential comfort from without must be a small matter compared with the peace within—for while the president has professed some feeling of heart anguish on account of the actions of certain misguided people, he has never appeared to enjoy other than that conscious ease of right which is better than all earthly dignities. And this peace and the satisfaction which unclouded fortune brings must have been his yesterday. He knew that the policy and the native commander named to succeed Agulnaldo came in and surrendered. To Cuba, and he could forecast the return of the commissioners, apparently satisfied with the beheaded Independence that has been promised. To Harvard, and the overseers promptly reply to the alumni protest with a unanimous vote for hte degree of LL.D. To Wall street, and the greatest day of a long series of wonderful days in the speculative effort advertised by express the measure of the country's McKinley prosperity is witnessed. And around and though all the way of his journey, may be heard the demonstrative tributes which the people are wont to pay to unqualified success.

This is the supreme hour in McKinley's career. There cannot be. It would seem, in the nature of things, another more supreme. A phrase was widely current during Mr. Cleveland's first administration—"Cleveland luck." But it was as nothing to what we may irreverently call McKinley luck. Still, it was the saying of a French philosopher that "we do not know what is really good or bad fortune." But that might take us into the realm of idealism and the weighing of values—it is best to forbear. Rather let us keep to the record of the hour.

While the president journeys, Boston is paying its tribute to Vice President Roosevelt, and tonight's Home Market club banquet is to break the record. Sunshine and public honor are the order of the day for the administration.

A FRUITFUL FIELD.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Duluth Herald calls the attention of the state tax commission to the statement that the iron mines on the raiges are not paying their just proportion of the taxes. It says that they are now assessed at about $8,600,000, and that their actual value is nearer $150,000,000. The Herald quotes President Schwab of the steel trust to the effect that iron properties are constantly increasing in value. Here is a fruitful field for the tax commission to operate in and it could not do a more popular thing than to devise some system by which these iron properties, now largely in the hands of the trusts, should pay their just burden of taxation.

Thoughts By Pease.

Anoka Union: No wonder suicides are many in the Twin Cities. Terrible places to live in.

The Impression is gaining ground that Van Sant cannot lead the Republican party to victory next year, and yet the party proposes to nominate him. Ridiculous.

It was to be expected that Private Secretary Bobby Jamison would have prevented his chief from making so many fool moves on the political chess board.

Van Sant's policy: Help your enemies and let your friends take care of themselves. Such a policy will cause the political death of most any man.

The board of control will control all that is to be controlled in Minnesota hereafter. The Union is of the opinion that two years will give the people all they want of this board.

Fixed For a Slide.

Chicago Tribune: We fear Mr. Conger's gubernatorial boom is on the toboggan. Why can't our heroes steer clear of the politicians?

A Tale of the Plains.

A camel was humping across the plain
When a buffalo hove in sight,
And the camel bowed, as all camels do,
When their rearing has been polite.

The bison drew back in a frigid way,
Declined the glad salute,
And said: "Are you a Buffalo,
You ugly switch-backed brute?"

"Cut that 'leven-cent gag, it's old,"
Said the camel, whose scorn was fine,
"My lodge, as everyone should know,
Is called the Mystic Shrine."

"It's dry out here," the buffalo said;
"My tongue is like beef—in a can."
"And I," said the camel, "feel like I'd been
A month in a caravan."

So then two brother animals
With a thirst like the burning sand,
Went out and found a friendly Elk
And jagged to beat the band.

DAILY STORY.

THE JUNIOR PARTNER

BY HORACE MELVILLE GRANT.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

The law firm of Graham & White had existed for twenty years, and had been a successful firm. Graham had married and had a large family, but White had remained a bachelor. It was said of him that he was married to the law and was indifferent to women. He certainly was a hard worker, staid, dignified and one in whom men placed confidence. Graham was the eldest by five years, and on his 50th birthday he said to White:

"George, I'm getting to be an old man, and you are not far behind. There is too much work for us. We ought to take a junior partner to attend to the criminal branch and allow us to take things easy."

"I've been thinking of it for some time," replied White, and with his answer the matter was as good as settled.

A week later Walter Davis became junior partner, and the firm name was changed to Graham, White & Davis. They had known and watched Davis for two or three years. He had won three or four criminal cases and was making a name for himself. The newspapers had said of him that he would be at the front in a few years, and it was a good stroke of business when Graham & White strengthened their firm by taking him in. He had not been the junior partner over three months when the firm was called upon to defend a murder case. A woman was found dead in a public park. She had been choked to death and her body concealed in a copse, and she had been dead three days when found. The police picked up clue after clue, and in the course of three or four days, a well-known clubman was arrested for the crime. He had been seen in the compa[illegible] of the woman by half a dozen different people, and two of them declared that the pair were quarrelling. He was greatly agitated when put under arrest, but vigorously declared his innocence. It was a week before the woman was identified. Then it transpired that she lived in a city 100 miles away, and had come to town on the day of her murder. She was a single woman, aged about 30, and living a quiet life, and no one could be found who knew much about her.

It was almost by chance that Chapin, the man accused of murder, retained the firm of Graham, White & Davis to defend him. As a matter of fact, he and Davis sat smoking their cigars in the club smoking room when he was arrested. On the afternoon of the murder White had been absent from the office without leaving word. He was so methodical in his habits that this incident had created some little surprise. On the night of the murder he had reached his apartments with his clothing torn, a gash in his head and evidently laboring under great mental excitement. He stated to his valet that he had been knocked down on the street by a carriage, but charged him to say nothing of the incident. Next day he was out of his head and under the doctor's care, and it was three weeks before he was able to show up at the office again. Then he learned that the firm had been retained to defend Chapin, and that Davis had entered upon the case with great enthusiasm and had already made good progress. He knew that the police did not know, and what might not be brought out at the trial even to save his client from the gallows—that Chapin had walked in the park that evening with a certain married woman who much resembled the one who had become a victim. He not only had the clubman's word for it, but the woman's, and he had therefore begun a hunt on his own account for the real murderer. When White was told of the case and the moves already made in it he was silent for a moment and then slowly said:

"I am somehow a bit sorry that we have the case in our hands, but having taken it we must clear Chapin if we can."

"And discover the real murderer," suggested Davis, who wondered at White's lack of interest.

"Yes, I suppose so. He might have been in a position where he felt that he had a right to take this woman's life, but yet he must answer to the law. You have full charge of the case, and you will go ahead. I think I must take a vacation and recuperate."

When Chapin was brought to trial, the police thought they had a fair case against him, but Davis had worked all around them. Of the half dozen people who had at first identified his client, all but two had become doubtful. Other witnesses were found to testify that his female companion was not wearing a hat or jacket like the dead woman's, and as a wind-up two people were found who had seen the pair separate and leave the park by different paths. The police case fell to the ground and Chapin was acquitted. A week later the public had almost forgotten it, but Davis had already begun his hunt for the real murderer. In this he was trespassing, but in his search for proofs to clear Chapin he had picked up certain threads that he wished to follow to the end. White remained away six weeks. The day he returned he sent for Davis to come to his apartments, and after some general talk he asked:

"Have you a story to tell me?"

His health had not come back to him, and he looked pale and wan and troubled. Davis looked at him in a pitying way and shook his head.

"I have sent for you to hear it," continued White.

"Years ago," began Davis, in a voice scarcely above a whisper, "a designing woman laid a trap for a man who knew little of the wiles of her sex, and he fell into it. From thence on she lived by blackmail. She threatened and hounded and made life miserable for him. One evening, after he had been her victim for years, and when she had an extortionate demand to press they walked together in a park. Her threats of her power and her taunts as to his helpfulness drove him to frenzy, and he was not legally responsible when he choked the life out of her and flung her body into a thicket."

"That is, you would not hold him responsible?" queried White.

"No."

"But a jury might?"

"Possibly."

"Chapin was not the man?"

"No."

"But you have discovered his identity?"

"I have, but it will always remain a secret with me. I feel to pity and sympathize with him."

"Yes, but the law demands a life for a life. That is all, Mr. Davis, and I wish you good-evening."

They expected Mr. White at the office next morning, but he did not appear. They sent a messenger to his home and learned that he was dead. He had taken an overdose of chloral and given the law its full demand.

Great and United People.

Philadelphia Ledger: President McKinley summed up a large measure of truth in a few words when he said in his speech at Los Angeles:

"There are more men and women loving our flag today than ever loved it before, and there is more respect paid to it at home and abroad than ever before."

We are one nation at home, and the demonstration that has accompanied the president's tour from the north, through the South, and seems to have reached its height on the Pacific coast, shows that our people are united in loyalty, and the statement that there are more who love the flag now than ever before is capable of mathematical demonstration. We are a great nation because we are a united people.

Souvenir of the Texas Republic.

Boston Transcript: The president had some very interesting experiences in Texas, of which the story is found only in the local press. Thus at Houston an aged lady pressed through the throng that lined the streets to the president's carriage and placed in his hands a faded banner. She was recognized only by a few of the older of the onlookers as Mrs. Anson Jones, the widow of the last president of the republic of Texas. The faded flag was that of Texas when an independent republic, which she had treasured since the death of her husband in 1858. President McKinley received the flag gratefully and gracefully. If Mrs. Jones shared the sentiments of her husband her act may be considered as the final recognition of the inevitable, since Anson Jones was bitterly opposed to the annexation of Texas to the United States, for he believed that the Lone Star republic was capable of "going alone."

Rapacity of Civilized Powers.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The rapacity of the so-called Christian nations in assessing their indemnity upon China seems likely to meet some obstacle in the fact that an increase of the customs to a point thought necessary to raise the revenue may be so high as to cripple trade with the very nations demanding the excessive indemnity. In this situation the powers will find it incumbent to do some fine figuring in order to fix a tariff that will at once yield the required revenue without inflicting serious damage on foreign trade—in other words, to enable China to salve the hurts of the Christians by filling their pockets on one side without lightening their pockets on the other side.

THE BON VOYAGE

Inspector Monaghan Comments on Some of the Criticisms.

Boat Met All Requirements of Inspection Law.

Attention Called to City of Winnipeg Burning Here.

The Bon Voyage disaster is still uppermost in the minds of the people at Houghton and the papers there are having a good deal to say of it every day. Being at the point where the accident occurred there is naturally much feeling over it and a keen interest in learning all that can be gleaned as to the events that happened on the ill-fated boat that night.

Benjamin Altman, husband and father of the family that fell victims to the disaster, has already taken steps to sue the owners of the boat for damages.

In the first excitement there have been a great many things said, without doubt, that will, upon sober reflection, be found to be unjust and hasty. For instance, the statement was contained in one of the papers at Houghton that criticisms of the inspectors of vessels at Duluth had been heard, the statement being made that the boat was not in shape when inspected and should not have been allowed to go out as it was and that there was no fire drill of the crew.

With reference to this Capt. Monaghan, one of the Duluth inspectors, says:

"The Bon Voyage met every requirement of the inspection laws and that is as far as the government inspectors can go. They are required to see that the boat conforms in every particular to the demands of the law and the Bon Voyage did.

"It is not the fault of the inspectors that the law permits wooden passenger vessels to operate, but it does. The person who travels on one of them takes the same chance as does a person who goes to a hotel that is not fireproof. Nor is there anything in the law which prohibits the use of paint which is inflammable and carries fire from one end of a boat to the other like a trail of powder when it once breaks out. As long as the law permits its use, the boats can use it regardless of the opinions of the inspectors.

"There is nothing in the inspection law either which requires the inspectors to know that there is a fire drill of the crew. That is made the duty of the captain. At the time the boat is inspected and gets its certificate there may be no crew. It may be at the beginning of the season before the crew has been taken on."

Attention has been called by several Duluth people to the fact that, when the City of Winnipeg burned in Duluth a number of years ago, two men lost their lives, even though the boat pulled up at the dock within a few minutes after the fire broke out. The blaze broke out as the boat was coming into the harbor and she made at once for the dock, but quickly as this was accomplished two men were lost. This is cited to indicate that when a wooden vessel burns it goes with a suddenness that makes loss of life more than likely.

The body of Mrs. Adolo Altman, the fourth and last victim of the Bon Voyage disaster, was found yesterday near the Calumet & Hecla waterworks, twelve miles north of the wreck.

MANDAMUS.

R. S. Lerch Goes After the City With a Writ.

R. S. Lerch yesterday afternoon secured an alternative writ of mandamus from the district court requiring Building Inspector Robinson to permit the removal of the Lerch stable across First street or show cause why he does not do so.

The petition states that Lerch received notice to move on May 1, when he made application to the council for permission to move to lot 38, West First street. The council granted permission, and he took a lease for the property on the south side of the street. Later, however, the council rescinded the permission first given, and left him in the lurch.

The situation is complicated by the fact that a suit for ejectment has been begun against Mr. Lerch by Hutchinson Bevier, the owner of the property, on which the building is now located.

NO MORE EXCEPTIONS.

New Rule of Practice Recently Established.

A law passed by the last legislature has done away with an old custom in the district court of the state. Hereafter no exceptions need be taken. In the past, when an attorney made an objection and the court ruled upon it, the lawyer that lost the point concealed his chagrin under an ivy politeness and said:

"Will the court note an exception, please?"

And the court noted the exception, of course. Then upon a motion for a new trial the only errors that could be brought up would be those duly excepted to by the losing attorney.

Now no exception is needed, the law providing that every ruling, order or decision made by any judge of any court of record in any action or proceeding, and every instruction to a jury, shall be deemed excepted to by any party agrieved thereby, and may be reviewed upon a motion for a new trial or upon appeal as fully as if an exception had been taken at the time such ruling was made or such instruction given.

The result will be that the records will be a bit shorter and trials will go off somewhat more rapidly, but the trials will seem a trifle odd until people get accustomed to the new method.

HACKET SENT UP.

Old Man Must Serve Thirty-Five Days.

Felix Hacket claims to be 97 years old but that did not prevent Judge Gearhart yesterday afternoon from sending the aged man to jail for thirty-five days for keeping a disorderly house. Tom Hacket, a son, was sent up for twenty days as also were Lizzie Buckley and Margaret Smith, who were arrested in the Hacket home on East Third street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

Felix Hacket and son have frequently attracted police notice before, either as complainants or peace breakers themselves. The old gentleman usually has secured consideration and even immunity by claiming to be all the way from 90 to 100 years old but yesterday Judge Gearhart's feelings were against disorderly actions by people of such advanced years.

It is extremely unlikely that Hacket is that old. He is quite aged but is ignorant and probably does not know his exact age. If he really is 97 years old then several of his children were born after he was 70 and 75 years of age.

AN OPTION GIVEN.

Pennsylvania Company Has Leased Its Land.

At a meeting of the directors of the Pennsylvania Iron and Steel company yesterday, the directors gave a six months' option on the "Truelsen 40" to the Union Steel company, locally represented by Oscar Rohn. The conditions are a royalty of 25 cents a ton, with a minimum annual output of 50,000.

The property comprises forty acres, and is described as follows: Northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of 20-58-19. It is near the Sharon mine, between Virginia and Hibbing, on the Eastern Minnesota railway.

It is believed that there are large and valuable ore deposits on the property, and a thorough exploration will now be given it. At the meeting owners of 21,000 shares out of 26,000 were represented.

BLANCHE WALSH.

Tonight and tomorrow afternoon and evening Blanche Walsh will be at the Lyceum in "More Than Queen." The Portland Oregonian said of her in this production:

"If the Empress Josephine was the woman Blanche Walsh pictures her, it might easily have required more strength even than that of the great Napoleon to put her away. Miss Walsh was seen at the Marquam last night in her sumptuous scenic production of "More Than Queen," and much as has been made of the Sardou roles she has played here before, her portrayal of the willful, passionate empress showed her to be a greater actress than her most ardent admirers believed her. There is an earnestness, a fire about her acting that compels one to forget the player and admire the woman, to glory in her triumphs and lament when they fade. The pathetic story of the woman who is more than queen—a living, breathing and loving woman, who would willingly fling aside her crown for her husband, although told at times haltingly and at others verbosely by the playwright, is still one of burning interest, for it is Josephine one sees, and the Josephine of Blanche Walsh is greater than the Josephine of history."

Deaths Reported.

The following deaths were reported to the board of health yesterday: John Nixon, died at St. Mary's hospital, aged 51; interment in the Catholic cemetery. Caroline Bereron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bereron, 1015 West Third street, died of croup, aged 3 years; interment in Calvary cemetery. Michael Dardis, aged 14 years, died at 409 Twenty-fourth avenue west, of cerebral abscess; interment in Calvary cemetery. Louis, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eberz, 7 East Fourth street, died of inanition; interment in Calvary cemetery.

Delightful Concert at the High School.

One of the first pianists of the world, a woman in whom America has reason to feel a great pride, for she has compelled the admission from the old country critics that she is entitled to be numbered among the artists of the first rank, Mme. Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, appeared in a recital at the High School Assembly hall last evening. The audience was a fairly large one and exceedingly warm in its expression of delight and enthusiasm. The applause at times amounted to an ovation, and the artist was compelled to respond to an encore.

Duluth has heard many of the famous pianists of the world, and having now heard Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, will admit that her place is with the first. She is an artist of remarkable technique, beautiful tones and splendid intelligence and feeling. Her physique gives little idea of the tremendous power and strength she possesses. She has a delicacy of touch that is wonderful, the softer notes coming with a rippling smoothness that captivates; in the strong passages the notes ring out with wonderful force and with a dash that communicates itself to every hearer. This perfection of technique is combined with musical temperament and understanding, a power of conception that indicates to her the feeling of the masters whose workes she plays.

Her numbers were happily selected. The program opened with a Beethoven sonate, Op. 10, No. 2, and it was rendered with a dignity and purity that was admirable. The Goddard ballade and the Greig ballade were stately compositions, and the latter may be said to be one of the most difficult of the program, requiring tremendous force, and great musical feeling. A group of song numbers by Schumann, Mendelssohn and Schubert were exquisite and completely captivated all. The "Marche Militaire," by Schubert, was one of the very finest numbers and was brilliantly rendered. The "Caprice Espagnol," by Moszkowski, was another number of great brilliancy and beauty, and this and the "Marche Militaire" may be said to have been the favorites with the larger part of the audience. A delightful group of Chopin numbers were among the very pleasing ones also and were charmingly rendered.

This afternoon a reception was given at Craggencroft, under whose auspices the recital was given, at which a large number of Duluth people met Mrs. Zeisler.

MAKING TROUBLE

Superior Striving to Prevent Street Railway Improvements.

Big Kick Against Single Track on East End Line.

Company Not Worried Over Franchise Annulment Proceedings.

The city officials of West Superior are indicating their policy of hindering the street railway company from making improvements on the system in that city. It was reported in West Superior yesterday that Manager Warren of the company had announced that a single standard gauge track, with switches, would be put in from Belknap street to the East End instead of the double track that the citizens have been expecting, and the latter are very much exercised about the matter. The street car company officials are said to claim that faster service can be had with the single track and switches than is now had with the double-track narrow-gauge road, on which the cars must necessarily run slow on account of the unevenness of the track.

The city authorities of West Superior declare that the franchise under which the street car company is operating calls for two tracks to Old Superior, and that they will take action to prevent the tearing up of Belknap street for the improvements, the council not having yet been asked or given permission for tearing up that street. The authorities further state that if the company goes ahead with work, an injunction will be asked.

The situation is a peculiar one, in that the city of West Superior has been after the street car company for years to have its system in that city improved. No satisfaction could be had when the system was in the hands of the receiver, but when ti passed to theLowry interests announcement was made that the new management would spend many thousand dollars in building up in West Superior a first-class street system. There has been trouble for the company ever since.

An official of the company stated some time ago that it was hard to understand why the Superior line had never been a paying proposition, and that it was the policy of the new management to expend considerable money over there, and determine whether first-class service would get the patronage and place the road on a paying basis. When the announcement was made that steps would be taken toward the improvements just as soon as practicable, there was great rejoicing in the city across the bay, and it was supposed that all trouble was at an end. In order to lessen operating expenses the traction company decided that two offices and two shops were unnecessary, and those in West Superior were abolished, all the business of the company being transacted in the Duluth offices and the repair work done at the shops here.

This caused dissatisfaction, and soon afterward, during the winter, because improvements did not begin as soon as some thought they ought, the city attorney began proceedings to annul the company's franchise, taking the matter up with the attorney general of that state, who has given the company's attorneys until today to file their briefs or he will decide to begin action in behalf of the city. The interests of the company are looked after in West Superior by Ross, Dwyer & Hile, and yesterday Mr. Dwyer said that no briefs have yet been filed, but would be in good time and a hearing had before the attorney general. The company's lawyers do not appear to be much worried over the matter.

Mayor Parker and City Attorney McKay, of West Superior, have indicated the policy of the administration by stating that everything possible will be done to prevent the company going ahead with the improvements. In the meantime public opinion over there is very much divided. Many of the citizens feel that the city is making a great mistake taking an antagonistic attitude toward the company as soon as it attempts to make the long wished for improvements, while others, especially those living out at Old Superior, think that they are going to get the worst of it if a single broad gauge track is laid. The company has been for several days distributing gravel and ties along the route, and putting in new iron switches at the corner of Belknap and Tower, preparatory to beginning the new track to the East End.

THE DAKOTAS.

Cattle Thief Not Shot But Succeeded In Escaping.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Jamestown—The report that a cattle thief was shot by the sheriff of Wells and Kidder counties seems to have been erroneous. The sheriffs, acting on information furnished by Ed Brown, of Bowdon, were after two alleged rustlers, Sam Morrow and Arthur H. Nelson, but the men got away. Morrow was formerly a Bowdon butcher.

Michael Ento, a farmer residing south of Jamestown, was arrested, charged with having committed an assault on a neighbor named Case with a Carrie Nation weapon. As Case was not struck and it was only a neighborhood row, Judge Pierson dismissed the case.

Didgerwood—The 7-year-old daughter of Henry Svein, residing six miles south, was burned to death. Svein was burning a patch of Russian thistles when the child's clothes caught on fire.

Fargo—Mrs. Olmstead, of Wahpeton, was held to the United States grand jury after a hearing before United States Commissioner Montgomery on the charge of mailing obscene matter. She is thought to have written some rather torrid anonymous stuff to members of one of the Wahpeton lodges.

The class in geology and physiography at the North Dakota Agricultural college are getting some excellent field work under Professor Hall. The trips are made along the Red river and the former shores of Lake Agassiz. This line is from fifteen to thirty miles out and the formation is rich in resources.

Wahpeton—Senator McCumber has returned from Washington, where he has been engaged on the McKenzie case since the adjournment of congress, and will spend a few weeks here looking after his business interests.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Pierre—The first thirty cars of a shipment of 200 cars of Texas cattle, which are being brought here by "Scotty" Philip, arrived Wednesday night, and the others will string along through the week. He is bringing nearly 8000 head, which will probably be half the shipments which come in here this spring. The general run of spring shipments to the range is about 15,000 head, and they will not likely go much over that figure this year.

Aberdeen—Two tourists, who somehow got possession of a bicycle, adopted a novel manner of making a single machine do double duty. One would ride it for a mile and, leaving it by the side of the road, would start ahead at a lively pace on foot. His partner would come up in due time, mount the wheel, ride it a mile and then take his turn at walking. In this manner they made excellent time without any great fatigue.

Sioux Falls—A meeting of the business men of Sioux Falls has been called for to consider the matter of a monster Fourth of July celebration in this city. It is now seven years since Sioux Falls held such a celebration.

Bells Fcurche—J. B. Wethrell, an accomplished musician of Deadwood, has entered the Butte County bank, of this city. He has just recovered from a severe case of blood poisoning. Some months ago, he accidentally bruised his leg while in the employ of the Wasp No. 2 company, in Yellow Creek, as assayist, and the injury developed into blood poisoning, which caused the temporary loss of the use of his leg.

Lead—In a few days, work on a 3-story brick building, on the corner formerly occupied by the Springer hotel, will commence. The first floor will be occupied by a bank. The building will be erected by Kansas City men, who are asking for a franchise to build and operate an electric tramway in this county.

Spearfish—A class of twenty young ladies from the state normal school, of this city, were accompanied by Professor Cook to Central City to examine the cyanide plant and its workings. One young lady fell into a "slime" tank and received a thorough soaking. She was taken to a house and given a fresh supply of clothing, and went back to her investigation as though nothing out of the ordinary had happened

DULUTHIANS ABROAD.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Capt. Alexander McDougall of Duluth, inventor of the whaleback or "pig" ship, was at the Pfister yesterday for luncheon. The captain is a "sailor man" in every word and action, and while fairly well along on life's voyage, is from the physical and financial point, rater A1, as Lloyds would register one of his "pigs" when it first comes off the ways. To be sure, the captain does not hitch his trousers with his wrists after the fashion of Gilbert & Sullivan's Dick Dead-Eye, when he meets a stranger, but he always has a life-line out for a human craft in trouble. A man who saw him strolling about the corridors of the Pfister yesterday said of him: "He is one of the best men that ever lived—a good-hearted old seadog, who has a kind word for everybody and a silver dollar and more for worthy charity. Lately he has gotten away from the Superior country with his shipbuilding, but hasn't given up the idea of making a million or two more to add to the million he has made by his genius. He is now building 'pigs' at Collingwood, Ont., and St. Louis, Mo., and is not in any trust."

A. W. Raidt of the Hotel Spalding, Duluth, who was at the Pfister yesterday, says the prospects were never so bright for summer business of all kinds at the head of the lakes, as they are this spring. "The big Buffalo boats have been pulled off the Duluth route," he said, "and will run from Chicago to Buffalo this season, but we will have steamer service that will bring us all the natural travel. You can't keep people away from a good town, and Duluth is one of the best in the world. You can't find an empty store, house or flat in town, and there is lots of building, all of which tell its own story."

FAMOUS ITATA CASE

Claim Against the United States Amounting to $320,000 For Seizure of Ship Will Shortly Be Considered.

Washington, May 17.—The celebrated Itata case, involving a claim of $320,000 against the government of the United States, is about to be determined by the Chilean claims commission. The commission has cleared its entire docket of cases with the exception of this one, which, by reason of its importance, was left until the last for special consideration. An adjournment has been taken to permit the exchange of briefs, and the commission will reconvene on June 8 to consider this case, the decision of which will be rendered before the final dissolution of the body on June 14.

The sailing of the steamer Itata from California, with a cargo of arms and ammunition for Chile, and her subsequent surrender to the United States cruiser Charleston, constituted one of the most stirring events of the Chilean trouble of 1891. As set forth in the official papers submitted to the commission, the Itata was chartered by the provisional government of Chile, to transport small arms for the land forces under the provisional government, which is held to have been the lawful government of Chile at that time. The Itata proceeded to San Diego, Cal., and soon after took on a cargo consisting of 250 cases of rifles and 200 cases of ammunition. The shipment was made to a point near the island of San Clemente on May 8, 1891. Just before this the setamer was boarded by one Paulding, said to be an officer of the United States, who had come to take possession of the vessel. He was set ashore by the officers of the Itata on the ground that he was unable to exhibit any authority as an officer of the United States. The Itata then took her cargo of arms to Iquique. After she started American ships were sent in chase of her, and a race down through the Pacific began between pursued and pursuers. At the same time Admiral McCann, commander-in-chief of the United States naval forces in Chile, notified the Chilean government that the Itata, in procuring her cargo of arms within the waters of the United States, was guilty of a violation of our neutrality laws. The document adds:

"Upon these representations of Admiral McCann, and because of the demand of the government of the United States, accompanied as they were by the presence of a large naval force, the Itata was surrendered under duress to the republic of the United States."

The Itata was brought back by the Charleston, under command of Capt. Remey, and was given over to the United States marshal at San Diego. She was libelled as being in the possession of the congresional party of Chile, then attempting a revolution against the republic, and of carrying arms to this rebellious faction. The case failed, however, and the Itata returned to Chile.

Aside from the claim itself, the case presents many interesting legal questions as to the right of a neutral government to prevent the shipment of arms intended for belligerents.

STILL IN BALANCE

Early Morning Reports on Condition of Mrs. McKinley.

May Recover Sufficiently to Be Removed to Her Home.

Expressions of Sympathy Pour In From Every Side.

San Francisco, May 17.—The life of Mrs. McKinley is still in the balance. At an early hour today the attending physicians could give no more assuring information than to state that her condition was unchanged. There had been some improvement during the hours before midnight, and the anxious watchers were filled with hope, though fearful of a relapse. The patient's life was at low ebb during the early morning, and not until the critical time is past can the physicians offer any words of cheer. Should there be no sinking spell today, and the slight gain of strength noted last night be maintained, it is possible that there may be a gradual return to health. However, the doctors will not express anything stronger than a hope that Mrs. McKinley will recover sufficiently to admit of her removal to her home, though they do not declare this with confidence. At intervals Mrs. McKinley has been conscious and has recognized her husband, who has remained almost constantly at her side. He is bowed with sorrow, and his careworn expression is noticeable to all who see him during his brief walks in Lafayette park, opposite his temporary home. He has expressed himself as deeply touched by the sympathy extended to him. From every quarter of the civilized world cablegrams have poured in, each message breathing earnest prayers that the wife of the chief executive may be spared. The president has personally requested each member of his cabinet to keep all engagements and not to permit the illness of his wife to mar the pleasures of their trip. They have been loth to do this, however, as all share in the general sorrow. Secretary Hay, worn out with work and worry, remained in his apartments all day yesterday, but expects to join the other cabinet members in reviewing the school children of the city on Van Ness avenue today. This was one of the features of the week's program which was anticipated with pleasure by President McKinley, and at his request it will be carried out, though without his presence.

According to recent plans the launching of the battleship Ohio tomorrow will take place, but the president and members of the cabinet will not be there. There will be no banquet by the citizens Saturday night, and all receptions and trips that have been in contemplation have been abandoned. The only public appearance of the president in San Francisco, excepting in the neighborhood of the Scott residence, where he is stopping, will be when he takes a carriage to his waiting train on his way back to the East.

He said yesterday that only a sense of duty caused him to cancel his engagements. He had desired to visit the Northwest, and expected to greatly enjoy his trip through the Yellowstone park.

The gift prepared by the employes of the Union Iron works for the president, who was to have addressed them tomorrow, will be sent to Washington, and presented to him at some appropriate time. The Knights Templars will also send to Washington the beautiful silken flag with gold mounted staff which they intended to present to the president here.

There was no cabinet meeting this week as was planned, owing to the condition of Mrs. McKinley. A meeting will be held next Monday afternoon at the Scott residence unless the condition of Mrs. McKinley is such as to render a gathering impracticable. If it takes place it will be the first meeting of a national cabinet held on the Pacific coast.

The telegraph and telephone companies are overwhelmed with work in connection with the presence of the presidential party and the illness of Mrs. McKinley. Special wires have been run into the Scott residence and extra operators are kept busy at all hours transmitting official messages and answers to telegrams from all parts of the globe. People of all creeds and nationalities are represented in the expressions of sympathy sent to the president and though unable to reply to all of them he deeply appreciates the sentiments they convey.

At a special service held at the Bush street synagogue Rabbi Isidor Myers recited in Hebrew an impressive prayer for the recovery of Mrs. McKinley.

The Daily Chinese World (printed in Chinese and English) in its latest issue contains the following:

"It is our custom that each householder erect within the living room of his residence, however humble though the home may be, a shrine before which he may worship after his own faith. And we request that this night the elder of each and every Chinese family pray fervently and tenderly to the Creator to spare and restore to health the wife of this great man; the heart of his heart, for whom he has shown a devotion which must excite the admiration of every tender-hearted man, be he Christian or pagan. We may differ materially in our religious faiths, and because of thousands of years of training it is sometimes difficult for us to agree on certain ceremonial laws, still our love for those for whom we have taken to our hearts is identical, and the same tender love for wife and family is common to all mankind. Our sympathy for the president is as sincere and as intense as it could be were it expressed by his own people."

INNOVATION.

Presbyterian Assembly Inaugurates New Twentieth Century Custom.

Philadelphia, May 17.—Although it has been for years the custom of the Presbyterian general assembly to begin the real business sessions on Friday following the opening day, an innovation was introduced this year in the form of a twentieth century celebration in the Academy of Music. Today was devoted exclusively to a proper observance of the occasion, and prominent ministers and laymen from all sections of the country, participated in the exercises incident to the celebration.

The twentieth century meeting was in pursuance of a resolution adopted by the general assembly at St. Louis last year. The program was laid down in the resolution of the assembly. The first session began at 9:30 o'clock. Long before that hour the parquet circle and the galleries were crowded with an eager audience. The parquet was reserved for alternates and on the stage were seated the speakers and specially invited guests. A prayer and praise service occupied the greater portion of the morning session. A feature of this ceremony was a choir of 300 voices, selected from various Presbyterian churches in Philadelphia.

John H. Converse, LL.D., of this city, presided. The celebration began with the singing of the long meter doxology "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," which was followed by an invocation by Rev. Dr. Minton, the new moderator. Addresses were made by Rev. Willis G. Craig, D. D., LL.D., of Chicago, who presented a review of the nineteenth century, and Rev. Henry McCook, D. D., S. C., of this city, on "Progress of the Presbyterian Church in the Nineteenth Century."

During the course of his remarks Dr. Craig said the worldwide problem of universal evangelization can only be solved when nations were brought into contact with each other. "We must annihilate distance," he said; "we must subjugate nature and come face to face with the people whom we expect to convert."

Rev. Dr. McCook's address was principally a history of the Presbyterian church. In speaking of the doctrine of predestination, he referred touchingly to Mrs. McKinley. He stated that President McKinley, on meeting a member of the revision committee, remarked to the latter: "So you are going to revise your confession of faith?" to which the committeeman replied: "We are going to consider the question."

"Well," responded the president, "I hope you won't revise out of it the doctrine of predestination."

"Let us hope," said Dr. McCook, "that as our beloved president sits by the beside of the noble woman whom he wedded in a Buckeye Presbyterian church, this goodly doctrine may be a comfort to him, whatever the issue, and that he may say with resignation:

"Not my will, but Thine be done."

BRITISH LION ROARS

The Firing at the British Tug Ewo By German Soldiers Is Taking on a Graver Aspect.

London, May 17.—The Ewo incident, at Tien Tsin, May 4, when some German soldiers guarding a German bridge across the Pei Ho at the south end of the British concession there, fired on the British tug Ewo, wounding two of her crew, after the vessel had touched the bridge, which impeded the river traffic, is assuming a graver character. Owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the German commander's explanations, the matter has been referred to the British minister at Pekin, Sir Ernest Satow, with a view to diplomatic action being taken. According to a dispatch from Pekin to the London Times, published today, after two of the Chinese crew had been wounded (they have since died), the remainder were arrested, taken to a German prison and flogged. Gen. Lorne Campbell asked Gen. Von Lesel for an explanation for "the unwarrantable act of brutality." Von Lesel's reply, which has just been received, promised that the incident shall not be repeated, at least so far as the use of arms is concerned, is regarded as quite inadequate.

The Times in an editorial says: "Apart from the question of the flag which the tug flew, we have no hesitation in declaring that such punishments are out of all proportion to the alleged offense. We would have condemned them if they had been inflicted on coolies, sailing under the German flag, at Kiao Chau. The flogging proves that the German authorities deemed that something more than two lives was necessary to atone for the heinous offense of running against a German bridge. We will want to know who the authorities were who took the law into their own hands and executed it in this brutal fashion. The fact that the crew dealt with in this highhanded style were under the British flag introduces a serious factor. Von Lesel's apology is an aggravation of the original wrong done us. It is not the sort of satisfaction we are likely to accept. Tien Tsin is not the only place where Germans are disposed to forget that we are their allies and not their subordinates." The Times concludes with a condemnation of the various German expeditions.

VARICOCELE

MASTER SPECIALIST.

The Disease An enlargement of the veins of the scrotum, causing a knotted or swollen appearance of the scrotum most frequently.

Its Cause —Often indiscretion, but sometimes blows, falls, strains, excessive horseback or bicycle riding or excessive dissipation.

Its Effect A dull, heavy, dragging pain in center of back, extending down through loins, low spirits, weakness of body and brain, nervous debility, partial or complete loss of vigor and often failure of general health.

Its Cure —If you are a victim of Varicocele, come to our office and let me explain to you my process of curing it. You will then not wonder that I have cured to stay cured hundreds of cases of Varicocele during the past twelve months. Under my treatment the patient improves from the very beginning. All pain instantly ceases. Soreness and swelling quickly subside. The pools of stagnant blood are forced from the dilated veins, which rapidly assume their normal size, strength and soundness. All indications of the disease and weakness vanish completely and forever, and in their stead comes the pride, the power, and the pleasures of perfect health and restored manhood.

We also cure to stay cured Stricture, Nervo-Sexual Debility, Rupture, Kidney and Urinary Diseases,

AT WEST DULUTH

Many of the strikers at the West Duluth sawmills have taken exception to articles printed regarding the progress of the strike, and claim that many misstatements have been made regarding them and the situation in general. It should be remembered, however, that from the time the strike started up to the present they have refused to make any explanation or give any information from their side of the question. This morning one of the men that is prominently connected with the strike movement said that the position of the strikers is just as strong as it ever was, and not one of the men have gone back to work for $2 a day. He said further that for each man that went out the millmen have been compelled to hire from two to three men in his place, and that many of the men that came from Minneapolis left as soon as they learned there was a strike on. The men, he said, have made up their minds to stick it out to the end. The strikers say that the attempt of Mitchell & McClure to start up for a night run last evening was unsuccessful.

NORWEGIAN INDEPENDENCE.

Today, May 17, is the Norwegian Independence day that corresponds to the American Fourth of July, and the day is being generally observed by the Norwegian people all over both cities. There will be appropriate ceremonies this evening at Great Eastern hall, given by the ladies of the Norwegian Luthern church at West Duluth. The ladies have arranged for an interesting program of literary and musical selections. The lectures will be in Norwegian and English. The numbers are as follows: Music by the Norwegian Lutheran choir; piano solo; lecture by Rev. Mr. Hyortholm; song, Norwegian national hymn, by audience; mandolin and guitar duet; music by the choir; speech by Rev. Mr. Madsen; music by the choir; recitation by Miss Onsgaard; song, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," by the audience. Refreshments will be served after the program.

ALFRED CLEMENTS' FUNERAL.

The funeral of Alfred Clements, who was killed under an engine a few nights ago, took place in Proctoknott this afternoon. A special train bearing the mourners and friends left Proctorknott at 4 o'clock and ran down to the Union depot, where the remains were transferred to a South Shore train for Marquette, Mich., where the interment will take place. Mrs. Clements, a brother and brother-in-law accompanied the remains to Marquette, where they will be met by the mother and brother of the decedent, who reside in Manising, Mich. Mr. Clements' death is keenly felt among the railroad men at Proctorknott, where he was foreman in the shops. He is spoken of in the highest terms by every employe as an honest, upright and lovable man.

VERACITY QUESTIONED.

P. J. Mulligan and Joseph Nelson are claiming the distinction of catching the first lake trout ever pulled out of St. Louis river. They have been proudly exhibiting the fish to admiring friends, and there are some so envious that they hint a purchase was made of the fish before Messrs. Mulligan and Nelson came back from the trip. Mr. Mulligan says that the trout weighs seven pounds, as he could tell by looking at its scales. There appears to be some question as to this, for his friends say that a trout does not have scales.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

James Brady has recently returned from a trout fishing expedition on the Brule river and brought back a nice string that he says he caught.

The death of Mrs. Henry Bollot, of Traverse street, took place this morning after a sickness of peritonitis. The decedent was 30 years of age and leaves a husband and a little child about 3 years old. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Francis Lavelle, of Port Arthur, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Joseph Foucault, of West Duluth. They have not seen each other before for about eight years.

The Senate club is scheduled for a very interesting meeting this evening. There will be a debate on the question: "Resolved, that the West Duluth lumber pilers were justified in striking."

A. C. LeDuc is said to be quite sick.

Oscar Peterson, the well known lumberman and storekeeper at Fond du Lac, was a business visitor here today.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Jordian, of New Duluth, were visitors in West Duluth today.

Andrew Wilson and daughter were visitors here this morning from New Duluth.

Miss Agnes Gilbert and I. G. Wollan are to be united in marriage on Wednesday, June 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gilbert, 24 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. Mr. Wollan is employed in the county auditor's office.

Mrs. Boutin has returned to her home in Bayfield after an extended visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Clifton.

Miss Adelaide Thurston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Sawyer, is expected home from the East next month.

KING APPEARS.

Alfonso Takes Part In Garrison Maneuvers.

Madrid, May 17.—King Alfonso yesterday for the first time took a prominent part in the grand maneuvers of the Madrid garrison. He appeared on horseback, surrounded by Gen. Weyler, the minister of war; Gen. Molto, the captain general of Madrid, all the marshals resident at the capital and a numerous and brilliant suite. The young ruler is in excellent health. He remained in the saddle for five hours and took the keenest interest in the operations.

COUNTERFEITING.

Prominent Camden Attorney Charged With Complicity.

Philadelphia, May 17.—John L. Semple, a prominent attorney of Camden, N. J., was arrested today, charged with complicity in the counterfeiting of $20 United States treasury notes. Semple was counsel for Baldwin Bredell and Arthur Taylor, who were the engravers for the Jacobs and Kendig gang of counterfeiters, which was broken up two years ago by the secret service men, by the arrest in Lancaster of Jacobs and Kendig, and the subsequent arrest in this city of former District Attorney Ingham and his assistant Harvey K. Newitt.

GEODETIC SURVEY.

Two Vessels Leave For Alaskan Work.

Seattle, May 17.—The coast geodetic vessels Patterson, Capt. J. F. Pratt, commanding, and McArthur, Capt. Wesdahl commanding, have sailed for Alaska, to begin their annual summer work in those waters. The Patterson will pilot the McArthur to the scene of the latter's operations—the Sannak islands, an outlying group of the Aleutian archipelago. Cross sound and Icy strait are to be the waters in which the Patterson will work.

JILTED HER BETROTHED.

Invitations Had Been Sent Out For Wedding.

New York, May 17.—On the steamship Majestic, which sailed Wednesday, were Mr. and Mrs. W. McLean Freeman, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Freeman was Miss Marie Clement, the daughter of Dr. J. M. Clement, of Philadelphia. Miss Clement was engaged to marry Charles C. Gelder, and invitations were out for the wedding, which was announced to take place on June 4 next. On May 11 Miss Clement went to Atlantic City, where the next day she was to have met Mr. Gelder. On the day she reached Atlantic City she met Mr. Freeman, an old friend and admirer. He proposed marriage and she accepted. The pair went to Mr. Freeman's country home at Doylestown, Pa., and were married. Mrs. Freeman sent a note to her parents telling them of her marriage, but giving no reason for discarding Mr. Gelder. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman will be abroad until September.

Court Dismisses Proceedings In Baseball Case.

Philadelphia, May 17.—Injunction proceedings begun by the Philadelphia National league baseball club, to enjoin Second Baseman Lajoie and Pitchers Boyd, Hard and Frazer from playing baseball with the local American league club, and to enjoin the manager of that club from engaging the players, were dismissed by the judges of the common pleas court today. The judges say the contract lacks mutuality. The court says if the injunction was granted Lajoies services would be subject to the Philadelphia baseball club for all time, while if the club cared to do so it could dispense with him on ten days' notice.

PENSION GRANTED.

ECLIPSE OF SUN WILL BE OBSERVED

By American Astronomers Who Are Now In Sumatra, Provided Fair Weather Favors Them---Is a Total Eclipse.

Today a total eclipse of the sun, visible over a portion of the Eastern hemisphere, will be observed by astronomers gathered together from all parts of the world. As it happens that the path of the shadow cast by the moon upon the earth crosses the island of Sumatra, in the East Indies, American scientists have traveled half way round the globe to see the eclipse in its totality from this distant Dutch possession. A journey which occupies months seems disproportionate to a spectacle which lasts for five minutes and fifty-one seconds, and yet, as eclipses go, this eclipse is an unusually long one, and the most elaborate preparations have been made to record, for future study, the interesting features of the event. Expeditions have been sent out by various governments. One party has gone from the United States naval observatory in Washington, another from the Lick observatory in California, and a third from the Massachusetts institute of technology in Boston, which last, it so happens, is the only fully equipped expedition from any of the American colleges or schools of science.

The last total eclipse of the sun was on May 28, 1900, when representatives of the Massachusetts institute of technology, in common with astronomers from the Harvard observatory, Percival Lowell's station at Flagstaff, Arizona, and the Blue Hill meteorological station near Boston, chose Washington, Ga., as an observing station, taking advantage of the only opportunity in nearly fifty years to observe a total eclipse from near the Atlantic coast. The same party which went to Georgia from the institute is now, with its personnel, but little changed, in Sumatra. It is under the direction—as it was a year ago—of Alfred E. Burton, professor of topographical engineering, and includes G. L. Hosmer, instructor in civil engineering; Harrison W. Smith, assistant in physics, and G. H. Matthes, a graduate of the institute now in the employ of the United States geographical survey. Mr. Matthes was born in Holland, and has acted, therefore, as interpreter for the party in Sumatra.

The institute party sailed from Boston Feb. 16, proceeding directly by steamer to Genoa, where passage was taken on the Dutch steamer Koningen Regentes on March 14 for Singapore. The British government has sent out two expeditions, one to the island of Mauritius and one to Sumatra. The Sumtra party joined the Americans on the Koningen Regentes and consisted of F. W. Dyson, of the Royal observatory, at Greenwich, Professor H. F. Newall, of the university of Cambridge, and J. J. Atkinson. Mr. Dyson and Mr. Atkinson observed the eclipse last year at Ovar, Portugal, and Professor Newall at Algiers. On the same steamer also were four members of the expedition sent out by the Dutch government, Dr. A. A. Nijland and Professor Dr. W. H. Julius from the Utrecht observatory, J. H. Winderdink from Leyden and J. B. Hubrecht, the son of Professor Hubrecht, of Utrecht. The Dutch expedition is in charge of Maj. J. J. A. Muller, director of triangulation and survey of the island of Sumatra, who met his party at Padang and took it in a Dutch government steamer to Painan on the west coast. In a recent letter Professor Burton writes that his party has been received most cordially by the Hollanders, in some contrast with the attitude shown toward the English astronomers, who have had to contend against the present international prejudice against the British government.

Most of the Americans, including both the institute party and that from the naval observatory, to which astronomers from various parts of the country are attached, have chosen Solok as their viewpoint, a town on the railroad some distance from Padang. The place is favorably situated within the path of the sun's shadow, and seems to be as good a location as regards weather conditions as could be selected. The pursuit of eclipses not only takes astronomers to the uttermost parts of the earth, but it means that all the trouble, time and expense may be for nothing if cloudy conditions happen to prevail. Often, too, the path of the shadow is across oceans and deserts, where careful observations are practically impossible. Owing to the short duration of totality it is not to be wondered at, therefore, that in the last century, with its total of about seventy eclipses, there has been a total of no more, perhaps, than one solid day's watching possible to scientific astronomers, with the proper equipment of instruments.

An eclipse is really seen to be caused by the interposition of the moon between the sun and the earth, yet it took astronomers thousands of years to discover that the event could be definitely foretold by calculations showing the coincidence of the multiples of the revolutions of the sun and moon. But fixing the exact time is a simpler matter compared with choosing the best point of observation. The path of the shadow may be thousands of miles in length, and yet pass but few points where observations are practicable; though, on the other hand, a wide choice of countries may be presented to the astronomer. The eclipse of Aug. 9, 1896, for example, had its beginning in Norway, passed through Nova Zembla, Siberia and the Amur river region, across the sea of Japan and the Northern Japanese islands and was lost in the Pacific. An expedition from Amherst college, under Professor David P. Todd, chose the island of Yezo for its observation, the party sailing from San Francisco to Japan in the schooner yacht Coronet, which had been brought round Cape Horn for their use. The yacht covered 45,000 miles on the voyage, of which the Amherst party sailed 10,000, carrying an equipment of delicate and valuable instruments, and then were disappointed because just at the critical moment there was a bit of white cloud in the line of the eclipse. The meteorological record of Sumatra is good, and under the law of probabilities the astronomers have reason to hope for clear weather today, but there can be no assurance beyond hope based on this fair probability.

It is, of course, rather unusual for a technical school to send a party to observe an eclipse of the sun, whether at the antipodes or nearer home, but the expedition is, in fact, quite in line with the recent policy of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Moreover, the institute has a certain amount of money which is available only for special scientific research, and it is from this fund that the expenses of the long voyage have been defrayed, in the hope that something valuable might be done in the region of pure science.

The eclipse last year offered an opportunity for making observations comparatively near home, and incidental to the astronomical work some geodetic work was done. For example, in illustration of this latter point, it was known that the maps of the part of Georgia in the neighborhood of Washington were not controlled by triangulation and it was not expected that the latitude or longitude of the station could be accurately scaled from them. Professor Burton, therefore, made an independent examination, obtaining the latitude by means of an astronomical transit and the longitude by a time signal from Washington. This determination placed the location of the observing station some four miles north and nearly two miles west of the map location, and off the central line of the eclipse sufficiently to reduce the period of computed totality about two seconds.

While the present party is prepared to undertake similar corrective determinations in Sumatra, the chief purpose is independent astronomical work. This will consist of observations of the four contacts, namely, the first contact, when the edge of the moon touches the edge of the sun; the second contact, or the beginning of totality, when the sun is first completely hidden; the third contact, or the end of the totality, when the rim of the sun is about to emerge from the shadow; and the last contact, when the edge of the moon separates itself from the edge of the sun. With the first contact a growing darkness advances steadily toward the spectator, the birds, as one writer describes it, fly silently to their nests, and all nature seems to take on the hush of sudden night. A little golden rim of the sun is visible up to the moment of the second contact. When that disappears the corona, about which so much has been written by all who have described a total eclipse, seems to flash out from the black disk of the moon with a wonderful and almost unearthly beauty.

The corona, supposably, is a permanent phenomenon, but it is not revealed until the last rays of the sun are hidden. There are really two coronas, the inner corona, which seems to surround the moon like a direct halo, and the outer corona, which sends out faint streamers of light far into the darkness of the heavens. What the corona is or what its causes are nobody knows, but the strange coronal light has awakened the curiosity of the astronomers of many centuries. Within a comparatively few years it has been possible, however, to photograph this phenomenon, and Mr. Smith, the photographer of the Institute expedition, has produced novel methods for mounting the camera and making it follow the apparent motion of the sun, with greater ease and exactness than had before been possible, so that he is hopeful of particularly valuable and interesting results. It is possible also that he may undertake to photograph those mysterious waves of darkness and light which precede totality and are called "shadow bands." This is a task not known to have ever been undertaken, although some attempts have been made at Cambridge to study the principles involved as illustrated in artificial shadow bands produced by means of a distant flash light.

An eclipse is such an unusual and elusive phenomenon that it is studied by nearly every scientist who has a special physical problem on his hand, with a view to finding some tangible clew to a solution of his special difficulties. From such a purely experimental standpoint observations in magnetic variation were made in this country during the last eclipse by students of terrestrial magnetism stationed at intervals along the path of the shadow. The results of the observation at that time have been analyzed by L. A. Bauer, in charge of the magnetic work of the United States coast and geodetic survey, who has arrived at the conclusion that the apparent magnetic variation, as shown in the dip and declination of a magnetic needle hung from silk threads, was not without distinct scientific significance. While Mr. Bauer does not as yet present a working theory, he is compelled to believe that the oscillation observed during the eclipse was not accidentally connected with it, but was indeed brought about by some change which took place in the upper regions of the atmosphere, by the withdrawal therefrom of the sun's rays; and has made arrangements for careful observation all over the world during the eclipse next Friday. As the Institute party made magnetic observations during the eclipse, so it will undertake the same work this year in Sumatra, and at the same time similar observations will be made at its geodetic observatory in the Middlesex Fells near Boston.

Another interesting piece of work which this party will carry out at Sumatra, though not directly connected with the eclipse, will consist of measurements of the force of gravity by means of the pendulum apparatus which has been sent by the coast and goedetic survey. Pendulum observations of this kind, however, have been made at many points both in the United States and in Europe. In a recent expedition to Greenland and Labrador, for example, Professor Burton made a number of observations of this character, and he hopes by similar observations in Sumatra to introduce a connecting link in the calculations already made.

In preparing the present expedition the Institute has had the co-operation of the Harvard observatory, through its director, Professor E. C. Pickering. Photographic lenses and other instruments have been lent to Professor Burton for the work in Sumatra, and the plans of a new form of synchronized driving clock, the joint invention of Professor Pickering and W. F. Gerrish, of Harvard, have been placed at his disposal, so that he will be able to equip his instruments with this device, which is, briefly, an electric motor governed by a pendulum. The station was first used for the new 135-foot horizontal telescope now in use in Jamaica, and gives a continuous movement with a perfectly timed intermittent signal, so that the telescope or camera to which it is attached moves in perfect unison with its object.

With fair weather, the results which will be obtained may be looked for with very great interest. Even should the weather prove so unfavorable that the eclipse cannot be seen at all, the magnet and pendulum observations will, in any case, prove of value however great the personal disappointment of the members of the party would be if anything less than complete success, at the end of a journey of so much difficulty and cost, were attained.

IN JAPAM.

Consular Reports Show Baleful Effects of Scarcity of Money.

London, May 17.—The consular report of foreign trade of Japan for 1900 emphasizes the baleful effect on trade of the scarcity of money and the abnormal expenditure upon unproductive works, leading to an excess of imports over exports amounting to £8,500,000 and a consequent drain on specie, which foreign loans could only temporarily relieve.

The United States, says the report, continues to encroach on spheres of trade formerly considered under the exclusive control of the United Kingdom and other nations. American importation of raw cotton doubled in 1899 giving America the lead, while British India imports diminished one-half.

The report refers to the increase of imports of American kerosene and the great development of the Echigo fields with American machinery, largely under the auspices of the Standard Oil company.

The consul attributes the success of Americans to their willingness to extend their plants and rush orders to meet Japanese demands.

The report says that though there is considerable talk of trusts only a coal combine was materialized, the conditions for trust formation being unfavorable and promoters lacking credit and capital.

EARTHQUAKE

Alarms the Good People of Several Ohio Towns.

Wellston, Ohio, May 17.—A most pronounced earthquake was felt here at 3 a. m. The first disturbance was of sufficient force to awaken many persons. It was followed by two hard convulsive tremors of the earth that displaced furniture in many houses.

Ironton, Ohio, May 17.—An earthquake shock was felt here about 1 a. m. It passed directly west to east. A succession of violent undulations, almost merged, lasted thirty seconds. Many residents were aroused and not a few were nauseated by the rocking motion of the earth.

Huntington, W. Va., May 17.—A severe earthquake shock was felt here about 2 a. m.

Portsmouth, Ohio, May 17.—An earthquake shock was felt here at 1 a. m.

Zanesville, Ohio, May 17.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here about 1 a. m. today.

Strike Will Not Affect Railroad Shop at St. Paul.

St. Paul, May 17.—The order of the International Association of Machinists for a strike Monday if the demand for a nine-hour day and a 12½ per cent advance in wages is refused, does not affect the railroad shop. If the job shops comply with this agreement for a nine-hour day, they will not be affected.

A special meeting of the local machinists' union will be held at Assembly hall tonight to instruct the railroad employes that the order does not apply to them.

St. Paul, May 17.—Unless the contractors undertake to reduce the wage scale or declare a lockout, the carpenters will remain at work and building operations in St. Paul will not be hampered this summer. The question of membership in the Building Trades' council and of sympathetic strikes has been dropped by the contractors. The carpenters refuse to consent to a reduction and will consider one a lockout.

QUEER USES OF INDIGO.

Naturally, the next thing to consider should be indigo, because speaking of "water" and "clean" makes you think of washing and Monday morning and the blue-bag, says a writer in Ainslee's. Also, it makes you think of the Boers by indirection, for those defenders of their institutions make one wet rag in the morning do duty for the faces and hands of pap and mother and the eleven children; and then, too, the British fired shells of lyddite at them, and the fumes of the explosion turned them a gaudy yellow in complexion. Now, lyddite is indigo on which nitric acid has been poured.

It is not only a thing to be melted and loaded into shells and set off with a primer of guncotton, but it is a brilliant yellow dye. When the explosive is made in England it is called lyddite; when it is made in France it is called mellnite, but it will answer to either name if it is touched off in the right way.

This may seem a queer use of indigo, but it is still queerer that all the bright colors that we call the aniline dyes, and which we know are derived from the coal tar products, are so named from indigo's other name, "anil," made in the laboratory. So many and so wonderful are the uses to which chemists have put the common, black, ill-smelling tar, that by-product which the early manufacturers of illuminating gas tried so piteously to get carted away that one hardly dares to speak of them as queer. They are too great. They are amazing. They are even awe-inspiring, for to see whither experimentation with the carbon compounds has brought us is to realize that there we are very near to the spot where the profoundest secrets of the living, growing world lie hid. Some of the triumphs of the chemist in his domain come so near to mortal man's having a hand in creation itself that it almost scares. When a human being can make from tar an indigo so good and so cheap that within the last four years it has arisen to be the successful rival of the indigo that the Good Lord causes to grow in plants, we may well pause and look back upon the long and tortuous way we have come.

STRONG ALLIES OF THE STEEL TRUST

Two Railroad Commissioners Give Ore Roads an Easy Victory---Contend They Are Not Common Carriers of Ore.

Minneapolis, May 17.—The Journal says: If the railroad and warehouse commission is possessed with the idea of helping the giant steel trust in its war with the independent ore shippers of Northern Minnesota, it would probably conduct the ore rate case about the way it is now doing.

This is a hard thing to say of men elected to a public trust by a vote of the people, but the shadow of coming events gives good cause for the statement. This is said with the understanding that the commission is about to modify the order filed May 7. It proposes to "compromise" with the railroad attorneys, permitting them to have a rehearing in the ore rate case without acknowledging the legal right of the commission to regulate the rates.

The ore-carrying roads of Northern Minnesota, are owned and controlled by the United States Steel company, which also owns thegreat majority of the producing iron mines of Northern Minnesota. The mines owned by independent companies cannot operate at a profit on account of the excessive rates charged by the roads for hauling their ore to Duluth.

The former commission, which went out of office Jan. 7, filed an order in December, directing the Duluth & Iron Range and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern to reduce their rates 20 cents per gross ton. While the case was pending, and before the order was filed, the roads withdrew their schedules of rates, then on file with the commission, and set up the plea that the commission had no authority in the matter. It was too late for the old commission to take up the case, and it was left for the three men elected last fall to handle.

For five months the two railroads have been in constant violation of law, still refusing to file their schedules. The shipping season has begun, and they have begun their carrying trade, paying no attention to the commission's order.

Instead of starting a mandamus proceeding to compel the roads to file copies of their rates, the commission made an order on May 7, declaring in substance as follows:

"If the roads, on or before June 20, file with the commission their rates, and also file a stipulation acknowledging the authority of the commission to regulate these rates, the commission will suspend the order and grant a rehearing."

No one had any idea that the railroads would comply with these conditions. Three days later counsel for both the roads, accompanied by E. L. Windom, claim agent for the Duluth & Iron Range, and by M. D. Grover, representing the Eastern Minnesota, waited on the commission. They spent two hours in secret consultation with the commission, and at its close not a word was given out as to what took place, except that one of the railroad attorneys said they did not propose "to sign away all their legal rights."

Next day the commission retained Senator Moses E. Clapp as special counsel in the case, but they have as yet held no consultation.

Two members of the commission, however, have decided to back down from the order of May 7, and withdraw the requirements that the roads recognize the commission's authority. They will agree to suspend the order of last December and grant the railroads a hearing, and the railroads will not be required to make any material concessions. It will be a "compromise" in order to avoid endless litigation. It is freely predicted, however, that when the commission has finished, there will be no need of a legal controversy. The commission will rescind the order made by their predecessors, and permit the roads to keep the old rates going, as they are now doing in violation of law.

Certainly the course of the commission justifies such a prediction. If they had any idea of reaffirming the old order, why did they not promptly make a test of the matter by mandamus proceedings, compelling the lines to file their rates with the commission? Having made the order of May 7, why do they not stick to it? They make the plea that a compromise will save time, it will if the compromise suits the railroad companies. If it does not, there will be litigation, and it will take just as long as the more direct and dignified proceeding.

The case is not a quarrel between the steel trust and independent mine owners. The independent companies have never made any complaint. They have not dared openly to antagonize the trust. It is a question of whether competition shall continue, or whether the steel trust shall be permitted to absorb all the iron mines of Northern Minnesota.

The ore roads never made any question of the commission's authority until the trouble started. They had their rates on file with the commission, but when the inquiry began, they discovered that the rates had been filed "through inadvertence," and withdrew them. They denied the commission's authority on the following grounds:

That traffic in iron ore is, from its nature and from the way the business is conducted, interstate.

That there will be no traffic in iron ore from the present time until the opening of navigation in the spring of 1901.

No iron ore has been transported under such tariff, but all ore traffic has been handled under special ore contracts, and such tariff is not capable of being applied to the business, because from its nature it must be handled under special contracts in consideration of the special services which cannot be enjoyed or used by shippers in common.

NOT A COMMON CARRIER.

These were the grounds stated by the Duluth & Iron Range road, which practically announces that it is not a common carrier in the ore business. Yet this road has received over $600,000 acres of land from the state in grants, and is chartered as a common carrier. Flour is carried from Minneapolis mills by special contracts, and is billed through to the sea coast, and even to foreign countries, but flour tariffs are always on file, and the authority of the commission over such rates has never been disputed.

For the year ending June 30, 1900, the Duluth & Iron Range had a surplus, after paying taxes and interest, of $1,540,095.77. It could have carried ore at the rates fixed by the commission last December and still had a surplus of over $600,000. Yet the plea is made that these rates were not reasonable.

T. J. Knox, of Jackson, a member of the commission, and now a member of the commission appointed by the supreme court to revise the statutes, was seen by the Journal in reference to the matter. He said:

"The case started in a conversation I had in Duluth one evening with Lon Merritt. We met by chance, and had never known each other, but he told me some things that opened my eyes. There was no complaint filed by the independent shippers. The commission initiated it.

"The roads tried in every way to postpone decision of the case until we were out of office, hoping, I suppose, for more favorable treatment at the hands of our successors. We filed the order, however, late in December. We would have made the rates lower yet, but for the fact that we wanted to leave no loop holes. We wanted to leave no question as to the reasonableness of the rates.

"The iron range roads own a majority of the mines. All that the independent mine owners pay in excess of a just tariff is simply a tribute paid to the owners of the majority of the mines. It deprives the independent companies of the margin of profit which should be theirs. If the state does not protect them, they will have no redress."

There has been serious division in the commission from the first. To all outward appearances, however, everything has been peaceful. The projected action of the commission will not be with the consent of C. F. Staples. That gentleman has hitherto kept quiet, and still refuses to discuss the ore rate question. In advance of the commission's action, he can not be expected to dissent, but when it is taken Staples will be an emphatic minority. When the railroad attorneys had their secret conference with the commission, Staples took little part. He left before it was finished, and would have nothing to say about it. The commission has been "roasted" on all sides for its action regarding appointments, and Staples has defended it, but if the commission keeps up in its present course, he will have to repudiate its acts openly, in order to retain public confidence.

The other two members of the commission are reported to be indifferent to criticism. They do not care for a re-election, and will do as they please for four years, during which time they will control the policy of this important body. They are being criticized, not only by Democrats, but by nearly the whole Republican party, but they are apparently indifferent to party welfare.

In the matter of appointments, the criticism has been from political grounds only. The list given out last Saturday had been agreed on for weeks, but was held back because final action had not been taken.

Miller has apparently lost interest in the work of the commission. He is seldom found at the office, and on account of his absence and the frequent trips taken by Judge Mills the sessions of the commission have been infrequent.

In the election of a secretary to the commission, Judge Mills has apparently succeeded in creating a deadlock. The other two members of the commission have promised their votes to W. E. Verity, but it is stated on good authority that the election of a secretary has never been formally considered, and that it never will be. Mills has declared that as long as he is on the commission, Verity shall not have a position, and he gives as his reason that Verity opposed him for the nomination last summer. A. K. Telsberg, present secretary of the commission, will remain where he is, as his successor will not be chosen. If it ever came to a vote Staples and Miller would vote for Verity, but a vote will not be taken.

Verity said today: "Two members of the commission have pledged themselves to vote for me, and I am relying on their promises. That is all there is to be said."

The Journal interviewed Judge Mills this afternoon on the ore rate case. When asked in what respect the commission intended to modify the order of May 7, he said:

"We will withdraw the clause requiring them to file their rates as a condition of obtaining a hearing. There has been no intention to require the companies to part with any of their legal rights. I drew that order, and I am frank to say I drew it under a misapprehension. I had supposed that the rates were not on file at the time the hearings were had last year. I find that they were, and that there is, therefore, no object in compelling them to file the rates now, as far as the legal question is concerned.

"The matter will have to be litigated, and it might as well be settled at once."

"Could not this legal question have been settled by mandamus proceedings?" was asked.

"Yes, I precume it could."

"The Duluth & Iron Range is a land grant road. Could not proceedings be instituted to forfeit the charter for refusing to file the tariff?"

"That is one of the questions that will be settled by the commission when the proper time comes."

Commissioner Miller is at his home today.

BELT GLOBE.

Hill-Morgan Transportation Scheme Which Will Encircle the World.

St. Paul, May 17.—The Pioneer Press says: Plans for a transportation system to completely encircle the globe are credited to President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern, and J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York. It is stated that but a link to the chain is lacking and that before Mr. Morgan's return from Europe, within a week or two, it will be supplied.

The great factors in the new system are the Great Northern, the Great Northern Steamship company, Mr. Hill's trans-Pacific line, soon to be in operation, and the Leyland lines, recently purchased by Mr. Morgan. The acquisition of these lines and the one missing link, a line between Alexandria, Egypt and Hong Kong, China, is said to have been Mr. Morgan's special purpose in visiting Europe.

The system will be of vast benefi: to Minnesota and the entire territory traversed by the Great Northern, since it will throw the most of Asiatic east-bound shipments to the United States and Europe through the Duluth and St. Paul gateways. It was said by a person conversant with the plans that the new system will be operative as soon as Mr. Hill's Pacific steamships are commissioned.

"This mind you, does not mean the organization of a single company to manage an all-round-the-globe line," said the person mentioned. "As I understand it, the relations between Mr. Hill and Mr. Morgan will result in a mutual understanding, traffic agreements and all other paraphernalia of common interests, giving the appearance of the system complete in common, and effecting the same thing as if all were under a single ownership."

Starting from Buffalo, the great Northern Steamship company, the Great Northern Railway and Mr. Hill's Trans-Pacific steamers will give almost an air line to Yokohama, Shanghai and Hong Kong. A link to be supplied will complete the line to Alexandria, via Singapore and Bombay, and from Alexandria, Morgan lines will connect with Mediterranean ports. Liverpool and London and the Leyland lines will give direct connection with London and Philadelphia and Liverpool and New York, and roads controlled by the Morgan-Hill interests complete the last division with connections into Buffalo.

SUBJECT KILLED.

Rock Smashes the Head of Hyptnoic Actor.

Woonsocket, R. I., May 17.—During an exhibition of hypnotism given by Professor Frank Farnsworth and wife, of Fitchburg, at the Opera house last night, one of the subjects, Thomas Bolton, also of Fitchburg, was killed. Mr. Bolton was resting between two chairs with a 60-pound stone on his body. Local blacksmith, Cliff M. Brock, attempted to break the stone with a sledge hammer. The chair on which Bolton's head rested, gave way and the subject fell to the floor, the stone crushing his head. He died shortly after.

Professor Farnsworth was placed under arrest as was also Trask, who had left the hall in a one horse hack standing-house. Bolton had been traveling with Professor Farnsworth as one of his subjects.

CABLE FLASHES.

At Thursday's meeting of the committee on relations of the Cuban constitutional convention at Havana a majority agreed to submit to the convention next Saturday a report advising an acceptance of the Platt amendment. The minority faction asked for further time to draw up a minority report and weregranted until Friday when another meeting of the committee will be held.

It is understood that the commission which he government appointed early in the year under the chairmanship of Clinton Darkins to consider means of government reform, has reported in favor of a system that is almost revolutionary.

MINTON MODERATOR.

Chosen to Preside Over Presbyterian Assembly.

Philadelphia, May 17.—At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Presbyterian general assembly, Rev. Henry Collin Minton, D.D., of California, was elected moderator, and by emphatic vote the assembly decided to accept the "Peoria plan" of choosing standing committees, though an effort was made to obviate the system.

Rev. Dr. Minton's only opponent was Rev. George T. Purves, D.D., LL.D., of New York, and of the 613 votes cast Dr. Minton received 337 and Dr. Purves 276.

ELOPER'S MOTHER

Quits Fight and Says Love May Have Its Way.

Will Have Nothing More to Do With Her Daughter.

Woes of George G. Hunt and Charlotte King of Bristol.

Chicago, May 17.—On Thrsday of last week George G. Hunt and Miss Charlotte King, of Bristol, Ill., eloped and were married in Geneva. On Saturday, Hunt was arrested on a charge of kidnaping. The case was dismissed and the bride taken away by her mother, Mrs. Walker, to Oakhurst Hall. On Monday Hunt went to Oakhurst Hall and carried away his bride, while his brother-in-law was assaulted. Next day Mr. and Mrs. Walker announced they gave up the fight, but Hunt and his bride are watchful and suspicious.

Relaizing that the sympathy of the neighborhood had turned against her, Mrs. H. W. Walker tore up several photographs of her daubhter, and announced that George Hunt, the girl's husband, had won his fight. The mother's attitude was shown further when, early in the morning, she packed the girl's belongings in a trunk and a bundle and set them on the outer edge of the porch of their family residence.

Meanwhile, at the residence of the Hunts, the two elopers and a number of friends heard the news with some forebodings and stood ready to repel any invasion.

While they were hapy to hear that the girl's mother had decided to abandon hostilities, they were fearful that the woman's announcement was intended to throw them off their guard.

The girl's clothing and trinkets are likely to remain on the veranda of the Walker house, for young Hunt, mindful of the threats of the girl's mother, says he has no desire to visit Oakhurst Hall at present. His brother-in-law, Harry Eccles, who was so roughly treated on Monday night by Mr. and Mrs. Walker and their negro servant, also is satisfied to forget the past and seek no further peril. All day Tuesday Eccles applied salve to his head, which was covered with welts made by the whip wielded by Mrs. Walker. A black eye added to the man's woebegone appearance.

Strangers are admitted to the house of the Hunts only after a careful inspection and the announcement of their business. Early in the morning callers were escorted through chicken coops, sheds and barns to the rear door of the house. A stranger in the front yard was looked upon as hostile, as the elopers still were fearful of a visit in force from Oakhurst Hall.

Young Hunt threatens to appeal to the law for protection against attacks by his wife's parents should he be molested further. His wife is 19 years old, he insists, and is capable of judging for herself. Mrs. Hunt says she wanted to marry "George" and ran away of her own free will to become his wife. She hints at reasons hitherto not referred to as the cause of her mother's attitude. She is entitled to an income of her own from property left her by her father, Charles W. King, and says the longer her parents keep her at home the longer would a settlement be delayed and they would have the use of her money.

No matter with whom the sympathies of the neighborhood lay in the first place, young Hunt has it now because of his assumption of his rights to his wife's presence in his house. This youth, who first eloped with his sweetheart and after she was his wife was compelled to run away with her again, is reticent as to his troubles. Harry Eccles, the husband of his sister, talked as best he could through his bruises.

"George and I," he said, "had returned from Chicago, where we spent two days looking for his bride. On Monday we drove to Oakhurst from Aurora, arriving there about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, I hitched the horse in the back lot and we entered the yard. Mrs. Hunt, who was out in the yard with her mother and Mr. Walker, walked toward George, and I cried to him: 'Take your wife and get out of here! I'll escape the best way I can.'

"George grabbed his wife by the hand and they started to run, with Mr. Walker crying, 'Come back, Charlotte! Come back to your mother!' As they ran on Mrs. Walker attacked me and struck me several times across the face with the whip, while a colored man hit me with some hard article that blinded me. I finally untied my horse and escaped."

Hunt and his wife ran down the road toward Lester Kennedy's, the husband holdign his wife's hand. As the girl gasped for breath and hung back, Hunt picked her up in his arms and ran on.

"When they came up to the house," said Mr. Kennedy, "Mrs. Hunt was crying. She begged me to hitch up a horse and take them away."

On the arrival of the trio at Hunt's house in Bristol the doors were barricaded, and neighbors took turns in watching the house during the night.

The story of the departure of Mrs. Hunt, as related by Mr. and Mrs. Walker, does not differ materially from that told by Eccles. They are at a loss to explain their daughter's action, they say.

"What I blame George Hunt for," said the mother, "is because he did not ask me for Charlotte, nor did they send me any word from Geneva announcing their marriage. The first I knew they were married was when Mr. Hunt, George's father, thrust a marriage license into my face at Bristol last Saturday morning. We will have nothing more to do with her, and if she desires to remain with her husband she may do so."

Hunt said he refrained from asking Mrs. Walker's consent to the marriage on the advice of her daughter.

THE COLLEGE WOMEN.

Pronounced Failures as Wives By Professor Scott.

Chicago, May 17.—"God help the man who marries the college-bred woman."

This exclamation, which served as a peroration to a little heart-to-heart talk which Professor J. Scott Clark had with his class at Northwestern university yesterday, has stirred to the boiling point the whole feminine element in the college. The male members of the institution are also discussing the subject with much wrath and will seek explanation from the faculty as to the advisability of such teachings.

Professor Clark occupies the chair of English at the Methodist institution in Evanston. Following up a recitation he began a discussion of women of the present day to the members of his class. In comparison, he said, the modern woman is scarcely the equal of her mother or grandmother. The college-bred woman, he then remarked generally proves a failure as the manager of a household and is unable to completely fill the domestic requirements necessary to make the home an abode of comfort.

It was then that he is reported to have given this sage advice to the young men of his class: "You young men who are looking for wives among the college-bred women of today are on the wrong track. If you ever do get one, God help you."

The deep silence with which these remarks were received led Professor Clark to say: "People call me a reprobate because I was reared in the Methodist faith by my parents, but did not myself become a member of the Methodist church."

Consternation arose in the class, for its members had been led to believe that their instructor was a pillar of the faith. There was more to come, however, for the educator is said to have concluded his few remarks anent church matters by saying:

"A good many rules of the Methodist church are too narrow for a broad-minded man to follow."

It is expected that the faculty will be promptly notified of the statements in the class, although no concerted action in the matter has been outlined.

CRAZED BY A VETO.

Woman Becomes Insane at the Illinois Capital.

Chicago, May 17.—"I really believe that I shall go insane if Governor Yates does not sign the bill giving my husband the $60,000 due for work on the Pontiac reformatory eight years ago."

Such was the statement made by Mrs. Emma Partello, wife of William Zane Partello, at her residence at 2908 North Hermitage avenue, last Sunday, as she was preparing to leave for Springfield. Her words proved to be a prophecy, as she lost her reason in the state capitol on Monday, when the news was brought to her that Governor Yates had vetoed the bill providing for the reimbursing of the contractor.

"Mrs. Partello has been under a fearful mental strain for weeks," said Mrs. Louisa Lindquist, who occupies the lower half of the Partello house. "Her prophecy about going insane was spoken laughingly, but perhaps she felt even then that her reason was tottering."

Mrs. Partello's mother, Mrs. Miller, lives at Normal, Ill., and it is said that the insane woman has been taken there.

NOT THE WHOLE THING.

Board of Control Cannot Run the University.

St. Paul, May 17.—Attorney General Douglas yesterday replied to the questions submitted to him several days ago by John S. Pillsbury, president of the board of regents of the state university, touching upon the power of the state board of control over the management of the university.

The attorney general holds that the bill creating the board of control does not legally include the state educational institutions. He fails to see how the board of regents and the board of control can co-operate, that one of the other must have supreme power. In answer to the question as to whether the university is legally included in the board of control act, the attorney general says he is of the opinion that the act, in regard to state educational institutions, is unconstitutional as the subject is not expressed in the title. The whole act, the attorney general says, is invalidated by the defective title.

The attorney general says he does not see how the university can co-operate with the board of control without "surrendering the rights" of the board of regents.

CLERGY'S APPROVAL.

Chicago Rector Is a Champion of Prize Fights.

Chicago, May 17.—Prize fighting has found a champion in a Chicago minister, the rector of one of the most prominent churches in the city. Rev. James S. Stone thinks pugilism not only not brutal and degrading, but moral and uplifting, when rightly conducted, and he does not bar the knock-out blow either. Besides favoring fistic encounters he indorses all other kinds of athletic sports, including football and rowing.

Dr. Stone is rector of St. James' church, Cass and Huron treets. Besides being the oldest Episcopal house or worship in the city, it is one of the wealthiest of churches numbering among its communicants some of the best-known persons residing on the Lake Shore drive.

"The higher the type of physical development the better for humanity," said Dr. Stone. "I believe in contests of skill and strength. The best illustration of the benefits derived from athletic encounters is found in the history of the Greeks and Romans. They acquired the greatest physical perfection mainly because of their outdoor games and their tests of skill and endurance in field and arena. In Germany and England today much time is given over to athletics and the people are benefited thereby. In their towns and villages they have always indulged in public trials of physical strength. Sometimes it is boxing or prize fighting or boating or field games.

"Stripped of gambling and drinking, prize fighting, horse racing and many other forms of games condemned by the uninformed are healthful and good. There is too little athletic diversion among the people of today. I should be sorry to see the world made up of people who took no more strenuous kind of exercise than walking up and down the Lake Shore drive, Fifth avenue, or Picadilly."

THEATERS COMBINE.

Twenty In Northwest In a New Circuit.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 17.—David Henderson, with a 10-year lease of the Columbia theater, Boston, in his pocket, arrived in this city yesterday, and said he had completed the organization of a combination which, in his opinion, will at once strike the blow that will initiate a fierce war against the "theatrical syndicate."

New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Pittsburg, he said, from the new circuit. It will also include twenty theaters in the Northwest.

STOMACH SUPERFLUOUS.

Its Loss Does Not Prevent a Man's Eating.

Chicago, May 17.—Carl Krueger, the third patient in surgical history to survive an operation for the removal of the stomach, ate his dinner with his family at 570 Winnemac avenue yesterday for the first time since he left home to have his stomach cut out at the Illinois Medical college a month ago.

After a generous meal of chicken soup, mallied milk, mashed potatoes and coffee, Krueger said that he felt perfectly well, barring a touch of rheumatism in the left leg. In a month he hopes to recover his strength sufficiently to go back to work at his trade as a florist.

For years Krueger suffered from cancer of the stomach. The malignant growth had spread to such an extent that he was but a short time ahead of death. Dr. B. D. Eads, professor of surgery at the Illinois college, told the sufferer that he only chance lay in having his stomach removed, and that this chance was none too great, but was worth the taking. According to the surgeons there is no reason why Krueger should not live to an old age, if he sticks to "spoon-victuals."

WHY? IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST

Because it is healthy, clean, pure and brilliant.

HEALTHY— It has no odor. Prof. Thompson states that one cubic foot of gas consumes as much oxygen as four adults.

CLEAN— It causes no discolorations of furnishings and decorations in homes.

SAFE— As electric bell work, no danger of suffocation.

CHEAP— By using a little care in turning off lights when not in use it is cheaper than any other illuminant.

Blood Poison

THE MOST DESTRUCTIVE OF ALL HUMAN DISEASES.

The poison ejected from the fangs of the rattlesnake is not more surely fatal than the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, which pollutes and vitiates the blood, destroys the tissues and bones and eats like a canker sore into the flesh.

This horrible disease appears first in the form of a little sore or blister; soon the glands begin to swell, pimples break out on the body, the mouth and throat become sore, making it painful to eat or swallow; dreadful ulcers appear on the tongue, copper colored splotches and other characteristic signs of Blood Poison come as the disease progresses, and the destructive virus takes deeper hold upon the system. The medical men are as sorely perplexed over the character of this blood poison as ever; they tell you to take mercury and potash alternately for three years, but the stomach of no human being can stand this treatment long; besides, they do not cure the disease permanently, as thousands who have tried it know.

WELLINGTON, KAS., Sept., 1900.

I contracted Blood Poison two years ago this fall, and was persuaded to try a medicine widely advertised by a remedy company in Chicago. I was required to pay a large amount in advance, and can truthfully say that I was worse when the treatment was left off than when I began. Reddish pimples would break out and fill with yellowish matter; copper-colored splotches of all sizes would appear on my body; my throat was so sore I could scarcely swallow, and my mouth and tongue were seldom free from ulcers; tonsils were swollen, and my hair was coming out rapidly. This was my condition when I began your S. S. S. I have used twenty-two bottles, and am feeling splendid. Every sore on my body has healed, and my appetite good. JAKE MARTIN.

S. S. S. is the only guaranteed purely vegetable blood purifier, and the only antidote for this particular virus; it purifies the blood and builds up the constitution. The appetite improves almost from the first dose, the sores soon show signs of healing, and the unsightly, dirty splotches and eruptions grow paler and paler, and finally disappear.

S. S. S. is not a new medicine; for nearly 50 years it has been known and used for this dreadful disease. It has brought new life and hope to thousands all over the land; it will cure you as it has others. Send for our free book on home treatment and write our physicians about your case. We will help you if you will let us; we make no charge for advice, and all correspondence is conducted in strict confidence.

PISTOL IN HIS COAT

Demanded That a Minister Meet Him and Apologize.

He Had Been Ordered Out of a Dining Room.

Sensation at the St. Charles Hotel In New Orleans.

New Orleans, May 17.—Had it not been for the prompt action of Detective Williams of the St. Charles hotel, Rev. Mr. Gregory, of Baltimore, secretary of the Southern Baptists' convention, would have been given his choice of apologizing to R. H. Morrison, who has been in attendance upon the convention, for an alleged insult, or serving as a target for Morrison's pistol. Morrison, who is about 55 years of age, and who hails from Shelby, N. C., was laying for Dr. Gregory in the St. Charles lobby with his revolver in the coat-tail pocket of his black Prince Albert, when the detective, who had been apprised of his thirst for gore, nabbed him from behind and relieved him of his gun. The detective was on the lookout for Morrison because of the following letter, which he had written to Dr. Gregory and sent to him in his room:

"New Orleans—Dr. Gregory, of Baltimore: You insulted me without any cause that I know of. And not only that, but kept me away from the table of your good brothers and friends of mine today. You coward; your people and my people have all been good people, and I hold you for that insult and will meet you in five minutes if you don't apologize.

"R. H. MORRISON."

"In ten minutes. Be ready. R. H. M."

Instead of complying with Mr. Morrison's request and allowing a meeting Dr. Gregory sent the letter down to the clerks with the following indorsement:

"Messrs. A. Blakely & Co.: Read this note. I do not want anything to do with this man. Either keep this note or hand it to the police. GREGORY."

The hotel detective, to whom the letter was turned over, had no trouble in locating the writer of the threatening missive, and after relieving him of his pistol, ordered him away from the hotel. Morrison said he had been grossly insulted by Dr. Gregory, having been ordered out of the dining room by him. He was in New Orleans attending the convention. Dr. Gregory, when seen, said that if Morrison was a delegate to the convention he was not on the roll. Morrison had behaved so boisterously in the dining room while he was eating dinner with some ladies, and he had been instrumental in having the pugnacious one removed. When he got the threatening letter from Morrison he had simply turned it over to the hotel management, and had not heard from the matter again. That Morrison had been searched and relieved of a gun was news to him. No further developments are expected.

WAS IN LOVE.

Now It Is Feared That a Wealthy Gothamite Committed Suicide.

Chicago, May 17.—The comings and goings of May Ross, a pretty West Side girl, are being closely watched this week by George Atwood, of New York, in the hope that he will be able to discover a clew to the whereabouts of his father, F. B. Atwood, a wealthy man, whose infatuation for the young woman is believed to explain actions so erratic that the son believes they suggest dementia. The police have been asked to watch for the senior Atwood, who has succeeded in keeping out of sight of his son for three days, despite the latter's studious inquiry. Fears for the life of his father are further incentives for activity on the part of George Atwood.

He has been told that his father has taken out a $30,000 life insurance policy in favor of Miss May Ross, and this suggest that the elder man, the rejection of whose suit does not seem to have mitigated his affection, has committed suicide as a method of forcing upon her wealth from which she turned away even when it was pressed upon her on condition only that she become Mrs. Atwood.

"I have traced my father to the Wellington hotel," said the son, "but for several days he has not been there to inquire for his mail. During one of his latest visits he told one of the clerks that he had married Miss May Ross, a young woman living on West Jackson boulevard. I have talked with Miss Ross, however, and she denies that she was married to my father although she is said to have offered her $75,000 if she would say 'yes.'

"He acted so strangely that she became alarmed, and for several days was ill of a nervous complaint. Her love, she told my father, was pledged to another and the marriage would soon take place. It is this announcement, I fear, that may have unbalanced his mind. He could have fulfilled his promise of a gift of $75,000, for he owns New York property worth $100,000. Evidence of his aberration is that he has been trying to sell this for $50,000."

The senior Atwood is described as a man of handsome appearance, 53 years old and fashionably dressed. He has traveled much, has a fine education and speaks five languages.

JESUS ASCENDS INTO HEAVEN

International Sunday School Lesson For May 19, 1901.

Luke xxiv, 44-53, and Acts i, 1-11: "The former treatise I made, O Theophilus, concerning all that Jesus began to do and to teach, until the day in which he was received up, after that He had given commandment through the Holy Ghost unto the apostles whom He had chosen; to whom He also showed Himself alive after His passion by many proofs, appearing unto them by the space of forty days, and speaking of the things concerning the kingdom of God; and, being assembled together with them, He charged them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, which, said He, ye heard from me; for John indeed baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.

They therefore, when they were come together, asked him, saying, Lord, dost thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel? And He said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or seasons, which the Father has set within His own authority. But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Ghost is come upon you; and ye shall be my witnesses, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea and Samaria and unto the uttermost part of the earth. And when He had said these things, as they were looking, He was taken up; and a cloud received Him out of their sight. And while they were looking stedfastly into heaven as He went, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel; which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye looking into heaven? this Jesus, which was received up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye beheld Him going into heaven."

Golden Text: "While He blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up into heaven." Luke xxiv, 51.

INTRODUCTION.

Luke's story of the events after the resurrection seems to be limited to the single day of the resurrection, until he reaches verse 44 of the 24th chapter. There he gives a summary of the things which Jesus taught in the interval between the resurrection and the ascension. Then verses 50-53 record very briefly the story of the ascension. This account must be supplemented by the other account which Luke gives in the first chapter of the book of the Acts of the Apostles. The appearance to the eleven in Galilee was the time of the giving of the Great Commission. After that the disciples returned to Jerusalem and probably took up their abode in the upper room, where they afterwards awaited the promised enduement of the Spirit. It was during this residence in Jerusalem that Jesus came once more to them and conversed about the affairs of His kingdom. We cannot be sure just what is meant when the record tells us that Jesus led them out to the vicinity of Bethany, for Paul gives us to understand that Jesus was not seen by a miscellaneous crowd at any time after the resurrection, but that the largest company to see Him was the "Five hundred brethren at once." Now it seems clear that Jesus could not have led the disciples out toward Bethany in the same manner that he had formerly led them, for then he must needs have been visible to a number of people on the streets who would have given testimony of that fact. Perhaps the most we ought to say about this is that Jesus suggested to the disciples in some way that they should go out there, where he met them for their final and parting interview. It was the locality associated with his dearest earthly friendships with Lazarus and Simon and Mary and Martha. From thence he had gone forth rested to renew his work on many a morning, and thence, after the anointing by Mary, he had gone with the exulting crowd, on a hillow of acclamation, into the city. How beautiful it was that after all this He should go there for a final tryst with His disciples and be from that place caught up to His heavenly home!

A BEGINNING.

Luke uses a very significant expression in the opening verse of the book of the Acts of the Apostles. He had previously addressed his gospel to the "Most excellent Theophilus;" in addressing "The Acts of the Apostles" to the same person, he said, "The former treatise I made, O Theophilus, concerning all that Jesus began both to do and to teach, until the day in which he was received up." In this quotation the emphasis is to be put upon the word "began." Luke had carefully written out the account of the life of Jesus, dealing briefly with the events preceding the opening of the ministry, and then proceeding to relate how Jesus taught and healed and preached and did many wonderful things in the sight of all the people, and then how the rulers plotted against Him and put Him to death, after which He arose from the dead, revealed Himself to His disciples and ascended to His Father in heaven. Of any other person the wonderful things which Luke tells about Jesus in his gospel would be accounted both the beginning and ending of his teaching and deeds; but of Jesus' ministry Luke assures the reader that what he had written was only a beginning. In other words, the greater part of the teaching and work of Jesus was to be done after the ascension. This is a most significant expression, coming as it does from one who lived and wrote so close to the time of Jesus. It shows that at least some of the earliest disciples perceived the truth that the power and influence of Jesus were destined to have greater sway after His death than they had had before.

Looking at these words from the present point of view in history, it is easy to understand them, but they must have been an enigma to Theophilus. Nineteen centuries of history have unfolded the manifold workings of the influence of Jesus upon the human heart and mind, and upon human society in all quarters of the globe. It is easy to see today that Christ is working through the manifold agencies of human life to carry out the things of which the gospel records only give us a faint foreglean. The place of Christ in history cannot be overlooked by any one who desires to write a true account of human affairs.

DISCIPLES' WORK.

The carrying out of what Jesus began to do was committed to his disciples. Luke, in his gospel, chapter 24:44-49, summarizes what Jesus taught to the disciples during the forty days between the resurrection and the ascension, and how he opened their minds to understand the Scriptures. A portion of that teaching had reference to the part the disciples should play in the execution of the greater work which Christ intended to accomplish. "Ye are witnesses of these things," said Jesus. And the disciples went out to bear effective testimony to the resurrection and also to the things that Jesus had taught them. How effective this testimony was may be judged from the great strides which the little church made in the early days of it's history. Jesus said, on one occasion, "I am the way, the truth and the life." There is an adage which says: "Truth is mighty and will prevail." The principle on which Jesus proceeded was that the truth he had committed to his disciples would commend itself to men's acceptance if only sufficient and credible witness of it was borne in their presence.

To the disciples was also committed the preaching of repentance and remission of sins unto all nations. This preaching Jesus directed should all be done in his name. This is the gospel message to the sinful human race. "The Son of man came to save that which was lost." "I am not come to call righteous people but sinners to repentance." The message of remission for past sins is one that brings comfort to the troubled breast. One can bear the pain and anguish of the present fruitage of his sins if he has the assurance that those sins will not continue to bear fruit in a deleterious effect on his soul's immortality. Jesus gives this confidence to the one who trusts in Him. It is not the business of the disciple to pretend that he himself possesses any magical power to exorcise human sin or guilt, but his duty to Christ as well as to man is to tell of the Savior who possesses such power and who invites the sinner to seek and receive the boon directly from Himself.

THE PROMISE OF THE FATHER.

Sinners were plentiful in those days even as they are now. There were many near at hand who needed to know the gospel of remission of sins, but Jesus said to the eleven: "Wait in Jerusalem until ye be clothed with power from on high." It is this power from on high that is referred to in acts 1:4 as "The promise of the Father," because God the Father had promised that he would pour out his sirit upon the sons of men. Such passages as Isaiah 44:1-3, Joel 2:28, and Ezekiel 36:26 will make plain the meaning of this reference. So important was it that they should receive this blessing that they were expressly told to postpone the commencement of their important work until that promise was fulfilled in them. Their work was to be done, "Not by might nor by power, but my Spirit, saith the Lord." For the coming of His spirit they waited in reverent obedience, and a future lesson study will reveal how their patient expectancy was rewarded.

After Jesus had ascended, the eleven humbly worshipped him and then turned their faces toward Jerusalem and the temple, where they praised God in unnumbered measures. They had a great joy in their hearts. What was its secret? They had just received a rebuke from Jesus which would not likely have made them especially joyful. They had asked him if he was at that time going to restore the kingdom again to Israel, and he had replied in effect that it was not their business to know about that, but only to await the coming upon them of the Holy Ghost and afterwards to go on with their witnessing. It is a good thing when any believer learns the lesson that God has set some things in his own authority, and that there those things are to rest without his little worries and trivial schemes to help them along. The thought of the disciples still, seemed to move in the narrow circle of Jewish national hopes.

The secret of their great joy may have been Christ's reference to the Spirit's enduement. They had known that the promise thus referred to would come some day, for it was a part of the expectation of the pious Jew everywhere; but to be told that for them in particular the day of receiving the boon was so near at hand that they could wait until it came, was true ground for a joy that overflowed in devout "blessing" unto God.

Perhaps the joy is to be accounted for, partially at least, on account of the visit of the angels. When Jesus was born the visit of the angels heralded the joy of the occasion to the earth; when he had risen from the grave it was an angel that told the first tidings of the event known to the disciples; and finally, at his ascension two angels stood by the wondering disciples to tell them that as Jesus had gone into heaven, so, in like manner, would he come from heaven. It was a message of comfort and hope, and no doubt brought joy to their perplexed minds.

But there is one other suggestion as to the secret of that joy. Jesus' last words to them had been like the call to arms of a company of soldiers who have been impatiently awaiting orders. The disciples had been long in training for their great work. They had no doubt wondered many times just what that work would be. Jesus told them, and although it brought some disappointment to them on account of its nature and the complete extinction of their political hopes, yet they were exceedingly glad and went away rejoicing that their task was now defined and that they were so near the time to enter upon it. Such nearness to the actual work of the kingdom ought to cause joy to any believer in Jesus Christ.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The incarnation of the Son of God was completely ended with the sublimation of the body of Jesus. The Bible story of the creation says that man was originally made in the image of God. The account of the birth of Christ tells how Divinity clothed itself in the form and likeness of man, and thus honored man and taught him his true spiritual vocation of moral likeness to God. The ascension of Christ tells how the essential spiritual nature of man was taken up into God. It is, altogether, a wonderful and gracious tribute to the moral worth and dignity of man in the scheme of God's works. It ought to fill each one who thinks of it with the purpose to live true to the purpose of his maker by seeking to have the constant presence of the Spirit of God as the motive of his life.

IN FAVOR OF PEACE

Comtesse de Nicolai of France Trying to Arouse Enthusiasm.

She Wants Philadelphia Women to Take the Lead.

Universal Peace Movement Designed to Sweep the World.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Philadelphia Bulletin, states that Madame Le Comtesse Hortense de la C. Nicolai wants Philadelphia women to be first in the universal peace movement that is preparing to sweep the world with an unprecedented wave of femine sentiment. Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of Chicago, has sent out a call from her pedestal as president of the International Council of Woman for a universal peace demonstration by the women of all lands in the later part of this month. But Madame Nicolas, as she prefers to be known, during her residence in Philadelphia, wants to carry the movement to a much higher plane of enthusiasm and practical purpose.

She has enlisted the interest of several prominent Philadelphia women in a plan to brign about the appointment, in the United States, of a national board of arbitration, as an example to the other nations of what the twentieth century should attain in the march of civilization. France, she believes, will quickly follow the precedent, but the initiatory step must be taken by Uncle Sam.

"America stands today in the eyes of the world as France did in the reign of Louis XIV," said Madame Nicolai, recently. "All countries watch its varying expressions, and anticipate its growing power. But the red hand of war shadows the future. What its handwriting will be depends on the present. I am not referring to the Philippine conflict. I am thinking of Alaska and the footprints that Siberia may take toward its boundary lines. It was the young czarina's influence that made Russia speak out for peace not long ago, but Russia is not making preparations for peace.

"It is from America that the first clear, luminous word must come. France may speak the second.

"Two influences may hasten it. Women in the national organization and new methods of teaching history to young Americans. It is well to exalt valor and death for one's country, but side by side with the martial tread of historic events should be ranged the works that are pacific; the writers who inspired men's reason, the artist who taught them to love beauty in all forces, the masters who disclosed the secrets of nature and applied them to inventions of powerful machines. If history were taught as it should be taught there would be no more useful auxillary to ideas of peace."

Through all nations of the East and the West, Madame Nicolai has traveled to shape the thoughts that will find expression in the first steps taken by her Philadelphia associates in the Alliance of Women for Peace.

A large meeting of representative women will soon be called by Madame Nicolai who has been appointed vice president at large for Pennsylvania by the Alliance. A committee will be appointed to visit Washington to urge the appointment of a national board of arbitration.

"This board should consist of American men," said Madame Nicolai. "And when I say Americans I mean patriots whose great-grandfathers were born in America. Every other nation should have a board of its own. When difficulties arise between any two nations, these boards should meet and adjust them. If America takes the initiative, I believe that the whole world will fall into line."

The president of the "Alliance for Peace," which has its hearquarters in Paris, is a daughter of Victor Hugo, Princess Gabriel Fiszmiewaka. She is the wife of a distinguished scientist. Branches of the organization flourish in Austro-Hungary, Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Chile, Egypt, Spain, Rhode Island, Washington and Pennsylvania. Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood is vice president for the Washington coterie.

HOT DISHWATER SUDS.

Declared Best Inspiration For Women Club Papers.

Chicago, May 17.—How to make dull papers bright—try dishwater. It will bring better results than teas, sunsets, public libraries and roses at $8 a dozen.

This refers to papers read at Women's clubs, and Mrs. T. P. Stanwood, a Vassar graduate and president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, believes that dishwater can do a lot for those papers.

"Try working out the points for your papers over your dishpan. Nice hot suds will furnish a sweeter inspiration than you can get from sitting at your front windows, or dreaming over your piano."

Mrs. Stanwood meant it. She was talking to the women of the First congressional district at a meeting held in the rooms of the Englewood Men's club.

The women were surprised. They had always thought their president such an idealist that they were looking for something "beautiful." That is why they applauded, as if they thought dishwashing one of the fine arts to be cherished by somebody else.

Other things said by Mrs. Stanwood were:

"Dignify kitchen work by doing it yourselves, and by teaching your daughters to do it. The reason we find it difficult to retain girls in the kitchen is because we do not place their work on the level it deserves."

Up to the hour of adjournment not one woman had told in a personal way of the lovely time she had had with dishwater. She was not in a confident mood, or, perhaps, she was trying to forget it.

For a stiff neck there is nothing better than a free application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It quickly relieves the stiffness and soreness, effecting a complete cure. For sale at Boyce's Drug store.

STRONG MARKET

Wheat Started Out at Advance and Went Upward.

Higher Cables Were the Chief Cause of the Strength.

Covering By Shorts and Outside Buying Sent Up Prices.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 17.—The wheat market opened stronger and higher this morning and made a further advance during the early part of the session. The chief bullish influence, and about the only factor that received consideration, was the firmness of the cables. Liverpool closing ¼@¾d higher than yesterday. The firm tone developed by the cables caused covering by shorts, and with fair buying orders from the outside prices were advanced. The range, however, was very narrow and the market seemed to fluctuate merely between the privileges. Primary receipts were 301,000 bus, last year 313,000 bus. Shipments 1,043,000 bus, last year 121,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour were 765,000 bus. Chicago reported cash sales of 200,000 bus today. At the seaboard yesterday exporters bought 80,000 bus of wheat. Argentine shipments for the week were 776,000 bus, last year 1,158,000 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis 167 cars, against 178 last week and 250 last year. Chicago receipts, 39 cars, none of contract grade.

There was fairly active trading in futures on the Duluth board, July wheat opened ½c higher at 73⅞c, sold at 74c at 9:32, reacted to 73⅝c at 9:40, recovered to 74c at 10:16, fell off to 73⅝c at 10:25, advanced again to 74c at 11:01, receded to 73⅝c at 11:20, bulged to 74⅛c at 11:30, eased off to 74c at 12:02 and closed at that price, an advance of ⅛c. Chicago advanced ⅞@1c and Minneapolis ⅝c.

Cash sales were very light and July price was asked.

Corn was unchanged in price today in the Duluth market. In Chicago the May price declined sharply under selling by Phillips. Phillips was also a buyer of July and September. Primary receipts of corn were 417,000 bus, last year 283,000 bus. Shipments 473,000 bus, last year 698,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 400,000 bus. Argentine shipments of corn were 1,031,000 bus last week, last year 400,000 bus.

May flax took another of its sensational moves today dropping 8c in price. October was le up. Other coarse grains were unchanged in price.

Following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, cash, 77¼c; to arrive, 77⅝c; May, 77¾c; September, 75c. No. 1 northern, cash, 74¾c; to arrive, 74⅛c; May, 74¾c; September, 70⅝c; July, 71c. No. 2 northern, 70¼c. No. 3 spring, 69¼c. Oats, 25½@25¾c. Rye, 51½c. Flax, cash, $1.70; to arrive, $1.70; May, $1.70; September, $1.31; September Northwestern, $1.32; October, $1.29. Corn, 41c; May, 42c.

Car inspection—Wheat, 29; corn, 5; oats, 1; rye, 2; flax, 6. Receipts—Wheat, 15,439 bus; corn, 20,696 bus; rye, 677 bus; flax, 1351 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 249,556 bus.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Higher With Fair Outside Buying.

Chicago, May 17.—Wheat was helped today by higher cables. July opened 1½@1⅝c to 3@3⅛c higher at 71⅜c to 71⅝c and on a fair outside buying and covering rose to 72@72⅛c. Local receipts were 39 cars, none of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 167 cars against 176 last week and 250 a year ago.

Later, July sold to 72⅛c and closed ⅝c higher at 72⅜@72⅝c.

There was fair demand for July corn while offerings were light. July opened 1@1⅛c higher on improved cables, moderate outside demand at 45½c to 45¾c and under local selling eased off to 44⅞c. May opened lower at 53½c to 54c and sold down to 50c. Local receipts were 348 cars, 82 of contract grade.

July corn closed steady, a shade lower at 44⅞c, and May corn weak and 4c lower at 50½c.

Oats opened unchanged to ¼c higher for July at 28¼c to 28⅛c and sold to 28⅜@28½c. There was a fair general trade. Local receipts, 201 cars.

Provisions were higher in sympathy with hogs, July pork opened 21½c higher at $14.85, sold down to $14.77½ and reacted to the opening price. July lard opened 21c higher at $8.07½ and sold to $8.06. July ribs opened unchanged to 2½c higher at $7.85 and sold to $7.87½.

Closing: Wheat, May, 72½c; July, 71⅜@71⅝c. Corn, May, 50½c; July, 44⅞@45c. Oats, May, 29¼c; July, 28¼c; August, 26½c. Pork, May, $14.67½; July, $14.70; September, $14.27½. Lard, May, $8.00; July, $7.97½@8.00; September, $8.00. Ribs, May, $8.05; July, $7.87½; September, $7.82½. Flax, cash Northwestern, $1.37; No. 1, $1.73; May, $1.72; September, $1.26. WEARE'S REPORT.

Chicago, May 17.—There has been a strong wheat market, prices at one time advancing 1c to 1⅜c from yesterday's close. Cables were some higher, clearances were large. Argentine shipments were only one-third of last year's. There were liberal shipments from here, 670,000 bus and the shipments in five days have exceeded the receipts by 2,300,000 bus. There has been a fair cash demand here, 200,000 bus and 8 loads at New York. Snow declares the winter wheat prospects promising a yield 450,000,000 bus, but the crowd are inclined to the bull side of the market for a change, and the promising alteration which recent shipments will probably produce in the visible supply figures, has led many to think that immediate supply and demand conditions offset crop prospects even if continued as favorable and the possibilities for serious depletion of stock are considered by some.

Corn deferred futures have been strong, but for the May option, has been easy, the latter selling from 54½c to 50c, this decline being brought about by the open selling by Phillips and his brokers. Crop news is more favorable, no local sales reported, 12 loads at New York. There was some talk on 'change of the May deal being over. It is impossible, of course, to get at the exact facts in the case, but undoubtedly the promise of increasing receipts, more favorable crop outlook and attractive promise of the May over the other futures, has mad such a contingency quite logical.

The oat market has been firm, the crop situation being unfavorable and outsiders buying. Snow claims that the outlook is not improved and that perfect weather is necessary to maintain an average crop. The market has been small and range narrow. Cash sales, 75,000 bus and 50,000 bus at New York.

The provision market has been firm, but dull, prices about the same as yesterday. Hogs West, 66,000, against 83,000 a year ago.

CORN CORNER WOUND UP.

Chicago, May 17.—It was reported on the board of trade today that the Phillips May corn corner had been practically wound up. On top of recent heavy sales for current month delivery he sold 1,000,000 bus today and the price dropped from 54c, at which the market closed yesterday, to 50c. Phillips refused to say positively that he was out of his May deal, although he did say, "It looks as though it was all off." Brokers on close touch with Phillips said they thought he had sold out practically all of his May corn.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, May 17.—Wheat: Liverpool, ½d higher; this gave the tone of strength to the market. Foreign markets are acting fairly strong, probably influenced by small Argentine shipments and moderate crop prospects of the continent. The Modern Miller says there has been no serious retrogression in the crop, although previous condition has not been fully maintained. Snow says the minimum present winter wheat prospects are for 400,000,000 bus. Spring wheat prospects continue perfect. Primary receipts 303,000 bus against 315,000 bus. Shipments 1,135,000 bus against 491,000 bus. Minneapolis reports some of the mills closing down on account of poor demand for flour.

May corn was off sharply and the current reports are that the shorts have been extensively covered. There was quite a general heavy trade in July and Phillips was supposed to have been a large buyer. Snow says the planting is progressing favorably, acreage increased except in Kansas. Primary receipts 417,000 bus against 283,000 bus. Shipments 427,000 bus against 697,000 bus.

The tone of the oats market is steady and firm. Snow's report says the prospect is not improving and it will take perfect weather to make an average crop. There was quite a large speculative interest and the buying is largely based on poor prospects.

Provisions steady to firm. Hog receipts 63,000 against 80,000. Speculative operations small and featureless. Cash demand good.

ADVANCE IN STOCKS

Trading Was Quiet But the Undertone Gener'lly Strong.

Strength of the Market Maintained Until the Last Hour.

Closing Was Active at the Top Level of Prices.

New York, May 17.—Trading was quiet and orderly at the opening, the majority of stocks showing a gain of a fraction. A smaller number of stocks showed wider changes than for some time past. But there were substantial gains in some of the Vanderbilt dividend payers. St. Paul was up 2½, New York Central 2, Union Pacific 1½, Norfolk & Western 1⅝, and Louisville and General Electric 1¼ each. Minneapolis & St. Louis jumped 3⅛.

An effort to depress the market was resisted although St. Paul, New York Central, Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper dipped sharply. Room traders became uneasy at the demand for special stocks and covered short lines, causing a rally to a level above the opening. Conspicuous strength of St. Paul, Burlington, New York, Sugar, Amalagamated Copper, People's Gas and the traction stocks restored confidence, and there was a good demand for all active stocks. The leaders advanced from 1⅛ to 4¼, with Sugar scoring the principal gain on a report of an agreement with the coffee interest. By 11 a. m. prices were declining in spots on realizing and pressure by professionals.

Renewed buying for both accounts strengthened stocks which were reactionary, and the market in general was strong. Prices fluctuated within narrower limits than for some time. Northern Pacific advanced ⅝, Delaware & Hudson was marked up 4⅞, and Chicago Terminal issues, Illinois Central, International Power and Consolidated Gas improved 2 to 3. Trading was intensely dull, and aside from a rebuse of over a point in Sugar, St. Paul, Amalgamated Copper and Union Pacific the strength of the market was not impaired up to noon. Bonds were dull and firm.

The strength of the market was maintained until the last hour. Metropolitan, People's Gas, Sugar, St. Paul, New York Central, Pennsylvania and United States Steel stocks were conspicuous, but the whole market moved up again. There was practically no pressure to realize, and the market closed active and very strong at the top level.

ALLIS-CHALMERS COMPANY

An Industrial That Possesses Unique Strength.

The organization of the Allis-Chalmers company, one of the latest industrial combinations, was attended with circumstances which make it in some particulars unique in the business world. The company starts with a cash capital of $10,000,000, of which sum $2,500,000 will be expended in the erection of an additional plant to double the present capacity of the Allis works. The valuation of the several plants included in the consolidation, taking into account the real estate, buildings, machinery, tools, patterns, drawings and patents, together with the cost of organizing and getting into full operation, is placed by Julian Kennedy, an expert engineer who examined the properties at $9,935,000. In this estimate no allowance whatever is made for good will. The total present value of tangible property, therefore, is $19,935,000, while the total issue of preferred stock against this property is only $16,250,000. All of this stock, it is stated, is issued for cash at par, or in lieu of cash, for the plants at less than their valuation as stated above. Of the total issue there will be more than 1 per cent in cash and the balance will be in property that produces much more than the cumulative dividend to which the preferred stock is entitled.

The companies taken over by the Allis-Chalmers company include the following builders of heavy engines, mining and other machinery: The Edward P. Allis company, of Milwaukee, Wis.; Fraser & Chalmers, Incorporated, of Chicago, Ill.; the Gates Iron works, of Chicago, Ill., and the Dickson Manufacturing company, of Scranton, Pa., exclusive of locomotive works). The plants are all running at their fullest capacity. The examining engineer found that the great bulk of the tools in all of them were comparatively new, having been put in within the last seven or eight years. It is stated that the Allis, Fraser & Chalmers, and Gates Iron works plants have been operated night and day during the past two years, and have from lack of capacity declined in that period as much business as they have been able to accept. The company's net profits for the fiscal year to end May 1, 1902, are estimated as sufficient to pay dividends at the rate of 7 per cent on the authorized preferred stock and about 4 per cent on the common stock. If allowance is made for the economies expected from consolidation, it is estimated that the company in this period should earn 7 per cent on both classes of stock. The increased business expected to follow the completion of the additional Allis works, now in course of construction, will, it is estimated, bring the profits up equivalent to 8 per cent on the preferred stock and 10 per cent on the common stock, and also make a material addition to the surplus account.

The authorized preferred stock is $16,250,000, bearing 7 per cent cumulative dividends and it is convertible into common stock, share for share, at the option of the holder, upon any first day of May until and including May 1, 1921. It also has a further preference of 1 per cent, non-cumulative, after the system of 7 per cent upon the common stock. The authorized amount of common stock is $20,000,000. The board of directors is composed as follows: Edward D. Adams, Elbert H. Gary, William A. Read, James Gillman and Cornelius Vanderbilt, of New York; William L. Elkins Jr., of Philadelphia; Henry W. Hoyt, W. J. Chalmers, James H. Eckles and Max Pam, of Chicago, and Charles Allis, William A. Allis, Frank G. Bigelow, of Vermilye & Co., of New York and Boston, as a manufacturing investment, in the security, earnings and management of which they express entire confidence. Subscriptions will be received by this firm for $8,400,000 preferred stock at 105, until the close of business on May 21. Right is reserved to reject any or all subscriptions and to close the subscription at any time without notice.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 17.—Cotton opened steady though off 3 to 6 points from last night's closing bids, and stubbornly resisted bearish influences of exceptional weight all the first hour. Prominent operators who had loaded up last night in anticipation of a continuance of the bull movement, then in progress, were loath to retreat and increased their long interests on each point decline. July opened at 7.63 but gave way to 7.57 where the fall was checked in spite of weakness at Liverpool.

Spot cotton closed quiet; middling uplands, 8 1-16; middling gulf, 8 5-16; sales, none. Cotton futures closed quiet; May, 7.45; June, 7.55; July, 7.58; August, 7.27; September, 7.12; October, 7.04; November and December, 7.01; January and February, 7.02.

A FEATHERED PROFESSOR.

"How much is that gray-headed bird in the large cage there?"

The question was asked of a Sixth avenue dealer in canaries, and his immediate answer was a shrug of his shoulders, says the New York Herald.

"He is not for sale," were the words that followed the shrug. "He is a professor, and grey gray in the service; yet he teaches, and is too valuable to part with for any price that a customer would be willing to pay."

A look of interested inquiry caused the old man to proceed.

"Perhaps you do not understand, but that bird has put the finishing touches on many a young singer's education. In Germany, whence 450,000 canaries are exported annually, they train these birds differently than we do here. Canaries like some other biped singers, may do very well simply with the voice that nature has given them, but to do really excellent work they must be taught. First they are "choppers;" they will spoil a good bar by sending it with a disagreeable "chop! chop!" He has false notes, or rests, chop! chop!" He has false notes, or rests. "But training soon makes him ashamed of himself. He is placed in a large cage with a professor, with a wise bird, who is a good singer, with a teacher of music, who dins the correct tones into his ears for two or three weeks. If he is an apt pupil he soon omits his awkward rests, corrects his false notes and ceases to be a "chopper." Then he is graduated from the academy, and the professor takes a new pupil.

"The bird you ask about is such a teacher. If you should offer me $150 for him I would consider the offer."

SMELLING MONEY.

It has come to be generally believed that dishonest postoffice employes select letters containing bills by smelling them through the envelopes. A Harlem druggist who has a great many transactions with customers out of town believes this is true from his own experience, says the New York Times.

His confidence in the mails as a safe way to send money was established a few years ago when he sent more than $200 in bills to his wife, who was traveling. The precious envelope missed her at one place and was forwarded and re-forwarded before it finally reached her hands. By that time the envelope was torn and the money was sticking out in plain sight—in fact held in the envelope only by a rubber band, which some country postmaster had slipped around the whole parcel.

Nevertheless, the druggist afterward met with several $1 and $2 losses until a year or two ago, when he conceived the idea of putting a single drop of diluted carbolic acid into every envelope in which he enclosed a bill. Since then he hasn't met with a single loss.

"They can't smell the money in those envelopes," he says, "and besides, maybe they think there is something unwholesome about them. Anyway, they always let them go through. It is safer on the whole than registering, I think."

A Very Remarkable Remedy.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlin's Colic, Choler and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my show

SPRING OF LAVISHNESS

Gowns Piled With Extravagant Materials and Work ---Tuckings, Stitchings and Shirrings Have Sent the Modistes' Prices Up.

New York, May 14.—From a bargain counter view of the situation this is a distinctly cheap year, but women who have been down in the thick of the shopping battle have quite another tale to tell. The complaint is that it strains one's purse to the bankruptcy point to keep pace with the fashion requirements. Skirts have got to be hung these days on silk foundations, and according to the rule of the mode it takes all of twelve to fifteen yards to make the proper sort of foundation, whereas, in the days of lined skirts it required nine at most.

Another serious grievance is the custom that now prevails in favor of lavish decoration. A well made dress calls, as a rule, for lace, velvet, ribbon, chiffon, panne, embroidery, fringe, jeweled ornaments and braid, all in addition to the findings that are almost double in number. A simple gown today is unfashionable, and because of the extravagant style of decoration the dressmakers have jumped up $5 all around in their prices.

Very reasonably, the slaves of the needle excuse themselves on the plea that it requires twice as many expert hands to make a gown now as formerly. The whimsical tuckings, shirrings, heading, lace encrustations, stitchings, hemstitching, fringing, heron boning, etc., that one single frock will require, must be done by hand, and hand work costs. The dressmaker who used to charge $15 for a dress now asks $20, and insists that she has no bigger profits than formerly.

Now, who's to blame for this situation? The fashion, of course, and the women themselves who encourage and follow the lead of the twentieth century Juggernaut! To prove the point we are making, let us cite before the bar of investigation four charming, new, and, according to the prevailing mode, extremely simple spring gowns. Witness number one is a foulard, guilty of costing its purchaser a price that can only be written in three figures.

It is a slavish reproduction of a Paris model, and it is one of the new corded foulards in deep apricot tone, with vivid red carnations, having gray green leaves damasked on it. At intervals among the flowers cream lace medallions are set, and the foulard is cut away beneath in order to afford glimpses of a silvery green taffeta petticoat, which serves as a foundation. The foot of the skirt is garnished with dark red velvet bebe ribbon, lace and silver green taffeta embroidered in tiny dark red silk dots. The waist has a Moorish lace bolero and sleeve tops; these are appliqued onto the little foulard body, and the front of the waist, with the collar, is made of dotted green taffeta.

This, be it known, is a simple foulard, for if it were a really, truly elaborate one, it would, according to the latest expert judgment, show a knee deep flounce of cream Llerre or imitation Brussels point lace, finished at the bottom by a broad, waving entre deaux of black Chantilly and joined to the silk by a similar black insertion, thereby giving the impression of a white lace flounce, having both edges woven of black lace.

Something similar in effect is produced in the second little gown, which is an embroidered muslin, the needle worked flounce of which is adjusted to the skirt by deep Vandykes of lace. The fluff of these flounces, whether of silk, muslin or lace, is secured by elaborate support from beneath. A slanky ruffle is not to be tolerated for the next six months, and in the shops they sell all ready made, the most admirable flounce supporters. A deep, specially starched book muslin ruffle is the corner stone of the framework, upon which countless little chiffon frills shower out one over the other. For more expensive gowns the flounce supporter is of rich stiff taffeta, encrusted with minute pinked taffeta frills that alternate with flutes of lace or chiffon.

Beautiful to behold and to wear are the bordered voiles. They are new comers, but they are none the less bold and prompt in securing proper recognition. The voile itself is any color that may please you, and both edges of every yard are finished not by a plain, neat selvage, but a ribbon of gold or silver and a line of silken Oriental embroidery, inside the ribbon, or, much more artistically, and incidentally much more expensively, the border will be of lace, cream or colored with a gilt beading beyond.

Just how these bordered voiles can be made up is suggested in a sketch made of one that was silver gray in tint, and boasted a border of gray and blue silk lace, through which a thread of silver ran. The skirt is made in three scantily gathered flounces, that bring the gay border out attractively at their edges. The border again adorns the neck, fronts, bottom edge and sleeves of the voile bolero which is worn upon a shirt of blue crepe de chine, dotted in black.

A rival at last of the ubiquitous and wearisome turquoise blue has finally appeared, and is making great strides toward supremacy. This is the refreshing and lovely hyacinth blue which, in muslin cloths and transparent goods, is blossoming out every day in great increase. Hyacinth blue with cream, with gray, with sand brown and pale tan, are some of the popular combinations. A sweetly pretty and hyacinthe frock is the pictured tamise which appears alongside the bordered voile above mentioned. Pipings of cream white diversify the intense blueness of the white figured goods and little vestlets of cream panne adorn the bodice that opens over a full cream front of Liberty tissue.

In place of the straight and parallel lines of stitching that have for so long been used to ornament decorative bands, there is appearing a new ornamental motif. This is quilted bands, stitched in squares, double checks, stars or the diamond pattern, in imitation of the old style quilting designs. To give the puffed effect that the regularly staff quilt shows, thin Liberty silk is laid on a taffeta surface, and when stitched down it puffs up between the lines drawn so taut by the machine and gives the required quilted effect. Sometimes this crepe de chine is used for this purpose and usually in black over a light taffeta surface.

NEW TAFFETA ETON.

This becoming little taffeta coat with all-over tucks has a sailor collar and revers edged with shirred taffeta frills. Over this is worn a Russian lace collar. Black velvet ribbons set in clusters of loops caught together with gilt ornaments, finish the front edges of the coat and decorate the bishop sleeves. Courtesy of John Wanamaker.

SUMMER MILLINERY.

Paris letter to the Millinery Trade Review: Ribbon is not so much in request for smart millinery as it was earlier in the season. But all kinds of wide ribbons of merveilleux or taffetas, plain, shot, plaid, warp-printed with floral, cashmere or Persian patterns are and will continue to be in much demand for simple hats and for juvenile millinery.

Sailor hats, maintained for morning and country wear, are mostly trimmed with ribbons. In some cases the ribbon, if plain, is edged with straw braid to match the hat. For example, a chestnut brown paillasson, the under side of the brim of which is cream white, is trimmed with a large bow of the latter tint, bordered with brown straw. Ribbon is also put to a new use—it is pleated with lisse and then made into hat shapes. Sometimes each strand of the pleat is of ribbon, covered with lisse or tulle.

Very pretty toques are made in this way which require very simple trimming—a couteaux sulfices. Charming nacre effects are obtained by using different shades of tulle and glace ribbons.

There seems to be a decided tendency to substitute plain Mechlin tulle veils for those of fancy tulle during the summer. White promises to be most generally worn, but some milliners are advocating colored tulle to match the flowers used in the trimming of the hat. White lace veils are as fashionable as ever, but they are reserved for the simpler styles of hats. Parisians always wear them when traveling. They protect the face better than any and have a fresh, tidy appearance.

Birds' wings and breasts now vary both quills and flowers in the decoration of outing hats. Especially noticeable on some of the latest of the hats for serviceable wear are pigeons' wings. A model in memory of a turban of fancy fiber braid of stout weave, in the natural sunburn tint, is a turban with a low, broad, oblong-oval crown, and the brim wide and turned up loosely all around. Full drapery of white silk mull wound around the crown fills in the space between the crown and the brim and a pair of half-folded white pigeons' wings divide at the front and rest on each side of the crown. A golf hat, with medium tall gored crown of stiched and stiffened white linen duck, has the brim bound with white silk galloon folded white surah around the crown with a pair of half-folded white pigeons' wings stuck in at the left side. A very remarkable sailor hat of a heavy new braid of stout whole straw of dark rich Mocha-coffee brown, with a medium tall square crown, and a flat brim somewhat wider than the brim generally seen on sailor hats, has a folded wired band of No. 30 velvet ribbon set up on the edge of the crown, confined by a large fancy gilt button where crossed at the back, and set up around the brim at about the middle of the width, a bow held by two gilt buttons terminating the band at the back. Two long mottled brown condor quills are thrust through the bow, one lying within and the other outside the velvet band on the brim. A smaller sailor hat of fiber braid in Arab brown has folded drapery around the crown of glace taffeta in nacre tints, and a full tuft of wilted pansies set at the left of front.

There is little reason to doubt that the reported finding in Chicago of the long-lost portrait of the duchess of Devonshire has given impetus to the restoration to fashion of the style of hat seen in the picture. At once, at the news of the recovery of the celebrated picture, some of our best milliners were placed upon their mettle in the reproduction of the elegant hat so gracefully posed on the handsome head of the famous duchess. But since then there has come counter advice to the effect that the picture exhumed from the double-bottomed trunk in Chicago is not the veritable stolen Gainsborough. A strange concatenation of misadventures, surely! Or, it seems to be. We could but hope for the genuineness of the picture, and greatly in the interest of our wide-awake and enterprising milliners. At any rate, the Gainsborough hat, under the circumstances of it reintroduction, was bound to attract attention. Remembering that it is a large, picturesque hat, with broad brim and square crown smoothly banded around with ribbon, and trimmed at the left of the front of the crown with a full tuft of softly dressed ostrich plumes, it appeared in several of the different fashionable braids and in several of the popular colors. A very handsome model in illustration is of black crinoline braid relieved with a tracery design of very narrow, black plain straw braid. The crown is encircled with a band of doubled No. 40 black satin ribbon, which terminates in a bow at the back, the bow held by a Rhinestone buckle, and a tuft of six ostrich plumes, left to nod at will, is stuck within the band at the left side of the front. Whatever may be the outcome of the story of the Devonshire portrait, the Gainsborough hat will prove a model, probably, for shade hats for sumer. Recognized as a classic, it is to be hoped that no attempt will be made to improve upon the idea embodied in it by incorporating modification.

ONE OF THE NEW ELABORATE GOWNS.

This is a season of elaboration. One trimming is frequently applied upon another, as in the case of this charming model gown. The material is the new ring cloth, which is as soft and sheer as crepe de chine, and is profusely ornamented with Arab lace and lattice work of narrow black velvet ribbon. The waist shows a bolero effect, and the sleeves are composed of overlapping folds corresponding to the wide finish of the tunic. The under skirt of violet taffeta has a flounce almost entirely covered with Arab lace and black velvet baby ribbon run through lace beading. The tunic is set into the waist band with small tucks.

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

MR. GREATSINGER IS A HARD WORKER

Being Chief Executive of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company Is No Easy Task---Problems That Confront Him.

The Brooklyn Eagle says: Many may be surprised when they are told that few of the several thousand employes of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit corporation work harder than does its chief executive, President Jacob L. Greatsinger. The exigencies of the transportation situation here in Brooklyn daily are such as require a cool head, clear judgment and much force of character in order to cope with questions relating to the management and operation of the elevated and surface roads of the system. Not only must the chief executive of the system look well to the welfare and interest of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co., but he must be at all times, of necessity, subservient to the best interests of those thousands of Brooklynites who travel back and forth throughout the borough on business or pleasure bent, and by their fares help fill the coffers of the railroad company.

For it is from the masses that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company derives its income, day in and day out, year after year. Rich and poor, men, women and children, people of all kinds, of every nationality, ride on the cars of the company. Day in, day out, the stream of nickels pours in, but it must be remembered that large though the receipts are that are daily derived from fares, at 5 cents per capita, the output of money necessary for the operation of the thousands of cars, the payment of over three thousand men employed on the several lines of elevated and surface roads in various capacities is also enormous. Something like $11,000 is paid out every week throughout the year by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company in wages to its men.

To hold the reins of government over several thousand men, employed in various capacities, with a firm hand, but without causing rebellion, is no light task for any one man. Yet it is this that President Greatsinger is called upon to do. It is no sinecure at best. The incumbency of the presidency of the great railroad corporation forces the occupant to lead the most strenuous life. Problems of transportation are constantly forced upon him for solution. He is constantly striving as best he can how to provide adequate and better facilities for the carrying of the human freight with which elevated and surface cars are loaded every morning, noon and night throughout the year.

And, too, there is a mass of detail connected with the management and the operation of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company that the public is unaware of and necessarily never stops to think over. Much of the details of management can be attended to only by the president of the company. His time is occupied with the cares of his office from early in the morning until the shadows of the early evening fall. Often he is compelled, owing to the stress of work, to labor after nightfall, closing up the business of the day. On the morrow other things will be brought to his attention, so each day's business must be closed to avoid confusion before the president's work is ended.

Not every man of brains could fill the position as the head of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company acceptably. Not only must the president be a man who by his business acumen and judgment displayed in the management of the system be pleasing to the directorate and stockholders of the road, but it is of almost as much importance that he be pleasing to the people at large whose patronage supports the road.

Although he assumed the incumbency of the presidency of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company but a few months since, President Greatsinger has shown himself to be the right man for the position for which he was secured. Not only the stockholders and directors of the company realize his competency, ability and fitness for the high position which he occupies, but the fact is recognized and commented upon by those Brooklynites who have watched his career and taken cognizance of his methods during the brief time that he has been in their midst.

A day spent with President Greatsinger, from the time he reaches his office in the morning until he leaves for his home at nightfall, will convince even the most skeptical that he is a worker, and believes in doing his utmost to fill the position acceptably to himself as well as others. He is out of bed, dressed and ready for breakfast by 7:30 o'clock every morning at the Hotel Margaret, where he occupies a handsome suite of rooms overlooking the bay. Breakfast is served to him in the dining room shortly before 8 o'clock, during the progress of which meal he busies himself in looking over the columns of a morning paper and chatting with friends and acquaintances. President Greatsinger, judging from his talk and appearance, is a contented man. He is a man who at first sight gives one the impression, not easily effaced, that he is kindly and of a genial, sunny disposition. There is a shrewd and humorous twinkle in his eye when he talks to one, and his smile is ever ready while he converses.

By 8:30 o'clock each week day morning he is at his private desk in his office.

Heaps of letters addressed to him lie upon the polished desk top. These are opened by his secretary and are ready for his scrutiny. A stenographer takes his replies to the various missives from dictation, transcribes his notes on a typewriter, and then the president affixes his signature to them.

Reports from the various departments of the railroad company are brought him after he has finished with his correspondence. These are carefully gone over. Often the officials who are at the heads of the departments of the road are consulted with over matters of importance pertaining to the operation of the road.

Secretary and Treasurer C. D. Meneeley, General Manager J. C. Brackenridge and Vice President T. S. Williams call on President Greatsinger and consult with him about various matters of interest to them all during the morning. Other officials also call during the morning hours.

President Greatsinger generally lunches at the Brooklyn club. There he can be found almost every day at 1 o'clock. Generally he has friends with him, often some of the head officials of the company.

The afternoon is spent in signing checks, stock certificates, legal documents sent him by the counsel of the road for his signature, and in looking after complaints regarding the service of the company throughout the borough and in other duties. He is at work until the clock strikes 6 at night. Very often he returns to the hotel Margaret for dinner and afterwards returns to his office and remains there at work until 9 or 10 o'clock.

To the newspaper men who call upon him at his office at all hours of the day, President Greatsinger always accords a hearty welcome. He talks freely to them of his plans and desires as regards the railroad company, relying upon the good sense and judgment of the representatives of papers with whom he talks so unreservedly not to print what he regards as premature until he gives them license.

He is a modest man, simple and unaffected in his manner. What he dislikes probably more than anything else is to see his name in the newspapers. He does not want to appear as one who seeks notoriety, for he does not.

OLD MAN IN TEARS.

Humiliated By His Appearance In Convict Clothes.

Akron, Ohio, May 17.—There were few dry eyes in the court room during the trial of the murder charges against Edward Carr, the alleged slayer of Sylvester Hull. One of the witnesses for the defense was Gideon Carr, the father of the prisoner. At a former trial he was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to the penitentiary. He is now serving his sentence in that institution for his part in the tragedy.

A few years ago he was a prominent farmer. He had a good property and was in a prosperous condition.

In the court room he appeared in the gray penitentiary uniform. It was evident that he was suffering untold humiliation. There were his old neighbors around him, staring open-mouthed at him because of the fact that he was a convict. He showed the effects of his confinement. He is much thinner and has aged very rapidly.

During the time that he was in the court room his grandchild, the daughter of Edward Carr, a pretty little tot, insisted in remaining in the lap of her grandfather. When he was called to the witness stand she placed her arms about her neck and, although the officials sought to take her away, she refused to be separated from him. A number of times the child asked loud enough to be heard all over the court room where her grandpa got the new clothes he was wearing. The tears came to the old man's eyes as he tried to answer her question in such a way that she would not understand that he was a felon.

NOTABLE BRIDGE.

Being Constructed On Gigantic Plans In Iowa.

Boone, Iowa, May 17.—There is being completed within four miles of this city one of the most notable bridges of the world, the new high bridge over the Des Moines river. This structure is built of steel, is 2685 feet long, 185 feet above high-water mark and 208 feet above low-water mark. The deck is 30 feet wide and the bridge double-tracked. It is the highest bridge for its length and the longest for its height of any in the world, and contains more tons of steel than any other. The bridge is built on the truss plan, and the central span across the river is 300 feet long.

"Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. I quickly secured a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure, giving her three doses. The croup was mastered and our little darling speedily recovered." So writes A. L. Spafford, Chester, Mich. Max Wirth.

MME. YALE'S HAIR TONIC

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

It affords me great pleasure to call the attention of the public to Mme. Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic, which is the first and only remedy known to chemistry which positively turns gray hair back to the original color without dye. It has gone on record that Mme. M. Yale—wonderful woman chemist—has made this most valuable of all chemical discoveries. Mme. Yale personally indorses its action and gives the public her solemn guaranty that it has been tested in every conceivable way and has proved itself to be the ONLY Hair Specific. It STOPS HAIR FALLING immediately and creates a luxurious growth. Contains no injurious ingredient. Physicians and chemists invited to analyze it. It is not sticky or greasy; on the contrary, it makes the hair soft, youthful fluffy and keeps it in curl. For gentlemen and ladies, entirely gray and with bald heads, it is especially recommended.

A SCIENTIFIC MEDICINE.

March 10, 1900.

Dear Madame Yale:—I wish to say a few words in regard to your Excelsior Hair Tonic and Hair Cleanser. I have used both with the best possible results. My hair had been falling out for some time. I had used various remedies with little or no avail. Finally my attention was called to your Excelsior Hair Tonic. I purchased a bottle and began using it. The result was beyond my expectations; after the second application my hair had ceased to fall out, and as I continued my hair seemed to have more life and vigor and new hairs began to come in. After using the second bottle I was surprised to see that my hair was no longer tinged with gray but had returned to its natural color.

Your Excelsior Hair Tonic is certainly a scientific medicine and I believe the only one that treats the hair as a sick member and feeds and nourishes it until it is restored to its natural and normal state of health. I cheerfully recommend it to any one who is in need of a Hair Tonic or Restorer, as I have the utmost confidence in the efficacy of all your remedies.

Respectfully,
MRS. C. L. BROWN,
51 Harper Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Madame Yale's Hair Tonic is sold throughout the world at $1.00 per bottle.

SENTENCED.

Six Prisoners Learn Their Fate From Judge Cant.

Judge Cant sentenced six prisoners this morning, and counting one reformatory sentence as a year and a half, the six sentences averaged three years and five months each.

This was due to the sentence of Charles Swanson, who was convicted of forgery in the second degree. As he had formerly been convicted of a felony in this court, the court had no option but to give him ten years in the penitentiary at Stillwater, and that was his dose. It might have been twenty years.

When Swanson was arraigned his attorneys made an appeal for a reformatory sentence, but Judge Cant said he had no option but to send him to the penitentiary for ten years. In passing sentence he said that it was hardly three years since Swanson was before him the former time, and the lesson of that sentence seemed to have been almost entirely lost. "When people show a criminal disposition, or inability to keep out of crime, I find no fault with the law when it requires that a good strong sentence be administered. It is proper that a strong sentence should be given in this case, though it is true that the innocent family of the defendant will suffer. But that is usually the case."

Swanson shed tears during the hearing.

Philip Connor, who was connected with the same forgery and who pleaded guilty to forgery in the second degree, was sentenced to the state reformatory at St. Cloud. He is only 20 years of age, and bad associations are responsible for his trouble.

Olaf M. Burke, a boy 19 years old, got three years in the state penitentiary for grand larceny in the second degree. This was because he had spent seven years in the Red Wing training school, for running away from school in Minneapolis, he said. He was under parole from the training school when he committed the offense for which he was sentenced this morning.

Frank Ryan was another second offender. He pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree, and admitted that he had served a sentence of six months for assault before. He was given three years at hard labor.

Thomas Kinney, who pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree, after having been indicted for grand larceny in the first degree, got sixteen months in Stillwater. He said that he was too drunk when he committed the offense to know whether he did it or not.

Charles Anton, who pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree, did not know how old he was, but thought he was born in 1872. He looked more like 40 than 29. He was given a year at hard labor in Stillwater penitentiary.

The only criminal case not disposed of was that of John Schmitz, who was convicted of assault yesterday. He will be sentenced later. The case against Robert H. Harris was continued over the term yesterday afternoon his attorney making a showing that he was ill.

In Judge Cant's court this morning the case of Lawrence Bushel against Andrew Wilson was given to the jury at noon, and it was still out at a late hour today.

Judge Dibell was still trying the Virginia fire case today.

THE BODY RECOVERED.

John P. Webber's Remains Found—The Funeral.

Frank R. Webber received word yesterday that the body of his brother, John P. Webber, who had been drowned in the Androscoggin river about a week previously, had been recovered and that the funeral will take place Saturday. Last Sunday the students and faculty of Bowdoin college, which the young man was attending at the time of his drowning, held a memorial service for him and President Hyde, of the college, delivered a touching eulogy. It was a very strong testimonial to the young man's ability and strength of character that the president of the institution gave.

GREAT BONEYARD

In Wyoming Where Colossal Monsters Often Met.

Professor W. H. Reed, the paleontologist and field curator, has just come in from his camp on Six-Mile gulch, fifty miles north of Denver, having been driven out by the tempest of snow and wind that enveloped the Laramie plains during the past week. He will return to his work, which has not been interrupted at any other time during the winter at an early day, when the sun and wind shall have made the plains once more habitable, says the Denver News.

The situation at the quarry at which Professor Reed is now at work is one of the most curious and interesting of all that have been revealed by the discoveries of the last thirty years in the vast "boneyard" of Southern Wyoming.

Here is the vast tomb of a brontesaurus, already resurrected by Professor Reed, the partially uncovered skeleton of a morosaurus grandus and the scattered bones of one or two more carnivores, lying between the two former, all relics of a period so remote that Eugene's wandering Jew, if a reality, would be but an infant if his age were measured against the 30,000,000 years that have elapsed since its beginning.

"In those pre-Adamite days undoubtedly great battles were fought between carnivores and the herbivores," says Professor Reed. "The position in which the three or more skeletons are found in this quarry would indicate that their owners perished in one of those terrific encounters, which must have been a collision between two modern compound locomotives. It was a contest in which great weight was pitted against extreme activity, and extreme activity won. We often find the brontosaurus bones marked by the teeth of the carnivores, while the latter scattered the bones of the herbivores about as the wolves and coyotes of today scatter their prey over the plains."

Professor Reed did his first day's prospecting on Six-Mile gulch last June, beginning his independent collection of fossils, and discovered three separate quarries, two of which contained good bones. The second day's work uncovered one of the largest quarries of good bones that has yet been located.

At this quarry the bones crop out at the surface for a distance of 300 feet and a section sixty-six feet in length near the west end of the quarry has been opened up. This quarry is out of the usual order of quarries in that it occupies a sort of promontory extending out from the bluff some 200 yards and rising to a height of about twelve feet. The bones lie at a depth of about eight feet from the surface and the quarry can be worked back from its face 150 feet without going to depth of over ten feet. The brontosaurus found in this quarry is, of a size probably equal to Professor Marsh's type specimen; in the posterior parts more complete than the Yale specimen and in the front parts not so complete. Professor Reed has unearthed something like half of the skeleton of the morosaurus grandus and as the bones are still running deeper into the bank, it will probably come out nearly or quite complete. The bones of the carnivore are badly shattered, and whether they represent more than one skeleton is as yet unknown. They can probably be referred to March's seratosaur.

The brontosaurus, it may be said for the benefit of nonscientific readers, was an immense beast with a very short body and exceptionally large and long tail and neck. The animal would measure seventy-five to ninety feet in length over all and would have weighed in life from thirty to fifty tons. The head of the brontosaurus, in proportion to the size of the animal, was very small. The dentition was extremely weak, there being but one row of small round teeth in the upper and lower jaws, showing that the animal must have subsisted on very soft and tender vegetation, probably growing under water, the brontosaurus feeding much as the moose of today, on lily pads and rank grasses that flourish in the shallow and muddy waters of lakes and slow running rivers.

The morosaurus was smaller, being forty-five to sixty feet in length and constructed after nearly the same model as the brontosaurus, living and feeding the same.

The carnivores were much smaller than the herbivores and their anatomy was lighter. They were built for speed and were undoubtedly very active.

IS BETTER

Mrs. McKinley Shows Decided Improvement.

Her Slight Relapse Was Not at All Serious.

(Coast Time.)

San Francisco, May 18.—At 8:45 a. m. Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following statement: "Doctors Hirschfelder, Gibbons and Cushing met Dr. Rixey at the house and found Mrs. McKinley's condition decidedly improved since last evening."

San Francisco, May 18.—At an early hour today inquiries at the temporary home of the president failed to elicit any definite information regarding the condition of Mrs. McKinley. Until an official bulletin is issued by the attending physicians or Secretary Cortelyou, it will not be known whether the relapse noted about midnight was serious or whether the return of fever was only temporary. It is learned today that the rally which marked the turning point in her illness came immediately after a treatment on Thursday, which included a saline injection directly into the blood. Her pulse showed quick improvement and she continued to improve all day yesterday. Leading physicians who have been informed of the course of treatment which has been pursued not only entertain the hope, but have confidence in the prediction that the patient will have better health in the future than she has had for many years. Yesterday she talked to her attendants and smilingly told one of her physicians that she wanted fried chicken. She made an effort to get up, contrary to the advice of her physicians.

The patient was blessed with several hours of natural sleep early yesterday morning. Opiates were not administered to invite sleep but a powerful stimulant was given to reinforce the action of the heart. The expressed desire for solid nourishment was accepted as a hopeful sign, but the doctors believe that it is not prudent to oblige her in this respect. It is impossible to determine when she will be able to leave this city for her home, even if she continues to improve as rapidly as appeared before feverish symptoms were again noted late last night.

Last evening it was thought at the house that Mrs. McKinley might safely be put on an eastbound train as early as netx Monday or Tuesday, but it is more than likely that the Scott residence will be the home of the president for at least ten days to come. In fact, one statment indicated strongly that the president and his official family may be compelled to remain for even a greater time than that. This fact is known that the John Hoopers residence, on the corner of Clay and La Guna streets, has been offered to the president for the use of his cabinet in order that they might be nearer to him for the consideration of affairs of state. The offer was considered, but no definite answer has been given.

The newspapers have made temporary headquarters for reports in the neighborhood of the Scott residence, and a vigil is maintained night and day. Very few facts concerning the situation in the sick room are given out, however, except the statements contained in the bulletins, which are invariably brief. Hundreds of people constantly linger about the slopes of Lafayette park, just across the street, affording a good view of the temporary executive mansion. The president's appearance is eagerly awaited and his every movement is closely observed. The crowd, however, is quiet and respectful, all realizing that manifestations of enthusiasm are out of place while Mrs. McKinley lies so critically ill.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

The Valuable Country Home of Thomas B. Wanamaker Destroyed---Loss In Art Gallery of Quarter of a Million.

Philadelphia, May 18.—The country home of Thomas B. Wanamaker, at Meadow Brook, Montgomery county, was struck by lightning this morning and entirely destroyed. The loss is estimated at $500,000. The house was adorned with valuable paintings and bric-a-brac, all of which was destroyed.

Mr. Wanamaker and his family were at their Philadelphia home at the time. A woman caretaker and her child and a man servant, who were sleeping in the house, narrowly escaped being burned to death. The house was of the colonial style and was built in 1826. In size it rivaled a hotel. Its abutting wings contained scores of rooms, a ball room, library and picture gallery.

The pictures in the art gallery are an irreparable loss. Their approximate value is $250,000, and several of the paintings were specimens of the old masters. One alone, a Vandyke of Charles I, cost Mr. Wanamaker $43,000. There were also many other splendid specimens of the Dutch school, and the modern school of art was represented by some of the greatest masters.

BOUGHT FOR THE ERIE

Morgan Said to Have Purchased the Leyland Steamship Line In Interest of the Erie Railroad.

New York, May 18.—The Herald says: Since the announcement a few weeks ago that J. Pierpont Morgan had arranged to buy the Leyland line of ocean steamships, there has been much speculation as to what he will do with his purchase. It is now the indication that the transaction was made in the interest of the Erie railroad. Directors of the Erie, who were seen last night, say that if the purchase had been made for the Erie, they had not been taken into Mr. Morgan's confidence.

"It is Mr. Morgan's custom to do a thing first and tell of it afterward," said ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt, who is a member of the Erie directorate.

The statement comes from an excellent source. The transaction is understood to be the carrying out of a plan for a land and ocean traffic system of importance. Ever since the accession of James J. Hill to its directorate, friends of the Erie have been boldly prophesying great things for its future. It now seems that Mr. Morgan has hit upon a novel plan for rejuvenating the system. A great barrier to the successful competition abroad of American coal with English coal has been the cost of ocean traffic, although our coal business abroad has been growing despite this fact. With the Erie railroad controlling a line of vessels like the Leyland, the export coal situation might be greatly bettered.

On the other hand, the photographs with the prismatic camera and measurements for the polarization of light and heat radiation of the corona have not succeeded.

REVISION OF CREED

Report of Committee to Presbyterian General Assembly.

The Church Wants Change In the Credal Statement.

Recommends That Committee Be Named to Prepare Change.

Philadelphia, May 18.—Contrary to expectation, the Presbyterian general assembly did not discuss the report of the committee on revision, which was today presented to the commissioners. A minority report was also laid oefore the assembly and it is probable that the question will not come up for consideration until next Thursday. It will at least be delayed until subjects of more interest are out of the way.

The assembly fixed next Thursday at 10 o'clock a. m. for the hearing and consideration of the report of the special committee on the revision of the confession of faith. Thursday and Friday have been set aside for the discussion of revision as it is considered that the debate will consume at least two days.

The report of the committee on revision recited its appointment and that it addressed inquiries to the presbyteries on the subject, 202 replying. The votes show that sixty-three presbyteries favor some revision of the confession of faith and eighty-eight presbyteries favor some form of a supplemental statement of the doctrines most surely believed among us.

After the patient consideration given to this important subject, thus recorded, and after a protracted, but harmonious discussion of the subject in all its bearings, and in its possible issues, it was determined to submit to the general assembly the following findings and recommendations, viz.:

1. That the returns indicate that the church desires some change in its credal statement.

2. That the returns indicate that no change is desired which would in any way impair the integrity of the system of doctrine contained in the confession of faith.

3. These returns indicate that it is the mind of the church that the confession shall be interpreted throughout in harmony with the teaching of Scripture, that God is not willing that any one should perish, nor is the decree of God, but the wickedness of their own hearts which shuts some men out from the salvation freely and lovingly offered in Christ Jesus to all sinners.

4. These returns indicate that a phurality of the presbyteries desire that changes should be made by some new statement of present doctrines.

5. The returns also indicate a desire on the part of many presbyteries for some revision of the present confession, especially in chapter III; chapter X, section 3; chapter XVI, section 7; chapter XXII, section 3; chaper XXV, section 6, with additional statements concerning the love of God for all men, missions and the Holy Spirit.

A. In view of these facts we recommend that a committee, as provided for by the government, chapter XXIII, section 3, be apointed by this assembly.

B. We recommend that this committee be instructed to prepare a brief summary of the Reformed Faith bearing the same relation to the Confession which the Shorter Catechism bears to the Larger Catechism, and formed on the general model of the consensus creed prepared for the assembly of 1892, or the "Articles of Faith" of the Presbyterian Church of England, both of which documents are appended to the committee's report and submitted to the assembly, to be referred to the committee to be appointed.

This summary is not to be a substitute for the confession, and is not to affect the terms of subscription, but "to vindicate and clear the doctrines of the church from all false aspersions and misconceptions," to give a better understanding of what is most surely believed among us, and is in no sense to impair, but rather to manifest and maintain the integrity of the Reformed Faith.

C. We further recommend that this committee be instructed to prepare amendments of chapter III; chapter X, section 3; chapter XVI, section 7; chapter XXII, section 3, and chapter XXV, section 6, of our Confession of Faith, either by modifications of the text or by declaratory statement, so as more clearly to express the mind of the church with additional statements concerning the love of God for all men, missions and the Holy Spirit. It being understood that the revision shall in no way impair the integrity of the system of doctrine set forth in our Confession and taught in the Holy Scripture.

The members of the committee appointed by the last assembly unanimously acreed to all the findings and recommendations of this report, with the exception that Rev. Dr. William McKibbon and E. W. C. Humphrey, Esq., could not approve of the recommendation to the assembly to instruct the committee that might be appointed to prepare a summary of the Reformed Faith to be submitted to the presbyteries in connection with such other amendments and statements as might be prepared. These members gave notice that they would submit to the assembly a report embodying the findings and recommendations of this report, omitting the recommendation to instruct a committee that might be appoined to prepare such a summary of the Reformed Faith.

In conclusion we feel justified in the statement, and we think it fitting to state, that our lamented member, Gen. Benjamin Harrison, gave clear expression to views before the committee which assure us that he would have joined us in the findings and recommendations of this report.

Loyal to our standards, believing that a constitutional majority of our beloved church favors some action, and that our recommendations, if executed, would preserve intact our system of doctrine, and promote the peace and prosperity of the church, we humbly and reverently submit the results of our inquiries and deliberations to this venerable assembly.

WAS SHOT AT.

Rev. Russell H. Conwell Was Mistaken For a Burglar.

Philadelphia, May 18.—Insurance on the life of Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell, amounting to exactly $575,000, just missed being due the other night when he was mistaken for a burglar and dodged six bullets in five seconds. It was a hot finish, and for once the eminent doctor thanked God for his long legs, sound wind and early training as a sprinter.

Dr. Conwell preaches for nothing and lectures for money. He built "The Temple," which seats more people than the Academy of Music, and "turns 'em away" three times every Sunday. He built Temple college, where several thousand young men and young women "cultivate self-respect and learn to be come self-supporting" every year. He built the Samaritan hospital, where the millionaire and the drunken bum get the same treatment, and besides all of this he has earned $30,000 a year for the Conwell family without taking a cent for his sermons.

It took money to build the magnificent buildings occupied by the Conwell enterprises, and the cold-blooded capitalist who loaned the money took a mortgage on the doctor's life, in the shape of life insurance, to guarantee the payment of the debt in the event of Dr. Conwell's death.

Dr. Conwell returned from Ohio yesterday and confirmed the report of his narrow escape, but declined to name the hotel wherein the shooting occurred or to even indicate it by giving the name of the Ohio city in which it happened. Here is his story of the affair:

"I reached the city early in the afternoon, and went directly to the hotel, where I was assigned to room 232. Being preoccupied I neglected to note the floor, but mechanically followed the bell boy and turned in for a nap. After dinner I went directly to the Auditorium, where I was tendered a reception before the lecture. The early reception was necessary because of a meeting to be held immediately after the lecture, where my presence was desired. It was quite late when I returned to the hotel, and the night clerk handed a key to a bell boy, who led the way to the elevator, and then opened the door of the bedroom for me. I never looked at the number on the door, but entered the room and decided to undress by the light of the street lamp, which streamed in through the window.

"I had reached the bureau and was about to remove my hat when I heard a loud report almost at my side, and turned just in time to see a man sitting upright in the bed with a revolver aimed at my head.

"I yelled 'Don't shoot,' and made a dash for the open door. The man, clad only in his pajamas, followed post haste and fired at every step. The house was aroused at the first shot, and a head popped out of every door in the corridor.

"As I turned the first corner in the hall, I ran into the arms of the night watchman, who took me in charge and promised to shoot my head off if I offered to escape. He took me downstairs, where I was identified by the night clerk and released from custody. I had been sent to room 252, instead of 232, and the clerk's error very nearly cost me my life."

DIED AT NAPLES.

Demise of Rev. Dr. Babcock of New York.

New York, May 18.—News was cabled to this city today that the Rev. Dr. Maltbie D. Babcock, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church, in this city, died in Naples today of Mediterranean fever, after an illness of only a few days.

Dr. Babcock was graduated from Syracuse university in the class of 1879. In 1887 he went to Baltimore to succeed the Rev. Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, and in 1899 succeeded Dr. Henry Van Dyke as pastor of the Brick church here.

HAVE NOT BEEN SOLD.

Copenhagen, May 18.—It is officially announced that the Danish West Indies have not been sold. As previously set forth in these dispatches the negotiations are progressing on matters of detail, but it is not likely that a treaty will be concluded before the rigsdag and congress meet.

STRIKE ENDS

Street Car Trouble at Albany Is Over.

Concessions Were Made By Both Sides.

Albany, N. Y., May 18.—The street railroad employes' strike, which was inaugurated eleven days ago on the lines of the United Traction company in Albany, Troy, Cohoes, Rensselaer and Watervliet is at an end, and operations on the entire system will be resumed at noon today. There have been concessions on both sides, and an agreement was reached early today at a conference at which both the corporation and the operatives were represented, under which it should be possible to avoid strikes in the future. The company on its part agrees to receive representations regarding grievances from any committee of its employes, representing organized or unorganized labor; that men suspended or discharged by the superintendents shall be entitled to appeal to the executive committee of the company, that in case employes can disprove charges under which they were suspended or discharged they shall be entitled to pay for the time they were idle during such suspension or discharge and that there will be no discrimination against any of the men, who engaged in the strike except those guilty of unlawful or riotous acts. The company reserves right to employ union or non-union men and to discharge employes for cause.

The wages of all the motormen, conductors, linemen and pitmen is to be 20 cents per hour, and of pitmen helpers 17½ cents per hour.

The men agree that no proposition for a strike shall be acted upon by any division at the same meeting at which it is introduced, but that at least forty-eight hours shall elapse before such proposition shall be voted upon, and that if a strike shall be deemed ordered it shall not take effect until at least six days have elapsed after notice to the company, during which time the employes shall continue their work. The non-union men brought here to fill the places of the strikers will unquestionably be withdrawn, although the formal agreement does not mention them.

TROUBLE AT WEST POINT

Growing Discontent Since Booz Trial Said to Have Broken Into Practically an Insurrection Among Upper Classmen.

New York, May 18.—A special to the World from Washington says: Information of a semi-official nature has been received here from the West Point military academy of a serious condition of affairs prevailing in the cadet battalion, which amounts almost to an insurrection of a large number of upperclassmen.

Trouble has been known to exist at the institution since the investigation of the Booz hazing, and matters have grown so bad of late that, it is reported here, no less than eighty cadets, chiefly of the second grade, were confined to quarters, and a large proportion might be court-martialed. A so-called insurrection is said to have been a result of the growing unpopularity of Col. Mills, the superintendent, who, army officers allege, has issued orders and prescribed regulations which the cadets believe are entirely opposed to the traditions and best interests of the school.

Adjt. Gen. Corbin said this morning that he had not received any report of trouble at West Point, and that he knew nothing of the affair.

TYPEWRITERS BARRED

Sultan Refuses to Allow Writing Machines to Be Brought Into Turkey, Alleging Fear of Seditious Writings.

Constantinople, May 18.—The customs authorities have prohibited the entry of typewriters into Turkey, and 200 machines now in the custom house, have been ordered returned to the consignor. The authorities have taken up the peculiarly characteristic attitude that there is no distinct feature about typewriting by which the authorship could be recognized, or a person using a machine be traced, and that, consequently, any one is able to put in type seditious writings without fear of compromising himself. Hektographic paste and fluid are also prohibited for similar reasons.

The embassies are making representations on the subject with the view of inducing the Turkish government to take up a more reasonable attitude.

DR. MITCHELL

RESTORES HER WITHERED LIMBS.

She Is Now Walking!

THE PALSIED, DEAF AND BLIND RESTORED.

NONE CAN EXPLAIN THE MYSTERY.

Although Healer Mitchell has been in the city but three years, his fame has extended to the remote corners of Minnesota and adjacent states, and the demonstrations of his wonderful magnetic power are the talk of Duluth.

A reporter, very much interested in what he had seen the previous week, visited him again at his office at 17 East Superior street, seeking further information. It will be remembered that he called last week to interview Dr. Mitchell and there was a little girl under the doctor's treatment at that time who had not been able to straighten her limbs out for months, and after taking eight treatments she was able to straighten them out. Dr. Mitchell said to the reporter, "You call again in a week and you will see her walking." The reporter could hardly believe that such would be the case, as one week ago she was perfectly helpless, but when he called today and inquired about her, Dr. Mitchell said: "Yes, sir; Saturday afternoon, after her treatment, she could stand and take a few steps." The reporter asked the little girl her name, and she replied, "Svea Peterson, of Two Harbors. I am 11 years old. I do not have any more of those pains in my stomach or across my back, they are all gone." The little girl said a gentleman living at Two Harbors told her papa if he would bring her to Dr. Mitchell, at Duluth, he would cure her, for his daughter was cured of paralysis of the lower limbs. The little girl said: "I am going to call and see her when I go back and tell her I am cured, and thank papa for telling us to come here. We are going to tell everybody we see that is sick what Dr. Mitchell has done for me. I was carried from the train to Dr. Mitchell's office. My papa had been there a few days before and asked the doctor if he would treat me. When he had examined me he said I looked like a hopeless case, but he would treat me and do the best he could, and if there was any help for me he could help me."

The reporter went away convinced that there was something which medical profession did not yet understand, and from the large amount of testimony it is useless to say "There is nothing in it." There seems to be a constantly growing belief that drugs are not everything. In this wonderful age people are tiring of the old drugging and medication system, and are looking up to a higher power, the magnetic power, for help. When the most eminent physicians fail, Magnetic Healer Mitchell succeeds, because he is gifted with the greatest of power, magnetic power.

Dr. Mitchell's office hours are from 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. daily; Sundays, 10 a. m. to 12 m. 'Phone 579.

LOCAL TRUST

Said to Be Possible Outcome of Dredging Negotiations.

Ever since the incorporation of the Superior Dredge company by Capt. C. S. Barker and his associates in West Superior there have been rumors of a possible local dredge trust. When the dredge trust was formed on the great lakes a representative of the trust visited the head of the lake and is said to have made proposals to the local dredge men to come into the combination, in fact the trust carried an option on Capt. Barker's plant for some time. The consolidation hinted at now does not contemplate the dredge trust of the great lakes, but one purely local, one made up of the three dredge concerns of Duluth and West Superior. It is said that the step toward incorporation by Capt. Barker is merely a preliminary step toward bringing about the consolidation, and last evening a local marine man, who is pretty well posted on dredging matters, said that people need not be surprised to see all the dredging plants owned by one stock company inside of another year. The plants, especially those of Capt. Baker and the Duluth Dredge and Dock company, are well equipped; in fact there are few if any other plants along the lake that are in any better condition to carry on the work incident to the dredging business, for both have their docks, machine shops and all the building facilities necessary.

About ten years ago the dredging business on the lakes was one that paid big money on the money invested in it. The government paid liberally for its contract work, and the dredge companies were overcrowded with private contracts. The dredge men say that owing to competition of late years the profits have all been taken out of the business. Improvements in dredging machinery have helped to facilitate the work and cheapen the process, but there are many dredging companies after the business now, and the competition has cheapened the cost of dock work.

MAKES A CHANGE

Poor Board Lets New Contract For the County Sick.

Red Cross Hospital Is to Care For Them Hereafter.

Cost Twenty-Five Cents Per Day Less Than Before.

At the recent meeting of the poor board another innovation that will result in a considerable saving was made. That was the making of a contract with the Red Cross hospital of West Duluth, conducted by Dr. A. F. Huntoon, to handle all of the county sick at a rate of 60 cents per patient per day.

This is a saving of about 25 cents per day for each county patient, and as the poor department handles a large number of sick people during a year the aggregate yearly saving will be quite large. In the past most of the county patients have been taken to St. Mary's and St. Luke's hospitals, though some of them have gone to the smaller institutions for the care of the sick. The bills for the care of the sick have run from $300 to $400 per month.

When the poor board took hold of the matter bids were called for from the hospitals for the handling of the pauper sick, and the Red Cross hospital, as well as the Duluth hospitals, put in bids. The bids of St. Mary's and St. Luke's hospitals were 90 cents per patient per day without dressing, and as nearly as the members of the poor board could figure it the dressing would amount to about 5 cent a day additional, making 85 cents in all.

The Red Cross hospital, on the other hand, put in a flat bid of 60 cents per patient per day for everything, and it got the contract. During the latter part of the week Overseer of the Poor Hunt has been engaged in moving the county patientst now in hospitals down to the Red Cross hospital in West Duluth, and all of them are now located there and those that come in the future, during the life of the present contract, will be sent there. None of the up-town hospitals now have a single county patient.

This action was taken at the meeting of the board Wednesday, when John Jenswold, Jr., of Duluth, and Capt. Pengilly, of Ely, were present.

TO COMPEL IT.

C. J. Frederickson Begins Mandamus Suit to Collect Judgment.

Mandamus proceedings were begun in district court this morning by C. J. Fredrickson against F. J. Voss as city treasurer to compel the latter to pay a judgment for $8342.96 secured by the relator some time again. The relator recites that he demanded payment May 11 and it was refused, the only ground for the refusal stated by the city treasurer being that under section 44 of the city charter he had no authority to pay the judgment except on an order properly drawn and countersigned, which had first been duly authorized and allowed, and which should specify the purpose for which it was drawn and the fund out of which it was to come.

Fredrickson claims that a judgment should not be treated as other claims against the city are, but that under section 432, judgments are to be paid in the manner provided for by the general laws. John Jenswold, Jr., is the attorney.

A FLOATER.

Is Supposed to Be Martin Olson, Recently Drowned.

This morning a floater was found near the dock of the Northwestern Fuel company by G. W. McCullum, first mate of the steamer Bulgaria.

Acting Coroner Patton was summoned and the body was taken to Durkan's morgue where it now is. Up to 2:30 p. m. no positive identification had been secured.

The body was not badly decomposed and was that of a man 190 pounds in weight and about 5 feet 11 inches tall. It was dressed in a black coat and vest, new black jean trousers and new shoes. The shirt was dark calico, with a dark tie. The deceased had a dark mustache and bald head.

In a pocket was found a slip of paper with the address "1428 Oneota street."

Some time ago Martin Olson was drowned off a scow of the E. T. Williams & Sons dredge company and it is just possible that this body is that of Olson. A relative of Olson was expected in this afternoon to view the remains.

ADDITIONAL MARINE.

VALUABLE COPPER CARGO.

The new steel steamer George A Flagg reached Buffalo Wednesday with what is said to be the most valuable cargo ever brought down from Lake Superior. It consists of 2900 tons of copper ore from Lake Linden, the estimated value of which is $800,000. It is consigned to the smelter at Black Rock. The Flagg anchored outside the harbor and lightered 200 tons of her cargo before attempting to run down the river.

DAVIDSON'S ERIE SHIPYARD.

A statement has from time to time appeared to the effect that Capt. Davidson of Bay City intended to build a mammoth shipyard at Erie had some foundation in fact, but at present there is every indication that the whole play has been for effect in securing additional concessions at the present shipyard in Michigan. So says the Buffalo Commercial.

LAUNCHING AT CLEVELAND.

The new steel carferry for the Pere Marquette railroad was to be launched at the old Globe yards at Cleveland this afternoon. This one was built in a remarkably short time, and will be put in service soon. The new ferry's dimensions are 338 feet keel, 56 feet beam and 19½ feet molded depth.

AMUSEMENTS.

BLANCHE WALSH.

Blanche Walsh has delighted Duluthians a number of times with her superb productions and consummate ability, but never has she achieved a triumph more pronounced or more conspicuous than that of last evening, when she appeared in "Mort Than Queen" at the Lyceum. The audience was large and testified its thorough appreciation by frequent applause, so prolonged after several acts that it seemed the people were loath to lose sight of the gifted woman who had stirred their emotions.

"More Than Queen" is a story of the courtship, married life and divorce of Napoleon and Josephine. It is not a pleasant story, though it has its touches of lightness, but it is a decidedly human one, nevertheless. Josephine first appears in a prologue as a coffee seller, and meets Napoleon for the first time. He is then but a young warrior upon whom fame is just beginning to shed its light. He already talks of his destiny and the star which leads him onward. She tells him of the prophecy made to her by an old negress that she will one day be "more than queen."

This meeting stirs an affection which ripens into love, and the next act opens five years later, with Josephine wife of Napoleon, just about to return from glories won in Egypt. Here the family bickerings, the nagging of Josephine by the relatives of her husband and the sowing of the seeds of jealousy are brought out. Napoleon returns and finds her absent at a ball, and his jealousies and suspicions find confirmation in the fact. He is enraged. He will divorce her. He will not meet her in order that he may not succumb to her wiles. He hides behind a door. She enters and begins to cajole him through the closed door. Her witcheries are too much for him and the scene closes with the wife in the arms of her husband and exclaiming: "Now, indeed, am I more than queen."

In the next act Napoleon informs Josephine that he is to be made emperor, but she entreats him not to take the step for his own sake, and predicts that it will be fatal. He is obdurate, but though it has been rumored that he is to divorce Josephine, to the great delight of his family, he declares that the condition upon which he will take the throne is that Josephine shall be empress, and the chagrined sisters are forced to acknowledge her as such.

The coronation is a magnificent scene. It presents the complete humbling of the jealous sisters. It is a triumph for Josephine and one which gives her supreme satisfaction, but she is still magnanimous and asks the emperor for favors for his mother and brother. The coronation is a wonderful stage picture, and follows Louis David's famous painting.

The fourth and fifth acts bring the powerful scenes of the play, those in which the strongest passions are brought into play. The barrenness of the couple furnishes the basis of the plot, the love of one for the other, though clouded by the petty gossip and slanders of jealous relatives, is intense, and combines with it respect, admiration and all that should make it enduring and happy, but over them hangs one great cloud, they have no children. Stronger than his love for woman, than every affection there is in his breast, is the desire to found the dynasty that shall rule the land he has brought to his feet. To accomplish it he puts away the wife to whose wisdom and support he owes at least half of all that he is. The struggle is a fierce one, for when with Josephine his resolution falters before his love and his recognition of her ability, every inch an empress. Finally he wails up the door joining their private apartments. Poor Josephine realizes that it is the end, signs the marriage decree and hands it to him.

The talents which Miss Walsh is able to bring to the portrayal of this remarkable nature are all that are necessary to make the ideal Josephine, and supplementing them is the fine, and supplemented them is the fine physique, the majesty of her bearing and the magnetism of her presence without which it would be impossible to adequately present it. In grace and dignity she leaves nothing to be desired; in the lighter scenes she reveals a true womanly nature; in fact, throughout all the intrigues and jealousies by which she is surrounded, Miss Walsh makes the woman conspicuous. She was Josephine herself.

The support was good. William Humphrey at the outset hardly met expectations, but he grew as the play progressed and in the later scenes was very good. Ogden Stevens made a fine Talleyrand and Robert Lowe was especially good as Lucien Bonaparte. The entire cast was satisfactory.

For splendor of production in every detail of scenic equipment, costuming and properties, it equalled anything ever presented on the Lyceum stage. The scenes were all beautiful pictures, and the gowns and every feature of the costuming were marked by elegance and faithfulness to the period in which the play was laid.

The play was repeated this afternoon and will be given again this evening.

SUIT TO RESTRAIN.

Park Point Legal Scrap Is Begun.

The Interstate Traction company has begun suit in district court against Charles Lawrence to have him restrained from moving a restaurant upon lots on Park Point leased by the company and used by it for park purposes in the maintenance of a summer resort. It is claimed that the moving of the building will not only interfere with the value of the property for the purposes for which it is leased, but that it will necessitate removing the trolley wires and thus suspend traffic on the car line. Leo A. Ball is the attorney.

Public School Competition.

A public meeting will be held at the assembly room of the high school on Friday evening, May 24, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Duluth Humane society, for the reading of some compositions written by the school children on humane subjects and for the presentation of prizes for the same. The meeting will be brief and Bishop McGolrick will say a few words to the audience.

TRANSFORMATIONS.

Curious Results When Coffee Drinking Is Abandoned.

It is almost as hard for an old coffee toper to quit the use of coffee as it is for a whisky or tobacco fiend to break off, except that the coffee user can quit coffee and take up Postum Food Coffee without any feeling of a loss of the morning beverage, for when Postum is well boiled and served with cream, it is really better in point of flavor than most of the coffee served nowadays, and to the taste of the connoisseur it is like the flavor of fine Java.

A great transformation takes place in the body within ten days or two weeks after coffee is left off and Postum Food Coffee used, for the reason that the poison to the nerves has been discontinued and in its place is taken a liquid that contains the most powerful elements of nourishment.

It is easy to make this test and prove these statements by changing from coffee to Postum Food Coffee.

IS NOW IN HAWAII

F. E. Thompson Writes Brightly of Honolulu Affairs.

He Is Receiving the Smiles of Dame Fortune.

Plenty of Law and Politics on the Island.

A letter has been received from Frank E. Thompson, and it will surprise some of his friends to hear that the letterhead on which it is written reads "Magoon & Thompson, attorneys at law, Honolulu, H. T." The letter is characteristically bright, and like all letters from everywhere that come in from Duluthians, it contains references to other Duluthians who are there. In part the letter is as follows:

"Albert Judd, Captain of the Myrtle Boat club, to which I belong, was just in importuning me to assist him in coaching the crews for the coming year. So far, owing to press of business, I have eschewed rowing and all other elongated sports until my heretofore elongated frame has taken on the rotund proportions of Ham Peyton during the early days of his training. We have two cracking good boat clubs here, with rivalry to burn and nothing but matches. Our yearly regatta is a territorial holiday, and minor regattas are sprinkled in every few months. The club houses are built on the coral reef-protected shore of the ocean, and the course running to sea and return in front of them. Each house has a large 'lanai'—veranda—completely encircling it, where during the races string bands dispense undulating hula music which, during the recesses is taken advantage of by the spectators, who dance until their collars are wilted and their faces take on that jaded expression often seen at the Assembly when, toward the wee sma' hours, the misguided master of ceremonies in lusty voice calls out, 'one more couple wanted.'

"You ask me to tell you something about myself and how I have progressed in this remote portion of God's original and the United State's acquired domain. Prepare for a protracted siege, for upon the subject of self I have but to tap the rock of my conceit with the rod of aspirations and an abundant flow of hot air bursts forth. I was here a year April 14, 365 days, during which the smile of Dame Fortune seems to have beamed unceasingly upon me. As you know I am practicing law, for in spite of the general impression of people at home that the people of Hawaii barter beads for bread, we have law and lots of it and litigation without end. Unquestionably our two circuit judges here and our United States district judge do more business than the three judges at home. Our present circuit court calendar, slightly congested I concede, has over 200 civil cases enrolled thereon, which, in addition to the criminal business, makes a handy little amount of work for two judges to grind out in the four terms we have each year. On the calendar above referred to we have about forty-five cases and get out share of the criminal business. My associate, Mr. Magoon, is an old resident and descended from Midas, I believe, for like that fable-famed gent everything he touches seems to turn to the single standard advocated by yourself and other men of substance, and decried by our fellow-townsman, representative for two years, senator for a month, and speaker forever, Charles A. Towne.

"We are not entirely devoid of that preeminently American pastime, called for want of a better name (a misnomer, I submit) 'politics.' 'Rampant' is about the only word that expresses the political situation of the Hawaiian islands. We have three branches of Republicans, pure and simple, each having a strong advocate in our various daily papers, and one emasculated form of Republicans formed by our present delegate to congress, elected by the home rulers as an Independent, but more dexterously, and with admirable equipoise, straddling the fence that separates the Independent party from the G. O. P.

"O. G. Traphagen, I meet very frequently, our meetings usually resulting in a little love feast and invocations in our simple way to the On High to deal kindly with the people of the North Star state. Jack Noyes is in Hilo, on the largest island of the group, Hawaii. I understand he is a local representative of an embryo steamship company. I haven't seen him yet and only knew of his presence there through Judge Silliman, who met him on THE street (notice the use of the definite article) in Hilo. His mother, I believe, is living with him."

A NEW TACK.

Arrests to Be Made For Having Unclean Premises.

"Next week we are going to take a new tack in the matter of cleaning up the city," said Mayor Hugo this morning. "Moral suasion has proved a failure with a considerable number of Duluth's citizens. Many of them are people whom you would not think would be guilty of keeping filthy premises. Patience has ceased to be a virtue and if the premises of these delinquents are not cleaned up within a few days, they will be arrested and prosecuted in police court."

A MINING LEASE.

Republic Steel Company Gets Howe Forty.

A lease of the Howe forty in section 25, 58-17, comprising the nw¼ of the nw¼, was filed in the office of the register of deeds this morning, running from the Pettit Mining company to the Republic Iron and Steel company. The lease runs until Dec. 29, 1929, and it is provided that 20,000 tons is to be moved this year and 50,000 tons each year thereafter. The lessee agrees to explore the property as rapidly as possible to determine the amount of ore up to 500,000 tons. Should there be less than 500,000 tons the royalty is to be 30 cents a ton, and if it is more than that it is to be 35 cents.

Lerch Matter Argued.

In special term of district court this morning Judge Cant heard the mandamus case of R. S. Lerch against Building Inspector Robinson to compel him to permit the relator to move his barn across First street. Permission to do this was granted by the council and then the first action was rescinded. It is claimed that the action of the council in rescinding permission is null and void. Judge Cant took the matter under advisement.

AT WEST DULUTH

The Duluth Foundry and Machine company, that has been operating the old Iron Bay plant at the corner of Ramsey street and Fiftieth avenue west for the past two years, closed down permanently on Thursday, although a small crew was at work cleaning up odds and ends until last night. A report has been current that the Marshall-Wells company would operate the plant in connection with their business, as some company was known to have been figuring on securing a lease. This report is denied by the officials of the hardware company, however. The Iron Bay plant was built about twelve years ago and has since passed into the possession of the Electric corporation of Boston. J. L. Washburn is the local representative of this company. The foundry company that has been operating the plant was organized with local and St. Paul men about two years ago, with Fred A. Foote as secretary. It was proposed to do all kinds of manufacture of malleable iron, but the plans have not been carried out to that extent. A large amount of machine work has been done at the shops, however, and as high as 150 men have been employed. The works have been shut down on account of scarcity of orders. The foundry company could get the work of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Iron Range roads, but could not compete with the concerns to the Southwest. Wages here were $1.75 per day, and in the Southwest $1.25 was paid. Most of the railroads have their own machine shops and do their own work. Mr. Foote will return to St. Paul, where he was formerly engaged in the manufacture of structural iron.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES.

It has been the custom of the Minnesota State K. of P. band to observe Decoration day with appropriate exercises, aside from the usual exercises held in the city during that day, in which the band participates. During previous years the members of the band have planned on and carried out on the morning of Decoration day a fine program at West Duluth, the band furnishing the music, engaging the speakers and defraying all expenses. The exercises are held in the evening so as not to conflict with those held during the day. The band held a business meeting last evening and steps were taken to have exercises at West Duluth during the evening of the approaching Decoration day. A fine program of speaking and music will be arranged and published as soon as the speakers have been secured. Last year Col. A. A. Hatris, whose death occurred this week, and Charles Mariz, of West Duluth, delivered the memorial addresses.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

The Senate club had a very interesting debate last evening over the justification of the lumber pilers' strike at the docks in West Duluth and no decision was reached for or either side. So warm was the arguments that it was thought best to continue the debate next Tuesday night, while the contestants will employ the interval strengthening their positions by looking up new arguments.

The subject of the sermon at the Plymouth Congregational church, at West Duluth, Sunday morning, will be "The First Chapter of Acts." In the evening the topic will be "God is Love."

Norway's natal day was observed with very interesting exercises at the Great Eastern hall last night, under the auspices of the ladies of the Norwegian Lutheran church. The attendance was large.

An important meeting of the Republican club has been called for tonight to listen to the final reports of the subcommittees on the big banquet to be held at the Great Eastern hall one week from tonight.

Two switch engines are now employed at the ore docks and as soon as the season is further advanced and the boats running freely, it is expected that three day and three night crews will be worked at the dock. A number of the engineers of the boats that were wintered here have arrived, and it will be some days before the boats are fitted out and ready to make their regular trips down the lake with ore.

Miss Kathryn Hayden is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Patterson.

A BAR MEETING.

Will Pay Tribute to Col. A. A. Harris.

Within a short time a meeting of the St. Louis County Bar association will be held to pay tribute to the memory of the late Col. A. A. Harris. At this morning's special term of district court, Judge S. F. White, in a very neat and touching speech, moved that the court appoint a committee of five on resolutions, and that when the committee is ready to report the court fix a day for the association to meet and act upon them and properly pay its respect to the dead member.

Judge White suggested to the court that in view of the life-long friendly relations between the deceased and Capt. W. H. Smallwood, the latter be made chairman of the committee. He said that the two fought on opposite sides during the war of the rebellion, that afterward, in Kansas, they were very intimately associated, and that their friendship was continued in Duluth. He therefore believed it to be proper that Capt. Smallwood be made chairman of the committee.

His suggestion was acted upon by the court, Judge Cant appointing the following committee on resolutions: Capt. W. H. Smallwood, chairman; S. F. White, H. H. Phelps, John H. Norton, and Thomas J. Davis.

BALL GAME TOMORROW.

Fashions and Big Duluths to Meet.

A game between the Big Duluth and the Duluth Fashion ball teams has finally been arranged for tomorrow afternoon at the Driving park, and both teams are preparing for a red hot game. The line-up will be as follows:

Big Duluths.	Duluth Fashion.
Olson ..... third base	Randall
Gerard ..... first base	Kimmerer
Glenny ..... short stop	Bennett

FAITHLESS LOVER.

Girl's Fruitless Journey to the Klondike.

After traveling thousands of miles to wed the man of her heart, Miss Nina Moore, of this city, young, pretty, well educated, reached Dawson to find that another woman had usurped her place in his affections, says the San Francisco Examiner.

W. H. Bledsoe is the name of the defaulting fiance. Miss Moore and her mother met him while they were going to Nome last year. He was a fellow passenger and made himself very agreeable as well as useful to the ladies on the crowded steamer. He was a pilot in the employ of the Alaska company, and his knowledge of the sea enabled him to be of especial service to the two women. Miss Moore had for four years been employed in the art department of H. S. Crocker & Co. So assiduously did she devote herself to her duties that her health showed signs of breaking down, and she was advised to take a sea voyage.

The attentions of Bledsoe to the ladies continued in the Arctic city, and when she left Nome they were betrothed.

Bledsoe went to Dawson, and from there he sent letters. The happy day was fixed, Bledsoe arranging that the marriage should take place in San Francisco, but the arrangements had to be changed as he could not get away, and he asked her to go to him.

Miss Moore sailed from here to Seattle on Jan. 10, and at the sound port took the steamer Sardinian for Skaguay. From there she journeyed by rail to White Horse and thence to Dawson by stage. On the stage was a woman from Dawson, and to her Miss Moore confided her romance. With cruel bluntness the woman told of Bledsoe's career in Dawson. He had married Mine Lloyd, a variety actress, two weeks before. The marriage was the talk of the town. Flaring posters had announced the event, and the Savoy theater, where it occurred, was packed with a careless, drunken mob. Bledsoe himself was lost to all sense of decency through infatuation for the woman.

And so the woman from Dawson rattled on. Bledsoe was a laughing stock and Mine, the actress, was twisting him about her little finger and accepting the attentions of other men.

The poor girl could bear no more. She had tried to maintain her dignity. That another woman should win her lover was hard enough to bear, but that he should lay his heart at the feet of such a creature was too much. She leaned back in the stage and cried as if her heart must break.

The stage rolled into Dawson. Bledsoe knew that the girl he had wronged was to be a passenger, but he stayed away. Miss Moore told her story to the agent of the Alaska Commercial company and received the sympathy of that official. The story of Bledsoe's desertion was not quite as bad as it had been painted, but it was bad enough. There had been no wedding on the stage, although as the woman had said, the event had been advertised in big pictures on the Savoy bills. At the last moment Bledsoe's friends discouraged the foolhardy scheme.

The company's agent declared that Miss Moore should not be out a dollar on the trip. Bledsoe was under contract as a river pilot for the approaching season, and it was but just that he should pay the expenses of what his own acts had incurred. Many homes were opened to the friendless girl. She wanted to return immediately, but the long trip had exhausted her and her newfound friends insisted that she taket a proper amount of rest.

Her story became known about Dawson and by and by it reached Mine's cabin, where Bledsoe was installed. The shame of it at last stung him to the quick and roused his slumbering manhood. In a rage he left the woman and sought the girl he had so deeply wronged. But she would not see him; she would hold no communication with him and he soon returned again to his Zaza.

Mrs. Moore received a letter by the same mail which brought the story of Bledsoe's infatuation and his desertion of her daughter.

"Nina is all I have in the world," said she. "Without her my life would be useless, and were she to die up there on account of that man's shameful treatment I will hold him to account for it. He seemed a splendid fellow when we met him, and every inch a man. He neither gambled or drank. In fact, he was a member of the Young Men's Christian association. I am not a stickler on such things, but it was a pleasure to know that my child was going to marry a man of exemplary character.

"My daughter has had all the advantages of a good education. She was born in Virginia City, and during her early girlhood we were in comfortable circumstances. She went to school at Reno and finished her education in the East.

"She wrote me a letter telling me all about it. How the poor girl had suffered no one but she can tell."

DEATH FROM A SHOT.

According to "realistic" story writers, said a Confederate veteran the other day, "a man who receives a bullet through the brain or head always flings up his arms, leans into the air, spins around on his heel or executes some other gymnastic performance before he topples over, dead. As a matter of fact that is far from being the case, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat. Death sometimes comes so suddenly that the victim never moves a muscle, but remains frozen in the last posture of life. After the battle of Malvern Hill, where the slaughter was so terrific, we found the bodies of a number of our soldiers, who had taken a position behind a rail fence, pretty well screened by a growth of blackberry bushes, and were all killed. Among them was a man resting on one knee, with his rifle at his shoulder, in the act of taking aim. The pose was so alert and lifelike that it was next to impossible to realize we were looking at a stiffened corpse, and when the figure toppled over at a touch like a wooden effigy, with the gun rigidly extended, we were all thoroughly startled. The poor fellow had been shot through the right eye, and I suppose the bullet must have instantaneously paralyzed his nerve centers. It is not in the least improbable that the very man at whom he was aiming was the one who hurried him into eternity. A little later on the same morning we ran across an equally curious picture of sudden death. It was in a clump of woods that had been swept during the battle by a terrific fire from the enemy. Seated bolt upright on the ground, behind a large tree, was the body of a soldier, his back resting against the trunk. His legs were rigidly extended and his arms pressed close to his sides, his evident intention having been to bring himself entirely within shelter. He must have felt that he was perfectly safe for the time being, but by a singular freak of fate a piece of shell had struck the tree directly opposite his back, passed entirely through the trunk and on through his chest, making a ghastly wound and no doubt killing him instantly. It was plain he had not moved a muscle, and his stiff, cramped attitude, showing the pains he had taken to get his entire body behind the trunk, was an impressive sermon on the futility of trying to dodge death in a battle. The bullet will find its billet in spite of everything."

POWDER TRUST.

Manufacturers Propose to Form a Combine.

San Francisco, May 18.—The Chronicle says plans are under consideration for the consolidation of th large houses on the Pacific coast which now control the powder business, through a pooling agreement, for the manufacturers on the Atlantic seaboard. At the present time four houses have the territory of the entire western part of the United States (including Colorado), British Columbia and Alaska on the north to Mexico and Central America on the south. Heretofore the Pacific coast companies have made monthly reports to one another how to maintain prices on an agreed schedule. The project now is to do away with this species of pool by bringing all four local companies under one management and incorporating.

Was Not There

When They Called the Roll.

One of the Faithful, Even Under Many Difficulties.

A rather strange and remarkable incident is told concerning one of the recent happenings at the Soldiers' Home. It seems as though one of the inmates, an old stand-by, who had never failed to put in an appearance on the occasion of the issuing of medical supplies to the inmates, some time ago failed to put in an appearance, and did not do so for nearly three weeks before he was discovered. Inquiries were at once made as to his whereabouts, and when discovered his friends hardly knew him. This is the story he tells:

"Some time ago I heard of the remedy called Cascarine, advertised to cure biliousness, constipation, indigestion and other similar ills. As my friends know, I have been troubled with these diseases for years, and have tried everything ever heard of without any success whatever, and as a last resort I determined to try a bottle of the wonderful medicine. I procured some at the drug store and after using it for only three weeks it has done wonders. My appetite is good. I sleep well, my back does not pain me, have no more dizziness in my head and feel better than I have for years. Cascarine is truly a wonderful medicine. It does not harm the most delicate stomach. Acts pleasantly on the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels. Anyone suffering from dyspepsia, liver, kidney or stomach troubles will find this the best medicine that can be employed. The manufacturers claim that it is made from roots, barks, herbs and plants, nature's true remedies. A letter of recent date from W. F. Long, Cando, N. D., says: "Kindly send me $3 worth (one-half dozen bottles) of your Cascarine. It is the best medicine I have ever used and I want to give it to the rest of my family." You can get Cascarine at your druggist's; a full month's treatment for 50 cents.

ORDER FOR HEARING APPLICATION FOR APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR.—

State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis—ss.

In Probate Court, Special Term, May 16th, 1901.

In the matter of the estate of Oscar E. Schibsted, deceased:

On receiving and filing the petition of Catherine Schibsted, of the county of Douglas, Wisconsin, representing among other things, that Oscar E. Schibsted, late of the county of Douglas, in the state of Wisconsin, on the 25th day of March, A. It is ordered, that said petition be heard before said court, on the 12th day of June, A. D. 1901, at ten o'clock a. m., at the probate office, in the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county.

Ordered further, that notice thereof be given to the heirs of said deceased and to all persons interested, by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in The Duluth Evening Herald, a daily newspaper printed and published at Duluth, in said county.

Dated at Duluth, Minnesota, the 16th day of May, A. D. 1901.

By the Court,
W. G. BONHAM,
Judge of Probate.

(Seal Probate Court St. Louis Co., Minn.)
Duluth Evening Herald, May-18-25-June-1-1901.

THE PLANS ARE LARGE

Northern Pacific's Improvements Are to Be Extensive.

Great Stretch on Rice's Point to Be Filled In.

Tracks From Union Depot Westward to Be Leveled.

The improvements that are to begin soon on the Northern Pacific Railway company's system in Duluth are of a magnitude that probably few realize from the rather vague announcements hitherto made. Not only does the railway company intend to make improvements on Rice's Point—where the greater part of them are to be—but the plans include a large amount of work in the company's yard from the Union depot to Garfield avenue. Among the large contracts that will be let is one for filling in between tracks in all the low places from the Union depot to Garfield avenue, which will probably take more than 200,000 cubic yards of material.

The greatest amount of filling, however, will be done on Rice's Point. Not only will the land on the Point between the shore line and Garfield avenue be leveled off and the numerous swampy places filled in, but a strip about 200 feet wide and extending from the Northern Pacific railroad bridge to Twenty-first avenue west off the west shore line of the Point will be filled in by dredge work. The distance from the bridge to Twenty-first avenue is over 1000 yards. This filling alone will require in the neighborhood of 500,000 cubic yards of material and it will take all summer, perhaps longer, to complete the work. It is understood that none of the contracts have been let up to the present time, although bids have been asked for by the railroad company.

It is understood that the Northern Pacific company does not intend to put in its merchandise docks this year, although plans have been made for these and they will be constructed whenever the company believes there is a demand for them. When these are built, there will probably be ten or twelve warehouses with the necessary number of slips. The plans for the slips are said to provide that the slips will not be cut at right angles to the shore line, but at angles less sharp, the idea being to make it easier for boats to reach the docks than if they were compelled to turn at right angles when coming up the channel. The new filling will carry the shore line of the western side of the point well out to the government channel that runs from the railway bridge to Capt. Stevens' tug office at the foot of Twenty-first avenue west.

After leveling off the point and making the fillings the Northern Pacific company will establish a new system of tracks that will fill up all the available space and give the company a large and convenient yard. The new round house is to be constructed at the upper end of the point and will be located somewhere opposite the National Iron works, on Garfield avenue. The total cost of all the improvements to be made will be in the neighborhood of $500,000.

AT PARK POINT.

Park Being Arranged Near the Auditorium.

A large force of men were put at work yesterday morning on Park Point clearing out the underbrush and cleaning up the bay front south of Oatka beach auditorium. This locality the Park Point Street Railway company has secured by a lease of twenty lots, and will convert the property into a fine park. A large amount of money is to be used in beautifying the grounds about the pavilion, and a band stand will be erected under the tall pines, where the band will give Sunday concerts as the season advances and the weather permits. Numerous tables and seats for picnic parties will be erected about at convenient points for the parties that frequent the Point during the summer season. The company is also constructing ten new cottages for renters, some of which have been completed. The cottages are being built along better lines than formerly and will be very popular summer homes. Cottages on the Point are now filling up rapidly, and the opening dance of the season will be given by the campers at the auditorium on next Wednesday evening.

THE POLICE COURT.

Fred Bean Is Fined For Stealing.

Fred Bean was fined $20 and costs in police court this morning for petit larceny. He pleaded guilty to a charge by Fred Taylor of stealing a lot of harness rings and straps.

David Bowen was arraigned on a charge of stealing eight pair of black women's shoes, from the Duluth Shoe company. Some witnesses could not be secured from West Superior, as the defendant pleaded not guilty, the case was adjourned until next Monday afternoon.

Millie Nash, charged with residing in a house of ill-fame, forfeited $12 bail by non-appearance. A number of plain drunks also were disposed of by Judge Edson.

To Beautify the City.

Secretary Hill of the Duluth Improvement association will speak at the High School building next Tuesday morning on the topic of how to beautify the city. Mr. Hill has commenced the season with a vigorous campaign along these lines, and will agitate the question in every part of the city. He has published and is distributing widely about the city a circular containing a splendid view of Duluth from the boulevard, and has abundance of select reading matter following that relates to the natural charms amout the city, and suggestions how best the city can be improved and beautified along other lines.

COMING HERE

Mining Offices Certain to Be at Duluth.

Means Further Advance In City's Prestige.

It has been from time to time announced, since the United States Steel company assumed control of the interests which are now embraced in that corporation, that the mining offices of the company would be located in this city. It has been said now and then that the company has been seeking office room in the city for its general offices. There has always been more or less conjecture, however, as to the extent and scope of the offices which the steel company would maintain here.

It is now known to a certainty, however, that the general offices of all the mines in the control of the steel company will be located in this city, and that all of the mines will be managed from this point. This means that the business offices of the Oliver Mining company, now located in Pittsburg, will be here, and that the Milwaukee office, which has been maintained with Dr. Hulst in charge, will also come here. Dr. Hulst is vice president and general engineer of the mines, and in that capacity will undoubtedly make his home here, for his work will be centralized at this point, and it will be necessary for him to be at the base of operations.

The value to Duluth of being selected as the place from which all of the mining interests of this great company are to be managed is not to be lightly estimated. It means far greater prestige for the city in a mining way than it has ever had. It also means the addition of a large number of people to the list of residents of the city. The office force here will be a large one, and there will be many responsible positions that will bring men of business experience and desirability as citizens. The city will be more or less a basis of supplies, too.

With the location of the general mining offices and the general vessel offices here, the city of Duluth has taken a great stride in prestige, and its effect cannot fail to be surely and swiftly felt.

GAS EXPLODED.

And Seriously Injured Two Postoffice Employes.

Topeka, May 18.—A terrific explosion of gas in the stamp vault of the Topeka postoffice today caused the serious injury of two female employes—Josephine Herron and Carrie Sheffield. The former probably will die.

Sveral packages of stamps were destroyed. Gas had accumulated in the vault from a defective jet and was touched off by the women when they entered the vault to secure stamps for the day's business.

STIMULANTS

Said to Be the Cause of Death of Father Phillips.

New York, May 18.—Kirk Stanley, the masseur in whose rooms the body of Rev. Edward Phillips, of Hazelton, Pa., was found, Thursday night, was arraigned today before Coroner Bausch, who held him in $10,000 for examination next Wednesday.

Attorneys for Stanley today issued a statement saying:

"The temporary unusual abuse of stimulants on the part of the priest is the sum total of any weakness with which he can be charged. His life was morally pure. If any woman were in that flat, they were there before the arrival of Father Phillips, and had departed long before he arrived, nor did he see any women while there."

TOOK POISON.

Queen Draga Tried to Commit Suicide.

Vienna, May 18.—A story is current here that Queen Draga of Servia took poison when the king discovered the situation caused by the conflicting statements regarding her health, and that she is dangerously ill from the effects of the poison.

ROUTE INSPECTED.

President Burt Drives Over Proposed New Line.

San Francisco, May 18.—Horace G. Burt, president of the Union Pacific railroad, has arrived here from the southern part of the state, after driving several hundred miles across the plains of Southern Nevada and California in a wagon. The trip extended from Uvada on the Utah-Nevada state line and the southern terminus of the Oregon Short line extension to Ludlow, a station on the Santa Fe in Southern California. The line of the proposed Salt Lake-Los Angeles short line was thoroughly inspected.

CONSUMMATED.

Majority of the Burlington Stock Turned In.

New York, May 18.—J. P Morgan & Co. announced today that two-thirds of the stock of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company has been deposited at the Colonial Trust company, of Boston, and the Metropolitan Trust company, of New York city, thus making the consummation of the deal by which the Great Northern and Northern Pacific companies acquire the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy.

PRELATE DEAD.

Monroe, Mich., May 18.—Very Rev. Mgr. Edwin Joos, vicar general of Detroit diocese, and domestic prelate to Pope Leo, died here today. Mgr. Joos, who was born in Belgium in 1825, was in charge of St. Mary's academy here. In 1877 he was appointed administrator of the diocese, with title of vicar general. He was made domestic prelate in 1889.

JUMPED INTO RIVER.

Milwaukee, May 18.—James Carruthers, a former well known hatel man of this city, committed suicide by jumping into the river today. Mr. Carruthers was proprietor of the Kirby house for many years. Despondency is said to be the cause. He was 46 years old.

MAY BE MELLEN.

New York, May 18.—The Evening Post, in discussing the New York Central presidency today, says the office may be offered to C. S. Mellen, of the Northern Pacific.

MILWAUKEE NEXT.

Columbus, Ohio, May 18.—Milwaukee has been selected as the place of holding the next biennial convention of the Woodmen of the World.

TALKS TO BIRDS.

Wisconsin Girl Masters the Feathered Tribe's Language.

Professor Garner astonished the scientific world when he announced that he had begun to learn the language of the monkey tribe, but it has remained for Reina V. Wright, a young Fond du Lac girl, to go the noted naturalist several better. She has not tried to talk to monkeys, but has learned the language of all Wisconsin species of feathered creatures, till, it is said, she can talk to them as one of their own family, says the Milwaukee Sentinel.

The girl did not study at great universities to learn the habits of birds in order to imitate them, but, with her own love for anything that flies, went ahead and studied them in the recesses of the woods, or in the barnyard. Now it does not make any difference to her whether it is the brilliant scarlet tanager or the lowly leghorn, she can talk to the creature of the feathered coat. It was not until Miss Wright had reached a point where her imitation of bird talk could not be distinguished from the real thing by the birds themselves that she began to study to perfect herself, and then there was little left to be learned.

She has now perfected herself to a degree that makes it possible for her to go to the haunts of a strange species of bird and after a short training learn the new dialect.

Miss Wright has not confined her studies to "bird talk," but has delved to a lesser extent into the mysteries of the spoken language of various animals. She has been successful to a considerable extent in learning the inflection of the tongues used by canines, cattle and even cats. But with this additional ability she still prefers the cadences of the canary to the carol of the cat during its night watch on the back yard fence.

Miss Wright, though now only 18 years old, has been talking to the birds for six years. She discovered her own gift, and from the first time that her imitation brought a circle of wild birds to her side as she sat on a log in a bit of woods, has devoted most of her days to the study of the bird language. There are many stories told of her powers.

She has now passed the time when she would go into the woods for the mere pleasure of it, to imitate the birds, but the time was when she would sit on a log in the woods and call the birds to her side. When she would begin her calls the birds in hearing would all gather in the trees about their imitator, and except for a fluttering of wings, would remain silent till she had finished her song to them. Then all the birds would break forth in song, each doing its best, apparently, to outdo the girl who had stolen its cadences.

It is told of her that on one occasion she visited a house where canaries are raised for sale, and while the birds kept silence imitated their song. When she stopped the birds tried to show that a mere human could not sing their own song better than they could themselves. Where Miss Wright had sang loud the birds trilled and ran through their cadences with all the strength their little throats could summon. Then the girl sang again still louder. The birds exceeded their first effort, and trilled till their throats seemed almost at the bursting point. But the girl who had stolen their song was still their superior, and finally the canaries, almost exhausted, gave up the contest, and went to the corners of their cages defeated.

For a time, while the girl was busy learning the languages of the various species of the bird family, she haunted the woods and then, after learning the language of the wild songsters, took to the study of barnyard fowls. Here she was able to give the roosters points in their own early morning vocation, and might have set up as a teacher of crowing for the young America of the rooster variety, for the best that the oldest rooster on the perch could do would be less artistic than the smallest effort of the Fond du Lac girl.

OHIO IS LAUNCHED

Big Battleship Took the Water at San Francisco.

Miss Dessler Pushed Button and Miss Barber Broke Bottle.

President Was Present at the Thrilling Ceremony.

San Francisco, May 18.—Miss Barber pressed the button, Miss Dessler smashed a bottle of California champagne, and at 12:26 p. m. the big battleship Ohio took her first dip into the sea. Fifty thousand people cheered themselves hoarse; the big guns of the warships boomed out a salute, and every steam whistle within a radius of five miles shrieked its loudest as the steel monster glided into the water. The noise lasted for nearly half an hour, and when it finally simmered down, there lay the Ohio, peacefully floating in the little cove in front of the Union Iron works. Later she was towed to the dock, where she will be tied for a year or more, or until finaliy completed. As the vessel slid into the water stern foremost she created a big wave that made even the biggest steamers nearby bob uncomfortably up and down. As for the smaller craft, they nearly stood on end. Mrs. McKinley was to have pressed the button that started the Ohio down the ways, but on account of her illness her niece, Miss Barber, acted in her place.

Hon. Irving M. Scott and Henry T. Scott tok the president and Governor Nash and their parties for a cursory inspection of the more important sections of the great yards, where the ocean warriors are built. Both President McKinley and Governor Nash followed the explanations concerning the works closely and with evident interest. At the hour of 12, the greater number of the nation's representatives and other guests had arrived at the stand beside the hull of the big battleship.

They saw lying there a great shape of steel, ready for the sea. The greater part of thes uperstructure of the slip wherein the Ohio was built had been removed. The battle craft lay in her great wooden shoe like a cradle on the slippery ways. Toward the stern the ribs of thec radle ran well up her sides, shortening towards the forward length of thes hip and disapearing. Tall shores, reaching from their firm foundations in the earth to the decks of the ship were standing close along her sides. On a table on the stand nearby was an electrical instrument. The pressing of a button meant the launching of the ship.

The ceremonies were simple but significant. There was the formal exchange of acceptances upon the part of the government, and then, the tide having reached its flood, the word was given.

The bottle of California champagne descended from the bow by ribbons of red, white and blue, braided into a rope.

At 12:26 sharp Irving M. Scott gave Miss Barber the signal, and she touched the magic electrical machine. The guillotine shot downward like a flash and severed the cord. The dog shore toppled over of its own weight, and the cleverly constructed system of props caved in like a house of cards. The Ohio seemed to shiver slightly, the tremor running her entire length, and in a twinkling she began to slide. And then —a rush, a bound, a cracking and creaking and groaning of the timbers beneath and around her—she shot down the ways, stern foremost, and took her dip into the sea.

Duluth Business University Graduates In Demand, Eighteen Leave the School to Accept Clerical Positions.

During the past three weeks the following young men and women left the Business University to accept the following positions:

Frank Skoglund, assistant bookkeeper for W. B. Silvey.

Louis Johnson, stenographer for the Chandler Iron company, Ely, Minn.

Marie Reamer, stenographer for Attorney S. D. Allen.

Myrtle Cox, stenographer for Marshall-Wells Hardware company.

Edythe Milliner, stenographer for Attorneys Richardson & Day.

Estelle St. Germain, stenographer for Marshall-Wells company.

Hattie Johnson, stenographer for M. S. Burrows & Co.

Elizabeth Morgan, stenographer for Miss L. F. Grieser.

Pauline Levy, stenographer for Eckman & Stevenson.

During the months of March and April twenty-nine young people, whose names appeared in a former issue of this paper, went from this institution into business offices, which makes a total of forty-seven students who have left this school since March 1 to fill responsible remunerative positions. This far exceeds the number placed in positions from the college during the same period any previous year of its history. This is largely due to the fact that nearly all the leading firms of Duluth and vicinity, knowing the standing of this institution for thorough work, telephone directly to the college for their clerical help, which is certainly very flattering to its management.

QUESTION OF INTENT.

In one of the executive departments not a thousand miles from the Star building, a young man fresh from the plains of the southwest was appointed a sub-chief in one of the divisions, says the Washington Star.

He had a misunderstanding with one of the clerks a few days after his advent, and he was instructed by his superior to discipline teh clerk, as the latter happened to be in the wrong.

"You must discipline him. Not harshly, but sit down on him properly," said the chief of division.

"I don't like to do that," replied the Texan.

"We can't take our likes and dislikes into consideration in government service in the administration of our duties," advised the chief. "Give him a gentle dressing down, and then sit down on him quick and hard."

"I hate to do it."

"Can't help it. It's your duty. He is in a room by himself. No one will hear or see you. It will be good practice for you, as you will have to do it often. He's a little fellow, too."

"That's the worst of it. If he were my size I'd like the sport better than branding and roping steers. However, having been a deputy sheriff I know what my duty means. When I was told to go out and get a cattle rustler, or a bad cowboy, I usually got him, even if he came back to the court house feet first. You're boss, so here goes. I hate to do it."

"Konsense," explained the chief. It's nothing. Report to me what he said."

About half an hour later the subchief entered his superior's room. His face was scratched and his clothing appeared somewhat rumpled. Otherwise, his usually serious demeanor was unchanged.

"I sat on that clerk for fteen minutes," he said quietly.

"What?" shouted his chief.

"I sat on him for fifteen minutes by the clock. For a little fellow he put up a stiff fight. I bucked him, bound him, and almost branded him from force of habit. But it was easy."

"My God!" gasped the other man.

"You said to be gentle with him, you know."

"Holy smoke!" cried the chief, nearly fainting. "You obeyed my orders literally; I meant for you to sit on him figuratively."

"You didn't say a word about figures," responded the ex-cowboy, sullenly.

"I didn't say for you to sit down on him literally."

"You didn't say at all where I was to sit on him, but I sat there all right," said the former cowpuncher, desperately.

"No, no; you don't understand," said the chief, when he recovered his breath. "You must not take everything in a literal sense in Washington. You are not chasing cows or frontier bandits, and you mustn't be so serious. When you are ordered to 'sit down on a clerk' it means in a figurative sense only, and you should give him, to be thoroughly explicit this time, a good talking to with your mouth. You mustn't actually sit on him. If this gets out we will be the laughing stock of the office. I must fix it up at once."

It was "fixed up" by sticking patches of soothing plaster on the little clerk's wounded body and feelings by the positive promise of a promotion to the next vacancy occurring in the division if he kept quiet. The ex-cowboy squared himself by treating the clerk and his chief to lunch for a fortnight. It was at one of these lunches that they told a Star man all about it, and the joke is too good to keep.

WHY? IS ELECTRIC LIGHT BEST

Because it is healthy, clean, pure and brilliant.

HEALTHY— It has no odor. Prof. Thompson states that one cubic foot of gas consumes 11 much oxygen as four adults.

CLEAN— It causes no discolorations of furnishings and decorations in homes.

SAFE— As electric bell work, no danger of suffocation.

CHEAP— By using a little care in turning off lights when not in use it is cheaper than any other illuminant.

ROUNDED UP

Burt Bellinger Is Caught at Omaha.

Married a Young Woman In That City.

Burt Bellinger is serving a jail sentence in Omaha for defrauding the Millard hotel at that place. The very versatile and shifty young man is badly wanted in Duluth by the officers of the law and a great hustle will be made to get him back here now that he has been located.

After Bellinger forged the name of Dr. Spengler, the dentist, to six checks for $30 each, some weeks ago, passed them on Duluth merchants, took a lot of the doctor's teeth and gold and then disappeared, the police authorities widely advertised that the young man was wanted and also saw that his photograph was placed in the rogues' gallery. That act led to the location of the clever young criminal as the following letter, received last evening, shows:

Omaha, May 16, 1901.—Mr. C. T. Crandall, Chief of Police, Duluth, Minn.: Dear Sir—I see by the issue of the Rogues Gallery that you want one Burton Bellinger. We have one Dr. P. O. Rue, who answers the description of your man. He claims to have gone to school in Minnesota. His weight is about 135 pounds. Claims to be 26 or 27 years of age. Has light brown hair, is 5 feet 6 inches, is a cigarette fiend. Says he had rheumatism about one month ago. Has blue eyes, fair complexion. Claims to be a doctor. Was arrested for defrauding an innkeeper. Received twenty-two days at Douglas county jail. I had him out in our office and asked him several questions and he became very nervous and he begged me not to say anything. Let me know if you want him or send an officer to identify him. Respectfully,

CHARLES COHEN,
Deputy Jailor Douglas County Jail, Omaha, Neb.

N. B. He says he was in the hospital at Duluth, Minn., and had an operation performed on himself.

As soon as this letter was received Detective Troyer lost no time in calling up the sheriff's office at Omaha by the long distance telephone. Bellinger was in Council Bluffs. Dr. Rue was later found at the Grand hotel, Council Bluffs, and was turned over to an Omaha officer. He says his father is a well-to-do artist in Minneapolis."

Bellinger's past misdeeds in Duluth are too well known to need narration. He killed one boy, was tried for murder but was acquitted on the ground that the shooting was accidental. He was charged with and suspected of burglary and larceny several times, and besides stripping Dr. Spengler's office of $400 worth of false teeth, gold and instruments, did the same to the office of a dentist in Minneapolis for whom he worked at one time. That Bellinger has no regrets for past misdeeds the following cheeky and daring letter fully demonstrates:

Milwaukee, April 22, 1901. Dr. H. C. Spengler, D.D.S.: Dear Sir—I have been to Dallas, Texas, and back all ready. When you get this I will be in a land far away from here or on my way there. My friend will mail you this on the 24th or 25th, your gold and teeth are at Dr. A. Schutt's office in Milwaukee, Wis. I sold them to him for $50. You can get them if you will write to the sheriff he will get them for you. I don't know what made me do a thing like that to you as you was one of the best friends I ever had. The fellow that did that job with me is in Duluth yet he would not go with me. But I have a good fellow with me now. If they try to take me on my way I will put the extra touch on them and on myself. I would rather die than go to the pen for 1 or 2 years. If they don't go after me and let me alone I will pay it all back inside of a year, as I will have money then. This friend of mine will get $1000 after six months it was left to him and he is going to settle up for me. I have been to see his lawyer and it is all fixed. I am told that they were after me. I got word of their doings every other day they can't do me as I am too good of a shot for them. And have too many friends on the road with me. Well, good-by.

BURTON H. BELLINGER.

Tell my folks that I am all well and getting along all right. BURT.

The present indications are that Burton H. Bellinger will soon be in a position where, for some years to come, his mail address and place of abode will be Stillwater, Minn., in care of the warden of the penitentiary.

A bench warrant was issued out of the district court this morning for Bellinger, signed by Judge Cant, and it was turned over to the sheriff's office. Deputy Sheriff Newton Randall will leave tomorrow night for St. Paul to get requisition papers, and will go on to Omaha for Bellinger. The bench warrant is issued on a charge of forgery in the second degree.

County Attorney McClintock had reached Chippewa Falls on his way for a visit at his home in Cincinnati when the telegram announcing Bellinger's capture reached him. He returned immediately and arranged this morning for getting the requisition papers. When that is done he will leave on his trip.

BURTON H. BELLINGER.

in the sheriff's office at the time and, after the sheriff had been directed to hold Bellinger, as he was much wanted here, he asked to talk with Troyer.

"Hello, is that you Troyer? Your voice sounds familiar. How are you, anyway?"

Troyer replied that the state of his health cut no figure and added: "We want you here, Burt."

"I know it, but you cannot have me without requisition papers."

"We'll have you, anyway, so you might just as well save all this red tape," replied Troyer.

"Oh, well, you just get your requisition papers. Then, perhaps, I'll come."

The story of Bellinger's downfall and commitment to jail for twenty-two days in Omaha reads as interesting as any dime novel ever written. For rapidity of movement, too, his Omaha experiences rival the doings of the villain of the most exciting melodrama. Here is what an Omaha paper has to say about the matter, under date of May 12:

"Dr. P. O. Rue, of Minneapolis, has had a hiatus created in his meteoric career as a high-flyer, and reposes tonight in the city jail here, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses and with defrauding an innkeeper, for which a penalty is provided by the statutes. Dr. Rue came here about two weeks ago from Minneapolis and registered at the Iler Grand hotel, the most expensive in the city, as P. O. Cleveland, of New York. He remained long enough to contract a bill for $8 and then disappeared.

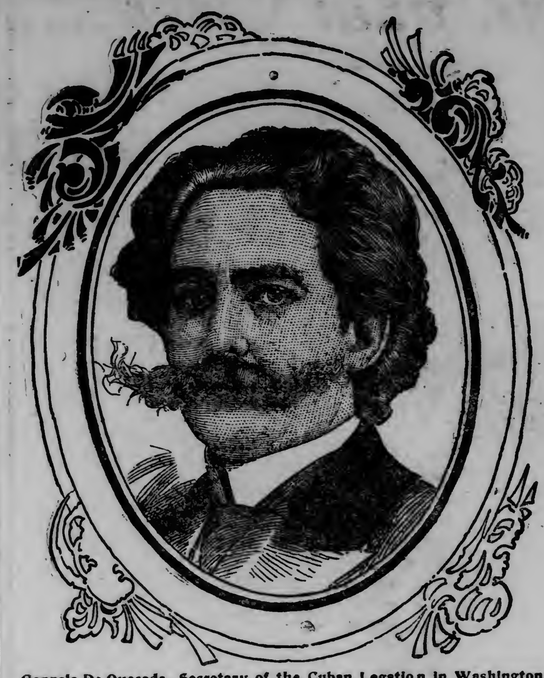
"Search revealed the fact that he had moved to the Millard and had registered as P. O. Rue, Minneapolis. While at the Millard, Dr. Rue made several trips across the river to Council Bluffs to see Miss Minnie Bicknell, a clerk in the office of Dr. P. J. Montgomery. It was a case of love at first sight, and he impressed Miss Bicknell as such a likely man that when he proposed she accepted him on the spot.

"Dr. Rue returned to Omaha and arranged for the wedding. He secured the marriage license with a dollar borrowed from a newly-made friend and ordered $15 worth of flowers on credit from Florist Wilcox, of Council Bluffs. He then secured the services of Dr. Hirst, pastor of the First Methodist church of Omaha, who performed the ceremony in the Millard hotel parlors in the presence only of the number of witnesses required by law—two guests. No wedding trip was planned or undertaken."

The doctor also bargained with a leading furniture establishment for $900 worth of goods with which to fit up a home and go to housekeeping—all on credit. But the home never was fitted up.

"After a few more days' stay at the Millard, Dr. Rue mysteriously disappeared. Mrs. Rue showed great nervousness over his absence, and finally left the hotel, going to her parents' home

PE-RU-NA THE GREATEST SPRING TONIC AND CATARRH REMEDY OF THE AGE.



Gonzalo De Quesada, Secretary of the Cuban Legation in Washington.

Senor Quesada, secretary of the Cuban Legation in Washington, is an orator born. In an article in the Outlook for July, 1899, by George Kennan, who heard Quesada speak at the Esteban theater, Matanzas, Cuba, he said: "I have seen many audiences under the spell of eloquent speech and in the grip of strong emotional excitement; but I have rarely witnessed such a scene as at the close of Quesada's eulogy upon the dead patriot, Marti." In a letter to The Peruna Medicine company, written from Washington, D. C., Senor Quesada says:

"Peruna I can recommend as a very good medicine. It is an excellent strengthening tonic, and it is also an efficacious cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh."

Gonzalo De Quesada.

Peruna does not operate upon the system as the usual remedy does. It is not a local treatment. It operates as a systemic remedy. It gives tone to the weakened nerve centers, and thus gives tone to the mucous membranes that line the various organs of the body.

Catarrh is always located in some mucous membrane. Catarrh is a flabby condition of the blood vessels of these membranes. Peruna gives tone to these vessels and restores them to their natural elasticity.

Thus it is that Peruna strikes at the root of the evil. Peruna removes the cause of catarrh and the symptoms disappear. It is useless to doctor symptoms. Symptoms disappear, once the cause is removed. Peruna removes the cause. It is the only systematic catarrh remedy yet devised.

Mrs. J. Priest, Lee, Mich., writes: "I think that there is no medicine on earth that excels Peruna. My husband won't take any other. We have tested it and it worked a great change in my son's health last spring when we thought he was going into consumption. We gave him only one bottle and he was all right."—Mrs. J. Priest.

CATARRH TWENTY YEARS.

Spent Hundreds of Dollars Trying To Find a Cure.

PERUNA COMES TO THE RESCUE.

Mr. Howard Harry Marshall, 452 Main street, Tuckertown, N. J., writes:

"I have been troubled with catarrh for eleven years. All remedies and doctors failed to cure. I heard of Peruna through a friend and bought a bottle. In less than four months I was a well man, and now weigh more than I ever did in my life."

His wife writes: "I want to give my experience with Peruna. It is the only medicine that American people should buy if they want to be cured of catarrh. I have had catarrh for twenty years, and it had extended throughout my entire system. I spent hundreds of dollars trying to get relief; I did not expect to be cured.

"As I was seeing so much in the papers about Peruna, I thought I would try it, but had no faith in it. I bought a bottle, but did not see much change in my condition, but thought I would take another bottle. Then I saw a big change. I kept on taking it until I was entirely cured, and have remained so for six months.

"I will do all I can to get your medicine into the homes of the American people, as it is the only sure cure for catarrh in any form or any part of the human body."—Hannah Marshall.

Miss Martha Wittkopp writes from Greenville, Mich., the following: "When I began your treatment I had catarrh of the head, nose, throat, stomach and pelvic organs. I was troubled with hawking and spitting, caught cold very easily, had almost constant headache. My stomach was all out of order, I did not sleep well, and was more tired in the morning than when I retired. I had backache and was very nervous, in fact, the catarrh had permeated my entire system, and I almost despaired of getting well.

Martha Wittkopp.

"I wrote you for advice and you advised Peruna. I began to gain right along, and am now well. My parents praise Peruna very much. As for myself, I can't speak well enough of it. I am well and happy and enjoy my life as I never have before. I cannot remember when I have felt as well as I do now."

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

IN MICHIGAN.

A Series of Hardwood Plants For Lake Independence.

Marquette—A. McAfee, of Lakeview, Mich., announced that the Big Bay Lumber company, capitalized at $100,000, will erect this summer a saw and shingle mill at Lake Independence, twenty-eight miles from Marquette. Next spring a bedding and stave mill and, in all probability a band mill will be put in. The company owns 12,250 acres of land from which most of the pine has been cut and it will work up elm, cedar, spruce, birch, basswood and maple. It is estimated that there are 90,000,000 feet of lumber in sight and 100,000,000 shingles. The sawmill, which will be moved there from Lakeview, Mich., will have 25,000 capacity and the shingle mill from 50,000 to 100,000 capacity. The new Marquette & Southeastern railway will be built from Marquette to the plant and rough cordwood will be sold to the projected Cleveland-Cliffs blast furnace here. The Penny packers of Wilmington, Md., are largely interested in the new enterprise.

Ishpeming—Sunday evening upwards of thirty old Norwegian residents will leave Ishpeming for their native land. This party is made up for the most part of people from this city, but there are a few from Republic and other points up-the-road. Some will go to their native land to return no more, while others will surely come back. One member of the party goes for his health and does not expect to return for a year. There are a few who will stop across the water if they find that it will be to their advantage to do so. The following are members of the party: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Olsen, Jr., and Mrs. Ed Trondsen, Mr. and Mrs. John Salsen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Skague and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Rye, Mrs. Ole Kvaal, Mrs. Ole Kleth, Misses Ingeborg and Randine Moe, and Miss Lena Petersen.

Mass City—Capt. Dick Trezona, the popular captain for a number of years at the Mass mine, was agreeably surprised on Wednesday evening last when the Twin City band accompanied by the employes of the Mass mine, took possession of his home about 8 p. m. After playing some appropriate music, William Mc-Curdy, in a neat speech on behalf of the employes presented the captain with a very pretty bold-headed cane bearing the inscription: "To Capt. Trezona, from the employs of the Mass Mine." The captain replied feelingly in a short speech and said the present occasion would always be remembered as one of the happiest events of his life. After a few more appropriate airs by the band Mrs. Trezona assisted by Miss Belle Nevins, served the boys with refreshments and the captain passed around the cigars. The captain leaves about the first of the month for the Vermilion range in Minnesota, where he goes to take a position with Mr. Cole, who has been lately appointed general manager of the Vermilion range in Minnesota. The captain and Mrs. Trezona leaves a host of friends behind them, and nothing but regrets are heard on all sides on account of loosing them.

THE DAKOTAS.

New Clues In Regard to Fate of Charles Melquist.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—Officials have secured additional clues which confirm the theory that Charles Melquist, the missing butcher, was murdered. A hobo attempted to sell a bicycle near Casselton, which answers the description of the one ridden by Melquist when he disappeared, and this with Melquist's personal papers found at the hobo camp, is regarded as conclusive evidence that a crime has been committed. Mrs. Melquist has offered a reward of $250 for the recovery of the body of her husband.

Mayville—The Mayville Dramatic club presented the play, "Caprice, or the Farmer's Daughter," at the opera house last evening, as a benefit to the firemen's band, and a tidy sum was realized, which will be used in the purchase of new uniforms.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Woonsocket.—Fred Moulton, an experienced miner who has been prospecting for gold in this vicinity for the last six months, says that in his opinion the country between the Wessington Hills and the James river is richer in gold than the Black Hills. He has on exhibition some samples of golden-colored "dirt" taken from different places. The richest strike, he says, is about a quarter of a mile south of town. He calls attention to the fact that the richest gold mines of the world, Cape Nome and the South African mines, are on prairies.

Yankton—A serious shooting affray took place at Ruth Smith's notorious coon dive on Second street. Several arrests were made, and H. E. Dunham, E. Thomas and Ruth Smith were held. E. Thomas had his head cut open; William Hayes, hand badly cut; Ruth Smith (colored), shot in the shoulder; Milo Austin (colored), was also the target for a stray bullet, but was not seriously injured.

Sioux Falls—Miss Augusta Jenson, domestic, charged with drowning her child in a pail of water, was arraigned and pleaded not guilty.

Vienna—J. A. McAnulty, patentee and manufacturer of mill machinery, has been in Vienna arranging for the rebuilding of the Vienna mills. The plan is to erect a 100-barrel mill, to be equipped with modern machinery.

Castlewood—The jury found Thomas Hall guilty of murder as charged and recommended imprisonment for life. Hall was tried two years ago for the same crime, and with the same result, but the supreme court granted a new trial.

Local Oil Operators Leave For Blue Grass State.

M. C. French, secretary of the Mountaineer Oil company, and Walter Fowler, president of the Blue Grass company, along with several others, leave Tuesday evening next for Flat Lick, Ky., to let contracts for sinking wells at both properties.

Said Mr. French: "A machine drill contractor is to meet me there and take a contract for sinking wells in the Mountaineer, and Mr. Fowler is going down to inspect the work already done on the Blue Grass, and start another well, and probably witness the shooting of No. 1 well of the Blue Grass. A derrick for another well on the Blue Grass was ordered erected last Monday."

The Pan-American Exposition

The exposition at Buffalo will be one of the greatest this country has ever seen. The entire machinery will be run by the power furnished from Niagara Falls. Although the motive power required is enormous, we believe it is equal to the task, the same as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is equal to the task of supplying the human body with motive power when it is enfeebled and run down. Its power to revitalize the system and supply new life and energy is well known. There is no other medicine in the world so good for dyspepsia, indigestion, flatulency and nervousness. It has been the favorite medicine for over fifty years. Be sure and get the genuine with private revenue stamp over the neck of the bottle.

A New School of Phonography to Be Called the Zenith City Shorthand School.

Duluth is to have at an early date a new splendidly-equipped college of shorthand and typewriting. The Gregg system, which has steadily won its way to the front and which far surpasses all the older systems, on account of its simplicity and versatility, will be taught in this college. Those who contemplate a shorthand course should not decide to attend any other school until this college is established. The average time for completing a shorthand course in this system is from three to four months, and as the rates of tuition will be very moderate, $30 or $40 will cover all the outlay necessary for a pupil to thoroughly prepare himself for the best office position. In a later issue of this paper will be found full particulars about the school.

IN QUANDARY.

County Attorney Hardly Knows What to Do With McDonald.

Cass Lake, May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county attorney is in somewhat of a quandary as to what to do with McDonald, the man who killed "Bull Dog" Regan. McDonald was confined in the Fergus Falls asylum twice and is certainly insane. No jury would convict him of any crime. It could be easily proven that the blows were struck in self-defense. If the probate judge had jurisdiction in such cases, the best thing to be done would be to send him back to Fergus Falls. But he has not. Upon application to the district judge by the prisoner he can be taken before that official and examined as to his soundness of mind. If the judge is satisfied that the man is insane he can commit him to an asylum. County Attorney Hartshorn does not desire to put the county to any unnecessary expense. If McDonald should be held for murder or manslaughter, it would become necessary to empanel a grand jury for the next term of court, something, is is hoped, can be dispensed with, because if that body indicts him, it is extremely doubtful whether he would be convicted of any crime.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

Son Treated His Father's Body With Disrespect.

Columbus, Ind., May 18.—Thirty years ago Albert Louden, formerly a prosperous farmer, who lived near this city, was beaten for the Democratic nomination for county treasurer, and was induced by the Republicans, who were in a hopeless minority, to come out on an independent ticket. He was beaten, and at once deserted his family and disappeared. Two years ago he died in Arkansas, and the body was shipped here to his son, William Louden, with $22 charges on it. The son refused to pay the charges, and let the body remain two days in the express office, when friends in Arkansas ordered it shipped back, with return charges. The son then reconsidered and buried the body and paid all charges. He was then discharged where employed, and dismissed from membership in the Odd Fellows' lodge. He moved with his family to Indianapolis and appealed to the grand lodge and was reinstated. Now the son is having a fine marble monument erected over the grave of his father in the city cemetery here.

BROUGHT A CROWD.

Sensational Act In a Cleveland Store Window.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 18.—"What on earth is the matter?" asked a citizen on the outskirts of a big crowd in front of McHenry's dry goods store Wednesday.

"Is it a murder, a riot or an accident?"

"Corsets," laconically replied a big policeman who was perspiring from vain efforts to keep a path through the streets.

When he got a good stand in the "baldhead" row he saw a very pretty, slender, well-formed young woman standing in the window. She was attired in a cool-looking wrapper and was holding what looked like a diminutive corset. All at once she smiled some more, blushed a little and began to open the wrapper. In another second she had thrown it open in front above the waist, displaying a suit of black underwear. The curious man began to get nervous and showed symptoms of flight.

"Hold your ground," said a young man behind him. "That's all she takes off."

"You seem to know," muttered the man.

"Ought to," was the laconic rejoinder. "Been here four hours."

Sure enough, the girl seemed satisfied with throwing the wrapper well back from her shoulders, and was deftly adjusting the corset-like arrangement to her figure. Hook by hook she fastened it, never once glancing at the sea of men's faces before her. When it was done she buttoned up the wrapper, smiling all the time, and then proceeded to do it all over again, to the evident delight of her audience.

LED THE CHARGE.

Over on North Carolina street lives F. M. Baker, better known to his acquaintances as "Dad" Baker. Bar one, Baker is probably the sole survivor of the famous, or notorious, as you will, Walker filibuster expedition which landed in Nicaragua a half century ago, cost two governments a lot of money and many of the filibusterers their lives, says the Chicago Record-Herald.

Two things fell to the lot of Maker, the adventurous Chicagoan, that are worth recording on the page of local history. One of these is that for some hours of his life he was dead, and the other is his participation in the most remarkable charge known to military history, unless Kipling was telling the truth when he described the affair at Lungtenpen.

Dad Baker went across the plains in '49. There were 100 men in the party when it started. Five of them reached the heart of the Rockies; the rest either had died, been killed by the Indians or had deserted for other caravans. It was after reaching California that Baker died. With twenty other men he had the smallpox. The sick were bunked in huts. The doctor was overworked. He gave Baker medicine for three days and then said: "It's a waste of this stuff to give it to you. You've got to die anyway, and it may save some of the others." Then one of the men not yet stricken with the disease lifted Baker into a comfortable position, saying: "You'll die easier like that." Then Baker died. The doctor pronounced him dead, his jaw was set and his eyes were fixed. It was just before they were taking him out for burial that a spark of life glowed within him. He literally gave his pallbearers the wink, and when they dropped him hard and fled panic-stricken he used his hitherto set jaw and said a few things. Then he got well.

Only sixty-two men went with the first Walker expedition to Nicaragua. One of these was a Kentuckian named Anderson, who was elected a captain in the outfit. Anderson is probably still alive, for he was heard from recently. None of the others survives, so far as can be learned. Walker's scheme was to take the popular side in a Nicaraguan civil war. At least this is what he said it was. When the landing was made Capt. Anderson was sent with Baker and a few more men to a point near Realejo. There he was surrounded by a large number of Nicaraguans. The Kentuckian and his men took refuge in an adobe house, and there stood off the swarming assailants. There wasn't a drop of water nor a bit of food in the shack, and the Americans suffered torture. Anderson cheered up his men, and to show his utter contempt for the hordes of the enemy one of his favorite amusements was to run out of the hut and shake his fists and make faces. Then he would duck back again just as the besiegers let loose the contents of their antiquated weapons. The Nicaraguan shot high at first, and Anderson escaped uninjured. Finally they got onto the fact that they were punching holes in the sky, and shot low. Anderson had just hurled a few choice Kentucky phrases at them and had swiddled his fingers with his thumb at his nose tip. One of the bullets that answered this insult tore off the greater part of the captain's right foot. The wounded member was bound up, but the Kentuckian could not walk a step.

The Americans were nearly dead from thirst. Notwithstanding the multitude of the enemy it was resolved to charge the line at the center and break a way through or die. Capt. Anderson said: "I am in command of this outfit and I am going to lead this charge foot or no foot." He picked out the two biggest men of th party and had them lift him to their shoulders. He grasped a rifle and said: "I am going at the head. Come on. Shoot straight and yell like the devil."

Out they went like a storm. The captain borne on the shoulders of two stalwarts, taking his place at the front and center, and potting away with his rifle as soon as his head cleared the doorway. The Nicaraguans may have been brave, but the sight of a lot of howling, straight-shooting Americans led by a man riding on top of two others and yelling like a demon, was too much for them. They emptied their guns once and then cut for it.

Baker, of Chicago, met Anderson, of Kentucky, not long ago and exchanged greetings. Anderson still walked with a limp and made a face at every stride.

There is a prospect, it seems, that Maryland and Virginia may be able to add oranges to their annual crops. The department of agriculture is making experiments that promise well for these states. Five years ago the first experiments were begun with the Japanese orange, which is extensively used for hedges. Later the sweet orange was grafted upon this hardier stock, and trees representing the cross are now growing vigorously in the department grounds in Washington, and are now covered with blossoms. Should the yield this year be up to expectations, steps will be taken toward planting the new variety extensively in Virginia and Maryland. Farmers in considerable numbers have already signified their desire to try the growing of oranges.

Mayor Doran of St. Paul

Experiences the Invigorating Effect of Paine's Celery Compound.

Hon. F. B. Doran, who has been several times honored by the citizens of St. Paul by re-election as mayor, possesses many of the characteristics that go to make the reputation of a "sound man," and is the last person in the world to publicly indorse anything of which he has not fully informed himself.

Mayor Doran decided to take Paine's celery compound this spring, having heard much of its wonderful efficacy from physicians, neighbors and intimate friends. He was not disappointed. His experience with this great remedy was so gratifying that a few days ago he sent the proprietors a testimonial which adds conclusive proof to the statement of physicians that, of all the spring remedies that can be had, Paine's celery compound stands far above all others in honest and great results:

March 21, 1901.

Dear Sirs—I am convinced that everyone, sick or well, needs to take a spring remedy, and for that purpose I believe nothing can equal Paine's celery compound. I commend it especially to the nervously afflicted. Very truly yours, F. B. DORAN.

Because a man is growing old he need not be an invalid. Old age isn't a disease. A man at sixty should be well, and many at seventy are as well as ever in their lives.

But as age comes on the blood needs to be rid of rheumatism and the muscles of neuralgia; the nerves needs feeding and the brain nourishmeat. Paine's celery compound is food for the brain and nerves. It builds up the strength of the body. The saddest ignorance is for a sick person not to know the remedy that will make him well. Fortunately, few people have failed to hear of the remarkable cures from the use of Paine's celery compound.

For rheumatism, neuralgia, impure blood, nervous diseases and kindred troubles, it is a positive cure. The experimental efforts of scores and scores of so-called spring remedies with which the market is constantly reruited are in startling contrast with the thoroughly scientific way in which Paine's celery compound restores health and vigor to the worn-out blood and nerves.

New strength, new life, new health come from its use—especially is this true in the spring.

SECULAR SHOTS AT PULPIT.

Chicago Record-Herald: A New York banker says the ministers take too many vacations. Still a preacher who gets $900 a year ought to be allowed to take a few days off once in a while for the purpose of having fun with his money.

St. Louis Post: The Indiana preacher who allowed his boy to fight another urchin to settle a quarrel was delighted when his boy thrashed the other boy, but when the licked boy's father licked the preacher the good man appealed to a court. Alas for the inconsistencies of human nature!

Boston Globe: Is the United States to be "expansive" as regards cardinals, too? Bishop Quigley, of Western New York, is credited with the opinion: "Within twenty-five years I am confident we shall see cardinals located in such cities as New York, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, San Francisco and Pittsburg."

Cincinnati Tribune: Now comes Rev. J. Ward Gamble, a Methodist preacher of Manasquan, N. J., who wants "an up-to-date Methodist hymnal." He says it is ridiculous that 300 of the hymns in the old book were written by the Wesleys. He calls them "trashy ditties" and "sacred slops," intimates that they are "canned goods" and demands something fresher. Has the octopus laid its impious hand on New Jersey Methodism?

Brooklyn Eagle: There is a clergyman in Brooklyn who is more ingenious in devices to get into print than of his colleagues especially those of them who scorn such devices. But, somehow or other, he does not get into print in several quarters one-half so often as he wishes. In those quarters his devices are seen through. Neither his little relation to truth nor his less to news justifies the thrusting of publicity upon him. His uncommon desire for it defeats his object.

Chicago Tribune: The size of a minister's salary should be gauged to some extent by the social standards of his congregation. Ministers have to live up to the people. Their children should be dressed as well as those of the average parishioner, and their homes should be furnished according to standards that will not cause comment when they are visited by members of their congregations. A man who ministers to a congregation of poor workingmen does not need as large a salary as one who presides over a wealthy and stylish church. The two positions require totally different standards of living, and $900 might suffice for the one, while $9000 might scarcely be too much for the other. It is impossible to fix a definite minimum or maximum in the pay of all ministers. Such an attempt would be as futile as to try to measure a preacher's work by his salary.

Catarrh

Is a disease of the mucous membrane or inner lining of the nose, throat, lungs, stomach, bowels and other organs. It is caused by a cold or succession of colds irritating the delicate surfaces, and is promoted by scrofulous taints in the blood.

It is especially dangerous in persons having a predisposition to consumption.

In these and all other catarrhal cases, Hood's Sarsaparilla so thoroughly renovates the blood and restores strength that it permanently cures.

In fact, because of the character of the disease, and peculiar merit of the remedy, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only common sense treatment for catarrh.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Promises to cure and keeps the promise. No substitute for Hood's acts like Hood's—be sure to get Hood's.

A SCIENTIST'S DEATH.

He Tried His New Drug on Himself.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—Edward J. Sultan, aged 34, died at the City hospital Wednesday, supposedly from the self-administration of a preparation upon which he was experimenting to produce sleep. Sultan was the experimenting chemist of a St. Louis drug company. He had been assigned to formulate a new preparation of a sedative and sleep-producing nature, with the assurance that should he succeed in finding the missing quantity of the potion he would be placed in permanent charge of its manufacture.

It was a reward that he considered worthy of persistent research until he attained it. Wednesday morning he was found alone and unconscious in his apartments. He was taken to the City dispensary and later to the City hospital, where the doctors diagnosed his case as one of morphine poisoning, with symptoms of poisoning from other drugs. He died thirty minutes after his arrival at the hospital without having regained consciousness.

Sultan was a brother of Fred W. Sultan. The latter stated that he believed his brother's death was due to experiments upon himself in order to test the efficacy of his new preparation. He believed he had underestimated the strength of the ingredients and took too large a dose. "He spoke often to me concerning his new drug," said Mr. Sultan, "and his eagerness and haste to perfect the preparation was probably the cause of his death."

A CHURCH BELL OF MUCH INTEREST

Bell In German Evangelical Church on Third Street East Made of Captured French Cannon Presented By Emperor William I.

At the corner of Third street and Tenth avenue east stands the trim little church of the German Evangelical society. In its belfry stands a bell that looks and sounds like any other bell, but that is not by any means like any other in the city. It is made of captured French cannon from the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-71, and it was the gift of Emperor William I of Germany to the society nearly a quarter of a century ago.

It is a charming thought that the bell suggests. From a cannon belching death and pain and confusion with the horrid voice of war, it has been turned to a church bell, whose mellow voice calls the people to the worship of the meek and lowly Nazarine, whose doctrine of peace and charity and brotherly love is destined to turn the world as this emblem of war and strife has been turned.

The inscription on the bell, as viewed by a Herald man after a climb to the belfry in company with the pastor of the church, Rev E. Sans, is as follows:

AUS FRANZOSISCHEM
GESCHUETZ
VON
KAISER WILHELM I.
1870.

It was a daring minister who, when the little church society was casting about for means to build a church, bethought himself of making an application to the beloved kaiser, father of the present German emperor. And yet it was with a hope based on the knowledge of his kindly disposition that the application was made. Even then, it was a great surprise when the emperor responded with a captured French cannon as his donation toward the building of the church. That pastor was John Lueder, now connected with a college at Elmhurst, Ill. To him The Herald presented a request for his story of the incident, and he responded as follows:

"It was in March, 1872, when I, a missionary of the German Evangelical synod of North America, came first to Duluth, with the intention of working among the German Protestants. Soon I succeeded in organizing a congregation, though it was very small, and I started a school of about thirty children and preached the gospel on Sundays.

"In the beginning we held our services in the Congregational church, of which Rev. C. C. Salter was pastor at that time. Then we met in a store building, where I also kept school, and after a while we secured the Norwegian Lutheran church, located near Fourth street and Tenth avenue east, which was afterwards—about 1876—destroyed by a fearful storm. Many old-timers will recollect the circumstances of this storm and its destruction of property. Finaliy we concluded to buy some lots and build a church of our own. In those days people in good circumstances were rather scarce in Duluth. In particular those families who cared for a German minister were of slender means indeed. Therefore it was a difficult attempt for them to build a church, but we could do without it no longer, and I had to think of some means to get help wherever I could.

"In considering the matter, this thought flashed through my mind: How would it be if I should make a request to Emperor William I for some metal to be used for a church bell? I knew there were thousands of cannon in Germany, captured during the Franco-Prussian war, that were of no practical use for the government. So I took courage and wrote to the emperor himself. I explained to him the circumstances we were in, and mentioned that not only myself but quite a number of the members of my church had been amongst those who fought against the French armies in 1870-71.

"Two months later I received a favorable answer, stating that about 1000 pounds of cannon metal had been granted to us, and the payment of freight to Bremen, Germany, besides. From there the metal was shipped to New York without cost by courtesy of a merchant who felt a great interest in religious work among the Germans in this country. From there it was brought to Duluth by rail and lake. When we got the donation, we saw a beautiful French cannon, perfect in every respect except that it was spiked, and besides that several pieces of broken cannon. By the exhibition of these relics we cleared enough to pay for freight and casting. The casting was done by Meneely & Kimberly, Troy, N. Y.

"That is the way the German Evangelical congregation in Duluth gained possession of a bell which not only has a most beautiful sound, but is of some historical interest."

WORLD OF LABOR

Next Meeting of Trades Assembly Will Be Interesting.

Delegates to Be Chosen to State Federation Meeting.

Tinners' Strike Has Been Settled---The Butchers' Picnic.

There was no meeting of the Trades and Labor assembly last evening, but the next meeting promises to be interesting and warm enough to make up for it. The convention of the State Federation of Labor meets at Mankato, June 10, and nearly every delegate to the Duluth Trades and Labor assembly is willing to go as a delegate to Mankato. Five delegates will be chosen, and among the more prominent are: George Davis, president of the assembly; Gordon O'Neil, William Longstreet, Cliff Higgins, E. J. Meagher J. W. Richardson, Gus Weinberg and Henry Dworschak.

It was reported at the meeting of the Building Trades' council last evening that the tinners' strike has been settled, the men getting an increase of 10 per cent. Delegates all reported that trade is good. Carpenters are being brought into the union with particularly good success. At the next meeting of the council a delegate will be elected to attend the meeting of the State Federation of Labor.

* * *

The Marine Engineers' association has declared the Booth steamer Hunter an unfair boat, as it carries non-union engineers. The Engineers' association will ask that all union men and their friends refrain from patronizing the Hunter.

* * *

The boilermakers mourn the death of M. J. Dordis, one of their oldest and most popular associates. The funeral was held Wednesday morning from St. Clement's church. Among the beautiful floral tributes was a wreath from the union. The employes of the Northwestern Boiler works turned out in a body. Mr. Dardis came to Duluth twelve years ago, and for a time he was in business with J. F. Dacey. He resided on Twenty-fourth avenue west, and leaves a wife and family to mourn his loss.

* * *

The 'Longshoremen held a meeting last Saturday night and installed officers. They also expelled one member for taking the place of a lumber piler during the strike. The vote was almost unanimous. Henry Clark, the expelled member, threatens to sue the union for damages.

* * *

William Tunnell will represent the Butchers' union at the Mankato convention. The annual picnic will be held in July. The union has voted to hold no more Sunday picnics, and will also bar the sale of all intoxicating liquors.

* * *

Factory Inspector J. W. Allen will leave Monday for a month's inspection trip among the factories in his district.

* * *

M. J. Ryan, president of the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association of the great lakes, has returned from an extended tour. He settled troubles in several ports along the lakes, and feels jubilant over the success and future prospects of his organization.

LABOR NOTES.

The postoffice clerks of Chicago have built up a flourishing union within the past year.

The International Printing Pressmens and Assistants' union has a membership of more than 20,000 and is well off financially.

A colony of 100 negroes left Knoxville, Tenn., recently for Hawaii, under a contract to work three years on a sugar plantation.

The Philippine commission has issued a law to the effect that not less than six hours, exclusive of meal time time, shall constitute a minimum day's work on the part of all employes of the civil service.

Before the Albany street car strike the mayor signed an ordinance forbidding traction companies to employ inexperienced motormen.

Since the break down of the last union the rate received per 1000 by the Hebrew compositors of London has declined from 8d to 4½d.

A movement is on foot again to form a "general" brotherhood of railroad men. The movement is being agitated on the Southern Pacific railroad system. In the East the railroad men are again trying to form a federation of the present brotherhoods.

The Colorado legislature, just adjourned, adopted an amendment to the state constitution that will permit an application of Henry George's much-discussed theory of a single tax on land, giving right to exempt all personal property and improvements on land from taxation. The Single Taxers are preparing to win a victory with the idea of making Colorado a sort of Utopian commonwealth, and thus afford a striking example to the other taxburdened states of the Union.

A London letter in the American Federationist says: Wages are coming down with a run in the coal, iron and steel trades, where sliding scales rule the roost and where the employer has learned how to rule the sliding scale. The decline has been threatening long nough and now it is here in all its grim unpleasantness. Take the figures for February. In iron and coal mining close upon 200,000 men had to submit to decreases, against a solitary small increase in the wages of underground and surface workers in Somerset. In the iron, steel, engineering and sundry metal trades the break is not so big, yet but 15,000 men have had their Friday pay sheet made out for smaller amounts. It is fortunate that in some things prices are coming down, as the workman's wife would be in a pitiable plight indeed when she was doing her marketing. These drops are indications of the trade depression which is piling up and the current talk amongst employers is that wages must come down a lot more yet before business will revive.

Among Glasgow's city institutions are wash houses, conveniently situated in working class localities, where housewives get the use of a washing stall, a lighting dirt extractor and other cleaning appliances, as well as of a drying stove, all for 4 cents an hour (it could easily pay something more in this city) and an ordinary family washing can be completed, ready to take home, within a couple of hours. When we consider the impossibility of getting cloths well washed and dried during a day in the ordinary tenement, the cost of extra fire and soap on a washing day, the discomfort of the man's dinner, not to speak of the unwholesomeness of the whole situation, this plan would seem to be worthy of private energy to attempt and of public enterprise to accept later if successful. But the most important lesson to be gleaned from Glasgow is one of wider significance. It appears that the municipal government is carried on upon business principles. "Politics" left behind, the people are free to do their work well.

The New South Wales says: John Plummer is not yet a great manufacturing country. Most of its leading industrial establishments are on a modest scale compared with those of the United Kingdom; consequently, those accustomed to labor in the workshop or factory should obtain assurance of employment before taking a passage to Sydney. Handy men, who can do work on their own account, such as tinsmiths, blacksmiths, carpenters, brickmakers, and so on, who are willing to settle in the younger townships of the state, can always do well, although at first they may have to "rough it" until the necessary experience has been acquired. Australia, especially New South Wales, may, however, be regarded as the paradise of Bridge and Sarah Jane. Not only are wages high, but household labors are pursued under conditions much more favorable than those which prevail in a cold and gloomy climate like that of England. Numbers of the Australian houses are one story only, and few exceed two.

CABLE FLASHES.

"It is rumored here," says the Constantinople correspondent of the London Daily News, "that an arrangement has been agreed upon whereby the French fleet is to force the Dardanelles with a European mandate unless Turkey yields on the postal question."

Samuel N. Hill, of Minneapolis, son-in-law of James J. Hill, in company with Robert E. Bandy, of Paris, has arrived at St. Petersburg on his trip around the world. Mr. Hill hopes to reach Vladivostock within five weeks. He describes his journey as one of pleasure and observation and without any definite purpose.

The London Press association has issued the following statement: "It was asserted in the city that a Chinese loan of £60,000,000 with an international guarantee has been practically arranged to be issued as soon as political affairs in China settle down."

It is asserted that the British government has received information of the willingness of all the governments, except the French and Russian, to abolish sugar bounties. Russia, it appears, refused altogether, and France only consents to partial abolition.

BEMIDJI CASUALTY

Tragic Termination to Celebration of Norwegian Holiday.

Fireworks Exploded on Board Steamer With Serious Results.

One Man Missing, One Fatally and Several Badly Injured.

Bemidji, Minn., May 18.—The celebration of Norway's national holiday here had a tragic termination last night on Lake Bemidji. Fireworks exploded on the steamer Shadow with the result that one or more are fatally injured and eleven out of the thirty people on board of the little steamer were more or less severely burned. Seven are severely burned and several may die. A list of those more severely injured or missing is as follows:

Fred Driver, Bemidji, missing.
Fred McCauley, fatally burned.
Frank Smith, Bemidji, seriously burned.
Al Zacharias, Bemidji, seriously burned.
Ed Scarrott, Bemidji, leg broken and injured internally.
C. E. Arnold, Bemidji, seriously injured.
Emil Jesten, Rosby, Minn., burned and bruised.

There was tremendous excitement here when the accident occurred. It was feared that all on board had perished. It was believed that the staunch little pleasure steamer had blown up, and the citizens were making preparations to save such persons as might have survived the shock and could sustain themselves in the water.

The survivors of the great catastrophe on Lake Bemidji tell a thrilling story of their experiences. As usual in such cases, there is much conflict of testimony. The explosion threw everybody into a panic, and no two tell the same story. The boat, according to one of the survivors, was steaming rapidly along, with the intention of taking up a commanding location in the lake, where the fireworks were to be set off. The trip on the boat was considered a special privilege, despite the fact that the people on shore would see the display to the best advantage. Darkness was drawing in over the pine-fringed lake, and the boat looked her name as she moved, phantom-like, toward the center of the lake.

Hundreds of pairs of eyes on the shore eagerly awaited the appearance of the first rocket. The night was very still, and the voices of the people on the boat were distinctly heard. Suddenly the people on shore were chilled with dread to hear a scream and instantly the boat was lit up with a lurid flame. Fantastic reaches of fire leaped through the darkness, and these were followed by a series of explosions. Mingled with all were the shrill cries of the women and children and the hoarse voices of the men.

It was a wildly thrilling spectacle as witnessed from the shore. Serpents of fire filled the air and lit up the pallid faces of the imperilled passengers and crew. Men on shore rushed to the boats in the beach and started for the steamer Shadow with all possible speed. In the meantime, on board of the little steamer a plucky and heroic fight was made to extinguish the fire, and to prevent fatalities if possible. Some escaped injury by swimming ashore. Six doctors are present, working over the injured. Fred Driver, of Bemidji, is supposed to have been drowned in trying to swim ashore.

The passengers and crew of the Shadow had the fire pretty well under control when assistance began to arrive.

MRS. GAGE DEAD.

Wife of Secretary of the Treasury Has Passed Away.

Washington, May 18.—Mrs. Lyman J. Gage, wife of the secretary of the treasury, died at her residence, No. 1715 Massachusetts avenue, northwest, at 9:30 o'clock last night, after an illness of nine weeks duration. With her when the end came were her husband, her married daughter, Mrs. E. F. Pierce, of Evanston, Ill., and Dr. W. W. Johnston, the attending physician. For a time before her death Mrs. Gage suffered considerable pain, but she maintained her bright and cheerful demeanor and was conscious to the last. Heart trouble, the result of grip complications, was the immediate cause of death. Mrs. Gage was exposed to the inclement weather for about an hour on inauguration day, but at the time her health did not seem to have been affected. On March 11 she left here for Evanston to visit her married daughter. While there she experienced a chill and took to her bed, but soon recovered sufficiently to return to Washington, where she has been confined to her room ever since.

Mrs. Gage was a native of Albany, N. Y., and 58 years of age. She was married to Secretary Gage in Denver, Col., in 1887. There were no children from their union, Mrs. Pierce being a child by a former husband.

The remains will be interred in Rosehill cemetery, near Chicago. Further than this the funeral services have not yet been arranged. It is probable, however, that religious services of a simple character will be held at her former residence, in this city, on Sunday morning, in which event the body will leave here by the morning train for Chicago.

Mrs. Gage was an Episcopalian in her religious belief, but during their residence here she and the secretary have had a pew in the Metropolitan M. E. church, where the president attends. Dr. Hillis, of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, is an intimate friend of the family, and it is possible he may be asked to come to Washington to conduct the funeral services here.

During their residence in Washington Secertary and Mrs. Gage have taken quite an active part in social life at the capital.

Mrs. Gage was a woman of charming personality, and with her husband delighted in extending the hospitality of their home on Massachusetts avenue.

Mrs. Gage was probably closer to Mrs. McKinley than any other of the ladies of the cabinet.

James Brownlee, of Deerwood, is prepared to accommodate fishing or other parties with board by day or week.

DEATH OF PHILLIPS

Authorities Endeavoring to Find Cause of Priest's Death.

Autopsy Fails to Reveal Any Marks of Violence.

Severe Treatment For Rheumatism May Have Affected His Heart.

New York, May 18.—The authorities are making efforts to discover the cause of the death of Father Phillips.

At the conclusion of the autopsy last night Coroner Bausch said: "A complete autopsy was made by Dr. O'Hanlon, and it shows no marks of violence, no fracture of any kind and no damage to the brain. The condition of the body would indicate that death was due to chronic nephritis and fatty liver. There was about a dram of dark fluid found in the stomach, the character of which cannot be determined except by chemical analysis. Owing to the suspicious circumstances attached to the case, it was deemed reasonable, and just that a chemical analysis should be made of the organs, which will be sent to Professor Witthaus. The matter now rests with the district attorney and a justice of the supreme court to determine whether the analysis shall be made. Without their sanction it cannot be made."

"How do you explain the pool of blood?" the coroner was asked.

"That the doctor explains in this way: The body lying in a horizontal position, allowed the gases which formed through decomposition to force the blood through the mouth, and it trickled on the floor."

Dr. O'Hanlon said:

"The autopsy showed that the man suffered from chronic Bright's disease, fatty liver and fatty heart, any one of which was sufficient to cause death. Of course he might have been given a hot bath and might have been smothered. There was no sign of alcoholism in the stomach."

Assistant District Attorney Garvin said that he agreed with Coroner Bausch that an analysis of the vital organs should be made, and he said the district attorney's office would authorize the holding of an analysis.

Coroner Bausch gave a permit for the removal of the body from the morgue to an undertaking establishment.

Coroner Bausch said in relation to the missing watch that he was informed by H. S. McAniff, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., the brother-in-law of the priest, that the clergyman was seen with his watch-chain hanging out on the night he was last seen alive at the Central hotel, and that he believed that the watch was taken by pickpockets.

Father Phillips' friends said the body would probably be shipped to the priest's late home tomorrow.

They expect to make a lengthy explanation of the priest's movements up to May 9, the day on which he is supposed to have met his death.

It was learned that in addition to the property already enumerated as having been in his possession, there was a gold pen and pencil, a silver glove buttoner, a silver crucifix of the Holy Cross society, which has a branch in this city. The police theory so far is that the priest died in Dr. Stanley's rooms either after having been drugged for robbery or simply as a result of intoxication and excitement, and that Stanley was afraid to notify the authorities, putting it off from day to day until the body was found in such a position, they say, as to make it look as if he had been carried into the room where it was found from the adjoining room, and there laid out.

Detective Sergeant Kiernan reported to Capt. Titus the statements made by Dr. Stanley and the results of his investigation. Stanley, he said, admitted he used morphine. He told Kiernan that he himself put the bedclothing from the window of the room in which the priest was found dead before he went away Thursday morning. There is a gas jet in the large room adjoining the one in which the body was found. Kiernan says that the light from this shines directly into the smaller room, and that it would be impossible for any person to go into the room even at night without discovering the body. The doctor says he went in there a number of times, but never saw the body. The odor from the body was noticed by the neighbors several days ago. When the detectives asked Stanley if he had not detected it, he said he had, and had made inquiries, but thought it came from a fish market next door.

The police are in possession of a photograph of the young woman whom Stanley identified as his wife. Kiernan said that on last Thursday this woman went to Stanley's house and tried to get in, but finding it locked, went down to the rooms of Mrs. Higgins, the janitress. Mrs. Higgins suggested that she take the duplicate keys and go up into the rooms. According to Mrs. Higgins, the young woman threw up her hands and exclaimed: "Oh, I could not do that. I would not think of going up into that place alone." She then left the place hurriedly.

The picture of the young woman shows her to be a rather good-looking young Hebrew girl. Dr. Stanley refused to tell who she is. He says he is married, but declares that his wife is living separately in California.

Dr. A. S. Dougherty, of Ashley, Pa., a nephew of the priest, said in speaking of the tragedy:

"For some time past, probably two years, Father Phillips has suffered from muscular rheumatism, and for the past six months his heart has given him considerable trouble. My theory is that the strain resultant from those labor problems in which he had entered so actively brought on a kind of nervous prostration, and in this condition he weakened and thought that stimulants would help him. I suppose he met this man Stanley and in the course of conversation mentioned that he was subject to rheumatism. Stanley having an apparatus which he claimed would cure rheumatism, induced Father Phillips to submit to the treatment. Father Phillips having a very fatty heart, this treatment proved too severe. I believe as a physician that in this condition this treatment was enough to cause death, as I understand the temperature to which the patient was subjected was sometimes as high as 400 degrees."

MAKING OF SAUCES.

"It Provoketh a Fine Appetite If Sauce Your Meat Be By."

Good sauces are not as difficult to make as is so generally believed, the failure to succeed in this particular branch of the culinary art lies in the fact that the average cook does not, first of all, understand the important part they play in the preparation of foods, and does not give sufficient time and study to the manner of making them.

Blot tells us that there is no good cooking without good sauces, and it is undeniable that many otherwise excellent dishes are ruined by being served with a poor sauce.

Good sauces cannot be made from poor materials, though it is not necessary that the substances used be expensive, but they must be suitable. The American cook will spend more for materials in the making of her sauces for one meal than would furnish a French, German or Spanish cook with supplies for a dozen sauces. The foreign cook would not attempt to substitute water for broth, or vinegar and water for wine, as does the American cook, and yet they can produce the most delicious sauces at half the cost. One wastes from not knowing how, while the other can afford the better, richer materials, because they waste nothing good through carelessness and ignorance.

ARE SAUCES WHOLESOME?

Why not? Having admitted that there are sauces and sauces, we must acknowledge that a sauce from the hands of a careless or untrained cook is quite as dangerous to good digestion as any other similarly mistreated food preparation. But from the hands of the artist it is sure to meet such approval of the senses as to aid rather than interfere with the assimilation of our food. A noted lover of good living so highly valued the skill of the cook in the preparation of his sauces he deemed him worthy of knighthood, and expressed his approval in such wise:

"An exquisite and poignant sauce,
For which I'll say unto my cook, There's gold,
Go forth and be a knight."

THE ORIGIN OF OUR SAUCES.

While Americans are cosmopolitan in their sauces, and have, from the abundant supplies of nature, originated many dainty and delicious which are unknown abroad, they have derived the original idea of most of their finest sauces from the French. But what few American cooks understand is, that the French, who excel in variety of exquisite sauces, have really but two original sauces for meats and vegetables. With these foundation sauces, they use skill, cultivated taste and originality in playing the many variations with these two keys.

The espagnole, or brown sauce, and the white sauces are, as the French express it, the "mother of sauces."

Understanding how to make these two in perfection, you can ring any number of changes, as they can be made to suit the taste and accord with the dishes they are to be served with. A hundred varieties can be made just as well as one, by adding or leaving out one or more substances, or by adopting a little different mode of preparation.

FRENCH NAMES FOR AMERICAN SAUCES.

So much importance have the French always attracted to their sauces that the names given them are often noted and historical, and generally designate their originator. When adopting them for the American kitchens, we must of necessity retain these names in many instances, for want of something more appropriate, as the name does not signify the nature of the sauce, but the person who designed this particular combination.

AMERICAN SAUCES.

If we have a class of sauces which are strictly American, they are the pudding and dessert sauces. And in these we show an apt appreciation for the eternal fitness of things by combinations produced, though the cook fails, more or less often, to give but an exasperating idea of "the might have been."

EXACTNESS IN PROPORTIONS MUST BE OBSERVED.

Follow set rules in this respect, as there must be no guessing or careless measurements. The foundation of the sauce which consists of a solid and liquid must be in exact proportions and mixed in a certain manner, in order to give smoothness and proper consistency. Flour and eggs are the thickening agents, butter is to enrich and give smoothness; but these must be used in such proportion as will combine with the flour; otherwise, unless you want a butter sauce, you will have one that is badly made. Seasonings and flavorings are a matter of taste; but cultivated to a nicety in order to get the flavor of "some subtleties" that are so pleasing.

ACCESSORIES TO SAUCES.

While there is considerable license, yet a strict regard must be paid to suitable combinations that will not be out of tune with the meats, vegetables or article of food with which you intend serving the sauce.

Mushroom sauce, or powder, is a delightful addition to many sauces, and a great deal of cherry.

Mushroom, walnut or tomato catsup, a few chopped oysters, lemon juice, paprika, chopped gherkins, pickled walnuts are also considered suitable for brown sauce for pork chops and boiled mutton needs the piquancy of caper sauce. Horseradish, cucumber and onion sauces are three favorite meat sauces, either hot or cold.

SOME THINGS TO REMEMBER ABOUT SAUCES.

Do not use a straight bread flour for sauces. Have the butter boiling hot when the flour goes in, but not colored, unless you are making a brown sauce. Cook both well together before adding the milk. This prevents the sauce from having a raw, pasty taste.

It is necessary to stir all sauces continually while they are cooking until they begin to thicken and the starch is sufficiently cooked to remain in suspension and not fall to the bottom of the saucepan.

Do not wet the flour before stirring it into the liquid, or it will not combine with the butter, which will float on the top. Add the salt when the sauce begins to thicken. Do not be extravagant in the use of seasonings or let any one seasoning or flavoring predominate. If a hot sauce cannot be served as soon as made, cover loosely and keep warm over hot but not boiling water.

When vinegar is added to a boiled dressing, heat the butter or fat with the vinegar; pour in gradually, beating rapidly, and continue to beat if it shows signs of curdling, until it is smooth. Do not beat or strain a flour sauce if you can avoid it, as it makes it pasty.

If an uncooked sauce curdles on adding vinegar or acid, chill it thoroughly and then beat it smooth.

PLAIN WHITE SAUCE.

Measure all your materials before you begin cooking. Put two level teaspoonfuls of butter or oil in a saucepan; measure two level tablespoonfuls of sifted flour, use patent or pastry, and one cup of warm but not boiling white stock or broth; water can be used if the sauce is for vegetables; but broth is best, as the former makes a rather pasty sauce. Melt the butter and let it get bubbling hot, but not the least colored. Add the flour and then stir rapidly while it cooks a few minutes. Then add the broth and stir constantly, but not rapidly, until it begins to thicken; add half a teaspoonful of salt and two dashes, six shakes of white pepper. Let it boil up for a few minutes, and it is ready to serve.

For a cream sauce, use milk instead of broth or half a cup of cream and half a cup of broth or stock, and proceed in same way as with white sauce.

BROWN SAUCE.

The formula for this is same as for white stock, except that you brown the butter and fat, then add the flour and brown, or use browned flour, using a little more flour in a brown sauce as the browning destroys, in a measure, the thickening power of the flour.

With these two, or rather three foundations, you can invent any number of palatable sauces which you will find most useful in aiding you to dispose of many odds and ends and cold meats and vegetables that otherwise would be wasted.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

(No attention paid to inquiries not giving name and address of writer, plainly writer.)

Mr. A. D. W. writes: "I have been much interested on your articles on diet, and particularly in the one recently relating to bananas as a diet. I have for the past year or more made my breakfast on a banana sliced thin, covered with a wheat biscuit or two, and both covered with cream; this, with a cup of coffee, I find to be an ideal breakfast for me, a man between 50 and 60 years of age. I am on the lookout continually for anything relating to bananas as a diet, and will be glad to have you tell me where they are discussed in authoritatively medical or other journals. The general public does not understand that the best bananas are those thoroughly ripened and black, or nearly so, on the outside. The consequence is that the yellow ones are not found to be easily digested, and notwithstanding the large consumption, are not used nearly so extensively as I think they should be. I noticed recently a project, which seemed to be founded in Nicaragua or some other Central American state, to utilize the millions of bananas, too small for shipment, by drying them and grinding them into meal, which the projectors claim will not only be more attractive, but more palatable than the banana in the skin can possibly be; and those who seem to know something about it regard it as a revolutionary sort of movement which will promise a great deal for the people. Your work of disseminating correct ideas concerning diet I regard as a most valuable service, for we are a nation of most uneducated, reckless and extravagant people in nearly everything pertaining to diet."

BANANA PRODUCTS.

We thank our correspondent for his kindly interest in our work, and quite agree with him that the manner of eating raw and half-ripened bananas is most harmful, and there is little doubt but what many of the stomach and intestinal troubles of children are traceable to this practice, as children generally have an inordinate desire for the fruit, and naturally select the ripest in appearance, those of a light yellow, and often tinged with green.

The small bananas which you mention are the only bananas which the natives eat raw and are fully ripened on the tree. These cannot be exported, as they spoil so quickly, and consequently are the banana to be used in making the meal, which is already obtainable in the United States. I think if you write to Professor Wiley, of the agricultural department, at Washington, you can obtain considerable information in reference to banana foods, and he can probably inform you where you can obtain banana products. We will send you by mail the names of several magazines which may treat the subject by request, at least.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS ABOUT WHAT TO EAT.

N. E. J., Md., writes: "I noticed an article which led me to believe you had a book of 'practical suggestions about what to eat and how to prepare food.' If I am right, will you kindly inform me of the exact character of the work, its size, price and anything else needed. I am obliged to rely upon help entirely, and do not always have a competent housekeeper. The many cook books in my possession do not help in the manner I wish."

We have no such book as you refer to. The practical suggestions about what to eat and how to prepare food appear in weekly articles in the paper under the head you mention. It is possible that we may in the near future issue these articles in volume form, but at present you will be able to obtain any information you may desire through the inquiry department, if the article does not supply the need.

SHE WAS SWINDLED.

Society Girl Tricked By a Fortune Teller.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 18.—The larceny trial of Mildred Preston, the fortune teller who is charged with swindling Miss Ethlyn Quimby, a prominent society girl here of high standing, out of family jewels, money and valuable silks, is in full swing. The court room is crowded by business men and society folks.

It was shown today that Miss Quimby visited the Prestons, and was told of a threatened lawsuit which could be avoided by the presence of family valuables; that an understanding was reached between the clairvoyant and Miss Quimby that the latter should secure the family jewels and take them to the rooms of the woman, that she might come in contact with them, and so avert misfortune. It was also understood that she should take money, the more the better, and in gold, since that was considered the most sacred and precious and the more dear to the owner. Miss Quimby said she believed it was for the best interest of all to take the money and jewels, which she did, and took a receipt for $600. She said she became anxious about leaving the money there over night, and the woman quieted her fears by saying she would send her husband to the bank and draw on her own personal account and give her back the equivalent that same evening at 7:30. Miss Quimby then went away, and when she went back again at the appointed time the woman and man were gone. The flight of the pair to Chicago, and their subsequent arrest in New York, was then related. The witness nearly broke down while telling her story. It was shown that she had borrowed the $600 of a friend and agreed to return it that same evening, or the next morning. When arrested the Preston woman was in the Tombs awaiting trial for jumping a bail bond. The case had to be adjourned on account of the nervous condition of Miss Quimby.

Gentlemen:—Both brands of Wesson Oil have now been most thoroughly tested and both give excellent results. The Wesson Salad Oil is certainly sweet and bland and makes up easily into all sorts of salad dressings.

Fully believing as I do that oil is the only fat to use for frying purposes, I most heartily endorse the Wesson Cooking Oil, which has given most favorable results. Very truly yours,

THE DRAMA

"The Evil Eye" at Lyceum Next Friday.

Nat Goodwin Now Appearing as Shylock.

The only attraction at the Lyceum next week will be "The Evil Eye," which proved very acceptable on its last visit to this city, and will doubtless receive the same approval next Friday and Saturday evenings. Everything new is what Charles H. Yale promises this season. There are disappearing rooms, a draw-bridge, which is also a catapult, and other odd examples of trick scenery. Electricity is a factor in many of its effects. In one dance each dancer is aglow with electric bulbs of all colors.

GOODWIN'S SHYLOCK.

May Strengthen His Plea For Serious Consideration.

When toward the close of last season Nat Goodwin announced his intention of producing "The Merchant of Venice" the risibilities of scoffing critics were excited from sea to sea, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. We could not conceive Nat as the Jew of Venice. In the Cincinnati Dramatic festival, in 1883, it is true he had appeared in "Hamlet" as the first grave digger. He did not receive a large amount of the space devoted to criticism at the time, owing to the fact that Edwin Booth, John McCullough, Lawrence Barrett and a few others of that rank were in the cast. In New York, in 1888, on the occasion of a benefit to Tony Hart, he took part as Marc Antony. The critics were unkind enough to rejoice in type that his interpretation was limited to one performance, and hinted that it would have been infinitely more enjoyable had Caesar officiated at Antony's funeral. These had been Mr. Goodwin's only ventures in Shakesperean plays when he produced "The Merchant of Venice" at Syracuse last Monday night.

While the production has not as yet been extensively reviewed by any of the leading critics, those who have witnessed it have been most kind. All agree that Miss Elliott makes a charming Portia. With her beauty Miss Elliott would make a charming anyone, and no one ever thinks of watching her acting while in the presence of her varied charms. The all-star cast is well received and the accessories voted magnificent. But it is on Shylock that the chief interest hangs, and unless Nathaniel C. "makes good" the enterprise will have been a failure.

It is said that Mr. Goodwin has spared no effort in his interpretation of the role.

In order to arrive at independent judgments concerning its treatment he has of late been burning the midnight oil in the study of Elizabethian literature. Every aspect of Shakespeare's masterpiece has been minutely examined. Even the sources of the plot and characterization have been investigated. Prominent literary critics have maintained that Shakespeare was very considerably indebted for his Shylock to Marlowe's character of Barabas in "The Jew of Mal.a." It is, moreover, an indisputable fact with students of Elizabethian literature that blank verse, first introduced into the English tongue by Earl Surrey., in his translation of the Aeneid, was very much improved by Marlowe, whose model formed the basis for the freedom and grace of Shakespearean prosody. Many of Marlowe's plays undoubtedly contributed to influence Shakespeare's choice of subjects. Long ago it was pointed out by Charles Lamb that the pangs of abdicating royalty in Marlow's "Edward II" must have furnished strong hints towards Shakespeare's "Richard III." The two parts of Tamberlaine formed models for what have been expressly called the "Elizabethian tragedies of blood." Mr. Goodwin points out that, perhaps, no stronger proof could be advanced to show the enormous advances made by Shakespeare over Marlowe, his father in dramatic poetry, than a careful perusal of "The Jew of Malta." Side by side with "The Merchant of Venice" what is the merest tinsel and tawdry in Marlowe's case is filtered through the crucible of Shakespeare's imagination and comes forth transmuted into the purest gold.

There are, Mr. Goodwin maintains, certain accidental resemblances between the characters of Barabas and Shylock, but in their essential natures they are widely separated. Barabas is a fiend in human shape without a touch of nature to redeem him. He is a monstrosity that takes delight in deeds of blood and revels in devilish machinations. Shylock, on the other hand, is essentially human, his cruelty being constantly relieved by cunning touches of Shakespeare's art. Considering the enormous prejudices that existed against the Jewish race in the Elizabethian age, Shakespeare shows an extraordinary breadth of view, and the character of Shylock is a brilliant exemplification of the truth of old Ben Jonson's line that Shakespeare was "not of an age, but for all time." He dares to hurl a defiance in the teeth of the prejudices of his countrymen and makes those prejudices just as hateful as the reaction of cunning and cruelty in Shylock of which they are the cause. The revenge and demand for "the pound of flesh" are simply the result of long pent up insult endured without a possibility of recrimination until the opportunity brought about by Antonio's losses opens up. Barabas, on the other hand, has no such powerful motives to stir him to action, and lacks the grappling touches of humanity seen in Shakespeare's Shylock.

Of the Shylocks of history, the first known was Thomas Doggett, who was the comedian of a troupe of players, and who first appeared in "The Merchant of Venice," with the title changed to "The Jew of Venice," in 1701. "The Jew of Venice" was a mangled version of Shakespeare's great work, but it held the stage for more than a generation. Thomas Dogget is not remembered so much for his Shylock as for a generous bequest in his will, which left provisions for a race on the river Thames every year on Aug. 1, open to the watermen of London. This race is held even now on the date mentioned, and the winner is given an orange colored livery, with a badge representing liberty. The color of the livery and the date celebrate the accession of George I to the throne, and indicates the strong political proclivities of the Whig actor. The next Shylock was Charles Macklin, who had won his greatest praise as a comedian, but determined to play Shylock in a serious way.

The date of his first appearance in the part was Feb. 14, 1741, and the theater the Drury Lane, of London. He made an immediate and pronounced success. On Jan. 10, 1788, when Macklin was 89, he appeared as Shylock, and with the old-time spirit went through the first act, but began to stumble and became confused in the second. He managed to struggle through the play. Thirteen years after Macklin drew the part Shylock came Sheridan, whose associate was Peg Wotlington as Portia. Then follows a long line of minor players coming up to John Kemble, who played the part opposite to the Portia of his sister, Miss E. Kemble.

Shylock was probably played first in this country by Malone Sept. 5, 1752, at Williamsburg, Va., who was also the first Leah of the American stage. Hallam played the part later in Philadelphia, his rival being John Henry, who had the honor of being the object of admiration of no less a personage than George Washington. Another Shylock of the early days was Mr. Chalmers, who, with Cooper, Fennell, Hipworth and Giles Leonard Barrett, kept Shylock on the stage until the days of Kean and Booth. In 1803 George Frederick Cooke played the part, and with a signal success. He was an eccentric genius, who was often in his cups, and while in that condition did many odd things. In 1814 we come to the first of the great latter-day Shylocks, Edmund Kean. He made a most tremendous triumph. Then we come to Macready, who, strangely enough, recorded in his diary that he was another failure in the part. Later he acknowledged to himself that he did very fairly, but it is evident that he was never satisfied with his own impersonation. Passing over Samuel Phelps, we come to Charles Kean, whose Shylock seemed to have a great impress on the English-speaking stage.

Edwin Booth played the part with success, and chose it for his first appearance in London. His father, Junius Brutus Booth, played Shylock in 1851, and James W. Wallack essayed Shylock seven years later. It is interesting to note that the Basanio of that production was Lester Wallack. Edwin Forrest was but an indifferent Shylock, so we are told, and perhaps those who have also played the part who should be mentioned were E. L. Davenport, Gustavus E. Brooke, Lawrence Barrett, and last but by no means least, Henry Irving, who gave to the stage an absolutely new Shylock, inasmuch as it was the gentlemanly Jew lender of money which he protrayed. Richard Mansfield has also assayed Shylock, but has evidently abandoned it.

No less interesting than Mr. Goodwin's interpretation of Shylock is Miss Elliot's conception of Portia. Speaking upon the character of Portia she said recently:

"In the opinion of some prominent students of Shakespeare the most prominent figure in 'The Merchant of Venice,' as well as its true central point, is the character of Portia. She it is for whose sake the complicated knots of events is entangled—by her ready wit and alacrity in defeating danger, by quick combination, the tangle is loosened. In some points she shows a resemblance to Antonio. Both are royally rich and are undisturbed by the weight of their possessions. As Antonio is surrounded with parasites, so is Portio by suitors from all lands, 'for the four winds blow in from every coast renowned suitors.' Both are given to melancholy. 'In sooth, I know not why I am so sad, it wearies me; you say it wearies you; but how I caught it, found it, or came by it, what stuff 'tis made of, whereof it is born, I am to learn,' says Antonio, whose melancholy proceeds from mere apathy without further cause. When Portia says: 'By my troth, Nerissa, my little body is aweary of this great world,' she is melancholy, not from sheer ennui, but from passion and love for Bassanio. Later on she endures all the agony of suspense when the doubtful issue of his choice threatens to destroy her life's happiness. The sudden burst of an almost ecstatic joy at the successful result of Bassanio's choice shows vividly the reaction from this worrying care. With what relief we sympathise with this lovable creation when in her joy she cries:

"'How all the other passions fleet to air,
As doubtful thoughts, and rash embraced despair,
And shuddering fear, and green-eyed jealousy.
Oh, love, be moderate; allay thy ecstasy—
In measure rein thy joy; scant this excess,
I feel too much thy blessing, and make it less
For fear I surfeit.'

"The beauty of the casket scene long lingers in the memory. To the man of her choice Portia represents herself with the most delightful womanly modesty. 'But the full sum of me,' she says, 'is sum of something, which, to term in gross, is an unlessoned girl, unschooled, unpracticed.'

The Shakespearean student admires Portia all the more because he feels she is capable rather of guiding Bassanio instead of 'committing her gentle spirit to be directed.' With that remarkable strength she kept up her father's injunctions. She knows which is the right casket, but not a hint does she drop. Her eyes long ago sent out 'speechless messages to young Bassanio. That, in the event of his failure, she may at least have had the short delight of his society. 'I would detain you here,' she says, 'some month or two before you venture for me.' How she must have struggled against the warmth of feeling that could not but at times tempt her to transgress her father's will. The most beautiful and contradictory qualities are thus united in Portia's nature. She is a remarkable combination of strong determination and womanly tenderness. Quick in judgment, skilled in the knowledge of men, she appears to take her remarkable position as Judge quite naturally. The dramatist's art, by letting us into the superior nature of Portia, skillfully works up to this situation. It seems to follow as a result of her recognition—that after Bassanio's departure of the inevitable hold that the Jew has upon Antonio. She determines to leave nothing undone by adopting the surest course of saving him by right and law itself."

Goodwin's leap into Shakespeare recalls the steady advancement the actor has made. His first stage appearance was at the old Howard in Boston, where he attracted attention by splendid imitation of actors. This took him to Niblo's Garden, New York, where he was seen in two variety sketches, "Stage Struck" and "Home From School." His next venture was with Tony Pastor on the variety stage. That success led to his engagement in 1875 to play Capt. Crosstree in the burlesque of "Black-Eyed Susan," at the Fourteenth Street theater, New York. Next the young man was seen in conjunction with John Brougham, where he assumed his first comedy part, Tom Tape, in "Sketches in India." The role of Stephen Poppincourt in "The Little Rebel" followed. Minnie Palmer was in the East, and later she and Goodwin appeared in "Stage Struck," and afterward he played Lorenzo in "Mascot." The famous burlesque, "Evangeline," was acted at the Boston Museum in 1876. Goodwin being the Capt. Dietrich in a cast which included William H. Crane, Henry E. Dixey and Richard Golden.

He then formed the Eliza Weathersby Frolliques and produced "Hobbles." This ended the burlesque period of Mr. Goodwin's career, for with the production of "The Member for Slocum" in 1881, he became identified with farce with the exception of 1882-1883, when, in a company including Eliza Weathersby and Edwin Thorne, he appeared in "The Black Flag," and the season of 1884-5, when he returned to burlesque, presenting "Hobbies" and "Those Bells," until "A Gold Mine" was brought out in 1889. Mr. Goodwin's plays during the intervening years were "The Skating Rink," "Little Jack Shepard," "Turned Up" and "Confusion." In May, 1883, at the Cincinnati dramatic festival, Mr. Goodwin made his first appearance in a Shakespearean character, that of the first grave digger in "Hamlet." During the festival he also played Modus in "The Hunchback." His second venture into Shakespeare was made at Tony Hart's benefit in New York on March 28, 1888, where he acted Marc Antony in "Julius Caesar." He produced "A Gold Mine" and "The Bookmaker" in England in 1890, and on his return to America was seen in "The Nominee." These were followed by "Colonel Tom," "Art and Nature," "A Gilded Fool," "In Mizzoura," "David Garrick," "Lend Me Five Shillings" and "Ambition." The season of 1895-6 Mr. Goodwin spent in Australia, where he made "The Rivals" the feature. His next plays were "An American Citizen," "Nathan Hale" and "The Cowboy and the Lady," and this season one of his greatest successes, "When We Were Twenty-one."

After Sickness

Take Vinol—Our Great Strength Creator.

IT GIVES ONE A SPLENDID APPETITE.

AND QUICKLY REBUILDS THE SYSTEM.

We Will Refund the Price of Vinol if It Fails.

The worst part of sickness, frequently, is getting over it.

The patient's strength is depleted, his system is generally demoralized, relapses are continually feared, and naturally.

The one thing to aid recovery is to give the patient that which will enable him to get strong, and at the same time give strength direct to the different organs of the body.

Nothing will do this like Vinol.

It acts directly on the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, and enables the digestive organs to obtain the necessary elements to increase the weight of the patient and to make new healthy flesh and muscle tissue and pure, rich, red blood.

The following is a letter showing where Vinol was taken and did good after a case of sickness. It reads as follows:

"I wish to certify to the very great benefit which has been derived from the use of Vinol in my family. My wife was very sick with the grippe and afterward was wholly run down. One bottle of Vinol places her on her feet in better condition than she had been before in six months. I heartily recommend and endorse it."—HENRY F. STURTEVANT, 81 Huntington St., Brockton, Mass.

Everything that is in Vinol is plainly printed on the label of each package.

We know Vinol is a splendid preparation, and in many cases we have been able to see for ourselves the wonderful results it brings about.

Remember that we guarantee Vinol and refund the purchase money if you are not satisfied.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO.

Metropolitan Opera House In the Hands of Aaron.

New York, May 15.—Apparently the greatest problem of the next theatrical season will be the fate of the Metropolitan Opera house. The time was, and not so very long ago, when the directors of that property were content to keep it shut while grand opera was not in progress. But this is all changed now, and they have awakened to the fact that the great opera house is a good deal of a white elephant. English opera at cut rates did not pay the rent last year, and now high art is to be thrown upon the altar of Mammon. George Lederer still maintains that he will give vaudeville as is vaudeville at the Metropolitan, and now along comes Alfred E. Aarons with plans for a monster entertainment, in which a ballet is to figure prominently and notable foreigners are to finish out the program. Aarons has just, by the grace of court, said farewell to creditors of long standing, and he says he will have all the backing necessary for this new enterprise, which will not be hampered like his late ones, by bills of the long ago.

So far as Aarons is concerned, the deal is settled. He admits that Maurice Grau put a clause in the lease whereby the ballet and its trimmings must be up to the Metropolitan Opera house standard, the censor being the said Grau. From the latter there is a discreet silence, but the jubilant Aarons will soon be across the fish pond corralling his talent. Whether Lederer and Aarons carry their plans out or not the cold fact remains that the Metropolitan is ready for any scheme in which there is even a faint hope of cash. Should both plans be carried out the Metropolitan will stand pre-eminent among the world's playhouses, because of the remarkable collection within its walls. Summed up generally these would be grand opera, concerts, vaudeville, ballet, more vaudeville, club, real estate office, bank, restaurant, apartment house, safety deposit vaults and probably, before the season closes, some more vaudeville and a few big balls during the idle hours in winter. There is certainly no longer any cause to complain of the lack of variety in the big building.

Not for many moons has the Rialto been so crowded as during this week. Most of the saunterers are here for any old engagement they can get. That is not the way they put it when they are helping support the Aulic and other drink dispensaries. To hear them there you would think Charles Frohman and Klaw and Erlanger had quarreled for life in a vain struggle to secure this particular Thespian. Miss Dottie Outofwork will tell you as long as you will listen that George Lederer and A. H. Chamberlyn are just crazy to get her for their new shows, but she is not any cheap girl, and she doesn't know whether she'll sign for a leading role at the Casino or wait for Maurice Grau's cable. Three weeks hence you will find the Aulic man working hard at South Beach for $12 per, while Dottie has got a place right in the front line of the chorus somewhere over in Jersey, a job that just pays her board. There never were so many opportunities for a summer engagement, and never was the pay so small. The market is full of candidates, and the wise manager need only wait a week or two to get all the material he needs at his own figure. One manager told me this week of an actress who is well enough known to draw $125 a week during the winter and who applied to him for a summer engagement. She agreed to furnish her own gowns and to play twelve times a week for $50. She demurred at first, and the manager said he knew she was worth more, but he could get plenty at lower figures even. She saw the point and signed the contract.

The vicissitudes of a manager's life are well illustrated by A. H. Chamberlyn, and had it incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000. He let Attorney Herman L. Roth and Broker Alexander S. Green in on the ground floor. The next day attachments against properties, costumes and scenery belonging to "The Prima Donna" and "My Lady" were secured by Conrad Schmidt, a costumer. Now there's a fine legal tangle, and more suits are booked to follow.

William Gould was passing along Broadway clad in raiment alongside which Solomon in all his glory would have looked like a Quaker when he met Herman Oppenheimer, George Lederer's brother-in-law and business associate. "I've got a new one, H. O.," said he, confidingly. "You see, I know a man named Smith, and he and his wife were riding in an automobile yesterday afternoon on Fifth avenue. Between Forty-second and Forty-fourth streets two accidents happend to them. At Forty-second street Smith was thrown out, and at Forty-fourth his wife was upset. Now, where would you say the main accident had occurred" Oppenheimer thought a moment and gave it up. "Why, in Havana harbor, of course. Ta, ta."

Walter Jones' "angel" has made him the envy of Broadway. Mrs. Jones has money—so much of it that the average Thespian refers to her with bated breath. She also has great faith in her husband, but there is no bated breath when fellow actors talk this over. She is going to buy him an extravaganza, music, costumes and all, and she will spend $60,000 on it. A constable part of this sum will pass muster at the bank. Chicago newspaper men will write the dialogue, and the company will be recruited from the ill-fated Mathews and Bugler aggregation, of which Walter was a member. Wifey even says she'll put up again if the first show fails.

Edward J. Connolly is in town for a short visit before spending his real vacation in England. He was over there with Edna May in "The Belle of New York," and has since been playing Dan Daly's old role in this country. Connolly has recently been the victim of extensive travelling with the company, which, curiously enough, remained intact ever since last August. The only exception was caused by the sudden death of E. S. Tarr. During this period the company covered 28,000 miles and only missed one advertised date. Connolly believes this is the record.

Although "Uncle Tom's Cabin" has done remarkably well in town, William A. Brady is actively preparing for its road tour. After a number of 1-night engagements it will settle down in Chicago for several weeks, and will then return to Buffalo for a run during the exposition.

The Theatrical Business Men's club will be opened for business next week at its new home, 139 West Forty-first street. The formal opening on next Saturday night will be a very elaborate affair, and all the stage notables in town will be on hand.

When "Sandy" Dingwall had recovered sufficiently from the wounds inflicted by that love-crazed college student to receive his friends, he entertained them with a story that they agreed was pretty near the limit. Two days after he was shot, an excited individual rushed into Roosevelt hospital and demanded to see the wounded manager on business of the utmost importance. The doctor was obdurate at first, but the man persisted with such success that he was finally led to Dingwall's bedside. "Hello, Ding," he exclaimed, and the sick man feebly recognized him as a notorious deadhead, "I want a couple of seats for Friday night," and then he produced a fountain pen and a pad. Dingwall just managed to write out the pass and the fiend hurried away.

The cast of "The Buxton Burglary," the farce-comedy which is to follow "The Prima Donna" at the Herald Square, will be a remarkable one. It will include Joseph Holland, W. J. Ferguson, Samuel Edwards, Lionel Barrymore, Elita Procter Otis, Gertrude Perry, Jessie Busley, Richard Baker and Charles Rigal. This will be Manager Shubert's first production of his own at his theater.

Eighth avenue has taken so kindly to Anna Held that she will play two weeks at the Grand Opera house instead of one. Her press agent has been cheered by this to such an extent that he has put forward the following touching little tale: "Anna Held was made a present of a little cub bear, not 3 months old, in Chicago about a month ago, and has been carying it with her on her private car. At the theaters she has been playing, en route to New York she has it installed on the stage in a specially constructed small cage. The cub has both musical sense and ear, as can be noticed when music of a good quality, like concert or opera music, is played. His eyes dilate, his body is eagerly erect and his ears twitch, and there is every outward sign of his being deeply pleased. Upon hearing a street piano organ one would think him in acute pain, judging from the contortions through which he goes. Miss Held has purchased a large music box, containing nothing but operatic airs, with which to amuse herself and cub on board her private car. This new acquisition to Miss Held's family of pets is her favorite." The careless press agent, however, fails to explain just why it is necessary to put him in a cage while he listens to the music in "Papa's Wife."

The agitation over ticket speculators seems to be dying out, although this week there was a spasmodic attempt at its revival. It is hard to find a manager who is not loud in his denunciation of the sidewalk nuisance, just as it is hard to find one who would abolish speculators if he could. As a matter of fact, the average manager regards the ticket man as a good advertisement. When a stranger leaves his hotel and wanders along Broadway he is apt to pass the theater where the speculator is absent and to halt where he is plying his trade. To the out-of-town eye the speculator is the sign of a prosperous and therefore good show. Under the circumstances it is not surprising that several speculators draw a weekly salary from the box office.

The experiment of opera at Koster and Bial's has been another failure for that house. Maud Daniels' aggregation has held forth there for two weeks, and will now seek pastures new. The vacant places on the bill will be filled with vaudeville.

Bertha Waltzinger is back on Broadway and nightly sings merrily at the Casino in "Florodora." Her role of Dolores was first in the hands of Fannie Johnston, and then of Miss Kate Condon. During the week Miss Waltzinger entertained Senator Depew and U. S. Grant and Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris.

Stage Manager William Parry of the Metropolitan will begin his summer season of comic opera at Terrace Garden on May 25. The initial production will be "El Capitan," and the cast will include William Mandeville, Frank Deshon, Harry Carter, Villa Knox, Mamie Gilroy, Allen Crater and Mathilde Cottrelly.

Hugh Morton (C. M. S. McClellan) writes from London that his "Girl From Up There" is a huge success. He is going to spend the summer in France and will return to his pen while there. He declares that Basil Hood's "Sweet and Twenty" is the best thing in London.

Meanwhile the redoubtable Oscar is working day and night to get his new roof garden open on May 27. It will cover the roofs of the Victoria and the Republic, and it is to be known as "The Paradise."

While Maxine Elliott is reaping honors and profit on this side with her husband, Nat Goodwin, her sister Gertrude is bemoaning her hard luck in London. "Count Tezzna," in which she and her husband, Forbes Robertson, hoped to startle the English capital, has been a dismal failure. Reports to Klaw and Erlanger from "The Merchant of Venice" show that the Goodwins have made a big hit with their all-star company.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES.

Corinne is in England.

Mascagni is writing a life of Verdi.

Katherine Grey is to star in "On the Heights."

Louise Baudet is now a vaudeville monologuist.

Sol Smith Russell is to return to the boards next season.

Madge Lessing is singing in a Berlin vaudeville house.

Maude Adams is to appear in a new play by J. M. Barrie.

"Rachel and Leah," in Hebrew, was recently seen in Boston.

Rev. C. M. Sheldon's "Edward Blake" has been dramatized.

"The Prince of the World" is the title of Hal Reid's latest play.

Rose Coghlan is to play Paula in "The Second Mrs. Tanueray."

Artie Hall is to play Topsy in Brady's "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Edwin Arden appears in "Captain Swift" at Washington this week.

John F. Sheridan has taken "The Widow O'Brien" to Western Australia.

Hattie Delano is using in vaudeville Willard Holcomb's "The Giddy Gusher."

Bettina Girard is to head a vaudeville company of four people in a musical comedy next season.

Charles Frohman is to manage Alice Neilson and has ordered an operatic version of "Mme. Sane Gene."

Norma Whalley has retired from the cast of "My Lady," to nurse her husband, J. Sherrie Mathews, who is ill.

Lillian Lawrence will play the leading part in Stanislaus Stange's "The Wooing of Priscilla" when it is produced at Boston May 27.

Henrietta Crossman is to produce a new play next October. She is to revive at matinees several of her old successes, and is to have a Shakespearean production.

Caron and Herbert began their Berlin engagement ten days later than their contract called for, because during holy week the police do not allow any comedy acts to work.

In Melbourne Nance O'Neil has commenced her farewell season at Her Majesty's in "La Tosca." She will also appear in "Macbeth" and Ibsen's "Lady Inger of Ostrate."

"Quo Vadis' continues to draw crowds at the Porte Saint-Martin, Paris. MM. Hertz and Jean Coquelin have secured the rights to the play for Belgium and Switzerland as well as France.

Elsie de Wolfe's starring tour in Clyde Fitch's new play, "The Way of the World," under the management of George W. Lederer, begins at the Columbia theater in Washington on Oct. 15.

"Florodora," which has been running in New York all season, has a clean book, and, strange to say, no tights are worn save a solitary pair in which the prima donna disports herself during an act or so.

King Dodo, the new musical comedy by Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders, will be produced at Chicago by Henry W. Savage, on May 27. The cast will include William Norris, Miro Delamotta, Arthur Wooley, William Pduett and Lillian Green.

A looker-on in London writes: "The season here is beginning in earnest, and with two exceptions everything is doing splendidly. I am sorry to say that the latest American productions, "The Girl From Up There" and "The Fortune Teller," are not having a profitable experience," says the Dramatic Mirror.

The 60th birthday of Madame Pauline Lucca has just been celebrated in Vienna by her numerous Austrian friends. Madame Lucca is no longer a singer, not even a teacher, an accident which befell her a year ago, when she slipped on a piece of orange peel, having confined her to her bed for several months, and obliged her to avoid, at least for a time, every sort of exertion.

Mrs. General Tom Thumb, assisted by Count Primo and Baron Ernesto Magri, have scored one of the hits of the season in vaudeville with Robert Griffin Morris' "A Peep at Mars." Mr. Morris' plays include Fanny Rice's "Nell Gwynne" and Nat Goodwin's "Skating Rink." Vaudeville plays announced by Mr. Morris include "Sarsfield," "Bismark" and "Moll Pitcher."

Arthur Sidman's trial tour in his own new play, "York State Folks," will close at Taunton, Mass., on May 16. Beginning in Philadelphia next week he and Mrs. Sidman will play a five weeks' farewell vaudeville engagement over the Keith circuit. Then they will put in the summer up-state seeking props for next season's production of the play, which has proven highly successful in trial.

ELECTRIC PLANT.

Run By Boys Under Ten Years of Age.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—The most remarkable electric light plant in Missouri and probably in the United States is located in St. Louis. The company is not incorporated, has no capital stock, is not in debt, owns its own plant and none of the officers are over 10 years old.

The building in which the plant is installed is of brick and was built especially for the purpose for which it is now used. The name of this remarkable company is the American Electric Power company, and it is located in the rear of Edward Field Goltra's residence at No. 3852 Delmar boulevard.

The proprietor of the lighting plant is Edward Field Goltra, Jr., and he became proprietor in as unique a manner as the plant is unusual. Field, as his parents call him, has long evinced a taste for mechanical apparatus, inherited probably from his father, who is an officer in the American Steel Foundry company of Granite City. His father ordered the erection of a 12 by 15 1-story brick powerhouse. When it was finished an upright steam engine capable of carrying 120 pounds of steam was placed in it, a thirty-five-foot iron smokestack raised from the roof and a 4-horsepower dynamo, with 40-light capacity, was installed. In the meantime Master Field had taken his chums into the matter and a company was formed with the following officers, all under 10 years of age.

McLaren Sawyer was at first chief electrician, but he fell ill with the mumps and lost his job, for the plant must have a chief electrician on the scene of action at all times. Once organized, these youngsters started in to study electrical engineering and applied themselves so diligently that now they run the entire plant without any assistance from older heads.

It was necessary for them to have some business for their plant, and after hard begging permission was obtained by the company to wire the Goltra home and make connections for electric lights. The house was already connected for lighting purposes with one of the large lighting companies, but the fact that they were in opposition to a great lighting corporation with millions of dollars of capital did not deter them from going after the business. They had a "pull" and won and the initial lighting day of the residence was of great importance to the youthful electricians.

The power house is fitted up with a complete machine shop, and one entering it alone would never suspect that any one over 10 years of age was forbidden there. Over the door is the sign "American Electric Power company Plant No. 1." Immediately underneath the sign is the familiar looking warning so conspicuous in large lighting plants, "Keep Out." Field explained that this is called plant No. 1 because there is going to be another plant installed at one of the other boy's homes called No. 2. With true business instinct, the location of this second plant is kept secret until it is inaugurated.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

James Murphy, one of the most prominent farmers of Rice county, died suddenly Thursday night of heart disease at his home in the township of Warsaw. He was 68 years of age and leaves a widow and seven children.

Joseph Busert committed suicide at Watertown, Wis., by filling his mouth with powder. He then placed a fuse between his lips and lit it. In a moment his head was blown off. Busert was a laborer.

John Miller, a farmer living a Manson, Wis., on the Soo line, was killed by the caving in of a well in which he was at work. He had but recently come from Milwaukee. A wife and family of small children are left in destitute circumstances.

W. G. Mather, president of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, confirmed the report that the company has secured a long time lease on the Ashland mine in Northern Michigan.

The two thousand union machinists of Cleveland held an enthusiastic meeting Friday night and demanded that a strike be inaugurated Monday morning.

Francis Hall, a wealthy and retired farmer of Spring Valley, was driving to his farm when his horse refused to go across a small bridge. Mr. Hall got out and tried to lead the horse across, but he made a jump, striking Mr. Hall, breaking his ankle and injuring him internally. His recovery is very doubtful.

Health for Housewives

Akron, Ind., April 15, 1900.

I am taking the third bottle of Wine of Cardui and it has done me lots of good. At times I could not stand on my feet, my limbs and feet were so badly swollen and black. I had to sit on a chair and put my feet on another and set the dish pan in my lap to wash dishes. My husband got me a bottle of Wine of Cardui and it did me much good. I do not have to sit down to work now. It helped me in many other ways also. I can truthfully recommend it.

MRS. L. E. PERRY.

A housewife needs rugged health and great physical endurance to meet the demands made upon her. But there are women in nearly every home whose monthly periods make them virtual invalids. And we want to tell them to-day they need not be invalids. Mrs. Perry was freed from all this suffering. A healthy wife is a blessing to the home in which she is found. She sings about her house work and can do four times as much as her sick sisters.

WINE OF CARDUI

gives mothers and daughters robust health. This pure Wine regulates menstruation, allowing that health-preserving natural function to throw the impurities from the system. Falling of the womb is a terrible strain on the nerves. Wine of Cardui eases the tension, by restoring the organ to a strong and healthy condition. Leucorrhoea, an inflammation of the lining of the womb, is a terrible ailment. Every woman knows the shooting pains, the dull aches in the head and back, which mean disorder in the delicate and sensitive female organs. Thousands of women after suffering them have taken Wine of Cardui and secured permanent relief. What valid excuse for putting off this simple treatment another day! Time complicates the trouble—Wine of Cardui will cure it NOW. Ask for Wine of Cardui.

Native Police In the Philippines.

Word comes from Manilla that the native police force, where organized, is improving in efficiency and loyalty, and plenty of reliable men are found for the positions; in short everything shows that "the finest" of the Philippines are making rapid progress and before long will undoubtedly be on to all the tricks and wiles of the American copper. There are the following employed on the police force of the Philippines: Under the direct control of the provost marshal in Manilla, 1276 men and officers. They are all on the meritorious list, receiving in addition to their regular pay from the city of Manilla, the sum of $17,000 from the insular fund monthly. In northern Luzon police departments are maintained in 242 towns, in fifty-nine of which they are fully uniformed and in four partially so; 4012 men and officers are employed, of which 1227 are on the meritorious list, receiving $9179 from insular funds, in addition to regular pay from their own municipalities. In southern Luzon there are police departments in fifty-nine towns, of which thirteen are fully uniformed and one partially so. There are 624 men and officers employed, of which 206 are on the meritorious list, receiving extra pay in the sum of $1394 from insular funds. In Visayas there are fourteen towns with police departments. There are 213 men and officers employed, all of whom are on the meritorious list, receiving $771 extra pay from insular funds. In Mindanao and Jolo there are twelve towns with police departments, employing 221 men and officers. These men will go a long way toward relieving the soldiers in the various localities.

The Mother of the Trusts.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press claims to be the originator of the idea of removing the tariff from all trust-made goods. It is true that the Pioneer took a rap at the tariff in its relations with trusts, some two years ago, and scrambled back on the band wagon when election time came around. Now it gets down carefully and stamps hard on the wicked trusts. It is willing to assist Congressman Babcock in his crusade and stand by him while he is being nailed to the cross by the Republican gang, but all the time the halo of first discovery must rest above its ancient head. In the first place, the Pioneer is away off on its assumption that it is the head and front of the idea advocated by Babcock, but that is another story. What The Herald wishes to call attention to is the statement by the Pioneer Press that the tariff is not the mother of trusts. Probably the Pioneer did not intend to quibble about the word mother, but meant to convey the idea that the high tariff of the Republican party was in no way responsible for the disposition on the part of manufacturers to combine their capital and thereby control the output and consequently prices. No one will deny that the existence of a tariff wall prevents the foreigner from entering into competition with the local manufacturer. No one will deny the long-cherished proposition that the tariff will build up home markets by enabling the factory to be built within easy reach of the mass of the consumers. Under the protective system the West became dotted with factories of all kinds. It mattered not whethere they were indigenous; the tariff made it possible to run them at a profit. This condition brought about an overbuilding of manufacturing plants, and these plants by a process quite natural entailed an overproduction of manufactured articles of commerce. The home trade was stocked to its utmost and a long line of credit was established to get rid of the surplus. Having no foreign market, the domestic warehouses, as well as the wholesale and retail establishments, were loaded down, when in 1893 the crash came. This industrial crisis was the direct result of the tariff and overproduction. As soon as men began to gather themselves together, the one great question was to limit the production. Then was born the trust. If there ever was a legitimate child of the tariff, the trust is one. The Pioneer Press is not only inconsistent in its position, but absolutely contradictory. This is often the case where one tries to reconcile old theories with new facts.

THE BUILDING MOVEMENT.

There is general agreement on the part of real estate owners, architects and builders that this season shows the greatest building movement in the history of Duluth for several years past. The record of real estate transfers, building permits and sales of structural materials bears out this conclusion.

All over the city at the present time are seen men and teams busy with excavating sites for structures intended for business and residence purposes. The large number of dwellings being erected is the principal feature of the movement and is an indication of the growth of the city in population, there being an urgent demand for more houses to accommodate the people. Everywhere is heard the sound of hammers and saws and planes, the creak of derricks and the ring of trowels—the sweet music of industry that arises from a prosperous and growing community. There are many business houses under contract, of the best character in the particulars of durability and modern appliances, and work on others is likely to be started before the summer is well advanced.

Scores of residences, from the humblest cottage to the more pretentious dwelling, are going up in all quarters of the city. One gratifying feature is that many of these houses are being erected by people who propose to own homes of their own—an unmistakeable indication of the confidence they have in the present solidity and the bright future of Duluth. Another good sign is the extent of the improvements being made on dwellings and business blocks already erected, many being remodeled, repainted and fitted with modern appliances. Viewing the whole situation, it may be truthfully claimed that this is the most active season Duluth has experienced for many years.

THE LAW OF WATER.

The law of running water is to occupy the attention of the supreme court in two widely divergent but important cases. In one, St. Louis seeks to enjoin Chicago from using the Mississippi river as a sewer; the other is an attempt on the part of the state of Kansas to prevent the people of Colorado from using all the water of the Kansas river for purposes of irrigation before it reaches the Kansas border.

The Chicago drainage canal case will hinge on the simple question of whether the sewage which the canal furnished the Illinois river contaminates the water of the Mississippi as far down as St. Louis. The experts who furnished the opinions on that subject for the canal commission declared that running water cleansed itself if sufficient time and space were allowed. The impurities from the drainage canal are supposed to become completely oxidized before reaching the Mississippi, and to make assurance doubly sure for the good people of St. Louis who are obliged to drink river water, they are assured that the current from the Illinois river hugs the eastern shore until a point far below the city of St. Louis is reached. Further, it is noticeable by all who have been on the scene that "the big muddy" with its chocolate waters occupies the entire western half of the Mississippi at St. Louis. Should the supreme court find the facts against the Chicago canal, what will be the fate of Pittsburg when Cincinnati complains, and of Cincinnati when the various cities below her make a fuss? Where will Minneapolis, St. Paul and all the other river towns above St. Louis deliver their sewage?

The question involved in the Kansas suit is much more intricate and far-reaching in its results. Shall a river be allowed to pursue its ancient course to the sea unmolested? Or shall it be used by those along its banks for their own purposes? Has the state or the citizens along the Arkansas valley such a property right in the natural flow of the river as to prevent those above from diverting it to a, to them, necessary use? With the widespread interest in the subject of irrigation, and in view of the importance which attaches to the western water supply, the decision will attract more than ordinary interest.

The common law governing the use of water in a running stream has been based upon the principle of "first come, first served." A man who has been in the habit of using the stream for a certain purpose gains an easement in that stream to its source for that purpose. No man can go above him and, by diverting the current or otherwise limiting its flow, destroy the property which he has built by reason of the usual water supply. That is the law as it has stood for years among individuals. The question as it is presented now is one of state and may become one of national policy. These rivers, which are rapidly being drawn on for irrigation purposes, pass through different states. In their upper reaches the water is needed for irrigation. Near their mouths, in most cases, the annual rainfall is sufficient for all purposes and the only function the rivers fill is that of local navigation. The case of Kansas is, however, peculiar. A part of the state through which the Arkansas river flows is semi-arid and must depend upon irrigation, while the lower Arkansas valley is supposed to receive sufficient annual rainfall for all agricultural purposes.

The facts are that so much water has been used from the river in Colorado that during a large part of the year the bed of the river is dry. When the spring rains obtain and the snow is melting on the mountains there is too much water for even the Kansan. It is possible that the supreme court, recognizing the national character of the question, will find a solution along the lines of the projects of the irrigation association. As the rivers begin in the mountains of Colorado, and as the annual rainfall, together with the melting snow, will furnish a sufficient volume, if properly conserved, to keep the river to its prestine marks, both litigants must join in building the proper reservoirs to restrain the floods, conserving the water for the use of all who wish it through the arid and semi-arid regions; at the same time establishing rules which will regulate the use.

MR. DOOLEY AGAIN.

The readers of The Herald will be pleased to learn that on next Saturday the versatile, satirical and philosophical Mr. Dooley will resume his entertaining dissertations in these columns. This is one of the special features of The Herald that can be found in no other newspaper published at the head of the lakes.

It is generally agreed that since the day of the inimitable Nasby letters there has been no literary feature to attract the widespread attention which has been bestowed on the Dooley papers, and the enforced retirement of their author by reason of a severe and all but fatal attack of typhoid fever has but served to emphasize the hold ne has on the reading public. Other humorists have come and gone and their absence has scarcely been noted, but in the case of Mr. Dunne, public interest has not wavered a particle since it was known that he was incapacitated for work. One reason for this is that the Dooley papers are not simply intended to amuse. They touch the various phases of human nature at many points, and as we all like to see the foibles of our neighbors ridiculed, while always oblivious to the shafts which may be aimed at us, interest in the Dooley philosophy and satire is perennial.

The announcement that the letters will be resumed in a short time will undoubtedly prove very pleasing to the reading public, as there have been many inquiries made to The Herald as to whether Mr. Dunne had retired Mr. Dooley.

SEEKING NOTORIETY.

Now Professor J. Scott Clark, of the Northwestern university, has put his foot in it. The professor, by injudicious declarations before his class, has caused a commotion that has reached the faculty and prompt action will doubtless be taken. In a little heart to heart talk to his pupils he said: "God help the man who marries the college-bred woman." He created a sensation. He probably expected to create a sensation. A professor talking to a mixed class in a co-educational institution naturally knew that he would at least stir the feminine element of his class to the boiling point. The male element was not much better pleased. In fact they were overcome with wrath and will seek explanation from the faculty.

Professor Clark occupies the chair of English at the Methodist institution in Evanston. Following up a recitation he began a discussion of women of the present day to the members of his class. In comparison, he said, the modern woman is scarcely the equal of her mother or grandmother. The college-bred woman, he then remarked, generally proves a failure as the manager of a household, and is unable to completely fill the domestic requirements necessary to make the home an abode of comfort. It was then that he is reported to have given this sage advice to the young men of his class: "You young men who are looking for wives among the college-bred women of today are on the wrong track. If you ever do get one, God help you." There was an ominous silence and the professor then took a shot at the Methodist church. He said: "People call me a reprobate because I was raised in the Methodist faith by my parents, but did not myself become a member of the Methodist church." As Professor Clark had always been considered a pillar of the faith consternation reigned, which was not abated by the professor's concluding remarks: "A good many rules of the Methodist church are too narrow for a broadminded man to follow."

Radical breaks of this kind are getting to be far to common, and there can be but one explanation. The perpetrators are seeking notoriety. If their convictions had become honestly changed they would retire from their environments and seek other spheres, but that would hardly suit them; they would not accomplish their purpose. Out with such charlatans. Dismiss them and render useless their objects.

The drink question reveals some curious statistics. England is ahead of us in the per capita consumption of intoxicating liquors, but we surpass by far all other nations as coffee drinkers. Tea is the popular British table drink, but we use little tea as compared with coffee. In fact, we drink a great deal more coffee than beer or any other liquid, except water. It is a remarkable fact that while our national drink bill is increasing steadily that of Great Britain is decreasing, though the per capita expenditure for intoxicants is still considerably larger in England than in this country. Last year the total amount expended in the United States on this account was $1,059,565,787, or $13.94 per capita. The amount expended in Great Britain for intoxicating liquors was $904,458,590, of which England paid $667,677,215, an average of $20.79. This was a decrease of $6,358,780 from the expenditure for drink in England the year before. The increase in the consumption of intoxicants in this country is largely in malt liquors, mainly in beer, which is regarded as a favorable fact by the advocates of temperance. Last year no less than 1,257,985,296 gallons of coffee went down the throats of the American people, which was 36,000,000 gallons more than all the beer we drank. Conclusions may be variously drawn by different advocates to suit themselves.

According to the English census, just completed, Liverpool's gain in population during the last ten years is 10 per cent, Birmingham's a little less; Manchester's, 7½, and London's, about 7 1-3. This makes a poor showing compared with our large cities, such as New York, with an increase of 37.9 per cent; Chicago, 54.44; Philadelphia, 23.57.

Is there anything significant about Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger—the Shamrock, second? In the final report of the races the bulletins will probably read: Constitution, first; Shamrock, second. It would not sound at all well to read: Shamrock, second, first.

BETTER THAN GOLD.

Better than grandeur, better than gold,
Than rank and titles a thousandfold,
Is a healthy body ad mind at ease,
And simple pleasures that always please.
A heart that can feel for another's woe,
With sympathies large enough to unfold
All men as brothers, is better than gold.

Better than gold is a conscience clear,
Though toiling for bread in an humble sphere;
Doubly blessed with content and health,
Untried by the lusts and cares of wealth;
Lowly living and lofty thought
Adorn and ennoble a poor man's cot;
For mind and morals, in nature's plan,
Are the genuine tests of a gentleman.

Better than gold is sweet repose
Of the sons of toil when the labors close.
Better than gold is the poor man's sleep,
And the balm that drops on his slumbers deep
Bring sleeping draughts on the downy bed,
Where luxury pillows its aching head.
The toiler simple opiate deems
A shorter route to the land of dreams.
Better than gold is a thinking mind,

That in the realm of books can find
A treasure surpassing Australian ore,
And live with the great and good of yore,
The sage's lore and the poet's lay,
The glorious of empires passed away.
The world's great dream will thus unfold
And yield a pleasure better than gold.

Better than gold is a peaceful home,
Where all the fireside characters come—
The shrine of love, the heaven of life,
Hallowed by mother, or sister, or wife.
However bubble the home may be,
Or tried with sorrow by heaven's decree,
The blessings that never were bought or sold
And center there, are better than gold.

A Morgan of Other Days.

Springfield Republican: Speaking about panics calls to mind Jay Cooke, the failure of whose great banking house precipitated the panic of 1873. He is still living in Philadelphia, at the age of 80, and when the stock of the Northern Pacific railroad crossed par the other day for the first time, it must have been accepted by him as a vindication, rather belated, however, of his judgment as shown when he took hold of the financing of the road thirty-one years ago. Mr. Cook was the J. P. Morgan of his day and will long be remembered as the one who negotiated the vast loans of the government during the civil war.

DAILY STORY.

A FOOL AND A FOOL.

BY JEFFERSON KYLE.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

It was all Sir Gordon's fault. He had started for London with his wife's jewels to be placed in a safety vault for the summer, and at Clapham Junction, while waiting for a train, he had carelessly left the satchel in the waiting-room while he smoked a cigar outside. When he had finished his cigar the satchel had disappeared. The value of the jewels was £15,600, and of course there was a big fuss over the robbery. It seemed like a plain case at first. There were not above twenty travelers in waiting, and the station agent herded them all into the waiting room until they could be separately interrogated. The satchel was not found, nor was it learned that any one had been seen to carry it away. In some mysterious manner it had walked off before the eyes of six or eight people. The address of every person was taken, and then the case was given to Scotland Yard. After working at it for weeks they gave up in despair, but the reward offered incited score of private detectives to take hold.

What was called "The Clapham Junction Affair" created a good deal of comment and criticism. It was contended on the one side that some one of those twenty travelers must have stolen the satchel, and on the other that every person had been searched, questioned and found to be above suspicion. Again, the papers declared that the police must be a stupid lot to miss a plain case like that, and the police replied that the very plainness of the case was what baffled them. There were people who hinted that Sir Gordon had stolen his own property, and others that he had not brought a satchel with him at all, but was seeking to advertise his wife's jewelry. The private detectives made no discoveries, and when four months had passed all hope of recovering the property was abandoned.

It was then that a lowly and simple-minded woman began work.

For many years a woman named Mary Benson had been permitted the privilege of selling newspapers just outside the door of the station building. She was at this time 50 years old. Of course she had learned every phase of the robbery and had been questioned over and over again. She had told all she knew to the police, or thought she had; but one night as she lay in her bed it came to her like a flash that she had unwittingly held something back. For four or five years there had been hanging around the junction an object of charity and ridicule known as "Fool Jim." He was a good sized boy, but born simple-minded. He chored about at this or that, and thereby secured food and cast-off raiment, and now and then was permitted to sweep over the waiting room at the station or assist in handling the baggage. "Old Mary" suddenly remembered that the boy was about the waiting room that day, and that when he passed out he refused to stop at her call and hurried away. After that day he had not come so often, but had been away a week at a time. "Fool Jim" had always been considered trust-worthy, but the old woman made up her mind that he had something to do with the disappearance of the jewels. Next day she communicated her suspicions to the station master and a detective was set to watch the boy.

Even a born idiot is as cunning as a fox under certain circumstances. The detective soon discovered enough to arouse his hopes and suspicions, but he could get no further. "Fool Jim" caught on to the fact that he was under surveillance, and some of his dodges would have done credit to the cutest thief. Twice a week he would disappear from Clapham village and be absent half a day, but the detective, who tried to follow him, was bested at the game. A second officer was called in, but the boy dodged both of them. They tried to get something out of him by soft talk and promises of money, but in vain, and he only smiled at threats. Three or four different people were satisfied that he knew something about the jewels, even if he was not the thief., but three months went by, and no proofs had been gathered. Then it was "Old Mary" who came to the rescue.

"The boy is a fool, and yet he suspects us," she said. "If he took the satchel he has hidden it away somewhere, and now and then goes to look to see if it is still safe. You must get a fool to catch a fool. He may betray himself to one of his own kind."

The matter was talked over in a spirit of levity at first, but the result was that a boy of about 15 years old was "loaned" by his parents, living a hundred miles away, and brought to Clapham. When the two were at first brought together they fought at sight, but a day later became friends. It wasn't three days before "Fool Jim's" actions proved that he had some secret on his mind, and at the end of a week it was revealed. The two fools had spent most of their time ogling and grinning at each other and chattering nonsense. They had exchanged old pocket knives, buttons, pieces of string and apples, and had become great admirers of each other. This was what had been hoped for, and the detectives set themselves to watch the latest arrival alone. One afternoon, after the pair had been in close confab for an hour, they separated and strolled off in different directions, but after walking for a mile or two the new arrival joined Jim, and the pair walked across the country for four miles to an abandoned old flour mill. The detectives had a hard task to follow after and escape observation, but they succeeded. Soon after reaching the mill Jim brought to light the missing satchel, and the two fools sat down to gaze upon and admire the jewels. Most of the stones had been taken from their settings, but none were missing. In his goodness of heart Jim made a fair division of the spoils, and the pair had stuffed their pockets with the jewels when the detectives rushed in. A fool is not liable to law, and even when guilty of murder can only be restrained. The hired idiot was safely restored to his parents. "Fool Jim" was placed in an asylum, and "Old Mary," whose cleverness had brought about the recovery of the jewels, received such a share of the reward that she was enabled to live in comfort for the rest of her days. Jim had been pattering about the waiting room, and had lifted up the satchel and hidden it under his coat, and though all had seen him about, no one had remembered him when the hue and cry was raised.

It was only the other day, in a mysterious case in Paris, that a fool was set to catch a fool, and a murder was discovered and a lot of valuable papers recovered—the latter from a church steeple—and it is but fair to presume that the French sleuths remembered the Clapham Junction affair of years ago and worked it over to fit.

Has No Man Friday.

Washington Post: So far nobody has thought to do anything Perry Heathish for the Hon. Jamesky Jones.

TRIBUTE TO OUR WORKMEN.

New York Tribune: Louis Cassier, editor of a technical magazine which is well known on both sides of the Atlantic, announces a unique enterprise. Fifteen or twenty workmen, selected from as many different establishments and representing a variety of industries in Great Britain, are soon to be sent to the United States in a body to study the ways of their Yankee cousins. A month or more will be devoted to the task, and during that time the deputation will visit the principal manufacturing centers of the country. Each man is to be designated by the concern which employs him, but he is to be chosen from a number that have been nominated by their fellows. Employers and trades unions will co-operate in meeting the expense of the undertaking. Thomas Westgarth, managing director of what are said to be the largest works in the world for the production of marine engines, originated this idea, and it will be carried into execution by Mr. Cassier.

Incidents which have tended to open England's eyes to the effect of foreign competition have been particularly numerous within the last two or three years. The importation of American locomotives by English railways and the loss of the Athara bridge contract are only two of these. Then the London Times instituted an elaborate inquiry into the causes which had led to America's wonderful triumphs, and presented the results in a series of notable instructive articles. Engineering, another British publication and a high authority in technical matters, rendered a similar service to its constituents, and these examples have been followed so generally by the press of England that capitalists and the managers of mills and factories there now fully realize the situation. Little more can be done for their enlightenment.

America's present prosperity has been attributed by experts to a number of things. One is the remarkable mineral resources of this country. Another is the use of improved machinery. A third is superior management in other respects. But it is widely believed that the American workman is also an important factor in the case. And that is the underlying theory in Mr. Westgarth's project. He feels that the English workman is equally concerned with the English master in the commercial battle now being waged between Europe and America, and that the former has much to learn concerning the conditions which affect production today. One of the points of difference between England and the United States is the number of holidays in the course of a year. Others operate even more forcibly, perhaps, to England's disadvantage. The facts have been presented rather fully already on the other side of the Atlantic, but thus far the workmen have been somewhat skeptical and indifferent. If some of their own number could look into the matter, however, the result might be different. At any rate, the experiment is well worth trying, from the British manufacturer's point of view. Moreover, the scheme is a handsome tribute to the character and efficiency of the American workman, which the latter will be quick to appreciate. It will stimulate him to persist in a policy which commands the admiration and anxiety of his industrial competitors in the old world.

A Right to Feel Proud.

New York Tribune: American mines, forges, oil wells, mills, bridges, engines and machinery of all sorts take the first prizes and are the acknowledged models and exemplars from pole to pole and all around the equator. James Russell Lowell once wrote of a certain condescension in foreigners. Uncle Sam has achieved so many triumphs that he may now possibly take on a certain air of condescension toward other peoples. That would be an unfortunate mistake, but it would only be natural in present circumstances.

What Follows the Closed Canteen.

Boston Transcript: Read this and reflect: "Saloons have been established adjacent to every army post and their number is rapidly increasing. Near Fort Myer, just outside the District of Columbia, where 600 men are stationed, six saloons have been opened since the law went into effect in February." Doing good that evil may come is having a startling exposition in the United States army just now and the sooner this expulsion is closed the better for the cause of temperance as well as of good morals and good common sense.

DULUTH'S SOCIETY

The prominent affair of the week in Duluth society was the marriage of Miss Ethel Raymond Sabin, daughter of ex-Senator and Mrs. Dwight M. Sabin, and Thomas C. Phillips, at high noon, Tuesday, at the St. Paul's Episcopal church. The wedding was a handsome one, and was marked by a charming simplicity and elegance. The chancel was beautifully decorated with palms, smilax and a profusion of hydranges, with large bouquets of white roses. From the center was suspended a monogram, "S. P.," worked in white and pink carnations. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of the friends of the bride and groom. Rev. A. W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, performed the ceremony, and the organ was in charge of Professor A. F. M. Custance. Just before the entrance of the bridal party, Miss Rena Smith sang "The Marriage Day," a beautiful composition by Professor Custance, and also "O Perfect Love," by Mendelssohn.

Promptly at high noon the bridal procession entered and the march was led to the music of "Lohengrin" by the ushers, Robert G. Greer, of St. Paul; O. C. Hartman, Worthington Telford and D. R. McLeanan. Miss Ada Sabin, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and was gowned in point d'esprit over blue taffeta, with a blue veil, and carried a large bouquet of forget-me-nots, caught with blue ribbon. The bride, who entered with her father, wore a beautiful gown of white duchess satin, with a long train and handsome trimming of mousseline de sole, and wedding veil. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The groom awaited the bride at the altar rail, attended by his best man, Dr. A. W. Evans, of Chicago. The betrothal service was said, and at the conclusion the bridal party moved into the chancel while Miss Smith sang "Before Thine Altar Throne." As the ceremony was concluded, the bridal party passed down the aisle while the organ played Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Mrs. Sabin, the mother of the bride, was gowned in gray satin, and Mrs. Phillips, the mother of the groom, wore a gown of black lace.

A wedding breakfast was served the bridal party in the green room of the Spalding hotel, which was handsomely decorated for the occasion, the decorations consisting mostly of American Beauty roses. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left on Tuesday evening for St. Paul. They have returned and are at the Spalding.

The Women's Book club held its annual meeting Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. W. A. McGonagle. About forty of the latest and best books were read last year, and these were sold at auction to members of the club. The bidding was spirited or dull according to the popularity of the book. The money received from the sale of the books, together with the dues of $1 for the coming year, is used for purchasing books for this year's reading. The club was organized ten years ago by Mrs. C. A. Field, who was present for several years. Mrs. Alice T. Davis has been secretary from the beginning. The list of members is as follows: Mesdames McGonagle, Lovett, McMillan, Sinclair, Mitchell, Cheadle, Underhill, Gilman Williams, Florada, Owens, Reichert, Duffies, Field, Richardson, Boyington, Thorburn, Smith, Denfeld, Woolman, Keyes Turner, Burgess, Davis, Ames Strong and Miss Goodale.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and perseverance in its use will work wonders for the most hopeless woman. If Mrs. Newton, whose letter is given below, had not persisted in its use, she might never have known the happiness of perfect health. Perhaps the reason for her persistence was because she used "Favorite Prescription" as a "last resort." Physicians had failed. If "Favorite Prescription" could not help there was nothing to hope for. It did help. It always helps and almost always cures. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It imparts strength and elasticity to the organs of maternity and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

"When I consulted you in April, 1899, I was in poor health," writes Mrs. E. H. Newton, of Vanburen, Aroostook Co., Maine. "Had been sick all winter, and, to add to my trouble, was on the road to maternity, which the doctor said would end my days. I was almost discouraged; did not expect any help, but thought the end was only a matter of time, and—oh! my two poor, little, motherless children.

"It was in this condition that I began the use of your valuable medicine. On receipt of your letter of April 6th my husband purchased six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I used it as you directed. When you wrote me words of encouragement on April 27th I had received no benefit from the medicine, but determined as a last resort to give it a fair trial. I am now taking the thirteenth and last bottle. I have a lovely baby girl three weeks old, that weighed 11½ pounds at birth. My baby and I are enjoying perfect health, thanks to your wonderful medicine, to which I believe I owe my life."

THE REASON

Why Fewing Case Verdict Was Upset By Supreme Court.

St. Paul, May 18.—The decision of the supreme court in the case of Fewing vs. Luther Mendenhall, receiver of the Duluth street railway, reversing the decision of the lower court, as telegraphed to The Herald yesterday, relates to the question whether or not street car companies are guilty of negligence when they attempt to operate their cars in time of strikes. This particular question was not incorporated in the complaint, but was injected by the district court judge at Duluth in his charge to the jury, and upon that question the decision of the appeal case has turned.

The supreme court holds that, as to its pasengers, the company is not liable for negligence in attempting to operate cars during a strike, unless the conditions are such that it ought to know, or to reasonably anticipate, that it cannot do so and at the same time guard against violence by the exercise of the utmost care on its part, those who accept its implied invitation to become passengers. The syllabus says:

"1. A street railway company is not, as to its passengers, guilty of negligence in attempting to operate its cars during a strike of its employes, unless the conditions are such that it ought to know, or to reasonably anticipate, that it cannot do so and at the same time guard from violence, by the exercise of the utmost care on its part, those who accept its implied invitation to become passengers.

"2. Rule applied and held that the evidence in this case is not sufficient to support a finding of the jury to the effect that the defendant was guilty of negligence in attempting to operate its cars during a strike. Order reversed and a new trial granted."

REGISTERED TRADE MARK
SKIRT BINDINGS

The S. H. & M. Skirt Bindings are the richest and most elegant bindings made.

For the prevailing styles in skirts S. H. & M. Bias Velveteen or Bias Corduroy Skirt Bindings are indispensable. They come in every possible shade—they fit the skirt perfectly—they do not chafe or wear the shoe like the old-fashioned braids.

A wide S. H. & M. Velveteen or Corduroy Binding is the best thing in the world for a rainy-day or short skirt. It not only adds to the neat and attractive effect of the skirt but prevents its edge from being cut or frayed by the heel of the shoe.

For the genuine look for the S. H. & M. registered trade mark on the back or on the label.

VAGARIES OF FASHION

High Collars Completely Gone Out and Are To Be Replaced By a Lower Collar With Colored Border.

A Paris letter says: Between two squalls and favored by a radiant sun already warm, I felt an irresistible desire to look in the windows of the Rue de la Paix and other "viae sacrae" for the small, coquettish and attractive trifles which will be so many unpublished novelties in this new season.

As regards costumes and hats, the daily gatherings at the Concours Hippique have begun to fix one's mind as to the direction fashion will take, and the coming "vernisage" at the Salon will settle the question finally.

But there are a thousand shades that I observed in my look around in the morning, and I feel sure that the readers of my letter will profit by it. Just as at the accession of a new kind succeeding a predecessor beloved in his time, I write under a conviction of the appearance of a new fashion, "La mode est morte! Vive la mode!" and this year will change in traditions, for all the innovations appear charming and will give rise to no dissatisfaction among the votaries of fashion.

Let me speak first of the delightful manner in which the high collars that have served as neck trimmings have been replaced. At present one's neck emerges from a flat collar of fine white lawn, bordered with colored lawn, sky blue, pink or mauve. Ties are made to match, with butterfly bows or sailors' knots. These are infinitely more becoming to wear with a tailor-made costume. Then the style may be varied in endless ways, with incustations of bright colored lawn, in the style of the "art nouveau."

I must also direct your attention to handkerchiefs in the same style which are perfect successes. On the square ends of sky blue lawn are embroidered white dragon flies or floral designs in symmetrical order. These handkerchiefs are exquisite. And the details of a handkerchief are, in these days, of importance in the feminine toilet. From all times it has marked the degree of refinement of those who use it and the degree of civilization among races.

The chemisette, so ideally convenient, the dethronement of which some discontented spirits periodically predict, is still greatly in favor. There are innumerable ways in which the linen ware houses interpret this garment. For this summer, besides lawn and other light, cloudy materials, I predict a great success for chemisettes of glace taffetas, printed with cashmere patterns, in a medley of colors, very pleasing, but very attentuated and diminished by reflections. Further, the ever-growing width of waistband buckles is sufficient evidence of the longevity of the blouse.

The empire style continues to hold its sway over the destinies of women of fashion, and this style is all the rage. Wide waistbands of waterproof satin material, clouted with steel or with gold bees, are fastened with broad buckles like those of old soldiers' belts, with eagles with outspread wings and laurel wreaths round the plaques. Then there are ribbon waistbands with double clasps and a plaque chased all over. Let me also mention some charming waistbands embroidered in the empire style. The front takes the form of a wide corselet, on which are swans, pigeons, seagulls or flowers in the "art nouveau" style. The neck trimming is similar. It is an artistic complement that may be adapted to all kinds of chemisettes. Tags and aguilettes continue to be freely used, and some extremely pretty ones are made.

Lawn will be a very favorite material this summer, and I have seen a new and charming application for it. It is in connection with pink, blue, red or orange sunshades, used as a ground for a covering of plain lawn, finished off with wide, flat plents. The effect is charming. The light is greatly subdued, and, moreover, this simple and recherche style goes with various costumes. Everything lies in matching the ground material. Sunshade handles are of moderate length and continue to be very elaborate. Colored enamels and cut crystal enriched with precious stones are the prevailing note of the season. There are a thousand small refinements introduced in everything one wears, and never did luxury and research extend to the details of the wardrobe as they do today.

While modern creations are extensively utilized, ancient fashions are also retained. For instance, the reticule, which was formerly an accessory to a son, as the dainty frock she makes her farewell bow from school in may be and ought to be about the most exquisite creation that the clever fingers of the dressmaker can devise. The shops are full of the most bewitching fabrics, and not by any means cheap, many of them, but in coloring and texture far beyond anything that has been seen for a long time. They comprise the plain muslin, the figured and the dotted muslins and those with lace and tucks woven together.

The inexpensive lace and ribbons all seem as though they were quite possible, even to people of small means, but at once the temptation arises to buy so many that the cost of making up is a smart graduation gown is equal to that of a winter one. All show a great deal of trimming—accordion, box and side plaitings are all being used. Ruchings finish most of these and fine lace insertions trim the flounces and also the upper part of the skirt, and is used on the waist, and while there are many machine laces that are wonderfully like the real hand work, these are seldom cheap, as many, many yards are required.

With all this to chose from, the graduating gown may be so dainty, so girlish and individual that the platforms filled with the pretty graduates on commencement day bid fair to outrival anything ever seen before.

The model gowns that one sees today are almost entirely of thin, summerlike material, although many of them are intended to be worn in midsummer. Materials forming these gowns are silk muslins embroidered in lace and cobweb patterns; others show stamped patterns as delicate as painting, forming medallions or flower stripes. These stuffs are made up in the most complicated patterns. The medallions are perhaps framed in lace, and the strips are bordered by waving rows of entredeux and tucks taken in the plain material. A gown of this sort looks as if the stamped pattern were painted in the spots the maker desired after being made up. It is really a work of art, simple in effect.

Some of the bridal gowns are of crepe de chine trimmed with lace, the skirt, bodice and sleeves being tucked in groups of three. The under bodice is of plaited white mousseline de soie. White chiffon forms another bridal gown trimmed with tiny ruches and lace arranged in a fichu.

Two pretty models for the bridesmaids' gowns can be carried out in crepe de chine or veiling, with tucks and lace for trimming. Pale blue voile forms another costume entirely tucked and trimmed with lace insertion. The draped belt is of gold galloon.

A pretty gown for the bride's trousseau is of blue and white satin foulard made with four flounces, the top one forming part of the bodice and fitted into the waist by narrow tucks. Blue silk muslin forms the frill around the shoulders below the lace yoke.

A novel design for white cloth shows slashes, through which a white lace underdress is seen, and long strands of black velvet ribbon are caught down either side of the bodice. Another model for pale tinted cloth is trimmed with narrow bands of taffeta silk of the same color, lace and velvet bands on the bodice.

Veiling in the new shade of blue known as angelique forms another pretty frock, trimmed as usual with tucks which head and finish the hem of a circular flounce. The chemisette is in tucked India silk, with braces of the material trimmed with white buttons. Black crepe de chine and cream Cluny lace form another gown.

Something in a fancy coat bodice is carried out in drocoded silk, lace and velvet, with a finish of handsome buttons. A pretty bolero of cloth trimmed with velvet and buttons is worn over a lace bodice, and here is a pretty model for a silk or veiling bodice tucked around and between with bands of lace insertion. Another pretty bodice model shows a shirred yoke a shirred corselet, below the box plaits and a finish of lace. Still another design for a taffeta waist has stitched silk bands and a lace vest with tucked mousseline medallions down the front.

One encouraging feature of fashion which the openings establish beyond a doubt is that some of the old gowns mode one or two years ago are quite as good style as any of the new ones. Barege, more sheer and gauzy than ever before, figured crepes de chine and batistes are in great demand for summer gowns, and then there is a barege with a poplin finish, or a very thin fabric with a poplin weave, whatever it may be called, which makes some charming gowns. Raspberry red in this material, or in crepe de chine, makes one stylish model, trimmed with stitched bands of silk of the same color.

The high-necked evening gown is one of the most useful costumes a woman can possess in these days, both for winter and for summer use. All the thin fairies, with the silk muslins included, are turned out in this special variety of dress, which is elaborate enough in all its details to be a full fledged evening gown, yet falls just short of that style of costume because of the high neck and sleeves, which are often transparent.

A black print d'esprit gown quite novel in its treatment shows a lining of flowers on a pale king ground. The point d'esprit is in small plaits over this, falls in a plaited loose bolero over a wide lace collar decorated with flowers of cretonne, finished around with gold.

Cretonne applications have been mentioned many times before in these columns, but since they are such a special fact, it is well to emphasize their importance by repetition. The brighter and more gauzy the material is to which they are applied, the more effective and modish is the result. A coarse black net gown made over a soft black satin foundation shows a decoration of this sort, the flowers in mauve and gray green being applied to the edges of two deep flounces, scalloped to fit the flower forms. A tiny gold cord finishes the edges of the designs, which with net, form a pretty bolero bodice over a blouse of mauve silk mousseline.

THE CHIC EUGENIE COAT.

The styles of many years ago are with us once again, especially those set by the beautiful Empress Eugenie. This coat, patterned almost exactly after a garment worn by her, is one of the latest models sent over from Paris. It is built of black taffeta and trimmed with bands of black velvet. The collar is of white moire silk and Persian trimming.

MARIE STUART HAT AND NECKPIECE.

This hat is another example of the revival of old styles. It is made of a cream satin straw braid and trummed with white roses and green leaves. At the back the brim is caught up to the crown and the space beneath filled in with roses. Clusters of loops of black velvet ribbon fill in the sides. The dainty neckpiece is made of shirred white chiffon and has silver glass ornaments and ends.

THE JEWELED SLEEVES.

Twenty-Five Button Point Lace Shoulder Glove.

The sleeve beautiful in these days is also the sleeve ornamental, and without exaggeration it is safe to say that no well-considered sleeve is lacking in more or less liberal garnishment of lace.

At the glove counters lace glove sleeves are sold measuring all the way from ten to twenty-five buttons in length. They are no more than lace mittens with a thumb strap or socket, and intended for use on occasions when it is desired to transform a short-sleeved evening body into a long-sleeved one. The actual arm covering of the dress itself is arranged with an open puff and pearl clasps to pretty well cover the top of the arm from which at the rear falls a filmy wing of lace. Worn thus the costume is quite correct, and it is also correct to draw a twenty-button cream point lace glove clear up under the silken puff, fasten it there and thereby in fifteen minutes gain the effect of long sleeved body.

There is, however, no embargo placed on the kind of color of lace utilized in sleeve composition, and it is permitted to let the imagination run riot through history and romance and copy any type of graceful lace sleeve that may catch the fancy. Enormous Louis the Thirteenth and Henry the Fourth sleeves are highly popular; the full under portion being made of lace that is heavy and usually lined with colored chiffon, while the cloth or silk portion is slashed open up to the outer seam and then fastened at intervals with jewel clasped bows of velvet. Such designs cater to the fancy of tea gown and coffee jacket wearing women, or appear to very elegant advantage on gay easy house waists and on voluminous evening wrops.

With prompt recognition of feminine wants and fashion tendencies, the manufacturers have put forth a series of charming jeweled sleeve ornaments, clasps, buckles, etc., and the way in which the dressmakers utilize such helps to ornamentation is shown in the design of a sleeve for a spring tailor suit. Down to the elbow the satin-faced summer cloth sleeve, tucked in diagonal lines, fitted closely. Below the elbow the long tube of goods flared like a wine glass, and its back was sliced open in a graceful U. Cream color Irish point lace over a puff of canary colored taffeta filled all the bottom of the sleeve and stood out crisply about the hand, while across the rear of the puff loops of black velvet bebe ribbon were draped and caught upon the cloth cuff in rosettes of ribbon fastened with large rosettes of sparkling French paste and gray pearls.

When a close fitting lace glove is worn to the wrist, it is the fashion to display handsome bracelets on the forearm, and they now make the most charming sleeve bangles of flexible gold or silver or gunmetal chains. Tiny jewels are caught in the fanciful links and a gold salts bottle, in the popular shape of an English walnut, an infinitessimal change purse or a single carved stone, hangs as a pendant from the wrist.

AN OPENWORK DESIGN.

The note emphasized in this season's styles is the transparent effect. The idea is one garment worn over the other, the first one showing through slashed openings, or through the meshes of openwork embroidery. This dainty gown of spotted crepe has a deep circular flounce of heavily embroidered net. The under slip in this case is an exquisite apple green.

GOWNS FOR GRADUATES.

The sweet girl graduate should be one of the fairest things on earth this season, as the dainty frock she makes her farewell bow from school in may be and ought to be about the most exquisite creation that the clever fingers of the dressmaker can devise. The shops are full of the most bewitching fabrics, and not by any means cheap, many of them, but in coloring and texture far beyond anything that has been seen for a long time. They comprise the plain muslin, the figured and the dotted muslins and those with lace and tucks woven together.

With all this to chose from, the graduating gown may be so dainty, so girlish and individual that the platforms filled with the pretty graduates on commencement day bid fair to outrival anything ever seen before.

The model gowns that one sees today are almost entirely of thin, summerlike material, although many of them are intended to be worn in midsummer. Materials forming these gowns are silk muslins embroidered in lace and cobweb patterns; others show stamped patterns as delicate as painting, forming medallions or flower stripes. These stuffs are made up in the most complicated patterns. The medallions are perhaps framed in lace, and the strips are bordered by waving rows of entredeux and tucks taken in the plain material. A gown of this sort looks as if the stamped pattern were painted in the spots the maker desired after being made up. It is really a work of art, and the amount of handwork involved brings the price up to an exorbitant figure.

Many of the Swiss and dimity gowns are made with a circular skirt either with or without a circular founce, and trimmed from the knees down with rows of lace insertion, edged with a beading run through with satin baby ribbon of some color in the flowered design. Four or five rows of insertion with a frill of lace at the hem trim the skirt and the bodice may be encircled in the same way below a deep yoke of tucked white organdie.

Another style of muslin gown with a circular skirt shows three circular flounces covering the skirt entirely, below a hip yoke of lace. These flounces are edged with two rows of black velvet baby ribbon and cut so as to gather very slightly at the top. When the hip yoke is used it is well to extend the lace into the bodice in corselet form, a narrow belt of ribbon covering the dividing line.

Bridal gowns are in greater demand at this season than at any other perhaps, and there is a wider range of materials from which to choose than ever before. Satin, always at the head of the list in the winter season, is supplanted now by net, chiffon, crepe de chine and lace of which entire gowns are made. Point d'sprit and India silk are also used, and any of these materials are more becoming than satin, which is more trying than any other material. Accordion plaited chiffon gowns with insertions of lace are very charming, and so are chiffon gowns, partially covered with lace flounces. A plaited chiffon bodice with tucked sleeves, and a short lace bolero with a short sleeve, is especially pretty and

THE PLANTS.

Answers to Inquiries Covering Many Points of Interest.

Hydrangeas that are sick and showing no signs of ever blooming had better be planted out of doors for the summer. They will make a lot of healthy shoots which will be the blooming points next year. They should be potted again before frost.

Pansies—The directions given were for amateur growers who grow them in the dwelling house. Florists' transplanted stock can be planted at any time, for they have, if properly grown, more root than top.

Fafargum or Leopard plant—To develop the spots keep the plant in the shade. It requires plenty of water.

Asters—They can be planted at once. Experience has shown that they can stand more cold than we thought they could.

Hardening plants is done by gradual exposure to cold and withholding water to a certain extent.

Best geraniums—Hard to answer; prefer the single Nutt variety for beds and double Nutt for boxes.

Verbenas—Prefer small plants for bedding. They start more quickly than old ones. Long, drawn-out plants must be pegged down.

Cabbage plants for early can go in at once. Late ones June 20.

Tomatoes had better stay in till June 1.

Dahlias can be raised from seed, but it is too late to sow them now. They are tender and ought not to be planted out until the middle of June.

Hollyhocks — The new Allegheny blooms the first year from seed if sown very early in March.

Distance to plant celery—As the gardens in Duluth are so small and the soil so stiff, it is as well, perhaps, to bleach with boards, so the rows can be two and one-half feet apart, with six inches from plant to plant, or it can be set in beds of four feet wide and the plants put at exactly eight inches apart each way, and the outside rows boarded up. The dense growth will partially bleach it, and it is just as good a way as any where the bleaching can be finished in the cellar during winter months.

Newly potted plant not doing well—Honest, now, you make me feel tired. Don't you know that the new dry pot is so porous that the plant dries out? The caution about not overwatering a newly potted plant meant that you should not give it water enough to make the new soil muddy, but we did mean that it should have enough to moisten both soil and pot and be kept so. You had better soak your pot hereafter before putting your plant in it. Do not disturb the roots either in repotting. Some people have a mania to shake and wash off the soil from the roots. Such a method is seldom needed.

Pansy seed—No. Seed sown now will not make blooming plants until fall. It takes from 90 to 100 days from the time the seed is sown for the plants to bloom. We sow the last of January to get plants in bloom now. Later sown plants are better than those sown thus early. They grow larger, cover more space and give larger flowers. The trouble is that the buyers want to see the colors they are getting, so we have to crowd them into bloom, and the reason the early ones are not as fine as those sown later is because the roots have been restricted, as space is too valuable to give them all the room they want in the greenhouse. It cannot be done until we can utilize the open ground or the cold frames.

BASEBALL

Season Opens Next Week at Driving Park.

Hot Games Due Between Duluth and Superior.

If the weather is favorable the coming week as the baseball enthusiasts sincerely hope it will be, the baseball season at the head of the lake will open a week from today with a game between the Duluth and Superior teams, at the ball grounds in the West End of this city. The season opened May 13 last year, but the weather at that time was much warmer than now. Manager Roy Hansell has already secured a lease of the fights at the ball grannd at the driving park for the season of 1901, and men are at work this week on the fences and putting screens up in front of the grand stand. A force of men will be put on all next week getting the grounds in first-class condition for the opening game. There will be two games. The second will be played on the following Sunday, and will be pulled off at the local grounds also. The members of the ball team will be in practice every day of next week. Pitcher McKenna has arrived in Duluth from Bay City, Mich., and Manager Hansell has notified Connors and Crammer to be in Duluth by next Tuesday.

The management of the team has been anxiously awaiting a reply from Pitcher Revoir, and on Friday morning Manager Hansell wired that elusive twirler asking if he intends to come; if so, when; and where he desires to have his ticket sent. With matters settled definitely regarding Revoir, the personnel of the team will be about made up and the club ready to settle down to business for the season.

It is understood that the management of the Superior ball team is hustling hard in getting the team into shape to meet its old opponents from Duluth, and, while the management is sawing wood, it is giving out very little information, otherwise than that the team will be on the spot next Saturday and will give the Duluth team an exhibition of Superior defeating Duluth. The baseball blood at the head of the lake is warming up with the advancement of the season, and the several warm tilts between the local amateur teams, some of which have been good games, have paved the way to greater interest when the big teams get after each other. The baseball managements on both sides of the bay say that they have had every sort of encouragement, and the prospects for a good season were never better than at present. Manager Hansell has players on his team whose faithful work during the past seasons is not only appreciated here in Duluth, but there are other managers in the Northwest that have their drag nets out to pick up players that they know are all right. On Friday morning George Shepherd, the popular shortstop, received another flattering offer. This time it was from President Giffert of the Des Moines, Iowa, team in the Western league. He wants "Shep," and wants him bad. George was offered $150 a month for the season to play short for Des Moines, but he has already signed here and will stay. Capt. Bill Lambert has also received tempting offers from the St. Paul management, and will continue to "eat 'em up" in the center garden for Duluth.

Arrangements were planned the first of the week for a ball game on Sunday afternoon at the driving park, between the Big Duluths and the Fashion team, but as nothing has been heard of the matter during the latter part of the week, it is understood that the game has been declared off for the present.

The Fremuth store baseball club will go to Cloquet tomorrow to try conclusions with the city team of that place. The members of the club will be accompanied by about thirty of their friends, special rates having been made for the crowd. The nine showed considerable improvement in their playing at the last Sunday's game, and give promise of becoming one of the strongest amateur teams in the city.

The sporting blood has been stirred up at the West End with the opening of the baseball season, and on Thursday evening the Black Diamond club was organized. The club starts out under very auspicious circumstances, and promises to give the other crack amateur teams a chance to defend their colors before the end of the season. Albert Olson, the captain will play at short. Victor I. Frazer has been selected mananger of the team and will receive all challenges at his address, 1730 West Third street. Frazer will also play with the team, and will look after matters in the vicinity of first base. The team follows: Pitcher, Earl Lowe; catcher, T. Burns; first base, Victor Frazer; second base, William Peer; third base, Clifford Dennis; short stop, Albert Olson; left field, John Clayton; center field, M. Koneczny; right field, C. Clausen.

The Duluth Golf club is in a very prosperous condition just now and has taken in thirty new members since the opening of the season. The club house has been decorated and remodeled within and without. Two carriage houses and one caddy house have been added. The fourth and ninth teeing grounds have been changed making the course shorter and five new putting greens have been laid out. The attendance is very large at the present time, and supper parties are the order almost every evening.

At present two tournaments are being held, the handicap singles for both ladies and gentlemen, in which two cups are being offered, and the championship for men. In the handicap tournament for the cup now held by T. W. Hoopes they are playing the semi-finals, and there are only two more matches to be played. F. W. Hargraves against W. W. Walker, and E. P. Low against H. T. Abbot.

In the championship tournament for the cup now held by Ward Ames, Jr., A. W. Taussig will play the winner in the match between E. P. Towne and F. W. Hargraves, and J. H. Upham, Jr., will play G. G. Hartley. In the ladies' tournament for the cup now held by Mrs. Clark Fagg is being played between Misses Arnold, Crowley, Harvey, and Mesdames Dauss and Hoopes.

About the only athletic event that is taking place in the city at the present time is the annual preliminary field day, which is now occupying the undivided attention of the high school athletes. There are fourteen events, and the boys expect to break some of the records that have been made in the high school here. One man, Haroldson, holds the state record for the long distance run, but it is thought by many that he will be pushed today by Rakowsky and Ed Olson. A new record will undoubtedly be established for the 12-pound hammer throw, as Granzow has hurled that implement a distance of 101 feet in practice. He is expected to take the interscholastic prize. The track team selected from the preliminary contestants will go to Minneapolis Friday, where they will compete in the interscholastic at that place.

A good many professional ball fans do not seem to realize that by going to a high school game they can see first class ball playing. The team has defeated everything that it has gone against and still has three games coming, which it hopes to win. On May 25 they will play Cloquet, at Cloquet; on on June 1 the Superior normals at Duluth, and on June 8 at Ashland. Only one game will be played in the city, but that will be worth two or three of the ordinary kind. The greatest rivalry has always existed between these schools, and although the normals claim that they can put up a first class article of ball, the Duluth boys think that they can win. The team work of the high school boys is especially good.

Followers of pugilism residing in Chicago believe that they have been deprived of pugilistic shows quite long enough. They are seeking to revive the sport in the Lake City and promise Mayor Harrison and the members of the city council to be good if they are given the opportunity of resuscitating the game.

Mayor Harrison was presented with a formal request last week, asking for a permit to give a boxing show. The men who are at the head of the movement looking toward a revival of the sport in Chicago are Thomas Hinton, president, and P. J. Carrol, manager, of the newly organized Illinois Athletic club. Neither of these men, it is said, was in any way connected with the questionable fights which were given in Chicago during the close of last year. They represent an element that believes in legitimate pugilism.

President Hinton asserts that if the mayor of Chicago grants the permit which his club seeks the public will be kept informed of all its doings. The draw-if-both-men-are-on-their-feet basis of arranging matches will be frowned down and any and all fighters who attempt to work such a game will be blacklisted by the club. All splitting of purses and other arrangements of a like nature will be done away with and at the least shadow of anything wrong with a bout the men will be ordered off the stage and their money forfeited.

There has been no public boxing in Chicago since Dec. 13. The last meeting of the fighters was that between McGovern and Gans, and soon after that the city council passed a resolution condemning the fights as then conducted. That put an end to the sport. But since then there has been and is now such a great popular demand for the glove contests that it is likely the mayor will give the matter careful consideration. He is a great lover of boxing himself and time and again has expressed himself as being in favor of it as long as it is conducted honestly and in a manner free of scandal.

If Champion Jim Jeffries and Gus Ruhlin are really in earnest and want to fight to decide whether or not Jeffries is entitled to continue claim on the heavyweight championship it is likely that they will come together before long. The assertion has been made repeatedly by both fighters and their managers as well that the only thing that kept them apart was lack of a place where the fight could take place. This obstacle seems to have been removed. In San Francisco the fighting game has been at its zenith and the San Francisco Athletic club claims to have a permit to bring off a fight between the big fellows July 3 or 4. So it's up to the fighters to show whether they really want to get together or if they are afflicted with the pugilistic malady of muslin anaesteation. Of course it is conceded that 'Frisco is not the best place in the world for the holding of a big championship affair, nor is the time of year proposed the best in point of climatic conditions, but these objections are somewhat insignificant. It is a certainty that the match would draw big and the officials of the club have announced their willingness to guarantee the fighters a pretty sum if they will agree to appear before their club.

"I think we can get Jeffries and Ruhlin together," said Alec Greggins, one of the men behind the club. "We would prefer to arrange a match between Jeffries and Fitzsimmons and it is almost a certainty that one of the matches will go through. If we fail in both, however, there are other matches that can be arranged. Ed Homan is now in New York trying to arrange terms. If he fails to do any business I think a match will be arranged between Jack Muffat and possibly Jack Root, of Chicago, or some other equally good middleweight. This would make one of the best cards that could be put on here. As a side card I would like to see a match arranged between 'Rube' Ferns and Charley Thurston. As a double bill this would be about the best ever."

Kinley Mack will be an absentee from the Brooklyn, at least that is the supposition. One of his legs has "filled up" and he is in such bad shape that walking exercise is all that he is getting, and very little of that. Heretofore it was his feet that bothered him. The attenjon Peter Wimmer gave his hoofs proved beneficial, and he was going along nicely until a few days ago, when his leg showed signs of trouble, and it grew worse. Wimmer told some friends Monday last that there was no chance of Kinley Mack being sent to the post for the Brooklyn, but there might be a chance of his rounding to for the Suburban. With Ethelbert and Kinley Mack out of the Brooklyn, much of the interest is lost, as their trials and tilts last year left doubbts in many minds which was the better of the two. Their meeting this year would have probably settled all disputes, but it seems that it is not to be, not for the present at least.

Old Bill Daley is also in bad luck. He lost his gelding, Ta-mah-ma-wis, which died Monday from some throat trouble which three veterinaries could not cure. Ta-mah-na-wis had given much promise, having won several races. It is reported that Daly refused an offer of $500 for him a few weeks ago.

Turning from the ill-luck avenue to a spot where the sun is shining on some one, the fact has to be recorded that William Beckett, who was fortunate enough to become possessor of Elizabeth M., which he sold to Mr. Whitney for $15,000, has a colt in the stable this season for which he has already refused $5000. This "phenom" is by imp. Inverness—Flirt, and his trials have been such that several owners look longingly toward his stall. Roue is the name of the colt, and his sire, Inverness, was sold at the recent Marcus Daly sale for $100, and is now located at Nantura Farm, the home of Longfellow and Ten Brocck.

The late Marcus Daly gave $30,000 for Inverness, but he did not show to advantage in the stud until the production of Roue. It is likely that Beckett will send the colt to the post before Gravesend or Sheepshead Bay, as he is working at the latter track. It is seldom that a proper man gets a star thoroughbred two years in succession, but it furnishes further proof that it is not always the highest priced youngsters who make the best race horses neither is it assured that the star sire on a farm produces the thoroughbred king.

Jones & Welch have leased the Oakley, Ohio, track, engaged P. J. Campbell, ten years Detroit's secretary, to act in like capacity there for them, and will hold the grand circuit meeting there Sept. 16 to 20. Stakes have been opened for the following classes, entries to which close Saturday, June 1, with Secretary Campbell: 2:20 class trotting, value $500; 2:14 trotting, $500; 2:09 class trotting, $2000; 2:24 class pacing, $900; 2:11 pacing and 2:09 pacing for like amounts. With all Kentucky, lower Ohio and Eastern Missouri to draw from, this meeting should be a grandly successful one in every way. Especially liberal are Messrs. Jones & Welch as to the fast class pacing. Many owners of 2:09 pacers want to race them, and it is now well worth their while as a $3000 purse means $1500 first money, $1200 of which net to the winner's owner.

We may hear of a very fast mile this season trotted by the very promising 3-year-old colt Todd, by Bingen, 2:08¼, from Fanella by Arion, 2:07¾, second dam Directress, 2:19, by Director, for which that astute Boston horseman, George W. Leavitt, recently paid $4000. He was hired by J. M. Johnson, a merchant of Calais, Me., and as a yearling last July trotted a half in 1:30 on a slow half mile track at Calais, one-eighth of which was timed in 17¾ to 17¾ seconds by the bystanders.

Calais is a cold country seat during the long winter, and it only shows that climatic differences are not as marked as we used to fancy years ago. A good trotter may be bred almost anywhere if there be grass at all, and he be well cared for once he is weaned. Two owned by Mr. Johnson, Lebena by Allerton, 2:09¾, and Jaunty, whose sire I've forgotten, recently moved an eighth together in 17¾ seconds—a 2:20 clip. Both are 4-year-olds, and seem unusually promising.

As memory serves J. Malcolm Forbes paid but $800 for Bingen as a 2-year-old, when he purchased him of Mrs. Leavitt and his partner, Mr. Greeley, and Bingen had that week trotted a public mile at Portland, Me., in 2:12½. Mr. Leavitt sold a yearling, Gordon Prince, by Ontorio, 2:13, during the winter months for $6000. Surely it pays our Northern breeders and small farm owners to breed their best mares to leading sires, as men of wealth are after fast stake prospects at all times. It is different now, since the panic of the early nineties, and breeders sell when the high dollar is offered them for their colts.

It has been announced that the American Racing Cyclists' union has reinstated Nat Butler, of Boston. This will make Butler eligible to ride under the N. C. A. rules, as he was not before, because the A. R. C. U. is a member of the N. C. A. and has its suspensions recognized by the governing body. Butler is the last rider of repute to be taken into the fold. He stood out with Major Taylor and Eddie McDuffee on the side of the L. A. W. when the fight was on for the control of the sport. Butler was especially aggressive against the N. C. A., and was not taken in when Taylor and McDuffie were. The reinstatement of Butler was accomplished by a mail vote and it is understood that all his fines were remitted. Butler is now in training and expects to compete in the championships.

A dignified, middle-aged man, whose name is Quick and who is a consul of the L. A. W. at Yonkers, visited the league offices in New York the other day and unloosed several dog and snake stories in connection with bicycle riding. He told of the dog who formerly attacked riders, but who now respects all wheelmen because of having an ammonia squirt gun discharged in his face, and he told of the blacksnake that escaped him because his squirt gun was empty. The point of his remarks suggested that there is a field for some inventor of bicyclists' squirters. There have been a number of ammonia squirt guns made and sold, and they are equally good for defense against snakes, dogs or footpads. They would be about as serviceable as a revolver if it were not that they are good for only one discharge, and furthermore do not last long, because the ammonia destroys the rubber of the bulb that contains it. An ammonia weapon with a reservoir apart from the bulb, and one that is capable of several shots, would be a boon at this season of the year, where tourists on wheels have many adventures with dogs and tramps. The injury caused by the ammonia is not permanent, but it is sufficient to create confusion and distress that last long enough to let a wheel rider escape.

It seems impossible for sufficient emphassis to be laid upon the fact that many women are riding gears that are two high for them. The racing men began it; the road riders took it up, and the manufacturers fell in line and helped to fix high gears as a fashion. It is one of the commonest things now to hear wheelwomen remark that they do not go far because they get tired. Women have less muscle, take shorter, quicker steps than men, and yet a large proportion of them are using gears that a few years ago would have been considered high for a man. About six or seven years ago, gears of 56, 60 and 63 were put out for women. Now they get 70, 74 and 80. It is true enough that wheels run easier, but the compensation is not sufficient. Mrs. Elliott Mason, the wife of one of the first wheel riders in America, is a thoroughly seasoned rider who has been a cyclist since 1882 and yet she never uses a gear higher than 68. On the other hand dealers calmly sell wheels of 72 gear to women who are beginners. There have been many reversals of practice in the history of cycling and a return to lower gears for women seems to be one due next.

Jacob Schaefer's play in Paris and London was not marked by a clean record of victories. The American billiard expert acknowledges two defeats, and they were not in exhibition games, either. Since his return it is learned that Vignaux, the French champion outplayed Schaefer in the two games. The Voiney club, of Paris, put up a purse of $1000 for a balk-line game, and Schaefer, after holding the lead with 237 points, was beaten out. The loser's end of the purse was $200. The men then played a consolation game at three-cushion caroms, 100 points, and again the American was beaten, this time by a score of 100 to 58.

Schaefer's trip abroad, however, was very profitable. He was offered a lucrative contract to remain in Paris another year, but the roomkeepers entered into a row over his services, with the result that the academies were ordered closed.

While in England Schaefer met Adejrohn, the champion of Hungary, and in a handicap match, balkline, 500 to 200 points, the foreigner was beaten by a score of 500 to 190.

Schaefer will make another attempt to get a match with Slosson before he returns to Chicago, but there is not much prospect of a match being arranged, Slosson did not show any inclination to play before the "Wizard" went abroad.

Howlson returned with Schaefer. He did not play many games, as shortly after he arrived in Paris the academies closed. He met Garnier and Cure in several exhibition games, and won in a majority of them.

VERY BITTER

Is the Feeling In Relation to the Independence.

New York, May 18.—The Mail and Express says: Correspondence between Thomas A. Lawson, of Boston, owner of the ninety-foot yacht Independence, and the America's cup committee, has reached such an acute stage of bitterness on the part of the Boston man that the committee has decided to break off all negotiations, and to bar that boat, not only from the trial races to select a defender to meet the Shamrock II, but from all other events over which the New York Yacht club will have jurisdiction. The correspondence has been turned over to the printers, and will be given to the newspapers, probably tomorrow.

"The decision not to permit the Independence to race in the trials against the Constitution and the Columbia was reached by the cup committee at a special meeting held last Wednesday evening in the office of Mr. Belmont.

"It is a long standing story of the club that no yacht shall be eligible to compete in any of the club's events unless her owner be a member of the organization." The statement is made that Mr. Lawton intimated that the boat would be raced in the trials in spite of the New York Yacht club.

DUN'S REVIEW

Crop Reports Are Favorable and Money Market Is Easy.

New York, May 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of the state of trade today says:

Crop reports continue in the main favorable, and ease in the money market tends to encourage business enterprise, which looked aghast at the collapse of stock speculation. The calmer tone in securities is welcomed in all directions. As against the favorable departments referred to there is but one adverse factor, and the labor disturbances in several quarters are not considered likely to be a long-continued drawback, and promise not to be generally felt in the trades involved. Less urgency for early delivery of iron and steel products was reported at manufacturing centers. With mills assured of activity beyond the middle of the year and some uncertainty regarding the labor organizations' attitude on the wage schedule, there is a disposition to let new engagements wait as long as possible. Unusual activity is seen in agricultural supplies, and some noteworthy shipments were reported during the week, while makers of this class of machinery purchased freely of bar iron. Structural shapes are in such active domestic demand that little attention is given to available foreign contracts. Coke production is still enormous, as is natural with iron furnaces operating at the greatest weekly capacity ever recorded.

Forwardings of boots and shoes from Boston for the last two weeks reached the exceptional total of 207,302 cases, or 48 per cent more than in the corresponding weeks of 1900, and since Jan. 1 shipments exceeded last year's by 12,147 cases.

Both wheat and corn continue to sell at more than 10 cents a bushel above the price at this date last year and the fluctuations in speculative operations are much wider. Contracts in May corn have been closed at phenomenal prices, owing to clever manipulation at Chicago and next crop options are sustained beyond the prices warranted by encouraging crop reports. More foreign inquiry for corn increased Atlantic exports for the week to 2,458,681 bushels against only 1,211,244 in the previous week.

Wheat goes out in greater volume than a year ago, but flour shipments are comparatively light.

Cotton failed to maintain the small advance made at the close of last week, liberal port receipts promptly restoring the lowest quotation of the season.

BEYOND DOUBT

These Facts Must Convince Every Duluth Reader.

THAT WHICH FOLLOWS IS THE EXPERIENCE OF A RESIDENT OF DULUTH. INCREDULITY CANNOT EXIST ABOUT THE STATEMENT BECAUSE IT CAN EASILY BE INVESTICATED.

Mr. L. Sinotte, of 302 Fourth street west, driver for the Mannheim Baking company, says: "For several years I was troubled with my kidneys and back, and though I used different remedies nothing was effectual in removing the trouble until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at W. A. Abbett's Drug store and used them. They removed the trouble completely. I was annoyed by a constant dull aching pain across my loins and through the kidneys. If I stooped unguardedly or attempted to lift anything heavy, sharp twinges of pain passed through me. The kidney secretions were highly colored, irregular and unnatural and deposited a dark sediment. I could not rest well nights, was compelled to repeatedly change position and consequently rose in the morning tired and worn out. Under the treatmet of Doan's Kidney Pills I improved steadily until I was as well as I ever was."

WEAK, WASTING, STRICTURED MEN Cured While You Sleep, IN 15 DAYS!

19,846--CURES DURING LAST YEAR--19,846

Why the Frightful Tension of Stricture is Dissolved Like Snow Beneath the Sun---IN FIFTEEN DAYS.

Why Weak Men Are restored by the Magic St. James Treatment Applied Locally and Directly to the Affected Parts.

We answer the questions briefly, If you cut an artery in your arm, you do not take internal medicine to stop the flow of blood. YOU USE LOCAL APPLICATIONS. Similarly when the urethral ducts become weakened and relaxed it is ridiculous to take internal treatment, which must pass through the stomach and urine before it reaches the seat of disease. The seminal ducts project into the urethral canal through the Prostate Gland, and are easily reached by local treatment.

Dr. Carter's "Gran-Solvent" soluble Bougies will dissolve, digest and forever remove IRRITATE THE MEMBRANE. NO INTERNAL DRUGGING TO RUIN THE STOMACH. The St. James treatment is local, direct and positive.

The St. James treatment is prepared in the form of crayons, very narrow, smooth, flexible and wholly soluble, which are inserted into the water passage at night, where they dissolve and deposit the medication in its full strength upon the Prostate Gland, contracting and strengthening the ducts and FOREVER STOPPING DRAINS AND EMISSIONS, and curing while the patient sleeps.

STRICTURE

In 15 days, without pain, injury or inconvenience. The bougies are inserted at night and act while you sleep. "Gran-Solvent" removes every symptom of stricture, leaving the canal as healthy as when nature formed it. No BRUTAL CUTTING OR DILATING. NO INJECTIONS TO

VARICOCELE

Varicocele is an accumulation of sluggish blood in the veins of the scrotum, due solely to imperfect circulation, and has its origin in a diseased and torpid Prostate Gland. Operations in this disease are only temporary, and no mechanical device yet discovered has cured a single case. Gran-Solvent heals the Prostate and restores healthy circulation. Varicocele disappears and the sluggish accumulation is replaced by pure healthy blood.

Thousands of men strictured, weak, wasting and despondent were cured and restored by the St. James method last year. A vast army of men in whom the light of life has penetrated the fearful nightmare of stricture and seminal decay.

HOME TREATMENT BY MAIL CAN BE USED by the PATIENT AS SUCCESSFULLY AS BY OURSELVES

Space will not permit a complete description of the incomparable St. James Treatment in urethral diseases. Every sufferer from Stricture, and its offspring, Prostatitis and Seminal Weakness, should write to the St. James Association, 71 St. James Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, for their wonderful illustrated work, showing the parts of the human system involved in urethral ailments, which they will send securely wrapped in plain package, prepaid..... MEN CURED

Without Drugs or Electricity by Our

VACUUM ORGAN DEVELOPER

No Cure No Pay

75,000 IN USE NOT ONE FAILURE NOT ONE RETURNED

Our Vacuum Organ Developer cures where everything else fails and hope is dead. It restores small, weak organs, lost power, failing manhood, drains, errors of youth, etc. Stricture and Varicocele permanently cured in 1 to 4 weeks.

No Drugs to ruin the stomach. No Electric Belts to blister and burn. Our Vacuum Developer is a local treatment applied directly to the weak and disordered parts. It gives strength and development wherever applied. Old men with lost or failing manhood, or the young and middle aged who are reaping the results of youthful errors, excess or over work are quickly restored to health and strength. Our marvelous appliance has astonished the entire world. Hundreds of leading physicians in the United States are now recommending our appliances in the severest cases where every other known device has failed.

You will see and feel its benefit from the first day for it is applied directly at the seat of the disorder. It makes no difference how severe the case or how long standing, it is as sure to yield to our treatment as the sun is to rise.

The blood is the life, the fertilizer of the human body. Our instrument forces the blood into circulation where most needed, giving strength and development to weak and lifeless parts. The Vacuum Organ Developer was first introduced in the standing armies of Europe a few years ago by the French specialist, De Bonsset, and its remarkable success in these countries led the Local Appliance Co. to secure the exclusive control of its sale on the Western Continent; and since its introduction into this country its remarkable cures have astounded the entire medical profession. It has restored thousands of cases pronounced incurable by physicians. It cures quickly, harmlessly, and without detention from business.

Remember there is no exposure, no C.O.D. or any other scheme in our dealing with the public.

John Osborn is a model citizen, but from the locks of the "lay-out" in front of his barber shop Dednesday morning one would almost have been led to believe that John had laid in a supply of wet goods sufficient for a prolonged indugence in the stuff that "both cheers and inebriates." Lying promiscuously about were kegs, bearing such familiar brands as "Hams," "Minneapolis," "Schlitz," etc., and divers and sundry bottles of various dimensions. No one was more surprised than John, when he came down from the house in the morning. He removed the debris and started on a "still hunt" after the fellows who had placed the suggestive articles in his front door. John had failed to attend the meeting of the Woodman lodge Tuesday evening, and some of the boys, after lodge adjourned, conceived the idea of reminding him of a more regular attendance at the meetings of the order. Now the laugh is on (he popular knight of the razor and shears; but John is bidding his time, with suspicions of his esteemed neighbor next door, and proposes to "get even."

Germs in the Blood Cause Kidney Diseases

Dr. Geo. Leininger has given to the world the only Kidney Remedy that will drive the Kidney Disease Germs out of the system.

Dr. Leininger is anxious to demonstrate that For-Mal-De-Hyde Kidney Tablets will cure all forms of Kidney and Bladder Diseases, Rheumatism and all Uric Troubles and offers to send a trial package Free to all readers of the Duluth Herald who will send their name and address.

THE GREATEST DISCOVERY YET MADE IN MEDICINE.

Kidney Disorders are more serious than most people imagine. Kidney Diseases are usually the result of weakness, caused by swarms of microbes in the blood. The consequence is that when the Kidneys get sick, we get blood poisoning, caused by the lodgment in the system of these animal germs, and once in the blood, however, the law of their nature is to work in flocks and swarms, and by feeding here and there upon some vital material of the body, to develop the process of inflammation and decay. Therefore, to cure Kidney trouble is to kill the germs that cause the sickness.

For many years physicians have been trying to discover some remedy that would destroy these germs, at the same time disinfect the entire urinary system, but not until recently was the discovery made. Dr. Geo. Leininger, the noted German physician and scientist, gave to the world the first and only Kidney remedy, which not alone will cure all Kidney diseases, but drive all disease-breeding germs out of the blood, thereby making it impossible for the Kidneys to become sick again.

Dr. Geo. Leininger's For-Mal-de-Hyde Kidney Tablets are entirely different from any cure ever given to medical science or the public—they are not a patent medicine, but a medical discovery. These Kidney Tablets contain Solidified For-Mal-de-Hyde, which sets free nascent For-Mal-de-Hyde gas in the kidneys, and in the whole urinary tract, thus disinfecting the entire urinary system and sterilizing the urine, which has proven the most wonderful method of curing Kidney and Bladder diseases, Rheumatism, Uric Acid troubles and preventing Bright's Disease.

Dr. Leininger offers to send a trial package of these famous Kidney Tablets free to any reader of this paper who send their name and address.

VIRGINIA.

Virginia, May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Herman Kranse had a visitor Saturday evening in the shape of a carrier pigeon. At 11 o'clock of that evening three distinct taps on the window were heard, and upon looking out, Mr. Kranse saw the bird and opening the window it flew in and appeared very tame. Upon examination Mr. Granse found that on the left wing was printed the word "Philadelphia" and on the right wing was the inscription "report if dead or alive—Jones." On the left foot was a small silver ring with some initials on it. Mr. Kranse immediately wrote to Mr. Jones at Philadelphia and described the bird and said that he would hold the visitor until further orders. The pigeon is very tame and eats well. It is understood that some Tower parties claim the bird, but the holder will await some definite reply.

The game of baseball which was to have been played between the local and Tower clubs, was postponed in account of a snow storm Saturday and Sunday. A game will be arranged for soon.

A stage line has been inaugurated between Virginia and Eveleth and is proving a paying business. The stage makes the trip twice daily. The liverymen of the two towns did not relish the idea of such an enterprise, as the rates were lower for a single trip than they received for a single trip, and have clubbed together and started a "bus line combined. They, too, are receiving a fair patronage.

A farewell reception was tendered Drs. J. R. Eby and J. F. Avery by the Virginia club members at the Fay Opera house Wednesday evening, at which there was a large attendance, including many invited guests from Virginia and the other range towns. Music was furnished by the Virginia orchestra. A palatable lunch was served in the club rooms at 12 o'clock and was furnished by Duluth caterers.

On Monday, the Drake & Stratton Co. resumed operations on their stripping contract at the Auburn mine, putting on one shovel and a double crew. It is the intention to put on another shovel about July 1. IN COPPER DISTRICT

New Mill of Isle Royale Mine Turning Out Copper.

Returns Fully as Good as Had Been Anticipated.

Erection of Mass Mill at Keweenaw Bay Completed.

Houghton, Mich., May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new mill of the Isle Royale mine started work on Monday of this week, with one stamp, and is now turning out copper steadily. While too early to give any definite figures regarding the percentage of copper secured it may be stated that the returns are fully as good as was anticipated, and very satisfactory to the management and shareholders of the mine.

The Isle Royale Consolidated is composed of three old mines lying in the southern part of this place, these being the Isle Royale, Portage and Huron, which have produced, previous to their consolidation, upwards of 18,000 tons of refined copper, which was made at a net loss of upwards of $1,000,000. The present company secured control nearly four years ago, after the various mines had been idle five to twenty years, and has since expended nearly $2,000,000 in reopening the northern end of the property and in erecting buildings and equipping the mine with hoisting, air compressing and stamping machinery. The new mill is located at the mouth of the Pilgrim river, on the shores of the Grand Portage, three miles south of Houghton, and is at the present moment the best stamp mill in the district, embodying, as it does, every successful device and method yet brought out. Judging from the work of the single stamp now running the Isle Royale mill will treat an average of better than 500 tons per head, the year around—a result made possible only by the great progress of the past ten years in milling methods in this district. The mine is in control of the Bigelow-Lewisohn people, who have made such successful records at the Tamarack and Osceola mines in this district, with William E. Parnall as agent and Richard M. Edwards as superintendent. It has taken a longer time and more money to reopen the Isle Royale and bring it to a producing stage than has been required in the case of any other mine ever reopened in the district, but the wisdom of the lavish expenditure of time and money will be fully demonstrated by the results secured.

The structural iron workers have completed the erection of the Mass mill at Keweenaw Bay. All that remains is to lay the floors and finish setting the tramp and washing machinery. It seems probable that the mill will be able to start in July, as planned when the present management secured control of the mine. A second stamp will be started a few months later, when underground openings warrant the increased production in rock. The mine continues rich in heavy copper and is showing large quantities of good-looking stamp rock.

The recent breaks in the New York market have been felt in Boston, where the coper shares are traded in. A reduction of speculative activity will inevitably have the effect of separating the sheep from the goats by making speculators follow the tactics of investors, and buy or keep mainly the shares that pay dividends, or those in new mines of more than average promise.

The April record of the Baltic in making twenty-two pounds of copper per ton of rock is very satisfactory. The first six months' run of Baltic rock at the Atlantic mill gave only seventeen pounds of copper per ton. The experience of the Baltic resembles that of the Wolverine, which gave less than seventeen pounds per ton for the first year, but is now running about twenty-seven pounds per ton, earning for the Wolverine the local nickname of "the Little Calumet & Hecla." The Baltic lode is a new one, never mined before the opening of the Baltic mine, and, consequently, there was lacking the knowledge of the characteristics of the lode enjoyed by many new mines opened on extensions of lodes already developed by adjoining mines.

It is expected that orders will soon be received by the local officials of the Atlantic to begin exploring for the northern extension of the Baltic lode on section 16, owned by the Atlantic company. The powerful new hoist at "D" shaft of the Atlantic went into commission on Monday of this week, giving perfect satisfaction. The new hoist means a larger production of rock, secured at a smaller cost per ton. The Atlantic has expended a large amount of money in the past few years for new equipment, and has changed its plant over to modern machinery of great size, suited for deep mining. The mine was never in as good shape in every way as at the present time, and the patience and skill with which a mine of such phenomenally low grade has been made to pay for a new outfit while continuing dividends is a signal proof of the ability and foresight of its management.

The new Baltic mill, at Redridge, is to use Willifey tables for separating its fine copper. These separators have been in use in the district about two years, and have comended themselves to mine managers by doing what is claimed for them in the way of saving fine copper precious ly lost in the slimes.

A building of considerable size has been erected on the sands of the old Franklin mine, opposite Houghton, to rework the tailings. The Eminons sludge process is employed, and the system will be given a thorough test. A small experimental mill built last season on the Franklin sands gave very encouraging results.

The conglomerate shaft of the Franklin Junior is now sending some rock to the mill, though the shaft is not yet producing to anywhere near its full capacity.

The "West lode" on the Franklin has recently produced some rock of much more than average richness.

A considerable mass of copper, weighing nearly a half ton, was hoisted from the Enidote (St. Mary's) shaft of the Arcadian last Saturday, and the shaft is showing much richer ground at present than at any previous time.

The Boston rumors that a deal is on foot by which the Centennial may secure the use of the Arcadian mill are given some credence here, though whether such an arrangement would mean purchase, lease or consolidation is unknown. Strength is lent to the story by the action or lack of action on the part of the Centennial people, who own one of the finest millsites in the district, opopsite the mills of the Calumet & Hecla, on Torch lake, yet are taking no steps toward the erection of a mill although the Kearsarge shafts of the mine are now reaching considerable depths and opening a large body of rock which will unquestionably pay to stamp.

E. D. Warriner has resigned the superintendency of the Calumet & Hecla, to take a responsible position with a coal mining railroad in Pennsylvania. It is reported locally that he will be succeeded by James McNaughton, of Iron Mountain, Mich. Mr. McNaughton has had experience in copper mining, and is at present at the head of one of the greatest iron mines of the world, the Chapin, which is capable of an annual production of 1,000,000 tons of iron ore.

Some very rich rock has recently been taken from the Victoria mine, the only active mine west of the Ontonagon river. The Victoria has accomplished a great amount of good development work with a small amount of cash, and is at present making a better showing than at any previous time.

The work of installing the new hoists at the amygdaloid shafts of the Calumet & Hecla is proceeding actively, and the new stamp mill is fast assuming a completed form. It is probable that the Calumet & Hecla will be able to make 15,000,000,000 to 20,000,000 pounds of copper annually from the shafts on the Osceola lode, and it is only a question of time when the Kearsarge lode will also be opened by this great company. The Kearsarge amygdaloid is now being worked or opened by the Kearsarge, South Kearsarge, Wolverine, Mohawk and Centennial mines, and at all points is making a showing of copper ranging from good to super-execellent.

Unwatering of the old Minnesota mine through the shafts of the Michigan is being steadily continued and the old mine will soon be dry, for the first time in a generation.

Millions of Men

Have Been Wrecked on the Rock of Sexual Vice.

Thousands Have Been Rescued by the Progressive Medical Association,

Which Combines all the Curative Powers of Both Medicine and Electricity in our Electro-Medical Treatment.

"Specialists for Diseases of Men"

I make no extravagant assertion when I say that millions of men have been wrecked on the rock of vice. The trouble is not so much that they get disease, but rather that they allow it to grow worse through neglect or improper treatment. This fact is responsible in many cases for nine-tenths of the suffering.

You should remember that the sexual diseases are never at a standstill. Neither can you make any compromise with them. Either you must control them or they will control you and render you utterly unfit for the duties of life.

Specifics and Free Samples, Trial Treatments and the like don't cure complaints of this kind, as anyone who has tried them knows.

But if you have Varicocele, Stricture, Contagious Blood Poison, Nervo-Sexual Debility, Rupture, Kidney and Urinary Diseases, or any associate diseases or weakness, you owe it to yourself to fully and freely investigate our treatment. My mastery of these maladies is complete. I began a special study of them soon after graduating from college, now nearly a quarter of a century ago, and during all the years since then they have been my study and persistent practice. I treat nothing else.

Does it not occur to you, then, that I am better prepared to combat and conquer diseases and weaknesses peculiar to men than the general practitioner, who, instead of concentrating his faculties on a single class of disease, scatters them over the entire field of Medicine and Surgery.

Varicocele and Its New Cure

Whatever may be the cause of Varicocele its injurious effects are too well known for extended comment. Suffice to know that it depresses the mind, weakens the body, racks the nervous system, and ultimately leads to a complete loss of sexual power. If you are a victim of this dire disease, come to our office and let us explain to you our process of treating it. You will then not wonder why we have positively cured hundreds of cases of Varicocele during the past twelve months. Under our treatment the patient improves from the very beginning. All pain instantly subsides. The pools of stagnant blood are forced from the dilated veins, which rapidly assume their normal size, strength and soundness. All indications of disease and weakness vanish completely, and in their stead comes the pride, the power, and the pleasures of perfect health and restored manhood.

Stricture Painlessly Removed

It matters not how long you have suffered from Stricture nor how many different doctors have disappointed you, we will cure just as certainly as you come to us for treatment. We will not do it by cutting or dilating. Our treatment is new, entirely original with us and perfectly painless. It completely dissolves the Stricture and permanently removes every obstruction from the urinary passage. It stops every unnatural discharge, allays all inflammation, reduces the prostate gland when enlarged, cleanses the bladder and kidneys, invigorates the sexual organs and restores health and soundness to every part of the body affected by the disease.

Nervo-Sexual Debility—Its Remedy

Men, plenty of you are now reaping the results of your former folly. Your manhood is failing and will soon be lost unless you do something for yourself. There is no time to lose. Impotency, like all sexual diseases, is never on the standstill. Either you must master it or it will master you, and till your whole future with misery and indiscribable woe. We have treated so many cases of this kind that we are as familiar with them as you are with the very daylight. Once cured by us, you will never again be bothered with emissions, prematureness, small or weak organs, nervousness, failing memory, loss of ambition or other symptoms which rob you of your manhood and absolutely unfit you for study, business, pleasure or marriage. Our treatment for weak men will correct all these evils, and restore you to what nature intended—a hale, hearty, happy man, with physical, mental and sexual powers complete.

MASTER SPECIALIST.

Contagious Blood Poison Cured Forever.

On account of its frightful hideousness, Blood Poison is commonly called the king of all venereal diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted. Once the system is tainted with it, the disease may manifest itself in the form of scrofula, eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, eruptions or copper-colored spots on face or body, little ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, swollen joints, falling of the hair or eyebrows, and finally a leprouslike decay of the flesh and bone. If you have any of these or similar symptoms you are cordially invited to consult us immediately. If we find your fears are unfounded, we will quickly unburden your mind. But if your constitution is infected with poisonous virus we will tell you so frankly, and show you how to get rid of it. Our special treatment for Blood Poison is practically the result of our life work, and is indorsed by the best physicians of America and Europe. It contains no dangerous drugs or injurious medicines of any kind. It goes to the very bottom of the disease and forces out every particle of impurity. Soon every sign and symptom of blood poison disappears completely and forever. The blood, the tissue, the flesh, the bones and the whole system are cleansed, purified and restored to perfect health, and the patient is prepared anew for the duties and pleasures of life.

All Associate Diseases Cured

In curing a disease of any kind, we never fail to remove all reflex complications. If the case is Varicocele, the weakness caused by it disappears. If it is Stricture, and has developed into Prostatic, Bladder or Kidney affections, the injured organs are all restored to perfectly healthy conditions. If it is Blood Poison, any and all Skin, Blood and Bone diseases arising from the taint, are entirely and permanently eliminated from the system. If it is Impotency, the many distressing symptoms following in its train and indicating a permanent decline of physical, mental and sexual powers are totally removed and rapidly replaced by the youthful energy of robust manhood. Hence, all resulting ills and reflex complications which may be properly termed associate diseases, and which, in fact, are often more serious than the original ailment that gives rise to them—all, we say, disappear completely and forever with the cure of the main malady.

CORNER OVER

Phillips, the Young Corn Bull, Has Won.

He Is Through Supporting the Price.

The May corner in corn which has been manipulated for several weeks by George H. Phillips, the young corn bull, is over. Mr. Phillips so announced today and the price of May corn bears him out in the assertion and indicates that he is telling the truth. It has been characteristic of Mr. Phillips throughout this campaign, the most remarkable ever seen on the Chicago board of trade, the great grain market of the country if not of the world. This young man, with only moderate capital, has twice driven the old time operators with millions at their back, to cover and to all appearances has marketed the "corpse" as the load of cash grain which a man takes on in manipulating a corner is called. It is the "corpse" which has always staggered every man that has worked a corner. The working of the corner is not so difficult. Mr. Phillips seems to have established a new precedent.

One of the most remarkable features of the Phillips campaign has been that he has practically told the trade every morning in the Chicago papers what he did the day before. For a long time he was not believed but he has not been caught in an untruth at any time. Every statement has been borne out by subsequent events. His course reminds one of the Yale-Princeton football game of a few years ago when poor Yale was battered to pieces by the Tigers, who, when they realized the weak condition of their opponents, threw all signals aside and called every play openly. It was the most galling thing to which a Yale team had ever had to submit to and the feelings of the Chicago veterans whom young Mr. Phillips has used in much the same manner, must be akin to those of the Yale men of that memorable game.

This is what Mr. Phillips says in announcing that the bull campaign in the May option is over:

"My May corn campaign is over. We are through supporting the price. The market will have to take care of itself. It has been an operation successful, I think, beyond anybody's anticipation. I expect now on the rest of my May holdings that the actual corn will be delivered. There are a few shorts left. The market yesterday showed that for the close the price was better than 50c, although I sold about 1,000,000 bus. It would not pay though to continue to take the receipts at higher prices for the purpose of getting such short interests as are left. As to what the May price will do now, it is hard to say. I hardly expect it to sell down at once to the July figures."

The closing price of May corn yesterday was better than 50c. Today the opening was at rather wild figures ranging from 48c down to 47c. The close for the day was 46½c which is about 2c better than the way price.

THE DULUTH MARKET.

Wheat Closes at a Fairly Good Advance.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 18.—The wheat market started out weak and lower this morning, but soon recovered and made a sharp advance. The opening weakness was due to lower cables, there being a decline of 1⅛@⅛d at Liverpool, and to the reports of rains in the Southwest, which are much needed there. The rally was due to the cash position being reported improved. On the Chicago board Phillips and his party were the best buyers of wheat and took a large amount of the July. Snow in his crop summary estimates the winter wheat yield at 450,000,000 bus. Spring wheat conditions, he says are ideal. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 726,542 bus. Australian wheat shipments for the week were 546,000 bus, last year 136,000. Danubian shipments were 1,040,000 bus, last year 592,000. New York reported 21 loads of wheat worked for foreign shipment yesterday. Twelve loads were worked at Duluth yesterday. Business at Chicago yesterday aggregated 355,000 bus. At the seaboard yesterday exporters bought 96,000 bus. Deliveries at Chicago yesterday on contracts were 145,000 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 177 cars, against 179 last week and 275 last year. Chicago receipts, 58 cars, 1 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was fairly active on the Duluth board. July wheat opened ⅜c off at 73⅝c bid, sold at 73¾c at 9:30, declined to 73⅝c at 9:45, rallied to 74c at 10:30, sold at 74⅛-¼c at 10:55, eased off to 74¼c at 11:30 and closed at 74¼c, a net advance of ⅛c. Chicago advanced ½-⅝c and Minneapolis ⅛-¼c. Cash sales were 20 cars at the July price. September flax and September Northwestern flax rose 1c, and all other coarse grains were unchanged.

The following are the closing prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard—Cash and to arrive, 73¾c; May, 74c; July, 74¼c. No. 2 northern, 70¼c. No. 3 spring, 69¼c. Oats, 25¼@26c. Rye, 51½c. Flax—Cash, to arrive and May, $1.70; September, $1.32; September Northwestern, $1.33; October, $1.29. Corl, 41½c; May, 42c.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Weak Cables and Rains Force Wheat Down.

Chicago, May 18.—Wheat opened lower today on weak cables and rains, in the Southwest. July wheat opened ¼@⅜c to ⅜@½c lower at 71⅞@⅞c and on reports of an improvement in the cash position rallied to 72¼c, helped by buying by the bull leaders in corn. Local receipts were 58 cars, 1 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 177 cars against 179 last week and 275 cars a year ago.

On export demand July sold to 72¾c closing strong and ⅝@¾c higher at 72⅝c.

Talk that Phillips had wound up his May corn deal resulted in liquidation by scattered longs, July opening ⅛@⅜c lower at 44c to 44¼c. Receipts 486 cars with 161 of contract grade, also had a weakening tendency. There was a fair demand at the decline, however, and prices steadied. Liquidation of May continued and the opening was 1c to 3½c lower at 43½c to 47c. A rally to 48c followed.

July corn closed steady, ¼@⅜c lower at 44⅝@½c and May 4c lower at 46½c.

Oats opened lower but rallied on a fair demand. July opened 1⅛@¼c lower at 27⅞@28c and rallied to 28⅛@⅜c.

Provisions were steady. July pork opened 2½c higher at $14.82½ and sold to $14.90; July lard a shade higher at $8.00 and sold to $8.05, and July ribs 2½c higher at $7.90 and sold to $7.92½.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 207 Board of Trade.

Chicago, May 18.—After an easy opening the wheat market gained strength and advanced sharply. The influences seemed purely local. The market was oversold on the fine crop prospects and there was no selling pressure from long wheat. Considerable contract wheat is being moved out from here and from Duluth to the seaboard. As nearly as we can learn this is largely to fill short interest in Eastern markets and partially on account of lower storage rates at those points. Further rains are reported in the Southwest and the general crop outlook is probably as fine as it ever was at this season. September wheat closed 2¾c discount under July. Northwest stocks have decreased for the week about 2,250,000 bus, a good part of which will reappear on the lakes but a fair decrease in the visible is expected. Indications are that the world's shipments will be about 6,500,000 bus. Primary receipts 301,477 bus against 391,227 bus. Shipments 541,280 bus against 367,541 bus.

The squeeze in May corn seems to be over, the big end of the shorts having covered and May about 2c over July. The general tone of the market is steady and legitimate conditions of supply and demand may now come into play. Receipts for the balance of the month will probably be larger until the corn sold for May delivedy has arrived. Primary receipts 591,500 bus against 218,157 bus. Shipments 790,365 against 541,324.

Oats were firm. There is apparently still some unsettled interest in May and the market for operations is somewhat irregular. There is a fair speculative interest and the buying is still based on the unfavorable crop prospects. An average crop is not at present indicated.

The provision market is firm and prices are slightly better. Cash demand remains fair but some accumulation is likely for the next month. A good run of hogs is looked for during the next thirty days. Stocks for the past month have changed very little.

WEARE'S REPORT.

Chicago, May 18.—The complications which have characterized the wheat situation from its inception this year, at this writing, show but little evidence of being cleared up and the trade is puzzled and at sea regarding the under current of strength which has marked wheat, while general weakness has been apparent on the surface. Under these circumstances to write a clear, comprehensive resume of conditions as they exist, is a difficult matter, but as we view it, it is evidently a case of immediate supply and demand conditions offsetting the brilliant crop prospects at which all accounts to the contrary, continue to prevail throughout the Southwest. There has unquestionably been a remarkable demand for Chicago wheat at the seaboard, resulting in a very appreciable reduction in the supplies of wheat in sight and the visible figures which have long been a depressing factor, have now come to light which makes them rather bullish than otherwise. The continuance of this demand making further inroads in supplies of the old crop at hand would naturally stimulate the nearby options and should of necessity make the bear side less attractive and less profitable, giving wheat an intrinsic value in the neighborhood of these figures, making purchases to share in advances produced by crop damage news which is undoubtedly still to be counted upon as the question of supply and demand conditions which at the moment are a very prominent and effective characteristic in the present situation. We still believe that wheat sold on bulges for quick turns will make money for the operator, but we would limit such sales for scalping turns and think that wheat bought on down turns, with the prospect of increased speculation, crop damage scares, depletion in stocks of wheat and the general prosperous condition prevailing will prove a profitable investment and one with considerable safety based on the intrinsic value of this cereal.

The eyes of the speculative public for some time past have been on the deal in May corn now either at or approaching its culmination. The action of the bull leader and the effect of same upon the prices for May corn today have led many to believe that the "corner," is practically over and that the May option as a congested factor is now removed from the arena. It is very evident, however, that the bull contingent has not been converted to the bear side, but has merely transferred its operations to the deferred futures, promising thereby a continuance of Bank Statement Showed a Decrease In Cash Reserves.

New York, May 18.—With a holiday in London today the opening in the local stock market was strong and showed considerable animation. Of Erie 6000 shares sold at 39¼ to 38¾, compared with 37¾ last night and 2900 shares of Union Pacific at 109½ to 110, compared with 107¾ last night. The Southwesterns and the local tractions were notably strong, with examples of gains of about a point to 1¼. Sugar and Tobacco were the only stocks to show heaviness, but the former stock rallied quickly.

The bulls had the market well in hand and the improving trend of values was not retarded by realizing in a few leading stocks, principally St. Paul and Union Pacific. Confident buying of Atchison rushed it up 2⅝, to 80½, and there were 2 point advances in Manhattan, Great Northern preferred, Baltimore & Ohio, Illinois Central and North American. A jump of 7 points to 155 occurred in Northern Pacific on a purchase of 100 shares, and International Power, Consolidated Gas, Alton, Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis and LaClede Gas were 3@4½ points better. A raid on Sugar lowered it nearly 2 points before 11 o'clock, which caused other specialties to react. Railroad stocks, however, were well held on the extensive demand for the Atchisons, Southern Railroad common and Erie common. The latter two were over a point higher than last night.

There were some further gains after 12 o'clock. Atchison rose an extreme 3⅜, Brooklyn Union Gas 6, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, 4½, Baltimore & Ohio 4, Lackawanna 3½, Rock Island 3, National Lead 2A and the preferred 6¼. The market became dull and sagged away previous to the appearance of the bank statement, which was a disappointment in the decrease shown in cash reserves. Prices fell back a point or more in spots. The closing was dull and quite weak except for the resistance of one or two stocks.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 18.—Cotton opened quiet, unchanged to 2 points lower; and after the call ruled dull. There was nothing in the cables to effect preconceived ideas, a slight decline in spot cotton offsetting a slight advance in futures. Rain was reported in the South. This condition had been discounted, however and attracted no more than passing attention. Shorts bid July up to 7.60 after the call from 7.58, but later there was a reaction under sheer absence of speculative support.

Cotton spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 8 1-16; middling gulf 8 5-16; sales, 589 bales. Futures closed quiet and steady; May, 7.48; June, 7.52; July, 7.56; August, 7.24; September, 7.08; October, 7.03; November, 7.01; December, 7.00; January, 7.02; February, 7.03.

BANK STATEMENT.

New York, May 18.—The statement of the associated banks for the week ending today shows: Loans $873,512,100, decrease $24,394,800; deposits $951,626,700, decrease $25,804,200; circulation $31,109,000, increase $27,900; legal tenders $74,317,500, increase $1,-578,600; specie $176,889,100, decrease $2,871,000; reserves $251,206,600, decrease $1,292,600; reserves required $237,906,675, decrease $6,466,-050; surplus $13,299,25, increase $5,172,450.

Allis-Chalmers Company,
Organized Under the Laws of the State of New Jersey.
Preferred Stock, = $16,250,000
Common Stock, = 20,000,000
Manufacturers of Heavy Engines, Mining and Other Machinery.

$8,400,000
Seven Per Cent Cumulative and Convertible Preferred Stock.
OFFERED BY THE UNDERSIGNED FOR SALE AT 105 PER CENT.

payable, with accrued dividend, at the rate of seven per cent per annum from May 1, 1901.

50 per cent May 24, 1901,
50 per cent July 1, 1901,

with the privilege of anticipating the latter payment. Negotiable receipts will be issued against payments, exchangeable for engraved certificates of stocks as soon as they can be prepared.

The Preferred Stock, in shares of $100 each, is preferred in liquidation to the amount of its par value and accumulated dividends.

It is preferred in cumulative dividends to the extent of seven per cent per annum, and has a further preference of 1 per cent, non-cumulative, after the payment of seven per cent, upon the Common Stock.

It is convertible into Common Stock, share for share, at the option of the holder, upon any first day of May until and including May 1, 1921, exclusive of any declared dividends.

No additional Preferred Stock can be issued at less than par in cash, or for property at such cash value.

The certificate of Incorporation confers authority upon the Board of Directors, in their discretion, to declare and pay dividends on the Common Stock concurrently with the Preferred Stock, when earned and applicable thereto.

The fiscal year of the company commences May 1st. The Preferred Stock Dividends are payable quarterly, commencing August 1st, 1901. Application will be duly made to list the Preferred and Common Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Allis-Chalmers Company represents the consolidation of the property and business of the following builders of heavy machinery:

The Edward P. Allis Co., of Milwaukee, Wis.
Fraser & Chalmers, Incorporated, of Chicago, Ill.
Gates Iron Works, of Chicago, Ill.
Dickson Mfg. Co., of Scranton, Pa. (exclusive of locomotive works).

All property acquired is to be conveyed in fee and free from mortgage or other lien.

No mortgage can be placed upon the property without the assent of seventy-five per cent of the amount of Preferred Stock outstanding.

The expert engineer, Mr. Julian Kennedy, reports, after several personal examinations of the properties, that he estimates "the value of the plants, taking into account the real estate, buildings, machinery, tools, patterns, drawings and patents, together with the cost of organizing and getting into full operation, but not estimating anything for good will, at $9,935,000."

He further reports, under date of April 5th, 1901, as follows:

"I find the plants all running at their fullest capacity. The great bulk of the tools in all of these are comparatively new, having been put in within the last seven or eight years, and all the works are in good condition and running smoothly."

The security of the preferred stock without any consideration for the advantages accruing from the consolidation, for the valuable good will of the several Companies, so long and favorably known all over the world, or for the earning capacity of the united companies, will be substantially as follows:

Cash Capital	$10,000,000
of which sum $2,500,000 will be expended in the erection of an additional plant to double the present capacity of the Allis Works.
Valuation as above of existing plants owned in fee and free of lien	9,935,000
Total present value of tangible property	$19,935,000
The total issue of Preferred Stock against this property is	16,250,000

all of which is issued for cash at par, or, in lieu of cash, for the plants at less than their valuation as above stated, and of which total issue there will be more than 61 per cent in cash, and the balance will be in property that produces much more than the cumulative divident to which the preferred stock is entitled.

Of the total preferred stock, $7,850,000 has been accepted by the original companies in lieu of cash, in part payment for their properties to be conveyed to this company. The remaining $8,400,000 is now offered for sale to provide for the discharge of existing mortgages and for part of the above-mentioned cash capital, the remainder thereof being provided by the sale of common stock already consummated.

The accounts of the several concerns have been examined by Messrs. Jones, Caesar & Co., chartered accountants, who certify "that the combined profits of these companies, in each of the last two fiscal years, after making full provisions for depreciation and bad debts, but without charging interest and management salaries, exceeded the amount required to pay seven per cent dividends upon $16,-250,000 preferred stock, whilst for the last fiscal year the profits, as above defined, considerably exceeded such amount." It was not until the last year that the new works of Fraser & Chalmers came into full operation.

Net profits for the fiscal year ending May 1, 1902, are estimated by chief officials of the respective companies, without any allowance for increase of manufacturing capacity, or for the economies of consolidation, or increase of prices, at sufficient to pay dividends at the rate of 7 per cent on the $16,250,000 preferred stock and about 4 per cent on $20,000,000 of common stock. Including the economies from consolidation confidently anticipated by these authorities, the net profits for the same period should exceed the amount required to pay 7 per cent dividends on both classes of stock.

The same officials similarly estimate that upon the completion of the additional Allis works, now in process of construction, the profits will be equivalent to 8 per cent on $16,250,000 of preferred stock and 10 per cent on $20,000,000 of common stock, with a material addition to the surplus account.

The Allis, Fraser & Chalmers and Gates Iron Works plants have been operated night and day during the past few years, and have, from lack of capacity, declined in that period as much business as they have been able to accept.

The business of these concerns, with more than 50 per cent increase of capacity and ample cash capital, will be conducted by the Messrs. Allis and Reynolds, of E. P. Allis company; W. J. Chalmers, of

DULUTH REAL ESTATE MARKET

D. W. Scott Answers Question "Is Duluth Real Estate a Good Investment?---Large Deal Made This Week.

"Is Duluth real estate a good investment?"

This week's answer to this question is from D. W. Scott, and it is a very interesting one. This series of articles is creating considerable interest, not only in Duluth, but outside of the city, and from comments that have come in there can be no doubt that this manner of bringing out the possibilities of the city is doing a large amount of good. Mr. Scott's answer is as follows:

"Is Duluth real estate a good investment?"

The answer to this question depends entirely on whether the city has reached the top notch of its growth or whether it has only fairly started on its course. Bearing on that point the first consideration is its location. It is situated at the head of the great chain of lakes, reaching inland 1000 miles from Buffalo, and affording cheap transportation for merchandise from across the Atlantic, and from the manufactories and coal mines of the Eastern states with which no other point so far inland can compete. The lakes make a great highway. Large cities are rapidly growing at advantageous points along the route and none are better located to get the benefits of it than Duluth. And with a harbor unexcelled by any in the land and which Chicago would give millions to possess, the location of a big mercantile and manufacturing city is fixed and fixed by a higher power than man. The location has long been recognized by far seeing minds as an important point. To economize time and space I will quote only one, Horace Greely said in 1865: "At the head of Lake Superior there will be seen a city rivaling any which in ages gone by has enjoyed the commerce of the East."

The same condition of cheap freight which attracts traffic from the East will also bring through this point the immense traffic in ore, lumber, wheat, etc., produced by the whole Northwest, on its way to the markets of the East.

The situation is well recognized by the railroad systems of the Northwest and they are making their connections more and more with this point, making an exceptionally good point for the distribution of goods through wholesale houses. The wholesale trade while not large yet, is growing all the time and affords one notable example of what may be done in the new establishment of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, which is hard to excel anywhere in the land, and which has a trade reaching to the Pacific coast. Many others are doing well in their respective lines and building up a large business.

The same conditions that make it a wholesale point make it a valuable manufacturing point, on account of facilities for distributing the goods cheaply. The trains that run in laden with wheat and all other products of the West will load back with the goods to go out from this point. The development of the water power here, though long delayed, is bound to come soon, and will give a great boost to all manufacturing interests by furnishing cheap power.

For the manufacture of all iron products we have the ore in great abundance and for the Western markets, if made here, it would save freight to Eastern points and back again. And on ore from state lands a discount of 25 cents a ton royalty is allowed if manufactured in this state.

The mineral field tributary to this point, I am satisfied, is only in its infancy. The production of this county is going going up by leaps and bounds—running up from 880,000 tons in 1890 to 9,400,000 tons in 1900. New discoveries are still being made and the field is likely to extend through Lake and Cook counties and into Canada. And these deposits are pretty sure to include nickel and copper as well as iron. The Rainy Lake gold field is likely to make a rich field yet and will be largely tributary to this point.

The lumber cut in the Duluth district reached 675,000,000 feet in 1900. Grain and flour as wheat receipts for 1900 were 104,000,000 bushels and this production is rapidly growing.

In Northern Minnesota the lands are being rapidly settled by farmers, who are sure of a good market continuously from the large population of the city and the towns on the iron ranges. The lands in our immediate locality, while not prairie farms, will produce profitably hay, potatoes and all kinds of vegetables. Dairying may be carried on profitably and 10,000 families in the city would hail with delight a better supply of fresh eggs.

Duluth is still young and we have only to look back twenty years to find a population of only 3400. In 1890 it had reached 33,000, and in 1900 it touched 53,000. A few comparisons of growth for ten years from 1890 to 1900, which included seven of the hardest years ever known, will show progress that would be very gratifying to most communities:

Population, 1890, 33,000; 1900 53,000.
Iron ore from the county, tons, 1890, 880,000; 1900, 9,400,000. Postoffice receipts, 1890, $57,000; 1900, $167,000. Lumber cut, increased three and a half times; wheat receipts increased five times; tonnage head of lakes increased five times; jobbing business doubled.

Now, a word as to prices of real estate. No doubt they reached too high a point in booming times, but they have gone through the trying ordeal of seven lean years following 1893, and all inflation is squeezed out. Prices outside the business center have settled from 50 to 75 per cent of their former values, and more in some cases, while the intrinsic value has largely increased by the growth of the city.

Prices are low compared with other cities of similar size, and must advance from now on.

I think the points, touched on but lightly so as to keep within proper bounds of space, must settle the question with which we start in the affirmative. D. W. SCOTT.

Next week's answer will be from N. J. Upham, of the firm of N. J. Upham & Co.

The past week has produced one deal that alone would make it a prominent week in the real estate business. That was the sale of the southeast corner of Lake avenue and Superior street by Abram Nesbitt, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., to W. J. E. Sander, of Cambridge, Mass., for $52,500. Stryker, Manley & Buck represented the seller, and W. M. Prindle & Co. the buyer. The deal is the most important one in a long time in many respects. The price paid is a good indication of the healthy condition of Duluth real estate, and while it is a good price for the seller, it is also a good price for the buyer, who is getting probably the very best available piece of property on the market. It is certain of a great future as a retail location.

As the subjoined list of real estate transfers of the week indicates, the week has been a good one, but aside from the one just mentioned there have been none of especial moment, though several large deals are pending and will be announced soon.

The contract for the Henry Cabot building, to be erected on Michigan street near Second avenue west, has been awarded to Campbell & Smith. Palmer, Hall & Hunt are the architects.

NEWS OF THE LAKES

Steamer Nyack Went Ashore at Milwaukee In a Fog.

Rests on a Rocky Bottom In No Particular Danger.

All Passengers Taken Off and Carried to Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, May 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The steamer Nyack of the Crosby line, which left Grand Haven for Milwaukee last night, went ashore on North oPint, this city during a fog today. The Nyack carries passengers and freight. A number of tugs have gone to her assistance. The steamer is on a rocky bottom, resting easy and is not thought to be in great danger.

All the passengers, about a dozen, were taken aboard a tug and conveyed to this city. The steamer carries but little freight. The fuel is being jettisoned. When this is completed four tugs will endeavor to haul her off. The steamer is not leaking. She is out two feet aft and eighteen inches amidships.

COAL CARRIERS SCARCE.

The Australian parliament has a member who is a waiter. Carl Mittermayer was elected to the reichstag four years ago, at a time when he was serving as a waiter in a small suburban restaurant. And there is a butcher in the British house of commons. At least two members of parliament are grocers, and there are a dozen who were once laborers. The parliament has as its speaker a man who was once a coal miner in Northumberland.

Tuesday, May 21 Is the Last Day

You will have an opportunity to buy stock in the St. Croix Consolidated Copper Mines at 20c per share

as the stock will be withdrawn from the market on that date.

The reason for this action is the increased values of this company's properties in the estimation of the people on the ground. We would withdraw it sooner except that we had agreed to give due notice to early investors and afford them another opportunity to buy additional shares at 20c before taking this final action. We are giving this notice accordingly.

WANT THE AMERICANS

Thousands of Chinese Petitioned to Have United States Troops Remain In Pekin on Account of Good Work Performed.

Washington, May 20.—The war department has received from China a petition presented to Gen. Chaffee by a mass meeting of several thousand Chinamen, who assembled in front of the office of the provost marshal at Pekin, March 28 last, and signed by 5600 Chinese residents of that city, praying the retention of the American troops. The petition told of the good work performed by the American soldiers and of the thousands of homeless people who had been fed by the American charity.

Capt. John C. F. Tillson, Fourteenth infantry, the provost marshal, in replying to the petition, said:

"It is needless to tell you that the United States does not maintain an army for the purpose of furnishing the city of Pekin with good municipal government, and as a business proposition, your appeal for the United States forces to remain longer in Pekin has little to stand upon.

"That you will need our protection there is little doubt, and as the broader principles of humanity most frequently sway the people of my country, your petition is not hopeless, and I shall be glad to refer it to our government.

"Whatever the result of your petition, whether we stay or go, it may be gratifying to you to know that the soldiers of the United States who, by force of circumstances, came to China as your enemies, are now your friends, and we hope that this friendship may endure."

THREE DEAD.

Were Victims of Explosion at Steel Company's Ohio Plant.

Youngstown, Ohio, May 20.—Three more victims of the accident at 6 o'clock yesterday evening, at the Ohio plant of the National Steel company, died from injuries during the night. They are:

THOMAS MAXWELL,
JOHN SOULTERCZ,
PAUL WASHAW.

Three other employes who were injured will recover.

The exact cause of the explosion has not yet been determined, the supposition being that either the bottom of the converter dropped out or water got into the wind box.

POSTPONED ONE YEAR.

Annual Meeting of the Irrigation Congress.

Colorado Springs, Col., May 20.—After a conference by correspondence between the officers and executive committee of the irrigation congress, it has been decided to postpone the annual meeting which was to have been held in Colorado Springs in July, for one year. The members of the congress will be notified this week of the decision of the officers, and the arrangements committee organized in this city will be disbanded. Inability to secure the attendance of speakers desired, on account of other engagements, was the principal reason of the postponement.

DEDICATED

Formal Opening of the Buffalo Exposition.

Many Distinguished Persons Were Present.

Buffalo, May 20.—Lowering clouds that threatened rain and a wind that blew in fitful gusts marked the opening hours of dedication day at the Pan-American exposition. There was a partial clearing of the sky at 9:30, which gave half-hearted promise of further improvement during the day. The holiday crowds were astir early and the earlier trains brought thousands of recruits to their ranks. The exposition grounds and the business districts of the city, where the military and civic parade formed, were the centers that attracted the largest numbers, while the streets and avenues connecting the two surged with animated crowds. The street scenes were picturesque. The temple of music, where the formal exercises of the day were held, was the center of activity, although every part of the rainbow city had its admiring crowds.

The military parade formed at the city hall and the streets radiating from it, and the foreign and state commissioners and distinguished visitors were received at the main entrance to the municipal building. They were welcomed by representatives of the exposition commission, and later escorted to their carriages. The scene about the city hall was a brilliant one. The foreign representatives came in evening attire, and there were a dozen military and naval officers in the group. Senators Lodge and Hanna were early arrivals at the city hall, while Vice President Roosevelt did not arrive until late. The crowd gave them all liberal applause, and the vice president bowed repeatedly in acknowledgment.

The parade moved off at 10:10, a squad of mounted police clearing the way. State troops led, followed by United States artillerymen. The Mexican contingent followed, and after them were more militiamen. Vice President Roosevelt viewed the column from a carriage at the entrance to the city hall driveway, and raised his hat as swords went to a salute, arms to a port, or a flag fluttered.

When the last of the military had passed, Vice President Roosevelt was escorted to a carriage and seated with President Milburn. Senator Lodge rode with Chairman Scathard. As soon as they were seated the line of carriages moved off. Vice President Roosevelt was cheered along the line and repeatedly bowed his acknowledgments.

About noon the multitude began to enter on the esplanade about the temple of music, where the exercises were held. The first of the ceremonies on the grounds was the flight of 10,000 homing pigeons. The pigeons, suddenly released from their captivity, rose in a great mass, circling round and round through the towers of the buildings, rising higher and higher until gradually, as they got their bearings, they darted away, first in pairs, then by the score, until all had disappeared to the four parts of the compass, bearing their messages announcing the dedication of the exposition.

The troops were massed on and around the Bridge of Triumph, and at 12:15 o'clock the officials and special guests, headed by Vice President Roosevelt and President Milburn of the exposition, marched through open ranks and on through the roped enclosure to the Temple of Music. The parade reformed and marched on through the grounds. After the entry of the officials and guests, the Temple of Music was thrown open to those holding invitations and rapidly filled.

At 12:30 o'clock the galleries of the temple were opened to the public, and as soon as they filled the portals were closed by the police. Twenty minutes later President Milburn led the speakers and special guests to the platform.

TO BE TAKEN TO CANTON

Mrs. McKinley Will Be Removed to Her Old Home as Soon as She Can Gather Sufficient Strength.

San Francisco, May 20.—At 9:20 a. m. Secretary Cortelyou gave out the following:

"Mrs. McKinley's physician reported that she had the best night since her illness, and that her progress is very satisfactory."

San Francisco, May 20.—At an early hour this morning, no change has been reported in the condition of Mrs. McKinley, although her condition has greatly improved. The physicians have named a week or ten days as the shortest possible time in which she can gather strength to make the trip across the continent. The immediate members of the presidential party will therefore remain here for that length of time, though it is probable that the others will leave for the East during the present week.

The president and Mrs. McKinley will go direct from San Francisco to Canton. At Mrs. McKinley's old home, surrounded by familiar faces and with every comfort, it is expected that her recuperation will be more rapid than if she went to Washington. President McKinley spends much of each summer at Canton and the arrival there will be not far from the date of his regular annual visit. He will probably proceed immediately to Washington, after leaving Mrs. McKinley, returning as soon as the more pressing business has been disposed of. Miss Mary Barber, Mr. McKinley's niece, will return to Canton with Mrs. McKinley. Mr. and Mrs. McKinley will occupy a different car from that which brought them to the coast. The new car, however, is one of the same kind and fully as luxurious. The train will be about as large as the one that came West, having accommodations for the president and cabinet and ladies, Secretary and Mrs. Cortelyou, Dr. and Mrs. Rixey, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Assistant Secretary Barnes and the White house staff and eleven members of the press and photographers.

The Ogden route will be taken. Governor Gage has been informed by the president that no stops of any length would be made at Sacramento or elsewhere en route. The president will not leave the train, though he may speak briefly from the rear platform at one or two important cities.

The president expressed the hope yesterday that nothing will prevent him from reviewing the school children of San Francisco today. Secretary and Mrs. Hay expect to leave immediately for Washington, where important matters of state await the attention of Mr. Hay.

Postmaster General Smith and Secretary Hitchcock and Secretary Wilson will remain with the president, even though thed ay of departure is delayed.

Secretary Long, who left yesterday for Colorado Springs, will proceed to Washington as soon as possible.

The night at the Scott mansion was quiet. The president retired at 11 o'clock and slept all night without being disturbed. At 9 o'clock, Drs. Gibbons, Brodfield and Cushing called and remained about an hour in consultation with Dr. Rixey. They left the house apparently well satisfied with Mrs. McKinley's condition.

President McKinley had some early callers. A deputation of clergymen comprising Rev. Drs. Pond, Gardner, Bennett and Hammond—the latter superintendent of the Methodist Chinese mission—in company with four Chinese ministers, called. The Chinese presented to Mr. McKinley a beautiful banner, together with a memorial thanking him for his efforts in aiding the Chinese during the recent trouble in China. The banner bore this inscription in Chinese:

"Presented to William McKinley, august president of Great America by the Chinese members of the Church of Jesus Christ in San Francisco as a token of their honor and praise."

The president accepted the banner and thanked the delegation which then retired.

Secretary Cortelyou stated that the president had made no arrangements for today, but should decide later as to his program. It is probable he will review the returning soldiers from the Philippines, either today or tomorrow.

THE AMERICANS OBJECT

Do Not Want the Oxford-Cambridge Team of Athletes to Meet Canadians Before Harvard and Yale.

London, May 20.—According to private cable dispatches from New York, the proposal of the English universities to hold an athletic meeting at Montreal before they meet the Americans in New York is opposed by Harvard and Yale, whose athletes want their meeting with the Oxford-Cambridge team to occur first. In reference to this a prominent Oxford official said:

"Oxford and Cambridge are not in the least likely to give way on this point. Quite apart from the probability that Toronto and McGill may prove a weaker combination than Harvard and Yale, and therefore that Oxford and Cambridge would naturally prefer, in their semi-trained stage, to compete with the less formidable rivals for a later date. The Oxford and Cambridge men would be perfectly justified in protecting their own interests before anything else. We are receiving a continuous stream of advice not to court certain defeat by doing the bulk of our preparation in the vicinity of New York during the intense heat of August and most of September. Therefore, we are seeking more invigorating quarters in Canada and will complete our training there and will visit New York at the last moment possible before the day of the sports, which may now be deferred to Sept. 28, if the Canadian sports are fixed for Sept. 14, as proposed."

NOW HARD AT WORK

Presbyterian General Sessions Gets Down to Actual Business.

Suggestions of Changes In the Book of Discipline.

Some Change Made In the Regular Order of Business.

Philadelphia, May 20.—With today's sessions the actual work of the Presbyterian general sessions began. The report of the revision committee having been made the special order for Thursday and thereafter until the question of revising the confession of faith is finally settled, a change was made in the regular order, so that reports of committees and boards might be submitted and acted upon before the assembly proceeded to the discussion of revisions. Today the reports of ministerial relief and education and of the special committee on judicial commissions will be made. The latter report is considered second in importance only to that of the committee on revision.

The report of the committee on judicial commissions suggests these changes in the book of discipline:

Any presbytery or synod may at any time elect a judicial commission of not less than five ministers and ruling elders for a presbytery, and not less than nine ministers and ruling elders for a synod, and may transmit to such commission any particular judicial case for hearing and determination. The court of last resort for the hearing and determination of judicial cases shall be styled "the permanent judicial commission of the general assembly," and shall be composed of eight ministers and seven ruling elders, who shall be elected by the general assembly. At the first election fifteen persons shall be elected, five to serve for one year, five for two years and five for three years, and thereafter five persons shall be elected annually to serve for three years. The said permanent judicial commission shall have power to require the attendance of parties and witnesses and shall also have all the powers prescribed by, and conduct all its proceedings according to the rules applicable to the trial of a judicial class before the general assembly. All appeals and references in judicial cases taken to the general assembly may, if found to be in order by the assembly, be submitted to said judicial commission, which shall then hear and give final judgments.

Immediately after the opening of the morning session the standing committee on leave of absence announced the election of Rev. J. R. Mackay, of Glenns Falls, N. Y., as chairman.

The report of the standing committee on missions for freedmen was read by Rev. Dr. Henry W. Hulbert of Cleveland, chairman. The committee recommended the endowment of Biddle university, Charlotte, N. C., $25,000 being the amount needed, and that the raising of the money be part of the twentieth century fund movement. It was recommended, also, that the first Sunday of December be set apart for contributions by Sunday schools to the board of missions for freedmen. The report was discussed by Rev. Dr. E. F. Cowan, of Pittsburg, secretary of the board; Rev. Dr. David Sanders, secretary of Biddle university; Rev. Charles H. Trusly, Chattanooga, and Rev. Dr. John A. Savage, principal of Albion academy, Franklinton, N. C. The report was adopted.

The report of the special committee on Sabbath observance was read by Rev. Dr. O. W. Hathaway, of New York, secretary American Sabbath union. It was adopted. The report included resolutions protesting against "seven-day journalism," or Sunday newspapers; commending congress for conditioning the appropriation of $5,000,000 to the Louisiana purchase exposition, to be held in St. Louis, and protesting the use of the Lord's day for business purposes and commercial interests.

The report of the board of ministerial relief was submitted to the convention, and the report of the standing committee on relief was read by Rev. Dr. Henry E. Mott, of Elizabeth, N. J., chairman of the committee.

Later on in the morning session all of the reports were submitted to the assembly. The committee recommended that $125,000 be raised during the coming year for ministerial pensions. The report was adopted.

The reports of the various boards of the church were laid before the assembly in a bound volume of 500 pages. As it was impossible to consider them all in one day, they were made special orders for sessions to follow. Tomorrow the reports of the boards on aid for colleges and church erection will be discussed, and the other work taken up later. At 12:30 o'clock the session recessed until 2:30 p. m.

WANTS TO RETIRE.

Sir Ellis Bartlett Is Disgusted With Parliament.

New York, May 20.—A well-known figure is about to disappear from the house of commons, says the London correspondent of the Tribune. Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett has expressed his intention to apply for the Chiltern Hundreds and it is said he intends to quit the country. It is an open secret that he considers he has not been well treated by his party. Sir Ellis has never been quite in touch with the house of commons. He would have been more in place as minister of the sultan.

SWITCHMEN'S UNION.

Milwaukee, May 20.—The Switchmen's Union of North America opened its convention today at the Masonic temple. About 250 delegates are present. Routine business occupied the first day's session. The convention will devote most of its time to revising the constitution and to other general business.

STRIKE IS ON

Thousands of Machinists Leave Their Work.

Demand Nine-Hour Day and Increased Wages.

Washington, May 20.—A general strike of the employes in the machinery and allied departments began today to enforce a nine-hour day with an increase of wages to meet the reduction in the hours of labor. Reports were received by President O'Connell of the National Association of Machinists, and other officials, who are in this city, early in the forenoon, indicating that a large number of establishments, heretofore holding out against the demands of the men were making the necessary concessions. Mr. O'Connell said it was too early to make any estimate of the number of men out. His original figure was 150,000 men directly affected and several hundred thousand indirectly. This figure has been largely reduced by the number of agreements reached in the last two or three days. Mr. O'Connell, while refusing to make any estimates or draw any conclusions until later in the day, said the reports so far received were of a very encouraging nature.

In New England the first reports show that many men are out, but the number in the aggregate cannot be estimated as yet. The states mostly affected in New England are Connecticut and Vermont. From the former state telegraphic reports to the headquarters here show all the machinists in the towns of Ansonia and Derby are out. The men in the principal towns in Vermont also have struck. These include St. Johnsbury, Rutland and St. Albans. Massachusetts and New York were late in making reports. From Cincinnati the indications are that all the men are out. This is one of the points where the most difficulty in settlement has been apprehended. In Cleveland the situation has improved. While the number of men out is not stated, the report from there today announces that the Automatic Refrigerator company, the Grant Tool company, the Danielson Tool company and Bollinger & Reilly have signed with the men and work in those establisiments continues. In Wilmington, Del., several of the concerns are reported as having agreed to the terms this morning. The report from Denver shows that no trouble is expected there. About three-quarters of the concerns employing machinists in that city have signed and negotiations are in progress for a settlement with others which look hopeful. The advices from Chicago indicate that arrangements have been made with a great majority of the firms under which the agreement is signed and will be enforced.

Pittsburg, May 20.—About 100 machinists at the McKees Rocks' plant of the Pressed Steel Car company struck this morning for a nine-hour day. It had been arranged that all the organized labor at the works also should come out in a sympathetic strike, but this did not take place. However, the strike leaders claim a general strike will follow. The places of the other strikers have been filled by laborers employed about the mill.

Less than 100 machinists are idle today at the other plants in the city. All but four firms have signed the scale.

Milwaukee, May 20.—About 1600 machinists responded to the order of President James O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists and went out on strike in the various plants employing machinists. The men were joined by several hundred helpers. The men went to the various places of employment as usual, but failing to see a notice complying with the machinists' demands for a nine-hour day and a 12½ per cent increase in wages, turned around and went quietly away. In several instances, particularly at the shops which are members of the National Metal Trades' association, representatives of these plants spoke a few words to the workmen, saying that the action of the machinists at this time annuled the agreement, and that if the men returned to work hereafter it would have to be on the conditions which prevailed prior to the establishment of the New York agreement.

The number of plants affected is twenty-five out of a total of twenty-eight in the city. The shops employing the greatest number of men are as follows:

E. P. Ellis Co., 600; Filer & Stowell Co., 125; Nordberg Co., 175; Bucyrus Steam Shovel company, South Milwaukee, 100; Vilter Manufacturing company, 60; Christiansen Engineering company, 40; Pawling & Harnischfeger company Kemp Smith Machine company, Browning company, 30 each; Kearney & Trecker, Prinz & Rau, Prescott Pump company, American Stamping and Enamelling company, 20 each; Weiler & Barth, Cutler & Hammer, 25 each, and a few other smaller concerns from 5 to 15 each.

Geuder & Paeschke, Barnes & Phillips Automobile company, Gallend & Henning and the Exan company, employing in the aggregate about 100 men, have signed the agreement, and work continues at these plants without interruption.

After leaving the shops the men either proceeded to their homes or visited one of the three headquarters which have been established in different parts of the city where reports will be received on the strike conditions from time to time. The present strike is the largest one of the kind in the history of the city.

Cincinnati, May 20.—Although the strike of the machinists was not set for this city until 10 a. m., many of the men refused to begin work at their regular hour, 7:30.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived this morning. Vice President Thomas Kidd and Treasurer John B. Lennon, both members of the executive board of the American federation, joined him and they immediately went into conference with the local leaders of the International associations of Machinists. Meanwhile, without waiting for the official order operative at 10 a. m., processions formed as early as 7:30 o'clock, marched to the larger manufacturing concerns and called the men out. The response was quite general, even among employes not members of the Machinists' union, who had given no intimation that they were in sympathy with the strike. At several of the large plants, however, the men are at work—even where no increase of wages has been granted.

Cleveland, May 20.—About 120 machinists employed in this city struck today. They are orderly and quiet. Probably 14,-600 members of the union continued at work, their employers having granted the demands.

Detroit, May 20.—Up to 10 a. m. today seventeen local machine shops, employing a total of 150 men, had granted the demands of the International Association of Machinists, and their employes were at work. Five hundred and fifty machinists employed in other shops are out on strike.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 20.—Electric linemen of St. Joseph, who are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical workers struck today for an increase from $2.25 to $2.50 per day and a reduction of hours from ten to nine.

New York, May 20.—At the local headquarters of the central executive board of machinists it was said today that not more than 3000 out of 12,000 machinists in the New York district were on strike. Many of the employers in New York agreed to the workmen's request for a nine hour day. In Jersey City the only men on strike were about forty men employed in the mail repair shops of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

York, Pa., May 20.—Only two shops in this city were affected by the machinists' strike today. Two hundred men in the employ of the York Manufacturing company and S. Morgan Smith quit work.

Mattoon, Ill., May 20.—About 100 machinists struck here today.

SPANISH ELECTIONS.

The Complexion of the New Chamber of Deputies.

Madrid, May 20.—Latest reports of the result of the elections to the new chamber of deputies, held yesterday, show that the capital returned six ministerialists, one conservative and one member of the National Union party. According to El Correo, the following are the general results of the election:

Liberals, 260; Conservatives, 30; Dissident Conservatives, 30; Dissident Liberals, 18; supporters of Romero, 10; Republicans, 16; Carlists, 6; National Unionists, 10; Catalanists, 4; Socialist, 1 and independent, 21.

ROYAL VISITING.

King Edward to Visit Hamburg In August.

New York, May 20.—It is considered certain, says the Tribune's London correspondent that King Edward will visit Hamburg in August. He will make a stay there of three weeks and during his visit the German emperor will stop for a few days at Hamburg schloss. It is probable that the emperor and empress of Russia may be at the time at Darmstadt, so a meeting between the sovereigns of England, Germany and Russia is regarded confidently as by no means unlikely.

The German emperor is said to be contemplating a visit to Cowes late in the year.

HOLDING HS OWN.

Denver, May 20.—Judge John Gibbons of Chicago, who is at St. Joseph hospital suffering from pneumonia and apoplexy, was reported as holding his own this morning. There has been no perceptible change in his condition since yesterday.

TROOPS ATTACKED.

Two Americans Killed By the Rebels.

Manilla, May 20.—It is unofficially reported that a body of rebels under Angeles attacked a detachment of American troops, supposed to be of the Twenty-seventh regiment, near Pasaco, in South Camerines province, killing two soldiers and one native scout and taking one soldier prisoner.

The insurgents are still in possession of the mining town of Paracole, North Camarines. The nearest troops are at Indian, thirty miles away.

BOERS SCORE ONE.

London, May 20.—Lord Kitchener reports to the war office under date of Pretoria, May 18, as follows: "An armored train has been dynamited south of American Siding. Maj. Heath, of the South Lancashires, was killed."

KILLED HIS CHILDREN.

London, May 20.—Sergt. Maj. Butler, who has returned from South Africa, last night shot five of his children, killing four of them. His wife and baby escaped.

COURTENAY BOYLE DEAD.

London, May 20.—Sir Courtenay Boyle, K. C. B., permanent secretary to the board of trade since 1893, died suddenly yesterday morning.

KILLED HIS WIFE.

Osceola, Iowa, May 20.—Elmer Lane today cut the throat of his wife, who had sued for divorce. He then attempted to commit suicide. Mrs. Lane is in a critical condition, while Lane may recover.

PENSION IS INCREASED.

WAS ANXIOUS.

Henry Truelsen, Jr., Asked to Be Fined.

Henry Truelsen, Jr., stepped blithely into police court this morning and asked, as a personal favor, that some person prefer a charge of assault and battery against him. No person present seemed willing to comply, so he explained that he had thrashed Wilson Palmer on Saturday night, and understanding that he was to be arrested, would be willing to plead guilty to a charge of assault and had plenty of money with which to pay his fine. Briefly he desired the incident closed as quickly and as quietly as possible. He was fined $5 and costs, which made $7 in all.

Since retiring from the office of mayor's secretary and secretary of the board of fire commissioners, Henry Truelsen, Jr., has been a fireman at the Lakewood pumping station. Wilson Palmer is chief engineer. Mr. Palmer preferred charges of insubordination against Truelsen and the board of water and light commissioners met in special session on Saturday evening to consider these charges.

After the investigation began Mr. Truelsen handed his resignation to Manager Case and went out in the front of the office with several other witnesses. Mr. Palmer gave his testimony and on joining the party out in the front office again Mr. Truelsen said to the engineer: "What lies did you tell this time?"

He followed this inquiry with a swift left jolt, and then dangled his right in Mr. Palmer's optic. When friends picked Mr. Palmer up he wasn't fit for publication and Truelsen was trekking down Third avenue west.

In the excitement the board of water and light commissioners adjourned without completing the investigation or accepting Mr. Truelsen's resignation.

Selects Delegates.

Mayor Hugo this morning announced the selection of six well-known men to represent Duluth at the International Mining congress to be held in Boise City, July 23 and 25.

He has chosen Clinton Markell, R. C. Mitchell, Edward Silberstein, O. L. Young, W. F. Hurlbut and C. R. McEachron.

Messrs. Markell, Silberstein, Hurlburt and McEachron are former Duluthians now in the West. Mr. Mitchell is the publisher of the Tribunal and Mr. Young is a well-known attorney.

An Exciting Runaway.

An exciting runaway on Superior street at noon today attracted much attention. A team of young horses recently purchased by the Knudson-Ferguson Fruit Co., had been doing their best to run all morning and finally succeeded. The driver stuck to them, and finally turned them up the hill at Fifth avenue west. Many people who had seen the start, crowded the center of Superior street expecting to see a disastrous finish.

BASEBALL.

Fashions Win From the Big Duluths, 6 to 3.

The Big Duluths and the Duluth Fashions met for the first time this year at the Driving park yesterday afternoon, and the latter succeeded in wrestling the victory after they had been goose-egged four times. Staub pitched for the Fashions and did excellently, giving only five hits, no bases on balls, and striking out six men. At the first of the game his support was poor, but he held the team up for a few innings after which they began playing better ball and won. Lambert played centerfield for the Fashions and scored three hits a very opportune moments, bringing in the first two scores for the Fashions. For the Big Duluths, Lovell pitched the first eight innings and succeed in striking out nine men, but gave five bases on balls and Bennett one base by hitting him. Glenny was put in in the last inning and struck out one man and gave one base on balls. Hansell umpired. The game was a very fast one and interesting. The score was: Fashions, 6; Big Duluths, 3.

ATHLETES COMPETE

High School Field Day Contest on Saturday.

Make-Up of the Track Team Is Now Settled.

Seniors Win Out on Points---Some Records Broken.

In the teeth of a heavy nor'easter and under a broiling sun, mid dust and dirt, the High School Athletic association held its annual field day Saturday afternoon before a small crowd. It was the most interesting event of the kind that has been given for a good many years, and when the sum total was counted it was found that the 120 and 220-yard hurdles, the 2-mile bicycle, the high jump records had been broken and a great many closely made. The seniors finally won by a total of 78 points to the sophomores' 67, the freshmen's 6 and the juniors' 5. On the whole, the work of the men was good, but in some instances rather loose. The events began at 3 o'clock and lasted almost four hours, but the crowd stayed and enjoyed it all, although every eye was a miniature mud-puddle from the dust and wind.

The 100-yard dash was the first event on the program and was won handily by Joseph Pierce, with Albert Olson second and Fred Mallet third. Olson got the start in this, but was not warmed up enough to keep the pace.

In the quarter-mile bike ride, McDougall got the lead at the start and held it t othe last, although Potter closed up on him at the end. The mile run came out as every one expected. Haroldson, the state champion, won easily in 5 minutes 22¾ seconds, and did not have to even work to make it. He won the state record at Minneapolis two years ago when he made the mile in 4:57¼. In the 120-yard hurdles the record previously held in the high school by Morrison of 18 1-5 was broken by 1-5 of a second. The finish was one of the prettiest ever seen on the track here. Both the Mallets got away evenly and came down the course neck and neck until they reached the last hurdle, when Arthur forged ahead and won in 18 seconds flat.

In the 2-mile bicycle race Miller McDougall lowered the high school record by 10 1-5 seconds, riding the distance in 5 minutes 19¼ seconds.

The 200-yard dash was won in a very tight finish by Pierce in 24 3-5 seconds. The quarter-mile run was a rather slow affair, and the men did not come in closely together.

The high jump was won by Arthur Mallet at 5 feet 3 inches, thus breaking the high school record by 1 inch. The 120-yard dash has never been run here before, so that Pierce established the record of 13 seconds, which was much better time than was shown in the 100-yard event. The 220-yard hurdle was the prettiest race of the day. Fred Mallet got the lead and kept it until the last hurdle, when he fell, allowing Arthur Mallet to make first and Albert Olson second, but came third himself, Scobie coming in fourth. The time was 28 4-5, thus breaking the former record of 30 2-5 seconds.

The one-mile relay race was the most interesting event of the day, as all of the classes took part, the seniors winning handily. Ellis took the banner for the first quarter, but fell as he was passing it to Haroldson. This gentleman called into power some of the stuff that made him the long-distance champion of the state, and passed the others, getting the rag to Rakowsky cleanly. Rakowsky increased the distance for the seniors and Pierce did likewise, thus making the silver cup presented by the baseball team the property of the graduating class.

Ash, the man who took the banner for the sophomores on the first quarter, did not expect to go in the race at all, and had spent the greater part of the afternoon diligently putting down a large quantity of peanuts, but when he struck the track he took the lead at once and kept on increasing it until he was about 15 yards in advance of the other men, when he passed the cloth to Bradley, who finished the second quarter close behind Haroldson. Harrison took it the third quarter and Art Mallet finished the last quarter second place. The juniors made third.

On account of the heavy winds the hammer throw did not turn out as much of a success as was expected, but Granzow won easily with 90 feet 4 inches. He has in training thrown the hammer a distance of 101 feet, and with the training that he will get this week, will undoubtedly be able to make even more than that at Minneapolis. The record for this stands in the Zenith City at 95 feet, made in Minneapolis by Lafans, but the real record was made in Minneapolis by A. T. Park, the present county superintendent of schools, who threw it 112 feet while attending the high school.

Rakowsky won the shot put without training, with Haroldson second. The pole vault was fought by Bruce Ellis and Fred Mallet to the last, and was finally won by the former.

The list of events follows, with the credits each class receives from each event and the former record:

A. C. Volk & Co.'s Office the Scene of Much Activity.

A. C. Volk reports a land office business today in St. Croix Consolidated Copper mines stock. This stock will be withdrawn from the market tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock, so tomorrow is the last opportunity to buy shares at 20 cents. Those who delayed picking up this choice investment before are now coming in with a rush, and Mr. Volk and his assistants are consequently very busy and likewise happy.

Two Electrical Companies Unite Under New Names.

Announcement is made of the consolidation of the Richardson Electric company. The name of the new company is the Northern Electric company. Both companies have been doing a rushing business in electrical construction and supplies, and business had increased with both to such an extent that greater expense in the way of increased office force was necessary. The consolidation will render such an increase unnecessary, and places the companies on such a basis that more work can be attended to at smaller expense.

The Northern Electric company will have offices and show room at 20 Third avenue west.

CENT A MEAL.

Economy In Food.

"Ease in getting a meal and economy are two important things," a lady teacher says about the fully cooked food Grape-Nuts. "I started in on Grape-Nuts because it needed no preparation whatever, and I wanted a little lunch before going to bed, so I had cream and sugar ready and a package of Grape-Nuts. Pouring a little of the food into a saucer I treated it with good rich cream and a little sugar at times, usually it was sweet enough.

I had a meal that satisfied hunger and I began to sleep well nights. After a while I concluded to make my breakfast of Grape-Nuts and a little fruit rather than go to the boarding house. I found that I began to improve very rapidly in health, and my work became a pleasure.

"I have made a most important discovery, that is that I can have a meal served at a cost of about one cent that is the most nourishing meal that I have ever been able to find, delicious in taste and a real genuine 'food cure' for stomach and bowel troubles.

"I have many friends using Grape-Nuts Food regularly." This lady lives at Grosbeck, Ohio. Name given upon application by the Postum Cereal company, limited, at Battle Creek, Mich.

NO OPINION YET.

Washington, May 20.—The United States supreme court today adjourned until next Monday without announcing an opinion in the insular cases. The court will adjourn next Monday until next October.

RETURN CARGOES PROVIDED.

Arrangements have been completed for handling and berthing the Chicago trans-Atlantic steamers at London, Liverpool, Hamburg, Manchester and Antwerp. The first of these steamers will discharge in Liverpool dock. She will carry westward a heavy cargo, already booked from England, Scotland, Ireland and France, at through rates from the starting points to Chicago and in many instances to destinations farther West.

Special facilities have been provided for berthing Chicago's second steamer at Hamburg and Antwerp. Her return cargo, consisting of 2000 tons for Montreal and 1200 tons for Chicago, now definitely booked, comprises raw and granulated sugar, mineral waters, seeds, window glass, glass bottles, glycerine, toys, musical instruments and a large variety of chemicals.

Chicago's third steamer will have a kindly reception at London, where exceptional berthing facilities await her. For the return voyage the London steamer has been booked for Baltic and North sea points, as well as from manufacturing cities near London. She will also carry a large quantity of liquors, wines and spirits, engaged at through rates from Spain and France to Chicago via London.

Chicago's fourth or Manchester steamer is expected to reach England's chief inland city early in August. She will carry westward a large and varied cargo.

WILL NOT GRANT IT

Court Declines Writ of Mandamus to R. S. Lerch.

Says His Recourse Lies In an Action For Damages.

Council Acted Clearly Within Its Police Power.

While admitting that it is hard lines for R. S. Lerch, the district court has refused to grant him a writ of mandamus compelling the building inspector to permit him to remove his livery stable across the street.

Judge Cant filed his order quashing the temporary writ of mandamus this noon, and he accompanied it with a memorandum explaining his decision. It will be remembered that the city council first passed a resolution granting Mr. Lerch permission to remove his livery stable from the present location, owing to the fact that the site is needed for building purposes, to a point across the street, on the lower side of First street. On second thought the council took it back, and pased another resolution rescinding the first one, leaving Mr. Lerch in the air. He had then made a lease of the site he proposed to move to, and the owners of his present site were pressing him to go away.

Judge Cant's memorandum indicates his opinion that the action of the council is clearly within its police power. It is also intimates that his only hope is in an action for damages. The memorandum is as follows:

"The case has been determined in reliance upon the principle which goes to the merits: That in the exercise of the police power the common council, if it had improvidently given permission for the removal of a building, may at any time before the building is actually removed revoke the license so granted. Both resolutions were adopted in the exercise of the police power; the second corrective of the first. The adoption of the second is evidence that, in the opinion of the council, the first was improvidently granted. Its judgment upon such matters so long as it acts in good faith is conclusive. No claim is made that it acted otherwise here. It may be that if the relator has incurred liabilities in reliance upon the earlier resolution, he has rights which cannot be ignored, but they would be limited to the recovery of damages, and it would be much better that the city in such a case should be made to respond even generously in damages than that its hands should be tied against the undoing of that which might be a continuing menace and which might work incalculable loss. It does not appear from the papers before the court that such would be the case here, but it was assumed upon the argument that it was upon considerations such as these that the council was persuaded to adopt the second resolution.

"In the absence of an allegation that the council acted in bad faith, it will be presumed that its action was designed for the general good and safety of the community. It requires only the illustration of an extreme case where the advantage to the party desiring the removal might be slight, and where the peril to property and life if the removal were permitted would be imminent and great, to show that in such case, before removal actually took place, the council must be permitted to undo that which it has unwisely done. What is made apparent by such illustration is but the general rule applicable to all cases alike where the council, acting in good faith in the exercise of the police power, sees fit to invoke it.

"A most unfortunate condition of affairs, whereby great injustice may be done the relator, appears from the petition, but it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that his right, if any, is to the recovery of damages and not to the removal of the building."

A suit for damages against the city will follow the proceeding thus terminated. John Jenswold, Jr., is Mr. Lerch's attorney.

BACK FROM TEXAS.

H. B. Moore Returns From Oil Fields.

H. B. Moore is back from the Beaumont, Tex., oil fields, of which Duluth people have heard much recently. He has been down there for a few weeks and will return again after a short stay here, having acquired some interests. Mr. Moore says that the Texas oil fields are great and that there is much excitement down there, but he says that there are good things there and many that are not just as good as government bonds, and some are counterfeit. Charles A. Towne has gone down there and Mr. Moore said that he heard just before he left that Mr. Towne was interested with some good people down there.

OMAHA MAN IS NOT BURT BELLINGER

Deputy Sheriff Randall Wires From There to That Effect--Detective Troyer An Exceedingly Surprised Man.

Deputy Sheriff Randall wired from Omaha this afternoon that the man locked up there is not Burt Bellinger. His message created quite a sensation at police headquarters. It simply read:

"They have not got Bellinger here. Man looks something like him, but his name is Rue."

Detective Troyer was the most surprised man at headquarters when it was opened. He is positive that there is some mistake and that Bellinger is in custody there. On Friday night when Detective Troyer telephoned the Omaha authorities he asked to talk with the prisoner. The man came to the telephone and in the conversation that followed Detective Troyer says that he not only recognized Bellinger's voice and manner of speaking, but the prisoner practically admitted his identity and said that he would not come here without requisition papers.

The message from Omaha took the local authorities so completely by surprise that they had not decided on future action at a late hour.

TRACK TEAM.

Men That Will In All Probability Compare It.

Since the field day held last Saturday afternoon at the driving park, the track team management has been busy making up the slate of the men that will compose the team which is to enter the interscholastic meet at Minneapolis next Friday. On account of the bad weather that threatened last Saturday morning the finances of the team are not in the shape that they could wish, only about $25 having been made off the preliminary so that they cannot take all of the men that they would wish. Should this team be able to do so, Rakowsky, the man who took several seconds in the distance runs and who made first in the shot put without any training, will be put on, as his presence will strengthen the team a great deal. With the following men the team will be able to enter the quarter-mile run, high jump, one-mile bicycle ride, half mile run, 220-yard hurdle, hammer throw, broad jump, pole vault, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, quarter mile bicycle, mile run, 120-yard hurdle and the 2-mile bicycle. If Rakowsky is taken the team can enter the shot put also as he threw a 13-pound shot thirty-three feet with no training and the shot required is only a 12-pound article, making a difference in distance of about two feet.

The following men will in all probability be taken: Pierce, captain; McDougall, Haroldson, Fred Mallet, Arthur Mallet and Ernest Granzow. The authorities have a scheme to raise some more money for the team and it will doubtless be put into operation tomorrow morning.

Postponed One Week.

The case of the state of Wisconsin against Manager Warren and a crew of men employed by the street railway company, came up in municipal court in West Superior this morning. Attorney Dwyer of the company appeared for the men. A plea of not guilty was entered, and the case went over for a week. The charge against the men is an alleged violation of the state labor law, complaint having been made by R. C. Ogilvie, who was on his way to church yesterday morning and saw the men repairing the tracks.

THIRD OIL.

The Blue Grass Encounters Another Oil Sand.

The Blue Grass Oil company made another strike in their No. 1 well last evening. They struck oil at 808 feet and it continued until 821 feet. A wire from Manager Dunham at Flat Lick, Ky., this morning stated there was 500 feet of oil in the well, and that a good flow was encountered at 808 feet with 13 feet of good oil sand at the bottom. He also said in a letter which was written Thursday that there was so much oil in the well they could not keep it bailed out and drilling was slow and also that they could not drill at nights on account of the gas and oil.

A WARNING.

Iron Range Road Would Prevent Sale of Some Lands.

The Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company is trying to "knock" out part of the sale of state lands that State Auditor Dunn has advertised to take place at the court house Thursday morning. It has posted notices about the court house and elsewhere warning prospective purchasers at the sale against buying certain lands included in the list advertised for sale, claiming that the company owns the lands, and not the state.

It seems that the state auditor has included in the list of state lands that he will offer for sale Thursday some of the swamp land grant from the state to the Duluth & Iron Range. It will be remembered that the state tried to knock out the grant, and that the company won out in the hearing in United States court. Nevertheless Mr. Dunn has advertised some of these lands for sale, and as a protective measure the railroad has posted notices of warning, in which it is claimed that the company claims the lands by virtue of the decree in the United States district court.

The lands covered by the warning notice include only a small part of those advertised by the state for sale.

Burned the Camps.

Last week a big forest fire swept through the timber country along Sucker river, a few miles up from the lake. It swept through about four miles of timber for a considerable distance, burning the ground up very dry. It also burned the Peyton camps, about twelve miles above the mouth of the river. A number of fishermen who went up from Duluth Saturday night and expected to sleep in the camp over night and fish in the morning had to bunk around camp fires and wherever they could.

MERGER IN OIL.

Chicago, May 20.—The Post says: It developed today that the American Linseed Oil company is to be merged into the Union Lead and Oil company. An arrangement has been effected for an exchange of Linseed stock for shares in the Union Lead and Oil company. Each share of the preferred stock of the Linseed company is to receive $48 in the stock of the Union Lead and Oil company, and each share of Linseed common will receive $18. The capital stock of the Union Lead and Oil company, including that necessary to acquire all the capital stock of the American Linseed Oil company, on terms mentioned, is fixed at $17,000,000, and all this will be common stock. Stockholders of the American Linseed company will be asked to deposit their stock in trust with certain designated depositories on or before June 5.

MOVING UPWARD

Advance In Wages of Laboringmen Being Made.

Scarcity In the Supply of Men Available.

Railroads All Over This Section Calling For Men.

There is a very encouraging condition in the labor situation at the present time for the man that works. The demand exceeds the supply, and the employment agencies of the city say that there is no reason for a man to be out of work. The discrepancy between the demand and supply is beginning to have its effect on the wage question, and already wages are beginning to take an upward turn. Most of the work in sight is on railroads, surfacing and extra gangs, and today the Eastern Minnesota company announced an increase in wages for surfacing work from $1.50 to $1.75 a day. All of the railroads entering this city are doing more or less new constructing, for which they require large surfacing gangs, or repair work, for which they are calling for extra gangs. Several of the companies have announced an increase of wages on June 1 from $1.50 and $1.60 to $1.75.

The Halvorson & Richardson company, which has some of the largest railroad contracts in the Northwest this season, has raised wages on the surfacing work of the Brainerd & Northern extension from $1.75 to $2 a day. This is the highest paid in the Northwest for this class of work. Orders are coming in every day for men and the employment agents are hustling to fill them, but it is said to be impossible to fill them all. The Halvorson & Richardson company is not only requiring men for the railroad work north of Bemidji, but has the contract for twenty-three miles of new road from St. Croix Falls northward toward the head of the lake, to be built this year. The company has just secured another contract for sixty miles of new track for the Soo line in the Dakotas.

An immense number of men are being employed for the new work on the Canadian Northern road, the contract for which was awarded McKenzie & Mann last winter.

Among the railroad companies asking for men are the Iron Range, Omaha, Northern Pacific and Eastern Minnesota. The Great Northern company is hurrying the work on the Stony Brook cut-off, and a call for 150 men for surfacing work immediately came in today.

Railroad work opened a little later this season than last, but is now well under way and an army of men will be employed all summer in the different localities where the work is going on.

With the starting up of the sawmills in the district there has thus far been a good demand for mill men. Skilled labor is commanding the highest kind of wages, some of the manufacturers having men that are drawing $7 a day. On the docks the pilers are being paid $2 a day, both in thi scity and Superior. The manufacturers say that this figure is the highest paid at any of the mills in the Northwest this season. Last season the pilers were paid $2.25, and the strike at the local mills was a result of the cut.

On the average the wages being paid at the present time along all lines of work is about the same paid at the opening of last season, when the supply was a little bit better.

MINERS MISSING.

Hazelton, Pa., May 20.—A body of water and loose coal in an abandoned coal working, was accidentally tapped shortly before noon in the Silver Brook colliery, seven miles from here, and Samuel Klingerman and two others names Gallagher and O'Donnelll, are missing. Recuers are at work.

PETITION DENIED.

Washington, May 20.—The United States supreme court today denied the petition of ex-Congressman S. V. White in his case involving the validity of the tax upon stock exchange "calls" under the war revenue act.

Would Cut It Out.

The following petition, signed by a number of business men and residents of West Duluth, is to be presented to the council this evening:

"To the Honorable Common Council, Duluth, Minn.:

"We, the undersigned citizens of the central part of Duluth, do not want the saloon license at No. 22 Twentieth avenue west renewed at the time of its expiration, for the reason that it is within a half block of one of our churches; and further, because we desire that the saloon business in our locality be restricted entirely to Superior street, and that no licenses be granted on any of the avenues. We therefore petition your honorable body to refuse said license should application be made for a renewal."

AT WEST DULUTH

A gruesome find was made yesterday by some children playing near the Missabe tracks on the Thomson road. It was the body of a man hanging to a sapling by some suspenders. The man's age was evidently about 38 years and he was five feet nine inches in height. The find was reported to Lieut. Briggs. He notified Deputy Coroner Patton, who, with Detectives Troyer and Irvine, went out to the body.

The indications were that the body had been hanging to the tree for some time, and the features were so decomposed that identification was impossible. On the body was found a leather pouch containing snuff. The authorities believe the body has been hanging there since last winter, as the spot is a lonely one and rarely frequented. The identity of the man is not definitely known, though the police think it may be Robert Harley, a former employe of the Malleable Iron works, who disappeared last fall. The body was dressed in a black clay worsted suit of clothes, flannel underwear and a blue flannel shirt. Deputy Coroner Patton decided that it was a plain case of suicide and no inquest will be held, the burial taking place today.

The report of the find, greatly exaggerated, threw the people of West Duluth into a flutter of excitement yesterday afternoon and the people thronged to the undertaking rooms looking for the bodies of the four or five men that were reported to have been found, hung, nailed to trees, stabbed or shot, according to the story of the informant. It was not until last night that the real truth of the matter became known, and even then some were doubtful, claiming that the police were trying to hush it up.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

Andrew Nelson, of 826 Sixty-third avenue west, died May 18 of consumption. He was 45 years of age and has been a resident of the city for about five years. He leaves a family. The funeral took place this afternoon from W. C. Gray's undertaking rooms and burial was made at the Oneota cemetery.

All the mills at West Duluth are now operating, the St. Louis mill having started up the latter part of last week. This mill will begin to make night runs this evening. It is understood that the Mitchell & McClure mill will also begin this evening on night runs.

Alderman Robert Cochrane and Dr. H. W. Green have the champion fish story thus far this season. They were up the Cloquet river about twenty-five miles from the city, a few days ago, and brought back a report of a catch of seventy-six pounds of pike.

H. W. Lanners has commenced the construction of a new hennery. Mr. Lanners is numbered among the enthusiastic chicken fanciers and has a fine collection of blooded chickens.

A 12-pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Madson, of 610 Fifty-ninth avenue west.

D. W. Armstrong and family, of 534 Sixtieth avenue west, will leave this evening for Tacoma, Wash., where Mr. Armstrong will be employed in a machine shop.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Winship, of Owatonna, Minn., were guests over Sunday at the home of their cousin, Mrs. I. T. Burnside.

Misses Clara and Mildred Towner arrived Saturday from St. Paul, where the former has been visiting her brother.

Mrs. T. H. Cookes, of Worcester, England, is visiting her brother, Dr. H. W. Green. She will leave this evening for the southern part of the state to visit another brother.

Edward Robinson, T. J. Ultican and Iver Seastead spent Sunday in Cloquet.

Pioneer newstand is now located at 405 Central avenue, opposite Silvey block.

JUVENILES.

Will Take Large Part on Fourth of July.

A strong and attractive feature of the Fourth of July celebration may be a troop of juvenile roughriders. Duluth has a large number of boys that ride horseback; many of them ride exceptionally well, and Mayor Hugo, Capt. Boyd and others, in discussing the proposed celebration, hit upon the idea of forming a troop of these youthful riders to participate in the celebration. With this end in view the mayor has requested all boys with horses or that can possibly get hold of a horse, to meet Capt. Boyd in the council chamber of the city hall Wednesday afternoon right after school.

Capt. Boyd will have charge of the juvenile department of the parade. He has already a well-organized battalion of naval militia and several companies of infantry, and if this movement to organize a troop of cavalry goes through the juvenile department will be decidedly interesting.

Skin affections will readily disappear by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Look out for counterfeits. If you get DeWitt's you will get good results. It is the quick and positive cure for piles. Max Wirth.

THE DAKOTAS.

Intense Heat Caused the Dismissal of Grafton Schools.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Grafton—Grafton experienced the most intense heat Friday that has been known at this season of the year, the thermometer standing 90 degrees in the shade. Schools were dismissed during a part of the afternoon session.

Fargo—One night Oliver Martinson was engaged in a row on the streets and was run in by the police. At the door of the city jail he made a break for liberty and led the police a lively chase for four blocks before he was recaptured. He was held to the district court, where he was acquitted, and now declares he will bring an action against the policeman whom he charges with beating him brutally after the chase.

The members of Company B of the National Guard are elated over the decision of the Fargo fire festival committee to invite the Philippine veterans and the state militia here. There are many members in the company who served in the Philippines, and the organization will take double pleasure in welcoming their comrades in arms to the city. They will in a measure act as hosts to the visiting soldiers and serve as a reception committee.

Bismarck—A contract was awarded by Col. George E. Pond, chief quartermaster of the department, to Walter Graham, of Bismarck, for constructing a sewerage system at the new Fort Lincoln, near Bismarck. The cost of the system will be $16,250. Mr. Graham obtained also the contract for a water system at the same post at a cost of $10,300. The contract for a pumphouse and a pump pit, both to cost $6035, went to N. H. Lovin, of Bismarck.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Alexandria—John Thompson, an Indian, who has been working in the county for the past year, died in a well at the Rockport colony, southwest of Alexandria, Saturday morning. He and several Russians were blasting with dynamite in the well, and after they supposed it was perfectly safe, Thompson went down. He soon shouted for them to pull him up, but had not the strength to hold on to the rope. They went to the colony for a hook, a mile and a half distant, but by the time they got him out he was dead. His remains will be sent to the White Earth reservation, Minn., where his parents reside.

Alcester—The friends of ex-Mayor J. W. Tubbs, who on Jan. 7 commenced serving a twe years' sentence in the penitentiary at Sioux Falls for sending obscene letters through the mails, have for the present abandaned their attempt to secure a pardon for him from President McKinley. The petition was generally signed by prominent men of the town and county, who firmly believe in Tubbs' innocence gnd who did all in their power to prevent his conviction, advancing money for his defense and appeal. The effort for a pardon will be renewed in a few months with better prospects of success.

Chamberlain—The pontoon bridge is being placed in position in the Missouri river, and it is expected it will be ready for the traveling public by the middle of next week. This is the first time in many years that the attempt has been made to put in the bridge before the annual June rise, but the heavy traffic has induced the bridge company to take the hazard.

Maj. McLaughlin, chief Indian inspector, has just returned from Lower Brule agency, where he has for the past ten years or so been engaged in securing the signatures of Indians to a treaty relinquishing nearly three townships on the west end of their reservation to the general government. All except six of the adult male Indians signed the agreement which calls for $1.25 per acre, payable in cattle. The inspector has gone to Washington to report results and make arrangements for closing the deal.

Watertown—The jury in the case of the state vs. the Hoge Brothers, August, Otto and Robert, charged with assaulting a neighbor with a dangerous weapon, brought in a verdict of guilty and the court sentenced the first two to six months and the third to four months in the penitentiary.

In the case of the state against Harry Chapman, in which he was charged with criminal assault, the complaining witness being Ollie Bailey, the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. Judge Gaffy, of the Pierre district, who has been sitting for Judge Bennett, has returned home and Judge Bennett will complete the calendar.

Hot Springs—H. E. Seaman, a traveling salesman of Omaha, died here in a plunge bath. He was seemingly well when he went into the water, but in forty-five minutes became helpless, and nothing could be done to relieve him. Heart failure was the cause of his death. This is the second death at the plunge, both from the same cause.

Lead—It has been discovered that one of the old unused tunnels of the Homestake mine is on fire. The old workings have been abandoned for years, and how the fire caught is a mystery. There is said to be no danger of the fire spreading to other portions of the mine. It will be a difficult matter to put out the fire, for it is said to be under a good headway.

HIS FAITH IS LARGE

Albert Harrington Is a Staunch Believer In Duluth's Future.

Residence Property Is Now at Its Lowest Point.

Manufacturing and Grain Possibilities Better Than Ever.

Albert Harrington, the Minneapolis grain man, was in the city Saturday, and to a Herald reporter he gave, in response to a request, some interesting views on the future of Duluth and Duluth real estate. His faith in the future of this city is as strong as that of any Duluthian, and coming as it does from a resident in a rival city his statement is of much interest.

"There can be but one side to the question The Herald has been running in its real estate columns," he said, "as to whether or not Duluth real estate is a good investment. It is a splendid investment, and there are many reasons why this is true. So far have the boom values been squeezed out of Duluth real estate that there are many towns of 10,000 inhabitants where residence property is bringing as much as it is bringing in Duluth just now. Prices are at the bottom, and Duluth is just on the turn where the pendulum begins to swing upward. Prices will show a steady and healthy increase from now on.

"Residence property is at a particularly low ebb when its real value is considered. The limited amount of good residence property, when it is considered how good such property as that in the East End really is, will warrant very much higher prices than those that prevail now.

"Duluth, I believe, is through with her hardest struggle, and I shall be very much surprised if it does not steadily and surely grow from now on. Every town, up to a certain stage in its growth, must go through the same experience that a human being goes through. Figuratively speaking, it must have its measels and whooping-cough before it settles down to a steady and healthy growth. This city has had most of the ills that young cities are liable to have, and a healthy maturity may be looked for now.

"Local settlement makes more difference in a town's prosperity than most people would imagine. When a proposition is made to an outside capitalist to put money into investment in a city, he is apt to ask how much local capital can be secured. If there is local money to go into such a proposition, he is likely to embrace it. If local people have not faith enough to put their money into local investments, you can hardly expect the outsider to have more faith than they. Therefore I am glad to see signs that local sentiment here is growing more firm. The bank deposits are much more than they have been in a long time, and this indicates that there is plenty of money here for investment.

"There are ample reasons for faith in the future of Duluth. The great steel trust will not only help by bringing offices and well-paid employes here, but I can hardly see how it can fail to establish some plants for handling iron here. There is a great and growing market in the Northwest that can be reached to advantage from this point, and competition from the large establishments at the Sault and Michipicoten ought to bring such business here. There are many varieties of ore in the mines of this county that are too lean to be shipped East to advantage, and they can best be handled here. Again, the consolidation has thrown out of active business many wealthy men that may go into business again, and if they do they can hardly find a better site for the location of iron and steel manufacturing than in Duluth.

"The wheat business of this market cannot decrease, and it will certainly increase largely. This will always be the only market on Lake Superior, and the Canadian wheat will soon be coming this way in much greater quantities. A Canadian road from Winnipeg to Duluth is something that I look upon as certain to come, and it will bring with it a great impetus to the city.

"The country near to and tributary to Duluth is wide and ample, and as it settles up and begins to produce, every tilled acre will be so much to the advantage of Duluth."

A PURCHASING AGENT.

Proposition For City to Have One.

At the regular monthly meeting of the municipal conference committee on Saturday afternoon the desirability of having a city purchasing agent was discussed briefly, and will be talked over at length at the next regular meeting.

At present there is a very complicated system of purchasing. Each department has requisition books which must be submitted to the council, and it is thought that with some sort of a system under one head much money can be saved in city buying. In the future the conference committee will hold its meetings in the morning instead of the afternoon.

Blood Humors

It doesn't make any difference whether you believe in the modern theory and speak of the causes of diseases as referable to germs, microbes or bacilli, or whether you use the older and better understood terms of "humors" and "blood diseases"—Hood's Sarsaparilla cures them all.

It cures scrofula, salt rheum or eczema, catarrh, rheumatism, malaria and all other blood poisons; nervous troubles, debility and that tired feeling.

This is not merely modern theory; it is solid up-to-date fact.

"Salt rheum on my hands so severe I had to wear gloves most of the time, and could not shut my thumb and finger together, was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. A. O. SPAULDING, North Searsport, Me.

"My three months old boy was cured of a very bad case of scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla." WM. H. GARNER, West Earl, Pa.

THIEVING.

Some One Operating In Board of Trade Building.

A large amount of petty thieving has been going on in the Board of Trade building, and thus far there has been no suspicion as to the culprit. Some time during the day, presumably between the hours of 6 and 12 o'clock in the evening, offices have been entered and any small sums of money, stamps, etc., that could be found have been taken. The booty has in some cases been fairly handsome. One office lost $50 in cash, but that is said to be the highest amount any one firm has lost. Others have lost smaller sums, however, besides stamps of considerable value. In some cases the vaults have been opened, though just how this was accomplished is not understood.

The board has offered a reward of $50 for the detection of the thief. The building is closed every night at midnight, but from the supper hour until then the janitors are at work. It is probable that the thieving has occurred at those times, and the guilty person must have a pass key to the offices in the building.

WINS AGAIN.

John Nelson Captures Diamond Medal For Seventh Time.

John Nelson recaptured the diamond badge at the Central Gun club's shoot yesterday afternoon. It is the seventh time that he has won it, which is more than any other member of the club. Nelson's shooting bordered on the phenomenal, he breaking 49 out of a possible 50 thrown at difficult angles and in a handicapping wind. Farrington, Fulton, Loud, Greener and Dr. Spratley, of St. Paul, were ties for second place, each breaking 45. Storey, who was defending the badge, made 43.

Dr. Spratley won the Wells-Annis trophy breaking 25 straight. It was a pretty exhibition. In this event "Zopp" made 23; Nelsen, 22; Farrington, 21; Storey, 21; "Noisey," 19; Olson, 18; Pastoret, 18, and Bradbury, 17.

Farrington won the practice shoot, breaking 27 out of a possible 30. John Fulton, of West Superior, was second with 26; John Nelson, third with 25; Pastoret, 24; "Marks," 24; Bradbury, 24; Storey, 23; Spratley, 22; "Noisey," 22.

"Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. I quickly secured a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure, giving her three doses. The croup was mastered and our little darling speedily recovered." So writes A. L. Spafford, Chester, Mich. Max Wirth.

SIBERIAN RAILROAD

Is of the Highest Importance to the World's Commerce.

For That Reason It Must Be Protected In Manchuria.

Case of Simon Gordon, Who Was Threatened With Deportation.

New York, May 20.—In the course of a long interview relative to the situation in China, cabled to the Herald from St. Petersburg, a Russian of high rank, presumably Count Lamsdorff, the minister of foreign affairs, is quoted as saying in answer to the question:

"What about Manchuria?"

"The time to make objection was when the concession was made years ago.

"Does anyone suppose that any country is going to build a railroad through such a country and leave it unprotected or to be wrecked wherever wild hordes of brigands choose to operate?

"Besides, I consider that the Siberian railroad is of the highest importance to the commerce of the world."

"And especially to America?"

"Yes, especially to America. The Americans are a shrewd and clever race. They show it in their policy, which I call a sensible policy. The Siberian railroad being, so to speak, a belt of the world, is sure to be of great assistance to American commerce, which already flourishes here in a very successful manner."

St. Petersburg, May 6.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Simon James Gordon, the Russo-American who was charged with changing his allegiance without the czar's permission, and who was threatened with deportation to Siberia, has been released under 25,000 roubles, that amount having been deposited as security by his wife's relatives. He asserts his confidence that the case against him will be allowed to lapse. She is a good musician, and earned considerable money singing "hot stuff" for stag parties. She came here from the West about a year ago, and seems to have lived on other people's money ever since.

KIDNAPED BY A TRAMP.

Girl Is Compelled to Don Boy's Clothes.

Benwood, W. Va., May 20.—Charles Knox, an ex-convict, who is said to have a wife and family at Fairmont, has been arrested here, charged with a heinous crime. Officer Polley saw what appeared to be a boy of 15, dressed in poor clothes, standing on the street. He seemed delicate, but was quite prepossessing. The officer questioned him, and getting no satisfaction, took him to the lockup. There the prisoner broke down, cried and confessed that she was a girl, dressed in boy's clothing and that she was the companion of Knox, who had left her in the street while he sought food for them.

She said she belonged in Hocking county, Ohio, and was a country girl, a little more than 15 years old, the daughter of poor parents who had not given her many advantages. Something over a month ago Knox came by her home, and seized her when she was a short distance from the house. He took her into the woods, and after, she says, assaulting her, compelled her by threats and menaces to accompany him.

He procured a suit of boy's clothes and compelled her to don them. In this garb and under constant dread that Knox would harm her, she has been traveling with him for nearly two months, living the life of a tramp and submitting to Knox's orders. She gave her name as Minnie Adams, and the police are making an effort to communicate with her people, whom she is anxious to join. Knox was found an hour or two later and was locked up. He refused to talk of the charge.

Later Captain W. E. Echols of the State Humane society, was notified of the girl's plight. He took her to Wheeling, where she was placed temporarily in the Florence Crittenden Rescue home.

DOWN THE MINES.

Feature of Trip to Cripple Creek In July.

Cripple Creek, Col., May 20.—The mine-owners of the Cripple Creek district during the session of the Trans-Mississippi commercial congress have volunteered to open the mines to the deepest levels during certain hours of the day the whole of congress week. The trip for the delegates can be made with perfect safety, the shafts upon all the big producers being furnished with safety appliances. There will be no more danger attached to this trip than there would be in taking the elevator of a large hotel. The Gold Hill tunnel, which cuts the Anchoria-Leland mine at the eighth level, has offered the delegates the freedom of the tunnel, and the Anchoria-Leland will arrange to take all guests from the tunnel over that property. By entering the mouth of the tunnel in the city limits the delegates and their friends can penetrate to the apex, from the shaft house of which they can get a splendid view of Cripple Creek, which spreads out like a panorama in the bowl of the crater below. The Ophelia tunnel, which penetrates the district for a distance of 3000 feet, and the tunnel of the Woods Investment company, on Squaw mountain, with the electric trolley, are offered the committee, and the trip into the interior of the mines can be made by electricity with the electric lights in full blaze revealing the veins and ore bodies.

LOST MONEY

On Margins and Then She Sued For Its Recovery.

New York, May 20.—Caught by the frenzy of stock gambling while a visitor in the gallery of the stock exchange, 17-year-old Louise Otterman invested $400 as margin with I. B. Berger & Co., stock brokers at No. 17 Broadway.

Her dreams of wealth did not materialize, the little margin was swept away and the disappointed girl sued the brokers for the recovery of her money.

At the trial before Judge Delehanty and a jury, in the city court, Miss Otterman said she had read an advertisement by Miss Anna Kassmeyer for a partner to do a little speculating.

"I called upon Miss Kassmeyer," said Miss Otterman, "and it was while visiting the stock exchange with her that I made up my mind to put up my money and speculate."

The defendant brokers admitted receiving the money, but said that they had bought and sold stocks with it until it was "wiped out" and Miss Otterman remained in debt to them to the extent of $9.06. During the trail there was a conference between the lawyers, resulting in a compromise of the case.

DIVORCE IS ASKED.

Woman Finds Her Supposed Dead Husband Alive.

Alliance, Ohio, May 20.—Mrs. Irwin Charlton has filed a petition of divorce on the grounds that she has just discovered that her former husband, Ernset W. Resinning, whom she supposed dead, is alive and well.

In 1886, Resinning enlisted in the army and was sent to the Philippines, where he was taken ill and reported dead. In January, 1900, the supposed widow remarried and lived with her second husband until a few days ago, when she received word from the Philippines that her first husband was alive.

HER BEAUTY RUINED.

Vitriol May Cause Death of Naughty Marion Worth.

Philadelphia, May 20.—Vitriol splashed all over her face by a missing woman in black has completely ruined the beauty of Marion Worth and may cost her her life. In addition to this horrible disfigurement, the unfortunate young woman is threatened with a long term of imprisonment on several serious charges. She is suffering intense agony, and the doctors at the hospital offer little hope for her recovery.

She is charged with having won away a woman's husband; with having cleaned out three boarding houses, using a van to haul furniture from one of them, and with having obtained large sums of money on false pretenses. Altogether she has troubles enough for a family.

The young woman undoubtedly knows who threw the basin of vitriol in her face, but no amount of arguing will induce her to furnish the woman's name to the police. Special Officer Ritchie and two city hall detectives have been assigned to the case, but they find themselves blocked by the persistent silence of the young woman.

Miss Worth is a person of remarkable beauty, and won her way through the swellest sort of boarding houses by her engaging manners and unlimited assurance. She is a good musician, and earned considerable money singing "hot stuff" for stag parties. She came here from the West about a year ago, and seems to have lived on other people's money ever since.

The Healthy Baby!

THE healthy baby is the mother's joy, the father's pride and delight, and the admiration of the whole community. Pink cheeks, bright eyes, ruddy lips and gay cooings come from the healthy baby—health from fresh air—fresh air from being out of doors—being out of doors from having a fine Go-Cart or Carriage. The more baby is out of doors the more healthy and robust will he be. Every day that baby does not have an outing is lost. One of these beautiful Go-Carts or Carriages at your call (which we are now exhibiting) would never let a day pass without baby getting a good taste of balmy breezes and May sunshine.

Whitney Carriages and Go-Carts—Our summer line of the famous Whitney Carriages and Go-Carts (by the way they are the most popular goods in the market) are now on exhibition in the basement.

In Baby Buggies, as in Millinery, styles change, fashions come and go. Our Carriages are indeed the consummation of stylishness, durability and economy. They are superbly finished, faultlessly made, and trimmed with the richest of materials. They are guaranteed to last for years. All have rubber tires—an ideal patent foot-brake and elegantly enameled running gear.

We illustrate herewith one of our most stately Go-Carts. It is upholstered in simile ermine damask. The running gear and handle bars enameled in dark green. Parasol made from finest satin with a deep lace ruffle—artistic shape and a generous full roll body. It is certainly a most wonderful piece of designing and making—a luxurious buggy—price..... $30.75

Of course, we have all the cheaper grades from $4.50 up.

Baby Carriages—Our finest is made of fine reed—with rubber tire and foot-brake, and richly upholstered..... $22.50

Prices go from that down to..... $4.50

OLD TITLE

To Valuable Oil Lands Is Transferred and Recorded.

Clarksburg, W. Va., May 20.—Numerous wealthy farmers and coal and oil operators are greatly exercised over a deed filed in the county clerk's office by R. D. Ruffin, colored, a lawyer, of Washington, D. C., who represents Baltimore and Washington parties who claim 29,000 acres of valuable coal, oil and farming land on the waters of Ten Mile, Sycamore and Limestone creeks, this county. The deed filed was executed March 12, 1901, by Max E. Felka and Amelia Felka, of Baltimore, and A. H. Felka, Marion C. Felka and Augusta Felka to Robert R. Roberts and Mary Gotoald, trustees, of Washington, D. C. The grantors warrant the conveyance. The parties claim the title under grants by letters patent issued in 1785 and 1787 under Edmund Randolph, Esquire, governor of Virginia, to John Rees, assignee of Thomas Laidley. The scope of land includes a number of surveys and seventeen tracts. The claimants allege that they have an older title than the present owners of the land and that it can be successfully defended and enforced. It appears true beyond doubt that the claimants have a genuine title to the land, but whether it can be shown that their claim is outlawed by nonpayment of taxes is the point on which the defense will contest the matter. The property in controversy is now worth considerable over $1,000,000.

AT CASS LAKE

Arrangements Made to Have a Good Ball Team.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 20. —(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the baseball enthusiasts of Cass Lake was held Saturday evening, at which the organization was perfected which will hereafter have charge of the affairs of the local team. Roland Hartley was chairman of the meeting, and W. T. McKeown acted as secretary. The following were elected as officers of the association, to act during the season of 1901: Manager and treasurer, George Stein; secretary, C. M. Johnson; directors, the manager and treasurer, together with Roland Hartley, J. J. Jackson and A. G. Rutledge. The baseball park, which was put in here last season, will be rearranged and the grounds put in first-class condition for the season's playing. The opening game of the season will be played on Sunday next, when the locals will have for opponents the strong team from Akeley. The new organization proposes to have one of the strongest amateur teams in Northern Minnesota, and with that end in view Manager Stein will secure another battery and an infielder.

The Endion hotel (formerly the Elston), was opened to the public on Sunday by the Cass Land company, owners of the hostelry, with Col. Roland Hartley, vice president and manager of the company, in charge.

BODIES FOUND.

Victims of Shadow Explosion Taken From Lake.

Bemidji, Minn., May 20.—Fred McCaullie, the boy wounded by an explosion of fireworks on the steamer Shadow, during the Norwegian celebration, died Sunday. Bodies of Joe Michaud, 25 years, of Shevelin, and Richard Zacharias, a boy, were recovered from the lake. The body of Fred Driver, another boy, is still in the lake.

STRUCK ROCK.

Bon Ami Sinks In Shallow Water at Split Rock.

A second misfortune to the White Line Transportation company occurred Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, when the steamer Bon Ami went on the rocks at Split Rock, eighteen miles up the north shore from Superior. Though the steamer sank in shallow water, the damage is not serious, and she will lose not more than one trip. She was brought to Duluth yesterday evening at 9:30 o'clock under her own steam, and was taken to the dry dock, where the hole caused by the rocks will be repaired. On the way to Duluth, after temporary repairs had been made, the vessel's pumps kept the water down nicely.

The accident was due to a mistaken signal. The vessel was at the dock, and there was at no time any danger either to vessel or passengers. The latter were taken on the E. T. Carrington and brought to Duluth, and they are unanimous and warm in their approval of the conduct of the crew of the Bon Ami.

The tug Tom Dowling went from Two Harbors to the scene of the accident with a scow. The Bradshaw, on its arrival yesterday from the south shore run, went to the scene of the accident with a punip, and the necessary repairs took but a short time. The Bon Ami will be on her run again none the worse for the trouble of Saturday in a day or two.

Capt. Singer expects to have a boat to replace the Bon Voyage in a short time.

TRAGEDY.

Evansville, Ind., Man Murders Two and Then Killed Himself.

Evansville, Ind., May 20.—Everet Conway, aged 27, married, shot and killed C. W. Garrison and wife in this city yesterday morning and fatally wounded Patrolman Benjamin Wallis. After being driven to desperation by the police, Conway killed himself.

The two families had not been on friendly terms for several months. The wives of the men quarreled.

Saturday morning Conway wrote a letter to Garrison saying he had cheated his father in a trade for a milk dairy. Garrison showed the letter to Conway's father, who upbraided his son.

Early yesterday morning Conway, who was employed at the railroad yards, got up and dressed as if going to work. He picked up a shotgun and, going to the stable where Garrison was milking, shot him dead. Then he shot Garrison's cows to death. Mrs. Garrison ran from the house. Conway met her at the steps and emptied both barrels into her breast, she falling dead at his feet. The murderer next set fire to the Garrison stable, and the fire department was called out and extinguished the fire.

Conway then barricaded himself in his house and when Patrolman Wallis attempted to arrest him, Conway shot him in the face and side. Wallis may die.

The entire police department was called out after the riot alarm was sounded. As the officials surrounded the house, they heard a shot. Conway had kissed his wife good bye, then ran upstairs and shot himself in the heart.

Coroner Walker took charge of the remains. Conway came from a good family, originally from Kentucky. He leaves a wife and two children.

Garrison leaves two children. Garrison was a prominent lodge man, and carried a large life insurance.

STRIKE CRUSHED.

Troubles at St. Petersburg Are Practically Quelled.

St. Petersburg, Saturday, May 18.—The strike here is practically crushed. A very large number of arrests have been made, 250 persons having been taken into custody at one factory alone. Over thirty, and possibly 100 persons were wounded in a street fight when the mob stoned the police. Several deaths are reported at Knanthenscated as a result of the strike riots. The agitation among the students is unquestionably partly responsible for the troubles.

Escaping the Burden of Taxation.

There is an awakening at hand—an awakening to the fact that all over the country many corporations, capitalists and men of wealth are escaping their just share of taxation and that the burden falls on those who are least able to bear it. This condition is well known in St. Louis county. In New York the great bulk of personal property, amounting to hundreds of millions, escapes taxation entirely, and the fact is provoking much discussion and still more thinking about the inequalities of the burdens of taxation. The New York Journal gives the following impressive illustration of the manner in which many of the rich men of New York "do" the government. "The Standard Oil announces a dividend of $12,000,000. It is one of several dividends in a year. Of this $12,000,000 it is admitted that John D. Rockefeller gets $4,000,000. It is all in cash. It is all personal property. Mr. Rockefeller, who in one day pockets $4,000,000 in cash, and probably has on hand at no time less than one or two hundred millions of personal property, is assessed by the tax authorities at $400,000. It would be interesting to know how the tax assessors reconcile themselves to the idea that a man who collects $4,000,000 of dividends in one day is worth only $400,000 in personal property. It makes the idea of equality before the law, equality in taxation, and so on, seem rather comical, doesn't it?"

Mr. Rockefeller is only one of the many plutocratic tax dodgers who afflict New York and use conscientious citizens to pay more than their just proportion of public expenses. This group grows continually larger and more presumptuous every year. New York is only one of the many cities it infests. It can be found in every large city in the United States, and in many of the smaller cities.

The Line of Battle Ship Ohio.

The battleship Ohio, that was launched on Saturday at San Francisco, is not the first floating fortress of that name over which the flag of the United States has floated. The sailing line of battle ship Ohio, which until 1875 was used as a receiving ship at the Charleston navy yard, was launched at the Brooklyn navy yard May 22, 1820. She, however, did not go into commission until 1838, passing eighteen years at moorings in the Wallabout. This long neglected ship, when finally put in commission, sailed from Boston Oct. 16, 1838, on her first cruise, bound for the Mediterranean, flying the broad pennant of Commodore Hull. The Ohio though technically an 80-gun ship actually mounted 110 guns, on the berth deck 42-pounders, on the main 32s, on the spar deck 42-pounder carronades. She spread 16,000 yards of canvass, and literally walked the waters like a thing of life. She was indeed a naval wonder of her day, both with regard to her power and her speed. Ministers of state and other high dignitaries visited her, and while she was at Trieste an Austrian naval commission, by permission, took the model of the Ohio, "as the king of Austria has ordered a ship to be built as like her as possible." The Ohio distanced all competitors in sailing, and on one occasion her swiftness was attended by inconvenience. Her mail had been put on board a French steamer to be carried to the next port of the Ohio's destination. The Ohio beat the steamer to that port, and the connection which could have been made easily had the mail been kept on board the Ohio was endangered. Thereafter the Ohio was her own mail carrier. The Ohio served in the Mexican war and was flagship of the American fleet in the bombardment of Vera Cruz. She was finally sold to be broken up in 1883, to Israel M. Snow. She was broken up at Greenport, L. I., and during the dismantling of the vessel Mr. Snow was killed by the falling of a block. The figurehead of the Ohio, a bust of Hercules, is, or was quite recently, preserved at Canoe Place, Long Island, whither it was taken when the ship was broken up. But few of the younger generation of today have seen one of those magnificent line of battle ships, overflowing with men (the Ohio had 1000 officers, seamen and marines) and can scarcely realize the picture they made under full sail. They were indeed grand sights but today would be as worthless in war as a Chinese junk in the olden times.

THE MACHINISTS' STRIKE.

In accordance with the notice to their employers, many of the machinists throughout the country struck today. They ask for a workday of nine hours with the same pay they have been receiving for ten hours. The International Association of Machinists is the youngest of the more powerful labor organiations and this is the first demand it has made on the employers. According to the president of the association, James O'Connell, the machinists of the country are no better off today than they were at the time of the panic of 1893, in spite of the tremendous prosperity of the United States. He says that the rates of pay of machinists are not as good as they were prior to 1893. In speaking of the condition of the men today and how it has been affected by the country's prosperity, Mr. O'Connell said:

"I do not hesitate to say that the machinists have not been compensated in keeping with the advanced prosperity that we are now supposedly enjoying. During the panic of 1893 reductions of wages were general in the machinist trade, varying from 10 to 25 per cent. Since then there have been numerous cases of individual incerases of wages, but the old rates have not been universally restored. In other words, the reductions were more sweeping and general than the subsequent increases. It is also true that the wages of machinists have not been advanced in keeping with the growing cost of living, nor with the increased demand for their services. The machinist has not been given that consideration that his skill and intelligence entitle him to. He has borne with fortitude impositions of every character in the machine shops; the introduction of special machinery, with large increase in the employment of boys and handy men who displace tradesmen. This condition of affairs has become so obnoxious that at the present time the entire machinist trade is absolutely in revolt. Two years ago I represented the American labor movement at the British Trade congress in Plymouth, England. During my visit in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland I paid special attention to the conditions under which machinists were employed in those countries.

"I found the hours of labor to be universally not more than nine, and in many instances less. The rates of wages will compare favorably throughout the entire part of Great Britain with those paid in America. Special machinery is not used to any great extent abroad, nor do the workmen work with such rapidity as they do here, so that for about the same amount per diem the American mechanic produces fully 50 per cent more per hour than his rival across the water. This is a feature that is not taken into consideration by employers here in fixing wages. When I learned my trade twenty years ago skilled machinists received $2.50 per day. If I were to go to work today in the general machinist trade I would probably produce double the amount that I formerly did at 3.50 a day." Mr. O'Connell says that labor has no reason to be frightened at the combinations of capital for the control of industrial enterprises. In speaking of the steel combine, he said: 'I do not look upon that consolidation as a bugbear. I prefer to treat with organied employers rather than with the individual. Under proper and fair rules and regulations the consolidation of interests is sure to bring about the best possible results with the least possible labor. If, however, combinations of capital are allowed to run fancy free injury may be worked both to those in the combinations and to the general public."

The right of the machinists to refuse to work for less than a certain number of hours per day is unquestioned. If they can enforce the payment by leaving in a body, that is also their privilege. To go further than that would be a mistake, and the machinists are far to intelligent to do so. They rely on their organization to accomplish their ends.

WHY CHILI HOLDS BACK.

The report is current that the Pan-American congress may be abandoned because Chili refuses to join unless the subject of arbitration be tabooed in the discussion of Pan-American affairs. The inquisitive at once ask, "Why this sensitiveness on the part of Chili to the discussion of so opportune a subject as national arbitration of disputes? Has Chili a skeleton in her closet which she fears will be revealed by a full discussion of arbitration?" Chili has a skeleton. She wishes to commit a national crime and is fearful that the Pan-American congress will frustrate her designs. Chili for years has wished to pose as the dominant republic of South America. There was a time when the Chilians delighted in the cognomen, "Yankees of South America." They do not appreciate that name now for reasons of state.

Following the lead of her ambitions, Chili in 1879 made war on Peru and Bolivia with a view to securing more territory. The war lasted four years, when it was brought to a close by the treaty of Ancon. This treaty gave Chili, as spoils of war, the province of Tarapaca absolutely and the coast provinces of Tacna and Arica conditionally. The conditions were that Chili should have possession for ten years, after the expiration of which the question of sovereignty was to be submitted to the inhabitants of the provinces; the people were to determine whether they would remain under the rule of Chili or revert to Peru. The nation which won in the plebiscite was to pay the other $10,000,000. Inasmuch as the terms of the treaty did not provide for the details of the plebiscite or the manner in which the $10,000,000 was to be paid, the third article provided that a protocol should be entered into during the ten years' interim, which should provide for the necessary details to carry out the intent of the treaty. The time passed and no protocol was negotiated, Peru desiring to leave the determination of the question of sovereignty to the inhabitants of the provinces at the time of the treaty, Chili claiming the right of all residents to vote on the question. Not until 1898 did the threatened war with Argentine bring Chili to terms with Peru. A protocol was signed, leaving the question of the voting franchise to the queen of Spain. The congress of Peru promptly ratified the convention, and so did the Chilian senate, but in the meantime large deposits of nitrate were discovered in Arica and the war cloud had passed. The house of representatives of Chili, which must ratify all treaties to make them binding, refused to confirm the protocol. Since that time the matter of carrying out the terms of the treaty of Ancon has been in the air. Peru offers to submit the whole proposition to arbitration, but of this Chili is afraid. She is certain to lose, as her position is absolutely untenable. Peru and Bolivia are not in condition to make war to recover the provinces, and Chili, knowing this, has determined to hold them by force, notwithstanding the express terms of her treaty.

Right here is where the arbitration shoe pinched Chili. To her, just now the words arbitration and justice are hateful. She sees in this Pan-American congress a scheme to compel her to live up to the terms of her contract. She sees looming up in the near future a South American concert of powers which will enforce, by armies and navies, if necessary, the sacred obligations of nations.

This refusal of Chili to come into the congress, unless upon condition, is an open confession of guilt, and it has become the duty of the United States as well as the South American republics to take steps to force her to an adjustment of the difficulty.

IRON MINE TAXATION.

The Minneapolis Journal on Saturday said: "The Duluth Herald takes exception to the Journal's suggestion as to taxing the ore mined as distinct and separate from the ore in the mine. It says that the steel trust owns valuable mines that are lying idle, and that if the Journal's proposition is adopted, those properties would escape with lighter taxation than the mines that are active shippers, and that this would not be right. The Journal's proposition fits the case better than The Herald seems willing to admit. These idle properties would not, of course, escape taxation. Nothing of the kind is proposed. They would simply be taxed as other idle mines are taxed, but when the trust came to take the ore out of the mines and put it on the dump ready for shipment, it would become subject to taxation as a separate item of property, and at the proper time would pay its share of revenue to the state. Unless there is a different basis of taxing ore mined and the mines not operated, there will either be a hardship imposed upon the owners of unoperated mines, or the ore will escape out of the state without paying a reasonable tax."

The Herald thoroughly understands that the mines lying idle would not, under the Journal's plan of taxing the ore ore mined as distinct and separate from the ore in the mine, escape taxation altogether. But could the ore mined be taxed again after it came out of the mine? Would not that be regarded by the courts as double taxation?

The Herald does not understand any hardship would be imposed upon the owners of unoperated mines if they were taxed on the same basis as active mines, any more than the taxation of a vacant lot in the business section of Minneapolis on the same basis as an improved lot creates a hardship. Why should a man who permits his property to lie idle, trusting to profit largely by selling it at a high valuation when mining properties become scarcer and more valuable, be taxed at a lower rate than the man who is operating his property?

Lower taxation of the inactive property would also aid the steel trust in strengthening its monopoly of the iron ranges, because is could better afford to buy up all available iron properties and keep them idle for years, if it were not compelled to pay a tax on the ore until mined, in the meantime paying but a nominal tax on the property. Indeed, there are so few owners of unoperated mines outside the trust today that the method of taxing the iron properties must be considered only as it affects that giant monopoly. The Herald believes that the present basis of taxing the mining properties is all right, but what is needed is an increase in the valuations so that they will be assessed at about the same percentage of their actual valuation as are other properties in this county.

THE YACHT RACES.

The action of the New York Yacht club in refusing to permit Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, to enter his 90-foot yacht Independence in the trial races for the America's cup and to bar him out of all other contests over which the club has jurisdiction, will not raise that exclusive organization in the estimation of the public.

As the case now stands, Mr. Lawson has expended $200,000 in the construction of the Independence, which may be a far swifter yacht than the Constitution, only to discover that the America's cup is not an international trophy, but only a private club trophy for an event open only to members of the New York Yacht club. It is said that Mr. Lawson will endeavor to arrange for a series of races between the Shamrock II and the Independence after Sir Thomas Lipton has raced his yacht with the Constitution.

The result may be that Americans generally will find reason to hope that the Constitution may be beaten by the Shamrock II and that the latter in turn may be beaten by the Independence.

The large down town banks of New York city have so much money on deposit that they will not bother with small accounts. A young man with $200 with which he wished to open an account visited a number of them but not one would take his money. All of them said that it would not pay to take small sums. Some of them would not even open personal accounts. An investigation of the subject by a representative of the Evening Post shows that the Bank of the Republic will take nothing less than $1000, the Chemical National $500 to $1000, the National Park $1000 for active and $500 for inactive, the Seventh National $500, the Chatham National $400, the Nassau street 4.H cnfw tional $400, the Nassau State from $300 to $500, and the First National no personal accounts, whether large or small. Some of the large trust companies down town will open accounts of $300 to $500 on average balance. Only one, however, pays interest on all balances, and most of them with not pay interest on less than $500. The minimum in others is $1000. When paid, the interest is 2 per cent. Up town the policy of the banking institutions is different. The small banks and trust companies there will open small accounts

A merchant who had made a success of his own business chiefly through liberal advertising in the newspapers has given some advice to less experienced men. He says that a man who wants to increase his trade should not allow a few dollars to stand in the way of good advertising; that if his advertising appropriation be limited he should economize in the number of newspapers, but should always place his "ads" in the newspaper which has the largest circulation.

The Des Moines News says that the man who is clothed in his self righteousness is a mighty ragged proposition. This remark aptly applies to the cranks in Superior who had the manager of the street railway and his workmen arrested for repairing the tracks on Sunday.

When Judge Gekerich of the supreme court of New York took his seat upon the bench last Wednesday morning there were 119 divorce cases before him. He kept court open until 10 p. m. and heard seventy-eight cases. The judge must have come from South Dakota.

The star attraction of the spiritualists' camp meeting at Grand Rapids is to be Mary Ellen Lease. The spiritualists are to be pitied. Possibly they never heard her orate.

The managers of the St. Louis foundling asylum say they have trouble in finding homes for red-headed children. The reason given is that they fight too much. Whew!

The government is educating 27,000 young Indians. The remark that the only good Indian is a dead Indian may soon become obsolete.

John W. Gates has been refused membership in the New York yacht club. It is a question who is to be congratulated.

Lord Kitchener has only one eye. Perhaps that is why DeWet is so successful in dodging him.

Farmer Phillips has got out of his corn corner, and made lots of money. Next.

SMILING LINES.

Philadelphia Record: She—You have broken your promise to me, and a broken promise cannot be mended.

He—Oh, I can do better than that. I'll make you a new one.

Washington Star: "What do the Filipinos appear to learn most easily in connection with our civilization?" asked the eager inquirer.

Without hesitation the strategist replied: "The value of money."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Scientists say that a man would live longer if he walked on all fours, as he used to do."

"Of course; other men would lock him up in a cage and take care of him."

Philadelphia Press: Subiubs—Mr. Newcome is very well off, isn't he?

Indianapolis Press: "There is nothing like the love of a boy for his mother," said the sentimental boarder.

"Especially at meal time," commented the Savage Bachelor.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "It appears it was the gift of seven cigars that revealed the hiding place of Aguinaldo."

"I smoked one of the same sort the other night."

"What sort?"

"The sort that is mean enough to make a man betray his grandmother."

Chicago Tribune: When the goat had eaten the lighted firecrackers, the boy fell to mocking him with open throat.

"How," queried the boy, "do you like the celebration?"

"A bit of gay bunting would help out, I think!" quoth the goat.

Suiting the action to the word, the goat did not do a thing to the boy.

Abdul Needs a Lesson.

Philadelphia North American: It is becoming necessary for the civilized powers to cease humoring the vagaries of Abdul Hamid and teach him a lasting lesson to decent behavior. They can afford, perhaps, to let the sultan play the part of dead beat and cheat his creditors, but they cannot permit him to rob the mails with impunity. His pretense that he seeks evidence against conspirators who threaten his life is no excuse for prying into foreign correspondence.

DAILY STORY.

DICK SATTERLY'S MARE

BY EDNA DEAN.

(Copyright 1901, William R. Miller).

"Bottom—speed! There's not another horse in the country can approach her."

Dick Satterly stroked the mare gently, lovingly, as he turned to the blacksmith. Bowers smiled and winked to the crowd standing near.

"Will you try her against my black—for five dollars?"

"For five or five hundred," said Dick quickly, as he put his hand into his pocket. Bowers laughed.

"I was joking."

"I am in earnest. She'll do anything in reason."

Just then Miss Aftcomb walked around the corner. Half a dozen hats were off in an instant. Jesse Aftcomb's daughter was the belle of the county. Dick's eyes were on his mare—he did not see her, or pretended to be looking at the mare's left fore foot. Then a strap needed looking after; by the time Miss Aftcromb passed the smithy Dick stood upright again, but several who were pretty well informed concerning the relations of these two thought there was unusual color in Dick's face.

Everybody said they would be married in the spring, when Dick returned from abroad. But the judge's daughter evidently had changed her mind—or Dick had. Certainly they were no longer lovers. And everybody talked about them. There was universal regret—they seemed just fitted for each other.

Dick jumped into his new box buggy, a great beauty, and disappeared around the end of the lane in less than a minute. The smith re-entered the shop, whither several followed him. Nothing was said of the judge's daughter—a great deal was said of Dick and his new purchase. The mare was a beauty.

About half an hour after Dick rode away a few drops fell in the dust opposite the smithy. The smith looked out, hammer in hand.

"There's going to be an awful storm, boys. Sleughns of rain—I see it coming over the hills."

The loafers sauntered out. Ham Lacock allowed there was oceans ready to drop somewhere; Len Bixby was sure it would tear up things in the creek, and Pat Moore, an old Irishman, whose weather knowledge made him an authority, after scanning the swiftly approaching cloud, cried:

"I've something more to do than waste time here—I'll go where I'm needed," and scurried home.

"Bad time for them young ladies over to Miller's farm. If they ain't across the creek afore that blow catches 'em." The smith hit the hot iron a strike that sent a shower of scales around him.

And at that moment Dick Satterly chored his mare in the road. He was out, speaking to his mare gently, when something a bystander said caused him to life his head.

"What's that, Jerry?"

"Nothing. I only said they would get a good wetting anyhow they'd fix it."

"Who?" Dick swept the crowd with a look that challenged attention.

"Why, Miss Aftcomb and Hattie Holloway went over to Miller's—and we was just saying—"

A terrible clap of thunder cut the speech short. A limb of the locust just opposite the smithy went down, cracked, then hung limp.

"A right smart blow that," said Bowers.

"When did they start?" Dick demanded courtly.

"They'll be caught before they can get to the bridge," said the smith.

"They won't both be," said Jerry Hart. "I heard Miss Holloway say she'd got to go up to her aunt's first, and Miss Aftcomb said she'd keep right on."

Dick Satterly leaped into his buggy again.

"You are sure she went the lower road, Jerry?"

"That's what she said—she'd go right on."

Then the crowd turned to look at each other. For the first time the truth dawned on them. The new bridge was only partially completed. A man with steady nerves might cross it in calm weather—no man in his senses would venture on it in a storm. Wayfarers would be compelled to cross on the old bridge. But if the creek overflowed, as it always did when there was a heavy rain, anybody caught between the foot of the hill and the end of the bridge would be drown. The current was so swift across Lytle's flat that all hope of saving one's life by swimming was cut off.

Dick saw what their terrified faces said; his own grew pale also. Beyond the hills, lying in a purple haze half an hour earlier in the day, other hills lifted their crowns away to the west. Then the hilltops became close together. At their base the valley narrowed like the neck of a bottle. It was the beetling cliffs here that held the water back in flood time. The old bridge was under water sometimes six feet. The stones were torn away frequently by the force of the current.

At that moment Dick saw a figure standing on the old bridge; saw it as plainly as if a hill did not intervene between the smithy and the valley. The figure was looking upwards appealingly—her hands were knit together in her despair.

A tremendous cut across the mare's back caused her to leap forward—she shot out like an arrow. Dick's voice was borne back to the group of lookers in the gale. What he said I need not repeat. It was not a prayer—it was rather an imprecation.

The group before the smithy re-entered it hurriedly as a tremendous downpour drenched the entire premises. The water dripped through the roof, ran in deep rivulets across the road, then pitched in a stream as large as a run headlong down the roadside. As the elements roared and warred, tugging madly at the smithy, its occupants indulged in vague speculation concerning the chances of the judge's pretty daughter. If she was really on the lower road—well, words failed to express their horror.

No horse that God ever made could make the flat in time to save Miss Aftcromb's life—that much was certain. Bowers assented to this ultimatum the moment Jerry promulgated it. And nobody knew better than Jerry.

Meantime Dick Satterly drove down the slope on the eastern side of the hill as if there was no danger of stumbling and rolling over the cliff bordering the side of the road. Away through the blinding, crashing storm, with eyes closed half the time—the rain pelting his face like bullets. His mare did not merely gallop—there were times when horse and buggy fairly leaped great lengths; times when it seemed the mare slid five times her length on that long, perilous slope. But Dick Satterly thought of, saw only one thing—the figure pictured in his mind's eye when Jerry spoke of the low road never left his brain. It grew stronger.

Through pools of water, through deep mud and over great boulders, where the lumps of mud were flung high in the air; under sweeping trees that lashed his face, Dick drove madly on. Veering neither to the right or left so much as a hair's breadth, with his eyes fixed steadily in front of him, and rigid jaws, he sat like a statute. At long intervals he drew a long breath—then he urged his mare on, on again; but now it was a coaxing, wheedling voice.

"For the love of God, Bessie! There's two lives at stake, Bessie—her's and mine. Faster, Bessie—faster if you can." Until Bessie fairly flew.

The smith compressed his lips at the end of twenty minutes.

"My God! What a pity. He's not more'n half way there by this time. If there's one foot there's three over the old bridge now by the way the rain's come down—never see anything like it since I've been in Greene county."

"That ain't the worst of it," said Jerry, soberly. "There'll be two funerals. Setterly 'll just get caught at the foot of the hill if he forgets that the commissioners cut through the brush last year. The swell 'll just about catch him and his trap—see if I ain't right."

"Of course Satterly isn't plum crazy," said the smith. "He won't drive down to the foot of the hill plum into the flood."

"One thing's sure," Jerry replied. "If he ain't got there—it's all over with the judge's daughter. The water's more than five feet above the old bridge by this time."

"Maker seven—just seven drowned in the Devil's Bottle since I've been here." The smith spoke very soberly and sighed. "But there's no hope for anyone that was on the lower road—only a miracle could save them."

A tremendous gust blew the remaining door of the smithy wide open. It blew up a blaze in the embers of the fire. The group huddled there, listening to the deafening peals that followed great bolts of lightning, were startled upon beholding an apparition that provided a topic in after years in Greene county.

The spectacle Dick Satterly presented as he sat there in his buggy before he jumped out and handed Miss Aftcomb down out of it as coolly as if he was returning from a drive on a summer evening.

The smith looked at his watch nudged Jerry, who in his turn looked at it. Meantime Dick Satterly was spreading his handkerchief on the newspapers he had taken out of his coat pocket—they were wet, but they were cleaner than the rough bench the judge's daughter sat on.

"'Tain't possible," Jerry whispered the smith.

"I tell you I showed the time to Sneed and Watfon there—ask them."

It was mervelous, but it was true! Dick Satterly's mare had made the foot of the hills in a little more than half the time the distance had ever been covered before

But then a human life was at stake—and the man that drove the blooded mare was a true lover.

IS NOT RESPONSIBLE.

Minneapolis Journal: In some editorial comment on the Journal's discussion of the taxation of the ore mines, the Duluth Herald says: "There is a remedy which the state railroad and warehouse commission could apply, if it were so disposed. The commission has power to fix fair and reasonable rates for the transportation of ore over these railroads. The commission which ceased to exist at the beginning of the year did take such action, ordering a considerable reduction in the freight charges, but the new Republican commission, which the Journal assisted to elect, has rescinded that action, granting a rehearing to the roads and thus restoring the former extortionate rates." But the Journal did not assist in electing the new Republican commission. It is on record just the other way. It has no responsibility for assisting in the election of any member of that commission, except Mr. Staples, and we like to have the fact borne in mind.

GENIUS WHO WRITES THE ADS.

We boast of our gifted writers whose pens
thrill the reading world,
Whose thoughts from the heights of talent are down to our level hurled,
Who feed us on mental jewels of beauty and logic rare
As the flowers are fed from the dewdrops that spring from the cool night air.
As the lights of the world we prize them, without them would life be tame,
Yet we never applaud the writer who seeks not the meed of fame,
Who keeps in quick circulations the gold and the silver "scads,"
Who greases the wheels of business, the genius who writes the ads.

His daily displays are gorgeous, his pages with snap are fine,
His thoughts are arrayed before us in bold and attractive type.
His headings are gems of diction that magnet the scanning eye,
His phrases are sharp and meaty, yet soft as a siren's sigh.
His field is a world of flowers from the looms of the peopled earth,
From the roar of the busy factories; of subjects he knows no dearth.
He is onto the freaks of fashion, knows all of the latest fads
In the wonderful world of business, the genius who writes the ads.

When the paper is brought to the fireside where the queens of our happiness reign,
The dear ones we love and cherish care not for the flights of brain
Of fellows who tell of battles, or the scribes of political schemes,
Or the poets who feed our fancies with limpid poetic dreams.
They skip the big-headed flashes that come from the quivering wires,
Scarce glance at the heads of murders, of accidents, scandals and fires,
Ignore even the deaths and weddings and the acts of society cads
Till they've feasted upon the banquet of the genius who writes the ads.

Here's a pat on the back for the fellow who sits at a desk in the store,
Who never with pen is scratching at Fame's ever glittering door,
Who tells of breath-taking bargains, of dazzling, enchanting displays,
Of drift from the wreck of bankruptcy, of special price-slaughtering days.
His pen is with spiciness sparkling, his work is artistic and terse,
It touches the hearts of the ladies and touches the depths of the purse:
He's the idol of daughters and mammas, but the ogre of stingy old dads,
And he magnets the cash that is floating, the genius who writes the ads.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK

Big Northwestern Grain Crop Means Much to Duluth.

Grain Business Would Show a Large Increase.

Every Line of Business Would Feel the Effect.

If there are any business men in the city of Duluth who are looking forward with great anticipations to the immediate future, it is the grain men. From every part of the grain belt which finds the market for its product in this city there comes but one story—brilliant prospects for this fall's yield. All over Minnesota, North and South Dakota there has been a great acreage sown, the soil is in prime condition, and nothing but unforeseen occurrences stand in the way of an enormous business for the grain trade in Duluth. Of course, grain men are never too sanguine. Experience has taught them only too often that while the spring and early summer may give most brilliant promise for the harvest, the outcome may be entirely changed by drouth, insects and one thing or another. Last year gave a striking exhibition of this, for in May the outlook was for a fine crop. The month of June blighted that prospect and cut the yield that should have been had in two. At the present time, however, there is every reason to expect a great crop. Every grain man in the city who has heard from the West recently, and nearly everyone has, has been told the same thing, that there was never better promise for a fine crop.

A big crop in the Northwest this year will mean, in all probability, an enlargement of the grain interests at Duluth. It will attract more commission firms and men to engage in the handling of the crop. There is already indication that this will be true, for there is a demand for membership in the Duluth board. On Saturday one sold at $400, a sufficient indication that they are in demand, for a few years ago they could be had for about $125. There are but few to be had, too, and before long the only way to get one will be by purchase from the board direct. The membership that sold Saturday for the top-notch price went to a Minneapolis concern, which will establish an office here before very long.

It is not only the grain trade that profits by a big yield of grain in the Northwest, however. Every line of business feels its influence little less directly than if the grain was raised just back of the hill. Every wholesale house in the city will find its business jump remarkably in volume of the crop is large. The number of traveling men will be increased, every house will enlarge its line of credit, and the money of the farmer will find its way to Duluth. A year of big crops in the Northwest always means a year of big business in Duluth.

ARRESTED.

Manager Warren and Employes Taken In at Superior.

R. C. Ogilvie, one of the West Superior reform agitators, swore out a warrant and had Manager Herbert Warren arrested in that city yesterday for alleged violation of the Sunday labor law. All last week the corner at Tower avenue and Belknap street was torn up in order to put in new switches and heavy rails, and the corner was in a dangerous condition for either teams or pedestrians. For this reason the management of the street railway company, to facilitate matters, started a crew at work yesterday morning completing the work and repairing the pavement as fast as possible. After their arrest bail was furnished by Mr. Warren for himself and men and they were all released.

The action taken yesterday is regarded by many Superiorites as being unwarranted, and much indignation is being expressed for interference with the company's work in connection with the work on the East End line, which the city authorities threaten to stop by injunction, public sentiment seems to be largely in favor of the company, as it becomes known under what conditions the company intends to put in the new track.

IN MICHIGAN.

Handsome Gift to Calumet By Calumet & Hecla Company.

Calumet—The Calumet & Hecla Mining company, through the influence of President Alexander Agassiz, has decided to erect a new armory for the local militia company. The plans call for a sandstone building, three stories high, the ground dimensions being 85 by 42 feet. The drill room will be 60 by 120 feet, or one of the largest in the United States. The basement will be used as storage rooms for the quartermaster. On the first floor there will be two large gun rooms and an office for the company officials. On the second, there will be club rooms, a billiard hall, reading room, reception room and two large toilet rooms. The third floor will have a banquet hall 60 by 22 feet.

Menominee—A dispatch from New York says: William Stanfield, a boatman, found a bottle drifting with the tide Sunday near the quarantine station. It contained a card of "A. V. Freeman, Menominee, Mich., district mangaer of Raber & Watson, ties, poles and posts, Chicago, Ill." On the reverse side was written in lead pencil: "God knows I had no choice. Did not come from Michigan with this intention They say drowning is painless."

Houghton—Four miners, George Isles and George Watson, Cornish; Stephen Lisek, Polish, and Mat Raisen, a Finn, were badly injured by an explosion of giant powder in Tamarack No. 5 shaft. Isles and Watson are in a very serious condition. The men were charging a hole with a stick of dynamite, when the concussion set it off.

Hancock—Fire totally destroyed the farm house owned and occupied by I. Wibbon on the canal road about three miles west of Hancock and beyond Swedetown creek, Thursday night. It was reported that the loss is $1500.

LUMBER MARKET

Feeling In the White Pine Territory Is Strong.

Prices Likely to Be Uniform Throughout the Season.

Shipments Since First of Year Show Good Increase.

While lake navigation is well under way, Lake Erie has not yet received very much lumber, but the movement is gradually increasing, and numerous vessels are either loading lumber or on the way up the lake for cargoes. Cargoes have been going to Chicago for a number of weeks past, but last week saw the first cargoes in from Lake Superior. All around the lakes the stocks of lumber have been depleted, and much difficulty has been experienced in filling ordinary mixed orders. The sawing season is in full swing, however, and this trouble will soon be remedied. In some markets prices have been forced up on items on account of scarcity, but these will resume their normal position as the better supply comes in, but it is not to be understood that this means any early general reduction, even though some concessions have been made. The white pine situation is strong, and the manufacturers realize it. On this basis the prices of lumber are likely to be pretty nearly uniform this season, in fact some do not look for the usual midsummer weakness. The break was caused by Northern producers sending cargoes on to the market for sale after arrival. The mills have been so successful in holding up prices this year that there may not be the weakness usually expected in July.

About 75 per cent of the principal mill men along the Mississippi river, and in Northern Minnesota, and Wisconsin have made returns to the American Lumberman of shipments since the first of the year. It is figured that the reports received will cover at least half the business, not counting Duluth, Menominee and Ashland. Up to a week ago the reports showed that shipments in January this year were 10½ per cent greater than those of January, 1900, while February of this year showed an increase of 25 per cent. March gave 16 per cent and April 28 per cent average increase over the same months last year. The average increase for the four months is about 27 per cent. The business this year has not only been much larger than that of 1900, but also a little in excess of that of 1899. It is no wonder, says the Lumberman, that under such circumstances the Northwestern pine producers are jubilant and that they are anxious to swell the output of their mills to as high a point as possible.

William Kaiser, of Muscatine, Iowa, a prominent lumberman whose name has become familiar through his heavy timber purchases in this district during the past winter, has severed his connection with the business interests of his brothers at Muscatine, and has removed to Stillwater, where he will have his logs taken for sawing. He is receiving sixty or seventy carloads of logs daily from Bemidji, and several carloads of lumber are being shipped to him daily from Duluth and Cloquet and rafted down to lower Mississippi points. Mr. Kaiser's largest operation is one that involves the hauling to Stillwater of a large amount of standing pine that he last winter purchased from Cook & Turrish, of this city. The timber is located on the Cloquet river. About 10,000,000 feet of this was cut last winter and the operation will be continued on a large scale for a number of years. As soon as these logs are driven to the railroad, the Northern Pacific company will commence hauling them to Stillwater.

All the sawmills at the head of the lake, with the exception of the St. Louis Lumber company's mill are operating, the Alger, Smith & Co.'s mill starting up last week after a three week's shut down for repairs. It is understood that the St. Louis company has not much contracted for cutting, and there is a delay in bringing to the mill some of the logs that are to be cut there.

TO FARGO CONVENTION.

Duluth Traveling Men to Leave Thursday.

There will be 100 Duluth traveling men at the U. C. T. convention in Fargo May 24 and 25, with Flaaten's Third regiment band of twenty-five pieces. The delegation will leave here Thursday, May 23, at 9 o'clock p. m., on a special train over the Great Northern. Short stops will be made at Bemidji, Crookston and Grand Forks. The return trip will begin Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, and a stop at Bemidji will be made for dinner. The delegates from the Duluth council are Henry Gujer, P. W. Reimer and W. N. Donaldson.

MME. YALE'S HAIR TONIC

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

It affords me great pleasure to call the attention of the public to Mme. Yale's Excelsior Hair Tonic, which is the first and only remedy known to chemistry which positively turns gray hair back to the original color without dye. It has gone on record that Mme. M. Yale—wonderful woman chemist—has made this most valuable of all chemical discoveries. Mme. Yale personally indorses its action and gives the public her solemn guaranty that it has been tested in every conceivable way and has proved itself to be the ONLY Hair Specific. It STOPS HAIR FALLING immediately and creates a luxurious growth. Contains no injurious ingredient. Physicians and chemists invited to analyze it. It is not sticky or greasy; on the contry, it makes the hair soft, youthful fluffy and keeps it in curl. For gentlemen and ladies, entirely gray and with bald heads, it is especially recommended.

A SCIENTIFIC MEDICINE.

March 10, 1900.

Dear Madame Yale:—I wish to say a few words in regard to your Excelsior Hair Tonic and Hair Cleanser. I have used both with the best possible results. My hair has been falling out for some time. I had used various remedies with little or no avail. Finally my attention was called to your Excelsior Hair Tonic. I purchased a bottle and began using it. The result was beyond my expectations; after the second application my hair had ceased to fall out, and as I continued my hair seemed to have more life and vigor and new hairs began to come in. After using the second bottle I was surprised to see that my hair was no longer tinged with gray but had returned to its natural color.

Your Excelsior Hair Tonic is certainly a scientific medicine and I believe the only one that treats the hair as a sick member and feeds and nourishes it until it is restored to its natural and normal state of health. I cheerfully recommend it to any one who is in need of a Hair Tonic or Restorer, as I have the utmost confidence in the efficacy of all your remedies.

Respectfully,
MRS. C. L. BROWN,
51 Harper Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Madame Yale's Hair Tonic is sold throughout the world at $1.00 per bottle. Manufactured only by Madame Yale, 189 Michigan avenue, Chicago.

We carry a full line of Madame Yale's remedies at all times.

SENATOR TOWNE

Speaking When News of Mrs. McKinley's Illness Came.

He Was Addressing Stock Exchange of Beaumont, Texas.

Spoke of Mrs. McKinley and President In Feeling Manner.

Beaumont, Texas, May 20.—At the Beaumont stock exchange last Thursday, Hon. Charles A. Towne, ex-United States Senator of Minnesota, and previously congressman from the Duluth district, was called upon to make an address. The senator was speaking along the question of oil and the future of Beaumont and widening out further, when an Associated Press dispatch was handed him in which it was announced that Mrs. McKinley was critically ill. The senator read the dispatch aloud to the audience, and a perceptible hush passed over the crowd. Sympathy and sadness took the place of keen interest and pleasure. Following the reading Mr. Towne spoke of Mrs. McKinley and the president in a feeling manner, touching upon the beautiful character of the chief magistrate's wife. He expressed the hope and uttered a fervent prayer that she would be restored to her husband and the country.

At the conclusion of his remarks, Judge W. L. Crawford offered the following resolution, which was adopted and forwarded to the president's private secretary, Mr. Cortelyou.

Resolved, that the sincerest sympathy of the people of Beaumont be extended to the president, with the earnest wish and prayer that the wife of the president may be spared to her husband and the country.

IS FISH LAW INVALID?

It is claimed by some people that the fish law passed by the last legislature is unconstitutional. The bill undertook to amend the law of 1897 by changing the open season for different kinds of fish. The penalty clause was omitted from the statute as it was passed and published. This was undoubtedly due to an over-advantage of the technicality and so far as can be learned none of them have been molested. A lawyer in advising one of his clients last week instructed him he could catch as much black bass as he wanted to at any time, that the law was invalid and that the game and fish commission would have no authority by which it could confiscate proscribed fish, although it might attempt to do so.

PHILLIPS' PROFITS

Corn Corner Said to Have Brought Him $600,000.

His Prestige Shown In the Wheat Market Saturday.

Speculative Interest In Wheat Market Is Increasing.

When a big operator concludes a deal in which there has been such vast interests as in the Phillips May deal in corn, the question that at once comes to the popular mind is, "How much has he made?" Of course, Mr. Phillips has not yet concluded his deal; that, is, his cash grain has not been marketed, but he knows something of how he has come out. He intimates that his winnings will be more than $300,000, and it is put as high as $600,000 in Chicago. The Chicago Record-Herald, which has kept close track of his operations, and to whom he has talked very freely throughout his deal, in fact outlining his movements every day, has this to say:

"Figuring out the profits of a deal involving large cash operations is not an easy matter even for the man who has access to the books. For anybody else it is sheer guesswork. It may be sixty days before Phillips himself can tell exactly how he will come out on his big corn campaign. It is not difficult, though, to decide that a man who began buying corn under 40 cents and who kept on buying until it was at around 45 cents, and who from 50 cents up was successful in making large sales, made money. There never was a deal that went any easier than this latest Phillips May operation. Even his opponents admit there have been few deals so cleverly and conservatively managed. Phillips and his people at the close of March had about 6,000,000 bushels May corn bought. The line must have been well bought, for the market up to that time had not been to 45 cents. That line was doubled up early in April on the post-election break, which carried the May from 44⅜ cents to 40¾ cents. It was the question whether the whole line would not be forced out. That was when the deal started; and that was where the big line was bought. Phillips has claimed repeatedly that the line did not average 45 cents, and those who know something of cleiss and how the line was built up do not believe there is an exaggeration in this. From 45 cents to 60 cents there was easily liquidation of 6,000,000 bushels at an average profit of 10 cents. Phillips has claimed his 6,000,000 bushels hedges for July were put out at so good advantage that there would be even some profit, aside from carrying charges. Perhaps the expenses of the campaign will reduce these by $200,000; there is still left a handsome sum for the Phillips customers. As for Phillips, he has made his fortune as a commission man. No one ever had a bigger following. He has been doing as much commission business as any three concerns that could be named."

The Record-Herald notes a growing interest in wheat, and this is felt in the Duluth market as well as in Chicago. It says:

"The speculative interest is increasing in wheat, one commission concern without a private wire system reporting yesterday over fifty orders within an hour after the opening, the busiest day for it in months. There is the sort of wheat situation to make an active speculation, one full of contradictions. The spot position seems very strong; the crop situation very bearish. Although there were about 9,000,000 bushels contract wheat here last Saturday, the May price last night was ¾-cent over the July and 2⅝ cents over the September. Wheat has gone out of Chicago this week to the amount of about 3,000,000 bushels and the stock here will show a decrease of over 2,000,000 bushels. Out of public houses in five days there have been taken about 750,000 bushels contract wheat, and out of private houses about 250,000 bushels. People in the cash trade are confidently predicting the contract stock of wheat here will be down under 5,000,000 bushels by the end of the month, although June 1 is only a fortnight away. There is an even stronger situation in other markets. Of the 46,000,000 bushels visible supply 24,000,000 bushels are at Chicago, Duluth and Minneapolis. Duluth claims all its contract wheat is sold. Minneapolis could not compete with Chicago as a shipper, so that it would look as if during the next few weeks Chicago would need to supply the demand, even if the Minneapolis millers could spare their stick. New York has only 400,000 bushels, St. Louis only 700,000 bushels and Toledo only 350,000 bushels. Omaha claims its elevators are all cleaned out of wheat, first time of the year for the first time since 1890. This is also true of the country elevators in Nebraska. It is probably not against a speculative market that the cash interest is almost unanimously bullish and the speculative above for unanimously bearish. One believes the spot demand will bull prices before the new crop becomes a factor, and the other that with a 450,000,000 harvest ahead within sixty days nothing else will count much."

"The prestige of Phillips in the grain market was illustrated strikingly Saturday by the effect of his buying on the wheat price. He took possibly 1,000,000 bushels July, about as much as he had bought the day previous. His buying put about 1 cent on the price, a little of which was promptly lost when in the last hour he did some selling. He did not do much trading himself, but showed the same sort of pit generalship he has been exhibiting in corn. There seemed to be a half-dozen brokers in different parts of the pit who took their orders from him at a mere nod. In that way he could do a lot of buying or a lot selling in very quick order and without the pit recognizing at once what was going on. His advent in the wheat market has caused a good deal of talk, has certainly disconcerted the bears and wonderfully encouraged the bulls."

MASTER SPECIALIST.

I do not cure all cases, but I cure all I treat; I treat men only and cure them to stay cured.

Men, Many of you are reaping the result of your former folly. Your manhood is failing and will soon be lost unless you do something for yourself. There is no time to lose. Impotency, like all sexual diseases, is never on the standstill. With it you can make no compromise. Either you must master it or it will master you and fill your whole future with misery and indescribable woe. We have treated so many cases of this kind that we are as familiar with them as you are with the very daylight. Once cured by us, you will never again be bothered with emissions, drains, prematurences, small or weak organs, nervousness, failing memory, loss of ambition or similar symptoms which rob you of your manhood and absolutely unfit you for study, business, pleasure or marriage. Our special form of treatment for weak men will correct all these evils and restore you to what nature intended—a hale, healthy, happy man, with physical, mental and sexual powers complete.

We also cure to stay cured, by our special form of treatment:

and all associate diseases and weaknesses of men. We charge nothing for private counsel and give to each patient a Legal Contract to hold for our promises. Is it not worth your while to investigate a cure that has made life new to multitudes of men?

If you cannot call at our office, write your symptoms fully.

TOO MANY FRILLS.

Cleveland Leader: Americans are found now and then observant enough to note some of the faults of the public school system, and courageous enough to advocate changes in the face of the opposition that is certain to come from those who stand as sponsors for that system. It is interesting, therefore, to get the opinion of a foreigner on that subject.

Mr. Wyndham, the British consul at Chicago, in a recent report to his government, referred to the schools of that city, by saying that a "citizens' committee had pointed out the necessity of teaching fewer subjects in the schools, and geography, history and English more thoroughly."

This implied criticism leads the Record-Herald to say: "We do not know that any attention has been paid to the pointing by those in authority, but it is fairly indicative of public sentiment, nevertheless, and may be so considered in England. The American experiment in multiplying studies is a dead failure, as might have been anticipated. It precludes concentration and thoroughness and leads to that ridiculous and shallow affectation of omniscience which is coming to be more and more characteristic of much that passes for the intellectual life of the country."

This is the complaint that is heard in all the big cities. In Washington, a year or two ago, a senate committee showed how the public schools failed in their purpose in an educational sense, and faults have been found in the present system almost everywhere. Some day the men at the head of the schools will discover that more practical education and not frills and fads is what the people desire. There must be a return, at least part way, to the old method of teaching the rudiments and teaching them thoroughly.

LOST ITS ADVANCE

Wheat Shows Early Strength But Fails to Hold.

Cables Were Easy and the Northwest Receipts Liberal.

Large Decrease In the Visible Caused Heavy Buying.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 20.—The wheat market started with a rather easy feeling and at irregular prices owing to the bearish cables, but quickly turned strong and advanced on buying due to the prospect of a large decrease in the visible. The cables were easy, Liverpool closing ½d lower to ½d higher, the Northwest receipts were liberal and all the crop conditions were favorable. The world's shipments amounted to 7,992,000 bus, as compared with 8,115,000 bus a year ago. Wheat on passage decreased 1,760,000 bus. The visible supply showed a decrease of 2,260,000 bus. In Chicago Phillips was a heavy buyer of July and his support gave the market much strength. Reports of dry weather in the Northwest also swelled the bullish factors. Shippers both here and at Chicago reported an excellent foreign inquiry for wheat, but nothing was worked here. It is talked in Chicago that July will see little contract wheat left in Chicago and the prospect of a scare in July wheat is held out. Primary receipts of wheat were 450,738 bus, last year 485,142 bus. The seaboard reports 190,000 bus of wheat taken Saturday for export. Cash sales at Chicago were 260,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 518,228 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 316 cars, against 305 last week and 386 last year. Chicago receipts, 37 cars, 1 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was fairly active on the Duluth board. July wheat opened ⅛c off at 74¾c, sold up to 75⅝c at 9:26, reacted to 75¼c at 11:30, held there for the next hour and then declined steadily, closing at 74c, which was ½c off from Saturday's close. Chicago closed unchanged and Minneapolis ¼@⅜c off.

Cash sales of wheat were 15,000 bus at July price.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Phillips corner in May corn is supposed to be a thing of the past there was a lively flurry in that grain in Chicago, May opened ⅛c off from Saturday's close at 46c. It sold up to 45c, fell back to 46¼c and then closed at 48c, an advance of 1½c. July also closed higher. There was no change in the price at Duluth. Primary receipts of corn were 862,000 bus, last year 311,000 bus. Shipments 627,000 bus, last year 621,000. The visible supply of corn decreased 1,425,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 166,377 bus. World's shipments of corn aggregated 5,477,000 bus, last year 4,646,000. Corn on passage increased 140,000. May flax was bid up 2c at the close today, but brought no offers. September was off 1c. Rye was ¼c off and oats showed no change.

Following are the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Ruled Strong With Heavy Local Buying.

Chicago, May 20.—Wheat ruled strong despite bearish influences from abroad. The probability of a large decrease in the visible caused heavy local buying. July opened ½c lower to unchanged at 72¼@72⅝c, for a moment showing the influence of disappointingly easy cables, liberal receipts and favorable crop conditions, and then advanced to 73½@73¾c. World's shipments 7,992,000 bus. The quantity afloat decreased 1,760,000 bus. Local receipts 37 cars, one of contract grade, while Minneapolis and Duluth reported 316 cars, against 305 last week and 386 a year ago.

A decrease of 2,263,000 bushels in the visible gave the market additional strength later and July advanced to 73½c. Selling became more liberal, however, and a reaction to 72¾c followed. The close was steady, July unchanged at 72⅞c.

July corn opened ¼@⅜c to shade lower at 44⅞@44¾c under selling due to the receipts, 542 cars, 431 of contract grade. Although these were the heaviest in months the strength in wheat and oats produced a sympathetic buying movement and July rallied to 45¼c. May corn opened lc lower to unchanged at 45½@46½c and advanced to 48c on covering.

The corn market close was firm, July, 8⅝@⅞c higher, at 44⅞c, and May, 1½c up at 48c.

A strong country demand for oats caused a rise in values in that market. July opened a shade lower to ¼c higher at 28¼@28⅜c to 28¾c, rallied to 29c and reacted to 28⅝@⅞c. Receipts were 290 cars.

Provisions were quiet, but steady on the sympathy with the grains, prices holding close to Saturday's level. July pork opened unchanged at $14.85 and sold to $14.90. July lard opened unchanged to 2½c higher at $8.07½@8.10, and July ribs a shade up at $7.92½@7.95, advancing to $7.97½.

Close: Wheat—May, 73¼@73¾c; July, 72⅝c. Corn—May, 48c; July, 44⅞c. Oats—May, 30½c; July, 28¾@7⅛c; August, 29⅞c. Pork—May, $14.80; July, $14.92½; September, $14.87½. Lard—May, $8.25; July, $8.17½; September, $8.20. Ribs—May, $8.15; July, $7.97½@8.00; September, $7.92½@7.95. Flax—Cash Northwestern and No. 1, $1.70; May, $1.68; September, $1.39; October, $1.27. Cash: Wheat—No. 2 red, 70¼@75½c; No. 3 red, 73¾@74c; No. 2 hard winter, 73¼@74½c; No. 3 hard winter, 71¼@73¼; No. 1 northern spring, 73¾@74⅝c; No. 2 northern spring, 73¾@74½; No. 3 spring, 69@73½c. Corn—No. 2, 45½@47¼c; No. 3, 43¾@46c. Oats—No. 2, 29½c; No. 3, 29¾c. Rye—May, 52¾c; July, 61¾c. Barley—Cash, 40@56c. Timothy—September, $3.30@3.32½. Clover—September, $9.50.

Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured

"At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says Geo. E. Cary, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va. "After using several well recommended medicines without success, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and am pleased to say that relief came as soon as I began its use and a complete cure speedily followed. This remedy has also been used in my family for frost bitten feet with the best results. I cheerfully recommend its use to all who may need a first-class liniment." Sold at Boyce's Drug store.

Bodies of Unknown Individuals at Morgue.

Two unidentified bodies are at the undertaking rooms of Durkan & Crawford. One is the man found drowned near the Northwestern dock on Saturday morning and the other is the man found hanging to a tree out on the Thomson road yesterday. At first the the drowned man was thought to be Martin Olson, but friends of the latter having viewed the remains say they are positive that it is not Mr. Olson. Unless identified this evening both men will be buried tomorrow morning in Greenwood cemetery and at the expense of the county.

ON A JUNKET.

Four Aldermen Will Be Missing Tonight.

Nothing palpitating is indicated for tonight's council meeting. Four of the aldermen are away on a junketing trip getting pointers on vitrified brick. When last heard from they were in Galesburg, Ill., and telegraphing home for money with which to go to St. Louis. The aldermen on this trip are: L. A. Barnes, Seventh ward; R. L. Cochrane, Eighth ward; James L. Cromwell, Third ward, and Victor Johnson, of the Fifth ward. With these absent the council will not tackle anything but routine business.

Netx week the meeting promises to compensate for the threatened dullness tonight. At that time the aldermen will take up the famous Sheehy employment agency case and determine whether or not the former pugilist shall be permitted to have a license.

DECLINE IN STOCKS

Opening Was Very Irregular Except In a Few Stocks.

Trading Active With Marked Decline In the Active List.

Closing Weak With Sharp Losses on Many Stocks.

New York, May 20.—The opening of the stock Market was very irregular, but the mixed changes were confined to fractions, except in a few stocks. Union Pacific opened unchanged and broke a point on the second sale, subsequently declining 2 points under Saturday. Sugar lost 2½, and St. Paul, 1¼. B. & O. on the other hand jumped 2½ and Delaware & Hudson back a point.

Trading was active and confused, but there was a marked decline in the active stocks. St. Paul, Rock Island, Atchison, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, Delaware & Hudson, Erie, Amalgamated Copper, Sugar and Metropolitan declined from 2 to 2¾. Other leading stocks wer weak, but to a less degree. Meanwhile there were many good gains by stocks which do not usually become prominent, including Iowa Central, Lackawanna and Colorado Fuel. There was a strong rally before 11 o'clock, recovering up to over 2 points with St. Paul, Atchison, Texas & Pacific, and People's Gas prominent. The market became dull at the recoveries, which were not well held.

Large purchasing orders were executed in the coolers, and the group rose buoyantly, led by the Readings, which sold from 1¾ to 3⅛ above Saturday's close. This outburst of strength helped the entire market, and earlier losses were generally cancelled. Notable strength was displayed by the Southern and Southwestern stocks, but the Western group failed to make much headway, aside from Atchison and St. Paul. The last mentioned more than wiped out its 2¾ loss. Some of the specialties were lifted sharply, especially People's Gas, Linseed pfd, Lead pfd, Rubber pfd, and Rubber goods. Rubber pfd sold up 4¾. The junior Vanderbilt stocks made a good showing but the trunk lines were not in much demand. Bonds quiet and steady.

A rise in St. Paul to 163¾, the best price of the day, rallied the market, some other stocks recovering 1 and 2 points, but renewed weakness in Union Pacific turned the market down again. That stock fell 1½ below Saturday's close to par and others were lower than before. The closing was moderately active and weak, with a number of stocks showing sharp losses.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 20.—Cotton opened steady, with prices 2 to 3 points lower in compliance with wet weather from many parts of the belt. Large receipts and disappointing cables also stood in the path of an advance. Nevertheless, the market exhibited surprising stability and after the call worked up a few points on covering. Reappearance of July manipulation rumors had a potent effect in strengthening the market at the close of the first hour. The July option easily led the rise, and not until 7.59 was reached was there any sign of abatement in the demands of pit shorts.

DEFENSE ON.

Opens In the Virginia Fire Damage Cases.

The defense is introducing testimony in the case of Ole Halvorson against the Moon & Kerr Lumber company in district court, and the outlook is that the case will get to the jury some time this week. In opening to the jury the defense stated that it would be proven that the fire that destroyed the city of Virginia had no connection whatever with the fire at the company's mill. It would be shown that the fire in the city proper started in the plaintiff's butcher shop, and that it was due to his carelessness in leaving his shop to watch the mill fire.

In Judge Cant's court this noon the case of Henry F. Rehbein against Vincent & McClure, to recover $4340 alleged to be due for cutting and banking logs for the defendants, was on trial, and it was expected to take up all of this afternoon and a part of tomorrow.

If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or water-brash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. Max Wirth.

Files Amendments.

Several iron corporations in which Lazarus Silverman, of Chicago, is interested, have filed amendments to their articles of incorporation with the register of deeds. The most important amendment in each case is that regarding the limit of indebtedness, which provide that it shall be 10 per cent of the capital stock. The corporations are the Sixty-Three Twelve Iron Land company, the North Star Iron Land company and the Oriental Granite and Iron company.

Can Move the Building.

The Duluth Street Railway company has lost its injunction proceedings against Richard C. Sloan, in which it sought to have him restrained from moving a building on Garfield avenue on the ground that it would interfere with street railway traffic. Judge Dibell this morning signed and filed an order discharging the order to show cause why an injunction should not be issued. The matter was heard in special term a week ago. Miller & Adams were attorneys for Sloan.

Beware of a Cough.

A cough is not a disease but a symptom. Consumption and bronchitis, bronchitis, which are the most dangerous and fatal disease, have for their first indication a persistent cough, and if properly treated as soon as this cough appears are easily cured. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven wonderfully successful, and gained its wide reputation and extensive sale by its success in curing the disease which cause coughing. If it is not beneficial it will not cost you a cent. For sale at Boyce's Drug store.

CONVENTION OF WHALES.

The residents of the island of Santa Catalina witness some strange sights in the course of the year, writes the Pasadena correspondent of the New York Sun. People on the beach are sometimes bombarded with flying fishes that jump out of the water when chased by the tunas, and a few days ago a school of large squids dashed in, leaping upon the beach and filling the water with their ink. It is supposed that the squids were trying to escape the orcas.

The orca is a whale about thirty feet in length, entirely black with the exception of a pure white collar and saddle. It has teeth and is so active that it chases seals and sea lions out of the water upon the beach and has actually been known to snatch a sea lion from the rocks. This season whales have been particularly common here, and recently a vast convention of them was observed at the entrance of the bay of Avalon. A steamer had a collision with one of them.

"These whales have a way of collecting together," said the captain of a steamer, "and for what purpose I do not know. Several years ago when I was running a small yacht they gathered at a deep bank to the southeast of the island. I went out to them a number of times, and they stayed so long that excursions were run out to see them. It was a wonderful sight. I can't say how many whales there were. There may have been nearly a hundred, or possibly fifty, but enough to keep the deep water over that bank boiling.

"The games they played were worth seeing. Sometimes they would leap into the air; sometimes they would shoot along the surface; but the finest sight was when looking down upon them from the boat they would be seen twenty or more feet below swimming in great circles. I saw there were great numbers of jellyfish about—the whale food—and I reckon that was what they were after."

WANTED DUELS.

Everybody in Paris, most people in South Africa, and a good many in London know Thomeguex, celebrated principally as a swordsman, says London M. A. P. The duel of Thomeguex and Pini, the Italian champion, at which Tout-Paris assisted as at a fashionable matinee, has a unique place in the annals of the Ville-Lumiere; and the subsequent formation by Thomegeux of a kind of dueling "trust," or syndicate, to challenge all Italy, kept the newspapers lively for a long time. Thomeguex, who is a tall, broad-shouldered man of broad physique, carries his 47 years as lightly as he does the long fair ringlets that fall almost to his shoulders. His little apartment in the Rue St. Honore is a miniature museum of terrible weapons and jaunty pictures.

And into this apartment one morning recently a young painter, who is also an amateur of the sword, came, wearing a grave and anxious countenance.

"Thomegeux," said he, "will you be one of the temoins?"

"Now, temoins, which means "best man" at a marriage, also means a second at a duel. Thomegeux was in delight.

"Certainly, mon cher; with whom is the affair?"

"Why, Mademoiselle T——"

Thomegeux dropped his friend's hand. "Oh, ho!" said he, as though recollecting himself, "your marriage! And I thought it was a duel! Non, non! mon cher, be reasonable!"

WINE BOTTLE FAD.

From time immemorial wine has been regarded as one of the choicest gifts which can be presented to friends on birthdays and other festive occasions, and now it is becoming the practice in various parts of Europe to render such gifts still more welcome by hiding whatever is commonplace and prosaic about them beneath most attractive decorations, which usually take the form of a comely female figure, says the New York Herald.

In Germany the fashion of adorning the various kinds of wine bottles in this manner has spread rapidly. Glazed and tissue paper of different colors is used for this purpose, being cut and fastened together so as to form appropriate costumes, while on the top of each bottle is generally fixed a doll's head.

The arms are made out of flesh-colored cardboard, and artificial jewelry in the form of necklaces, pins and brooches is freely used wherever it is considered necessary.

The figure of a buxom Dutch girl serves to beautify those bottles which contain Dutch liqueurs; the figure of a Spanish girl arrayed in the national costume is used as a decoration for bottles of Malaga, port and similar wines, and a dainty Italian maiden plays the same part for bottle containing Marsala, Vermouth and other wines of Italy.

STRANGE REPORT

Paragraph Printed In Town Topics Causes a Sensation.

Infers That Late Mrs. Senator McPherson Was Poisoned.

Throws Suspicion of Odious Crime on a Society Lady.

New York, May 20—In the last issue of Town Topics, the following paragraph appears: "The dispute over the will of the late Mrs. John R. McPherson threatens to cause trouble in society. Indeed, the situation is so serious it may lead to a woman well known in the world of fashion being arrested for a crime. Mrs. Muir, Mrs. McPherson's daughter, is, I hear, in possession of certain facts that lead her to suspect her mother was poisoned. The woman Mrs. Muir charges with the crime is traveling in Europe. The motive is said to have been robbery. A valuable collection of jewelry and a large sum of money were known to be in Mrs. McPherson's possession, but when she died they had disappeared. Her death, it will be remembered, was very sudden. It will also be recalled that Mrs. McPherson's remains were cremated."

Arthur Johns, counsel for Mrs. Muir, stated that the insinuation that Mrs. Senator McPherson had been poisoned was ridiculous. The intimation that there was any robbery he characterized as equally groundless. He was well aware, he stated, of all the facts connected with Mrs. McPherson death, and had cabled them to Mrs. Muir on her arrival in Europe nearly a week after her mother expired. He had been requested by cable to defer the cremation of the body until Mrs. Muir could return, but found such a procedure impossible, and so cabled Mrs. Muir.

At present Mrs. Muir is in New Jersey.

A. S. Baldwin, administrator of the estate, said he knew of no collection of jewelry or sum of money missing from Mrs. McPherson's effects after her death, and that he placed no credence in the story.

Dr. E. G. Janeway, who treated Mrs. McPherson, declined most emphatically to discuss the woman's death.

"I make it an absolute rule never to discuss my cases with any one," said Dr. Janeway when seen at his residence.

"Doctor, were there any symptoms whatever that Mrs. McPherson died an unnatural death, or that she might have received poison?" he was asked.

"I can't discuss that at all. I will say this, however," said the doctor with a sarcastic smile, "I find that a great many fools of the world are not dead yet."

Mrs. Bessie M. Stewart, daughter of United States Senator Stewart of Nevada, at whose house on Lexington avenue Mrs. McPherson died on March 29, was seen in her Fifth avenue store. She said: "The story of Mrs. McPherson having been poisoned is perfectly ridiculous. There isn't a word of truth in it. No such thing could have occurred. If it had, such a reputable physician as Dr. Janeway would not have given a death certificate. Mrs. McPherson died of natural causes. Her death was due to pneumonia. The story is a very silly one, to say the least."

Mrs. Stewart had left for Europe several days before Mrs. McPherson became ill, and was abroad when the widow of the former senator died. Mrs. John R. McPherson's death was said at the time to be due to pneumonia, which had caused the death of her only son, Gregory, four years before.

Dr. and Mrs. Muir sailed for Europe a few days before the death of Mrs. McPherson. Three days after they sailed Mrs. McPherson contracted a cold. She was alone in her apartments with her maid. The cold developed rapidly into grip, and Dr. E. G. Janeway and Dr. T. C. Janeway, his son, were called in. Pneumonia succeeded grip, and Mrs. McPherson died. Former Governor R. S. Green of New Jersey, Arthur Jones and other friends were with her all through the night until her death.

By the terms of Mrs. McPherson's will Mrs. Muir is to receive only the income of the McPherson estate, which is reckoned at nearly $1,000,000.

CABLE FLASHES.

According to advices from Seoul, the Korean government has leased to Japan 425 acres of land to form a settlement at Ma San Po. The land in question was formerly anxiously sought by Russia.

Further investigation into the case of the American clergyman who committed suicide at the International hotel by swallowing corrosive sublimate and severing an artery in his wrist, and who was mentioned in Saturday's dispatches as Mr. Maltie, an American evangelical minister, proves the suicide to have been the Rev. Mr. Babcock.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Dennis Reed, an 18-year-old boy, shot and seriously wounded George Williams at Metropolis, Ill., Saturday night. Reed had called on Williams' daughter against the latter's orders. Williams stepped into the room, objected to the young man's presence in his house, and the shooting followed.

Oran Ott, who for more than nineteen years was general purchasing agent of the Illinois Central railroad, and who was for nearly forty years in the continuous service of the company, died at his home at Chicago yesterday of inflammation of the brain. The remains will be buried in Restland cemetery, Mendota, Ill.

James Carruthers, a former well-known hotel man of Milwaukee, committed suicide by jumping into the river Saturday. Mr. Carruthers was proprietor of the Kirby house for many years. Despondency is said to be the cause. He was 46 years old.

TOO MUCH STRYCHNINE.

Catherine Germaine In a Critical Condition.

Minneapolis, May 20.—Katherine Germaine, playing the leading role in "The Highwayman" at the Metropolitan in this city, swallowed nearly one dozen strychnine pills yesterday afternoon and may die. She was suffering with toothache during the afternoon and resorted to a dentist's office. He gave her the pills, with instructions to take one every three hours. The instructions were misunderstood, and not knowing their deadly contents, Miss Germaine took the overdose. At midnight her condition was critical.

National Register For Show Horses.

That the importance of horse shows is now widely acknowledged is best demonstrated by the founding of the American Horse Show Blue Book, a work that is intended to provide a national register of all horses that have been exhibited at the important exhibitions throughout the United States. The establishing of such a register has been the natural result of the steadily increasing interest in horse shows and prominent breeders and fanciers have unanimously endorsed the work and are universal in their belief that the register has now become a necessity. The prominence with which the American trotting-bred horse has assumed in the show ring has caused the breeder as well as the fancier to seek for the breeding of blue ribbon winners and the Blue Book will naturally be very valuable in furnishing authoritative information in this respect

The compilation of the Blue Book is being directed by the Coach and Saddle Publishing company, Marquette building, Chicago, publishers of the illustrated horse show organ, Coach and Saddle. Over thirty prominent shows will be held during this year and in the preparation of the register an immense volume of information must necessarily be collected. Each show will be compiled separately and the official awards will be shown, as well as the descriptions, breeding, etc., of all horses and ponies exhibited. Already the awards of the Boston, Brooklyn, Durland, Memphis and New Orleans have been compiled and the early proof sheets present a systematic reference that is not to be found in any other publication.

Rheumatism

Rheumatism is due to an excess of acid in the blood. When this escapes through the pores of the skin, as it often does, it produces some form of skin eruption—some itching disease like Eczema or Tetter—but when these little tubes or sweat glands are suddenly closed by exposure to cold and sudden chilling of the body, then the poisons thrown off by the blood, finding no outlet, settle in membranes, muscles, tissues and nerves. These parts become greatly inflamed, feverish and hot; dagger-like, maddening pains follow in quick succession, the muscles become extremely tender, the nerves break down and the sufferer is soon reduced to a state of helplessness and misery. This acid poison penetrates the joints and seems to dry out the natural oils, and the legs, arms and fingers become so stiff and sore that every movement is attended with excruciating pains.

Liniments, plasters, electricity and baths, while their use may give temporary ease, cannot be called cures, for the disease returns with every change of the weather.

"Three years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe, which left me almost a physical wreck. To add to my wretched condition, a severe form of Rheumatism developed. I tried all the physicians in our city, but none of them could do me any permanent good. I used all the rheumatic cures I could hear of, but received no benefit. After beginning S. S. S. I was relieved of the pains and have gained in flesh and strength and my general health is better than for years. I cousider S. S. S. the grandest blood medicine in the world, and heartily recommend it to any one seeking relief from the tortures of Rheumatism.

B. F. GREGORY, Union, S. C."

S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by working a complete change in the blood; the acids are neutralized, the circulation purified and the rich, healthy blood that is carried to the irritated, aching muscles and joints, soothes and heals them. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism even when inherited or brought on by the excessive use of mercury. Opium, in some form, is the basis of nearly all so-called Rheumatic Cures, which deaden the pain but do not touch the disease and lead to ruinous habits. Alkalies and the potash and mineral remedies so often prescribed, affect the tender lining of the stomach and weaken the digestion, thus adding another burden to the already weak and impoverished blood. S. S. S. contains no mineral or dangerous drug of any kind, but is a simple, vegetable remedy and the most perfect blood purifier known. Send for our book on Rheumatism and write our physicians if you wish any information or advice. We would be glad to mail you a book free; we charge nothing whatever for medical advice.

ACTIVITY OF GORMAN

Former Senator Getting Ready For the Maryland Campaign.

Evidence of His Desire to Return to the Senate.

Good Market For Cement Reported In South Africa.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Baltimore Sun, the paper which has opposed the political ambitions of former Senator Gorman for years, prints under a conspicuous head line the following:

Ex-Senator Gorman was in town recently and spent several hours at the Hotel Rennert, where he conferred with a number of the party leaders. It was stated that Mr. Gorman has practically arranged to occupy, as his personal quarters, rooms at the Eutaw house separate from the Democratic headquarters, which are at the same hotel. Mr. Gorman, it is understood, will personally direct the campaign and will spend the larger part of his time between the opening of the fall campaign, which is only a few weeks off, and the November election, at these headquarters.

Just what rooms he is to occupy have not yet been decided upon, but the fact that he intends to direct the fight and place himself at the head of the Democratic forces and organization is regarded as significant. It is also taken as indicative of his great personal interest in the outcome of the fight and of his determination to make a supreme effort to return to the United States senate.

At the Rennert Mr. Gorman saw both Governor Smith and Treasurer Vandiver. They spent some time with him, and preparations for the opening of the campaign and the coming meeting of the Democratic state central committee were carefully discussed.

Mr. Gorman afterwards saw several of the local leaders and discussed city matters with them.

He left the city late in the afternoon of the same day, but is expected to be in Baltimore again within the near future.

Baltimore furnishes to the public at large a good many unique stories. A recent publication in the Baltimore Sun states that a man aged 85 is to marry a Miss Bertha Lucas, said to be about 60. The Sun adds: A rumor to the effect that Joshua Regester, Sr., 85 years old, founder of the firm of J. Regester's Sons' company, manufacturers of plumbers' supplies, will be married in a few months to Miss Bertha Lucas, of East Chase street, who is about 60 years of age, gained considerable circulation, and when questioned as to the truth of it Mr. Regester said that it was. Beyond confirming the report Mr. Regester would say nothing.

The wedding, it is said, will take place in October. Both bride and groom are very well known in Baltimore, the former as a church member and worker and the latter as a prominent man of business and representative citizen. Miss Lucas is one of the best known members of the Madison Square Methodist Episcopal church, of this city. She is a well-known laborer among the poor in the northeastern section.

Mr. Regester is said to have often expressed himself as being very lonely since the death of his wife, which occurred several years ago. He is known to be of a very domestic nature and has since his wife's death occupied his home, Caroline and Chase street, with a granddaughter. He has five sons.

It was reported in the neighborhood of Mr. Regester's home that the sons were strongly opposed to the coming wedding. One son, Daniel T. Regester, refused to discuss the matter, and the granddaughter, who makes her home with her grandfather, also refused to say anything regarding it.

Consul General Guenther writes from Frankfort: "According to official reports South Africa is a good market for cement. All public buildings, stores and dwellings are coated with cement. There are very few wooden buildings erected. The masons in South Africa are mostly Malays. They are skilled in their trade, and do their work very neatly. Cement is also very largely used in the construction of aqueducts, wharves, chimneys, walls, etc. While the principal import of cement is from Great Britain, considerable quantities are also imported from Belgium and Germany, the latter, on account of its cheapness, increasing. Belgium cement is of good quality and as cheap as the English article. The reports state that American cement could compete well, as transportation from our country is not higher than from Europe. Cement cannot be manufactured in South Africa for lack of raw material."

In a recent communication from Consul Alfred Winslow, at Liege, the following interesting facts are given:

"Trade between this consular district and the United States is undergoing important changes, generally to the advantage of the latter. The consumption of American-made goods here is several times as great as it was three years ago. It is a very common thing to see in a Liege shop window a show card bearing the word, 'Americaine.' In some cases, however, the articles are imitations. Goods manufactured in the United States meet with much more ready sale than formerly, one usually at a considerable advance in price, since their great superiority has come to be so generally recognized.

"The change in the variety and quantity of goods shipped to the United States is also very marked. It is interesting to note that more than one-third of the firearms imported by the United States from this district are in the shape of gun-barrel tubes rough bored and forged. Prior to the 1897 tariff law, and for a year thereafter, a shipment of gun barrels was a rare occurrence, and when one was made it was of high-grade Damask barrel. It will be noted that a year ago the average price for a gun-barrel-tube was 66 cents, while this year the average is 80 cents, and the quality of the goods shipped is said to be better.

"About four-fifths of the guns exported to the United States from here are machine made. The parts are interchangeable and are far superior to the hand-made articles sold at the same price. Nearly all the machinery used in the manufacture of these guns is imported from the United States. Another feature of the gun trade of particular interest is its centralization. At present 75 per cent of the guns sent out of the United States are shipped by four firms, whereas formerly there were twenty, about equally represented.

"For the year 1897 wool and woolen goods cut a big figure in the exports from this district, but since that time they have been a small factor, not a pound of wool having been sent to the United States and only $196,757.94 worth of woolen goods for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1900." The exportation of salted sheepskins, however, shows a remarkable increase, being $70,459.30 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1898, and $143,269.68 for the year ended June 30, 1890. The shipments of cut glass also show a marked increase over January and February of last year."

A FAST LIFE.

A Connecticut Youth Gains Three Years In Ten Days.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 20.—Theodore E. Rogers, aged 22, of aWterbury, Conn., came 1500 to Knoxville for the purpose of securing a license to practice law, which he could not have secured in his native state for three years. His story is interesting. The Connecticut law requires an applicant to have been registered three years before a license will be granted. Young Rogers three years ago entered the office of his stepfather and studied diligently. It was the duty of the stepfather to register Rogers when he entered the office and Rogers supposed—this had been attended to until ten days since. When his time was out and he was ready to be examined it was discovered that the stepfather had forgotten to make the registration. It was a great disappointment to the young man, who saw three more years of toil and preparation starhg him in the face. The stepfather was chagrined also, but lawyer-like began recapitulating for the best way out of the predicament. Codes of different states were examined and it was found Tennessee made no requirements other than good character and ability to pass a successful examination.

Rogers boarded a train, arriving in Knoxville a few days since. He secured introductions to judges, lawyers and court officials, to whom he told his story. He found friends on every had. He was examined by three prominent attorneys, passed successfully and licensed to practice. A charming companion, he made many friends. Champagne was ordered by Rogers, and for a while temperance was not recognized. Later in the evening Rogers fell into the hands of Philistines and bucked against a gambling game, losing his money. In a sorry plight his friends again rallied to his aid and cashed a draft for him so he could purchase a ticket home. He was indignant at his losses, and wanted to bring suit against the gamblers, but was persuaded not to do so. He left for home, and will roll into Waterbury, having led a fast life on his Southern trip, gained three years in ten days and made many friends.

FASHIONABLE HOME

Desolated By the Desertion of the Wife.

Muncie, Ind., May 20.—Several weeks ago Mrs. Darwin Kindy left her home mysteriously. A week's search availed nothing. A few days later the young husband found a letter from his wife, which had been overlooked, informing him that she had left forever. This caused numerous stories to arise throughout the fashionable neighborhood of Normal City, in which the Kindys were among the most problnent citizens. The young husband, upon finding the note instantly gave up the search. aLter the wife was heard from in Chicago. The sudden absence of a young man from Muncie added to the rumors.

Kindy, who is superintendent of the works of the Ontario Silverware company, has filed suit for divorce.

NEWS OF THE LAKES

Vesselmen Indignant Over Trouble With Elevator Companies.

Vessel Reporting Station at Detour Has Been Discontinued.

Barge Warringer Hard Aground at Lime Kilns Crossing.

Chicago, May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grain rates fell off to 1½ cents but shippers were not bidding much. Vesselmen are having a good deal of trouble and delay over the question of cargoes going into their boats. This always comes about during a board of trade deal, and vesselmen are becoming indignant at being made the victims in the endless wrangle between elevator companies and the runner of corners.

STATION DISCONTINUED.

Chicago, May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The vesel station of the Lake Marine news at Detour has been discontinued, owing to the loss of business on account of the consolidation of fleets in the steel trust. The station, which was established on the building of the telegraph line from Sault Ste. Marie to Detour five years ago, has been proved of much convenience to vesselmen, particularly in the way of changing orders and during the blockades in the Soo passage, but a loss of patronage now requires its discontinuance.

WARRINGER AGROUND.

Amhersthurg, May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The barge Warringer in tow of the steamer Flagg, went hard aground at the Lime Kilns crossing last night. She is out about a foot forward and will have to lighter her cargo before she can be released.

AT HARBOR BEACH.

Harbor Beach, May 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheltered: Armenia, Norway. Houghton, Departed: Shores, Calhoun, The D. M Whitney is outside at anchor waiting for a tug.

AN IMMENSE TOW.

The largest vessel tow that ever sailed the great lakes is on its way down loaded with ore from Duluth and Two Harbors. Yesterday the steamer Poe, towing the barges Fritz and Jenney, left Duluth loaded with ore. At Two Harbors the barge Smeaton was picked up and added to the tow, making a total of four vessels with a combined capacity of 27,300 tons. The aggregate of the cargoes was about 25,000 tons. The largest previous tow carried 21,000 tons, so this breaks the record by 5000 tons.

GRAIN AND COAL AT BUFFALO.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 20.—The Lake Michigan grain fleet broke the record in several ways this time. The ice blockade brought practically everything in with a rush, so that there has been well towards 6,000,000 bushels of grain afloat here at a time and the old-time record of 10,000,000 bushels was passed some days ago. The elevators go through the stuff as though t was so much chaff, again proving that grain blockades here are never the fault of the elevators themselves but due to lack of capacity for moving the grain eastward. Soon there will be a good-sized fleet in from Duluth. The coal supply has been fair. A record of eight rays shows about an even 100,000 tons shipped, but there were only forty-four cargoes of not quite 2000 tons in each cargo, when the average not so very long ago was less than 1000 tons. Coal freights remain firm.

GILCHRIST BARGES TO RETURN.

Four barges owned by J. C. Gilchrist, which have been in service on the Atlantic coast several seasons, will be started on their return to the lakes about June 1. It hasbe en fully demonstrated that they can be employed more profitably on fresh than on salt water.

SUGAR CARGO BURNED.

Early last Wednesday morning the canal boat Nonpariel, owned by Capt. Daniel Kill and loaded with a cargo of sugar valued at $15,000, was sunk by colliding with an abutment of the Central railroad bridge over the Erie canal near Tonawanda. The boat was one of three consorts of the steamer William Hengerer. The steamer and town were endeavoring to pass a pair of boats going east when the accident happened. Capt. Kill and his wife and two children narrowly escaped with their lives. The ruined sugar is fully insured.

The canalboat Hudson collided with a lock gate near Lockport, on Wednesday also, and sank with a cargo of oats.

LAKE CARRIERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Lake Carriers' association, says the Cleveland Leader, is now passing through a delicate state in its existence, and until very recently was threatened more seriously with disruption or disablement than it was during the assaults which the marine engineers made upon it. When the various companies turned over their boats to the Pittsburg Steamship company, they were virtually withdrawn from the enrollment in the Lake Carriers' association. Should they continue as a separate factor, asking no assistance from other vessels and giving none to any, it would mean the crippling of the owners' legislative body.

THE PROPOSED CANAL FLEET.

A dispatch from Montreal states that Swan & Hunter, of Tyneside, England, and the Cockerill Shipbuilding company of Belgium, will build a big fleet of grain-carriers for the Canadian canals and upper lakes just as soon as the erection of an elevator system in the harbor at Montreal and the titting out of Port Colborne to handle grain again become definite undertakings. The vessels will be 260 feet long, 42 feet beam, and will have a draught of 14 feet. They will comprise steamers and towbarges.

Articles of Incorporation OF DULUTH REAL ESTATE CO.

We, the undersigned, have associated ourselves together to form a corporation for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, pursuant to the provisions of Title 2, Chapter 34 of the General Statutes of Minnesota, 1894, and the acts amendatory thereof, and for that purpose have organized by adopting the following articles of incorporation.

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be "Duluth Real Estate Company." The principal place of business shall be the city of Duluth, in St. Louis County, Minnesota. The general nature of the business of said corporation shall be to loan money upon real estate, personal or other security; to negotiate and effect loans of money for other persons and corporations for a compensation; to make, endorse, guarantee and discount notes, mortgages and certificates of indebtedness, both for itself and as agents for others; to buy, own, hold, hypothecate, transfer, sell and deal in bonds, notes, mortgages, stock of other corporations, and other property and securities, and to collect, foreclose, release and compound mortgages and other obligations; to buy, own, mortgage, lease, let, sell, deal in and improve lands, tenements and hereditaments, real, mixed and personal property, in the state of Minnesota, state of Wisconsin and elsewhere, both for itself and as agents for other persons and corporations; to act as agent for other persons and corporations in the management, improvement, purchase and sale of property, and in the collection of rents and revenues therefrom, for a compensation; to act as agent for fire insurance companies; and in general to perform, execute and do all and singular acts and instruments necessary and proper to be done, executed and performed in carrying on a general real estate and investment business.

ARTICLE II.

The time of commencement of said corporation shall be the first day of May, A. D. 1901, and the period of continuance of said corporation shall be thirty years.

ARTICLE III.

The amount of the capital stock of said corporation shall be fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00), which shall be paid in at such times and in such amounts, and in such a manner as the directors shall determine.

ARTICLE IV.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which said corporation shall at any time be subject shall be one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00).

ARTICLE V.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming said corporation are:

Franklin J. Pulford, Duluth, Minnesota.
Calvin F. How, Duluth, Minnesota.
Benjamin W. How, Sauk Centre, Minnesota.

ARTICLE VI.

The names of the first board of directors are:

Franklin J. Pulford.
Calvin F. How.
Benjamin W. How.

Said directors shall hold their offices until the first annual meeting of the stockholders, which shall be held at the office of the corporation in Duluth, Minnesota, on the second Monday in January, 1902, at 10 o'clock a. m.; the time to hold all subsequent meetings may be fixed by the by-laws.

The government of said corporation and the full management of all its affairs shall be vested in the above named board of directors until the first annual meeting of the stockholders, and thereafter shall be vested in a board of not less than three or more than nine directors, who shall be stockholders of said corporation, and who shall be elected annually by the stockholders at the annual meeting.

There shall also be the following officers of said corporation, who shall perform such duties and who shall have such power as may be prescribed by the board of directors and who shall be elected annually by the board of directors at the annual meeting held immediately following the annual meeting of the stockholders:

A president.
A vice president.
A treasurer.
A secretary.

Any two of said officers, except the president and vice president, may be held by the same person at the same time. The directors and said officers of said corporation shall hold their respective offices for one year or until their successors are duly elected and qualified.

The following persons shall act as officers of said corporation until the first annual meeting of the stockholders:

Franklin J. Pulford, president.
Benjamin W. How, vice president.
Calvin F. How, secretary and treasurer.

ARTICLE VII.

The capital stock of said corporation shall be divided into one thousand (1000) shares of the par value of fifty dollars ($50.00) each.

In testimony whereof, we have hereunto signed our names and affixed our seals this 15th day of April, A. D. 1901.

Firms In New York Granted Machinists Demands.

New York, May 21.—At the headquarters of District 15, International Association of Machinists, it was said today that only two firms of any importance in this city have refused to grant the request of the machinists for a nine-hour day. The two firms are the R. Hoe Printing Press company, employing 700 machinists, and the Garvin Machine company, where 500 men went on strike yesterday.

SPANISH WAR PENSIONS.

Mrs. Byron of Duluth Gets $12 a Month.

Washington, May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following pensions have been granted: War with Spain, original, Christen Christenson, of Elmdale, $30; war with Spain, widow, Jane Byron mother, of Duluth, $12.

VERY CLOSE

But the Shamrock II Was Again Defeated.

The Conditions Were All In Her Favor.

Ryde, Isle of Wight, May 21.—The two Shamrocks started today over a course as nearly as possible similar to those of the windward and leeward courses of the contests for the America's cup. Starting from No Man fort, the course was laid fifteen miles to windward and return. A moderate, varying breeze of eight to twelve knots was blowing and the water was smooth.

The racers had a preliminary bout as they beat out from Cowes roads for the starting line. The Shamrock I started half a mile ahead, but the challenger, after four long tacks, closed up and stayed broad to leeward, holding a better wind in magnificent style and when she met the Shamrock I some one had to give away in order to avoid a foul. Capt. Wringe, of the Shamrock I, should have yielded, but he held on and Capt. Sycamore was forced to round up in the wind to clear her. The Erin was awaiting the boats at No Man fort and started them. The Shamrock II came around ahead of Fife's boat aad, immediately after the signal was given, led her out to a fine start, having advantage of probably half a minute. They went off beating to windward, on short tacks, with the challenger pointing rather the better, going fast and increasing her lead on every tack.

The wind hauled round a little southeasterly, but held fair and steady, and the racers slipped along smoothly and fast. The conditions were such, however, as to raise doubts if they could finish the thirty miles within the five and a half hours allowed for cup matches. The conditions seemed to admirably suit the challenger. She pointed higher and footed faster than the old boat, and gradually edged out to windward and went ahead. Once clear of the island point they had a few cross tacks in-shore, and the Shamrock I dropped into the wake of the leader as they fetched off.

The times at the mark off the end of the island were as follows:

H.M.S.
Shamrock II..... ....12:34:10
Shamrock I..... .....12:36:02

This showed nearly two minutes' gain for the challenger in an hour's sailing, and part of the time the Shamrock II sailed without a jib topsail, and looked as though she had the whole game in hand.

3:29 p. m.—The Shamrock I overhauled and passed the Shamrock II on the home run.

4:12 p. m.—The Shamrock I won by barely half a minute.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

A Well Known Business Man, John E. King, of Lewiston, Idaho, Arrested For Alleged Shooting of His Partner.

Lewiston, Idaho, May 21.—A sensation was caused here last evening by the arrest of John N. King, a well known business man, charged with the murder of Charles E. Thatcher. The latter, who was a partner of King, was murdered in the firm's store at Lapwai, twelve miles from Lewiston, on the night of July 15, 1898. King's statement at the coroner's inquest was to the effect that two masked men entered the store and shot Thatcher. Two bullets of different caliber were found in his body. Thatcher was a prominent citizen and the tragedy attracted much attention, a reward of $3000 having been offered for the arrest of the murderer. The warrant for King's arrest was issued on complaint made by Harry Thatcher, a grain dealer of Genesee and a brother of the murdered man. The state will attempt to prove that King and Thatcher quarreled and that King took revolvers from the bed which both men occupied and fired a bullet from each into Thatcher's body. King is the manager of a large flour milling plant here and also conducts a store at Lapwai.

GOSSIP ABOUT MILNER

His Near Approach to English Shores Excites Comment as to What the King Will Do For Him.

New York, May 21.—Dealing with rumors about the near approach of Sir Alfred Milner to English shores, the London correspondent of the Tribune says the gossips alternately raise him to the peerage and supersede him as high commissioner of South Africa. Some more imaginative marplots even persist in ejecting Mr. Chamberlain from the colonial office and substituting Sir Alfred for him. All these rumors are idle tales. Sir Alfred Milner cannot be allowed to return to London for a conference with Mr. Chamberlain without a demonstration of royal appreciation and public approval. He is not likely to retire from Marlborough house without a decoration of some kind, and the peerage will be a natural reward for services which have been more arduous than those of any predecessor. Nothing is known about the king's purpose beyond the exceptional distinction of welcoming him at Marlborough house as soon as he arrives in London, rumors relating to his permanent retirement from South Africa or acceptance of office in the Salisbury cabinet are highly improbable. Some of the recent appointments in South Africa have been unfortunate and there is an immense mass of detail respecting the reconstruction policy, which Mr. Chamberlain and he will need to go over together. His visit will be well timed if it enables two statesmen most familiar with South Africa to prevent the exploitation of the new colonies by monopolists and mine owning millionaires.

AN EXODUS TO HAWAII

Hundreds of Porto Ricans Embark For the Hawaiian Islands and Hundreds More Are Ready to Sail.

San Juan, Porto Rico, May 21.—Nine hundred emigrants embarked on the steamer Californian at Guanica for Hawaii today, leaving 400 more ready to sail. Joyous manifestations accompanied the departure of the emigrants. Fourteen weddings and forty-eight baptisms took place Sunday. The emigration agents are spending, it is estimated, about $10,000 in recruiting and maintaining the emigrants. Favorable reports from Hawaii have caused a continuation of the emigration.

RATE ON FLOUR.

Lake and Rail Lines Adopt Schedules.

St. Paul, May 21.—Officials of the lake and rail lines have adopted a rate of 19½ cents on flour, both export and domestic. They were forced to this step because the all-rail lines had announced a 15-cent rate from Chicago and at least two lines between the Twin Cities and Chicago agreed to a 6-cent rate, making the all-rail flour rate to the seaboard 21 cents. The new 19½-cent rate is immediately effective.

POSITION FOR HAGGERTY.

Philadelphia, May 21.—Dr. James Edward Haggerty, instructor in economics in the Wharton school, has received an appointment as assistant professor of economics at the Ohio State university, Columbus, Ohio, and will begin work in his new position in September. Dr. Haggerty, who is a graduate of the University of Illinois, took a post graduate course at Pennsylvania.

ALL IS WELL.

Emperor Francis Joseph Speaks of Cordial Relations.

Vienna, May 21.—The delegations were received by Emperor Francis Joseph at the Hofburg today with the usual ceremonies. Replying to the addresses presented the emperor emphasized the "Continuance of the unaltered cordial relationship of all the empires allied with us," and "the friendly relations of all the powers, 'deducting' from this gratifying political situation, the just hope that peace will continue to be maintained." The remainder of his majesty's speech was without importance.

CADETS EXPELLED

Five West Pointers Dismissed and Six Are Suspended.

Secretary of War Approves Sentence of the Officials.

The Result of the Recent Disorders at the Academy.

Washington, May 21.—Secretary Root has approved the action of the board of officers at West Point which recommended the dismissal of five cadets and the suspension of six others. This sustains the course of Col. Mills and the other officers in the recent disturbances at the academy.

Col. Mills, superintendent of the military academy had a long consultation with the secretary of war today relative to recent disorders among the cadets at West Point. The papers in the cases of the cadets who have been tried for offenses against the authorities have been in the department for some time, but have not been acted upon. Superintendent Mills explained the condition at the academy insisting that many of the published reports were exaggerated. The present difficulty grows out of the attempt to suppress hazing, and the restrictions that have been made in this direction since Col. Mills became superintendent. The superintendent spoke in the highest terms of the cadets, and thought it was only a question of a short time before thte customary conditions would be resumed. The matter of discipline was in question and that must be maintained.

DROWNED.

Believed That Ex-Congressman Glover Met Death In a Flood.

Victor, Col., May 21.—John M. Glover, an ex-congressman from the St. Louis, Mo., district, is reported to have met his death in the floods near Love, Col., ten miles from here on Sunday last. A horse with a saddle was found in that vicinity today and it is thought to have belonged to Glover, who is missing.

Just before the big flood reached the little hamlet of Love, a man was seen riding a horse down the gulch. He was in the direct patch of the roaring wall of water that went tearing down the ravine This man, it is believed was Glover.

Mr. Glover was formerly a practicing attorney at St. Louis. He came West about a year ago and was engaged in mining near Clyde.

ARE FILTHY.

One Reason For Deporting Band of Servian Gypsies.

New York, May 21.—The fifty Servian gypsies who were detained on Ellis island as likely to become public charges have been taken to the steamship Lahn for deportation. In spite of the fact that the gypsies had about $5000, and were bound for Canada, the immigration officials decided that they could not land.

One of the objections to admitting the gypsies to the country is their filthiness.

CASH IS MISSING.

Mysterious Disappearance of Eight Thousand In Currency.

Kansas City, May 21.—A package containing $8000 in currency, consigned by registered mail by the National Bank of Commerce to a bank in Great Bend, Kas., has disappeared, and detectives are working on the theory that it was stolen by some one connected with the postal service.

FOOLHARDY TRIP.

Men Start For Europe In Indian Canoe.

Victoria, B. C., May 21.—J. C. Iris, a seafaring man, who two years ago started from here in the yacht Xora for Paris but abandoned the trip at Panama, started today on a similar expedition, this time in an Indian war canoe decked over and fitted with sails and made thoroughly seaworthy. He is accompanied by Norman Luxton, a newspaper man formerly of Winnipeg and Milwaukee. They will visit the South seas, Australia, South Africa and Great Britain.

PLACED IN VAULT.

Remains of Mrs. Gage at Rose Hill Cemetery.

Chicago, May 21.—The remains of Mrs. Lyman J. Gage arrived from Washington today, accompanied by Secretary Gage, his daughter, Mrs. Pierce (Mrs. Gage's sister), Mrs. Hendee, of Yonkers, N. Y.; D. H. Burnham and Rev. N. D. Hillis, who officiated at the funeral services in Washington yesterday, and who will conduct the rites at the grave. The funeral party arrived on the Pennsylvania limited and, transferring to the Northwestern, proceeded to Rose Hill cemetery, where the body was placed in a receiving vault. The services tomorrow afternoon will be strictly private.

SUICIDES

Fay Carlyle Ends Life With Carbolic Acid.

Was Despondent Over Loss of Her Lawsuit.

Disappointed and weary of the frivolous life she was leading, Miss Fay Carlyle, alias Mrs. J. K. Oliver, committed suicide at an early hour this morning at 233 St. Croix avenue.

She attained much notoriety and disappointment through a suit recently brought against the Omaha road for $5000 damages for injuries sustained by falling off the Twin City Limited, scantily clad. She lost this suit last week in the United States court and has been very despondent ever since.

Yesterday Miss Carlyle was walking up and down Superior street most of the afternoon, and her friends say that she drank considerable liquor. She seemed in unusually low spirits last evening, but her associates attributed that to her disappointment over the law suit. She went to her apartments about 3 o'clock this morning and swallowed fully an ounce of carbolic acid. The acid burned her throat and stomach, and in a few moments the young woman was suffering intense pain. She ran from her room on the second floor to an unoccupied room on the third floor, where she was discovered by other inmates of the house. A physician was summoned, but by the time he arrived the young woman was just about dead. Her suffering was terrible.

Fay Carlyle has been living a swift life here for the past year. She was a blond, 26 years of age, and there were traces of past beauty in her face. Her maiden name was Grace Bryant, and it is reported that she comes from a very respectable family of Saginaw, Mich. It was in that city that she met and married J. K. Oliver.

On Aug. 4 last, Miss Carlyle and a friend and two well-known Duluthians composed a party bound for St. Paul over the Omaha road. Miss Carlyle claims that she did not feel very well about midnight and getting up to go to the rear of the car, a sudden lurch threw her clear out the door and onto the tracks. She sustained a broken jaw and was badly bruised and battered. Coming to sometime during the night she claimed that she dragged herself off the track. At least she was found down an embankment at noon next day by a construction crew.

That was her testimony in the suit which went against her last week. Had the railroad company found it necessary to have put in its testimony there undoubtedly would have been a story to the effect that Miss Carlyle became restless in her berth during the night and that she became so warm that she opened the window and later fell out of it. This story was in circulation at the time and seems to have considerable truth to it. However, the case was dismissed by Judge Lochren before it got to this point as Miss Carlyle's evidence showed that she and not the Omaha company had been negligent.

Those best acquainted with Miss Carlyle declined to talk about her case today, but it is understood that she had never been the same since her terrible fall from the fast moving train. She figured that she would get $5000 from the Omaha road and had planned how she would spend the money. The decision against her was a severe blow.

Shortly after the suicide the body was removed from the Stanley house at 233 St. Croix avenue, and taken to Stewart's undertaking rooms on West First street. The funeral will be held from there tomorrow morning.

IS GROWING STRONGER

Mrs. McKinley Is Resting Easily and Improving—The President Reviewed the School Children of San Francisco.

San Francisco, May 21.—Reports from the Scott mansion this morning are to the effect that Mrs. McKinley is resting easily and growing stronger.

President McKinley reviewed the school children of San Francisco on Van Ness avenue this morning. Thousands of gaily dressed children, bearing bouquets and flags and streamers of the national colors lined up on both sides of the avenue and enthusiastically cheered the president as he drove down the long lines. The president was accompanied by the cabinet, congressmen and many other notables.

CHICAGO GETS THEM

Unanimously Chosen at Paris as the Place For Holding the Quadrennial Olympian Games In 1904.

Paris, May 21.—The committee having in charge the quadrennial Olympian games, at its meeting at the Automobile club today, selected Chicago as the place for holding the contests in 1904.

Chicago was chosen unanimously. Henri Breal presented Chicago's claim. Count Penaloza urged the claim of St. Louis. Baron Couberton presided. The meeting was brief, as the choice of Chicago was a foregone conclusion. Baron Couberton said to the Associated Press correspondent: "Chicago well deserved to be the scene of the next Olympian games, in view of the enterprise shown by her citizens and the efforts put forth by her university. There is every promise that there will be a great gathering in 1904, in view of the subscription being raised.

"St. Louis had excellent claims, especially in view of its exposition, but they were overshadowed by the advantages offered by Chicago."

CLOSED IN CHINA.

Military Postal Service Is at an End.

Washington, May 21.—The postoffice department today cabled instructions to China directing all its representatives in the military postal service there, to leave on the first available transport. H. M. Robinson, of Atlanta, superintendent of theservice has been assigned to duty in the Philippines but all the others will return to the points when they were assigned to China. This marks the close of the United States military postal service in China.

DIOCESE IS WANTED.

Meeting of Missionary District of Olympia.

Tacoma, Wash., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—At 3 o'clock this afternoon a special meeting of the Episcopal jurisdiction of Olympia was opened at Trinity church in this city for the purpose of considering two matters of importance to the Episcopal church of this state. The meeting today is the almost direct result of the death of the late Bishop William M. Barker, of the missionary jurisdiction of Olympia. At any rate it would not have been held had he lived.

One matter to be considered is that of changing the missionary district of Olympia to a diocese. If this fails to go through an effort will be made to consolidate the jurisdiction of Spokane, which includes all of the state east of the mountains, and the jurisdiction of Olympia, which includes that portion of the state west of the mountains, into one great state diocese.

Bishop Wells, of the Spokane jurisdiction, is the legal candidate for the head of the new diocese in case of a consolidation. The election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Bishop Barker, or in case there is a consolidation of the jurisdictions, to elect a bishop for the diocese will take place in October in San Francisco at the general convention.

CONVENTION

Of Iron and Steel Workers at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, May 21.—One of the most important conventions in the history of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers met here today, with about 250 delegates present. Immediately after the opening ceremonies the convention went into secret session.

This convention will differ from others of the same body in that it is expected more matters of public interest will develop than ever before. The relations of the organization with the recently organized United States Steel corporation are of vital importance to wage workers in general, and the eyes of the entire labor world are now turned upon the convention's actions. It is probable that nothing will develop during the first week of the convention. This will come after the reports of the committees have been completed and placed before the convention for its action.

KILLED IN A CONFLICT.

Jury Returns Verdict In the Ayres Case.

Washington, May 21.—The coroner's jury that has been investigating the murder of James S. Ayres, the census office clerk, returned a verdict this afternoon to the effect that Ayres was killed during a conflict between himself and Mrs. Lola Ida Henri Bonine. The woman was held for the grand jury.

ON HOME MISSIONS

Report of Committee Discussed By Presbyterian Assembly.

Favors Anti-Polygamy Amendment to United States Constitution.

Earnestly Urges Prompt Action of Congress In the Matter.

Philadelphia, May 23.—The consideration of the church board reports was continued at today's session of the Presbyterian general assembly. The morning session began at 9:30 o'clock and the assembly proceeded promptly to business. The special orders for the day were the reports of the committees on home missions, aid for colleges and church erection.

Addresses were made by the chairmen of committees and boards and the assembly was urged to exert itself to the utmost in behalf of the various church institutions. Every effort is being made by the assembly to dispose of all of the routine matters before debate on revision begins in order that when the subject is settled there may be little unfinished business to consider.

The report of the committee on home missions, read by Rev. Dr. Hugh K. Walker, chairman, contained numerous recommendations, one of the most important being an earnest commendation of the proposed anti-polygamy amendment to the constitution of the United States. In this connection the report states:

"We earnestly urge on congress the importance of prompt action in this matter, so that such an amendment may be submited to the states before the Mormons gain the balance of political power in any additional states of the Union."

The committee also recommended that the church he asked to contribute during the year not less than $850,000, of which $500,000 is to be used for evangelistic work; that as a means to secure this amount and to signalize the centennial year the presbyteries be requested to ask the churches for two congregational offerings to the board; that churches, families and individuals be requested to make gifts for special ister or a teacher; that the moderator objects, such as for furnishing a minappoint a committee of thirty to arrange for the proper observance of the 100th anniversary of the board of home missions during the general assembly of 1902.

Vice Moderator Pitcairn took Moderator Minton's place and presided during the remainder of the morning session.

Dr. Walker made a strong appeal in behalf of home missions. He asserted that foreign missions received so much attention from the church that home missions suffered from neglect. "You need to be stirred up this morning," said Dr. Walker. "You need to know that the work of the home mission board is the most important work in the church. If you fail to strengthen your home missions, then your foreign missions are doomed. If the home church fails, where is the money to come from to support your foreign missions?"

Dr. Walker also referred to the proposed polygamy amendment to the constitution, and urged the assembly to use its influence toward the adoption of the amendment before it is too late.

Rev. Dr. Charles L. Thompson, of New York, secretary of the board of home missions, followed with an eloquent appeal for support.

"Home missions," he said, "are needed for the beneficence of our international influence. We are suddenly a nation among nations. It came not by the madness of Spain; great historical facts are not brought on by madness. Rather, our God is marching. We are drawn into the line of that march. We are a force among nations."

At the conclusion of Dr. Thompson's address the assembly arose and sang "America."

Previous to the adjournment of the morning session, Elder Ephraim Banning, of Chicago, precipitated a spirited debate on the report of the committee on home missions. He took exception to the statement in the report that 2913 churches do not contribute directly to the home mission board. He contended that if a Presbyterian synod supported its own home missions its work was equal to that of other presbyteries and synods which contribute directly. Rev. Dr. James Vance, of Chicago, protested against what he regarded as an aspersion on the presbyteries which contributed to their home missions. Numerous other commissioners were heard for and against that portion of the report and Dr. Walker ended the discussion by agreeing to make any amendment that any commissioner might offer. The objectionable sentence finally was eliminated and the report adopted.

A supplementary report was presented by the committee on relief, asking the assembly to non-concur in the recommendation of the board that the home at Perth Amboy be abandoned. The report was adopted.

Rev. Dr. John Fox presented a report in behalf of the American Bible society. The assembly adopted a resolution commending the society.

The report of the board of home missions says in part:

"The board of home missions of the Presbyterian church has had a successful year. The work in the home mission field has been full of encouragement. The peculiar points of interest have been in Alaska and oPrto Rico. At Nome a self-supporting church was organized. In Porto Rico there are three central missions with five ordained missionaries, eight mission school teachers and one medical missionary. A mission is about to be opened in Havana under the auspices of the Rev. J. Milton Greene, D.D.

"The work of our missionaries and teachers has to an unusual extent been hindered by sickness in the various communities. Smallpox and other epidemics have been widespread. In some cases schools have been closed and in many cases church services interfered with. In Saxman in Alaska there was so much sickness and consequent helplessness that a relief society was organized by a neighboring town and physicians and medicines supplied. There was much suffering there and at other points in the territory.

"Special efforts have been made in many presbyteries in the interest of the twentieth century movement—both for contributions and for a deeper spiritual life in the churches. The results in some places have been most gratifying. Church buildings have been erected or remodeled and church debts paid. Revival services have added many to our mission churches. In some cases churches that were almost dead by removals from the community or by failure to secure a missionary have been put on their feet with new courage and hope.

"At the same time it is to be noted with pain that many missionaries have written of disappointing hopes. When careful plans had been made and blessings sought in earnest prayer and meetings held with a single purpose, the special efforts have closed with few visible results. How sorely God is thus trying the faith of his people.

"The board and the presbyteries have been giving themselves with earnestness and with such insistence as seemed wise to secure from churches long dependent, either absolute independence or at least a larger measure of self support. The efforts in this direction have not been without fruit. A much larger number of churches than usual have during the year celebrated their independence. Many others are striving definitely and hopefully for this end. Next year will be signalized as the centennial year of the home mission work of our church. Strenuous endeavors will be made to induce a large number of our missionary churches to advance of self-support. This number will be published on a roll of honor. What better thank offering could our church make for a hundred years of blessing than such a roll in which every presbytery of our church would be represented.

"It has been our policy to encourage special gifts for new work—particularly in our new territories. As a result we have been enabled to do much advance work which could not have been covered by our regular appropriations. We do not believe these extra gifts have in any wise interfered with stated offerings and they have certainly interested many givers, churches, societies and individuals in the new responsibilities which have come to our church. We shall not be able in the coming year to undertake much new work on our regular schedule, but we invite those who appreciate the privilege of having a representative on new ground to enable us to place such representatives on many of the fields that wait our coming.

"The following is a summary of the results of the work of the board: Number of missionaries, including 28 Mexican and Indian helpers, 1342; number of missionary teachers, 425; additions on profession of faith, 7697; additions on certificates, 4713; total membership, 76,993; total in congregations, 86,423; adult baptisms, 3059; infant baptisms, 3386; Sunday schools organized, 281; number of Sunday schools, 2918; membership of Sunday schools, 117,-113; church edifices (value of same $3,016,-100, 1529; church edifices built (cost of same $428,864), 93; church debts cancelled, $35,681; churches having reached self-support, 31; churches organized, 57; number of parsonages (value of same $161,750), 452. Of these thirty are missionaries of the board and eleven are native evangelists and interpreters whose salaries are paid either in whole or in part by the woman's board.

The report of the board of foreign missions opens ewith a review of the ecumenical missionary conference in New York city last year. Several pages are devoted to the uprisings in China, in which so many missionaries and their families were killed. The board has asked for the raising of a "martyrs' fund," the annual interest of which is to go to the support of missionaries at Paotingfu. Of the membership of the Presbyterian church in Pekin and Paotingfu, 78 communicants suffered death and if the number of children, households and other adherents be added, it is estimated that at least 500 lost their lives.

In the other mission fields, the report continues, the work has been prosperous, and in some cases, even beyond the most fruitful years of the past. Korea and Japan are cited as such instances while in India there is a marked change for the better, particularly in the villages and country districts. In Siam and Laos the year brought forth gratifying results, particularly among the Laos people. Encouraging progress was made in Syria and Persia in spite of the obstacles imposed by the "relentless Mohammedan power." In Central and South America greater progress was made during the last year than for the one immediately preceding.

Special mention is given the new missions opened in the Philippines. Two Filipino churches have already been organized and the foundations of an educational institution in the Island of Negros are being laid.

The mortgage on the Presbyterian building in this city will be reduced, when all subscriptions are paid in, over $600,000 leaving less than $400,000 still remaining.

The closes with a missionary force of 715, of whom 259 are men and 416 women. The native force numbers 583 ordained preachers and licentiates and 1258 other helpers, making a total of 1841. There are now 648 native churches with 41,559 communicants —448), having been added during the year; and 715 schools are being maintained with 27,910 pupils. There are in sabbath schools 38,137 pupils. Eighty-four students are preparing for the ministry. The board has 117 mission stations and 1182 outstations distributed through 13 different countries.

The treasurer's balance sheet shows a total current assets of $690,996; total invested assets, $1,274,150; current liabilities, $327,434; other liabilities $1,353,693 leaving an apparent surplus of $1621.

MANY SIGN

Agree to Demands of the Machinists.

Favorable Reports From All Sections.

Washington, May 21.—The storm centers of the general strike of machinists throughout the country today are in the vicinity of Cincinnati and on the Pacific coast. The number of firms that have signed agreements was augmented today by about 100, which brings the aggregate of the establishments making the concessions to 1000 in round numbers during the past three or four days. Save in one or two instances, as at Scanton, Pa., the allied trades have not yet been affected. It is claimed at the general headquarters of the machinists, however, that where agreements are not effected by this afternoon or tomorrow, many of the men in the allied trades will go out in the individual shops where the machinists already are out. The estimate of President O'Connell of the National Association of Machinists as to the number of strikers today remains at 50,000 approximately, the same figure as given yesterday. The executive board of the association is in session here watching the progress of the strike.

President O'Connell this morning said: "The reports from all sections are very favorable. The indications are are that the great majority of firms will have reached agreements with the men today or tomorrow. The dispatches coming in from various cities indicate that conferences will be held today with a large number of firms. Many men who were working yesterday went out today. The additions made last night and this morning to the list of strikers, and the number that will return to work this morning with their demands granted, will about balance each other."

Today's reports show that only three railroads in the United States are now affected by the strike, namely, the Central Vermont, Lehigh Valley and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western. The situation, according to reports received today at headquarters, is summarized as follows:

Practically all the trouble between Kansas City and the Pacific coast has been adjusted. At Kansas City about 600 men are out, but a few small firms have signed the agreements. San Francisco reports an almost complete tie up. About 6000 men have struck. Agreements have been reached there, however, with eleven firms outside of the Union and Dresden iron plants and the Fulton Ship company. At Seattle 700 men have struck. There are 500 strikers at Tacoma, Wash. The trouble has been adjusted at most of the other Pacific coast points. At New York about 2500 men have struck. A settlement has been reached with the balance, which involves about 50 per cent of the firms. In Chicago all but seven of the small shops have adjusted matters. About 2000 men are out in Boston. Many men are out in the Ohio cities of Cincinnati, Hamilton, Dayton and Alliance. In Cincinnati a dozen firms have made the concession since Saturday, and about 3000 men are out. Alliance reports a complete tie up with 500 men striking. Only a few men are out in Cleveland, practically a general settlement having been effected there. All the firms in Columbus, Ohio, and Chicago Heights, Ill., have made agreements.

Favorable reports come from the South. All the establishments employing machinists in Norfolk, Va., have signed agreements. Of the establishments in Wilmington, Del., four of the largest ones have signed agreements, leaving about half of the original strikers out. There is a complete tie up reported at Newburgh, N. Y., all of the 300 machinists being out, while all of the men at the Brooks' Locomotive works at Dunkirk, N. Y., have struck. The Naugatuck valley, in Connecticut, is generally affected, all are out at Bridgeport, Derby, Ansonia, Waterbury, Stamford and New Britain, but all the firms in Danbury have signed agreements. In New Haven eleven firms signed yesterday, but 600 men still are out. About 500 are out at Springfield, Mass. In Philadelphia about half of the firms have reached agreements, leaving 250 men approximately still out. All are striking at Elgin, Ill. At Syracuse, N. Y., twelve establishments have conceded the demands.

A LIVELY SPRINTER.

Two Colored Women Make Things Lively.

A dashing colored woman endeavored to establish herself as the queen of Paradise alley last evening. Shortly afterward she was dashing up toward police headquarters with Estelie Smith in close pursuit. The Smith woman has been somewhat of a ruler down in the dusky swift set and she objected to the other woman usurping her power. She chased her clear up to the door of police headquarters. Many people witnessed the race with keen interest, and not a few cleared the sidewalk at a single jump when they heard the Smith woman's mutterings of what would happen if she caught up with the other sprinter. The police caught the pursuer and locked her up. Later she put up $12 bail for appearance this morning, but she forfeited it.

A FISH YARN.

Somebody Evidently Joking With Oil Inspector Schiffmann.

Somebody has been using the columns of the Twin City papers and the Associated Press wire to spring a big joke. This is an item which the Associated Press sent out last night:

"St. Paul, May 20.—State Oil Inspector Fred Schiffmann will have to explain to the courts of St. Louis county why it was that he and his chief deputy, F. C. Barrows, of Minneapolis, caught 450 trout on the north shore of Lake Superior in one day.

Schiffmann has boasted that he caught that many himself. The fish and game laws limit a day's catch to fifty. Schiffmann and Barrows were on the Bon Ami when she went on the rocks. Railroad Commissioner Joseph Miller was also on the same boat, but he and other members of the party left before the big catch was made. Executive Agent Fullerton will make a formal report to the sheriff of St. Louis county, and the latter will send to Sheriff Justus a warrant for Schiffmann's arrest and return to Duluth for trial."

Either some Twin City reporter has been the victim of some "stringing" or was in collusion to put up a job on Mr. Schiffmann for no game commission official would take the story seriously. Mr. Schiffmann may have made the statement that that was his catch, but Mr. Fullerton generally knows enough to allow for a fish story and is probably a party to a joke.

Found a Buried Treasure.

A man in a small town in New Jersey recently found a buried treasure in his yard, which no doubt had been left there by one of Capt. Kidd's famous crew. A fortunate find, indeed, and sufficient to enable him to live happily the rest of his days, provided, of course, he has good health. To obtain good health there is no medicine like Hostetter's Bitters. It sets things right in the stomach and regulates the bowels. If you are nervous and worn out you should try it. It will brace you up. It is a splendid tonic and will cure all stomach, liver and kidney disorders. Give it a trial and you will not be disappointed, but be sure to get the genuine.

TO MAKE A PROTEST

West End Merchants Plan Trouble For Northern Pacific.

They Get an Attorney to Investigate Their Position.

Will Try to Force Road to Give Passenger Trains.

Ever since the vigorous protest made by the merchants of the West End, when the Northern Pacific Railway company discontinued its freight depot at Twentieth avenue west, they have been casting about for pointers as to what action to take to either induce or compel the railroad company to resume its freight service at that point. The passenger service at the Twentieth avenue station was abolished shortly after the Northern Pacific company absorbed the St. Paul & Duluth road and the West Duluth short line service was discontinued, the trains over the old St. Paul & Duluth tracks going direct to West Superior from Duluth, over the Northern Pacific bridge, instead of making connections at West Duluth with a short line service from West Superior.

This discontinuance of passenger service took place over a year ago, but the merchants have taken the matter up and a letter was written a few days ago to a prominent attorney of St. Paul, one familiar with the rights and privileges of railroads and of the public, asking him if there was any relief and what steps should be taken. The following is the text of the reply, received by a prominent West End merchant yesterday:

"No railway company has the right to discontinue its passenger service or facilities for passenger service, where once established, upon any line of railway in this state, at least not without the express order and permission of the railway commissioners."

As to the citizens getting any relief from the commission it is suggested that the matter be brought to their attention. In advising procedure, this attorney writes:

"Your county attorney, or the attorney general, are the proper persons to take this mater up in behalf of your citizens, or they, your citizens, could proceed with an attorney of their own selection, but, of course, at their own expense."

Upon receipt of this letter, it was shown to the business men yesterday and one of them has consented to bring the matter before the county attorney just as soon as he returns, he having been out of the city for a few days. The rest of the merchants will stand by this action, it is said, and are determined that if any relief is possible through the courts they will have it.

One merchant said this morning that ever since the Northern Pacific company discontinued its freight depot at the Twentieth avenue station, the business men have been obliged to haul their freight by teams from Duluth, the distance varying from a mile to a mile and a half, where previously there had been a haul of a few blocks. He says that there is a concerted action among the merchants of that locality to have all their freight shipped over other roads to Duluth so long as they have to make the long haul anyway.

While the discontinuance of the freight depot has aroused the ire of the merchants the citizens, generally, of the West End have not got over the soreness caused by the discontinuance of the passenger traffic and many of them believe they have now found a plan of procedure by which the company can be brought to terms and another freight and passenger depot established.

As was stated in The Herald some weeks ago when the company first discontinued its freight depot at Twentieth avenue west, the local representatives of the Northern Pacific interests held that the company had gone to a considerable expense in building a new depot in the city and was not under obligations to maintain a branch depot at the West End any more than at some other part of the city and that the railroad company has done the draying for the West End merchants long enough.

ITS ORIGIN.

Witnesses Tell How the Virginia Fire Started.

In district court this morning the Virginia fire case was still on trial, and witnesses for the defense were testifying. An important bit of testimony was given by Rev. J. F. Harbo, the Presbyterian minister at Virginia at the time of the fire. He said that he was at his house when he saw the fire break out in Halvorsen's butcher shop, and at that time no burning cinders or sparks had been seen to float over toward the main part of town from the mill fire.

The case of Rehbein against Vincent & McClure was still on trial, and it appeared to be good for a day or two more. At noon the plaintiff rested.

WHAT HE SAID

Chief Black Corrects His Interview of This Morning.

Electricians of Duluth used some very vivid and dazzling conversation this morning when they read Chief Black's interview in the News Tribune giving reasons why he went outside the city for an electrician. In this interview it appeared that the chief had said that Duluth electricians were not good enough to do the work of a city electrical inspector. Chief Black says that he was misunderstood. He says that what he really did say was:

"We were compelled to get a competent man to handle our fire alarm system, and any man that can handle a fire alarm system is also competent to inspect wires. There are plenty of good electricians in Duluth, competent to inspect wires, but there is none competent to handle our fire alarm system."

The trouble arose over the selection of Fred E. Hough, of St. Paul, to succeed the veteran electrician, Alex. Chisholm, who resigned several weeks ago to go into business for himself. The local electrical workers claimed that the position should have been given to a local man.

Meeting at High School.

Friday evening there will be held at the Assembly room of the high school a meeting which should prove of much interest to Duluth citizens, indicating as it will the growth of humane teaching and tendency in the city in late years. This movement for the greater consideration of the animal creation has reached great proportions in Boston and other Eastern cities, and the essays of school children (some of which will be read at the meeting), displaying as they do marked merit in literature and evidence of much study of the subject are expected to meet the attention and respect of parents and all others.

Mrs. C. N. Sanford Dead.

Mrs. Charles N. Sanford died last evening at St. Mary's hospital as the result of an attack of appendicitis, for which she was operated upon a few days ago. She had been a resident of Duluth about one year, and had been married just that long, the ceremony taking place at Anaconda, Mont., just before Mr. and Mrs. Sanford came here. Her maiden name was Anna Molloy, and some years ago she lived in Duluth. Her father is now one of the superintendents of the Anaconda mine in Montana. Mr. Sanford is with the Standard Oil company, in this city, and has been associated with the company for ten years. Mrs. J. G. Molloy, mother of the deceased, is here, and also Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Barker, of Chicago, Mrs. Barker and Mr. Sanford being brother and sister. The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from the cathedral. The remains will be temporarily interred here and later will be taken elsewhere.

Tried to Walk on Water.

John Maki, an aged man from the poor farm came into town yesterday afternoon, and drinking considerable whisky tried to walk to West Superior by way of the harbor. He headed straight down Fifth avenue west and kept on walking when he came to the end of the dock. He went down underneath the water twice before he was rescued by officer Schulte.

This morning he was a very sick man and for a time it was thought he was going to die in the city jail. Later he recovered sufficiently to be removed to the poor farm.

NARROW ESCAPE

Hibbing Has Close Call From Terrible Catastrophe.

Fire In Building Containing Enormous Quantity of Explosives.

Fortunately Extinguished Before Deadly Stuff Was Reached.

An important revision of the map of St. Louis county came near being made necessary last week. It would have resulted in the removal of the village of Hibbing from that map, and perhaps considerable of the surrounding country.

Last Tuesday there was a fire in the store of the W. H. Close Hardware company, in the village of Hibbing. It was not a particularly bad fire, and it was put out before very much damage had been done, owing to the prompt assistance of many willing hands.

The faces belonging to some of those willing hands blanched a very different color from the red-tinged streets of the iron range villages when they heard something after the fire was out. Some of them will hereafter make some inquiries before they get too close to a burning building.

There was stored in the building at the time of the fire enough explosives to destroy the entire village. These included, it is said, sixteen cases of dynamite and two tons of powder. But it was the imagining of what would have happened that turned white the faces belonging to the above-mentioned willing hands.

W. H. Close, the proprietor of the store, is credited with having performed a heroic act. While the fire was in progress he entered the building and worked manfully getting out the explosives. The fire was out, however, before he could remove them all.

IDENTIFIED.

Suicide Found Sunday Is John Nelson of Superior.

The mutilated body of the suicide found Sunday out back of West Duluth was probably John Nelson, of West Superior. In fact, his son is so positive of his identity that he will have the body removed from the Greenfield cemetery tomorrow morning. He bases his identification entirely on the clothing found on the man, not having seen the body.

Young Nelson called at Durkan & Crawford's West Duluth undertaking rooms this afternoon and after examining the clothing and getting a description of the body, he said that there was not the slightest doubt in his mind but that it was his father.

He has been missing from his home since last October. He leaves a wife and several children. The son remembered well the clothing his father wore when last seen and says that the clothing on the body found Sunday is the same.

He can not explain why his father committed suicide and is not inclined to believe he did, notwithstanding the fact that the body was found dangling from a small tree. As near as he could make out the father did not have money when he left home. The young man was at a complete loss to account for his father's death.

He says that the family lives at the Steel Plant, which is just across the St. Louis from West Duluth.

The body was buried early this morning in Greenwood cemetery, out at the poor farm, at the county's expense.

FIELD WORK.

Good For Some Women.

Even people who work out of doors are troubled with the effects of coffee drinking. A German woman in Egan S. D., Mrs. L. Seng, says that she did not know what was the cause of her being sick and miserable as she had been for some years past. Her own words are interesting.

"I had no appetite, suffered considerably with headache and dizziness, and was compelled to take some pills or medicine regularly for my bowels. In this condition I lived for many years. It was poor and dear living as my doctor's bills will show. I had no idea that coffee was the cause of my ill health until I read in the paper about Postum Food Coffee, and concluded to leave off the coffee and take Postum.

I had only used Postum a week when I began to feel well. My stomach began to work all right, headache left, and had no more dizziness. I am able to eat now and sleep and work. During the last season I have been at work in the field where before I was not able to sweep out a room."

As a rule people engaged in active physical work can better stand the toxic effect of the coffee than brain workers who have but little physical exercise. When a man or woman finds sickness coming on, such as stomach trouble, weak eyes, bowel complaint, kidney trouble, etc., it is time some attention is given to the subject of beverages.

In practically all such cases where coffee is the drink, one can obtain relief by leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee, for they leave off a drink that is an active producer of disease and take in its place a powerful liquid food that contains elements for rebuilding the nerve centers that have heretofore been torn down.

Risking Life

To make a living! And we stand and stare up at the man in the clouds, wondering that any man can be so foolhardy. But what of the business man, who has barely time to snatch a hasty meal, and gulps down a lunch of pie and milk in a few minutes? He too, is risking his life to make a living. Life is sustained by food properly digested and assimilated. The result of hasty eating and irregular meals is "weak" stomach, and a "weak" stomach means a weak man. When the stomach is "weak" the food eaten is not properly digested and cannot be perfectly assimilated, so that there is a daily loss of nutrition, which in time will result in physical collapse.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the assimilation of all the nutritive values of the food eaten, and so builds up the body into sound health and strength.

Mr. Ned Nelson, the celebrated Irish Comedian and Mimic, of 577 Royden Street, Camden, N. J., writes: "We fulfilled an engagement of twelve weeks and the constant traveling gave me a bad touch of that dreaded disease called dyspepsia. I had tried everything possible to cure it till last week, while playing at B. F. Keith's Bijou Theater, Philadelphia, in the Nelson Trio, a professional friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I tried it, and, thank God, with good results."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

WILL NOT GO.

No Money to Send School Athletes to Minneapolis.

It was announced this afternoon by the manager of the high school track team that the team would not take part in the interscholastic meet at Minneapolis next Friday afternoon on account of a lack of funds in the association treasury. The management did not clear the amount it expected on the preliminary field day last Saturday, and does not feel justified in spending any money while the football debt remains unpaid. The senior play netted the association a neat sum, and this was added to by the senior faculty baseball game. By taking the money made on the field day it will be possible to pay off the entire debt, thus leaving the association free for the coming year. The announcement that the team will not compete will no doubt be disappointing to a great many students, who believe that the men would break some records, but the authorities do not feel that it would be the best plan.

NOT NEEDED NOW.

St. Paul, May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Van Sant today issued a requisition upon the governor of Nebraska for the return to this state of Burton H. Bellinger, wanted at Duluth for passing a forged check upon Luther Mendenhall. Bellinger was supposed to be under arrest at Omaha.

FOUND DEAD

Capt. C. S. Barker, Dredge Man, Dies Suddenly.

Heart Disease Supposed to Be the Cause.

Capt. Charles S. Barker, the well-known dredge man of Superior, was found dead shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, in a building on Tower Bay slip, in West Superior, just at the rear of his office. The supposed cause is heart disease, as the captain appeared to be in the best of health this morning when last seen alive. D. W. Draper, a confectioner who has a place of business on the slip near the captain's office, was the last person to see Capt. Barker alive. About 9:30 this morning Capt. Barker went to Mr. Draper and secured the key to the building in which he was found. Shortly afterward Mr. Draper had occasion to come to Duluth, and returned a little after 1 o'clock this afternoon. The key to the building had not been returned and Mr. Draper started to find it.

He entered the building and found Capt. Barker dead. The body was in a partly reclining position, the captain having, apparently, fallen to his knees when the death summons came. There was nothing to indicate that there was a struggle, and it is believed that the end came very quickly. Mr. Draper said that he noticed the captain chewing a small stick when he last saw him this morning, and this stick was found in his mouth when the body was discovered this afternoon. As soon as the body was found the ambulance was summoned from Shattuck & Hislop's barn and the remains were taken to the home of the decedent on Ogden avenue.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, H. E. Dudley, coroner of Douglas county, Wisconsin, said he had just heard that Capt. Barker was dead, but had learned none of the particulars.

Capt. Charles S. Barker has been a resident of Superior for about twelve or thirteen years, and previous to that time was a citizen of Duluth. He engaged in the dredging business immediately after coming here, about the year 1880. He knew his business thoroughly and was a man of fine business ability and capable of handling large numbers of men and heavy interests, such as dredging calls for. He prospered and during the ten years or so that he resided here he built several fine residence buildings and accumulated a good share of this world's goods. He went to Superior at about the time the boom began there, and repeated his prosperous career in Duluth.

He has for several years had his large dredging plant, one of the very finest on the lakes, in the continuous contract which he secured from the government about five years ago. Recently he organied a stock company and placed his interests in that. There has been much talk to the effect that his interests were to be absorbed by the proposed dredge trust on the lakes and this incorporation was taken as one of the steps toward that end. He was a man of large property interests apart from his dredging business and but a short time ago offered a site for the new library which is to be built at Superior through the donation made by Andrew Carnegie. Capt. Barker leaves a wife.

SCHLEY IN NEW YORK.

New York, May 21.—Rear Admiral W. S. Schley arrived here today on the Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, having hurried across the ocean on receipt of news that his son, Dr. Winfield Scott Schley, was ill. Dr. Schley who has been suffering from blood poisoning, was reported today to be out of danger.

TALES ABOUT BIRDS.

Interesting bits of gossip about bird ways were exchanged by the members of the Audubon society at their meeting in the rooms of the Woman's Literary club at the Academy of Science, says the Baltimore Sun. W. C. A. Hammel, the president of the society, having been called out of town his place was taken by Dr. Philip R. Thler. There was no set program so the meeting was turned into an experience meeting. Miss Anne Weston Whitney contributed as her share of the gossip some reminiscences of a broken-winged crow that had been prevented by its infirmity from mingling with others of its own kind. It fell into the hands of a college president in Virginia, and eventually became a member of the gentleman's family. It not only adapted its bird-ship to its surroundings, but speedily took on some human traits. Through observation or instinct the bird discovered that a fireside is warm and dry, and one day after having been out in the rain the bird hopped into the house, stretched out its wet wings before the fire and waited there until they were dry again. On another occasion the bird showed that it possessed some sense of color by separating from a pile of worsted of different colors all of the threads of blue.

The base ingratitude of an oriole—as it had come to the attention of an acquaintance—was the theme of a story told by Dr. B. Bolling Barton. The oriole, it seems, had tumbled out of his swinging nest and had been picked up by the lady to whom afterward he was so ungrateful.

When the lady attempted to put the bird back in the nest the bird objected. His little whim was respected and he was taken into the house. A diet of worms was furnished, but Mr. Oriole soon showed a taste for the things that human beings eat, and bread, boiled eggs and sugar took the place of the worms. He developed a fondness for candy, and that also was supplied.

While he was very charming, he was also a very determined little autocrat. He had a way of waking up his mistress in the morning and demanding his breakfast of bread and water. After he had been fed he would take an after-breakfast nap on his mistress' pillow. He was full of fun and enjoyed nothing better than to get hold of and tangle his mistress' hair. In consequence while the combing process was going on this small fluffy creature had to be put out of the room.

All went well until the autumn came. But when the rest of the birds began to get ready for the winter trips southward the oriole began to get restless. One morning he was seen hopping on the window ledge. The next instant there was a flash of yellow—and he had gone back to his own people and his own ways. His experiment in civilization was over.

"In the earlier days in the Northwest," said M. H. Spencer, of Spokane, Wash., at the Hotel Imperial, to the New York Tribune. "I was mining in Idaho. At that time we used to have dances there quite frequently in the various camps. The male members of one camp would go into their jeans and make up a pot to defray the expenses, and when all arrangements had been made invitations would be sent out to the other camps for the members thereof to attend. The principal cost of these parties was for liquor, and the amount supplied varied in direct ratio with the amount contributed by the hosts. There would be five, ten, twenty, or even more gallons of whisky, as the case might be. 'Cockeye' Leary named these dances for all time when, in answer to a query as to whether or not he would attend a certain shindig soon to be given in a neighboring gulch, he made reply: 'Naw, you can bet I ain't going. It's only a five-gallon dance.'"

New Service to St. Louis—Via "The Milwaukee" Line.

Commencing Sunday, May 19, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul will inaugurate through sleeping car service between the Twin Cities and St. Louis. The sleepers will be carried daily on the train leaving Minneapolis 7:50 a. m. and St. Paul 8 a. m., arriving St. Louis at 7 o'clock the following morning.

The route is via Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Iowa Central and Wabash railways, making a very direct line—passing through a very interesting portion of the country.

BOUTELLE IS DEAD

The Former Congressman Passed Away at McLean Asylum.

Had Been Under Treatment For Brain Trouble For Months.

He Resigned His Seat In Congress Last Fall.

Boston, May 21.—Former Congressman Charles A. Boutelle, of Bangor, Me., died today at the McLean asylum, Waverly, Mass. Mr. Boutelle had been at the institution for many months undergoing treatment for brain trouble.

Charles Addison Boutelle, the congressman-journalist, was born in Damariscotta, Lincoln county, Me., Feb. 9, 1839. He was educated at Yarmouth academy. His marriage to Miss Elizabeth Hodson, daughter of Adpt. Gen. John L. Hodson, took place May 16, 1866. Charles Boutelle adopted his father's profession of shipmaster, was appointed acting master, United States navy, in 1862. He took part in the blockade of Charleston and Wilmington, and was promoted to a lieutenancy for gallantry in an engegement with the rebel ironclad Albemarle.

Afterward, in command of the United States steamship Nyanza, he participated in the capture of Mobile. He was honorably discharged, at his own request, Jan. 14, 1866, and was engaged in business in New York between the years 1866 and 1870. In 1870 he became managing editor and has been a proprietor since 1874, of the Bangor Whig and Courier. Mr. Boutelle was a member of congress for the Fourth Maine district continuously, from Forty-eighth to Fifty-sixth congresses, inclusive. He was chairman of the committee on naval affairs of the Fifty-first, Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth congresses. Last year he was afflicted with partial paralysis of the brain and was taken to the McLean asylum for treatment. He did not recover rapidly and last fall resigned his seat in congress. He was succeeded by Charles E. Littlefield. Mr. Boutelle's home was at Bangor, Me.

AT WEST DULUTH

The strike among the lumber pilers at West Duluth came to a peaceable end yesterday afternoon, the lumber companies granting the demands of the pilers for $2.25 per day. This is the sum that the pilers received last season, and when the scale was put back to $2 this season about 200 of the men employed at the lumber docks on the bay front went on a strike. This took place about ten days ago, and the men have remained firm in their demand. The manufacturers have been hiring other men to take the place of the strikers, but it is said that the plan has not worked satisfactorily at some of the mills, and it was found that with the green hands at $2 it was more expensive to operate than with the more experienced hands at $2.25.

The news of the successful termination of the strike for the men has dispelled quite a cloud in West Duluth, not alone among the men that work on the docks, but in the business world, for already the business men claim to notice the difference. All the mill are taking back old men and are paying the scale of $2.25 that was asked. It was reported this morning that two of the lumber companies would not take back their old men, but this is refuted by the fact that a number of the men previously employed at those mills started work this morning. Of course, there is bound to be some changing around, and some of the men employed at one mill before the strike will be working at the docks of other companies; but it is very certain that all the men will have work. Such of the new men as are fully up to requirements will probably be retained, and this will cause the changing around to a large degree. A meeting of the lumber manufacturers was held yesterday, when it is said to have been shown that the agreement among the companies as to wages had been broken and that the Scott-Graff company was the first to pay the increased wage. This being done, there was nothing left for the other companies but to swing into line.

It will take a few days for matters to fully adjust themselves at the various mills, when the manufacturers will commence to work again to the full capacity of the mills, including day and night runs, delay on contract work especially has been considerable, and an effort will be made to catch up with the work.

TO BE DISCONTINUED.

It is understood that the branch office of the Western Union Telegraph company at West Duluth will be discontinued after June 1, and telegrams from that part of the city will be sent from the Northern Pacific depot. C. M. Phillips has been manager of the branch office here for the past four years. The office has been established thirteen years.

ARE JUBILANT.

On Thursday evening the final meeting of the committees on the Republican banquet to be held on Saturday night will occur at the club rooms. All reports indicate that the affair will be the finest of the kind ever attempted in this city, and the West Duluth Republicans are proud and jubilant over the prospects of their planning. The banquet will be held in the Great Eastern hall, and the committees are straining every nerve to provide entertainment for the big crowd of guests.

NEARLY COMPLETE.

The repair work on the wooden bridge at Forty-second avenue west which has been under way for over a week past is nearing completion, and the finishing touches will have been made within the next four days. The bridge was in a very unsafe condition, but the repair work has been so thorough that the structure will be even stronger than when first erected. At present the workmen are putting in the center supports. Another crew is making headway with the replanking of the viaduct over the Northern Pacific tracks on Oneota street.

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS.

The Senate club will meet tonight and finish the debate on the question as to whether the lumber pilers were justified in striking. The members on the negative side consider that they will be working under a serious handicap, now that the strikers have won.

Mose Mark came down this morning from Hibbing for a short visit.

Louis Reno, of Bay City, Mich., is expected to arrive in West Duluth this week for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. John Foucault.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Emil Holter, of Fifty-ninth avenue west, and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Erickson, of 310 Fifty-third avenue west.

Word has been received here from C. P. Smith, who was formerly in the confectionery business on Central avenue, and who went to Bay City, Mich., three months ago, has found a business location there. His family will join him in a few days.

Mrs. Ives, of Michigan, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. H. Phelps.

BONI AMBITIOUS.

Will Raise Question In Chamber of Deputies.

Paris, May 21.—Count Boni de Castellane, who has barely recovered from his illness, announces his intention to raise an important question in the chamber of deputies. He wrote to M Delcasse, the foreign minister, asking him to fix a day for an intepellation on the recent events at Metz, which immediately followed M. Delcasse's visit to St. Petersburg. Count Boni alludes to the presence of the Russian ambassador at Emperor William's review at Metz in honor of the czar's birthday, which has made a disagreeable impression in France.

BAPTIST ANNIVERSARY.

Second Day's Session at Springfield, Mass.

Springfield, Mass., May 21.—The second days' session of the May anniversary of the Baptist church opened in the Highland Baptist church with a meeting devoted to the Women's Baptist Home Missionary society at which Mrs. J. N. Crouse presided.

An address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. George W. Quick, pastor of the Highland church, in which the meeting are being held. Mrs. Crouse responded on behalf of the society. Many papers were read during the morning session.

The treasurer's report showed a deficit for the year. In the afternoon, Mrs. J. N. Crouse delivered the president's address. This was followed by addresses from Missionaries, including Miss Mary Melby, Miss Hannah Sells, Emma Miller, Mrs. L. J. Barnes and M. A. Ehlers.

THE DAKOTAS.

A Well Known Practitioner of St. Thomas Is Dead.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Grafton—The news of the death of Dr. A. Stewart, of St. Thomas, was a distinct shock to his friends here. Heart failure was the immediate cause of death. Dr. Stewart had been in St. Thomas for nearly ten years and had built up a large practice. He was president of the board of education of St. Thomas and head physician for the Woodmen of this state. He leaves a wife and two children.

A summer training school for the teachers of Walsh county will be held at Grafton for four weeks, beginning July 22. It is expected that over 100 teachers will be in attendance. Superintendent W. L. Stockwell will be conductor, and Superintendent W. E. Hoover, of Park River, and Miss E. W. Peakes, of Grafton, will assist.

Jamestown—The hostility of Eddy county newspapers to State's Attorney Mattson, of New Rockford, has caused the latter to embark as a publisher himself, and the first number of the Eddy County Provost has been issued. Col. D. F. Ellsworth, formerly of this city, will be the editor. The disbarment case against Mattson comes up at the term of court to be held in New Rockford May 27. His friends are confident that the charges will be disproven.

Judge Glaspell has decided that the Swank restaurant in Carrington may be opened, but refuses to dissolve an injunction against the building until a final hearing is had. The injunction was secured through Attorney General Comstock. No liquor was found when the place was raided, but there was evidence in the shape of affidavits from residents of Carrington.

Neche—Crops are suffering from the continued drouth, especially late-sown wheat. Rain is much needed. Farmers are marketing surplus grain which was left from seeding.

Fargo—Fargo will be a trifle busy this week. Wednesday and Thursday the state medical society will be in session. The program includes two days' work with a banquet Wednesday night. Friday and Saturday have been looked forward to for months by the traveling fraternity of both Dakotas and Minnesota. The grand council meeting of the U. C. T. order for the three states will convene. Grand Councillor Kleinogel will return from the coast to preside and knights of the grip are coming from all over the district on special train and with their own bands. The local members have been planning for weeks to give the visitors a good time and they hope to make the occasion a memorable one.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Huron—Col. John H. King has received a dispatch from Norbeck & Nicholson, who are putting down several artesian wells in Sully county, that the second well in Pearl township, Sully county, has been completed. It is 1789 feet deep, flows seventy gallons per minute and has a pressure of forty pounds to the square inch. The well is 1965 feet above sea level and is on the highest ground of any in the state. It sends forth a strong flow of gas—stronger and better than from the well completed in the same township a few weeks since. The gas is in greater quantity than is needed for heating and lighting purposes for any farm house in South Dakota. The gas flow from the first well is increasing in volume. There is no apprehension as to whether or not the flow will soon become exhausted. The great need has been water and fuel, and the sinking of these two wells in the western half of Sully county solves the problem.

Mitchell—The May term of circuit court for Davison county convened in this city Tuesday morning. One of the important cases will be the damage suit for $500 brought by A. D. Wolpole against Charles T. and Samuel T. Greene. The former Greene made a vicious assault on the plaintiff several months ago. The case of N. J. Neilson, who was arrested in January for embezzlement of the funds of the A. O. U. W., will also be tried. To account for the shortage of money Neilson claimed to have been held up by footpads and for a day or two his story was believed, but after investigation it became evident it was concocted to clear himself. About a month ago, two horses were stolen from the barn of Henry Born, living a few miles north of this city. Suspicion pointed to a young man who had been in the vicinity the night of the robbery. He came back two days ago and was immediately placed under arrest. The evidence was sufficient to bind him over to the May term of the circuit court in bonds of $500.

MASQUERADE BALL

Given for the benefit of the Degree Team of Court Eastern Star 86, U. O. F., at Hunter's Hall, Friday Evening, May 24th.,

Tickets 25 Cts.

Miller—A family named Escher has arrived from Iowa to sink an artesian well in a ranch northwest of town. The big stockmen are putting down these deep wells and think little about it. The whole range section east of the Mississippi river will soon be dotted with these spouting wells sufficient to furnish fuel and light for the home in addition to the water supply. These conditions are raising the price of land.

ELOPED WITH COUSIN.

When Pursued He Shot Her and Himself.

Jackson, Miss., May 21.—A recent double tragedy at Elmo, Texas, was the sequel of a sad story of man's perfidy and woman's weakness, the opening chapter of which was laid at McComb City, this state, where Vernon Ellzey and the girl both lived. The girl was Myrtle Ellzey, daughter of City Marshal Ellzey, of McComb. Vernon Ellzey was perhaps 30 years old, while the girl he killed was only 16. Ellzey was for several years Illinois Central train dispatcher at Jackson, but later moved to McComb, where he was a telegraph operator. He owned a cozy home and other property, and had a charming wife and two children.

Six months ago his friends noticed his infatuation for his pretty little cousin, with whom he was often seen driving. His manner changed and he grew morose and sullen toward his family and friends, having smiles only for the girl. Soon after that he began to dispose of his property, his unsuspecting wife signing deeds. With cash thus secured he sent his uncle, father of the girl with whom he was infatuated, to Beaumont, Texas, to secure options on oil lands.

A few days lated Ellzey and his cousin also left McComb on a night train, and had the earth opened and swallowed them their hiding place could not have been more secure. Telegrams were sent to Beaumont, telling the father of his daughter's disappearance and he returned home. Learning the facts the heartbroken old man vowed vengeance and took up their trail.

There is no doubt he would have killed one or both the truants had he found them, and no one was surprised when the news of their death was received, though it came in a different way from what was expected.

Being pursued, Ellzey shot and killed the girl and turned on the officers. Whether he was killed by the sheriff or killed himself is not known, but two coffins, one containing the body of a man, the other that of his child love, are now en route to two blasted homes at McComb. The wife is said to have been left $10,000 insurance.

NOW THE WOODWORKERS.

St. Louis, May 21.—By unanimous vote the woodworkers employed in St. Louis planing mills have decided to call a general strike unless the union's demand for a nine-hour working day is complied with before tomorrow morning. Between 1200 and 1400 workmen will be affected.

MANIA OF SUICIDE

Seems to Possess an Unlucky Family at Hillsboro, Ohio.

Remarkable Chain of Suicides In a Wealthy Family.

Another Has Just Died From a Dose of Morphine.

Hillsboro Ohio, May 21.—The wife of B. F. Faris, of Lynchburg, has committed suicide by taking morphine. She was adicted to the use of this drug and for some time past has been acting so strangely that her friends believed her mind to be unbalanced. She left her husband and three children about two months ago and shortly afterward attempted suicide by the morphine route, but was saved by the prompt application of restoratives.

Her tragic death recalls the fact that several other members of her family have committed suicide.

Mrs. Faris' maiden name was Roush, and the history of the family is a most remarkable one.

The dead woman's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Roush, both committed suicide several years ago.

A son, David Roush, now living in Lynchburg, this county, enlisted in the war of the rebellion, and upon his return several years later was told that his wife had been unfaithful to him. He was a dealer in stock, and decided to leave the country.

He purchased large quantities of hogs and cattle and shipped them to Cincinnati, where they were disposed of. He had not paid the farmers for his purchases, and, taking the proceeds of the sales, left the United States, going to Central America. He assumed the name of David Arthur, and was never heard of until in 1888, when he returned to Mt. Oreb, Brown county, to secure the evidence of some comrades who were with him in the war, in order to get a pension. His brother, Wesley Roush, learned of this fact, and, being a wealthy man, having inherited a large estate from his father, decided to aid his brother, who was in a destitute condition. After much correspondence the two brothers, David and Wesley, met in Memphis, Tenn., and the former was induced to come with his family to Lynchburg. Wesley Roush bought David a farm and gave him money to purchase stock, implements, etc.

During David's sojourn in Central America he had married under the name of David Arthur, and a remarriage under the name of Roush was performed upon his return. David learned later that his father had left considerable money in the hands of Wesley to be given to him should he ever return. He was about to enter suit against his brother to collect what was due him, when the latter deliberately stepped in front of a Baltimore & Ohio train at Lynchburg and was instantly killed.

David then brought suit against the executor of his brother's estate, but the matter was compromised, he receiving $2000.

Wesley Roush's estate, amounting to about $75,000, was left to his two children, Oliver Roush and Electra Faris, the latter of whom committed suicide.

David Roush filed another suit to break his father's will, he having been left out of its provisions. This suit was withdrawn last week.

Eli Roush, another brother of David's died sudenly a few years ago, and all the circumstances of his death indicated that he had committed suicide. Another sister, a Mrs. Spear, was found dead in a small stream near New Vienna, where she had drowned herself.

A son of David Roush committed suicide in a Covington hotel a few years ago. In addition to these violent deaths another sister, Mrs. Eliza Barrow, is now kept under close watch to prevent her from doing likewise. She has recently been in the asylum and imagines that the lawsuits in which the family were involved by her brother David will reduce her to poverty.

A NEW YORK HOME.

James J. Hill Has Leased Fine Apartments.

New York, May 21.—James J. Hill, railroad magnate and reputed partner of J. P. Morgan in the great Northern Pacific-Burlington deal, has decided to have a home in New York in the future. On May 1 he rented a magnificent apartment in the Bolkenhayn, adjoining the Hotel Savoy, at Fifty-eighth street and Fifth avenue.

The apartment which Mr. Hill rented from Manager Reese of the Savoy and the Bolkenhayn, faces the Plaza on Fifth avenue, and is on the third floor. It consists of fourteen rooms, and the annual rental is $8000. Since the signing of the lease on May 1, Irving & Cassel, Boston decorators, have had artists at work fitting the apartment up in the most elaborate manner for Mr. Hill's occupancy. A foreman comes on from Boston every Monday and returns on Friday night.

Mr. Hill has stated that his wife and daughters will be here about June 1, at which time the apartment will be ready for them. He will not give up his St. Paul residence, but wishes to have a permanent abode in New York because he is here often on business and does not like hotel life.

The Bolkenhayn is really a home annex of the Savoy, being run under the same management. Mr. Hill will have for neighbors in the house Watson Dickerman, J. B. Thomas, Jacob Wertheim, Isaac Guggenheim, A. W. Scholle, William Weed, Wheaton Kunhardt, J. C. Meyer and Mrs. Bailey.

BIG LIFE INSURANCE

Carried By Indianapolis Young Attorney Who Took Poison.

Majority of the Policies Were Running Over Twelve Months.

Suicide Cannot Be Urged as a Reason For Non-Payment.

Indianapolis, May 21.—The late Francis T. Hord, the well-known young attorney who died the other day of an overdose of morphine, it now develops, carried life insurance aggregating $165,000, and it is understood that fully $150,000 of this amount cannot be contested on the theory of suicide, the policies being so drawn that suicide cannot be urged as a reason for non-payment, one year having elapsed since they were issued to Mr. Hord. The majority have been running over twelve months. Mr. Hord paying the premiums not only for the first year, but upon the first quarter of the second year. Among the companies interested is the Mutual Life Insurance company, $70,000; Washington Life Insurance company, $50,000; Mutual Benefit Insurance company, $15,000; New York Life Insurance company, $10,000, and Royal Arcanum and Royal League, each $9999.

Mr. Hord was found dead in his chamber about 7 o'clock last Thursday morning by his wife. He had been troubled with insomnia, and on the preceding day he obtained a prescription from his physician to quiet his nerves, but this was not filled. He went to his home about 4 p. m., and before lying down addressed a note to his wife, reading:

"Do not awake me until bedtime. I took a part of one-eighth ounce of morphine—one-eighth ounce is the usual dose in tablets, I understand."

Mrs. Hord observed that he was sleeping quietly as she retired about 9 o'clock and she left him undisturbed as desired.

It is commented upon as very singular that Mr. Herd, who was an exceedingly well informed young man, and one of the brightest attorneys at the bar, did not know that one-eighth of a grain is an ordinary dose for an adult. Instead he swallowed fifty or sixty times that amount.

Mr. Hord's domestic relations were exceedingly pleasant, himself and wife being constant companions and very often in public together, while there are two bright children. He had a good law practice and apparently life was satisfactory, both in a social and professional sense, still there is considerable comment over the amount of insurance he carried, and here is a suspicion that the mistake was not altogether unintentional on his part.

If suicide was really contemplated the only possible reason that can be suggested is that he conceived that the sacrifice of his own life would best provide for those he loved most dearly, and his knowledge of the law enabled him to circumvent any protest that might be raised by the companies holding policies. No man in the city was more delightfully situated in all the things that make life pleasant than was Francis T. Hord. The future action of the insurance companies will be awaited with interest although apparently there is no loophole by which they can evade redemption of the policies.

IN MICHIGAN.

Talk of a Narrow Gauge Road to Arthur Bay.

Menominee—Capt. Charles Zeiser of Arthur bay is considering the feasibility of building a narrow gauge railroad from Arthur bay northwest, about seven miles, to penetrate a tract of hardwood. Zeiser was in Menominee recently, and he exploited his scheme to a real estate firm. There is reason to believe the road will be built within a year. That Arthur bay is enjoying a boom could not be better proven than by the record of land sales, which has been extensive during the last month. Two new store buildings are in process of construction there. Chicago parties are figuring on the purchase of a tract of 8000 acres of land near Arthur bay.

A board of trade has been organized at Menominee. It is modeled on the board and chamber of commerce at Grand Rapids, an organization which has accomplished much good. The name of the new association is the Menominee board of trade. Its object is to promote harmonious and friendly relations between the business men; to further their mutual advancement and to do everything possible to build up the city.

The body of James Billings was found on the shore of Lake Superior, near the mouth of the Little Two Heart river, last week, by Alexander Robertson, a lumbering foreman. Mr. Robertson, buried the body on the beach. Billings was one of the five men who were washed off a scow in a storm, near Grand Marais, last fall. He was well known at the Soo, and it is supposed that he has relatives living near Berry's Bay, Ont.

Iron Mountain—The women at Iron Mountain have taken hold of the project of securing the establishment of a manual training school for boys and girls of that city. They will hold an important meeting Tuesday to consider ways and means of accomplishing their end. There is a general sentiment in favor of the proposed school at Iron Mountain, and it is likely that one will be equipped and opened. The ladies will have much co-operation in their good work.

Escanaba—J. M. Clifford, superintendent of the St. Paul ore dock at Escanaba, has invented a valuable switch device that not only gives promise of netting him a snug fortune, but will also prevent many wrecks now resulting from the carelessness of switchmen or defectiveness of the present system. The device is attached to the rails, and is a spring arrangement, so contrived that the moment the switch is unlocked the rails will be thrown into the correct position for the safe passage of trains. It is a simple contrivance, can be manufactured at a small cost, and the prospects are favorable for its general adoption.

Houghton—Charley Burns, of Cincinnati, with a broken left thumb, and John Andrews, of Chicago, with a disabled right arm, fought the cleverest, cleanest and hottest battle yet pulled off before the Twin City Athletic club, at the Houghton armory, Saturday night. The fight lasted fifteen rounds and was declared a draw. In the preliminary six-round bout between Jim Arnold, of Duluth, and Pat Early, of Chicago, Early's seconds threw up the sponge in the fifth round.

"I am not Well enough to Work."

How often these significant words are spoken in our great mills, shops, and factories by the poor girl who has worked herself to the point where nature can endure no more and demands a rest! The poor sufferer, broken in health, must stand aside and make room for another.

The foreman says, "If you are not well enough to work you must leave, for we must put some one in your place."

Standing all day, week in and week out, or sitting in cramped positions, the poor girl has slowly contracted some deranged condition of her organic system, which calls a halt in her progress and demands restoration to health before she can be of use to herself or any one else.

To this class of women and girls Mrs. Pinkham proffers both sympathy and aid. When these distressing weaknesses and derangements assail you, remember that there is a remedy for them all. We have on record thousands of such cases that have been absolutely and permanently cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, restoring to vigorous health and lives of usefulness those who have been previously sorely distressed. Here is one of them.

Miss Junglas' First Letter.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—As I have heard and read so much about your wonderful medicine I thought I would write to you and tell you all about my sickness. I have been sick for four years with womb trouble, have whites, sick headache, pain in my back, and in right and left side of abdomen, feeling of fullness in vagina, am dizzy, weak and nervous. I have used many patent medicines, but found very little relief. Please give me your advice."—MISS KATIE P. JUNGLAS, New Salem, Mich. (May 4th, 1898.)

Miss Junglas' Second Letter.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to thank you for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. It is now six years since I was taken sick. I had falling of the womb and ovarian trouble, I suffered untold pains, sometimes was so bad that I thought I could not live. I used the Vegetable Compound faithfully and am now well. If you like, you may use my letter for the benefit of others,"—MISS KATIE P. JUNGLAS, New Salem, Mich. (May 12th, 1900.)

WEALTHY BABY BROWN

Goes on His First Trip to Europe---Owns Many Valuable Buildings and Other Property In Duluth.

The 14-months-old baby that owns the Lonsdale, Patrick-Granger and Stone-Ordean-Wells and other valuable Duluth property, is attracting considerable attention down East on the occasion of his first trip abroad. The fortunate baby is John Nicholas Brown. It is estimated that he is worth $10,000,000 in his own name. He sailed for Europe on the Campania, Saturday, accompanied by his mother, a maid and a man servant.

"This is the baby multi-millionaire's first trip abroad. He had been scheduled to leave on the Oceanic six weeks ago, but an infantile ailment and the rough weather on the Atlantic prevented. Baby Brown is ruled almost entirely by the trustees of his estate, who decide where and when he shall go, although his mother sometimes overrules the trustees, says the New York World.

"He attracted the greatest attention Saturday as he was carried aboard, crying lustily. He differs in no respect from hundreds of other babies, except that he possesses $10,000,000 now, and when he is 21 years old this will have increased to more than $30,000,000. Baby Brown suffers from croup and colic, and his teeth hurt just as much as do those of any other baby.

"The little fellow occupies the most luxurious suite on the big steamship. His favorite occupation just now is sleeping.

"All the money came to him by the sudden death of his father and uncle. The two brothers died within a week of each other. John Nicholas Brown, a son of John Carter Brown, the rich Rhode Island manufacturer and East India merchant, married Miss Natalie Bayard Dresser, daughter of the late Col. George W. Dresser, of the United States army, on Sept. 8, 1897. Miss Dresser is a sister of Mrs. George Vanderbilt.

"Two months after the baby was born his father was stricken with the grip at his home, No. 931 Fifth avenue. His illness turned into measles and later typhoid fever developed and proved fatal. He left his entire fortune to his son.

"While Baby Brown's father was lying seriously ill, the baby's uncle, Harold Brown, who was in Europe, heard of his brother's illness and took the first steamer for New York. On the voyage he became ill, and a week after landing died of pneumonia. The attachment of the two brothers was strong to a degree. After making provision for his wife, Harold Brown left to his brother's child, Baby Brown, about $4,000,000.

"Baby Brown, when 4 months old, was christened John Nicholas Brown in Emanuel church, Newport, by Bishop McVickar.

"The child has had several serious attacks of illness. From his birth he has been delicate, and every day two physicians have examined him to see how he is. His life was several times despaired of. He grew thin and peevish last summer, and it was believed he would die. His mother became almost frantic and begged the doctors to save her boy's life. After weeks of suspense he was pronounced out of danger.

"As he is now beginning to cut his teeth, the doctors recommended an ocean voyage, although during the last two months he has been uncommonly well."

Robs Confinement of its Pain

More children would be borne if the mother could be sure that the pains, worries and tribulations of gestation could be avoided.

"MOTHER'S FRIEND"

(that marvelous liniment) is unique in relieving and relaxing all the strained tendons and muscles, as well as the distended organs. There is nothing like it.

"It was so easy."

MRS. LUCINDA PASCHEL, Lamberton, Ark., proves the above statement when she says: "I have had six children and was always in labor from twenty-four to thirty hours. This time I used only one bottle of 'Mother's Friend' with my seventh child and was in labor only about four hours. 'Mother's Friend' is just what it is recommended to be. I will never be without it again."

Sold by all best druggists or sent by express prepaid on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book, "Motherhood," written for women of all ages, mailed free.

WOULD BE BETTER

Apportionment of Gross Earnings Taxes on Mileage Basis.

Explanation Showing It Far Better Than Present System.

The Miles of Yard Track In Cities Would Count.

"I am somewhat surprised," said a business man who is familiar with the methods of taxing railroads in the state of Michigan, "at the manner in which the members of the tax commission evaded the point on the apportionment of the gross earnings taxes. They said, in effect, as I should judge from The Herald's report of the meeting, that the present system by which the state takes all is unjust, but that it was impossible to get anything done because the farmers will object and will rise up in their might and defeat any attempt to make a change and give justice to the cities.

"It was stated by one of the commissioners that Minnesota and Wisconsin are the only states where the gross earnings taxes are not divided. But it was also stated that the division elsewhere did no good, because it was based on a mileage division. That is, that the value of the road was apportioned not on a basis of the valuation in each county, but on the number of miles of track. This, the commissioners said, gave ten miles of line in a city no more taxes than ten miles out in the country. In a way, this is true, and in a way it is misleading.

"It is a fact that the taxes are distributed on a mileage basis. But it must be remembered that in a city where the road's terminals, yards, roundhouses, etc., are located there are miles upon miles of spurs and sidings. Every mile of those sidetracks draws as much taxes as a mile of single line in the country. So, as a matter of fact, under that arrangement, the cities do get a larger share of the railroad taxes than does the country, and that system, while not so good as a distribution on a basis of valuation, is far better than the present system of no distribution at all. A prominent official in Michigan said to me that a city having large terminals, as Duluth has, would get one-half the taxes on the property in its limits. Duluth now gets a very faint fraction through the lessening of the state tax.

"So, if it is possible to get a measure like that through, even if a distribution on the basis of valuation does not go through, the tax commission should embrace it in its tax law. It is better than nothing at all, which the present system gives. The matter should not be permitted to drop, but efforts should be continued to impress the tax commission with the importance of doing something along this line, either by a distribution on the basis of valuation or on a mileage basis."

BEGINS THE DREDGING.

Work on Northwestern Fuel Company's Dock.

Capt. C. S. Barker has started his big hydraulic dredge, recently purchased from the Northwestern Coal Railway company, at work for the new dock of the Northwestern Fuel company, on Superior bay. After the dredging work is completed, it is said that considerable work toward constructing the new coal dock will be done this summer. Frankmann Brothers & Morris, who have the contract for the dock, have put up an office building, with a warehouse and tool room down stairs, and will put in a blacksmith on the site. The timber is arriving, and the work on the structure will soon be started. It is expected that it will take two years to complete the dock.

RANGES DISPLEASED.

Do Not Like Poor Board's Immovation.

Some of the people of the ranges have taken exceptions to the order of the poor board requiring pauper burials to take place in Duluth to save about $15 per burial. The writer of a letter to a member of the county board says that the poor board had notice May 7 of a man being killed on the Duluth & Iron Range. After waiting three days the deputy coroner ordered the man buried. Five days later, says the letter writer, the poor board sent word to have him brought to Duluth for burial. The range people who have expressed themselves on the matter say that the order is inhuman and unjust.

SINGULAR.

Explanation of the Omaha Case of Mistaken Identity.

Late yesterday afternoon, after the headquarters force had recovered somewhat from the surprise caused by the telegram that Burt Bellinger was not under arrest at Omaha, Detective Troyer called up Omaha on the telephone to make sure that there was no mistake. A second conversation with the prisoner convinced him that he was not talking with Bellinger. The man was Rue, formerly of the West End, and who had been a stool-pigeon for the plain clothes force at one time.

By singular coincidence and circumstantial evidence the mistake was made, though it probably would not happen again in a hundred years. When Bellinger disappeared his picture was published in several detective papers and a small reward offered for his capture. Rue resembles him slightly, and when the Omaha authorities saw the pictures of Bellinger and learned that their prisoner was from this city they wrote here.

Detective Troyer, on receiving their letter, stepped to the telephone and called up Omaha asking to speak with the prisoner. He said:

"Hello, is that you, Burt?"

And the prisoner at the other end of the wire said:

"Why, hello, Troyer, is that you?"

In the conversation that followed Rue talked just as Bellinger would and said he would not come back to Duluth without a requisition. Up to the second conversation yesterday afternoon the detective was positive that he was talking with Bellinger, but yesterday the wire was better and he readily saw where the mistake had been made. Rue is not wanted here, so Deputy Sheriff Randall will return home alone.

MAY APPEAL.

Another Phase of the Lerch Stable Matter.

R. S. Lerch was down twice and up once yesterday in the tangle over the location of his livery stable, and the once that he was up has all the appearance of sticking for a few months at any rate.

Judge Cant's decision against him in the mandamus case had not been filed very long before Hutch Bevier, owner of the present site of Lerch's stable, began unlawful detainer proceedings in the municipal court to get Lerch off his property. He complained that Lerch's lease expired April 30, and that he wanted him to get off so he can go ahead with his building. John Jenswold, Jr., appeared for Lerch and demurred to the complaint. The demurrer was overruled, and Judge Edson ordered judgment against Lerch, which meant that he must move within twenty-four hours. That was when he went down the second time.

He had twenty-four hours within which to appeal to the supreme court, and the right to an appeal brought him up again, for there can be no hearing in the supreme court before October, and presumably Mr. Bevier will have to wait until then to get him off if the appeal is made. It was not decided at noon today whether there would be an appeal.

BRAINERD BOOMING

City West of Duluth Experiencing Great Prosperity.

Stone-Ordean-Wells Company Establishes Branch House.

Duluth Architect Planning a Fine Opera House.

The city of Brainerd, 110 miles west of Duluth, is experiencing a great boom. It is not Brainerd's first experience of the kind, but it has the appearance of being more substantial and more lasting than the last. The previous boom came about 1880, in the days when the Northern Pacific road was in the height of the Villard prosperity. Shops had been built at Brainerd, a street car line was put in and other improvements had been planned in great number. The population more than doubled and everyone in Brainerd expected the city to take on a population of not less than 100,000, without a setback. Charles F. Kindred, who represented the Northern Pacific railroad, was the life of Brainerd then, and every project of any magnitude had him at the bottom of it. Finally the boom came up with a jerk, and Brainerd gradually lost its spirit. The street railway line was finally abandoned and now is doing duty on Park Point in Duluth. The shops have always operated to more or less extent, but not at anything like the large capacity the people expected. The building of the cut-off from Little Falls to Staples, too, was a sad blow for the people of Brainerd, for it made them for the time being practically an isolated station, for few of the trains ran through that city when thirty miles could be saved by taking the cut-off. The division of the road was moved from Brainerd to Staples. Disconsolation reigned in Brainerd for several years.

Now there has come an awakening. It has begun with the opening up of the Brainerd & Northern railway, though it did not immediately follow that. Indirectly the building of the Fosston branch of the Great Northern railroad had as much to do with it as anything, for, while it does not touch Brainerd, it built up a number of thriving communities along the route, and this gave an incentive to reach out for some of the trade of that growing section. The Twin City wholesale houses realized the importance of the country that was developing, and that Duluth would have things pretty much its own way if something was not done. The feasible plan was to push from Brainerd northward into that country, and this is what has been done.

The reorganization of the Northern Pacific railroad has been followed by renewed vigor on the part of that road, and Brainerd has profited by it. The old shops at that point have been taken up and enlarged, and are now nearing completion. They will give the thriving city of Brainerd a finer industry than anything to be found at the head of the lakes, for they are to employ about 1000 men the year around. The monthly pay roll, it is estimated, will be about $50,000.

The opening of these shops on the enlarged scale is bringing a large number of new citizens to Brainerd, and the crying demand now is for houses. There is a great scarcity and this has precipitated a building boom. It is said that more than 150 buildings are in course of construction now.

The erection of dwellings is not all that is being done, either. There are a number of fine business houses going up. A new hotel is planned. An opera house, costing $20,000, is to be built. Brainerd for a number of years had a very good theater, but it was destroyed by fire a few years ago. J. J. Wangenstein, of this city, is preparing the plans for the opera house.

Two wholesale grocery houses are locating there. One is a branch of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company, of this city. The lumber interests of Brainerd are also reviving wonderfully and are giving employment to many men.

OPTION OUT.

J. M. Butler Says Jay Cooke Has Given One.

J. M. Butler, of Philadelphia, president of the St. Louis River Water Power company, arrived in the city yesterday to attend the annual meeting of the company and of the St. Louis River Slate Brick company, both of which will be held in West Superior tomorrow.

In regard to the St. Louis River water power property, Mr. Butler says that a sixty-day option has been given on it to an Eastern capitalist, and that the option has already half expired. The understanding is that the promoter has in view the formation of a syndicate for the development of the power.

Mr. Butler says the reports that Mr. Cooke is holding the property at so high a figure as to preclude the possibility of purchasers are not true and have not been warranted by any statements from either Mr. Cooke or himself. The reports are to the effect that the power has been offered for sale at figures running from $1,000,000 to $1,400,000. Mr. Butler says that Mr. Cooke is anxious to see the power in the hands of parties that will develop it along comprehensive lines, for he has firm belief in the great possibilities before it. Mr. Cooke will be 80 years old next August, but is still in excellent health. He is getting too old, says Mr. Butler, to bear the burdens and responsibilities that would come if he attempted to develop the power, hence his desire to see the power in the hands of other persons that will go ahead with the work. According to Mr. Butler's statement, Mr. Cooke has already invested about $500,000 in his water power.

The St. Louis River Slate Brick company, begining this year, expects to establish another industry to take the place of brick-making at the plant at Thomson. Mr. Butler says that the company has made the interesting discovery that the slate on its property is an excellent material for roadmaking, and intends from now on to crush and ship it to the cities of the Northwest for that purpose. St. Paul and Minneapolis are buying the crushed slate, and other Northwestern cities are experimenting with it. The roadway on which the slate is to be used should be first rolled hard and smooth and they covered with a layer of slate four and a half inches thick, and is rolled. It is claimed that this dressing remains in place in a remarkable manner.

Said to Have the Cash.

A report has reached the city that Col. J. S. Hillyer, who has been for some time in England pushing the matter of the development of the Alice A gold mining property in the Seine River district, has been successful in negotiating a loan of £50,000 in London, and is now en route for New York. The news has a very cheering effect on the people interested in this mine, and for two years Col. Hillyer has been working hard to get money for the further development of the mine. He had capitalists interested and the money was practically in sight once before but the war breaking out at that time, the monied people got nervous and backed out.

HANNA FOR PRESIDENT.

His Boom Is Now Said to Be Assured.

Philadelphia, May 21.—The boom of Senator Hanna for president in 1904 is now well under way. The matter was settled when Senator Hanna visited Philadelphia recently, and had a conference with Clement A. Griscom, president of the International Navigation company, and Senator Hanna's close personal friend. At the interview it was formally decided to make public the boom of the senator from Ohio. According to a statement given out, the senator will be in the race from start to finish, and if he fails it will not be because he did not fight every inch of the way.

Nearly every national committeeman has written a party endorsement of Hanna as the logical Republican candidate, and important officeholders have done likewise. The suggestion has also received a most flattering response from Senator Hanna's influential acquaintances among the businessmen of the North.

Senator Hanna is a great deal more than a possibility, and preliminary efforts in behalf of others have been effectually halted without committing Senator Hanna to anything. He can now await events complacently, and unless further contingencies change the present aspect of the Republican situation, he will have things his own way three years hence.

TO OBLIGE HIS FRIEND.

Why a Murderer Suddenly Changed His Plea.

Philadelphia, May 21.—The trial of "Sailor Bob" Bryan, one of the persons accused of complicity in the murder of Rev. Charles P. Riegel, came to a sudden end when Lawyer Ellis Abrams, representing the prisoner, asked, on behalf of Bryan, to withdraw the plea of not guilty, and enter one of guilty of murder of the second degree. District Attorney Rothermel said he was willing, and Judge Stevenson directed that the plea be recorded.

It developed after court had adjourned that William Conners, a friend of Bryan sitting close by the dock, had leaned over and said to him:

"Cut this short, Bob; I want to go to the circus."

"Wot t'hell I've got to do wid it?"

"Plead guilty and that'll end it. I've got tickets for this afternoon."

"Hey, you there," called Bryan to his counsel, "tell his nibs on the bench to cut this all out and give me the same as Wynne, me fren' here wants ter take in the circus."

Attorney Abrams consulted with Judge Stevenson and the district attorney and they "cut it short," and Mr. Conners went to the circus.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of a Girl on Day of Her Wedding.

East Las Vegas, N. M., May 21.—The wedding garments of Miss Anna Corrick, of this city, were used as her burial robes. She was to have been married at 8 o'clock Saturday evening. Many of the guests had arrived, the groom-to-be, J. P. Ryan, who lived next-door, had called to see her in her bridal dress. While pleasantly talking to him she fell forward, he caught her in his arms, and in less than one minute she was dead.

A physician was at once summoned and he gave the cause of her death as heart failure. The young man is almost distracted and refuses to be consoled.

Mr. Ryan has been a resident of this city for about one year, having come here from Pueblo, Co., for his health. He is a son of very wealthy parents, and is well known in Colorado. Miss Corrick was a society favorite and well known in this city. She was about 22 years of age. The funeral took place yesterday and she was buried in her bridal clothes.

A NOVEL PLEA.

Made By Defendent In a Divorce Case.

Anderson, Ind., May 21.—Judge, jury and attorneys engaged in the divorce suit of Mrs. Alice McCord against Aaron McCord, one of the richest farmers of Madison county, were nonplused by a strange freak upon the part of McCord. The farmer was placed on the stand to testify as to his wealth, and to the first question propounded replied that he did not remember. The same answer was given to a dozen others, and in desperation the attorneys appealed to the court.

Judge McClure then questioned McCord, who explained his lapse of memory by saying a few years ago he was struck on the head by a falling tree and at times since then he can remember nothing. The weather seems to control his power of memory, for on bright days he is able to recall things of pleasure, but on cloudy ones his mind is a blank.

Judge McClure refused to continue the case, granted a divorce and gave a verdict for $10,000 alimony to his wife.

THEY WIN.

Settlers Get Decision In Cedar Island Lake Case.

The Cedar Island lake settlers have won out for the time being. Judge Sanborn, of the United States circuit court of appeals, has rendered a decision in their favor in the case of Murphy, Dorr et al against P. H. Kirwin et al. It was a foregone conclusion that whichever side lost it would take the case to the United States States supreme court and the decision determines that it will be the Murphy, Dorr et al who will make the appeal.

Judge Sanborn's decision is a reversal of that of Judge Lochren. The story of the case is rather familiar because of the recent sensational events which brought it into prominence. Cedar Island lake, on the original survey of the government, appeared to be about twice as large as it really is. Murphy, Dorr et al acquired the land around the lake. Others discovered that the shore line was not as represented on the survey and settled on the land between the meandered line and the actual line. Murphy, Dorr et al claimed the land to the actual shore line and out of this grew the dispute. P. H. Kirwin was the surveyor of the government who was directed to make a resurvey of the land and action was brought against him to prevent it.

There is about 1200 acres of land, heavily timbered, involved in the dispute. Murphy, Dorr et al sold it to the Northern Lumber company at Cloquet and attempts were made this spring to cut it and out of this grew the troubles with the settlers, which have been conspicuous in the courts of St. Louis county.

LOST HIS LEFT FOOT.

Peter Poling Injured In a Sawmill at Tower.

Tower, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Peter Poling had the misfortune to have his left foot taken off at the ankle while working in the sawmill at Lakeside at 5:30 this morning. He was working at the resaw when it happened. He was taken to Richardson's hospital at Soudan.

A special train with the baseball club ran from Tower to Eveleth on Sunday to play the combination Eveleth-Virginia baseball team, and the Eveleth-Virginia baseball team won from the Tower club by a score of 5 to 4 in a finely played game. Batteries for Eveleth-Virginia, Harrington and Nelson; for Tower, Cummings and Lackie.

WAGE CONFERENCE.

Annual Meeting to Adjust Salaries and Hours.

Pittsburg, May 21.—The annual wage conference of the Flint Glass Bottle Manufacturers' association and the American Flint Glass Workers' union began here today. The conference will cover the wages for the prescription blowers and gatherers, and the production and working hours. The length of the fire will also be taken up. The workers, it is said, will ask for a slight advance in wages, but the manufacturers say definitely there will be no increase.

COMMERELL DEAD.

London, May 21.—Sir John Edmund Commerell, admiral of the fleet from 1892 to 1899, is dead. He was born in 1829.

SMALLPOX ON BOARD.

New York, May 21.—The Anchor line steamer California arrived today from Naples and was detained at quarantine because smallpox had broken out among the passengers of whom there are 1166. One patient has developed the disease and three others have been picked out as suspected cases.

Schlitz

The beer that made Milwaukee famous

You drink some beers that cause bilious headache. Perhaps you think that all beers do.

The cause of biliousness is the lack of age—too much haste to put the beer on the market. To ferment beer thoroughly requires a process of months. Without it the fermentation takes place in your stomach. That is the cause of biliousness.

Hurried beer is unhealthful. Schlitz beer is kept for months in refrigerating rooms with a capacity of 265,000 barrels—kept almost at freezing point until it is well fermented. Schlitz beer is never marketed until thoroughly aged.

PREMATURELY OLD.

How Many Old People Are There In This City?

Nine-tenths of them are older than they need be, due to lack of timely care.

Nature cries out for assistance. Why don't you heed the call?

Do something for your body to revive and preserve it. Neglected machinery soon rusts and is worn out for the want of a little oil now and then.

Impoverished blood, worn-out nerves and their consequences make you prematurely old.

Youth Is a Priceless Jewel.

No one wants to grow old.

Get a bottle of Mull's Grape Tonic and note the change it will work for you within a very short time. It is a combination of Grapes, Fruit and health-giving Herbs. It is the only remedy of the kind known. It will reduce age more closely to a level with youth. It nourishes and builds up the worn-out tissues, brings health and glow to your body, revives, rejouvenates and works wonders for those who use it.

Recommended for men, women and children.

Absolutely harmless, yet all powerful and necessary to every system.

We implore you to test its wonderful curative powers.

You get a large bottle for 50c, almost as large as the $1.00 size of other remedies. One bottle is sufficient for the test. Every dose is worth a dollar to your health.

Yours truly,

YOUR DRUGGIST.

Mull's Lightning Pain Killer relieves the body of all aches and pains. Rub it on or drink it. 25c.

The Advance of South America.

Some people in foreign countries seem to have an idea that, outside of the United States and Canada, this hemisphere is a wilderness capable of colonial settlement. How great a misconception of the situation is this is pointed out by the New York Tribune, which in commenting on our progress in South America says: "We have remarked upon the grossness of the error involved in regarding South America as an unimproved region, wasted until Europeans shall seize and exploit it. If our European friends who cherish such delusions would only visit Buffalo this year they would have their eyes opened to the facts of the case. A continent inhabited by 40,000,000 people—Mexico and Central America are, of course, included in the manger which the European oxen wish to get at—mostly civilized and of European ancestry, is not to be regarded as a wilderness to be opened up by pioneers. It is true that some of those countries are ill governed and are not living half way up to their possibilities. Nevertheless, it is not for European powers to declare them weighed in the balance and found wanting. Nor is there the least unreasonableness or inequity in this country's insisting, as it has done with European acquiescence for more than three-fourths of a century, that they shall be permitted to work out their own salvation free from aggression or oppression." A little while ago the German emperor was intimating that he would come over and take a part of South America, but he has apparently changed his intention.

Great Legal Battle Has Begun.

The filing by the authorities of St. Louis last week of a petition in the United States court asking for an injunction restraining the trustees of the Chicago drainage canal from sending matter through the artificial passage, renews a legal battle which may be strung out for a number of years, involving interests worth millions of dollars. As is well known, the waters of Lake Michigan flow through this canal and carry off to the southern valley through the Desplaines, Illinois and Mississippi rivers all the sewage of the great city of Chicago. It is claimed by the citizens residing along the route of the canal that their drinking water is polluted by the waste that empties into it. The law which created the sanitary district of the canal required that a certain amount of water should be sent through it per day in order to dilute the sewage. As a matter of fact only about half the water stipulated in the law has been allowed to pass into the canal owing to the fear that if the full amount were pumped through, its force would sweep away bridges and cause damage by overflowing the banks. The St. Louis people have been much wrought up by the reports of analyses of the city's drinking water which show that it is badly polluted, and the blame for this is laid on the canal that empties into the Mississippi several hundred miles above St. Louis. The application for an injunction to close up the canal is based on the claim that it is a nuisance that endangers the health and life of thousands of people of St. Louis. On the other hand the Chicago authorities are fighting desperately to disprove the allegations of their southern neighbors. They have had the drinking water analyzed all along the route of the canal and say they are able to prove that at St. Louis it is not affected by sewage. The supreme court decided a couple of months ago in the preliminary skirmish over the matter that the dispute was one for settlement in the highest court of the land. The court will appoint a commissioner to take testimony during the coming summer months for the purpose of gathering evidence as to whether or not the canal is a nuisance. The Chicago people are considerably worried over the probable outcome of the suit. St. Louis has suggested a solution of the problem by saying that a ship canal from Chicago down to the navigable part of the Mississippi would do away with all danger of pollution of the drinking water and would at the same time be of immense value to both Chicago and St. Louis. To construct such a canal would cost about $200,000,000, or as much as the Nicaragua canal.

THE GROSS EARNINGS TAXES.

When the members of the state tax commission recently visited Duluth, they evinced a disposition to fight shy of the question of apportionment of the gross earnings taxes now collected by the state and retained in the state treasury, the cities, villages and counties in which this valuable taxable property is located receiving no proportion of the taxes. The claim was made that, while the present system of the state retaining all these taxes is admittedly unjust, no remedial legislation could be hoped for because the members of the legislature from the farming districts would oppose it. Of course, this is not a valid reason why the tax commission should fail to perform its duty of recommending legislation to right the existing injustice. The Herald does not believe that the opposition to legislation of this character would be as great as the members of the commission intimated. In fact, the lack of enthusiasm manifested by the commissioners on this subject led some people to believe that they wanted to dodge any action on it.

One of the commissioners said that the gross earnings taxes paid by railroads in Michigan is divided among the cities and counties, the basis of division being the number of miles of road in the city or county, and that it brought but a small return to a city which would have only about ten miles of main track within its limits. It appears now that this statement was misleading. The basis of division in Michigan is the number of miles of track, but this includes all terminal tracks, sidetracks and spurs of every description. Consequently a division of the gross earnings taxes on that basis would give Duluth about one-half the taxes which should be paid here by the railroads instead of an insignificant fraction, as at present. If we cannot induce the tax commission to recommend the apportionment of these taxes according to the valuation of the roads in each county, an effort should be made to get a recommendation in favor of the Michigan system of division.

MAY MEAN ANNEXATION.

The division of the Cuban committee of investigation on the subject of the Platt amendment may mean ultimate annexation. As time passes and nothing is accomplished, the conservative elements of the island are gaining confidence and recruits. The Spanish element openly state that they are willing to become American citizens, but will not take the oath making Cubans of themselves. The native property holders who have a financial interest in the island would prefer the rule of the United States to an experimental Cuban government. The Americans in the island see in statehood a chance for both financial and political success. Then there is the great body of intelligent Cubans who are sharp enough to see the advantage to the sugar and tobacco interest of the island that will accrue from free trade with the great republic.

Cuba, as a state of the American Union, would soon become rich beyond the dreams of avarice. That island and Porto Rico need only the stimulus of free trade with the United States, their natural market, to become a veritable Eden and capable of sustaining a population as dense as that of China. Through the haze of political discussion the ruling class in Cuba begins to see the way clear to prosperity, and that way does not lead through independence but through statehood. As an independent power the sugar and tobacco of Cuba would be discriminated against by the European nations as well as by the United States. Not powerful enough in the line of commerce to obtain concessions in the line of reciprocity, natural industries of the little republic would be left to languish. Unrest and revolution would follow, but as a state of the Union, with her sugar she would be as secure in her prosperity as are Iowa and the Dakotas, one with its ever-recurring supply of corn and oats, the others with their never-failing wheat.

There is another force working in the interests of Cuban statehood. Strange as it may seem, Spain would prefer to see Cuba a state than to see it a republic. Having no colonies left from which she can secure the products of the tropics, the trade of Cuba could be handled with better success through Washington than through Havana. For the free sugar of the state of Cuba, Spain would demand free wines to the whole United States. And more than this, the advantage of language, religion and blood would be with Spain as against any other European power. Cuba, prosperous and rich under the American flag, would mean millions more to regenerated Spain than Cuba poor and a republic.

It will thus appear that the Platt amendment has two powerful foes in Cuba—the patriots who desire freedom from a sentimental standpoint, and all the annexationists who for various reasons wish to preserve the present status until the people are educated up to the situation. The Platt amendment may not be accepted, either in the original or modified form. With one class it goes too far, and with the other class it does not go far enough. Between the two it may suffer the fate of that unfortunate individual who found himself between the devil and the deep blue sea.

There is another side to this shield—the American side. Do we want Cuba as a state? Is the American congress prepared to vote for annexation should Cuba ask for statehood as did Hawaii? It is safe to say that at the least there would be a hot fight against the proposition on the floors of the house and the senate. The opposition would be foolish in the extreme, but American statesmen do very foolish things sometimes. The sugar and tobacco interests of the South would produce a powerful lobby to defeat such a measure. The California fruit growers would register a kick that would be felt from the Pacific to the Atlantic. The selfishness of all special interests that might be affected would oppose to the last ditch any change in the present arrangement. Even reciprocity with Cuba, which would admit sugar and tobacco under a reduced tariff, would be condemned.

The good sense of the people would, however, in the end prevail. The free admission of Cuban sugar would mean a reduction of the tax on the consumer to the amount of $20,000,000 per annum. It would also mean the blighting of the beet sugar industry, which is costing us the above amount. The Cuban question is far from settled.

THE BALANCE OF TRADE.

The measure of a nation's prosperity is supposed to be found in the balance of trade in its favor. When an individual produces more than he consumes—sells more than he buys—he is supposed to be on the royal road to wealth. When a nation sells abroad more than it buys, the balance of trade will be in its favor, and in time its coffers will be filled with the world's medium of exchange. The United States has reached the point where its exports far exceed its imports. It is producing and selling much more than it buys and consumes. The conclusion is inevitable—the country must be prosperous. Yet the coffers of the nation are not filling, the circulating medium of the nation is not increasing, except through the medium of the gold output and the government's authorized currency. What is the matter? Something is wrong. We are exporting both goods and money.

The chief of the bureau of statistics points out the probable cause or causes of this peculiar phenomenon, and they seem to be sound. We are paying the fiddler who has been furnishing us music for the ghost dance in which we have been engaged for a period of thirty odd years. The surplus of our receipts for exports over our payments for imports amounts to something like $300,000,000. But instead of this remaining in the country to develop trade, it goes, or rather remains, abroad. The explanation is this. During our great period of development a large amount of foreign capital was invested in both bonds and stock of the various American enterprises. The interest on these securities now held abroad, and the profit on investments in stock, take out annually about $175,000,000. The amount paid to foreign shipping firms and corporations for doing our carrying business takes another $50,000,000, and the amount spent by Americans abroad amounts to about $75,000,000, making a total of $300,000,000. Added to this amount another sum, not determinable, which has been paid in the actual taking up of American indebtedness, amounts to a sum which completely wipes out the balance of trade in our favor. The administration press, however, stoutly maintains that this condition cannot last long. The Americans are rapidly becoming the creditors of the world instead of the debtors. We will soon be doing our own carrying on the seas, and in time Americans will own the stocks and bonds.

It is only then, when the balance of trade is actually and not theoretically in our favor, that we can claim to be growing rich. While we are just able to pay the interest upon our foreign debt; when the principle remains intact and in the hands of the foreigner, we are in much the same position as the farmer whose abundant crop sells for just enough to keep down the mortgage on the farm, repair the buildings and buy machinery. It would be interesting to know just what and where the actual balance of trade is between the United States and the world at large.

One favorable indication that the war in the Philippines is nearly over is the decision of the war department to reduce its clerical force to a peace basis as soon as possible. During the excitement of the war two years ago and the tremendous rush of work incident thereto new clerks were taken on by the wholesale. They were all kept busy for the first year or eighteen months, but lately half of them have had little or nothing to do. Secretary Root has felt that there were too many employes in the department, but has been unable to give any attention to a reduction of the force. Col. Sanger relieved him of this task and spent the last two months in scrutinizing the rolls and examining the amount of work done. He has completed the work and things are about ready for the headsman's ax. It will be swung in all directions when taken up, and several hundred clerks will be dismissed.

According to the Manufacturer, the estimated increase of our wealth during the decade ending with 1900 is indicative of the brightest future. It is put down at $26,000,000,000. This makes the nation's known wealth $91,000,000,000, or an average per capita of our population of $1195. The average increase in the ten years taken was $337 per capita, and the estimated savings per capita in the country $37.70. Compared with the wealth of Great Britain, ours is huge, or $91,000,000,000 against $50,000,000,000. Still Great Britain's is bigger than ours per capita, or $1200 against $1195. The annual income of England's people is $5,600,000,000. The annual savings are $1,948,000,000; the annual average earnings in Great Britain are $140, of which fully one-third is saved, making the increase of wealth per ten years $19,000,000,000 vs. our $26,000,000,000. When this wealth winning will end it is hard to say.

At a recent meeting in New York of the business men who form the Sphinx club, "Advertising" was the subject that was discussed. One of the speakers, R. C. Ogden, stated that advertising is as essential as a place of business. To beginners he said: "You must contrive in the shortest possible time to let the greatest possible number of citizens know of your existence. This is general advertising. Then call attention to particular goods, which is special advertising. Teach people to believe your announcements."

John W. Foster told the students of Yale the other night how, when he was holding an official position in Mexico once, he was honored by being appointed, because of his position, president of the French society of Mexico. He had to preside at the French ball. "I was only thankful," said the speaker, turning to Dean Wayland of the Yale law school, "that I did not have to lead the cotillion."

Addressing the students of the university of Pennsylvania on "Practical Politics," Chauncey Depew said: "Join at once, if you live in the country, the political club or organization of your town; if you live in the city, of your district. Give time and attention to party work." This is good advice and should be heeded by every young man who desires to be an intelligent and useful citizen.

The report that James J. Hill has offered the presidency of the Northern Pacific railroad to ex-Senator Richard F. Pettigrew, of South Dakota, will be a serious shock to the imperialists who are always boasting about their "patriotism" and denouncing as "traitors" those who do not agree with them, because Pettigrew is one of those awful "traitors."

The Maryland decision that it is libelous "publication" to dictate a letter containing libelous matter to a stenographer seems unjust in view of the general use of stenographers nowadays as confidential secretaries. Perhaps it is just as well, however, that letters containing libelous matter should never be written, anyway.

Cashier Westervelt of the Dime Savings bank of Newark, N. J., who took $40,000 of the savings of the poor, was sentenced to nine years in prison. New Jersey may be a good place for the trusts but it appears to be a bad place for lawbreakers.

Minister Conger need not decline to return to Pekin on the ground that the Republicans want him as a candidate for governor of Iowa. His candidacy has met a chilling frost, and the present indications are he will pull out of the fight.

And now gold has been discovered in Manchuria. John Bull will be tempted to enter upon a war with Russia for its possession.

There really appears to be something in the Hanna boom for president. Democrats can afford to smile over the possibility.

Andrew Carnegie is still getting rid of his surplus wealth, and Scotland is at present getting the benefit.

The New York chorus girl who recently made $750,000 in stock speculation is more beautiful than ever.

Elections will be held this year in only seven states. h'fe other states are lucky.

CHEERY CHAFF.

Chicago Tribune: "You lost your money when you bet on that fellow's height, didn't you?"

"Yes, but he took an unfair advantage. He straightened up his low legs and made himself two inches higher."

Detroit Journal: The American is nothing if not extreme. If it isn't whiskers that he wears on his neck, it's a 3-inch collar.

Washington Star: "Whom do you consider the greatest of all poets?" asked the literary young woman.

"Shakespeare," answered Mr. Cumrox, without hesitation. "I understand that he made a lot of money."

Boston Transcript: Smelton—I say, Fred, I suppose you don't want to lend me a fiver?

Brabrook—Smelton, you ought to set up as a clairvoyant. The way you read another's mind is simply marvelous.

Baltimore Sun: "Madam, are you a woman suffragist?"

"No, sir; I haven't time to be."

"Haven't time? Well, if you had the privilege of voting, whom would you support?"

"The same man I have supported for the last ten years—my husband."

Chicago Post: "You speculate occasionally, I believe?"

"No, I regret to say that I gamble in stocks."

"What's the difference?"

"Why, it's speculation when I win and it's gambling when some other fellow gets the best of it. I thought everybody knew that."

PLAY BALL.

"Play ball!" Again the cry goes up
From where the umpire stands,
And forward strides a husky chap,
A willow in his hands.
A sphere of horsehide cleaves the air
Like missile from a gun;
The batsman swings and looks amazed,
The umpire says: "Strike one!"

Again the batsman makes his pose,
The pitcher throws a fit;
Then with the bat the ball collides,
And thousands cheer the hit.
The rooters yell till they are hoarse,
The cranks their score-cards dot,
While peepers at the knotholes smile,
And those who bet wax hot.

Another husky chap appears,
And at the pitcher grins;
Again the ball is fiercely banged,
And to the shortstop spins.
Two men are sprinting down the lines,
While watching thousands shout;
A rapid double-play is made—
The umpire calls "Both out!"

Then from all sides come hoots and jeers
And howls of rage and grief;
The rooters at the umpire scowl
And join in shouts of "Thief!"
There's woe among the bleacherites,
In grandstand there's a kick;
And urchins on the fencetop yell:
"Say, swipe dat umpire quick!"

The storm is hushed, the game proceeds,
Though oft the umpire's jeered;
The ball is banged, and thrown, and tossed,
And players oft are cheered.
The rooters' spirits rise and fall,
The crank notes every play,
And if the game ends well all join
In one great, glad "Hooray!"

The season's on, and now for months
All hands will talk baseball,
And pennant hopes will often rise,
And often take a fall.
And to the front again now comes
The old, familiar bore,
Who never goes to see a game,
But asks about the score.

DAILY STORY.

ROMANCE AT LAST

BY JEFFERSON KYLE.

(Copyright, 1901, William R. Miller.)

When Thomas Harris, the village merchant and postmaster, died and left a widow under 30 years of age, the general opinion was that she would marry again. It was also the general opinion that she would marry Samuel Taylor, widower, as it was remembered that he was more or less in love with Cynthia Carter before her marriage to Harris. When the time came that Sam could speak his mind on the subject, he greased his boots and made a call on the widow and said:

"Cynthia, I'm expecting to marry you whenever you say the word. I ought to have married you before Tom did, but I was busy with one thing and another and you got away from me. Don't you remember how I used to love you?"

"Look here, Sam," said the widow after a little thought, "if I marry you I'm going to have some romance about it. When I married Tom, we simply drove seven miles in a lumber wagon and got married by a justice of the peace. I'm going to have things different this time."

"So you shall, Cynthia. Just fix them up to suit yourself and they'll suit me. I don't know much about romance, but I'll try my best."

Three months later Cynthia gave Sam a hint that she was ready, and when he asked for particulars she explained:

"I told you I wanted romance in it, and I'm bound to have it. In the first place we are going to elope. In the next the hour will be midnight. In the third we'll drive to Dawsonville and wake up a preacher and be married just at sunrise."

Sam couldn't exactly see the need of going to all that trouble, but he was submissive. On a certain night, at midnight, he drove to a certain street corner of the village with his old white horse and democratic wagon, and five minutes later was joined by the widow. She was eloping from herself, as it were, for midnight, the old white horse and the sighing breezes worked up a halo of romance and a touch of mystery, and she was pleased. The halo lasted fifteen minutes. She was just wishing that there was an angry father to pursue on horseback, and wondering if Sam would die in her defense, when the rickety old wagon struck a stone, shattered a wheel, and the lovers were flung out among the mayweeds and thistles lining the roadside.

The widow returned to her home on foot, and Sam got the damaged wagon back to the village and went to bed with a backache. A day or two later he called on Cynthia to say that the wheel was repaired, the old horse refreshed, and he was ready to set forth again. She was still vexed over the fiasco, but as Sam seemed anxious to bring about all the romance he could she finally forgave him, and said:

"I have read several novels in which there were elopements, but none of the couples went off in one-horse wagons. I think we will go by boat. We can get into a rowboat and go down the river to Hastings. I also think you ought to be beneath my window at midnight with a rope ladder."

Sam differed with her on that point. As long as she was able to walk down stairs and out of the front door he thought it a good deal better than to be climbing around on a ladder. She finally yielded, and at the uncanny hour named she left the house in a proper way, but on tiptoe and full expectation, and joined Sam at the gate. He caught the spirit of the thing as far as he could, and was walking hand in hand with her and looking over his shoulder to see if pursuit was made, when a calamity happened. The hogs of the village were allowed to run loose, and in their haste it so happened that the elopers came upon one who was deeply buried in slumber. As they tumbled over him he woke up and resented the familiarity, and the result was a circus performance which inflicted a dozen bruises on the widow and almost broke Sam's neck. A limping woman and a man with his head twisted over his shoulder are in no fit state to follow an elopement to its finish, and so the affair was adjourned.

Sam went home to apply lard and turpentine to his twisted neck and catch up on his sleep, and when he had got straightened out he returned to his love. She was cold and distant, and the vision of that hog rising up was still before her, but Sam pleaded his case so well that he was again forgiven. He suggested a quiet marriage, but Cynthia wasn't done with romance yet. She had finally decided on an elopement and she meant to carry out the plan of drifting down the river to Hastings. Another date was set and to prevent any further precipe tragedies, Sam spent the hour between 11 o'clock and midnight in going about the village with a club and whacking every hog he could find. Then he was ready for his romantic true love, and she appeared on time and they made a safe journey to the river bank, where the skiff awaited them. It was a calm summer night with the stars looking down and approving, and as they shoved off to drift away into space the waters gurgled, the whippoorwills sang and the romance stood out so plainly that even the prosy and practical Sam Taylor felt called upon to say:

"By George, Cynthia! but this beats hunting for a rabbit in a woodpile."

They had drifted for half a mile, and then had fallen silent under the influence of the mighty midnight, when the boat struck a snag. Both occupants of the craft started up in sudden alarm and both went into the river, as it careened under their weight. Sam had the stuff of a hero in him, and he would have saved Cynthia or perished with her if there had been any call for it; but there wasn't. The water was only three feet deep, and all he had to do was to take the bedraggled widow by the hand and lead her ashore. There is no romance in tumbling into the river, and the widow felt justified in telling Sam as he escorted her home across lots, both leaving a trail of sloppiness behind them, that she wouldn't marry him if he was the last man on earth. He felt too wet to jaw back, and too sleepy to dally at the gate, and so there was no quarrel on his side.

Three or four days later Sam called on Cynthia to "make it up" again and propose a new scheme. There wasn't any midnight elopement in his plan, but each was to leave town as mysteriously as possible and turn up at Grand Ledge, fifteen miles away. At that town on a certain date, there was to be a balloon ascension, and Sam thought it could be fixed to be married among the clouds. He was at once restored to favor. It was twice as romantic as falling over a sleeping hog, and three times as nice as falling into the river. The day came when they met in Grand Ledge, and they were only two of the 2000 who had gathered to witness the grand feat. Sam set out with light heart to interview the balloonist, but his bright hopes were soon dashed. The balloon would carry only one person.

There was a mill dam in the town, but the disappointed lovers couldn't figure out how they could make any use of it. There were also a toboggan slide and a race-track, but there didn't seem to be much romance about them. It was finally decided that the best they could do was to get married as near the balloon as possible, before it went up. The idea was carried, but they had scarcely been pronounced man and wife and were receiving the enthusiastic congratulations of the public when the airship was released. The tangle of ropes beneath caught the happy pair and Cynthia was left on the roof of a barn and Sam was jerked over a tree-top into a cornfield, and the crowd whooped and yelled and said it was the most romantic marriage of the nineteenth century. They had found success at last and were happy.

Frye's Little Joker.

Baltimore Sun: Senator Frye is said to be refurbishing his subsidy bill for the next session of congress, but recent events make his little joker ridiculous. Surely Mr. Morgan, the steel trust and Standard Oil are rich enough to buy all the ships they need without help.

Pity the Benighted.

Baltimore American: That Chinese court is waiting for the astrologers to find an auspicious day for its removal from its present quarters. And, while the benighted Celestials are waiting to read their answer in the stars, the practical Occidentals are making hay while the sun shines.

Is Duluth Real Estate a Good Investment?

Prominent real estate men will answer this question in the Herald's real estate columns every Saturday.

Read what N. J. Upham has to say about it next Saturday.

A FEDERAL WATERWAY.

Binghampton, N. Y., Leader: The Troy Press, in an article on the subject of a great waterway between the lakes and the sea, refers to the rapid development of Canada's water transportation facilities, and quotes the Duluth (Minn.) Herald as saying:

"Interest in this enterprise is manifested on account of the belief that the success of these ships will prove a practical demonstration of the utility of a canal in all-American territory connecting the great lakes with the seaboard. One of the last remarks made by Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, before leaving Washington this spring was that he expected to devote considerable time in the next congress to advancing the construction of such a canal. Mr. Spooner and a number of other Northwestern senators regard this project of vastly more importance to the American people than an isthmian canal would be."

Those who favor continued maintenance of the state canals profess to believe that the federal government cannot be induced to take up the work of constructing a great waterway between the lakes and the sea and maintaining it at the nation's expense, but the government has seen fit to provide for surveys of the routes that would be worthy of consideration should such a project be contemplated, and it is evident in what The Duluth Herald considers there are those outside this state that do not dispair of interesting the government in the proposition. New York can, at least, use the influence of an outspoken sentiment in favor of a federal canal, and it ought to do so, in its own interest, for it is quite possible, in the light of growing intelligence that the people of this state will shortly take this matter in hand and resolve the question into one of a federal canal or abandonment of the canals we have.

As the Troy Press says, the Empire state should alertly do its full share in cultivating a favorable public sentiment. The co-operation of both branches of congress and executive approval are essential to the success of the scheme, and while its merits alone should insure this result, a strong popular backing will nevertheless be necessary." It is not of course the easiest thing conceivable to enlist the government's interest in a great New York canal, because there will be strong opposition from powerful interests in various sections of the country, but the effort to promote such an enterprise ought not to be wanting. And the failure of this effort, should it fail, ought not be due, in any sense or in any degree, to any lukewarmness or opposition in the great Empire state.

Tear Off a Yard of Ragtime.

We'll have no more of ragtime, the big musicians say;
No airs but those called classic from henceforth they will play.
No longer Mr. Johnson they'll ask to Turn Me Loose?
No more All Coons resemble each other? What's the use?
And shall the Eyes called Goo Goo grow sleepy on the shelves?
Tear off a yard of ragtime, and let's enjoy ourselves!

When we must sit through Wagner our posture must be prim,
And when they play Beethoven our faces must be grim,
Or while they play Handel, or Chopin, Bach or Liszt,
From attitudes respectful our forms must not desist.
But when we tire of mystic affairs of gnomes and elves,
Tear off a yard of ragtime, and let's enjoy ourselves!

Tear off a yard of ragtime—let's Take Our Clothes and Go;
It Certainly was Good to Us—I Guess You Ough: to Know—
It cannot be that ragtime must Leave Its Happy Home
And with the Coal Black Lady through dark oblivion roam.
Not much! You man who fiddles, or with the drumstick delves,
Tear off a yard of ragtime, and let's enjoy ourselves!

Making It Worse.

Buffalo Express: Gen. Alger, the former secretary of war, thinks annexation is the solution of the Cuba problem. If the annexation were of the same character as that of Porto Rico and the Philippines it will create only a more difficult problem.

One Guess Enough.

Real Phenomenon.

Philadelphia Ledger: The most remarkable story that has come from New York recently is the report that Governor Odell will start today on a week's tour of the state in a special train, at his own expense.

Overworking the Megaphone.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: A little less than twenty-four months now remain in which to prepare the Louisiana purchase exposition, but it will open on schedule time. After the selection of the site the work of construction will soon begin. Much can be done in two years when the money, the ability and the enthusiasm are present. All three are here. One of the many remarkable things about the St. Louis World's fair will be that though the time for its preparation is shorter than was ever allowed for any other fair of the first or second class, this one will be opened on the day set, with all its exhibits in place and all its machinery, moral and physical, in perfect working order.

TRUE CHRISTIAN SPIRIT.

Washington Post: We beg the Baptist church, as it is represented at the convention now sitting in New Orleans, and as speaking in many respects, as we understand it, for the Methodists and Presbyterians also, to accept the assurance of our profound and unmitigated admiration. A press report from there, published in the Monday morning newspapers, runs as follows:

"The Baptist convention devoted the Subbath to religion, filling the pulpits of Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and other churches in the city, morning, noon and night. Besides, there were formal rallies, the women holding one at 3 o'clock and the men at the same hour and at night. The new century and the consecration of its work and wealth to Christian civilization was the central idea of the addresses and the preachers took a hopeful view.

"The following resolution by E. L. Wesson, of Mississippi, at the most sensational so far offered at the convention:

"We, as Baptists, in convention assembled, believe it unscriptural to ask for or receive indemnity for injuries or losses suffered in China through persecution and instead to suffer persecution and injury for Christ's sake.

"We seek the souls of Chinese; we are willing to suffer the loss of goods for the sake of the Lord."

Here we find the first really important and representative church declaration of adhesion to the teachings of Christ as applied to the situation in China. It takes us back to the brief but splendid episode of the lowly Nazarene; His counsel for mercy, love, forgiveness; His denunciation of cruelty and persecution; His noble creed of charity. He bade His disciples go forth into the world. He admonished them to put no scrip in their purses, to eschew violence and vengeance, to invoke peace upon every dwelling they entered. In no record utterance of Jesus can there be found the slightest justification for the sword, the torch, the reckoning of blood and spoilation. Mr. Wesson's resolution embodies the principles and injunctions of the Prince of Peace.

Worse Than a Slot Machine.

Cleveland Leader: The price of Northern Pacific stock is still out of all proportion to its value. It is an impossible price under normal conditions. Anyone who speculates in that particular property under existing circumstances is ready to gamble with loaded dice.

The Old to the New.

New York Sun: A faded flag with a single star passed at Houston into President McKinley's possession from the hands of the venerable widow of Anson Jones, the last president of the independent Texan republic and the bitter opponent of annexation. At that moment the past made its apologies and acknowledgments to the present. No community that has had the luck to get into this nation ever regretted it afterward.

Coming to a Good School.

New York Herald: The British steel workmen who are arranging to visit the United States to watch and study the methods of work in great American machine shops are taking a long step in the direction of solving the problem of how to meet the rapidly growing competition of American manufactures with Great Britain's productions. The foreign machinists have chosen the best school in the world in which to learn how to keep up with the times.

Swelling the Expense Bill.

Evening Wisconsin: It is evident from the difference between the treasury officials and Mr. Peck, over the latter's Paris exposition expenses, that the government does not agree with its late representative at Paris as to what constitutes republican simplicity.

Kidney Trouble Becomes Worse After Attack of Grip.

Dr. George Leininger's For-Mal-De-Hyde Kidney Tablets Drive the Kidney Disease Germs Out of the Blood.

FREE Dr. Geo. Leininger offers to send free a trial package of these Famous Kidney Tablets to any reader of the Duluth Herald who has Kidney trouble. This eminent physician also asks the sick to write him fully as to their disease, and he will advise them personally by letter without a cent of cost.

Thousands of lives now saved from the fatal effects of Kidney Diseases.

Weak Kidneys suffer most after an attack of Grip, and the result often proves dangerous. The grip germs remain in the blood, and attack those organs which are weakest, and as the Kidneys filter the blood of the entire system, it takes good, healthy Kidneys to withstand the attack of millions of these disease-breeding germs. Kidney Diseases are exceedingly dangerous and common. They cause more deaths than any human affliction, and yet they are curable—quickly and easily. Their fearful fatality is the result of neglect and wrong treatment. For many years physicians have been trying to discover some remedy that would disinfect the entire urinary system, sterilizing the urine and imparting to the excretion the property of dissolving the uric acid and uric acid sand. But not until recently was the discovery made. Dr. George Leininger, the eminent German physician and scientist, gave to the world the natural Kidney remedy, which represents the ripe results of long experience, and has successfully withstood the crucial test of time and trial. Dr. Geo. Leininger's For-Mal-De-Hyde Kidney Tablets are entirely different from any cure ever given to medical science or the public. They contain Solidified For-Mal-De-Hyde, the only germicide that will destroy the germs of disease. These Kidney Tablets set free nascent For-Mal-De-Hyde in the Kidneys and in the whole urinary tract, thus disinfecting the entire urinary system and sterilizing the urine, which has proven the most wonderful method of treatment for all Kidney and Bladder diseases, as well as for the cure of all blood diseases. Rheumatism, Liver and stomach trouble, and for all uric acid troubles.

This is the age of demonstration, and believing that a practical test of a remedy is worth more than any other evidence, Dr. Leininger offers to send free of any cost a trial treatment of these famous Kidney Tablets to any reader of this paper who will send their full name and address.

Conrad Wagner, Jefferson City, Mo., in writing to Dr. Leininger under date of March 27th, 1901, writes: "The For-Mal-De-Hyde Kidney Tablets (sample) came all right and I have used them. They seem to be the proper remedy for my trouble. My indigestion is miserable, continuous pain in back, loin and sides, and am generally run down, having had the Grip every winter for 10 years. I enclose $1.00, for which please send immediately two 50-cent packages For-Mal-De-Hyde Kidney Tablets."

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE.

Dr. Geo. Leininger invites sick men and women to write to him fully and frankly about their case. Each letter has the doctor's personal attention. No charges whatever are asked or accepted for this noted physician's advice, and no one need feel any hesitancy in writing to him. Booklet entitled "Success of the 20th Century" mailed free by writing The Dr. Geo. Leininger Chemical Co., Chicago, Ill. If your druggist does not carry For-mal-de-hyde Remedies, and refuses to get them, send direct to the manufacturer.

Catarrh Can Now Be Cured.

CONTRACT IS LET.

George Lounsberry to Build Bevier Building.

Yesterday afternoon the contract for the construction of the building, which Hutchinson Bevier is to build at the corner of Third avenue west and First street, was let to George H. Lounsberry. He is to begin work at once and have the building completed by Sept. 1. It is to be occupied by Bayha & Co. The new turn which affairs have taken may block work somewhat, however, for if Mr. Lerch takes an appeal to the supreme court from the order of ejectment of the court, as seems likely, he can probably hold the property until the suit is decided. There was a case very much like that in Duluth a short time ago. A tenant did not want to get out and fought the case, losing in the end, as he knew he would, but holding on to the premises for several months. The supreme court will not reach the case until October, and that may mean that the building cannot be constructed this year.

Mr. Lounsberry is now at work on the Chase building, on West First street, adjoining the French & Bassett building, and is also building a two-story brick building at the West End, as well as completing the Forward building at the West End.

The unprecedented, successful results accomplished by Rocky Mountain Tea is due to the fact that it never fails to cure them that use it this month. 35c. Ask your druggist.

INJUNCTION DISSOLVED.

MUST BE OF STONE

No More Wooden Walks on East End Residence Streets.

Condemnation of Lots For Upper Service of Pumping Station.

Petition to Cut Off a West End Saloon.

The council last night:

Passed Alderman Moore's permanent sidewalk ordinance.

Confirmed library board appointments made by mayor.

Ordered condemnation of lots for new pumping station.

Ordered in water service connections on Michigan street.

Received important anti-saloon petition from the West End.

Received petition for a sanitary sewer at Lakeside.

Harmony, brevity and routine work characterized last night's council meeting. The most important action was the passing of Alderman Moore's permanent sidewalk ordinance, by virtue of which the city will prohibit the building of any more wooden sidewalks on Superior street between Ninth and Twenty-third avenues east; and on First street between Seventh and Twenty-first avenue east. The ordinance does not prevent repairs to wooden sidewalks already down. Mr. Moore so stated last night.

The object of the ordinance is to get a uniform, beautiful and permanent sidewalk throughout the residence district of the East End. The wooden walks are but temporary affairs while the cement walks, if properly laid, are practically permanent. The cost about double the price of wooden walks at first but do not have to be renewed every year or two. At present there is something over 1000 feet of cement walk being put down in the East End.

Mayor Hugo announced the re-appointment of R. C. Mitchell, William T. Thompson and Miss Gilbert, as members of the library board for a term of three years. The appointments were confirmed.

A resolution was adopted ordering the condemnation of lots 3 and 19, block 105, in Endion division for the purpose of acquiring the property to build a supplementary pumping station. This is north of the Normal school addition which will cost $15,000. The two lots adjoin the old reservoir and a pumping station located at this point will be important in furnishing water for the proposed upper system, both east and west.

In another resolution the council ordered the board of water and light commissioners to lay water and light service pipes up to the curb on Michigan street, where connections have not been made up to this time.

Some time ago Mayor Hugo called the council's attention to a plan whereby a street commissioner might act as poundmaster in the Lakeside and West Duluth districts. The matter was referred to the department of public works to report on the feasibility of the mayor's suggestion.

A lengthy petition was received by the council in which eighty residents of the West End asked that the council should not renew the license for a saloon at 22 Twentieth avenue west. This saloon has been there for four years and is conducted by Charles Sellman. Each year the residents of the West End petition against the license renewal for the reason that the saloon is close to one of the largest churches in that part of the city, and also from a desire to keep the saloon business off the West End residence avenues. The petition was referred to the committee on police and license which consists of: Aldermen Trevillion, Schaffer and Miller and on motion of Alderman Schaffer the chief of police was asked to make a report on the saloon.

A petition was received for a sanitary sewer on Fifty-ninth avenue east from the alley south of the Duluth & Iron Range tracks to London road.

Oregon Timber Claims.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see an advertisement in the News Tribune of April 13, 1901, where a man giving his name as A. T. Kellher, Salem, Oregon, says he can locate parties on government lands that will cut 15,000,000 to the quarter section. Now I want to say to those that are coming here to take timber claims that they will not find any such claims here. I have been in the only available timber tract that is in Western Oregon, and the best claims will not cut more than 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 to the quarter section. The trouble is that some of those that are in the location business think they can fool the Eastern man very easily, and some they do fool by not showing them the right section corner. I hope you will give this space in your paper so that people that are coming here to take timber claims will know that they are not going to get 15,000,000 claims. All that people living in Duluth need do is to ask Giles Gilbert or Finley Morrison how many 15,000,000 claims they got in their purchase of timber here.

BELLBOY ELOPED

With the Daughter of a Boston Millionaire.

Boston, Mass., May 21.—Miss Mary Kern, daughter of Millionaire Joseph Kern, of 350 Grove street, West Roxbury, has eloped with Thomas Healey, a little curly-headed bellboy in Clark's hotel. They are each 20 years old. Mrs. Healey is a very pretty little blonde and a refined and accomplished young society leader. Her husband is the son of a driver of a coal cart.

Elopements are somewhat epidemic in the family of the millionaire, as only a few months ago Mary's eldest sister ran away with another forbidden lover. This time, however, the father is unforgiving, and as a result the naughty young couple are left out in the cold and penniless. They will take up their abode in the humble home of the coal cart driver in Reading. For several months Mary has been making frequent trips in town, and of late these excursions had increased alarmingly.

Last Sunday Thomas called at the Kern mansion, and when he departed Mary was with him. She has not been seen since by her family. The next morning, however, her father received a telephone message telling him of the wedding and asking forgiveness and a shelter under the paternal roof for them both. But papa's anger was great and his reply was an unequivocal no.

He packed up all her clothing and treasures and sent her a message to the effect that her trunks were ready and that she could send the coal cart after them as soon as she wished. Thomas had already thrown up his job at the hotel in anticipation of wedding the heiress to several hundred thousand dollars, so the finances of the young couple are at a very low ebb. The father is trying to starve his daughter into returning to him.

EYESIGHT RESTORED.

The Miraculous Experience of a Blind Girl.

Amesbury, Mass., May 21.—A peculiar case is the complete restoration of sight to Miss Alma Provencher, the 15-year-old daughter of Gillard Provencher, of this town. The family, which consists of father and eight children, the mother having died some weeks ago, came here from Canada during the winter.

Previous to leaving Canada the girl was stricken with some peculiar disease, which affected her eyes so as to cause her to become totally blind. The mother, who was a very religious woman, constantly prayed that her daughter's sight might be restored to her again. Ill as the mother was, she continued praying up to the time of her death. Alma had been treated by several doctors without success.

At the time of the mother's death a friend in the home led the child to the deathbed, and, lifting a lifeless hand to the eyes of the sightless child, passed the mother's fingers across the same several times. The girl was soon able to distinguish light, and has constantly improved until now her sight has been fully restored. Alma visits the cemetery nightly, where she offers a prayer over her mother's grave, in return for the many prayers offered in her behalf.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Harry Gamenthaler Is Injured at Cass Lake.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Gamenthaler was accidentally shot Sunday eevning. Gamenthaler was employed by the Cass Lake Boat company to look after the rowboats for the company. He was attending to his duties when the accident occurred. A party, with some guns in their boat, had just returned from a trip up the lake. They laid the rifles on the bank at the dock, and were bringing their other paraphernalia from the boat, when a boy picked up one of the rifles. The gun was in some manner discharged, the bullet entering Gamenthaler's left leg just below the knee. The wound is a painful though not dangerous one, and beyond being laid up for a time, Gamenthaler will probably suffer no serious trouble as a result of the accident.

In addition to the baseball game which will be played here on Sunday next, a lacrosse eleven, picked from among the Cass Lake Indians, will play a game of lacrosse with the Indian eleven from Leech Lake. It is expected that Flatmouth, the chief of the Chippewa Indians, will be here from Leech Lake to see the game.

WATER FAMINE

Threatens Four Mining Towns In the Rockies.

Colorado Springs, May 21.—Victor, Goldfield, Altman and Anaconda, four towns in the Cripple Creek district, are threatened with a water famine by the bursting of the dam at the Victor reservoir at Pike's peak. The dam contained 65,000,000 gallons of water, and when it collapsed a raging current twenty feet deep and at places 300 feet wide rushed down the mountain, carrying wreck and devastation down to West Beaver valley to the Arkansas, affecting mining and some railroad traffic.

FREE EDUCATION.

Carnegie Gives Liberally to Scottish Universities.

London, May 21.—Andrew Carnegie has given £2,000,000 to establish free education in four Scotch universities—Edinburgh, Glasgow, Aberdeen and St. Andrews. He stipulates that the beneficiaries be his "Scottish fellow-countrymen"—no English, Irish, colonials or foreigners. The fund will apply to medical as well as to commercial education, and will be placed in the hands of trustees, who will pay the expenses of Scottish students benefited under the scheme.

New Medical Laboratory.

The university of Pennsylvania has taken the preliminary steps necessary for the erection of a new medical laboratory, which, in point of completeness and equipment, will be not only unexcelled, but, it is confidently believed, in advance of any similar laboratory now in existence in this country or in Europe. The objects of this laboratory will be to afford the most modern and favorable opportunities for the teaching of the subjects of physiology, pathology and pharmacodynamics to students of medicine, and to promote an increase in useful knowledge through the fostering of scientific research. The building will cost more than $500,000, exclusive of grounds and equipment.

While the new laboratory building about to be erected will be unexcelled, it nevertheless is only one of the group of buildings for the teaching of medical science, the construction of which is contemplated by the trustees of the university. These, with the present large medical hall, laboratories and hospitals, will form one of the most complete and largest groups of buildings in existence, devoted exclusively to the teaching of medicine. The architectural construction of the entire group will correspond with that of the dormitories of the university, the same architects having been engaged to design the new medical laboratories.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Insurance Commissioner Dearth today revoked the license of the Knights of Kadosh, a fraternal society having headquarters at Des Moines. The society was admitted to the state last winter.

The yacht Independence was under the hands of the Atlantic Ship Building company's men today getting her finishing touches. It is expected the yacht will be ready to sail in two weeks.

Edmund Arthur Sweet, founder of Texas Siftings, and a humorous writer of national reputation under the pen name of "Col. Bill Smart" and "Rex Wangledoodle," died at his home in New York Monday of heart disease, from which he has been a sufferer for several years. He was seized about noon and died in about an hour.

Louis E. Marvin pleaded guilty before Judge Lewis to an indictment charging him with the crime of bigamy, and received a sentence to state prison for three years. Marvin married Bridget Heffernan while he had a wife living. He pleaded guilty against the advice of his attorney. The defendant was born, he said, in Michigan.

Ernest J. Wolter, charged with having sent a letter to Senator Kearns, of Utah, threatening to kidnap his son if $15,000 was not sent, has been released from custody. Judge Munger having sustained a demurrer to the indictment returned by the grand jury. Attorneys for Wolter contended that there is no such crime as kidnaping under the United States law and that the letter received by Kearns does not show that there was a scheme to defraud. The demurrer was sustained, throwing the suit out of court.

The coroner's jury empanelled to inquire into the death of Joseph L. Barnes, a druggist of Monticello, Ill., who died suddenly at the Central hospital for the insane brought in a verdict that Barnes came to his death by strychnine poison administered by William Webb Ferguson, alias William Winn. The jury further finds that Mrs. Mamie Barnes, widow of the deceased, is an accessory before the fact and recommends that both be held in custody.

Patrick J. Gleason, former mayor of Long Island City, and popularly known as "Battle Ax" Gleason, died at his home in that place Monday night, aged about 70 years.

The dust of the railroad; the moisture in the air; the steam in the kitchen, have no effect on biscuit, crackers and wafers packed in the In-er-seal Patent Package. If the bakery were a thousand miles away; if you didn't get them from the grocer's until a week after they arrived at the store; if you kept them in the kitchen until a holiday rolled around, they would still be as good, as fresh and as full of flavor as the day they left the bakery. This simply illustrates the preservative quality of the In-er-seal Patent Package.

When you order Soda, Graham, Long Branch, Milk and Oatmeal Biscuit, Vanilla Wafers, Ginger Snaps and Saratoga Flakes, insist on getting those which come in the In-er-seal Patent Package. Don't take a substitute. Look for the In-er-seal trade mark design at the end of the box.

FEELING STRONG

A Decidedly Buoyant Tone In the Wheat Market.

Cables Were Lower But Had No Effect on Trading.

Good General Buying Was the Cause of the Strength.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 21.—The sentiment in the wheat market was strong today, but crop conditions seemed to be ignored for everything bearing upon the growing crop was of a rosy character. Statistically there was more to be bullish over, for the receipts were small, and there was a decrease of 4,192,000 bus in Bradstreet's report of the world's visible as compared with an increase of 1,323,000 bus a year ago. The cables were not strong, however, Liverpool closing unchanged to ½d lower. The cash demand was fair and New York reported 11 loads of wheat worked for export. Chicago reported some New York houses as buyers of wheat and the Southwest also was a liberal buyer. Phillips and his party were buying liberally early in the session, but later turned sellers. New York reported one of the Wall street houses that has been conspicuous in the stock excitement, as buying right and left. Primary receipts were 256,181 bus, last year, 369,754 bus.

Receipts at Duluth and Minneapolis, 72 cars, against 128 last week and 328 last year. Chicago receipts, 89 cars, 2 of contract grade.

Trading in futures was fairly active on the Duluth board. July wheat opened 5@c up at 74@c, sold up to 74⅞c at 9:35, reacted to 74¾c at 10:20, recovered to 74⅞c at 11:02, eased off to 74⅜-½c at 12:04, sold at 74½-⅝c at 12:45, and closed at 74⅝c, an advance of 6@c. Cash closed ⅝c up and Minneapolis, ½c up.

Cash sales of wheat were 16,000 bus, and July price was paid.

Corn was strong in Chicago today, May selling up to 50⅜c and closing at 49½c, an advance of 1½c. July was also a trifle stronger. The price in Duluth was unchanged.

The oat price in Chicago took a lively bulge today, July oats closing 1½c up. There was no change in the price at Duluth. Rye was 2c off.

May flax shorts pushed the price up again today and at $1.80, about 1000 bus was traded in. That seems to be the price at which the shorts may settle. The close was 4c off.

Following are the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Strong Under Aggressive General Buying.

Chicago, May 21.—Wheat developed considerable strength today under aggressive general buying. Despite lower cables July opened 5@6c higher at 72⅝c, and rose to 73¾c, where profit-taking checked the advance. Local receipts were 89 cars, 2 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 72 cars, against 128 last week and 328 a year ago.

July touched 73⅝@73¾c, but under profit-taking reacted to 73¼c. The close was firm, ⅜c higher at 73⅝c.

Disappointing cvables and heavy receipts were offset in the corn market by a vigorous general demand. July opened unchanged to ½c higher, at 44⅞@45c, and sold to 45¼c. May opened unchanged at 48c and sold to 46⅝c. Local receipts were 942 cars, 231 of contract grade.

Corn, July touched 45⅝c, reacted to 45c and closed steady ¼c higher at 45⅜c.

Oats were quite active and strong on outside buying, July opened shade lower at 25⅜c and sold to 29¼c. Local receipts were 442 cars.

Provisions were lower in sympathy with large receipts and higher hogs. July pork opened 7½c lower at $14.85 and sold to $14.90; July lard 2½c lower at $8.15, and July ribs 2½c lower at $7.95@8.07½.

Close: Wheat—May, 74⅛c; July, 73¾c. Corn—May, 49½c; July, 45@45c. Oats—May, 30¾c; July, 28⅞@29c; August, 27½c. Pork—May, $14.87½; July, $14.97½@15.00; September, $14.95. Lard—May, $8.25; July, $8.20@8.22½; September, $8.22½. Ribs—May, $8.22½@8.25; July, $8.00; September, $7.97½c. Flax—Cash, Northwestern, No. 1 and May, $1.77½; September and October, $1.28. Cash: Wheat—No. 2 red, 70@76c; No. 3 red, 70@74½c; No. 2 hard, 74½@75c; No. 3 hard winter, 73½@74½c; No. 1 northern spring, 74½@75½c; No. 2 northern spring, 74½@75½c. Corn—No. 2, 49½@50c; No. 3, 43¾@44½c. Oats—No. 2, 29½@32½c; No. 3, 26c. Rye—May, 53c; July, 52c. Barley—Cash, 42@55c. Timothy—September, $3.32 @3.35. Clover—Cash, $9.50.

IRREGULAR.

Peavey Elevator "B" at Chicago Declared Irregular By Board.

Chicago, May 21.—At a special meeting of the directors of the Chicago board of trade today the Peavey elevator "B" was declared irregular, pending an investigation of charges made by Slaughter & Co., to the effect that grain stored in the elevator is not up to contract grade.

These charges are said to be the direct result of the Phillips deal in May corn. The Peavey company, it is said, tendered to Phillips on delivery warehouse receipts calling for 648,000 bus of No. 2 corn. Slaughter & Co. applied for this corn on loading orders from Phillips, but the grain offered at elevator "B" was refused on the ground that it was not up to contract grade. As a result of the directors' action, the 648,000 bus of corn in the elevator is temporarily tied up and therefore new excitement was fomented in May corn, which closed 1½c higher than yesterday. Most of the grain in elevator "B" is said to have come from private warehouses and an investigation as to how it passed inspection is among the possibilities.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Received over private wire of B. E. Baker, grain and stock broker, 307 Board of Trade.

Chicago, May 21.—The strength in wheat was again largely local. Weather continues dry in the Northwest and there are few scattered reports of an unfavorable development in the Southwest. This prevents selling pressure and induces covering of shorts. There's nothing like a general complaint in the Southwest yet, and those in touch with the situation in the spring wheat country advises that the crop is not yet suffering from lack of moisture.

Bradstreet's makes world's visible decrease 4,192,000 bus against 1,323,000 bus decrease last year. Export business is small and general cash demand is poor. We see nothing urgent in the situation at the moment. Primary receipts, 245,000 bus, against 439,000 bus last year. Shipments 1,379,000 bus, against 362,000 bus. These large shipments continue in the way of moving contract wheat to the seaboard to fill a short interest there.

The corn market is quiet and steady. Local conditions still monopolize the interest and control the market. Cash demand is only moderate and at concessions. Primary receipts 711,000 bus, against 575,000 bus. Shipments 715,000 bus, against 512,000 bus.

The oat market is active and there is quite a general outside buying on the inferior crop prospects. May is still selling at a premium which interferes with the cash demand and there is probably a considerable short interest for May yet uncovered.

The provision market is more active and prices are steady to strong. There is rather a better speculative buying for local account, but the interest of packers is still in keeping down the price in order to get hogs as cheap as possible. Receipts at primary markets 29,000, against 70,000 last year. Shipments of packers 32,000, against 3,361,000. Lard, 2,577,000, against 915,000. Pork, 358, against 1005.

ADVANCE IN STOCKS

Pressure at the Opening But Few Losses Were Severe.

Buying Orders Met Decline and a Good Rally Followed.

The Close Was Dull and Heavy Below the Best.

New York, May 21.—Stocks were under pressure at the opening, but only in a few cases were the losses severe. Missouri Pacific fell 3 points; Manhattan, 2⅛, and Pennsylvania, Norfolk & Western, Kansas & Texas pfd, and Amalgamated Copper, 1@1¼. Union Pacific ran down ½, and then rallied a point on large transactions.

Buying orders were met as prices declined and as good support appeared in the stocks which were weakest at the opening short lines were covered causing a general and substantial rally. Quite a number of important stocks advanced above the close yesterday. Renewed selling of Amalgamated Copper forced it down 3 points and there was some realizing in Union Pacific, which upset the market. At 11 o'clock speculation was mixed, members of various groups moving contrariwise and the general lit about balanced up and down.

Business became very dull, but the tone was more stable and strengthened for some of the railroads and industrials. Atchison and St. Paul improved to 78 and 162 respectively, the best prices of the morning, and Amalgamated Copper made a full recovery of its earlier loss. There was a large demand for American Linseed Oil issues and they were 1½@4 higher on the exhibition of terms offered for its absorption by the newly organized Union Lead & Oil company. National Lead was strong on hopes of benefit from that transaction. Mexican roads were bought at rising prices. Bonds were easier.

Further advances carried Union Pacific up 5 from the lowest; Amalgamated Copper, 4¾; Sugar, 3; Rock Island, 2⅝, and Erie stocks, from 1¾ to 2. The market was without animation and prices fell back again. The close was dull and heavy below the best.

TO LIST BONDS.

Union Pacific Makes Application to Stock Exchange.

New York, May 21.—An application of the Union Pacific railroad to the stock exchange has been posted at the exchange to list $100,000,000 first mortgage collateral trust convertible 4 per cent bonds. This is the total amount of these bonds authorized by the company including $40,000,000 already sold to finance the Southern Pacific purchase. The application as posted does not mention the collateral for the bonds or the purpose of the $60,000,000 bonds which have not yet been issued, and which it has been rumored were intended to finance the purchase of Northern Pacific stocks.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, May 21.—Cotton opened quiet and 1 to 3 points lower in sympathy with weak cables, clear weather news from Texas and heavy port receipts. July opened at 7⅝ and the rest of the list around yesterday's closing heavy buying of July suddenly set in offerings were scarce and by leaps and bounds July shot up to 7⅞. Southern, Western and foreign orders for other options caused pronounced gains there as well. Profit-taking forced July back to 7⅞ by 11 o'clock, after which the market was very feverish and irregular.

Cotton spot closed quiet, 1-16 higher; middling uplands, 8¼; middling gulf, 8⅜; sales, 17 bales. Cotton futures, closed steady; May, 7.56; June, 7.69; July, 7.73; August, 7.32; September, 7.11; October, 7.00; November, 6.99; December, 6.89; January

TIME BOMB

Thought to Have Wrecked Cambridgeport National Bank.

Cambridge, Mass., May 21.—What the police believe was a daring attempt to rob the Cambridgeport National bank, of this city, by the use of dynamite in broad daylight was revealed at 10:45 a. m. today by an explosion in the bank, which blew out the side of the office, damaged other parts of the building, and in which Cashier William F. Roaf sustained a bad wound on the head.

If the explosion was a part of a plot to rob the bank the plan failed, for nothing of value was taken from the place. It is thought from the force of the concussion and other evidences that dynamite was used and that it may have been set off by a time fuse.

The bank is in a four-story brick structure in the business center of the city. The shock of the explosion was felt for several blocks, but no damage was done outside of the bank building.

THE EWO INCIDENT.

Von Waldersee Has Expressed His Regrets.

London, May 21.—The government was questioned in the house of commons today on the subject of the British tug Ewo incident, at Tien Tsin, when two Chinese on board that vessel were fatally shot by Germans guarding a bridge after the tug had fouled it. The under foreign secretary, Lord Cranborne, in reply, said Field Marshal Von Waldersee had expressed his regret and had promised to take measures to prevent the recurrence of similar incidents.

EXPLOSION

At Kalgan Arsenal Killed Two Hundred Chinese.

Berlin, May 21.—A dispatch from Field Marshal Von Waldersee, dated Pekin, May 19, says two hundred Chinese were killed and wounded as a result of the explosion at the Kalgan arsenal, May 15.

The Russian movement south of Paotingfu apparently is being speedily quelled by Gen. Baillioud, the French commander. Beyond the southern line of demarcation, Count Waldersee reports, all are being dealt with successfully by Chinese troops.

A COMPROMISE

Men Are Willing But Employers Say No.

Milwaukee, May 21.—Edwin Reynolds, president National Metal Trades' association, today reconsidered his intention of issuing a call for a meeting of the administrative council of the National Metal Trades' association. If such a call is issued at all it will probably not be for a week or ten days.

According to the report of the machinists, now out in strike in Milwaukee, the men will accept a compromise upon the matters at issue with the various firms. But a proposition for a compromise must come from the employers.

On the other hand, Edwin Reynolds, representing the largest machinery interests in the city, said:

"We have no compromise propositions to offer at this time. We had our say when we offered to arbitrate the question, first nationally, then locally, but they declined to accept either proposition, and that left us out. We have no further propositions or communications to make."

COLLEGE DEDICATED.

Agricultural Department of University of Illinois.

Champaign, Ill., May 21.—A notable assemblage of agriculturists today joined with the students and faculty of the university of Illinois in dedicating the new college of agriculture in this city. The building is of brick, has two acres of floor space and is believed to be the largest and best equipped of its character in the world. Despite a drizzling rain, Morrow hall, in which the exercises were held, was well filled. Leading cattlemen of the country and representatives of several colleges participated.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Of the United Presbyterian Church at Des Moines.

Des Moines, May 21.—The forty-third general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America will open here tomorrow evening with an address by Rev. J. P. Sankey, of Rochester, N. Y., the retiring moderator. Three hundred delegates will attend. The committee for revision of creed probably will recommend that the restriction against secret societies be modified and the rule against a man marrying near relatives of his wife be abolished. The consideration of these changes wil be the chief work of the assembly.

DIOCESAN CONVENTION.

Des Moines, May 21.—The forty-ninth annual diocesan convention of the Episcopal churer convened here today. Rev. T. N. Morrison, D.D., bishop of Iowa, will deliver his annual address tomorrow morning.

CZAR PROMISES.

St. Petersburg, May 21.—Celebrating the centennary of the imperial council yesterday, the czar, in an autograph letter, promised to reorganize the council on modern lines, so as to facilitate the transaction of business.

KANSAS MAY FILE.

Suit to Enjoin Colorado From Deflecting Water.

Washington, May 21.—Kansas will be allowed to file its suit in the United States supreme court to enjoin the state of Colorado from deflecting for irrigation purposes the water of the Arkansas river to the injury to the former state. The decision of the court to this effect was announced today by Chief Justice Fuller, who said that the court had concluded to permit the filing of the suit. The chief justice also announced that the state of Colorado would have leave to plead, answer or to demur to the Kansas bill.

Colorado has sought to prevent the filing of the suit because of its effect on the irrigation interests of the Arkansas valley in that state.

DECISION AFFIRMED.

Supreme Court Decides a Sugar Case.

Washington, May 21.—The United States supreme court has decided the case of the American Sugar Refining company vs. the United States, contrary to the contention of the sugar company. The case was a proceeding to determine whether duty should be collected upon the value of sugar when it is shipped or when it is landed, the value having increased while the weight decreased by virtue of its drying out while in transit. The court affirmed the decision of the circuit court of appeals, for the second circuit, which held that the tariff assessment must be on the basis of the value upon arrival.

ESTHER IS SICK.

Princeton, N. J., May 20.—Esther Cleveland, the 9-year-old daughter of the former president, is suffering from diphtheria. The physician in attendance says the child is not in a dangerous condition, and he expects no serious developments in the case. Mr. Cleveland, who has been on a fishing trip to Middle Bass island near Toledo, Ohio, is expected here tomorrow.

IMPOSSIBLE

To Secure Sabbath Observance at Present.

Little Rock, Ark., May 21.—In the Southern Presbyterian general assembly yesterday, the report of a permanent committee on the Sabbath emphasized the difficulty, if not impossibility, of influencing the masses to maintain respect for the Lord's day as long as the government shall require its employes to work on the Sabbath, and the states allow the running of both freight and passenger cars and secular newspapers are allowed to pursue their avocation as on other days.

The Human Machine

The human body is like a delicately adjusted machine. When a part is worn out, or through abuse becomes rusty, it affects the whole system. The kidneys and liver are among the most important of all the organs in the body. When they get out of order the entire system suffers. Keep them running smoothly and good health follows.

McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm

will regulate these organs and keep them in perfect health. Years of use in thousands of families have proved its value in all troubles affecting the liver and kidneys.

If your back aches; If your head aches;
If you lack ambition; If you are easily tired and worn out; It means your kidneys are out of order. Buy a bottle to-day at your druggist's. It may save you useless suffering.

STORY OF PROGRESS

Rapid Growth of Manufacturing Industries of This Country.

American Iron Industry Leading Factor In World's Market.

The Great Development of the Cotton Textile Industry.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rapid development of the manufacturing industries of the United States and their invasion of foreign markets is the subject of a lengthy discussion by Dr. Carl Ballod, constituting part of a volume recently brought out by the German "Verein fur Socialpolitik," a copy of which has just reached the treasury department. After commenting upon the rapid growth of the manufacturing industries of the United States in recent years, he says:

"If we put together the figures of exports and imports of the United States, the former figures will show a rising, ascendant column, whereas the latter figures will show stagnation or even decrease. The total commerce of the United States (merchandise only) for the last two decades appears as follows:

Fiscal Year.	Exports	Imports.
1880..	$835,600,030	$667,900,000
1885..	742,200,000	577,500,000
1890..	857,800,000	789,300,000
1895..	807,500,000	731,900,000
1896..	882,600,000	779,700,000
1897..	1,051,000,000	764,700,000
1898..	1,231,500,000	616,000,000
1899..	1,227,000,000	697,100,000
1900..	1,394,500,000	849,900,000

"There can be no doubt that the industrial progress made by the United States during the recent period of economic prosperity has been exceedingly rapid. The United States is rapidly becoming a country devoted to the exportation of industrial products without, however, decreasing the exportation of its agricultural products. Even as late as ten years ago nobody believed that America within calculable time would be able to produce iron so cheaply as to enable it to compete with England in the world's markets. Today this is an accomplished fact. Industrial concentration and technical improvements, particularly in the states of Pennsylvania and Alabama (where, to be sure, the conditions for a powerful growth of the iron industry were very favorable) have made the American iron industry the leading factor in the world's market, with which, undoubtedly, European competing industry will have to reckon for all time to come. As late as 1889 the imports of machinery and other iron and steel manufactures ($42,400,000) considerably exceeded the exports which amounted to no more than $21,100,000; in 1899 the value of iron and steel exported was $93,700,000, as against $12,100,000 worth of iron and steel imported.

"Not less rapid has been the development of the cotton textile industry in the United States. In 1889 there were employed in this industry only 11,000,000 spindles and 225,000 mechanical looms; in 1900 the respective numbers were 14,188,000 and 324,000, while in 1900 the number of spindles had reached 21,057,000 and that of the looms 490,000. In 1880 not more than 953,000,000 pounds of raw cotton were consumed in the United States; in 1899, 2,071,200,000 pounds were consumed. The exports of cotton textures has risen from $4,671,882 in 1875 to $11,836,591 in 1885, and $23,566,914 in 1899. Since during this year (1899) the total imports of cotton and cotton textures amounted to only $37,000,000, of which $32,000,000 fell to the share of textures, it would seem that American exports of cotton goods would soon balance the imports of those goods.

"It is only in the case of woolen goods and silks that the imports considerably exceed the exports. In these two branches the Americans, it would seem, have not yet succeeded in competing with European producers in the foreign markets, though it must be said that they have succeeded in gaining a more important role in the domestic market. The rapid progress made by the silk industry is best attested by the fact that there were employed in this industry 718,000 spindles in 1880 and not less than 1,426,000 spindles in 1900. Similarly the number of looms has grown within this period from 20,800 to 48,200. It may be safely assumed that the United States is now supplying nearly two-thirds of its total consumption of silks."

The rapid growth in the exportation of manufactures from the United States is explained in part by some recent studies of the treasury department regarding the proportion which manufactures form of the imports of the great countries and grand divisions of the world. These calculations show in brief that but about 20 per cent of the importations of Europe are manufactures; of Oceania, 40 per cent; of Asia, 47 per cent; of America, exclusive of the United States, 47 per cent, and of Africa, 61 per cent. When it is considered that the grand divisions in which manufactures form the largest per cent of imports are those in which the commerce of the United States shows the largest relative increase in exports, it is apparent that the growth in exports of manufactures is healthful and promises to be permanent. To Europe, whose imports of manufactures form but about 20 per cent of the total importations, the exports from the United States increased 7 per cent from 1893 to 1900; to Asia and Oceania, whose imports of manufactures form from 40 to 47 per cent of the total importations, our exports increased 291 per cent during the period named, and to Africa, of whose imports manufactures form 61 per cent, our exports increased 235 per cent during the period under consideration. It is in all these markets where manufactures form the largest share of the imports that the European nations are struggling to increase their commerce. Africa, South America, Asia and Oceania are the fields of their greatest activity, and it is in those grand divisions—South America excepted—that the commerce of the United States shows a larger percentage of growth than elsewhere. Naturally the growth in our exports to Europe shows a larger sum in millions of dollars, by reason of the much greater consuming power of that grand division, but a very large proportion of our exports to Europe consists of natural products, chiefly foodstuffs, while manufactures constitute the bulk of our exportations to other parts of the world.

This disposition of the continents, countries and islands situated far from the United States, and possessed of limited facilities for even repairing machinery, to purchase costly and delicately adjusted machinery from the United States may be justly considered a tribute to the skill and faithfulness of the American workman. Such complicated and delicately adjusted machines as clocks and watches, scientific instruments, sewing machines, typewriters, electrical machinery, shoe machinery, engines and locomotives are purchased with confidence and transported to countries and islands of the sea thousands of miles from the workshops and repair shops in which they were produced to be handled by comparatively unskilled operatives and with a confidence that they may be relied upon to continuously and permanently perform the duties for which they are intended. The click of the American telegraph instrument, the whirr of its sewing machines, the rattle of its typewriters, and the scream of its locomotives are heard in the interior of Asia, Africa, South America and in the most distant islands of the sea. In the last fiscal year we exported more than $125,000 worth of typewriting machines to Oceania, nearly $30,000 worth to Africa, $50,000 worth to Asia, $63,000 worth to Mexico nearly $50,000 worth to the West Indies, and about $70,000 worth to South America. American printing presses were sent to Oceania in 1900 to the value of nearly $60,000, to Asia, nearly $40,000, and to South America, $16,000. The exports of American sewing machines in the fiscal year 1900 to the West Indies amounted to $130,000; to Asia, $54,000; to Africa over $10,000; to Oceania, $531,000 and to Mexico, Central and South America, over $800,000.

The following table shows the value of the exports of typewriters, sewing machines and scientific instruments from the United States in each year from 1890 to 1900:

Fiscal Year.	*Type writers.	Sewing Machines.	Scientific instruments: telegraph, telephone, etc.

SHOTWELL BROTHERS.

One Guilty, One Acquitted, One Disagreed Upon.

Williamsburg, Ky., May 21.—In the trial of the Shotwell brothers, charged with killing Sutton Ferris at Corbin, Ky., some months ago, when a building was dynamited and a general outbreak precipitated, a verdict was returned by which John Shotwell was found guilty and given life imprisonment. Robert was acquitted. The jury disagreed as to Charles Shotwell.

KILLED HER CHILDREN.

St. Louis, Mich., May 20.—Mrs. Elmer Quimby, wife of a farmer living five miles south of this city, last night gave her two children, a boy aged 7 and a girl aged 9, large doses of morphine, and both children died early today. Mrs. Quimby then took eighteen grains of the drug but will recover. She is under arrest.

NOT HEREDITARY

In the main, consumption is not hereditary; it is infectious.

Low vital force is hereditary; which gives consumption its chance. An infection starts it.

Between the two, the crop is a big one: about one-sixth of the human race.

We suppose it needn't be more than 5 per cent, if people would take fair care and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

RUBBING THE BACK WON'T CURE BACKACHE—A LINIMENT MAY RELIEVE, BUT CAN'T CURE. BACKACHE COMES FROM THE INSIDE, FROM THE KIDNEYS. DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS GET INSIDE—THEY CURE SICK KIDNEYS—HERE IS PROOF THAT THIS IS SO:

Mrs. M. McGillivray, of 1228 Superior street, says: "I was troubled with my kidneys a good deal for a year or two and had heavy dull pains through my loins. My back tired easily and especially if I reclined or sat long in one position. In the morning I felt tired and worn out. The kidney secretions were unnatural and I was troubled with persistent headaches. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, procured a box from W. A. Abbett's Drug store and began to use the preparation. I received wonderful benefit from the treatment and since using Doan's Kidney Pills I have felt splendid!"

MYSTERY SOLVED

The Killing of James Ayres at Washington Is Explained.

Was Shot In an Altercation With a Married Woman.

Mrs. Bonine, a Guest at the House, Makes Confession.

Washington, May 21.—The mystery attending the killing of James Seymour Ayres, a census office clerk, in the Kenmore hotel early last Wednesday morning and which, because of the peculiar circumstances surrounding it has aroused Washington more than any tragedy in several years was solved yesterday by a voluntary confession from Mrs. Lulu I. Bonine a married woman and a guest at the house that the three shots which ended Ayres' life had been fired, in a struggle between herself and Ayres. Mrs. Bonine, whose husband is a drummer for the wholesale drug house of De Witt & Co., of Chicago, explained her presence in Ayres' room, at 2 o'clock in the morning, by saying that he had come to her room complaining of a chill, and asking for medicine, and had induced her to follow him to his room to talk over some matters of difference there had been between them. She said that she dressed herself in a wrapper and went to his room. He had preceded her, and when she opened the door and walked in he quickly closed it and informed her he had enticed her to the room for his own purposes, and said if she did not submit to his wishes he would kill her. Ayres, she said, undressed and had a revolver in his hand, and in a struggle for its possession which ensued, immediately after she entered, it was discharged three times, the shots striking Ayres, the last one proving fatal. After her statement, which was made to the chief of police and a number of other officials, Mrs. Bonine was placed under arrest and taken to the house of detention, where she will be held pending the result of the coroner's inquest which has been in session since Saturday and at which Mrs. Bonine was to have appeared today as a witness.

The tragedy which resulted in Ayres' death was discovered first about 8:30 o'clock last Wednesday morning, when his dead body was found in his room at the Kenmore, a small family hotel of very moderate prices, situated not far from the capitol. The dead man's full name was James Seymour Ayres. He was between 20 and 21 years of age, and lived in Port Austin, Mich., before coming to Washington as a clerk in the census office. His father is a man of some standing in Republican state politics in Michigan.

An examination of Ayres' body showed that he had been shot three times, one ball entering the left leg, another the left arm and the third penetrating the heart and causing death. Suicide was the first theory advanced, but statements from two witnesses that on the night of the murder they saw a woman descending a fire escape leading from in front of Ayres' room at the hotel and disappear into the parlor of the house, ended this theory, and the killing developed into a mysterious and sensational affair that baffled the police until yesterday. The police were hampered in their efforts to find the person who did the killing from the fact that it was eight hours after the crime was committed before it was reported. The whole detective force was put to work on the case, and facts were developed that pointed to Mrs. Bonine, a guest of the hotel, with whom Ayres had been on very friendly terms and with whom he had a falling out. Saturday the coroner began his inquest, summoning guests and employes of the hotel, experts and others, but no substantial clue was found to connect any person specifically with the tragedy. The inquest was resumed yesterday and had developed nothing directly bearing on the tragedy, except that Mrs. Bonine was much in Ayres' room, when it was suddenly adjourned on information that the district attorney and others were wanted at police headquarters to hear a statement made by Mrs. Bonine.

STILL IN CHICAGO.

M. Cambon Prolongs His Stay In That City.

Chicago, May 21.—Ambassador Cambon will prolong his stay in this city in order that he may be able to convey to Chicago the official news that the Olympian games for 1904 have been awarded to Chicago.

"I have received nothing to confirm the cable dispatches from Paris," said the ambassador, "but I have no doubt the story of the award is true. I probably will have official knowledge very soon. I am glad the honor has been given to this city."

Accompanied by President Harper of the University of Chicago, Consul Merou and James Deering, Ambassador Cambon yesterday visited the stock yards.

Proud of Her Hair

Miss Irene Ackerman, the well-known dramatic reader, writes us from 20 W. 135th Street, New York City. She is justly proud of her magnificent head of hair, which is shown to advantage in the accompanying photograph.

"Some time ago, when my hair was brushed, I noticed more and more the increase of hair left on the comb. My scalp became dry and my hair grew thin so rapidly that I had to change the style of wearing it. I then tried various hair tonics, the effect of which was to make my scalp exceedingly tender, and the hair stiff and brittle when dry. I resolved to try

Cuticura SOAP

The comfort I experienced before I had given it a long trial was so great that I determined to continue it. I would shampoo my head with a strong lather of CUTICURA SOAP, letting it remain for some time. I would then wash it off with warm water, and dry thoroughly. After a short time my hair ceased coming out, growing soft and silky to the touch."

MILLIONS USE CUTICURA SOAP

Assisted by CUTICURA OINTMENT, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales, and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening, and healing red, rough, and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings, and chafings, and for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Millions of Women use CUTICURA SOAP assisted by Cuticura Ointment, in the form of baths for annoying irritations, inflammations, and excoriations, for too free or offensive perspiration, in the form of washes for ulcerative weaknesses, and for many antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women and mothers. No amount of persuasion can induce those who have once used these great skin purifiers and beautifiers, to use any others. No other medicated soap is to be compared with CUTICURA SOAP for preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair, and hands. No other foreign or domestic toilet soap, however expensive, is to be compared with it for all the purposes of the toilet, bath, and nursery. Thus it combines, in ONE SOAP AT ONE PRICE, viz: TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, the BEST skin and complexion soap, and the BEST toilet and baby soap in the world.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor.

MARRIAGE BY TELEPHONE.

A Couple In Georgia Wedded By Wire.

Carrolton, Ga., May 21.—Last Wednesday night the long-distance telephone operator here, Will McKinney was called by the Bowden operator Joe Lovvorn and notified to not close his office. In a few minutes Bowdon, twelve miles away, ordered the Carrollton operator to wake Ordinary Brown and get a marriage license for A. E. Lewis, a Kentucky contractor, aged 30, and Miss Gertrude Jones, Bowdon, aged 19, and bring to the phone a Methodist minister. Operator McKinney borrowed some money and shortly had ready the license and the minister with thirteen witnesses here, and the bridal parties before twelve witnesses was at Bowdon.

Four witnesses were connected here, one being the Rev. H. J. Ellis, who performed the ceremony, aided by Roberts McClellan, reporter. These heard a twenty-minutes slow and solemn ceremony performed through the Bowdon operator, who repeated the questions, and with others heard the answers and saw the hands joined. The ceremony was completed at 10:20 p. m. The bridegroom came to Georgia as superintendent of Bowdon college building, about Christmas, since which time he became infatuated with the bride, employed in Birmingham, Ala. The parents protested at the early marriage. Mr. Lewis drove to Tyus, six miles, got his bride and returning adopted the telephone plan as expedient, economical and safe.

The exasperated father, outdone, is reconciled, since as a justice he has married more runaways and with greater relish than anybody. His son, the bride's brother, Col. A. B. Jones, of Carrollton, married secretly a month before, and brought his wife to him here from Atlanta.

DIVORCED BY TELEPHONE.

Indiana Case Heard In a Novel Manner.

Elwood, Ind., May 21.—Mrs. Nagle, of Arcadia, a small town in Hamilton county, through James W. Filppen, of Tipton, attorney, recently brought suit in the Hamilton circuit court for divorce. When the case was called for trial, as Attorney Filppen was already engaged with another important case, he could not be present in court to try Mrs. Nagle's case. He called Judge Neal to the telephone and explained the state of affairs, requesting that the judge consent to the case being tried over the telephone. Judge Neal consented and the arrangements were then completed.

The witnesses were assembled in the telephone exchange at Tipton, and Noblesville, the county seat of Tipton and Hamilton counties, respectively. The testimony of the witnesses was given in the usual form, with Judge Neal located at Noblesville.

The witness at Tipton submitted their evidence by telephone. Filppen then delivered his argument by wire to Judge Neal, concluding his appeal as follows: "My client is a woman of refinement and character, while her husband is a scoundrel and unfit to have a wife. I ask that she be granted a divorce."

The divorce is granted," promptly replied Judge Neal, and the case was terminated.

Articles of Incorporation OF DULUTH REAL ESTATE CO.

We, the undersigned, have associated ourselves together to form a corporation for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, pursuant to the provisions of Title 2, Chapter 34 of the General Statutes of Minnesota, 1894, and the acts amendatory thereof, and for that purpose have organized by adopting the following articles of incorporation.

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be "Duluth Real Estate Company." The principal place of business shall be the city of Duluth, in St. Louis County, Minnesota. The general nature of the business of said corporation shall be to loan money upon real estate, personal or other security; to negotiate and effect loans of money for other persons and corporations for a compensation; to make, endorse, guarantee and discount notes, mortgages and certificates of indebtedness, both for itself and as agents for others; to buy, own, hold, hypothecate, transfer, sell and deal in bonds, notes, mortgages, stock of other corporations, and other property and securities, and to collect, foreclose, release and compound mortgages and other obligations; to buy, own, mortgage, lease, let, sell, deal in and improve lands, tenements and hereditaments, real, mixed and personal property, in the state of Minnesota, state of Wisconsin and elsewhere, both for itself and as agents for other persons and corporations; to act as agent for other persons and corporations in the management, improvement, purchase and sale of property, and in the collection of rents and revenues therefrom, for a compensation; to act as agent for fire insurance companies; and in general to perform, execute and do all and singular acts and things necessary and proper to be done, executed and performed in carrying on a general real estate and investment business.

ARTICLE II.

The time of commencement of said corporation shall be the first day of May, A. D. 1901, and the period of continuance of said corporation shall be thirty years.

ARTICLE III.

The amount of the capital stock of said corporation shall be fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00), which shall be paid in at such times and in such amounts, and in such a manner as the directors shall determine.

ARTICLE IV.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which said corporation shall at any time be subject shall be one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00).

ARTICLE V.

The names and places of residence of the persons forming said corporation are:
Franklin J. Pulford, Duluth, Minnesota.
Calvin F. How, Duluth, Minnesota.
Benjamin W. How, Sauk Centre, Minnesota.

ARTICLE VI.

The names of the first board of directors are:
Franklin J. Pulford.
Calvin F. How.
Benjamin W. How.
Said directors shall hold their offices until the first annual meeting of the stockholders, which shall be held at the office of the corporation in Duluth, Minnesota, on the second Monday in January, 1902, at 10 o'clock a. m.; the time to hold all subsequent meetings may be fixed by the by-laws.

The government of said corporation and the full management of all its affairs shall be vested in the above named board of directors until the first annual meeting of the stockholders, and thereafter shall be vested in a board of not less than three or more than nine directors, who shall be stockholders of said corporation, and who shall be elected annually by the stockholders at the annual meeting.

There shall also be the following officers of said corporation, who shall perform such duties and who shall have such power as may be prescribed by the board of directors and who shall be elected annually by the board of directors at the annual meeting held immediately following the annual meeting of the stockholders:
A president.
A vice president.
A treasurer.
A secretary.

Any two of said officers, except the president and vice president, may be held by the same person at the same time. The directors and said officers of said corporation shall hold their respective offices for one year or until their successors are duly elected and qualified.

The following persons shall act as officers of said corporation until the first annual meeting of the stockholders:
Franklin J. Pulford, president.
Benjamin W. How, vice president.
Calvin F. How, secretary and treasurer.

ARTICLE VII.

The capital stock of said corporation shall be divided into one thousand (1000) shares of the par value of fifty dollars ($50.00) each.

In testimony whereof, we have hereunto signed our names and affixed our seals this 17th day of April, A. D. 1901.
